PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION, 1906.

The authorised Edition of the Statute Law of the Colony, covering the period 1652-1895, revised by Mr. Advocate Tennant and myself in 1895, having been for some considerable time out of print and unobtainable, the opportunity has been deemed favourable for issuing a reprint revised to the end of the Session of 1905.

The text of the Ordinances and Acts has been carefully read ; all enactments repealed by legislation subsequent to 1895 have been omitted, explanatory footnotes having been added where necessary ; and all Acts re-enacted have been re-printed.

The arrangement, under which the paging of the Sessional Acts passed after 1895 was made continuous, has not been disturbed, so that the use of this Edition in the Courts will not create confusion as would be the case if the paging differed.

To quote an example. The Charter of Justice will be found printed on pages 93-108 in both Editions. The Act 21 of 1864 amending it occupies pages 948-955 of the 1895 Edition, but in view of its repeal is not printed in this Edition, a note to that effect appearing on page 947, the number of the page (956) following, corresponding with the 1895 Edition.

This Edition consists of four volumes, the first three containing the text of the Acts, and the last a full Chronological Table with an entirely new Index completed to the end of the Session of 1905.

PREFACE TO THE 1895 EDITION.

As a republication of the Statute Law of the Colony has become necessary on account of the Edition issued in 1887 having been exhausted, it was deemed desirable to consider the form in which the new Edition should appear.

Representations having been made to us by many members of the Legal Profession that a chronological arrangement would be of more practical convenience than the existing alphabetical one, which requires constant revision, we decided to adopt the former method of publication.

Inasmuch as Section 86 of the Constitution Ordinance provides that all Acts of Parliament shall be "enrolled of record in the Office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court," we applied for and obtained permission from that Court to publish a Chronological Edition of Cape Statutes and the Yearly Edition of each Session's Acts, which will be accepted as authoritative by the Court.

It was originally intended that this Edition should comprise the whole of the Statute Law up to and including the Acts for 1894, but in consequence of circumstances over which we had no control the publication was delayed for some months beyond the time first fixed. We have now, therefore, been able to add the Acts for 1895, and to make the necessary alterations in the body of the work except as to Statutes which had been printed before the Session of 1895 was concluded, the amendments to these being given on the next page.

This Edition consists of three Volumes, the first two containing the text of the Acts, and the last a full Chronological Table with a complete Index.

We intend in future, simultaneously with the publication of the Sessional Acts, to produce a revised Edition of this Table and Index brought up to date.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE DEBT REGISTRY. (1)

[June 19, 1714.

Maurits Pasques de Chavonnes, Councillor Extraordinary of Netherlands India and Governor on behalf of the United Netherlands Chartered East India Company at the Cape of Good Hope and its dependencies, and the Council thereof, make known :

How that it hath come to our knowledge, &c., &c. [The first part of the Placaat has reference to the Education of Minors, under guardianship of the Orphan Chamber, and is obsolete.]

Further, it having been experienced that there hath hitherto remained unused and not adopted in practice in this Government, the registration of Kusting Brieven, Obligations before Schepenen and Orphan Masters and other Bonds passed before Commissioners of the Court here, whereby from time to time, divers lands, houses, erven, and other property, are bound, as well specially as generally, in favour of the holders thereof, whereby not only many difficult lawsuits are caused, but likewise the good inhabitants, or the Company's servants, who are inclined to put out their money at a proper interest, are kept back, inasmuch as it can never be seen what may be due by any persons by Kusting Brieven or Obligations before Schepenen, Orphan Masters, and writings of Mortgage on their immovable property, which, for the welfare of the good inhabitants, ought not to be.

Preamble.

Now, therefore, we, desiring to provide by these presents in the premises, have considered it highly necessary to order and command all Company's servants, or inhabitants belonging to this Government, as we order and command all of them and each in particular and every one whom in any respect it may concern, that all persons shall be bound, within the period of four months, or before the 19th of the ensuing month of October, to exhibit at the Secretary's office at this place, all such Kusting Brieven, Obligations before Schepenen, Orphan Masters, and other writings of Mortgage, executed before Commissioners of the Court, whereby any immovable property has been bound or hypothecated, and to give in to the Secretary the amounts or contents of their writings of Mortgage and of such as may be from any cause in their possession, and which shall in future be required to take place in every case when any such writings of Mortgage shall be obtained, to the end that a proper Register may be formed and kept thereof, and it

Mortgage Bonds must be exhibited at the Secretary's office.

PLACAAAT.

[April 22, 1779.]

The States-General of the United Netherlands, unto all who shall see or hear read these presents, greeting:

Preamble.

Know ye that, although from the earliest times unto the present day, in the Colonies of this State, as well in the East as West

* This date is not filled in in the MSS.

Indies, comprised under the style and situated within the limits of the charter of the East and West India Companies, the power has been exercised of confiscation of goods of delinquents, who, in consequence of crime committed had forfeited liberty and life, yet it has appeared to us, not only that abuse might be made of that power, but likewise that, in its exercise, several disputes and difficulties constantly arise; and that, moreover, actual injustice is inherent in it, inasmuch as by such confiscation the wives, children, or near relations of such delinquents are made, although themselves innocent, to share in the punishments imposed on them by the loss of the goods confiscated.

That for these and other reasons, for the general good of the inhabitants, and in order to remove the aforesaid hardship in several Kingdoms and States, and especially in the Provinces of Holland and Zeeland, where heretofore this power was exercised in the same manner, it hath been disused or wholly abrogated.

Now, therefore, we, being desirous in like manner to provide therein for the welfare of our aforesaid Colonies and our inhabitants thereof, have been pleased, upon deliberation with the Council of State, after previous consultation and communication with His Highness the Prince of Orange and Nassau, our hereditary Stadtholder to decree as of our sovereign power and authority we do hereby decree, that from henceforth no confiscation of goods of delinquents, entire or partial, shall or may be ordered in our Colonies aforesaid, either by the Courts of Justice or by any other inferior Courts therein, for any reason or offence whatever, great or small, none excepted—and not even the Crimen Perduellionis or Læsæ Majestatis (treason)—abolishing, cancelling, and nullifying in so far, all laws, placats, privileges, customs, and usages which might have an effect contrary hereto,—not desiring that the same shall in that particular be hereafter put to any further use, with instruction and express command to all judges, superior or inferior, within our aforesaid Colonies, to regulate themselves, punctually according to this our placaat.

Confiscation of the property of criminals abolished in all Colonies.

In all cases, not excepting conviction for treason.

And in order that no person may pretend ignorance of the same, we order and command the authorities of the chartered East India Company, the representative of His Royal Highness and authorities of the West India Company, the Directors of the Colony of Suriname, as also the Directors of the Colony of Berbice to cause this our placaat to be published and affixed in all directions in the respective Colonies under their authority, at the places where it is customary to make such publications and affixions, and to cause the same to be observed and acted upon by all superior and inferior Courts of Justice of the aforesaid Colonies.

RENEWAL OF THE FOLLOWING WARNING, RESPECTING THE CARCASSES OF HORSES, OXEN, &c., ON AND NEAR THE PUBLIC ROADS. ⁽¹⁾

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is daily found that certain of the inhabitants, whose horses, oxen, and other beasts of burden, whether through weakness or otherwise, happen to fall down upon the public roads and die there, permit them to lie there and rot, without taking any further trouble about them, by which the air is infected, and other evils arise: Therefore, we, wishing to provide against this, have though fit to ordain and direct, as we hereby ordain and direct, that whenever, as well in the Cape as in the country districts, any of the abovementioned animals or other cattle through sickness or other accident should happen to fall upon or about the public road, or are compelled to be left behind, so that there is nothing else to be expected but that such animal or animals will die there; such animals shall then be thrown into a hole, to be dug by those whom it may concern whether Europeans or slaves, and be covered over with earth, under penalty that whoever shall be found neglectful herein shall be mulcted in a fine of fifty rixdollars; and masters of slaves who shall offend herein shall be liable for such slaves. Wherefore let everyone beware.

Cattle dying on or near roads to be buried by those in charge of them.

REGULATIONS FOR THE PREVENTION OF CONFUSION
IN THE DEBT REGISTRY. (1)

[April 22, 1793.

PUBLICATION.

WHEREAS it hath been discovered and hath come to our knowledge that, in the registration of bonds passed before Magistrates and Orphan Masters whereby landed property is specially hypothecated, numerous abuses have heretofore taken place in the register, which is for this purpose kept at the Political Secretary's office, from which nothing but confusion and injury can result, as well to the creditors as debtors, and it has therefore, become necessary for the public interest as well, that every one who has advanced money upon hypothec of landed property should have the certainty and knowledge that these hypothecs have been properly notified, in order to retain his right of preference; as also that every one of the inhabitants may be satisfied that in the aforesaid register of debts no other debts are entered against him than those actually due by him.

Preamble.

Therefore it is that we, in order to be able to rectify the aforesaid Register of Debts here, and to purify it of errors existing therein, in such manner that everyone may henceforward be able to rely on it with perfect confidence, have resolved to ordain and enact, as is hereby ordained and enacted:

That all holders of mortgages, bonds before Magistrates, and of bonds passed for the residue of purchase money under which landed property hath been specially hypothecated, shall be held and bound to appear before commissioned members of the Court of Justice of this Government (who shall attend gratis for this purpose, to commence from the 8th of the next month of May, on examine bonds.

April 22—1793.

Wednesdays and Fridays, in the Judicial Court-room, in the morning, from nine to twelve o'clock), to exhibit all the bonds passed before Magistrates (mortgages), and Kusting Brieven, and bonds passed before Orphan Masters belonging to them, in order that it may be examined whether all these obligations are found to be duly registered, so that, if this formality have been observed, proof thereof, under their signature, may be thereon endorsed, and those of which the registration may have been neglected, may at once be registered of the date on which the exhibition shall be made, and in like manner notice hereof under their hand shall be given by endorsement of the instruments.

Bonds not exhibited deprived of preference.

That, in order to give sufficient time and opportunity for this purpose to the inhabitants of this Colony, a period of six weeks be left to the inhabitants of the Cape Valley and its neighbourhood, and to the inhabitants of the country districts a period of three months,—but to count from the 8th May next, when commissioned members of the Court of Justice shall first attend for the purpose,—under the penalty, that those who neglect to cause the required examination to be done before the expiration of the beforementioned terms, shall henceforward be and remain deprived of the preference to which they would otherwise be entitled by virtue of the registration of the bonds of which they are holders; and that the debts which thereafter may be created on the property hypothecated to them, unless the forementioned hypothec already existing shall have been confirmed according to the manner above prescribed, shall be preferent before those which may have been previously contracted and shall be found to have remained unregistered through the fault of the holders of the bonds.

Cancellation of paid debts remaining uncanceled.

That all the inhabitants shall be at liberty within the above-mentioned periods, and at the said days and places, to address themselves to the commissioned members of the Court of Justice, in order to receive likewise gratis information of the debts with which they are burdened in the aforesaid Register of Debts, so that, if it be found that their settled debts have not been properly cancelled, these may be, on production of the evidence required thereto, cancelled, and their property relieved therefrom, of which, at the same time, due evidence shall be furnished them.

And in order that every one may be able to have the necessary use of our salutary intentions herein and enjoy their salutary effect, this shall be published and affixed in the ordinary place, wherever it is customary that such effixion is made.

Thus done and decreed in the Castle of Good Hope, the 22nd April, 1793, and published and affixed the day following.

RHENIUS.

REFORM OF THE DEBT REGISTRY. (1)

[May 23, 1805.]

PUBLICATION

Jan Willem Janssens, Governor and General-in-Chief, and the Court of Policy for the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope and its dependencies in South Africa, &c., &c., &c., to all and each who may see and hear these presents: Greeting, make known:

That whereas, it appears from the past records of the Government Secretary's office, that the public Debt Registries, whereby all mortgages, legal hypothecations, and notarial or secretarial obligations are made public, are by no means in such order as that would be possible safely to rely on them, inasmuch as it has sometimes been found that not only have debts standing open been long since paid, but even that unpaid debts through the ordinary affix in the margin, "solvit," appeared in the registry as already liquidated, that hence, repeatedly, very great uncertainty and confusion, and besides ruinous lawsuits, must arise between the several inhabitants of the Colony, and, in addition, distrust in the public Debt Registry be created, by which the certainty of ownership and mutual confidence in private transactions would be weakened; that these same causes in the year 1793, led the Government of the day to issue a publication on the 23rd of April of that year to reform the abuses which had crept in, and to establish the public Debt Register on a more certain footing for the future; that this useful work was immediately begun and further accurately set forth, until, in the year 1795, it became necessary to stop it temporarily, on account of the attack on the Colony by the English, and after the surrender of the Colony it wholly ceased; that the manner in which the work was begun and continued was in every respect of a good tendency, and therefore, could at present be usefully proceeded with, were it not that from the time which has elapsed and during which the old Debt Registers have been continued, an entire retracing of steps and revision thereof became necessary; that the revision is the more necessary because the increasing population of the Colony has enlarged the utility and the great importance of accurate public Debt Registers; while, on the contrary, the continuance of the present renders the evil, which has crept in, daily less capable of cure, and more and more endangers the certainty of ownership, hypothecs, &c.:

Preamble.

Now, therefore, the Governor and Council, in order to effectually provide herein, have considered it necessary to cause the public Debt Register to be revised with all possible accuracy, and thereafter to be brought into such order, that not only all uncertainty concerning the present registered debts may be removed, but in future, the danger of uncertainty and confusion as far as may be possible shall be prevented. And now, therefore, to this end, resolved to order and decree, and order and decree by these presents :

First Commission appointed.

1. That during the ensuing months of June, July, and August, a Commission, consisting of a member of the Court of Policy, a member of the Court of Justice, and a member of the Colonial Orphan Chamber, expressly to be appointed thereto by these bodies respectively, shall twice a week attend in the Government Court-hall in the Castle, at such times as they among themselves shall agree and shall make known to the public, in order to examine whether the "Kusting Brieven," "Schepenen"—Orphan Masters—and Bank-Obligations, and likewise, other public writing acknowledgements of Debt are, or are not duly registered.

Bonds to be exhibited to the commission.

2. That for this purpose all holders of such bonds of which it is here customary to give notice at the public Debt Registry, shall be bound to exhibit the same, or to cause the same to be exhibited by duly qualified persons on the specified days to this Commission, in order to be compared with the Debt Register.

Certificate on bonds duly registered.

3. That the Commission shall, in the case of such bonds as they shall find to be properly registered, make known the finding on the back, or at the foot of all such bonds, under the signature of two members of the said Commission.

Registration of bonds not duly registered.

4. That whenever, on examination, any bonds are found to be unentered in the Debt Registry, the Commission shall redress this omission by formally making the registration, and in proof hereof, shall note on the back, or at the foot of the exhibited bond, with the addition of the signatures of the entire Commission, that the bond is registered, with the addition of the date of the exhibition.

New debts register.

5. That after the expiration of the aforesaid period of three months, the examination shall be held as concluded, and that then the Governor and Council shall nominate a second Commission in order to frame an entirely new Debt Register, in which shall only be entered such bonds as have been exhibited to the first Commission.

Bonds not exhibited deprived of preference.

6. That all bonds not exhibited to the first Commission and consequently not entered in the new Debt Registry, shall be deprived of the right of preference, unless the holders before the end of the present year shall, in a satisfactory manner, have caused it to appear to the Court of Justice, that they were prevented for reasons valid in law from satisfying this order, in which case the Commissioners of the Court of Justice who attend weekly for the purpose of having acts passed before them, shall be authorised to enter such bond in the new register.

How registrations and cancellations are to be signed.

7. That in future all registrations shall be signed by the Master of the Records, and the first clerk in the Government Secretary's office, as likewise, all cancellations, which shall not be effected as heretofore by merely placing the word solvit in the margin of the registration, but, on the contrary, shall be effected by a proper counter entry on the opposite page of the Debt Registry, so that each debtor therein shall henceforth have a proper debit and credit side.

May 23, 1805,

8. That in like manner as takes place in the Loan Bank, according to the fifth article of the instructions thereon, immediately after the registration, the hypothec or burden shall be notified by endorsement by the Master of the Records and first clerk on the deed of transfer.

Endorsement of hypothec on title deed.

9. [This section has reference to the mortgage of slaves and is no longer applicable.]

10. That during the session of the first Commission, and on the days to be by it fixed, every person shall be at liberty to inquire of the Commission for what debts he appears liable according to the Debt Registry; and if it be found that any person appears indebted in any amount which he, in a satisfactory manner, proves to the Commission to have been paid by him, on exhibition of such proof the debt shall be at once cancelled, which cancellation, in like manner as all further proceedings of the Commission, shall take place gratis.

Cancellation of debts proved to have been paid.

