More South African pupils to have access to free education

Posted on 16 July, 2010 by Johann van Wyk

From 2011 more pupils in South African schools will have access to free education, the South African Department of Basic Education announced recently.

This has been welcomed by Naptosa, but it also warned, that the system would now have to focus on the quality of the education provided. This observation is crucial since the current roll-out of no-fee schools has drawn sharp criticism for its failure to properly resource such schools.

New Curriculum for South African schools

Posted on 7 July, 2010 by Johann van Wyk

South African Minister of Basic Education, Angie Motshekga yesterday announced changes to the South African education system.

The new curriculum Schooling 2025 would replace the highly criticised outcomes based education (OBE) system introduced in 1998. However, OBE would not be completely scrapped but would be modified to improve the performance of school pupils.

The new Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement will replace the existing method, where assessment requirements were mapped onto the achievement of outcomes and assessment standards

Searching blogs

http://blogsearch.google.com

A screenshot of the Google Blog Search website as it appeared in a Windows Internet Explorer browser window. The browser's address bar shows 'http://blogsearch.google.com/'. The page features a search bar with the text 'Google blogs' and buttons for 'Search Blogs' and 'Search the Web'. Below the search bar, there are several news stories. The first story is titled 'Roy Halladay Throws No Hitter To Take Playoff Series Lead' with a sub-headline 'The Huffington Post | Full News Feed - 11 hours ago'. The second story is 'Randy Moss Traded to the Minnesota Vikings for a 3rd Round Draft Pick in 2011' with a sub-headline 'The Big Lead - 23 hours ago'. The third story is 'Is the Verizon iPhone Really Happening in Early 2011? [Rumor]' with a sub-headline 'Gizmodo - 10 hours ago'. The fourth story is 'TODAY: Supreme Court Hears Westboro Baptist Church Free Speech Case' with a sub-headline 'Joe. My. God. - 22 hours ago'. On the right side of the page, there are sections for 'Hot queries' and 'Recent posts'. The browser's taskbar at the bottom shows the Windows Start button, several application icons, and the system tray with the time '02:36 PM' and date '2010/10/07'.

Value of a blog for a library

- Can be developed for free
- Library has presence in the blogosphere
- Blog postings are picked up by Google Search, Google News
- Get feedback/interaction with library users
- Sharing of information/news on regular basis
- Good statistical feedback
- Readership/Users wider than your normal user community - fosters networking
- Easy to use - easier to upload information than on normal web page
- Can add all kinds of widgets
- Have proven to be very popular

Glogs

A screenshot of a Windows Internet Explorer browser window. The address bar shows 'http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Glog'. The page title is 'Glog - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia'. The main content area shows the article for 'Glog', which is a disambiguation page. The text 'Glog may refer to: a graphics blog or graphical blog; online rich media poster' is circled in red. Below this, there are two bullet points: 'Mulled wine, also called Glögg' and 'G-Log, software company'. A disambiguation notice is also present. The left sidebar contains navigation, search, and interaction sections. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the start button and several open applications, including Novell GroupWise, Glog - Wikipedia, FavouriteFictiongl..., and News24, South Af... Wikis

- Definition

Wikis can be described as collaborative web sites, where all participants can edit the text together.

Wikis can be used for:

- Projects
- Internal documents or internal reference materials
- Bibliographies
- Writing articles etc

Using a Wiki to build a bibliography

A screenshot of a Mozilla Firefox browser window. The address bar shows the URL 'http://researchbibliography.wikispaces.com/researchdesignsdiscipline'. The page title is 'Researchbibliography' and the page name is 'researchdesignsdiscipline'. The page content is organized into sections: 'Books/articles on research design/methods by discipline', 'Medical Sciences:', 'Social Sciences:', 'Criminology:', and 'Education:'. Each section contains a list of bibliographic references. On the right side of the page, there are several advertisements from Google, including 'Want A Bigger Salary?', 'Do Psychological Testing', 'Educational Psychology', and 'MA Sociological Research'. The browser's taskbar at the bottom shows the Windows logo, several application icons, and the system clock displaying '12:56 PM'.

