

THE CHALLENGE TO PASTORAL CAREGIVERS IN THE EVENT OF SUDDEN DEATH

BY

OHENTSE HAMILTON GABOBONWE

DISSERTATION

SUBMITTED IN FULFILLMENT

OF THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DOCTORAL DEGREE IN PRACTICAL THEOLOGY

STUDENT NO: 22241443

UNIVERSITY OF PRETORIA

2011

SUPERVISOR: PROF: MASANGO MJ

DECLARATION

I hereby declare that the work contained in this thesis is my own original, and that all sources used I have indicated and acknowledged by means of references.

Signed: Gabobonwe OH.....

Student

Masango MJ.....

Professor

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I commence by thanking God for inspiration given to start this work, and for all the courage that accompanied me through all difficulties in the task.

I am humbled to remember the continuous support that I was given by my colleague and immediate senior, Mrs Loabile JJ. She kept on sounding courageous words that added energy at those times when such was highly needed, and kept me going amid all challenges.

I have to mention with all gratitude my entire family who had to cover my responsibilities which I could not meet due to the study. All that everyone had to do and endure could not in anyway go unnoticed, and hence you remain reliable anchors of strength all the way. I have no words appropriate to thank you more than anything, financially supporting me at all times of crucial need. God Bless you richly.

All my friends and colleagues in all contact classes I attended. Dear friends, your contributions were all valuable to me. All this has crafted and shaped what I am in a very special way, keep up the good work and let us all breath a new life into this Theology that we do and animate practices of the entire church. Thank you in many ways.

I feel indebted in various forms to all those participants in the study. It is unforgettable how some points on the way took them back to unwanted spots in their lives, yet continued right up to the end. I must mention with exclusiveness, my own sister Lencwe C. Sehoole, the one whom this whole work revolves around. I am overwhelmed by your entire honor everywhere I go. Dear sister, you are my pride. Accept my humble thanks once more.

I cannot forget in anyway all the words that build character from the core that we both shared with you my brother, Mr. Simon Ssekabira Ntege, all assistance and guidance has not gone unnoticed, and made almost 'tangible' importance in me and the whole of this work. Webale nnyo ssebo. (Luganda meaning: 'thank you very much, Sir')

The time that I was differing with some of my church authorities about this study was deeply touching, greatly discouraging. But a number of my colleagues especially those in the Botswana Synod of the UCCSA who kept cheering me up to go on are remembered every time, and thanking God always for and in this remembrance.

It is very special for me to mention my supervisor Prof. Masango MJ. Prof, you were a source of balance of thought every time, and at every step of the journey. You lifted me in unique ways when I was at the brink of giving up, you kept equipping me for better service in everything I do. Thank you very much.

For every soul that met with mine in every way, for every explanation I had to make to a number of people, for every criticism in any form, this has complemented this work to the level of itself. I remain giving sincerest gratitude to you all.

DEDICATION

To: my wife Kentsheng 'Keshebile' Margaret Gabobonwe nee' Mosimanegape and all my children and my mother Nelly Sephiri nee' Gabobonwe all without whom my being is meaningless.

GLOSARY

AIDS : Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome

Abaluyia: One of the Black African clans found in Central Africa.

ACTH: Adrenocorticotrophic Hormone

Adrenal Cortex: the outside layer of glands found on or near the kidneys.

ANS: Autonomic Nervours System

Barolong of Ganyesa: Barolong is one of the Ethnic clans of the Batswana tribe. The Barolong reffered to in the work are those who are indigenous of Ganyesa.

Biopsychic: something having to do with or involving both the biological and psychological phenomena.

Death: that power that destroys life, sometimes used as the result of that power that destroys life.

Depression: a mental disorder characterized by prolonged of dejection and despair, often accompanied by fatigue, headaches, and other numerous physical symptoms.

Distress: a kind of enthusiastic stress that attacks a person and pressures him/her to do well positively.

Ganyesa: one place (Village) 70km North of Vryburg town, in the Northwest Province of South Africa.

Eustress: a kind of destructive stress that attacks a person in very negative ways.

GCT: Gate Control Theory, one of the Psychological Theories.

Grief: great sadness caused by trouble of any kind, in this case, caused by loss through death of a loved one.