And whereas, it hath further appeared to the Governor and Council that the registration of kinder-bewyzen, and antenuptial contracts, although expressly ordered by a proclamation of the 23rd April, 1793, does, notwithstanding, not take place universally, by which means it could easily occur that those ignorant of the legal hypothec might be misled in the valuation of the mortgage on which it is desired to raise money either with the Loan Bank or the Orphan Chamber, or with private individuals, they have resolved to order and decree, and order and decree by these presents.

Registration of kinder - bewyzen and antenuptial Contracts.

11. That all those persons who have already obtained legal hypothecs on the property of their spouses by virtue of antenuptial contracts, shall also give notice thereof to the first Commission during the period fixed by article 1, in order that the same course may be followed as in respect to conventional hypothecs, under the penalty that those who do not give such notice shall be deprived of the right of legal hypothec, to which they would be otherwise entitled, and that consequently all conventional special hypothecs which are constituted after that date and are duly registered, shall be preferred to anterior non-registered antenuptial contracts.

Conventional special hypothecs duly registered preferred to anterior non-registered antenuptial contracts.

12. That under a like penalty, all antenuptial contracts which shall be passed after this date must be publicly notified in the Debt Registry at the Government Secretary's Office. (1)

13. That of all deeds of Kinderbewyys, whether passed at the Orphan Chamber, or before a notary, or secretary and witnesses, due written notice shall be given within twenty-four hours after the execution of the deed by the secretary of the Orphan Chamber, the respective notaries, and the secretaries of the country districts, signed by the person before whom the deed has been passed, under penalty that in case of omission of such notices, the officers named in this article shall be responsible for all damages which the orphans may suffer through their negligence. The notices of the secretaries in the country districts shall be prepared within twenty-four hours, in order to be transmitted with the first safe opportunity that offers to the capital; and Widowers and widows not entitled to publication of banns before due registration of the Kinderbewys.

14. That, finally, in order to secure the interests of minors by all possible means, the commissioners of marriage causes may grant no publication of banns of marriage to widowers, or widows, having children of a former marriage, unless it satisfactorily appears to them, that not only in accordance with the nineteenth article of the Marriage Ordinance proper security shall be given, but that the deed passed thereof has been duly registered at the office of the Government Secretary. ⁽¹⁾

We order and command the Court of Justice, the Attorney-General, and all whom it may concern, to obey and cause to be obeyed, this our publication, with all punctuality, for we have found such necessary for the welfare of this Colony.

And that no one may plead any ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed in all places where it is customary to make publication and affixion.

Thus resolved and decreed in the Court of Policy, at the Cape of Good Hope, the 15th May, 1805, and published the 23rd thereafter.

PROCLAMATION (1)

[February 5, 1813.]

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir JOHN FRANCIS
CRADOCK, &c., &c.

WHEREAS, by the laws now in force, there is no limited time for the duration of the imprisonment of any person or persons against whom an execution for debt, process of Court, or precept or warrant of any Court or competent authority, in the nature of an execution for the levying of any fine or fines, penalty or penalties, is issued for the non-payment of such debt and costs, or such fine or penalty, as such debtor or debtors, offender or offenders, are ordered and commanded to pay; but such debtor or debtors, offender or offenders, are thereby committed to prison, until such time as they can pay or satisfy such debt, fine, or penalty, so that it may happen a person may be confined many months for a small sum of money:

Preamble.

Now be it hereby declared, ordained, and enacted that no person or persons whatsoever shall be confined for any debt, fine, penalty, or contempt of Court or other authority, not exceeding the sum of twenty rixdollars, more than one month; and every Magistrate, Fiscal, Deputy Fiscal, Landdrost, or Deputy Landdrost, or others having the care, custody, or superintendence of any prison or place of confinement, is hereby ordered and directed to discharge from such prison or place of confinement at the end of such month such person or persons, without demanding or receiving any fees or other expenses than that of their diet, at the rate of ten stivers for each day.

Confinement for debts, &c., not exceeding twenty rixdollars, not more than one month.

And whereas it has occurred that a debtor or debtors have been confined for a long and indefinite period of time for small debts not exceeding fifty rixdollars: Be it enacted and ordained, and it is hereby enacted and ordained, that no person shall be detained in prison for more than six calendar months, for any original debt not exceeding fifty rixdollars exclusive of all costs of suit; and the Fiscal, Deputy Fiscals, Landdrosts, Deputy Landdrosts, and all others having the care and superintendence of jails, prisons, or places of confinement are hereby directed and commanded to liberate all and every person or persons so confined at the expiration of the six calendar months, as aforesaid, and all and every person is forbidden again to arrest for such debt aforesaid, any person or persons so liberated; but nothing herein shall be construed to discharge such debt or debts, or to deprive the creditor or creditors of any and every other remedy against the goods, lands, or property of such debtor or debtors which now exists by law.

Fifty rixdollars not more than six months.

Other remedies of creditor reserved.

And that no person may plead ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed as usual.

CONVERSION OF LOAN PLACES TO PERPETUAL
QUITRENT. (1)

[Aug. 6, 1813.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir JOHN FRANCIS
CRADOCK, &c., &c.

Preamble.

WHEREAS agriculture constitutes the chief source of prosperity in this Colony, and the full encouragement thereof must consequently have an immediate tendency to promote the real interests of its inhabitants: Whereas this encouragement chiefly depends on the certainty of tenures, and the confidence connected therewith, that all improvements of the soil, and all increase of fertility, should indisputably belong to the holder as his own, and that, in the ordinary course of things, all his arrangements, as well with respect to the produce as to the land itself, should, by the laws, be exclusively secured to him, his heirs, executors, assigns, or representatives: Whereas, although the establishment of loan leases might have been suitable to the early state of this Colony, when the wants of Government were not foreseen, it now appears from experience that the loan tenure is injurious to that certainty, so essential to the happiness and the interest of the inhabitants, and equally injurious to the public interest, by preventing the holders from appropriating as much of their means to the improvement and extension of agriculture as they would do, in case they had no right of re-assumption to apprehend, and might dispose of the ground as they please, by sub-dividing the same among their children, letting, selling, or otherwise alienating it in lots, cultivating it in the prospect of remote benefit, by the planting of timber, &c.: Whereas, notwithstanding a gradual re-assumption of loan lands and the re-granting of the same in lesser portions on a more certain tenure might considerably increase the colonial revenue; yet, having taken into consideration the great utility of no longer delaying the improved cultivation of land by giving security to title, and of making the same, as speedily as possible, a general measure, I have adopted the following determination: To grant to the holders of all lands on loan, who may regularly apply for the same, their places on perpetual quitrent, with the following rights and privileges, and on the following terms and conditions, namely:

Memorial to the Government for conversion of Loan Places to perpetual quitrent.

Extent of grant.

1. Every holder of a loan place, on his making application by memorial to Government for the purpose, shall have a grant of his place, on perpetual quitrent, to the same extent as he has hitherto legally possessed the same on loan.

2. No loan place shall exceed three thousand morgen; every addition to that quantity of land must be particularly mentioned to the surveyor and commission, and appear upon the face of the application, for His Excellency's consideration.

Proc.—Aug. 6, 1813.

3. The holder, by this grant, shall obtain the right “to hold the land hereditarily, and to do with the same as he may think proper, in like manner as with other immovable property; as also, should he deem advisable, to sell or otherwise alienate it, with the usual previous knowledge of Government, either partly or wholly, as free and allodial property.”

Right to hold hereditarily and to alienate.

4. Government reserves no other rights but those on mines of precious stones, gold, or silver; as also the right of making and repairing public roads, and raising materials for that purpose on the premises: other mines of iron, lead, copper, tin, coals, slate, or limestone, are to belong to the proprietor. ⁽¹⁾

Government reservation of precious stones, gold and silver—and of right of making and repairing roads.

5. In all places adjoining to the sea, or communicating with the sea by inlets therefrom, the rights of the Crown are reserved, with the power of re-assumption of any quantity of land, not exceeding twenty morgen, paying the proprietor for such buildings as he may have erected, according to a fair valuation, provided such ground be wanted for public purposes; and if given up by the Crown, it shall not be transferred to another individual, but revert to the proprietor or his representatives.

Reservation of rights of Crown in places adjoining the sea.

6. In all judicial decisions regarding perpetual quitrent the same rights, laws, and usages shall be observed, which have hitherto been acted upon, or which may hereafter be established, enacted, and followed in judicial decisions, with respect to freehold lands.

Laws respecting freehold lands to govern decisions on perpetual quitrent.

7. That for this, in the common course of things, irrevocable title, the holders shall pay to the public revenue an increased yearly rent, to be prescribed according to the situation, fertility, and other favourable circumstances of the land; in no case, however, exceeding a sum of two hundred and fifty rixdollars.

Yearly rent not to exceed rixdollars two hundred and fifty.

8. For the survey of a loan place to be granted on perpetual quitrent, the land surveyor, exclusive of the diagram, travelling expenses, and wagon hire, shall not charge more than one hundred rixdollars; unless he may be obliged, from local difficulties, to appropriate more than five days to make the survey, in which case he shall be allowed to charge ten rixdollars for every day over and above that time: the respective landdrosts are therefore directed to pay strict attention hereto, when any account be presented to them to be paid out of the district treasury, as mentioned in the Government advertisement of the 16th July last.

Payment of surveyor.

9. ⁽²⁾ On the division of any place granted on perpetual quitrent, each part, and its holder, shall be severally bound and responsible for the full amount of the rent, in such manner, however, that he who makes the payment may recover from the other holders, for as far as regards their respective shares; unless at the request of the interested parties, on making the division, Government may have been pleased to direct, that the rent shall be apportioned and registered proportionably at the time of the transfer.

Each holder, on division of a place, bound for the full amount of the rent.

² See Acts 7, 1856, and 10, 1875.

Proc.—Aug 6, 1813.

Transfer coram
lege loci.

10. That in order to ensure the necessary regularity, as well as the interest of the State, no alienation of any part of such place shall be considered as legal before the same shall be surveyed, a diagram made thereof, regularly transferred before Commissioners of the Court of Justice, as likewise duly registered in the office of land revenue.

Quitrent lands liable to same burdens only as freehold.

11. This perpetual quitrent shall, further, not be liable to any other burthens but those to which all freehold lands are already subject, or which may hereafter be further prescribed.

Period within which applications may be made,— twelve months.

12. All applications for the conversion of loan lands into perpetual quitrent, with the privileges attached thereto by this present proclamation, must be made within twelve months from the date hereof; after the expiration of which period the said rights, privileges, terms, and conditions, shall be subject to such alterations as circumstances shall be found to require.

deed.

13. The title deed (erfgrondbrief), on such application, shall be granted after the place shall have been surveyed, with the previous knowledge of, and if necessary pointed out by, the landdrost, by a sworn land surveyor, and a proper diagram of the same forwarded to Government by the landdrost, accompanied by his certificate, that the measurement was made without prejudice to any person; and also that the diagram does not contain any greater extent of ground than was legally possessed on loan by the holder.

Right of re-assumption of loan places, increase of rent, &c., not curtailed,—except in case of change of tenure.

14. By the regulations made in these presents, it is not to be understood that the right of re-assumption, increase of rent, or other arrangement regarding loan places, which undoubtedly belong to the Government of this Colony, and which have been, from time to time, exercised by the successive Governments of the same, are in anywise curtailed, or intended to be curtailed, unless when the parties obtain an alteration in their tenure on the terms proposed.

Right of Government as to attached places, not done away with by this proclamation.

15. In order to prevent all misunderstanding, it is hereby specially declared, that the right which belongs to Government with respect to attached places is in nowise done away by this measure, and consequently, that those places remain subject to all such further regulations as they would have been liable to, in case this proclamation had not been issued.

Loan places attached to drostdies and parson-ages public property.

16. Loan places attached to the respective drostdies, deputy landdrosts, or the parsonages of the clergy, remain, as they are, public property, to be transmitted to their successors. But where Field-cornets, or other public functionaries, are excused from paying rent for a loan lease of their own as part of the remuneration for their public services,—in all such cases where the party solicits and obtains a change of tenure, for the purpose of dividing it amongst his family, or other motives, he shall not be liable to the raised rent during the time he is employed in the public service, and a new rent shall commence at the expiration of such services by death or otherwise.

Proc.—Aug. 6, 1813.

17. The whole tenor of the foregoing regulations will manifest the paternal view His Majesty had taken of this Colony; and, in deeply considering the permanent interest of the occupiers of lands, to what extent the Crown has resolved to sacrifice its rights and prerogatives in order to place property upon that solid and secure foundation, without which fair adventure and speculation cannot arise, and even common industry and labour will lose much of its effect.

General tenor of the regulations.

Thus at length is this great measure matured and brought forward. It is the one that has long engaged the attention and anxious wish of each preceding Government, but which could not well admit of conclusion, except in times like the present—of unexampled tranquillity, uniform progress in civilization and good order, and the unbounded prospect of universal prosperity.

I feel the highest gratification in giving effect to these beneficent and paternal designs of His Majesty's Government; and persuade myself that the gratitude of the inhabitants of this Colony will be equal to the value of the inestimable gift thus extended to them on the part of the Crown, which, by graciously offering to their acceptance a perfect title to lands, that enables them to provide for their children and descendants, and dispose of them as they please, grants to them, in fact, possession of an estate, and the high character and station of "a real landholder."

They will thereby abandon an unworthy tenure, unfitted to the growing prosperity of the Colony, and only suited to the earliest and rudest institutions of the settlement; and being thus placed in their territorial possessions on the same footing as their fellow-subjects in Europe, the Cape of Good Hope in future may, with fair pretension, take its rank with other countries.

And that no person may plead ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed as usual.

Cession of the Colony.

[Aug. 13, 1814.]

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency General the Right Hon. Lord CHARLES
HENRY SOMERSET, &c., &c.

[Dec. 23, 1814.]

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen with respect to the quantity of disposable Government ground in the vicinity of this town, and with respect to the limits of private property as affecting the same, a commission was appointed, in the year 1811, for the purpose of superintending a complete survey thereof, and examining the documents and titles to the land claimed and occupied as private property: Now, be it hereby made known that the survey of all the land situate and being to the right of the great road from Cape Town to Simon's Town, and extending from the military lines to the estate of Claassenbosch, now possessed by W. F. Versfeld, has been completed, and laid before me by the Government sworn surveyor, L. M. Thibault; and having personally examined the same, and compared the whole with the documents in support thereof, and the reports relative thereto, I do hereby declare my entire approbation of the same, and hereby recognise the boundaries as described thereon to be the true limits of the respective estates therein described.

Boundaries of land from Cape Town to Claassenbosch established.

Cession of ground near Cape Town, enclosed and cultivated in error, to occupiers, on title being taken out within six months.

And it appearing, moreover, that the occupiers of several of the estates alluded to have, either through error or inadvertence, enclosed or cultivated proportions of land, to which the former grants of this Government have not entitled them, I have resolved to cede to each of the parties alluded to the land so illegally held by them, upon due valuation thereof by the Magistrate of the Cape District, provided the parties interested take out, within six months from the date hereof, the usual title, authorising them to occupy the several spots of ground in question.

Titles to claimants of Government land.

And whereas it appears that within the limits of the survey under consideration, there are other persons who claim Government land, in virtue of certain resolutions of the former Governments, although they had not obtained regular titles thereto; and being desirous, whenever the interest of the Crown and local circumstances will admit of it, and no actual disposition has taken place, or been directed, to give favourable consideration to claims of the nature alluded to, I have given detailed instructions to the landdrost of the Cape district, to value such of the lands alluded to as are specified to him as being such as may, without detriment to public interest, be alienated, in order to their being ceded under regular title to the parties in question.

Delivery of diagrams to applicants.

And it is hereby recommended to all holders of land in the direction of the said survey, for the prevention of all future disputes with respect to the boundaries or extent of the land they occupy, to cause to be taken from the general survey under consideration, a diagram or chart of the lands they possess, which diagram, with a proper certificate from the Colonial Secretary, will be delivered to each applicant, free of expense, excepting the usual cost attending the land surveyor's copying the same.

Testamentary Dispositions of Natural-born Subjects of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland resident within this Settlement. (1)

[July 12, 1822.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency General the Right Hon. Lord CHARLES HENRY SOMERSET, &c., &c.

WHEREAS it has appeared to His Majesty's Government that the laws in force in this Colony relating to testamentary dispositions of property may, in their operation, defeat the expectations of those individuals who have emigrated and become settlers within the jurisdiction of this Government; and I have in consequence thereof received His Majesty's most gracious commands to make provision in the premises according to circumstances: I do therefore, in pursuance thereof, and by virtue of the authority in me vested, hereby make known, declare, and order that it shall be hereafter considered lawful, regular, and of full force, for all residents and settlers in this Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, being natural-born subjects of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to enjoy the same rights of devising their property, both real and personal, as they would be entitled to exercise under the laws and customs of England; provided, however, that in case any such natural-born subject of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland shall enter into the marriage state within this settlement, without making a previous marriage settlement (called, in the colonial law term, antenuptial contract), his property, in such case, both real and personal, shall be administered and divided

Preamble.