Books/articles on research design/methods by discipline

Value of using a Wiki to build a bibliography

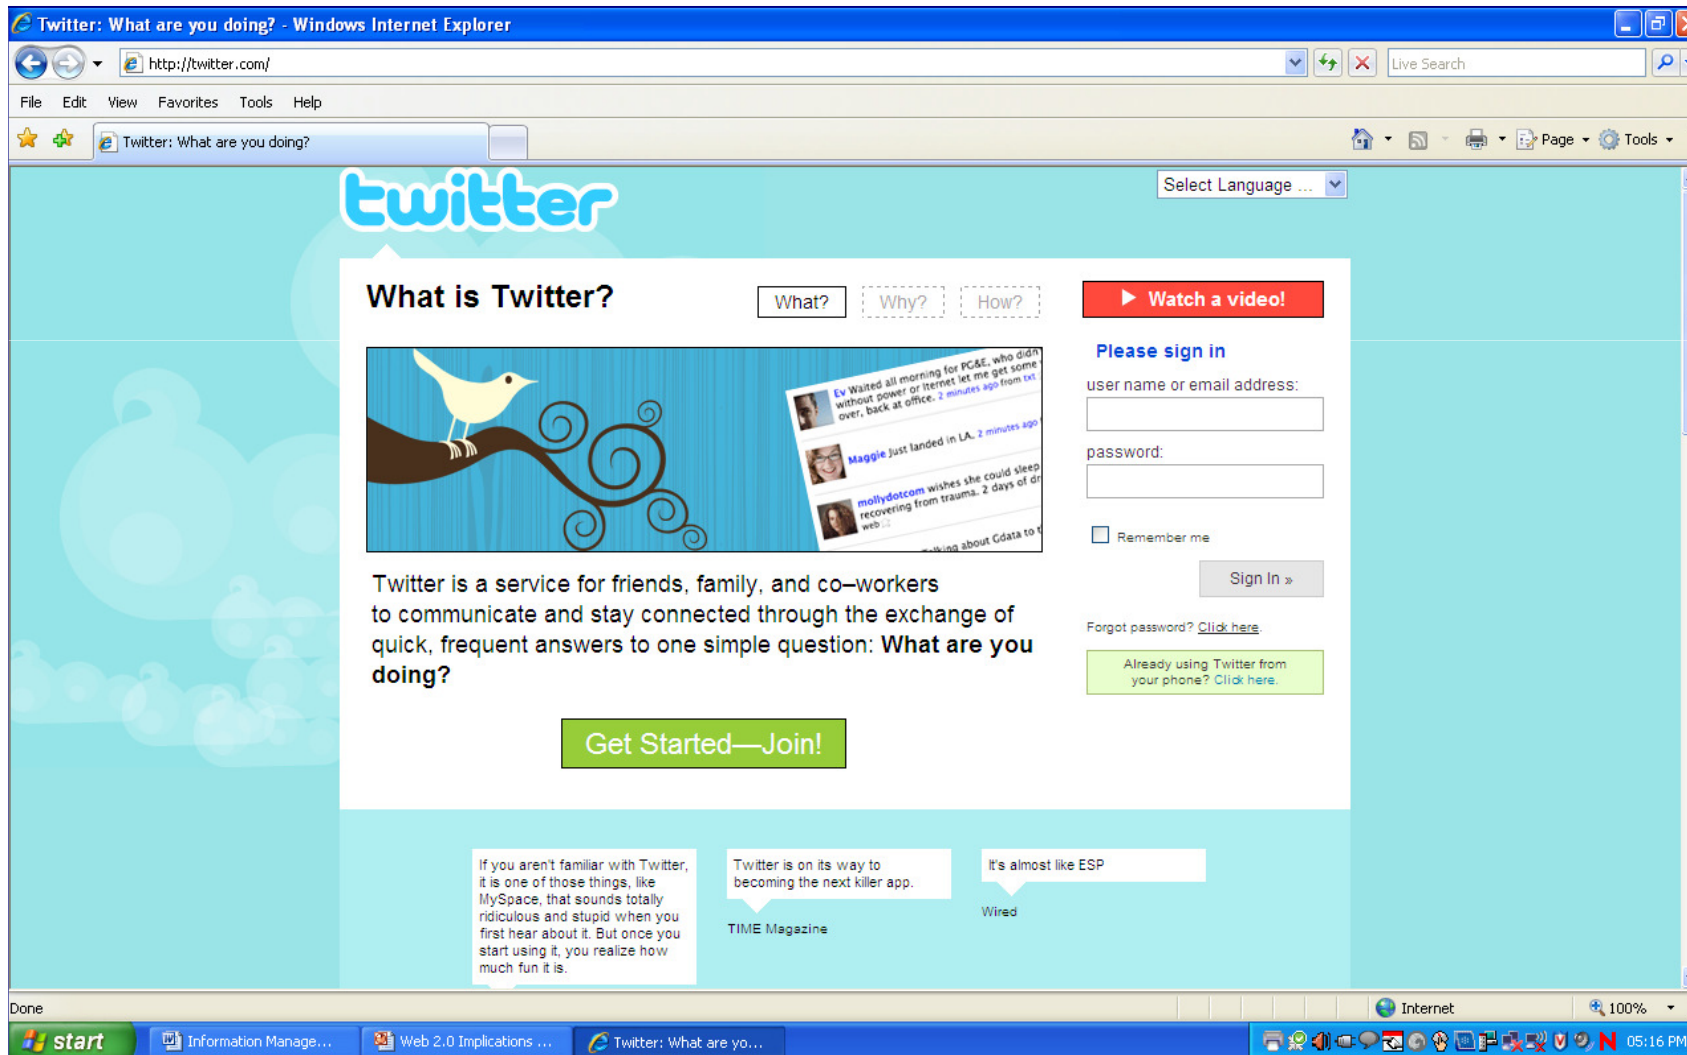

- Valuable for collaboration among information specialists/librarians
- Value added feature: librarians add sources that are of value to their clients
- Work in progress
- End product: a valuable reference source for clients of the library.
- Can publish the end product as a book

Twitter

Microblogging site where you can say something in only 140 characters

A screenshot of the Twitter website as it appeared in early 2009, viewed through a Windows Internet Explorer browser. The browser window title is "Twitter: What are you doing? - Windows Internet Explorer" and the address bar shows "http://twitter.com/". The page features the Twitter logo at the top left and a "Select Language ..." dropdown at the top right. The main content area is titled "What is Twitter?" and includes three tabs: "What?", "Why?", and "How?". Below the title is an illustration of a yellow bird perched on a branch, with a list of tweets overlaid on it. The tweets include: "Ev: Waited all morning for PG&E, who didn't without power or Internet let me get some over, back at office. 2 minutes ago from txt", "Maggie: Just landed in LA. 2 minutes ago", and "mollydotcom: wishes she could sleep recovering from trauma. 2 days of dr web :)". Below the illustration, the text reads: "Twitter is a service for friends, family, and co-workers to communicate and stay connected through the exchange of quick, frequent answers to one simple question: What are you doing?". A green "Get Started—Join!" button is positioned below this text. To the right of the main content is a "Please sign in" section with a red "Watch a video!" button, a "user name or email address:" field, a "password:" field, a "Remember me" checkbox, and a "Sign In »" button. Below the sign-in section are links for "Forgot password? Click here." and "Already using Twitter from your phone? Click here.". At the bottom of the page, there are three text boxes with quotes: "If you aren't familiar with Twitter, it is one of those things, like MySpace, that sounds totally ridiculous and stupid when you first hear about it. But once you start using it, you realize how much fun it is." (attributed to TIME Magazine), "Twitter is on its way to becoming the next killer app." (attributed to TIME Magazine), and "It's almost like ESP" (attributed to Wired). The browser's status bar at the bottom shows "Done", "Internet", and "100%". The Windows taskbar at the very bottom includes the Start button, "Information Manage...", "Web 2.0 Implications...", and "Twitter: What are yo...", along with system icons and the time "05:16 PM".