Mourning: the act of a person who mourns, who expresses his/her grief.

Muti: traditional medicines used in many or all Afriican rituals, sometimes it is used as those medicines used to bewitch others.

Minister: a clergyman/woman serving the church as a leader and spiritual guide, especially in Protestant Churches.

Ndebele: one of the Black African ethnic group found mainly in the Mpumalanga province of South Africa. There are some also found scattered in other areas.

PSTD: Post Traumatic Stress Disorder

Pastor: a minister in charge of a church or congregation

Sefifi: (literally) meaning the blackness casted by a shadow, but understood as every act of bad-luck that befalls a person.

Stress: a kind of unbearable pressure that strains a person in almost every way.

Stressor: any kind of stimulus that yields stress

Sudden Death: a kind of death that happens unexpectedly through any form of accident

Trauma: a kind of psychic wound caused by emotional shock that has lasting effects in the mind of a person.

UCCSA: United Congregational Church of Southern Africa, one of the denominations of a Protestant Church that has her roots in LONDON and there known as London Missionary Society.

Vasopressin: a pituitary hormone that contract small blood vessels, sometimes raises blood pressure and reduces the excretion of urine by the kidneys.

ABSTRACT

Death, and in special ways, sudden death has struck the church and various families at different times in our lives. The grief in the bereaved has challenged the church, in numerous ways including having to deal with people who are out of possibility with regard to the competencies of the church due stress disorders. This has asked serious theological questions about the pastoral care of the church who is expected to be the custodian of healing through faith. Sudden death as a stressor, has grown to be more common in recent years, and having checked a number of church registers and finding out that there are more funerals than baptisms the church has to conduct, one looks and evaluate the effectiveness of the counseling done through funerals that the church has had to handle---whether there is still meaning accorded to such services or not---whether there is any attempt to engage the bereaved during their mourning in the sound theological reflection on to the questions:

“Where, o death, is your victory?

“Where, o death, is your sting? (1 Cor. 15: 55).

Paul puts it in his address to the Corinthians “the sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. This understanding, and several others usually cited has needed theological reflection in helping the people in grief for their loved ones snatched from them by sudden death, especially when it is through no fault of their own.

Quiet practically, many people have befallen prey to stresses of different kinds trying to cope with big losses through sudden death, and this has manifested itself differently. In the event of lack of knowledge of what to do to help such people, the church and pastoral care givers have either conducted many ordinary services (common to those done usually) or have coincidentally engaged one or more of the other fields namely:

- ✓ The medical sciences
- ✓ Psychological sciences and/or
- ✓ Psychiatric sciences.

The work enquires into the improvements that have happened in the course of time in the theological sciences in dealing with people stricken by sudden death through pastoral care, and attempts to allow theology to claim her responsibility in the midst of all mentioned sciences. The work attempts to empower the church and guide all pastoral care givers to skillfully deal with such circumstances as sudden death, invoking the methodology of shepherding to alley the sting of death that has found the church to be lacking, and questioned her credibility on the subject. Effort is put into comparing sudden death with the common 'bad luck' perception brought about by cultural traditions. It will attempt to craft the common ground from which the church and all the sciences mentioned can cooperate fruitfully for common goals and better assistance to the people we all serve today.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

TOPIC	PAGE
1. Chapter 1	1
1.1 Background to the Study	1
1.2 Is all kinds of Death the Will of God?	5
1.3 Problem Statement	7
1.4 The Aim, Objectives and Relevance of the Study	8
1.5 Research gap	10
1.6 The Research Design and Methodology	11
1.6.1 A Closer study at the Shepherd Perspective	20
1.6.1.1 The Concept of Perspective	21
1.6.1.2 The Threefold structure of Pastoral Perspective	22
1.6.1.3 The Concept of Shepherding and its aspects	26
1.7 Summary	30
2. Chapter 2	33
2.1 Trauma and its effects	33
2.2 Understanding Stress	35
2.2.1 Complications and Complexity of Stress	42
2.2.2 The Body's Response to Stress	51
2.3 Depression, What is it? How does it feel?	58
2.4 Can there be a Chord of Relationship?	64
2.4.1 Grief	64
2.4.2 Mourning	68
2.5 Response to Loss	69