All natural-born subjects of the United Kingdom entitled to devise their property as in England.

In case of marriage in this colony without previous marriage settlement property to be administered according to colonial law, unless a testamentary devise be made by the testator in conjunction with his wife.

¹ See Acts 26 of 1873 and 23 of 1874; See Ords. 104, 1833, and 15, 1845; Acts 22, 1876 and 3, 1878.

Wills to be deposited in the Orphan Chamber.

And it is hereby further made known and ordered that the original will or testament of any person dying in this Colony shall be deposited, as usual, in the Orphan Chamber, at Cape Town, in order to legalize the administration of the estate by the executor or administrator thereof.

The tenor of this proclamation to be explained by matrimonial courts.

And I do hereby further order and direct the president, or acting president, of any of the Matrimonial Courts of this Government, to explain clearly, to every natural-born subject of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland who shall be about to enter into matrimonial engagements, and appear for that purpose before such Court, the tenor of this my proclamation,—noting on their record their having so done, that no man may justly plead ignorance of this provision.

And in order still further to obviate the plea of not knowing the law on this head, I have caused this proclamation to be published and affixed as usual, and to appear in three successive Gazettes.

THE BOEKHOO PLANT.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency General the Right Hon. Lord CHARLES
HENRY SOMERSET, &c., &c.

WHEREAS I have been given to understand that the medicinal qualities of the Boekhoo (Boego) plant are held in great estimation in Europe, and that it is probable the demand for that article may increase to an extent which may prove very beneficial to the interests of this Colony, provided the necessary measures be taken for its preservation. Preamble.

And whereas it has been represented to me that the persons employed in collecting this article, not satisfied with gathering the leaves, or even cutting the shoots, of this plant, are in the habit of pulling it up entirely by the roots, or of cutting and hewing it so low down and in such a manner as to destroy the plant itself; I have deemed it necessary, for the general interests of the Colony, to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared accordingly, that any person who may be convicted before a competent tribunal, of tearing up the Boekhoo (Boego) plant by the roots, or of burning it, or cutting it in such a manner as to injure the further growth of the plant, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and be fined in a penalty of not less than twenty nor more than fifty rixdollars for every such offence, one-third of which shall go to the informer (provided always, that the property so injured or destroyed be not the private property of individuals, and cut or pulled up or burnt by their orders): And in the event of the inability of the offender to pay the fine awarded, that he be liable to imprisonment at hard labour for a certain period not exceeding two months for every such offence.

Any person tearing up or burning the Boekhoo plant, to pay a fine of not less than 20 and not more than 50 rixdollars.

In default, imprisonment with hard labour for two months.

And that no person may plead ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed in the usual manner.

Ordinance for creating Justices of the Peace in this Colony. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient for the preservation of the public peace, the security of individuals, and the due execution of the laws, that Magistrates be appointed in the several districts of this Colony, with power to apprehend, commit to prison, or hold to bail, all vagrants, rioters, robbers, or other notorious offenders, found within their several jurisdictions, in order than such offenders may be brought to trial, and with power to do all other such matters and things as the said Magistrates may by law be appointed to do: Be it therefore enacted, and it is hereby enacted, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, it shall and may be lawful for the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor for the time being, from time to time, as occasion may require, to appoint Justices of the Peace under the great seal of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, for Cape Town and the district thereof, and the several country districts respectively, who shall take and subscribe the oath of allegiance, and the oath of office, set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, before the Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme or Circuit Courts, or before the Civil Commissioner or any Magistrate of the district for which such Justice is assigned to act (who are hereby empowered and required to administer the same), and the Clerks of the Peace respectively shall enter in the records of their respective districts that the said oaths were duly administered and taken.

Ord. 32—1827.

The Governor may appoint Justices of the Peace.

Oath of office and of allegiance to be taken by justices.

2. And be it further enacted, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the persons who shall be so appointed as aforesaid to act as Justices of the Peace, shall have power, and are hereby required, to preserve the public peace, and for that purpose to call to their aid and assistance all field-cornets, constables, and peace officers, military officers, and others, His Majesty's subjects, to quell all riots, brawls, or other disturbances, and to lodge all rioters, brawlers, vagrants, and disturbers of the peace, in any prison within their respective jurisdictions, to be dealt with according to law; and they are hereby authorised and required to inquire of all crimes and offences committed, or alleged to be committed, within their respective jurisdictions, and for that purpose to summon and examine upon oath all witnesses, touching such crimes and offences, and to apprehend and cause to be apprehended, all criminals and offenders, and to deal with them according to law: And the said Justices of the Peace are hereby authorised and required, upon information or complaint in writing upon oath made to them, or any of them, to cause to come before them all those who have used any threats towards any person or persons, whether regarding their bodies or the firing of their houses, and to require of them sufficient security for the peace, or their good behaviour towards His Majesty or his subjects; and if they shall not give such security then to cause them to be safely kept in prison till they shall find such security.

sent to the Clerk of the Peace ⁽¹⁾ acting for the district or place for which the said Justices are assigned respectively, within twenty-one days after such information or complaint, made or security taken; and for every such information or complaint, made as aforesaid and not sent as aforesaid, and for every such recognizance or security taken, and not sent as aforesaid, every Justice so offending shall incur and be liable to the payment of a fine of twenty pounds sterling.

Penalty on failure, £20.

Gaolers to receive into custody persons committed by warrant of Justices.

4. And be it further enacted that all gaolers and keepers of prisons shall receive into their custody, and safely keep, every person committed to their charge by warrant, under the hand and seal of any Justice of the Peace, until they be discharged by due course of law.

Notice of action against justices for acts done in execution of their office to be given at least one month before process is sued out.

5. And be it further enacted, that no process shall be sued out against, nor any copy of any process at the suit of a subject shall be served on, any Justice of the Peace, for anything by him done in the execution of his office, until notice in writing of such intended process shall have been delivered to him, or left at the usual place of his abode by the attorney or agent for the party, who intends to sue or cause the same to be sued out, or served, at least one calendar month before the suing out or serving the same; in which notice shall be clearly and explicitly contained the cause of action which such party has, or claims to have, against such Justice of the Peace, on the back of which notice shall be endorsed the name of such attorney or agent, together with the place of his abode.

On failure of such notice, judgment to be given in favour of justice.

6. And be it further enacted, that no person shall recover any judgment against any Justice of the Peace, in any case where the action shall be grounded upon any act of the defendant as Justice of the Peace, unless it is proved upon the trial of such action, that such notice was given as aforesaid; but in default thereof such Justice shall be entitled to a judgment and his full costs.

Tender of amends by justice and further proceedings in action.

7. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for such Justice of the Peace within one calendar month after such notice given as aforesaid, to tender amends to the party complaining, or to the attorney or agent of such party; and in case the same is not accepted, to plead such tender to any action to be brought against him grounded on such process, together with the plea of "not guilty," and any other plea with the leave of the Court; and if the Court before which such action is brought shall find the amends so tendered to have been sufficient, then such Court shall give judgment for the defendant, and in such case, or in case the plaintiff shall not proceed in his action, or in case judgment shall be given for the defendant on any proceeding in

8. And be it further enacted, that in case such Justice shall neglect to tender any amends, or shall have tendered insufficient amends, before the action brought, it shall and may be lawful for him, by leave of the Court where such action shall depend, at any time before the hearing of the said cause, to pay into Court such sum of money as he shall see fit, whereupon such proceedings, orders, and judgments shall be had, made, and given in and by such Court, as in other actions where the defendant is allowed to pay money into Court.

9. And be it further enacted, that no evidence shall be permitted to be given by the plaintiff, on the trial of any such action as aforesaid, of any cause of action, except such as is contained in the notice hereby directed to be given.

10. And be it further enacted, that no action shall be brought against any constable, or other officer, or against any person or persons acting by his order and in his aid, for any thing done in obedience to any warrant under the hand or seal of any Justice of the Peace, until demand hath been made or left at the usual place of his abode, by the party or parties intending to bring such action, or by his, or their, attorney or agent, in writing, signed by the party demanding the same, of the perusal and copy of such warrant, and the same have been refused or neglected for the space of six days after such demand; and in case, after such demand and compliance therewith, by shewing the said warrant to, and permitting a copy to be taken thereof by, the party demanding the same, any action shall be brought against such constable, or other officer, or against such person or persons acting in his aid, for any such cause as aforesaid, without making the Justice or Justices who signed or sealed the said warrant, defendant or defendants, that, on producing and proving such warrant at the trial of such action, the Court shall give their judgment for the defendant or defendants, notwithstanding any defect of jurisdiction in such Justice or Justices; and if such action be brought jointly against such Justice or Justices, and also against such constable, or other officer, or person or persons acting in his or their aid, as aforesaid, then on proof of such warrant, the Court shall find for such constable or other officer, and for such person or persons so acting as aforesaid, notwithstanding such defect of jurisdiction as aforesaid; and if the judgment shall be given against the justice or justices, that in such case, the plaintiff or plaintiff shall recover his or their

Ordinance for declaring and regulating the duty of the Sheriff of this Colony. (1)

WHEREAS by His Majesty's Royal Charter, or Letters Patent, for the more effectual Administration of Justice in this Colony and in the several Territories and Settlements dependent thereon, bearing date at Westminster, the 24th day of August, 1827, it is amongst other things, ordained and declared that the Governor or Lieutenant-Governor, for the time being, of the said Colony, shall, by warrant under his hand and seal, nominate and appoint some fit and proper person, to act as and to be the Sheriff of the said Colony and its dependencies for the year ensuing; which Sheriff, when appointed, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, and before he shall enter upon his said office, take an oath, faithfully to execute the duties thereof, and the oath of allegiance, before the said Governor, who is by the said charter authorised to administer the same: And whereas it is by the said charter ordered, directed and appointed that the said Sheriff shall, by himself or his sufficient deputies to be by him appointed, and duly authorised under his hand and seal, and for whom he shall be responsible during his continuance in such office, execute all the sentences, decrees, judgments, writs, summonses, rules, orders, warrants, commands, and processes of the Supreme Court, or of the Circuit Courts, of the said Colony, as therein is mentioned, and shall make a return of the same, together with the manner of the execution thereof, to the Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope, or to the said Circuit Courts, as the case may be; and shall receive and detain in prison all such persons as shall be committed to the custody of such Sheriff by the said Supreme Court and Circuit Courts, or by the Chief Justice or any other Judge of the said Courts: And whereas it is further granted, ordained, directed, and appointed, by the said charter or letters patent, that it shall and may be lawful for the said Supreme Court, by any rules or orders of Court, to be by them from time to time, and for that purpose, made and published, to frame, constitute, and establish such rules, orders, and regulations as to them shall seem meet, touching and concerning (amongst other things) the proceedings of the Sheriff and other ministerial officers of the said Court, the process of the said Courts, and the mode of executing the same; provided (amongst other things therein provided) that the same shall be promulgated in the most public and authentic manner in the said Colony, for three months at least before the same shall operate and take effect: And whereas it is necessary and expedient, in the meantime, and until the said Supreme Court shall further or otherwise order, to make provisions for the performance of the duties of the said Sheriff in certain cases: Be it therefore enacted and declared, by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, that the said Sheriff shall, immediately after his appointment, and after having taken the oaths aforesaid, appoint and depute sufficient persons and deputies, to act for him in the execution of the duties of his said office, and shall, immediately after such appointment, cause to be enrolled in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court the names and places of abode of such his lawful deputies, and which enrolment shall specify the district within which they are respectively to act for the said Sheriff; and also shall, immediately after any removal of any such deputy, cause such removal to be notified to the Registrar, and shall cause the name of the person succeeding him in the execution of his duty, to be in like manner enrolled in the said office, and shall cause the like notification to be published in the next ensuing Government Gazette of the said Colony. (1) whose names, places of abode, and districts are to be enrolled with the registrar of the supreme court.

Sheriff to appoint deputies,

Names, places of abode, and districts of deputies to be placed conspicuously in the sheriff's office with this ordinance, and rules of court relating to sheriff, and table of fees.

Sheriff and deputies to be personally present in court.

2. And be it further enacted that a convenient office in Cape Town shall be appointed for the said Sheriff, wherein shall be placed, in some conspicuous part thereof, the names and places of abode of such his deputies, and the districts in which they are appointed respectively to act; and also this Ordinance and all such general rules and orders as shall at any time be made by the Supreme Court, for regulating the duty of the said Sheriff and his deputies, and a table of all the fees and charges which may, by law, be taken by him or them respectively.

3. And be it further enacted that the said Sheriff, or his deputy, shall give his personal attendance in the Supreme Court daily, during term time, or any sitting or session of the said Court, or of any Circuit Court; and the said Sheriff shall, by himself or his deputy, immediately, and without delay, execute all the sentences, decrees, judgments, writs, summonses, rules, orders, warrants, commands, and processes of the said Supreme Court or Circuit Courts respectively, to him directed, where no time is specified therein for the execution thereof, or otherwise, according to the exigency of the same; and shall make a return thereof, together with the manner of the execution thereof, to the office of the Registrar of the said Supreme Court, or Registrar of the Circuit Courts respectively, as the case may be; and the said Sheriff shall receive and detain in custody all persons arrested upon any sentence, decree, judgment, writ, summons, rule, order, warrant, command, or process of the said Supreme Court or Circuit Courts respectively, and shall receive and detain in prison all such persons as shall be committed to his custody by the said Supreme Court or Circuit Courts, or by the Chief Justice or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court.

4. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that the said Sheriff shall not be answerable or responsible for the rescue or escape of any such person out of the custody of the said Sheriff, or his deputy, on his way to any public gaol or prison in this Colony; or after being lodged therein, where such rescue or escape shall happen without the default or connivance of the said Sheriff or his deputy: Provided, however, that in case of any such rescue or escape, the said Sheriff, or his deputy, shall use all lawful means for the pursuit, apprehension, and security of any such person, without any further warrant or authority whatever.

5. And be it further enacted that where any summons or other process of the Supreme Court shall be issued to compel the appearance in the said Court, or in any Circuit Court of this Colony, of any person to answer any claim or demand, in any case where by law the said person may not be arrested or holden to bail, and the said original summons, or other process, shall be delivered to the Sheriff at his said office, the said Sheriff, or his deputy, shall execute the same according to the exigency thereof; and at the time of summoning any person in pursuance of such summons or process, he shall deliver to him personally, or leave with some one of his household for him at his dwelling-house, when the said defendant cannot be found, a copy of the said summons or process; at the same time informing the said defendant, or other person, of the nature and exigency thereof.

6. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that where neither the said defendant nor any one of his household, after diligent search, can be found at his usual place of abode, a copy of the said summons or process may in all cases be left at the dwelling-house of the said defendant.

Tools, implements of trade, wearing apparel, &c., not to be seized in the first instance.

9. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that the said Sheriff or his deputy shall not take or seize, in execution of any such process, any of the necessary tools, utensils, implements or cattle, used in trade or husbandry, or wearing apparel, of any person; unless there shall not be sufficient other movable property of the defendant to satisfy the same.

10. [Repealed by § 7 Act 17, 1886.]

Sum mentioned in process to be levied with the percentage chargeable by law and reasonable expenses.

11. And be it further enacted that, together with the sum mentioned in or endorsed upon any process of the Supreme Court, the said Sheriff shall levy and raise on the goods of the said defendant, sufficient to satisfy such percentage as is or shall be by law chargeable thereon, and the reasonable expenses, costs and charges of making the said levy and sale; and if, after satisfying the exigency of the said process, together with the said percentage, costs, and charges, there should remain any overplus, he shall pay over the same to the defendant; and the said Sheriff, or his deputy, shall make out and deliver to the said defendant an exact account, in writing, of the costs and charges of the said execution and sale; and the same shall be liable to taxation by the Master of the Supreme Court, upon application for that purpose by the said defendant; and if upon taxation, any sum shall be deducted by the Master, as having been improperly charged, the Sheriff shall refund the same to the defendant, with such costs as the Court shall think fit.

Surplus to be paid to the defendant.

Account of charge to be delivered by the Sheriff to the defendant, subject to taxation by the Master of the Supreme Court.

Ordinance of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for enabling the Registrar of Deeds to certify and enregister all such Acts, Transfers, Mortgages, and other deeds, as were heretofore certified and enregistered before two members of the Court of Justice and the Colonial Secretary.

WHEREAS heretofore in this Colony, deeds of transfer of landed property, mortgages, and other like acts and instruments, have been certified and enregistered before, and subscribed by, two members of the Court of Justice, in the presence of the Colonial Secretary, before the said deeds and instruments could be duly registered; and whereas in consequence of the abolition of the Court of Justice, the said registration can no longer be in such manner carried on: Be it therefore enacted, by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, and until further and other provision be made in this respect, all such deeds, of any and whatsoever kind, as have been heretofore certified and enregistered as aforesaid shall be certified and enregistered before and subscribed by, the Registrar of Deeds; and all such deeds so certified by the said Registrar, shall be enregistered and be and become as valid and effectual, to all intents and purposes, as if the same had been certified and enregistered before, and subscribed by, two members of the Court of Justice, in the presence of the Colonial Secretary.