Create

Be creative! We have no fixed grid that you need to follow. Can you see the widgets in the widget tray below? Just drag a widget out on the board and place it anywhere you want. Resize it, move it around, and select from a number of options to design your reminders, photos, notes, and files.

Share

To share a Stixyboard with friends, family, or your colleagues at work, is as easy as it gets. Sometimes it's nice or in fact necessary to have an online space for common photos, reminders, files, and so forth. Each Stixyboard has a unique set of members. No one else can see or use your board unless you choose to open your board for public view.

Skype Introduces 10-Way Video Calling

Do you like this story?

Skype — apparently pleased with its five-way beta group video-calling functionality — has just released a new version of Skype 5.0 for Windows that doubles group support. It now allows for up to 10 video callers.

Skype 5.0 beta two is already available for download; it includes 10-way video calls, automatic call recovery and a cleaner user interface. The update is also said to improve call quality and includes a number of bug fixes to make the overall experience much smoother.

Of course, the standout feature is 10-way video calling, something that certainly one-ups their own previous offering and makes it suitable for even larger virtual team meetings and mini family reunions. Of course, it also makes Gmail's video-calling functionality look like the ugly step sister — a proactive move on the part of Skype to combat recent buzz surrounding Gmail Voice Calling.

Still, Skype does caution that 5.0 is beta, and hence, very buggy. It's also limited to Windows users, and 10-way video calls require all group chatters to be using the same second beta version of the app.

Have you tested out five-way video calls? Are you ready to upgrade to the 10-person variety? Share your thoughts in the comments.

Add Skype names to the contact details on your web page

Name	Title	Specialties	Phone	Email	Skype Name	Office
Mrs Janice de Wee	Information Specialist	Biochemistry, Institute for Bioinformatics, FABI, Genetics, Microbiology & Plant Pathology	+27 12 420 2940/2266	janice.dewee@up.ac.za	Janicedw27	Merensky Library Level 5
Mrs. Sonto Mabena	Information Specialist	Civil Engineering, Industrial and Systems Engineering, Graduate School of Technology Management, Physics	+27 12 420 4790/2266	sonto.mabena@up.ac.za	sonto.mabena	Merensky Library Level 5
Mr Danie Malan	Information Specialist	Architecture, Construction Economics, Town and Regional Planning, Computer Science, Informatics, Information Science, Geography, Geoinformatics & Meteorology, Geology	+27 12 420 2302/2266	danie.malan@up.ac.za	djfm.malan	Merensky Library Level 5
Mr Faan Naudé	Information Specialist	Animal & Wildlife Science, Centre for Wildlife Management, Centre for Nutrition, Insurance & Actuarial Science, Mathematics & Applied Mathematics, Statistics	+27 12 420 4790/2266

On the right side of the browser window, there is a sidebar with a list of services: Teaching Support, Research Support, Undergraduate Support, Copyright, Plagiarism, Referencing Techniques, and Training. Below this is a section titled 'My Library Space' with links for Ask / Chat to a Librarian, My Library Record, Interlending Info - Requests, StudentWeb, and IntraUP. At the bottom of the sidebar, it says 'Library intranet (Staff Only)'.

Value of Skype

- Can make free phone calls (voice and/or video calls)
- Can also do instant messaging
- Can also do file transfer
- Can also do video-conferencing
- Skype's text chat client allows group chats, storing chat history, offline messaging and (in recent versions) editing of previous messages
- Provides another channel through which clients can communicate with the library/librarian, and vice versa.