2.5.1 Denial and Avoidance	70
2.5.2 Endurance and Rumination	70
2.5.3. Anger and Aggression	70
2.5.4 Meaninglessness and Hopelessness	71
2.5.5 Transformation and Growth	71
2.6 Common Referral Sciences	72
2.7 Summary	77
3. Chapter 3	79
3.1 Death and Dying	79
3.1.1 Analysis of Kubler-Ross' View	85
3.1.2 Dying Stages	86
3.2 Towards defining Death Anew	89
3.3 Death Viewed by Psychologists	97
3.3.1 Ernest Becker	98
3.3.1.1 Death and Denial	99
3.3.2 James Hillman	102
3.3.2.1 Hillman Mythology in a nutshell	103
3.3.3 Robert J. Lifton	106
3.3.3.1 Lifton's Psychology	108
3.4 Death viewed Theologically	112
3.5 Sudden Death, an Enemy to the Bereaved?	118
3.6. What, then, is Sudden Death?	120
3.7 Summary	122

4. Chapter 4	123
4.1 Pastoral Care	123
4.1.1 A Brief Reflection	123
4.2 Funeral Service	128
4.3 Pastoral Care and Pastoral Counseling	131
4.4 Comfort and Comforting	134
4.5 Rituals	136
4.6 A Closer look at African views	140
4.6.1 Death among the Ndebele	140
4.6.2 Death among the Abaluyia	144
4.6.3 Death among the Barolong of Ganyesa	149
4.7 Can Death be Cultural?	151
4.8 Valuable Utilization of Religious Resources	153
4.8.1 The Scripture and Religious Literature	153
4.8.1.1 Prescriptive	153
4.8.1.2 Contextual	154
4.8.1.3 Sparingly	155
4.8.1.4 Verbally	155
4.8.2 Preaching as form of Pastoral Care	156
4.8.2.1 The Minister/Pastor's Role	156
4.8.3 Preaching/The Sermon	156
4.9 Possible Bereavement Model	158
4.10 A Good Shepherd is a Skilful Counselor	164
4.10.1 Emphatic Understanding	169

4.11 Unconditional Positive Regard	173
4.12 Congruence	174
4.13 Summary	177
5. Chapter 5	178
5.1 Introspecting the Church	178
5.1.1 From our Position	178
5.1.2 UCCSA Origins in a Nutshell	184
5.1.2.1 Individualized	188
5.1.2.2 The Church is Privatized	189
5.1.2.3 Bureaucratic Organization	189
5.1.2.4 Invalid Practice	190
5.1.2.4.1 The Church is one	190
5.1.2.4.2 The church is holy	190
5.1.2.4.3 The Church is Catholic	190
5.1.2.4.4 The Church is Apostolic	190
5.2 The Bible as the Necessary Point of Church Departure	193
5.2.1 The People of God	195
5.2.2 The Servant People	196
5.2.3 The Body of Christ	196
5.2.4 The Community of the Spirit	197
5.3 The Current Church Model and its Failure	198
5.3.1 The Church as an Institution	198
5.3.2 The Church as the Intimate Community of the Spirit	201
5.3.3 The Church as Sacrament of Salvation	203

5.3.4 The Church as the Herald of Good News	204
5.3.5 The Church as the Servant of the Servant Lord	205
5.4 The Possible Turning Point	207
5.4.1 The Education of Ministers	208
5.4.2 Ministers/Pastors---The Rightful Bereavement Counselors	210
5.5 Life When Death is the Context	214
5.6 A Glance through the Theology of the Funeral	222
5.7 Sharing with the Victims of Sudden Death	225
5.7.1 Mancwe’s Story	225
5.7.2 Mrs Mahlatsi’s Story	228
5.7.3 Mrs Veronica Malepa’s Story	230
5.8 Liturgy and its Context	232
5.9 Summary	236
6. Chapter 6	238
6.1 Lesson that I have learned	238
6.2 Bereavement relates with Faith	240
6.3 Grounding on Christian Grounds	244
6.4 The use of tools	244
6.5 Personal and Community Use	247
6.6 Validity of the Study	247
6.7 Possible Further Research areas	247

7. Appendices	250
7.1 Informed Questionnaire	250
7.2 Research Questionnaire	252
8. Bibliography	254