Preamble.

All deeds to be certified and enregistered by the registrar of deeds.

2. And whereas the Colonial Debt Registers have heretofore been kept at the office of the Colonial Secretary, and entries made therein, from time to time, by one of the clerks of that office: Be it therefore enacted, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the said registers shall be kept by, and all entries shall be made therein by and under the direction of, the said Registrar of Deeds.

Ord. 40—1823.
Preamble.

Charter, bearing date the 24th day of August, at Westminster, in the eighth year of His Majesty's reign: Be it therefore enacted and declared, by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the manner of proceeding in criminal cases in this Colony shall be according to the rules and regulations hereinafter mentioned and set forth.

OF JURISDICTION.

All offences in the colony subject to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

1. All crimes and all offences against the law (for the commission of which any penalty or punishment is by law provided) committed by any person in this Colony, or its dependencies, are subject to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope. (1)

All offences in any circuit districts subject also to the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court for such district.

2. All crimes and offences against the law (for the commission of which any penalty or punishment is by law provided), committed by any person within any one of the districts into which this Colony has been or shall be divided by the Governor, are also subject to the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court of such district, or of any such Circuit Court held within any other district of the Colony, to which the trial of such crime or offence shall be permitted or allowed to be removed by the competent Court.

All offences not punishable by death, transportation, or banishment committed within local limits of an inferior court, subject to the jurisdiction of such inferior court.

3. (2) All crimes and offences against the law (for the commission of which any penalty or punishment is by law provided), not punishable by death, transportation, or banishment, committed by any person within the local limits within which the jurisdiction of any inferior Court erected or to be erected by the Governor of this Colony is appointed by the said Governor to be exercised, are also subject to the jurisdiction of such inferior Court.

Power of review in the Supreme Court of all proceedings of inferior courts.

4. (3) The Supreme Court has full power, jurisdiction, and authority, to review the proceedings of all inferior Courts of Justice within the Colony; and, if necessary, to set aside or correct the same.

Grounds of review:—

5. The grounds upon which it is competent to bring the proceedings of the inferior Courts under the review of the Supreme Court, are:

Incompetency of the court in respect of jurisdiction.

First. Incompetency of the Court in respect of the cause, including all excess of jurisdiction, whether committed by the judge in trying for an offence, which in respect of its nature, or magnitude, or of its having been committed out of his jurisdiction, or of its having been already tried, or forming the subject of a pending trial in any other competent Court, was not subject to his jurisdiction, or in awarding a greater punishment, than by the constitution of his Court he had power to award.

Second. Incompetency of the Court in respect of the judge himself, as that either the judge himself, or his near kinsman had an interest in the cause.

Ord. 40—1828.

Incompetency in respect of interests of the judge or his near kinsman.

Third. Malice or corruption on the part of the judge.

Malice or corruption.

Fourth. Gross irregularity in the proceedings.

Fifth. The admission of illegal or incompetent evidence. (1)

Admission of illegal evidence.

OF PROSECUTORS AND THEIR TITLE.

6. (2) The Attorney-General of the Cape of Good Hope is vested with the right, and entrusted with the duty, of prosecuting in the name and on behalf of the King, all crimes and offences committed in this Colony.

Attorney-General vested with right of prosecuting all crimes,—

7. This right of prosecution is exercised by the Attorney-General, in the Supreme Court, in person—in the Circuit and District Courts, through the medium of the Clerks of the Peace for the respective districts in which such Courts shall be held; and in the Police Court in Cape Town, through the medium of the Superintendent of Police, or his deputy, unless any other person shall have been specially appointed by the said Attorney-General to appear and act for him in any particular case, before any or either of the said superior or inferior Courts. (3)

In person in the Supreme Court,—

In Circuit and District Courts through the medium of clerks of the peace.

8. This right and power of prosecution in the Attorney-General, is absolutely under his own management and control. (4)

Power of prosecution absolutely in the Attorney-General.

9. (5) The Attorney-General has the power at any time before conviction, of stopping all prosecutions commenced by him, or by the Superintendent of Police, or by the Clerks of the Peace, at the public instance: but in the event of the defendant having been previously arraigned upon any charge, he shall be entitled to a verdict of acquittal, in respect of such charge.

Attorney-General's power of stopping prosecutions.

10. The Attorney-General has the power (except in the special case hereinafter excepted) of ordering the liberation of any person committed to gaol for further examination, or for trial; for which liberation, a writing, setting forth that the Attorney-General sees no grounds for prosecuting such person, and subscribed by him, shall be a sufficient warrant.

Power of ordering liberation of persons committed for further examination.

Proceedings by private prosecutor on such liberation by the Attorney-General.

11. (1) Where in virtue of the right of prosecution hereinafter given to private parties, any private party intends to prosecute any person, for whose liberation from gaol any warrant of the nature above mentioned may have been issued by the Attorney-General, it shall be competent for such private parties, upon entering into a recognizance for the prosecution of the said defendant in the form hereinafter set forth, to apply to the Supreme Court, or Circuit Court; or in case such Courts shall not be then actually sitting, to the Chief Justice of the Colony, or to any of the judges of the Supreme Court, for a warrant for the further detention in gaol of such person, (or in case the liberation has already taken place, for his recommittal to gaol for trial) upon which application, the said Courts, and the said Chief Justice, and other judges, shall make such order, as to them shall seem proper.

Neither acquittal nor conviction a bar to civil action for damages.

12. Neither conviction nor acquittal following on the prosecution of the Attorney-General is any bar to a civil action for damages, at the instance of any person who may have suffered any injury from the commission of any alleged crime or offence.

Private prosecution on refusal of the Attorney-General to prosecute.

13. In all cases, where the public prosecutor declines to prosecute for any alleged crime or offence, it is competent for any private party, who alleges that he has suffered injury by any such alleged crime or offence, to prosecute in any Court, competent to the trial of the same, the person alleged to have committed such crime or offence.

Private prosecutor to produce certificate of Attorney-General that he declines to prosecute at the public instance, before obtaining process of the Supreme or Circuit Court,—

14. (2) In order that no prosecution, at the instance of a private party, may take place, until the public prosecutor shall have exercised his discretion, whether he will prosecute the offender at the public instance, it shall not be competent for any private party to obtain the process of any court for summoning any party to answer to any indictment or complaint, unless the said private party shall produce to the officer, authorised by law to issue such warrant, the indictment or complaint, having endorsed thereon where the indictment is to be tried in the Supreme or Circuit Court, a certificate under the hand of, and subscribed by, the Attorney-General, that he has seen the indictment, and declines to prosecute at the public instance for the offence therein set forth; and where the indictment or complaint is to be tried in any inferior Court, a certificate under the hand of, and subscribed by, the officer who by law is entitled to prosecute at the public instance in such Court, that he has seen the said indictment or complaint, and declines to prosecute at the public instance for the offence therein set forth; and in every case, in which the Attorney-General declines to prosecute, he and the officers, through whom he exercises the right of prosecution in the inferior Courts, shall, at the request of the party intending to prosecute, grant the certificates above mentioned on every indictment submitted to them by such private party.

Or a certificate of the proper officer entitled to prosecute to the like effect before obtaining process of an inferior court.

Ord. 40—1828.

15. To support a prosecution at the private instance, the private party prosecuting must be able to show some substantial and peculiar interest in the issue of the trial, arising out of some injury, which he individually has suffered by the commission of the alleged crime or offence set forth in the indictment or complaint.

Private prosecutor must have substantial interest in the issue of the trial.

16. A husband possesses this right of prosecution in respect of crimes and offences committed against his wife.

Prosecution by husband.

17. The legal guardians of minors possess this right of prosecution in respect of crimes and offences committed against their wards.

Prosecution by guardians of minors.

18. The wife or children, or where there is no wife or child, any of the next of kin, of any deceased person, possess this right of prosecution in respect of any crime by which the death of such person is alleged to have been caused.

Prosecution by wife or children or next of kin.

19. (1) Where a person prosecuted at the instance of a private party is acquitted, the Court, in which the prosecution was brought, may adjudge the prosecutor, to pay to the party prosecuted the whole, or any part, of the expenses, which may have been occasioned to him by the prosecution.

Costs of private prosecution.

20. (2) It shall not be competent for any private party to obtain the process of the Supreme Court for summoning any party to answer to any indictment or complaint, unless such private party shall first enter into a recognizance in the sum of twenty pounds sterling, together with two sufficient sureties in ten pounds sterling, each, to be approved of by the officer issuing such process, to prosecute the said indictment or complaint to a conclusion, according to the forms of law at the time, at which the summons requires the defendant to appear.

Recognizances to be entered into by private prosecutor.

21. The right of prosecution for the crime of murder shall not be barred by any lapse of time; but the right of prosecution for any other crime or offence, whether at the instance of the public prosecutor, or of the private party injured, shall be barred by the lapse of twenty years from the time when the crime or offence was committed.

Prosecution for murder not barred by lapse of time: for other offences barred by lapse of 20 years.

OF ARREST AND PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION.

22. The Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme Court, the Judge of the Police Court in Cape Town, any Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, who has knowledge of any crime or breach of the peace, by seeing it committed, may himself arrest the offenders, or by a verbal order he may authorise others to do so, who

23. (2) The Sheriff and his deputies, Superintendent of Police and his deputy, and Field-Cornets, and all Constables, Police Officers, or other officers of the law, proper to the execution of criminal warrants, have the power of arresting, in cases of crimes or breaches of the peace committed in their presence, or of the commission of which they have credible information from others; and after taking the offender, such Sheriff or other officer shall immediately carry the offender before the nearest Magistrate, to be dealt with according to law.

24. The Chief Justice of the Colony and Judges of the Supreme Court, the Judge of Police in Cape Town, the Resident Magistrates, and all Justices of the Peace, may lawfully grant a warrant for the apprehension of any offender, on a written application, setting forth the offence alleged to have been committed, and that from information taken upon oath, there are reasonable grounds of suspicion against him, subscribed by the Attorney-General, by the Superintendent of Police, in Cape Town, or by the Clerk of the Peace of the district, or upon the information to the like effect of any person made on oath before the Judge or Magistrate granting the warrant. ⁽³⁾

25. A warrant issued by the Chief Justice, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court, has effect and may be executed anywhere in the limits of the Colony and its dependencies; warrants issued by the Judge of Police in Cape Town, Resident Magistrates, and Justices of the Peace, have effect and can be executed only within the local limits within which the jurisdiction of the said Magistrate, Judge of Police, or Justice of the Peace, is appointed to be exercised; but the Judge of Police in Cape Town, every Resident Magistrate, and every Justice of the Peace, on production to him of a warrant issued by any other Magistrate, is bound to grant his concurrence to it by an endorsement thereof, after which the warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate so endorsing it ⁽⁴⁾ of any crime or offence having been committed within his district (except it shall plainly appear to be proper for the cognizance of a court of summary jurisdiction), shall commence a preparatory examination before the Judge of Police in Cape Town, Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, within whose jurisdiction respectively such Superintendent of Police in Cape Town and his deputy, and Clerks of the Peace, are appointed to exercise their respective offices; and, for that purpose, shall immediately apply for a warrant for the apprehension of any person, who from information taken upon oath, may be reasonably suspected of having committed the said crime or offence, and for summoning those persons, whom it shall appear necessary to examine as witnesses: and in case of refusal or failure to attend after due proof of the service of such summons, a further warrant under the hand of any Magistrate, to enforce the appearance of such witnesses; or in the event of its not being known or suspected by whom the crime or offence was committed, a warrant for summoning as witnesses such persons as aforesaid: and the Superintendent of Police in Cape Town, and every Field-cornet, and every Constable, on receiving information of any crime or offence, except as in the case hereinbefore excepted, shall give immediate information thereof to the Clerk of the Peace of the district within which such Superintendent of Police, Field-cornet, or Constable, exercises his office: in order that the said Clerk of the Peace may institute or attend the preparatory examination, or give such directions concerning the conduct thereof, as to him shall seem necessary.

28. When in the course of any trial in any inferior Court, it shall appear that the crime or offence under trial is, from its nature or magnitude, only subject to the jurisdiction or more proper for the cognizance of a superior Court, then the Judge or Magistrate, before whom such inferior Court is held, shall stop the trial, and commence anew the examination of the person accused, and of the witnesses, as in a preparatory examination, and the examinations so taken shall be reported in the manner hereinafter directed as to other examinations. (1)

29. Where there is any danger that delay may defeat the ends of justice, the Judge of Police in Cape Town, any Resident Magistrate, or any Justice of the Peace, may himself commence taking the preparatory examinations; but he shall without delay give information thereof, in Cape Town and the district thereof to the Superintendent of Police or his deputy, and in any other district to the Clerk of the Peace of such district. taken, every person who can give any information on the subject of the crime or offence under investigation.

31. (1) All preparatory examinations shall be taken upon oath, and every witness before giving his evidence, shall make oath before the Magistrate by whom he is to be examined that in the whole of his deposition he will tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; and each witness shall be examined apart from the others. The depositions shall be taken down in writing in presence of the accused party, or if taken in his absence, shall be afterwards read over to him in the presence of the witnesses making the same, whom he shall be entitled to cross-examine; and such depositions shall be signed by the Magistrate, and by the witnesses; and in case of their incapacity or refusal, then the same shall be signed by two persons in whose presence the same were taken. And if any person, having been thereto summoned, shall refuse or neglect to attend, then the Magistrate shall issue a warrant to apprehend and bring him for examination; and if any witness shall obstinately refuse to give evidence, he may be committed to, and detained in prison until he shall comply. Every Magistrate before whom any preparatory examination is taken, may lawfully bind any witness, by recognizance, to appear to give evidence at the trial, upon being summoned thereto, and upon his refusing may commit and detain in prison the person so refusing until he shall comply.

32. When any person, suspected of a crime or offence, is apprehended by virtue of the warrant hereinbefore described, the officer who executes the warrant shall, with all convenient speed, carry the prisoner before the Magistrate named in the warrant; or if the warrant is general, before the nearest Magistrate within the district in which the apprehension takes place.

33. When any person suspected of a crime or offence is brought before any Magistrate for examination, such Magistrate, before commencing the examination of the witnesses, shall satisfy himself that the prisoner is in his sound and sober senses.

34. After the examination of the witnesses in support of the charge, in presence of the prisoner, or after the examinations have been read over to him, if taken in his absence, the Magistrate shall ask the said prisoner, what he will say in answer to the charge against him; and shall at the same time caution him that he is not obliged to make any statement, that may criminate himself, and that what he shall say may be used in evidence against him. The prisoner's statement shall then be taken down, in writing, in so far as the same is relevant to the charge; and the same, after being read over to him, shall be subscribed by him if he will

Ord. 40—1828.

35. When there shall appear to any Magistrate sufficient grounds for putting any person, brought before him on trial for the crime or offence of which he is accused, the Magistrate shall grant a warrant to commit him to the gaol of the district, there to be detained, till brought to trial for the said crime or till liberated in due course of law; which warrant shall clearly express the crime or offence with which the prisoner is charged. ⁽²⁾

Committal of prisoner for trial.

36. Where sufficient grounds do not appear for at once committing the prisoner for trial, or for discharging him, and there shall appear to the Magistrate probability that further evidence may be produced, the Magistrate may grant a warrant for committing him for further examination. Such re-committal for further examination may, if necessary, take place, oftener than once, upon sufficient cause appearing to the said Magistrate, which cause shall be expressed in the warrant of re-commitment; and every warrant of commitment for examination shall specify the time, when the prisoner is again to be brought before the Magistrate for examination.

Committal for further examination.

37. Until the warrant for commitment for trial is made out, no prisoner, even although the offence of which he is accused is a bailable offence, can insist on being admitted to bail; but it is in the discretion of the Magistrate to admit a prisoner accused of a bailable offence to bail, before the preparatory examinations are concluded.

Bail before conclusion of examination in the Magistrate's discretion.

38. No prisoner, under commitment for examination shall be allowed the access of his friends or legal advisers, but by the authority of a Magistrate, and under such restrictions as to him may appear requisite; but after commitment for trial, the prisoner's friends and legal advisers shall have free access to him, subject to the regulations of the Magistrate, to whom the superintendence of the prison and the safe custody of the prisoners are entrusted.

Access of friends and legal advisers by authority of Magistrate before committal. After committal, friends and legal advisers to have free access.

39. ⁽³⁾ A prisoner is not of right entitled to the assistance of a legal adviser while he is under examination.

40. It is the duty of the officer who conducts the preparatory examination to make any local inspections, which the particular circumstances of the case may render necessary; and in cases of homicide, and of serious injury to the person of any individual, to cause the dead body, or the person injured, to be examined by a regularly admitted medical man, if any such can be procured, and if not, then, by the best qualified person or persons that can be obtained, who shall draw up and subscribe a written statement of

Ord. 40—1828.