Dimdim

The screenshot shows a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying the Dimdim website. The browser's address bar shows the URL <http://www.dimdim.com/>. The website's header includes the Dimdim logo, a navigation menu with links for 'Try Now', 'Buy Now', 'Home', 'Products', 'Community', 'Support', and 'Sign in', and an orange 'Sign Up Now!' button. The main content area features a large image of a man sitting at a desk with a laptop, surrounded by various icons representing social media and web services. The text on the page reads: 'Meet in a Web browser. Try Dimdim Pro for free.' To the right of the main image, there is a section titled 'Register for a Dimdim Event:' with sub-points: 'Start or schedule a Dimdim event.' and 'Join a Dimdim event in a browser.'

Dimdim

- Dimdim is a tool that lets anyone host and attend live meetings, demos and webinars using just a web browser. One can instantly share documents, web pages, whiteboards, audio, video, and even record your events - with no software to install. Dimdim is free for small meetings. (Dimdim)

Dimdim web meeting

The screenshot shows the Dimdim Web Meeting interface. At the top, it displays 'Dimdim Web Meeting', 'Room Name: soiles...', 'Dial-in: 702-473-3463', 'Passcode: 764537', and 'Tools'. The interface is divided into several sections:

- Participants (2): Lists 'soilesain...' and 'Saimi Kli...'. A yellow highlight box contains the text: 'Two participants: Soile and Saimi'.
- Whiteboard: Shows 'Now Sharing: Whiteboard' with a 'Full Screen' button. It contains two diagrams: 'Plan A' (a circle with a red arrow) and 'Plan B' (a rectangle with a blue star). A yellow highlight box contains the text: '...using whiteboard'.
- Public Chat: Displays a message: 'Welcome to your Web Meeting. soilesainio: Hello Saimi and welcome me: Thanks.' A yellow highlight box contains the text: '...and chatting'.
- Audio: A 'Saimi Klin... (Audio Broadcaster)' window shows a 'Live' audio stream with a speaker icon and a 'Talk' button.
- Video: A 'soilecaaini...' window shows a 'Live' video stream of a person wearing headphones.

67 Minutes for Mandela day 2010

Thumbnails Detail Comments

On July 18 2010, we celebrated the second Mandela Day. People from all walks of life around the world were requested to devote 67 minutes of their time to help those that are in need and less unfortunate than they are.

The Jotello F Soga Library devoted 67 minutes of their time to the OP Primary School to celebrate Mandela Day 2010

A screenshot of a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying a Flickr page. The browser's address bar shows the URL http://www.flickr.com/photos/veterinary_library/sets/72157624207120179/. The Flickr page features the title "Animals in sport" and a grid of 18 photos showing an exhibition. A large graphic on the left reads "Animals in Sport" with two soccer balls. The page includes navigation links like "Home", "The Tour", "Sign Up", "Explore", and "Upload". At the bottom, there are footer links for "Flickr Blog", "About Flickr", and "Terms of Use". The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the system tray with the date and time: "08:27 AM 2010/09/29".

Value of Flickr

- Freely available
- Provides a place where you can you can upload /archive pictures of your library, or pictures of events
- Flickr is a well established tool
- Can use it as a marketing tool for your library and its services
- It increases your library's presence on the web.
- But would rather place collections/slides that are part of library collection on an institutional repository

Slideshare

“A site where individuals & organizations can upload presentations in Word or Powerpoint format, to share their ideas and connect with others” (<http://www.slideshare.net>)