ON BAIL.

45. In every case where a person is committed for trial, he shall be entitled to demand a true copy of the warrant under the hand of the officer, bearer thereof, or the keeper of the gaol in which he is imprisoned, who shall be liable in the penalty of a sum not exceeding fifty pounds sterling, if he refuse to give it within six hours after it is demanded by the prisoner or his agent.

True copy of warrant of commitment to be furnished to prisoner, under a penalty of £50.

46. Every prisoner committed for trial in respect of crimes not capital, is entitled, as soon as the warrant of commitment for trial is made out, to be admitted to bail.

Bailable offences.

47. For this purpose it shall be competent for the prisoner, at the time of the commitment, to apply verbally to the Magistrate, or Judge granting the warrant of commitment, to be immediately liberated on bail.

Verbal application at the time of commitment to be admitted to bail.

48. At any period, subsequent to the time of commitment, it shall be competent for the prisoner, to apply, by writing, to the Magistrate or Judge who granted the warrant of commitment, or to the Resident Magistrate within whose district he is imprisoned, or to the Supreme Court, or to any of the Judges thereof, to be admitted to bail. But when the commitment is on a warrant issued by the Supreme Court, or any of the Judges thereof, it shall only be competent to apply for bail to the said Supreme Court, or one of the Judges thereof. Every such written application for bail, shall be in form of a petition, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the warrant of commitment, or affidavit that a copy is denied.

After commitment application to be made in writing, to the Magistrate who granted the warrant, or the Resident Magistrate of the district, or any judge of the Supreme Court.

In what cases only to the Supreme Court or a Judge thereof.

49. Every Magistrate to whom an application for bail is made, shall, within twenty-four hours after such application, determine whether the crime is bailable, and if so, modify the amount of the bail to be given, and failing to do so, shall be liable in the penalty of a sum not exceeding one hundred pounds sterling.

Magistrate to determine whether the offence is bailable and modify the bail in 24 hours.

50. In determining whether the crime for which the prisoner has been committed is bailable or not, the Magistrate shall, in the ordinary case, take the charge against the prisoner, as he finds it on the face of the warrant of commitment.

How Magistrate is to determine whether the offence is bailable.

51. ⁽¹⁾ The Supreme Court has power to bail, in all cases whatever, whether capital or not [where innocence may be fairly presumed, and in every case where the charge is not alleged with sufficient certainty.].

Power of Supreme Court to bail.

¹ Words in italics expunged by § 7, Act 17 of 1874.

Ord. 40—1828.

Refusal of bail from the uncertain issue of the act committed.

52. In case where a doubt may arise concerning the degree and quality of the crime, from the uncertain issue of the deed which has been done, as in the case of a wound, of which it cannot be foretold whether the sufferer shall die or recover, every Judge or Magistrate, to whom application for bail is made, may refuse to grant the same until all hazard of the life of the sufferer be at an end.

Excessive bail not to be required.

53. The amount of the bail to be taken in each case shall be at the discretion of the Judge, or Magistrate, to whom the application to be admitted to bail shall be made; provided that no person shall be required to give excessive bail.

Application of prisoner aggrieved by illegal committal to prison or refusal of bail, to the Supreme or Circuit Court, or any Judges of the Supreme Court.

54. In every case in which a prisoner considers himself aggrieved by the proceedings of the Judge of any inferior Court, or any Magistrate, in having illegally committed him to prison, or refused to admit him to bail, or in having required excessive bail, it shall be competent to such prisoner to apply to the Supreme Court, or to the Circuit Court of the district within which he is imprisoned: or in case neither of these Courts shall be then sitting, to the Chief Justice, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court, who shall make such order thereon as to them, in the circumstances of the case, shall seem just.

Condition of recognizance, that the prisoner shall appear to answer to an indictment at any time within six months, and that he will accept service at some certain place by him elected.

55. The recognizance shall be taken by the Magistrate, either from the prisoner alone, or from the prisoner and one or more sureties, at the discretion of the Magistrate, according to the nature and circumstances of the case; and the condition of such recognizance shall be, that the prisoner shall appear and answer to any indictment that shall be presented against him, in any competent Court, for the crime or offence, wherewith he is charged, at any time within the space of six months from the date thereof; and that he will accept service of any such indictment, and summons thereon, at some certain place by him elected and therein expressed.

Gaol returns to be delivered by the keepers of gaol in Cape Town to the Court at the Criminal Sessions.

56. The keepers of all the gaols within the district of Cape Town shall, under a penalty of five pounds sterling, at each session of the Supreme Court holden for the trial of criminal cases, deliver to the Court a list of all the persons confined within their respective gaols, which list shall specify the date of commitment of each prisoner, and the cause of his imprisonment, and the name of the committing Magistrate.

Returns of gaols in the country districts to be delivered to the Court at the Circuit Sessions.

57. The keepers of all the gaols within the district of each Circuit Court shall, under a penalty of five pounds sterling, at each session of each Circuit Court, deliver to the Court a list of all the persons confined within their respective gaols; which list shall specify the date of commitment of each prisoner, and the cause of his imprisonment, and the name of the committing Magistrate.

58.⁽¹⁾ In every session of the Supreme Court, holden for the trial of criminals, every prisoner who has been committed for trial within Cape Town and the Cape district, shall be brought to trial before the said Court, provided that twenty-one days have elapsed between his commitment for trial and such session, or else shall then be admitted to bail; unless it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Court, that in consequence of the absence of material evidence, or some other sufficient cause, the trial cannot then be proceeded in without defeating the ends of justice; or unless a warrant shall have been obtained from the said Court for the transmission of the prisoner to the gaol of some circuit district, in order for trial before the Circuit Court, or any inferior Court within the same. And if such prisoner is not brought to trial at the second session of the Supreme Court holden after the date of his commitment for the trial of criminals, and has not previously been tried before any inferior Court, or before the Circuit Court, in order to his trial before which a warrant for his transmission to the gaol of the district of such Circuit Court had been obtained, provided such Circuit Court to which he was transmitted for trial shall in the meantime have been holden, he shall be discharged from his imprisonment for that offence, for which he had been committed for trial.

59. Every prisoner committed for trial within any of the districts of any Circuit Court, shall be brought to trial at the first session of the Circuit Court of that district, holden after the date of the commitment; provided, thirty-one days have elapsed between the date of the commitment and the time of holding such Court, or else shall be admitted to bail; unless it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Court, that in consequence of the absence of a material evidence, or of some other sufficient cause, the trial cannot then be proceeded in without defeating the ends of justice; or unless before the close of such first session of such Circuit Court, a warrant shall have been obtained from some competent Court for his re-committal to gaol, in order to his trial elsewhere. And if such prisoner is not brought to trial at the second session of the Circuit Court of the district which shall be holden after the date of the commitment, and has not previously been tried before any other competent Court, to which he shall have been transmitted as aforesaid, he shall be discharged from his imprisonment for that offence, for which he has been committed for trial.

60. Any prisoner, by his own consent, and with the consent of the public prosecutor, may be brought to trial either before the Supreme or the Circuit Courts at any time after his commitment; notwithstanding that the periods of twenty-one days and of thirty-one days respectively shall not have expired. (2)

Ord. 40—1828.

Prisoners committed in Cape Town and Cape District to be brought to trial at the Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court, provided 21 days have elapsed from commitment.

Such prisoners not brought to trial at the second Session of the Court after commitment, entitled to discharge from imprisonment.

Prisoners committed within circuit districts to be brought to trial at the first Circuit Session, provided 31 days have elapsed from commitment.

Such prisoners not brought to trial at second Session of the Circuit Court after commitment, entitled to discharge from imprisonment.

Prisoner may by consent be brought to trial at any time after commitment.

¹ Trial may be postponed after arraignment but not after jury is sworn; § 3, Act 17 of 1874.

² Repealed by Ordinance No. 73, § 23, but re-enacted by Act 7 of 1873.

Ord. 40—1828.

Prisoner transmitted by warrant of a competent Court for trial before another competent Court, to be tried at the next session of the last-mentioned court, or to be discharged.

61. When a warrant has been obtained from any competent Court for the transmission of any prisoner for trial before any other competent Court, such prisoner shall forthwith be transmitted to the gaol of the district of such last-mentioned Court, and shall be tried at the next session of the said Court holden for the trial of criminal cases, or otherwise shall be discharged from his imprisonment for that offence for which he was transmitted for trial: provided that such session shall not be holden within twenty-one days after the transmission of such prisoner to the gaol aforesaid.

Persons discharged from gaol by reason of non-trial not to be re-committed for the same offence.

62. No person who has been once discharged from gaol, in consequence of not being brought to trial within the period hereinbefore prescribed, shall be subject to be re-committed to gaol, either for examination or for trial, for the same offence. ⁽¹⁾

Persons admitted to bail and not duly brought to trial, not required to find further bail.

63. No person who has been admitted to bail, and who has not been duly brought to trial, shall be obliged to find further bail, or shall be subject to be committed to gaol, either for examination or trial, for the same offence, in respect of which he was formerly admitted to bail.

Discharge from imprisonment or expiration of recognizance, no bar to trial.

64. Neither any such discharge from imprisonment, nor the expiration of the recognizance, shall be any bar to any person being brought to trial in any competent Court for any offence for which he was formerly committed to gaol or admitted to bail.

Liberation of prisoners by Supreme and Circuit Courts.

65. The Supreme Court and Circuit Courts shall, at the close of each of their said sessions, discharge all such prisoners, as by law shall then be entitled to liberation.

Penalties in this Ordinance recoverable at the instance of public prosecutor or of aggrieved party, without prejudice to civil actions.

66. All the penalties hereinbefore provided, shall be recoverable before the Supreme Court or Circuit Court within the district of which such penalties shall be incurred, at the instance either of the public prosecutor or of the party aggrieved, without prejudice to the right of the prisoner to insist also for damages against the person, incurring such penalties, in a civil action before any competent Court.

FORM OF PROCESS IN THE SUPREME COURT AND CIRCUIT COURTS.

Form of procedure to be in accordance with rules of the Supreme Court.

67. The form and manner of proceeding in the trial of crimes to be observed in the Supreme Court, and Circuit Courts respectively, shall in pursuance of His Majesty's charter be according to the rules, orders, and regulations framed, constituted, and established by the said Supreme Court.

Ordinance for regulating the Payment of the Expenses of Witnesses attending to give Evidence on Criminal Trials and Preparatory Examinations. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient and necessary that regulations should be made for the payment of the expenses of witnesses attending to give evidence in criminal cases: Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, expenses shall be allowed to witnesses summoned at the instance of the Public Prosecutor, and who have duly appeared, in compliance with the summons, at any criminal trial, holden before the Supreme or Circuit Courts, or Resident Magistrates' Courts, or at any preparatory examination taken before a Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, unless such Court shall, for sufficient cause, disallow the expenses of any witnesses.

2. And be it further enacted that expenses shall also be allowed to necessary witnesses summoned at the instance of the prisoner or party accused, and appearing as hereinbefore mentioned, upon a certificate of the Magistrate who presides, or of the Registrar of the Court, under the direction of the Judge, that the prisoner or accused party is unable, from poverty, to pay such expenses; or that, by reason of his full acquittal, such expenses ought to be allowed; and that the witnesses were or might have been necessary for the defence.

Preamble

Allowance of expenses to witness summoned on behalf of the prosecution.

3. And be it further enacted that the expenses to be allowed to witnesses, for subsistence and travelling to and from the Court, or other place to which they shall be summoned, and during the necessary attendance, these shall in no case exceed four shillings and sixpence per diem of six hours if the witnesses have travelled in a carriage or on horseback, and one shilling and sixpence per diem of six hours if on foot; and in cases where a witness resides within five miles of the place to which he is summoned, the expenses to be allowed shall not exceed one shilling and sixpence per diem; and in cases where a witness shall reside within one mile of such place where any preparatory examination is taken, no expenses shall be allowed for attending such examination.

Bills of expenses on criminal trials, how made out and certified.

4. And be it further enacted, that the Clerk of the Peace shall, on all criminal trials at the instance of the Public Prosecutor, make out bills of expenses for the witnesses in each case, one of which bills shall be for the witnesses summoned and appearing on the part of the Public Prosecutor, and the other for the witnesses summoned and appearing for the accused party, in cases where such certificates have been obtained as aforesaid, each of which bills shall be made out in duplicate, and the Clerk of the Peace shall certify that the distance and time charged in the said bills are correct, and submit them to the Magistrate or Registrar of the Court before which the trial has been holden, who shall, unless the Court or Magistrate disallow to any witness his expenses on account of improper conduct, insert the rate of allowances (in no case exceeding the rate hereinbefore set forth), and the sum due to each witness, and shall certify the amount of each several bill of expenses so allowed. ⁽¹⁾

Bills of expenses in preparatory examinations, how made out and certified.

Payment by cheque on the civil commissioner.

6. And be it further enacted that the Clerk of the Peace, or in his absence the presiding Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, shall, on a bill being so prepared, certified, and allowed, and on the witness signing on the said bill a receipt for the sum due to him for his expenses, make out, sign, and deliver to each witness a cheque on the Civil Commissioner of the district within which the trial or examination took place for the amount due to him; and shall further transmit every bill, so signed forthwith, to the said Civil Commissioner, who shall make payment of the amount of every cheque so drawn on him, to the holder thereof, if presented for payment within three calendar months after its date, and not

[March 1, 1830.

Ordinance for altering, amending, and declaring in certain respects, the Law of Evidence within this Colony. (2)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to alter, amend, and declare, in certain respects, the law of evidence within this Colony: Be it therefore enacted and declared by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance no person shall be excluded from being sworn as a witness or from giving evidence in any Court within this Colony, except in respect of a legal objection to his competency made, and appearing, to such Court to be valid.

No person to be excluded from giving evidence, except on a legal objection held valid.

The court to decide on admissibility of evidence.

The jury to determine effect of evidence admitted.

2. And be it further enacted and declared that it shall be competent for the Court alone in which any case may be depending to decide upon all questions concerning the competency of any witness or the admissibility of any evidence; and that in all cases which shall and may lawfully be tried by a jury it shall be competent for such jury alone to determine as to the effect of any evidence admitted by the Court, and as to the degree of credit to be attached thereto.

¹ See note to § 6, Ord. 59.

² See Ordinance 14—1846, Acts 4, 1861, 3, 1864, § 12, 17, 1874, §§ 4, 5 and 8, 21, 1877, 13, 1886, §§ 6, 7 and 8, 18, 1891. Under various Statutes certified extracts from or copies of documents, &c., are admissible. See Alphabetical Index under "Evidence."

3. And be it further enacted and declared, that no person appearing, or proved to be afflicted, with idiocy, lunacy, or insanity, or labouring under any imbecility of mind arising from intoxication or otherwise whereby he is deprived of the proper use of reason, shall in any case be competent to give evidence while under the influence of any such malady or disability.

Ord. 72—1850.
Incompetency from insanity and intoxication.

4. And be it further enacted and declared, that no child shall in any case be excluded from being sworn as a witness, or be deemed incompetent to give evidence in respect of age, provided such child understands the nature and recognizes the religious obligation of an oath: And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall not be competent to examine any child as a witness except upon oath; and that when any child cannot be sworn in consequence of want of sufficient understanding, it shall not in any case be competent to admit in evidence any account or statement which such child may have given or made to any other person as the evidence of such child on the subject-matter of such account or statement. (1)

Children who understand the obligation of an oath competent.

Children to be examined on oath.

5. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall not, in any case, be competent to examine any person as a witness except upon oath, or to administer an oath to any person as a witness who does not understand the nature and recognize the religious obligation of an oath: (1) Provided, always, that no person who understands the nature and recognizes the religious obligation of an oath shall in any case be excluded from being sworn as a witness on account of the religious tenets professed by such person. (2)

Witnesses to be examined on oath.

6. And be it further enacted and declared that in all cases the oath to be administered to any person as a witness shall be administered in the form which shall most clearly convey to him the meaning of the oath and which he shall consider to be binding on his conscience.

Form of oath.

7. [Repealed by Act No. 18, 1891.]

8. [Superseded by § 2 Ord. 14 of 1846.]

9. And be it further enacted and declared, that no person shall in any criminal case, be incompetent to give evidence, in respect of having been an accomplice, either as principal or accessory, in the commission of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial in such case.

Competency of accomplices.

10. And be it further enacted and declared that where any person who has been an accomplice either as principal or accessory in the commission of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial, shall in any case be produced as a witness by and on the part of the prosecutor, shall submit to be sworn as a witness, and shall fully answer

Freedom from liability to prosecution of accomplices giving evidence.

² § 32 of the Charter of Justice provides that in all criminal cases the witnesses shall deliver their evidence viva voce and in open Court.

Ord. 72—1830.

Accomplice entitled to require from prosecutor a writing under his hand discharging such accomplice from liability to prosecution.

to the satisfaction of the Court all such lawful questions as shall be put to him while under examination, such person shall thereby be absolutely freed and discharged from all liability to prosecution for any such crime or offence, either at the instance of the public prosecutor or of any private party where he has been produced as a witness by and on the part of the public prosecutor, or where he has been produced as a witness by and on the part of any private prosecutor, from all prosecution for such crime or offence at the instance of such private prosecutor. And it shall and may be lawful for the said Court, thereupon to cause such discharge to be duly entered on the record of the proceedings in such trial: Provided always, that no such accomplice, produced as a witness by and on the part of any private prosecutor, shall in any case be bound, or legally compellable, to answer any question whereby he may criminate himself in respect of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial, unless there shall be produced to him, and put on record where the case is tried in the Supreme or any Circuit Court, a writing under the hand of the Attorney-General, and in any inferior Court a writing under the hand of the officer who by law is entitled to prosecute at the public instance in such Court, discharging such accomplice from all liability to prosecution at the instance of the public prosecutor for such crime or offence.

Evidence of accomplice not to be used against him, if he should thereafter be tried for the offence.

11. And be it further enacted and declared, that where any such accomplice as aforesaid in any crime or offence charged in any indictment, information, or complaint, shall have been produced as a witness; by and on the part of the public prosecutor or of any private prosecutor (by whom there shall have been obtained from the Attorney-General, or other officer as aforesaid, a written discharge of such accomplice from a liability to prosecution as aforesaid), and shall have given evidence at the trial of such indictment, information, or complaint, it shall not be competent to give in evidence against such accomplice, if he shall thereafter be tried for such crime or offence, any part of the testimony which shall have been so given by him at the said trial as aforesaid: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to free or exempt any such accomplice who shall be guilty of prevarication, or who shall be convicted of having committed wilful and corrupt perjury, while under examination as a witness in any such trial as aforesaid, from any pains, penalties, or forfeitures to which persons guilty of prevarication, or convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury, are or shall be liable by any Law or Ordinance of this Colony; or to render incompetent or inadmissible any evidence which would otherwise be competent and admissible in the trial of such accomplice on a charge of having been guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury on his examination as a witness in any such trial as aforesaid.

But accomplice is notwithstanding liable to penalties of prevarication and perjury,—and evidence on charge of perjury not affected.

12. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful and competent for any Court or jury in any case which shall and may be lawfully tried by such Court or jury respectively, to convict any person who shall be so tried before any such Court or jury, of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial on the single evidence of any such accomplice as aforesaid: Provided always, that such crime or offence shall by competent evidence other than the single and unconfirmed evidence of such accomplice be proved to the satisfaction of such Court or jury respectively to have been actually committed.

Ord. 72—1830.

Conviction on single evidence of accomplice, provided the crime be proved altunde.

13. And be it further enacted and declared, that no person shall in any case be incompetent to give evidence in respect of any relation, either by consanguinity or affinity subsisting between such person and the person for or against whom he shall be produced to give evidence.

Competency notwithstanding consanguinity or affinity.

14. (1) And be it further enacted and declared, that no person shall in any case be competent or admitted to give evidence for or against the husband or wife of such person, or to give evidence in any case in which the husband or wife of such person shall be tried for any crime or offence together with any other person.

Incompetency of husband for or against wife, and of wife for or against husband.

15. Provided always, and be it further enacted and declared, that no husband or wife shall by reason of their marriage be incompetent to give evidence in any case in which either of them shall be prosecuted for any offence committed against the person of the other.

Except in offences by either against the other's person.

16. And be it further enacted and declared, that in all cases of prosecution for bigamy, no person, after proof of the first marriage of the person so prosecuted, shall be incompetent to give evidence by reason of any marriage contracted between the witness and the said party so prosecuted during the continuance of the said first marriage.

Competency in prosecution for bigamy, after proof of first marriage, of person married to prisoner, during its subsistence.

17. And be it further enacted and declared, that no person shall in any case be bound, or be legally compellable, to answer any question, or to give any evidence, which question or evidence the husband or wife of such person, if under examination as a witness in such case, might lawfully refuse, and could not legally be compelled to answer or give.

No witness compellable to answer questions which the witness's husband or wife might decline.

18. And be it further enacted and declared, that in every case in which any person shall, by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, be incompetent to give evidence by reason of the interest which such person may have in the event of such case, the husband or wife of such person shall in like manner be incompetent to give evidence in such case.

A witness incompetent where the husband or wife of such witness would be incompetent.

¹ As to §§ 14-19, see §§ 2, 3 and 4 of Act 4 of 1861, and §§ 6 and 7, Act 13 of 1886.

Ord. 72—1830.

Husband and wife incompetent after divorce as to matters occurring during the subsistence of the marriage, as to which they would have been incompetent during the marriage.

19. And be it further enacted and declared, that no husband or wife, after the dissolution of their marriage for adultery, or any other lawful cause, shall in any case be competent, or admitted, or bound, or legally compellable to give evidence, as to any matter or thing which occurred during the subsistence of their said marriage, and as to which such husband or wife would not have been competent, or admitted, or bound, or legally compellable to give evidence, if their said marriage had still continued to subsist at the time when such case is tried.

20. Repealed by § 3 Ord. 14 of 1846.

Competency of informers.

21. Provided always, and be it further enacted and declared, that no person shall be incompetent to give evidence in any case by reason that by virtue of any Law or Ordinance now in force or which shall hereafter be made, or of any proclamation which has been or shall be lawfully made by any competent authority within this Colony, or any other part of the British dominions; or of any offer or promise made by any private party, such person shall or may in consequence of any information which he may have given respecting such case, or of any conviction which may be obtained in such case, acquire right or become entitled to the whole or any part of any penalty, forfeiture, or reward; or to any indemnity against, or discharge or privilege, from prosecution for any crime, offence, or act, committed or done by such person.

22. Superseded by § 3, Ord. 14 of 1846 and § 2, Act 4, of 1861.

23. Superseded by § 3, Ord. 14 of 1846 and § 2, Act 4, of 1861.

24. Superseded by § 5 Ord, 14, 1846 and § 2, Act 4, 1861.

Privilege of professional advisers.

25. And be it further enacted and declared, that no advocate, barrister, attorney, solicitor, or proctor duly admitted to practise in any Court within this Colony, or elsewhere, shall in any case be competent or legally compellable to give evidence against any person by whom he has been professionally employed or consulted, without the consent of such person, as to any fact, matter, or thing as to which such advocate, barrister, attorney, solicitor, or proctor by reason of such employment or consultation, and without such consent, would not be competent or legally compellable to give evidence in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster: Provided always, that no such advocate, barrister, attorney, solicitor, or proctor, shall in any case by reason of any such employment or consultation be incompetent or not legally compellable to give evidence as to any fact, matter, or thing relative to or connected with the commission of any crime or offence for which the person by whom such advocate, barrister, attorney, solicitor, or proctor has been so employed or consulted is in such case prosecuted; and which fact, matter, or thing has come to the knowledge of such advocate, barrister, attorney, solicitor, or proctor before he shall have been pro-professionally employed or consulted for or with reference to the defence of such person against such prosecution.

Ord. 72—1880.

26. Superseded by § 4, Ord. 14 of 1846 and § 2, Act 4 of 1861.

27. (1) Provided always, and be it further enacted and declared, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to take away the right of either party to any suit, of referring the matter in dispute therein to the oath of the other party to the said suit, or to take away from any Court within this Colony the power of taking or requiring from either party the supplemental oath of such party when the same may by law be offered, taken, or required; or to take away the power of any Court to examine on oath the parties to any suit, or either of them, in any case where such power has or may hereafter be given to such Court by any Law or Ordinance.

Reference to oath of opposite party.

Supplemental oath.

Judicial imposition of oath.

28. And be it further enacted and declared, that any confession of the commission of any crime or offence, which shall be proved by competent evidence to have been made by any person, accused of such crime or offence, whether before or after his apprehension, whether on a judicial examination or after commitment, and whether reduced into writing or not, shall in every case be admissible evidence against such person; Provided always, that such confession shall be proved to have been freely and voluntarily made by such person, in his sound and sober senses, and without having been unduly influenced thereby; and provided also, that when such confession shall have been made on a judicial examination before any Magistrate on any criminal charge, such person shall previously, according to law, have been cautioned by the said Magistrate, that he is not obliged, in answer to the charge against him, to make any statement which may criminate himself, and that what he shall then say may be used in evidence against him: (2) Provided always, and be it further enacted and declared, that no confession made on oath, and that no deposition made by any person, on any judicial examination, under the provisions of the sixty-first or sixty-fourth sections of the Ordinance No. 64 (3) shall be admissible evidence in any prosecution of such person, for any crime or offence other than perjury committed by him on such examination.

Admissibility of confessions by accused.

if freely and voluntarily made without undue influence:

and, if judicial, after due caution.

29. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall be lawful and competent for any Court or jury by which any person prosecuted for any crime or offence, shall and may lawfully be tried, respectively, to convict such person of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial, in respect and by reason of any such confession of the commission of such crime or offence, which shall be proved to the satisfaction of such Court or jury, respectively, to have been made as aforesaid, although not confirmed by any other evidence: Provided always, that such crime or offence shall by competent evidence other than the single and unconfirmed evidence of such confession be proved to the satisfaction of such Court or jury, respectively, to have been actually committed.

Conviction on confession,—if the crime have been proved aliunde.

Admissibility of facts discovered by means of inadmissible confession.

30. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall in every case be competent to admit evidence of any fact, otherwise admissible in evidence, notwithstanding that such fact has been discovered and come to the knowledge of the witness who shall give evidence respecting it only in consequence of information given by the person under trial, in any confession or deposition which by law shall not be admissible in evidence against him in such trial.

Confession not admissible against other persons.

31. And be it further enacted and declared, that no confession which may be made by any person shall in any case be admissible as evidence against any other person.

32. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful for the Court by which any civil suit shall be tried to find on any issue of fact, and in respect of such finding to give judgment for or against any party to such suit, on the evidence of any single, competent, and credible witness.

Sufficiency of one witness in criminal cases.

33. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall be competent for the Court or jury, by which any person prosecuted for any crime or offence, shall and may lawfully be tried, except in so far as has been or shall be herein excepted, enacted, and declared, respectively, to convict such person of any crime or offence charged in the indictment, information, or complaint under trial on the single evidence of any competent and credible witness: Provided always that it shall not be competent for any such Court or jury to convict any person of the crime of perjury on the evidence of any one witness, except in addition to and independent of the testimony of such witness some other competent and credible evidence as to the guilt of such person shall be given to such Court or jury.

Except in prosecutions for perjury.

Inadmissibility of irrelevant evidence.

34. And be it further enacted and declared, that no evidence as to any fact, matter, or thing shall in any case be admissible which is irrelevant or immaterial and cannot conduce to prove or to disprove any point or fact in issue in such case.

Evidence of character when admissible.

35. And be it further enacted and declared, that no evidence as to the character of any of the parties to any case, civil or criminal, or as to the character of any woman on whose person any rape or assault with intent to commit a rape, shall in any prosecution for rape or for assault with intent to commit a rape, be charged to have been committed, shall in any such case be admissible or inadmissible which would be inadmissible or admissible in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster.

36. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall not be necessary for any party in any case to give evidence to prove, or competent for any such party to give evidence to disprove, any fact or point admitted on the record of such case.

Ord. 72—1830.

Admission of facts or points in issue on the record.

37. And be it further enacted and declared, that every party on whom in any case it shall be incumbent to prove any fact, matter, or thing, shall be bound to give the best evidence of which from its nature such fact, matter, or thing shall be capable; and that no evidence as to any such fact, matter, or thing, shall be admissible in any case in which it was in the power of the party who proposes to give such evidence to produce, or cause to be produced, better evidence as to such fact, matter, or thing, except by consent of the adverse party to the suit, or when such adverse party shall by law be precluded from disputing any such fact, matter or thing, by reason of any admission proved to have been made by such party.

Necessity of best evidence of fact to be proved :

unless waived by consent or admission of opposite party.

38. And be it further enacted and declared, that any evidence which would be admissible, and if credible, would be deemed in any case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster to be in law sufficient proof of the appointment of any person to any public office, or of the authority of any person to act as a public officer, shall be admissible, and if credible shall be deemed to be in law sufficient proof of such appointment or authority.

Proof of appointment to public office.

39. And be it further enacted and declared, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to affect, alter, or repeal any Law or Ordinance now in force within this Colony, respecting the proof of any record, act, deed, instrument, or writing, or the effect thereof, or of any copy or extract thereof, as evidence. (1)

Proof of records and instruments in writing.

40. And be it further enacted and declared, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to prevent the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, from allowing the deposition of any witness, who, by virtue of any rule or order of such Court, has been examined de bene esse, to be admitted as evidence at the trial of any civil case in which such rule or order shall have been made.

Examination of witnesses de bene esse.

41. And be it further enacted and declared, that the deposition of any witness taken upon oath, before any Magistrate, in the manner directed and required by the thirty-first section of the Ordinance No. 40, in the presence of any person who has been brought before such Magistrate, on a charge of having committed any crime or offence, shall be admissible in evidence on the trial of such person for such crime or offence; provided it shall be proved on oath, to the satisfaction of the Court, that the informant is dead (2); or that he has been kept away from the trial, by the means and contrivance of the prisoner, and that the deposition offered in evidence is the same which was sworn before the Magistrate without any alteration.

Admissibility, in criminal cases, of deposition at preparatory examination of witness since deceased, or kept away by the contrivance of the prisoner.

Admissibility, in civil cases, of testimony of absent or deceased witness.

42. And be it further enacted and declared, that the testimony of a deceased or absent witness, who has been examined on oath, on the trial of any former civil action, between the same parties shall be admissible in every case in which, and may be proved and given in evidence in the same manner in which, the testimony of such deceased or absent witness would be admissible, and might be proved and given in evidence in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster.

Admissibility of dying declarations.

43. And be it further enacted and declared, that the declaration made by any deceased person under the apprehension of death shall be admissible in evidence in every case, and shall not be admissible in evidence in any case, in which such declaration would be admissible or inadmissible in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster.

Hear-say evidence.

44. And be it further enacted and declared, that no evidence which is of the nature of hear-say evidence shall be admissible in any case in which such evidence would be inadmissible in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster.

Witness excused from answering questions, the answers to which would expose him to penalties, or degrade his character.

45. And be it further enacted and declared, that every witness may refuse, and shall not be legally compellable, to answer any question, which such witness, if he were under examination in any similar case depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster, might refuse and would not be legally compellable to answer by reason that the answer of such witness might have a tendency to expose him to any pains, penalty, punishment, or forfeiture, or to a criminal charge, or to degrade the character of such witness. (1)

Witness not excused from answering question by reason that the answer would establish a civil claim against.

46. And be it further enacted and declared, that a witness cannot by law refuse to answer a question relevant to the matter at issue, the answering of which has no tendency to accuse himself, or to expose him to penalty or forfeiture of any nature whatsoever, by reason only or on the sole ground that the answering of such question may establish, or tend to establish, that he owes a debt, or is otherwise subject to a civil suit, either at the instance of His Majesty, or of any other person or persons.

Privilege from disclosure of facts on the ground of public policy, or from regard to the public interest.

47. And be it further enacted and declared, that no witness shall in any case be legally compellable or permitted to give evidence as to any fact, matter, or thing, or as to any communication made to or by such witness, as to which, if the case were depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster, such witness would not be legally compellable or permitted to give evidence, by reason that such fact, matter, or thing, or communication, on a principle of public policy, and from regard to public interest, ought not to be disclosed, and is privileged from disclosure.

48. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall in every case be competent for any party to impeach or support the credibility of any witness produced against or for such party, in any manner and by any evidence in and by which, if the case were depending in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster the credibility of such witness might be impeached or supported by such person, and in no other manner and by no other evidence whatever.

49. And be it further enacted and declared, that in every case in which any person shall be prosecuted within this Colony for the crime of treason, or misprision of treason, no witness shall be competent, nor any evidence admissible or sufficient to convict the person so prosecuted, who would not be competent or which would not be admissible or sufficient to convict such person, if prosecuted for any such crime in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster; and that in every such case every witness shall be competent, and any evidence shall be admissible and sufficient to convict any person so prosecuted as aforesaid, who would be competent, or which would be admissible and sufficient to convict, if such person were prosecuted as aforesaid in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster.

50. And be it further enacted and declared, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, every law, ordinance, custom, usage, and practice heretofore in force within this Colony by reason whereof any witness herein enacted and declared to be competent, and any evidence herein enacted and declared to be admissible or sufficient, was heretofore deemed to be incompetent, inadmissible, or insufficient, or by reason of which any witness herein enacted and declared to be incompetent, and any evidence herein enacted and declared to be inadmissible or insufficient, was heretofore deemed competent, admissible, or sufficient, shall be, and the same are hereby repealed, and declared to be of no force or effect: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to affect, alter or repeal any of the provisions and enactments of the Ordinances Nos. 19, 21, 32, 33, 38, 39, 44, 49, 50, 57, 60, 63, 64, 68.