Example of a presentation on Slideshare

A screenshot of a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying a Slideshare presentation. The browser's address bar shows the URL 'http://www.slideshare.net/johannvanwyk/story-writing-exhibition-18-27-march-2009'. The page features the Slideshare logo and navigation links like 'HOME', 'BUSINESS', 'CHANNELS', 'EVENTS', 'BROWSE', and 'UPLOAD'. The main content area shows a presentation titled 'Story Writing Exhibition 18 27 March 2009' with a subtitle '2 years ago Edit Presentation'. Below the title are social sharing options: Email, Favorite, Download, Embed, and More... The central image shows three people standing in front of a 'Story writing competition' poster. The image is captioned 'From Left to right: Dr Ina Joubert, Prof Cycil Hartell, Mr Johann van Wyk'. To the left of the image are social media sharing buttons for tweets, shares, and buzz. Below the image is a video player with a progress bar and a 'Full' button. On the right side, there is a user profile for 'johannvanwyk' with 1075 views, 1 favorite, and 1 embed. Below the profile is a 'Related' section with several recommended presentations, including 'FOSE CloudCamp Federal Lightening Talk' and 'Engaging Academia Through Library 2.0 tools: a case study...'. At the bottom, there is an 'About this presentation' section with settings like 'Visible to everyone' and 'Embedding is allowed'. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the system tray with the time '10:42 AM' and date '2010/08/03'.

Value of Slideshare

- Available for Free
- Valuable resource where Powerpoint/Word presentations can be made available on the Web
- Valuable marketing tool
- Can be used to market an event
- Makes your library more visible on the web
- You can join groups that share your interests

YouTube

YouTube is a “video sharing community” - site where anyone can upload videos, search for videos, can comment, rate and make video responses to videos

Example of a YouTube Channel: UP Library

A screenshot of a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying the YouTube channel page for 'Department of Library Services - University of Pretoria'. The browser's address bar shows the URL 'http://www.youtube.com/user/UPLibrary'. The page features the YouTube logo, a search bar, and navigation links for 'Home', 'Videos', 'Channels', 'Subscriptions', 'History', and 'Upload'. The channel name is 'Department of Library Services - University of Pretoria' with a 'Subscribe' button. A video player is embedded in the center, showing a scene with a person in a field. To the right, there are sections for 'Uploads (9)' and 'Favorites (6)'. The 'Uploads' section lists three videos titled 'The Merensky Story - Part 4', 'The Merensky Story - Part 3', and 'The Merensky Story - Part 2'. The 'Favorites' section lists 'Department Library Services University of UPLibrary' and 'The Merensky Story - Part 4'. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the 'start' button, various application icons, and the system clock displaying '03:58 PM'.

Value of using YouTube

- Freely available
- A place where you can upload/archive video clips on services, products, events and information literacy training
- Marketing channel for services and products of your library
- Loading your videos on YouTube saves a lot of server space at your institution (also saving costs). (In the cloud)
- Seacom Cable increased broadband speed and made viewing more attractive

Value of personal profiles of librarians on Facebook

- Freely available
- Library staff has a presence where the majority of the clients are
- Provides another platform for library users to communicate with their information specialists
- Marketing tool for the library and its services
- It increases the library's presence on the web
- UP Library found that very few, if any primary library users contact our library staff in this way

Business Facebook

Business Facebook is a Facebook page for your organisation or business. It does not have the same functionalities as a personal Facebook page. On the site you will find the contact details of the organisation, office hours of the organisation. It has a wall where people can write comments, and a place where information about products, services, videos, events is shared. People can also sign up as fans of the organisation (library).

Facebook while you drive?

2010-09-15 10:44

Print article Email article Comment

It sounds like a social networker's dream – the ability to update Facebook while you drive.

While fulfilling our need to network, we're pretty sure this could end up with a status update reading "Steve.Smith - I've seen a crazy accident...which I caused. Anyone know the number of a tow truck?"

Nevertheless OnStar, a US cellular service, is developing a Facebook application that will allow drivers to update their profiles without ever taking their hands off the steering wheel.

The application works on system of voice-activated controls with OnStar adding news feeds which will be read out loud. OnStar also promises to create a voice-based texting system.

Drivers will be able to connect their smartphones to a built-in system located and activate the application via Bluetooth. This will enable text messages to be relayed back to drivers via speech synthesis and will allow users to verbally select preset responses.

We're not sure how the words "Facebook" and "driving" will be picked up by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration which reported that in 2008 driver distraction was the cause of 16% of US car crashes.

However OnStar has emphasised "responsible connectivity" in its Facebook application campaign, with a slogan "eyes on the road, hands on the wheel, mind on the drive".

Would you like to update your Facebook profile while you drive? Share your thoughts on OnStars application here!

Gaming Tools

Games can be used in libraries as part of training, learning, and research initiatives. A variety of different software is available, but UP chose “Thinking Worlds” because it was available as Open Source, but now only available at a cost

Game for information literacy training at the UP library

- Pilot project in 2008
- Game for information literacy training of undergraduate students (4000 students partook)
- Game for information literacy training of medical students (300 students partook)

In this game you will have to search for ten characters

- * Each character will have a clue
- * You cannot proceed to the next clue if you do not have all the previous clues
- * All the information given in each clue is important and all the topics must be read
- * You must answer the questions on your PDA icon on the computer after you have found all the clues
- * Please note that once you start with the test you will not be able to go back to any of the clues
- * On completion of the questions - put up your hand for an assistant to verify your marks

GOOD LUCK AND ENJOY!!

The image shows a screenshot of a virtual world game. The main view is a 3D-rendered office space with a grid ceiling, large windows, desks, and office chairs. A soccer ball is mounted on a stand in the foreground. A female avatar with brown hair is in the center, facing a male avatar in a light blue shirt. In the background, another female avatar is visible. A red rope barrier is in the foreground. The top left corner shows 'Score: 0' and 'Lives: 3'. The top center shows a timer '24:07'. A circular inset in the top left shows a top-down view of the player's position. At the bottom, there is a chat window with the text 'Where do I search for library books?' and a small portrait of the player labeled 'Player'. The Windows taskbar is visible at the very bottom, showing the Start button, taskbar icons for 'Thinking Worlds Player' and 'Microsoft PowerPoint ...', and the system tray with the time '04:29 PM'.

Value of using a Game for Information Literacy Training

- Feedback from clients in UP pilot project:
- “A young modern approach to an important component of research”
- “The game was fun, modern, doable, informative and quite interesting!”
- “It was not at all dull or anything. It rocked!”
- “This is an excellent way to orientate first year students on how to use the library”
- “Awesome idea of using the game instead of just a boring talk”

Institutional Digital Repositories

UPSpace (Digital Repository of the University of Pretoria, using DSpace Open Source software)

The screenshot shows the UPSpace website in a Microsoft Internet Explorer browser window. The browser's address bar displays the URL <https://www.up.ac.za/dspace/>. The website header features the University of Pretoria logo and the text "UPSpace Research Repository of the University of Pretoria, South Africa". Below the header is a navigation bar with three images: hands typing on a keyboard, a hand holding a tablet, and a person looking at a computer screen. The main content area is divided into three columns. The left column contains a search box with a "Go" button and a link to "Advanced Search". Below the search box are links for "Home", "Browse", and "Sign on to:". The "Browse" section lists various categories with item counts, such as "Communities & Collections", "Titles", "Authors", "Subjects", and "By Date". The "Sign on to:" section includes links for "Receive email updates" and "My UPSpace". The middle column features a welcome message: "Welcome to UPSpace, the full text open access digital research repository of the University of Pretoria!" followed by the text "Number of full text items archived since January 2006: 11 630." Below this is a section titled "Communities in UPSpace" with the instruction "Choose a community to browse its collections." and a list of communities with their respective item counts, including "Centre for the Study of AIDS (CSA) (2 items)", "Economic & Management Sciences (1 044 items)", "Education (544 items)", "Education Innovation (47 items)", "Engineering, Built Environment & Information Technology (3 705 items)", "Health Sciences (723 items)", "Humanities (604 items)", "Law (449 items)", "Library Services (277 items)", "Mapungubwe Collections (66 items)", and "Natural & Agricultural Sciences (1 154 items)". The right column contains a "Chat with UPSpace" widget showing "Offline", a "OPEN KNOWLEDGE" button, and a section titled "Search other repositories" listing links to IRSpace, SciELO, OAISTER, Google Scholar, Google, and NDLTD. Below this is a section titled "UPSpace supports Open Access!" with a link to "Read more about OA" and "UP Open Access Mandate". At the bottom, there is a section titled "Become part of the UPspace community" with a link to "UPspace Facebook". The browser's taskbar at the bottom shows several open applications, including "25 Little-Known G...", "Department of Li...", "CutePDF - Create...", "77% of CuteWrit...", "UPSpace at the U...", "Presentation SABC", and "Web 2.0 Library L...". The system clock in the bottom right corner shows "7:00 PM".