Ordinance for explaining, altering, and amending the Ordinance No. 40. (1)

Offences committed within two miles of the boundaries of two or more districts may be tried in any of such districts.

WHEREAS it is expedient, in certain respects to explain, alter, and amend the Ordinance No. 40: Be it therefore enacted and declared by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that where any crime or offence shall be committed on the boundary or boundaries of two or more districts, or within the distance of two miles of any such boundary or boundaries, or shall be begun in one district, and completed in another, every such crime or offence may be dealt with, inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in any of the said districts, in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed therein (2)

Offences committed in or upon carriages employed in a journey, or on board of a vessel on any river in or forming a boundary of the Colony may be tried in any district within two miles of the boundary of which such carriage or vessel may have passed.

2. (2) And be it further enacted and declared, that, where any crime or offence shall be committed on any person, or on or in respect of any property in or upon any coach, wagon, cart, or other carriage whatever, employed in any journey, or on board any vessel whatever, employed on any voyage or journey upon any river within, or forming the boundary of, any part of this Colony, such crime or offence may be dealt with, inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in any district, through any part whereof or on, or within the distance of two miles of the boundary whereof, such coach, wagon, cart, or carriage, or vessel, shall have passed in the course of the journey or voyage, during which such crime or offence shall have been committed, in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed in such district.

Review on the ground of rejection of evidence.

3. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall be competent for any person, aggrieved by the proceedings of any inferior Court in any case, to bring the same under the review of the Supreme Court, on the ground that such inferior Court has, upon the trial of such case, rejected legal and competent evidence (3)

Clerks of the Peace under control of Attorney-General.

4. Ordinances Nos. 40 and 48, ⁽¹⁾ whereby the Superintendent of Police of Cape Town, or his deputy, are authorised or required to take any preparatory examination, or to prosecute at the public instance, for any crime or offence, and whereby any Magistrate is required to transmit any preparatory examination to the Superintendent of Police, or his deputy, shall be, and the same are hereby repealed; and that hereafter, the Clerk of the Peace for the Cape district, or some one of the clerks in the office of the said Clerk of the Peace, appointed for that purpose by the Attorney-General, shall be hereby authorised and required to take all such preparatory examinations, and to conduct all such prosecutions at the public instance, as the said Superintendent of Police and his deputy, were heretofore authorised or required to take or to conduct.

Ord. 73—1830.

All such examinations to be taken by Clerk of the Peace.

6. ⁽²⁾ And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall be competent for any private person to prosecute summarily by complaint in any competent inferior Court, for any crime or offence for which such person shall be entitled so to prosecute, although such party shall not have previously applied for and obtained the certificate directed and required by the provisions of the fourteenth section of the Ordinance No. 40, anything to the contrary therein contained notwithstanding.

Summary prosecution by private person without the certificate required by section 14 of Ordinance No. 40.

7. And be it further enacted and declared, that where, in the course of the proceedings in any summary prosecution as aforesaid it shall appear that the crime or offence complained of, is, from its nature or magnitude, one which ought not to be permitted to be prosecuted at the instance of the private party, until the prosecutor shall have exercised his discretion, whether he will prosecute the offender at the public instance, the Judge or Magistrate shall stop all further proceedings in such case, until the party prosecuting shall produce to such Judge or Magistrate, a certificate in the form and to the effect directed and required by the provisions of the fourteenth section of the Ordinance No. 40: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to affect, alter, or repeal any provision or enactment of the twenty-eighth section of Ordinance No. 40.

Power of magistrate to stop such summary prosecution, and necessity for the production of certificate in cases of magnitude.

8. ⁽³⁾ And be it further enacted and declared, that in every case of any such summary prosecution as aforesaid, it shall be lawful and competent for the Attorney-General, or other officer who by law is entitled to prosecute at the public instance, in such Court, at any stage of the prosecution, to appear in Court, and take up the prosecution of such complaint at the public instance, and thereafter to conduct the proceedings in such case as if the prosecution had been originally at the public instance; or to apply by motion to the Judge or Magistrate to stop all further proceedings in such case, in order that a prosecution for the same crime or offence may be instituted at the public instance in some other form or Court; or until such certificate aforesaid, shall be granted to the private party prosecuting in such case, and by him be produced to such Judge or Magistrate; and such Judge or Magistrate shall, in every such case be bound to make an order in the terms of such motion.

Warrants of apprehension by Judges, Resident Magistrates and Justices of the Peace.

9. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful for the Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme Court, the Judge of Police of Cape Town, or any Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, to grant warrant for the apprehension of any person, on a written application, setting forth the offence alleged to have been committed, and that, from information taken upon oath, there are reasonable grounds of suspicion against the person for whose arrest the warrant is sought, subscribed by the Attorney-General, by the Superintendent of Police of Cape Town, or by the Clerk of the Peace of the district; or upon the information, to the like effect, of any person, made on oath before the Judge or Magistrate granting the warrant: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, to grant any such warrant, except when the offence charged has been committed within the jurisdiction of such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, or except when the person, against whom the warrant is issued, shall at the time when such warrant is so issued, be known or suspected on reasonable grounds, to be within the jurisdiction of the Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace issuing such warrant. ⁽¹⁾

Execution of warrants.

10. And be it further enacted and declared, that every officer of the law within this Colony, proper for the execution of criminal warrants, shall be hereby authorised and required, to obey and execute every such warrant issued by the Chief Justice, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court; and every such officer of the law, shall be hereby authorised and required, to obey and execute every such warrant issued or endorsed by the Resident Magistrate, or any Justice of the Peace of the district in which such officer of the law has been appointed to act; and every criminal warrant issued by the Chief Justice, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court, or any Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, shall have effect, and may lawfully be executed anywhere within the limits of the Colony, or its dependencies, by any officer of the law, or by any private person to whom it shall be directed, anything contained in the Ordinances Nos. 32, 33, ⁽²⁾ 40, 44, to the contrary notwithstanding. ⁽³⁾

Arrest and verbal order to arrest, for offences committed in the presence of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace.

11. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful for the Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme Court, the Judge of Police of Cape Town, or any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, who has knowledge of any crime, or breach of the peace, by seeing it committed, himself, to arrest the offender, or by a verbal order to authorise others so to do, who shall be authorised and required to follow such offender, and to execute the said order on him, out of the presence of such Judge or Magistrate, if he fly. (1)

Ord. 73—1830.

12. And be it further enacted and declared, that the Sheriff, and his deputies, the Superintendent of Police, and his deputies, and all Field-cornets and constables, police officers, and other officers of the law, proper for the execution of criminal warrants, shall be hereby authorised and required, to arrest every person, who shall commit any crime or breach of the peace, in their presence; as also every person whom they shall have reasonable grounds to suspect of having committed any murder, culpable homicide, rape, robbery, or assault with intent to commit any of those crimes, or in which a dangerous wound is given, arson, house-breaking with intent to commit any crime, or theft of any cattle, sheep, or goat, or any other crime of equal degree of guilt with any of the crimes aforesaid; as also every person whom they shall see engaged in committing any affray, or whom they shall find attempting to commit a crime, or clearly manifesting an intention so to do. (2)

Arrest by Sheriff, police officers and Field-cornets for offences committed in their presence, and on reasonable grounds of suspicion as to certain offences.

13. And be it further enacted and declared, that every private person when called upon by any officer of the law shall be hereby authorised and required to assist such officer in making any arrest which by law such officer is authorised to make of any person charged with or suspected of the commission of any crime or offence. (3)

Assistance by private person called on by officers of the law.

14. And be it further enacted and declared, that every private person in whose presence any murder, culpable homicide, rape, robbery, or assault with intent to commit any of those crimes, or in which a dangerous wound is given, arson, housebreaking with intent to commit any crime, or theft of any cattle, sheep, or goat, or other crime of equal degree of guilt with any of the crimes aforesaid, is committed or attempted to be committed, or who has knowledge that any such crime has been recently committed, shall be hereby authorised and required, to arrest, or forthwith to pursue the offenders; and every other private person, to whom the purpose of such pursuit shall be made known, shall be hereby authorised and required, to join and assist in the same. And every private person, who, on such pursuit being made, shall come up with any person having the property, which has been stolen, in his possession, or with any person whose traces have conducted his pursuers from the place where the crime was committed to the place where he shall be overtaken, shall be hereby authorised and required to arrest such person, so having such stolen property in his possession or so being, traced as aforesaid.

Arrest by private person, in certain crimes, on reasonable suspicion, but at his own peril.

15. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful for any private person to arrest any other person, upon reasonable suspicion that he has committed any of the crimes specified in the fourteenth section of this Ordinance, or any other crime of an equal degree of guilt; but every arrest, or attempt to arrest, made by any private person, upon suspicion, shall be made at his own peril, if the party so arrested, or attempted to be arrested, be innocent.

Arrest by private person in case of an affray.

16. And be it further enacted and declared, that every private person shall be hereby authorised and required, to lay hold of any person, whom he may see engaged in committing an affray, in order to prevent such person from continuing the affray, and to suppress the same.

In what circumstances the killing of any officer or private person in such cases of arrest shall be murder and in what cases culpable homicide.

17. And be it further enacted and declared, that every person who, knowing the purpose for which any officer of the law or private person is acting, shall kill any such officer or person, while attempting to make or assisting in making any arrest, or while interfering in order to suppress any affray, which, in virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, such officer or person is authorised and required to make, or to assist to make, or to suppress, shall be deemed in law, to be guilty of the crime of murder; and that every person, who shall kill any private person, while attempting to make any arrest, under the circumstances set forth in the fourteenth section of this Ordinance, knowing the purpose for which such private person so killed was acting, shall be deemed, in law, to be guilty of the crime of murder, if he have committed, or of the crime of culpable homicide, if he be innocent of the crime, on suspicion of which the person so killed attempted to arrest him; and that every person, who shall kill any private person, while attempting to make any arrest, under the circumstances set forth in the fourteenth section of this Ordinance, being ignorant of the purpose for which the person, so killed, was acting, shall be deemed, in law, to be guilty of the crime of culpable homicide, if he have committed the crime, on suspicion of which the person so killed attempted to arrest him; and that every person, who shall kill any such officer or private person, while attempting to make or assisting in making any arrest, which, in virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, such officer or person is authorised and required to make, or to assist to make, being ignorant of the purpose for which such officer or private person, so killed, was acting, shall be deemed, in law, to be guilty of the crime of culpable homicide; and that every person, who shall kill any such officer or private person, while attempting to make an arrest, in virtue of any warrant hereinbefore mentioned, which, by reason of the informality thereof, shall not be, in law, sufficient to authorise the arrest of the person who shall kill such officer or private person, shall be deemed, in law, to be guilty of the crime of culpable homicide, whether he shall know or be ignorant of the purpose for which such officer or private person was acting.

Ord. 73—1830.

18. And be it further enacted and declared, that, on the trial of any person for homicide, committed in resisting any arrest, nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to deprive any fact or circumstance (other than those, the legal effect of which is hereinbefore specially provided for and declared), under which such homicide shall have been proved to have been committed, of the effect, either in exculpating such person, or in mitigating or aggravating his guilt, which, by law, such fact or circumstance would have had previously to the passing of this Ordinance.

In such cases of homicide all other facts or circumstances proved to have their ordinary legal effect.

19. And be it further enacted and declared, that it shall and may be lawful for every officer of the law, and every private person, who shall by law be authorised or required to arrest any person, known or suspected to have committed any crime or offence, for that purpose to break open the doors of, and to enter and search, any house, in which such person is known or suspected to be: Provided always, that such officer or other person, as aforesaid shall have previously failed to obtain admission, after having audibly demanded the same, and notified the purpose for which he seeks to enter such house.

Breaking open of doors after failure in obtaining admission, for the purpose of arrest or search.

20. And whereas public justice has heretofore in many cases been defeated by the departure from the Colony, or otherwise, of witnesses who have been examined as such, under preparatory examinations taken before and as to the commitment of offenders for trial before the courts of criminal jurisdiction within the Colony, be it therefore enacted and declared, that every Magistrate before whom any preparatory examination is taken, may lawfully require any witness, either alone, or together with one or two sufficient sureties, to the satisfaction of the said Magistrate, to enter into a recognizance, under condition that the said witness shall, at any time within six months from the date thereof, appear and give evidence at the trial of the said case, upon being summoned thereto at some certain place, to be so elected by such witness; and if any witness, being so required to enter into any such recognizance, shall refuse or fail so to do it shall and may be lawful for the said Magistrate, to commit and detain in prison the witness so refusing or failing, until such recognizance shall have been entered into as aforesaid. ⁽¹⁾

Recognizance of witness to appear on criminal trial.

21. And be it further enacted and declared, that in every case, in which any person, charged with any crime or offence, shall be apprehended and brought before any Magistrate of any district, other than that in which such crime or offence is charged to have been committed, and where such Magistrate shall see cause to Committal by Magistrate if the offence be committed in other than his own district.

Ord. 77—1830.

commit such person, either for trial or for further examination, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate, to grant warrant to commit such person, either to the gaol of the district in which the crime or offence is charged to have been committed, or to the gaol of the district within which such Magistrate has jurisdiction to act.

Removal of prisoner from gaol of one district to that of another.

22. And be it further enacted and declared, that the Resident Magistrate of any district, shall and may lawfully, on an application to that effect, signed by the Attorney-General, or the Clerk of the Peace of such district, grant warrant for the removal of any person, detained in virtue of any legal warrant, within the gaol of such district, on any criminal charge, to the gaol of any other district, specified in such application, therein to be detained for further examination or for trial, or till liberated or removed therefrom in due course of law.

23. (1) And be it further enacted and declared that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the sixtieth section of the Ordinance No. 40 shall be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Ord. 81—1830.

A. B. G. H., Civil Commissioner,
C. D. or Resident Magistrate, (as the case may be).

5. And be it further enacted that every Civil Commissioner before whom any such recognizance is entered into, or to whom any such recognizance entered into before a Resident Magistrate is produced, shall duly enter and record the same; and if any Civil Commissioner as aforesaid shall grant any such licence without such recognizance having been taken or produced and recorded, he shall incur and be liable to a penalty of fifty pounds for each offence.

Record of recognizance by civil commissioner.

6. And be it further enacted that every person to whom such licence has been granted as aforesaid shall either in person or by his attorney duly constituted and appointed, whenever he shall think fit to transport merchandise beyond the said land boundaries, deliver to the Civil Commissioner by whom his licence has been granted a statement of the number and description of fire-arms and the quantity of ammunition which he intends to take beyond the said boundaries for the defence of himself, his servants, and property, together with a statement, as near as may be, of the number and description of persons he intends to take with him, and which statement shall be subject to alteration by the said Civil Commissioner if he shall think fit; and the said statement, when approved of by the said Civil Commissioner, shall be signed by the person to whom the said licence is granted, and shall be kept by the said Civil Commissioner; and the said Civil Commissioner shall give the said licensed trader a certificate or certified copy of the said statement, which shall remain in the possession of the person who is left in charge of the said trader's wagons or other conveyances: and if any licensed trader shall not make such statement, or if he, or other person acting on his behalf, shall refuse to show the certified copy thereof to any Justice of the Peace, Commissioned Officer, or Non-commissioned Officer, Field-commandant, Field-cornet, or Constable, on demand, who are hereby authorised and required to inspect the same, he shall and may be detained and brought before the Resident Magistrate of the district where the offence is committed, and shall on conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds and to forfeiture of his licence.

Statement by licensed person of firearms and ammunition which he intends to take beyond the boundary.

Certified copy of statement furnished by civil commissioner for exhibition to justice of the peace and other authorities.

Penalty on omission to make statement, or on non-production of certified copy, £20, and forfeiture of licence

Oct. 31—1830.

Authority of justices and others to search wagons of licensed traders containing firearms or ammunition not set forth in statement.

7. And it be further enacted that all Justices of the Peace, and other persons hereinbefore authorised to inspect certificates, are hereby authorised and required to search the wagons and other conveyances of any such licensed trader which they suspect to contain any fire-arms or ammunition not set forth in the certificate or such trader, and to seize the same if they contain any such arms or ammunition; and every such licensed trader in whose possession a greater number of fire-arms or a greater quantity of ammunition shall be found within the boundaries of the Colony than the number or quantity set forth in his certificate, shall on conviction incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and shall forfeit his licence together with the wagons and other conveyances and the effects loaded thereon at the time of their seizure.

Penalty, £50 and forfeiture of licence.

Report on return to the colony to nearest field-commandant or field-cornet or other officer.

8. And be it further enacted that the servants and wagons or other conveyances belonging to any licensed trader, shall on their return within the Colony stop at the first convenient place adjacent to the said boundaries thereof, and the said trader, or some person acting on his behalf, shall immediately report his return to the nearest Field-commandant or Field-cornet or to the officer or non-commissioned officer of the nearest military post, who shall forthwith proceed thither, and shall require such trader or other person as aforesaid to produce the certificate and fire-arms of such trader; and if the number of fire-arms produced shall not amount to the number mentioned in the certificate, the person demanding production of the same shall endorse such deficiency upon the certificate and shall report the same to the Civil Commissioner of the district, who shall, if he think fit, institute such inquiry thereupon as he may deem requisite.