CV - PROF CHERYL DE LA REY

Prof Cheryl Merle de la Rey was born and raised in Durban. She completed her schooling at Parkhill Senior Secondary School in 1979 and completed her BA at the former University of Natal with distinction in Psychology in 1983. The following year she completed her Honours degree (cum laude) and in 1986 her Masters degree (with distinction).

In 1999 she was awarded a PhD by the University of Cape Town (UCT) after completing her dissertation which focussed on the career narratives of women professors.

She began her professional career as a teacher, initially at Parkhill Senior Secondary School and then at Marianridge Senior Secondary School. In 1987 she accepted an academic position in the Psychology Department at the former University of Durban-Westville (UDW).

In 1995 she joined the Psychology Department at the University of Cape Town (UCT), initially as a lecturer, moving up the ranks to senior lecturer in 1997 and to associate professor in 2001. While at UCT Prof de la Rey was seconded to the National Research Foundation (NRF) where she served as Executive Director: Research Promotion until her appointment as Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Professor of

Value of Institutional Repositories

- A safe place to archive photos, documents, articles, images, archival materials etc, produced or held by your institution
- Can use this as a marketing tool of library services and products
- Rare and special collections can be digitized and archived on it (this will protect the original items)
- Make special collections more accessible to people outside the university
- Gives your institution a greater presence on the web (enhance your institution's ranking on the Webometrix ranking system)

Value of Virtual Research Environments

- Fosters collaboration & communication between researchers
- Provides a platform where various online tools can be plugged in
- Fosters information/knowledge sharing between researchers
- Fosters scientific workflow in a research project
- Enables the whole research process cycle
- Helps document/archive the research process more thoroughly

The Future

Cloud Computing

- What is cloud computing?

Cloud computing refers to web-based applications. Instead of downloading software and applications, you access them through your web browser.

e.g. Google Apps

- Many organizations are turning to cloud computing for HR, accounting, and CRM (Customer Relationship Management) applications and are already using cloud computing.

Cloud Computing

- In other words cloud computing is a general term for anything that involves delivering hosted services over the Internet.
- A public cloud sells services to anyone on the Internet. (Currently, Amazon Web Services is the largest public cloud provider.)
- A private cloud is a proprietary network or a data center that supplies hosted services to a limited number of people

A QR Code is a matrix barcode (or two-dimensional code), readable by mobile phones with a camera, and smartphones. The code consists of black modules arranged in a square pattern on white background. The information encoded can be text, URL or other data. (Wikipedia)

Conclusion

Libraries currently find themselves in an environment where the focus is on collaboration, participation, interaction, connection, transparency and real-time delivery of information. At the same time libraries are faced with economic constraints, because of the economic downturn. Web 2.0 tools can address these issues.

Library clients on the other hand are increasingly using web 2.0 tools to socialize, work, play, interact, network, search for and share information, and to do research etc.

Lets get posting, tweeting, blogging, glogging, social networking, Skyping, chatting, playing, collaborating etc. to reach our clients where they're at!