Inquiry into disposal of firearms and ammunition.

Penalty on neglect of report or refusal to produce certificate, or arms, or on giving unsatisfactory account, £50.

9. And be it further enacted that if any such trader or other person as aforesaid shall on his return advance beyond the residence of the nearest Field-commandant or Field-cornet, or beyond the nearest military post, without making such report as aforesaid, or shall refuse to produce his certificate of fire-arms on demand, or shall not render a satisfactory account of the fire-arms found to be deficient, the said trader shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

Production of natives brought from beyond the boundary and accounting for their absence and that of servants named in certificate.

10. And be it further enacted that the said Field-commandant, Field-cornet, or military officer shall also at the time and place aforesaid, require every such trader or other person as aforesaid to produce all persons belonging to any of the native tribes beyond the land boundaries thereof who have been brought within the said boundaries of the Colony by the said trader or such other person, and to account for the absence of any who have been brought in and are not then present, and for the absence of any of the servants mentioned in his certificate, and shall make such inquiry relative to the matter aforesaid as he shall think proper; and the said Field-commandant, Field-cornet, or military officer shall endorse on the certificate the names and descriptions of those persons who have been produced, and the names and descriptions of those who are absent, if any, together with the alleged cause of their absence; and if any such trader or other person as aforesaid shall not produce all such persons as aforesaid, or shall not truly account for the absence of such as are not produced, he shall incur and be liable to the payment of a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

Ord. 81--1830.

Penalty on non-production or untrue account, £50.

11. And be it further enacted that if any Field-cornet or other officer as aforesaid shall upon such examination and inquiry as aforesaid have reasonable cause to suspect that any trader or other person as aforesaid has been guilty of any offence against any of the provisions of this Ordinance he shall forthwith transmit to the Civil Commissioner of the district the certificate of such trader, together with a statement of the alleged offence or offences endorsed thereon.

Report of suspected offences against this ordinance by field-cornet, &c., to civil commissioner.

12. And be it further enacted that it shall not be lawful for any person whomsoever to bring within this Colony any person from beyond the said boundaries thereof not legally contracted to him within the Colony, against the free will and consent of such person, under a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, and if any such person be brought within the Colony upon any contract or agreement of any nature soever entered into beyond the said boundaries such contract or agreement shall be void and of no effect.

Penalty on bringing natives into the colony against their free will, £100.

Agreement beyond the boundaries of the colony void.

13. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any native or other person who may have voluntarily come into the Colony with or been brought by any trader or other person from entering into any legal contract or agreement before a Clerk of the Peace or other person before whom the same may be made.

Legal contract before clerk of the peace of persons coming voluntarily into the colony.

14. And be it further enacted that if any person shall, without having such licence as aforesaid proceed towards the said land boundaries of the Colony for the purpose of trading beyond the same, he shall on conviction thereof incur and be liable to a penalty of fifty pounds.

Penalty on proceeding to the boundary for the purpose of trade beyond, £50.

15. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for all officers and non-commissioned officers of His Majesty's land service, and all Civil Commissioners, Resident Magistrates, Clerks of the Peace, Field-commandants, Field-cornets, and Constables, and they are hereby required to stop all wagons or other conveyances proceeding towards the said land boundaries of the Colony which they suspect are intended to be employed in trading beyond the same, and to demand of the person in charge thereof to see his licence, and if the same be not produced and no good reason given for the non-production of the same they shall proceed to search all such wagons or other conveyances; and, if they find merchandise which they have reason to suspect is intended to be carried beyond

Ordinance for establishing and regulating a new Savings Bank in the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope. (1)

WHEREAS, at a public meeting of certain persons, inhabitants of this Colony, duly holden at the Commercial Hall in Cape Town on the 22nd day of November in the year of our Lord 1830, it was considered and agreed upon that it is expedient and necessary that a new bank for savings should be forthwith established in this Colony, for the purpose of receiving deposits from benevolent and charitable societies, tradesmen, mechanics, labourers, servants, children, and others, as nearly according to the principles upon which similar institutions have been established in Great Britain as the circumstances of this Colony will permit: And whereas at the said meeting certain persons were elected to form a society for the establishment and management of a bank in Cape Town, for the purposes aforesaid, according to a plan agreed on at the said meeting; and whereas the said persons have made application to His Excellency the Governor that an Ordinance may be passed to sanction and confirm the plan agreed upon at the said meeting, and to provide for carrying the same into effect, and it is expedient that the same should be done: Now, therefore, be it enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said persons so elected, and for any other persons who shall from time to time in manner hereinafter provided be elected, to be the president, vice-presidents, directors, and managers of the said society, to be and form, and the said persons are hereby constituted and declared to be, a society for the establishment and management of a bank in Cape Town for the purposes aforesaid, which said society shall be called "The Cape of Good Hope Savings Bank Society."

and directors thereof, and that the persons who at the meeting aforesaid, were elected to be the managers of the said Society, and whose names are inserted in the schedule hereunto annexed marked B, and all such householders residing in Cape Town, or within eight (1) miles thereof as shall at any time hereafter be elected to be managers of the said society, at any general meeting of the said society holden in manner hereinafter provided, or by the committee of management hereinafter provided, at any general meeting thereof, and who shall consent to accept such office, shall be the managers of the said society.

Continuation in office of president, vice-presidents, and directors, until election of others ;

4. And be it enacted that the persons hereinbefore provided and declared to be the vice-presidents and directors, and all others who shall hereafter be duly elected to be the president, vice-presidents, and directors of the said society, shall continue in office as such until the election of other persons to the said office in manner hereinafter provided ; and that the persons hereinbefore provided and declared to be, and all others who shall hereafter be duly elected to be the managers of the said society, shall continue in office as such so long as they shall be householders and shall reside in Cape Town, or within eight miles thereof: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to prevent any president, vice-president, director, or manager from resigning his said office, on giving seven days' notice of his intention so to do to the committee of management, by writing delivered at the place where the business of the society is for the time transacted, to any officer or manager of the said society in attendance thereat ; and provided also, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to prevent any president, vice-president, director, or manager from being removed from his office by any general meeting of the society in manner hereinafter provided.

Responsibility of members for loss arising from dishonesty, bad faith, or gross neglect.

5. And be it enacted that every member of the said society shall be liable, as such, to make good any loss or damage which shall or may accrue to or be sustained by the funds of the said society, or to or by any depositor in the said bank, by reason of the dishonesty, bad faith, or gross neglect of such member, and not otherwise.

Members not entitled to derive any salary or profit from the funds of the bank.

6. And be it enacted that no president, vice-president, director, or manager of the said society shall, either directly or indirectly, receive or derive any salary, allowance, profit or benefit from any of the funds thereof, or from any money deposited in the said bank ; and that the persons depositing money in the said bank shall respectively have and receive the whole benefit of the money therein deposited, and of the produce thereof, save and except only so much as may from time to time be required to defray such salaries, allowances, and other necessary expenses as shall in said committee, and that the vote or resolution of the major part of such quorum shall in all cases be deemed to be and shall have effect as the vote or resolution of the committee, and that, in the absence of the president, the eldest vice-president present, and in the absence of the vice-presidents, the eldest director present, shall preside at the meetings of the said committee; and that in any case in which the votes or opinions of the members of the said committee shall be equally divided, the person who shall at the time preside at the meeting thereof shall have a casting vote; and that whenever it shall be necessary for the said committee to execute any deed or instrument in writing, such deed or instrument shall be signed in name of the committee by a quorum thereof, or by some two members thereof, appointed for that purpose by such committee, and every such deed or instrument signed in manner herein provided shall have the same force and effect in law as if it had been signed by all the members of the committee of management.

Execution of instruments by quorum of committee.

Funds, &c., of the bank vested in committee.

9. And be it enacted that all moneys, goods, and effects whatsoever, and all securities for money, or other obligatory instruments, and all evidences, muniments, and all rights and claims whatsoever belonging to or had by the said society shall be vested in the said committee of management for the time being for the use and benefit of the said society, and of the depositors in the said bank, and their representatives respectively, according to their several claims and interests; and also shall, for all purposes of action or suit, as well criminal as civil, in anywise touching or concerning the same, be deemed and taken to be, and shall in every such proceeding (where necessary) be stated to be, the property of the committee of management of the said society for the time being, without further description; and such committee shall and they are hereby authorised to bring or defend or cause to be brought or defended, any action or suit touching or concerning any of the property, rights, or claims aforesaid belonging to the said society, in the name of the "Committee of Management of the Cape of Good Hope Savings Bank Society," without specifying the names of the members thereof, and without other description: and no suit or action shall be discontinued or abate by reason of the death or removal from the committee of all or any of the members thereof, but the same shall and may be proceeded in by the succeeding committee of management, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding; and such succeeding committee shall pay or receive like costs as if the action or suit had been commenced by them for the benefit of or to be reimbursed from the funds of the said society.

Authority of committee to sue and be sued.

Ordinary meetings of committee.

10. And be it enacted that meetings of the said committee shall and may be holden at their usual place of business so often as shall be found to be necessary, or as shall be appointed by any rule or regulation duly made as hereinafter provided, for the purpose of transacting the ordinary business of the society, according to the subsisting rules and regulations thereof: Provided always, that the said committee at such ordinary meeting shall not have power or authority to repeal or alter, or to do or cause to be done, any matter or thing which shall be in contravention of any of the existing rules or regulations, or to make any new rules or regulations for the management thereof, or to expend or authorise the expenditure of any of the funds of the society to any extent, or for any purpose to, or for which such expenditure shall not have been previously authorised by a general meeting of the society, or of the committee of management. And be it further enacted that a general meeting of the committee of management shall be holden at the place foresaid on the first Thursday of every month at the hour of eleven o'clock in the forenoon, and that it shall be lawful for the president, or any two of the vice-presidents or directors, at any time, to call a general meeting of the committee of management by written notices thereof, specifying the purpose for which such meeting is called, delivered to or at the dwelling-houses or places of business of such members thereof as shall be in Cape Town or within eight miles thereof, not less than twelve hours before such meeting shall be holden. also that no such rule or regulation or repeal or alteration or amendment shall have any force or effect until the same shall be entered, transcribed, enrolled, and deposited as aforesaid.

Force of rules and regulations.

12. And be it enacted that all rules and regulations for the management of the said society which shall from time to time be duly made and entered, enrolled, and deposited in manner hereinbefore provided, shall be binding on the several members and officers thereof, and on the several depositors in the said bank and their representatives, and that such entry, enrolment, and deposit as aforesaid shall be deemed and taken to be due notice thereof to the said members, officers, depositors, and their representatives respectively.

Appointment of officers.

13. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful to and for the committee of management, from time to time as the same may be necessary, to hire apartments and to provide furniture, books, and stationery, and to appoint officers, servants and others necessary for transacting the business of the said society, and to defray the costs and charges of the same respectively out of the produce of any money deposited in the said bank, or out of any funds which may belong to the said society: Provided always, and be it further enacted, that it shall not be lawful to defray the same or any part thereof out of the capital of any sum deposited in the said bank.

Payment of expenses.

Security by officers entrusted with money for due execution of their trust.

14. And be it enacted that the committee of management shall and may require every treasurer, officer, or other person who shall be trusted with the receipt or custody of, or the duty of whose office it shall be to receive or keep any sum or sums of money belonging to the said society, or deposited in the said bank, to become bound by an obligation in writing to the committee of management for the just and faithful execution of such office or trust, in such a sum of money and with such security or surety or securities as the said committee shall think fit; and no such treasurer, officer, or other person shall be permitted to enter on the execution of any such office or trust until he shall in manner hereinbefore provided have become bound to the said committee: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to authorise or require the said committee to require or take any such obligation or security as aforesaid from any of the managers of the said society, whose duty it may be, under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance or of any rule or regulation made or established in manner hereinbefore provided, to attend in rotation to receive any sum or sums of money from persons desirous of depositing the same in the said bank.

Election of managers by committee at a general meeting thereof.

15. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful to and for the committee of management for the time being, at any general meeting thereof, to elect as managers all such good and lawful men, being householders residing in Cape Town or within eight miles thereof, as they shall think fit, and who shall signify in writing their acceptance of the said office; and upon the death, resignation, or removal from office or departure from this Colony of any president, vice-president, or director, or of any of the other members of the committee of management, to elect some fit, proper, and qualified person in his stead: Provided always, that in the event of three or more vacancies in the committee of management occurring by reason of any of the causes aforesaid at one and the same time, it shall not be lawful for the committee to elect any person to fill up the said vacancies, but such committee shall and may call a general meeting of the said society in manner hereinafter provided, at which meeting fit, proper, and qualified persons shall be elected to fill up the said vacancies; and provided also, that in the event of so many vacancies in the committee of management occurring by any of the causes aforesaid that there shall not remain a quorum of the said committee willing to act as such, it shall be lawful for any member of the said committee, or for any five managers of the said society, to call a general meeting thereof in like manner as it is hereinafter provided that such general meetings may be called by the said committee, at which meeting fit, proper, and qualified persons shall be elected to fill up the said vacancies. And provided also, that the ten managers to be elected members of the first committee of management of the said society, shall be elected at a general meeting of the society, to be holden for that purpose within fifteen days after the publication of this Ordinance in the Government Gazette of this Colony.

16. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the committee of management to call a general meeting of the said society whenever they shall think fit, and that the said committee shall be thereunto required by any writing signed by ten of the managers and delivered at the usual place of business of the said committee to any officer or manager of the said society in attendance thereat, to call a general meeting of the said society, seven days' previous notice whereof and of the time and place and purpose of holding the same shall be given by the said committee by advertisement in the Government Gazette of this Colony.

17. And be it enacted that a general meeting of the said society shall be publicly holden in the month of January (1) in each year, at some convenient time and place in Cape Town, to be appointed for that purpose by the committee of management, fourteen days' previous notice whereof shall be given by the said committee by advertisement in the Government Gazette of this Colony, and at such general meeting the said committee shall lay before the said society a report of the transactions of the society and of the state of the accounts thereof, and shall furnish to the said meeting all such other information as shall be required and which the major part of the members then present shall consider to be proper to be given, and that at such annual general meeting the managers of the said society and the members of the committee of management then present, shall elect a president, five vice-presidents, and ten directors, for the ensuing year, and shall also elect ten managers to be members of the committee of management for the ensuing year: Provided however, that if such election as to all or any of the said offices shall not take place, then the persons last in office as president, vice-presidents, directors, or members of the committee of management, and to whom a successor in office shall not be chosen, shall respectively continue in their said offices for the ensuing year.

Power of the members at general meetings.

18. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the members of the said society at any general meeting thereof, to give to the committee of management all such directions relative to the transaction of the business of the society as to the said meeting shall seem fit, and as shall not be inconsistent with the provisions of this Ordinance or with any subsisting rule or regulation for the management of the said society, and to confirm, repeal, alter, or amend any such rules or regulations as shall have been made in manner hereinbefore provided by the committee of management or by any general meeting of the said society, and to make any such new rules and regulations for the purpose aforesaid as to the said meeting shall seem expedient, and to elect all such good and lawful men being householders, residing in Cape Town, or within eight miles thereof, as they shall think fit, and who shall signify in writing their acceptance of the said office, and to elect fit, proper, and qualified persons to fill up any vacancies which may have occurred in the offices of president, vice-president, or director in the committee of management, in any case in which it is hereinbefore provided that such vacancies shall be filled up by the election of a general meeting of the said society, and to remove from office any president, vice-president, director, member of the committee of management, or manager, for any cause which shall to such meeting appear sufficient: Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for the members of the said society at any general meeting thereof to make any new rule or regulation, or to repeal, alter, or amend any subsisting rule or regulation as aforesaid, or to remove any person from office as aforesaid, unless notice that a motion to that effect will be made at such general meeting, shall have been given seven days previous to such meeting by some member of the society, either publicly at some general meeting thereof, or in writing, and delivered at the usual place of business of the committee of management to some officer or manager in attendance thereat, and where such motion shall be to remove any person from office, then such previous written notice thereof shall also be either delivered to such person or left at his dwelling-house: and provided also, that every new rule or regulation and every repeal, alteration, or amendment of any subsisting rule or regulation established or made by any such general meeting, shall be entered, transcribed, enrolled, and deposited in like manner as it was hereinbefore provided that any rules, regulations or repeals, alterations or amendments thereof, made by the committee of management should be entered, transcribed, enrolled, and deposited, and no rule or regulation, or repeal, alteration, or amendment thereof made at any general meeting of the said society shall have any force or effect until the same shall be entered, transcribed, enrolled, and deposited as aforesaid.

19. And be it enacted that the vote or resolution of the major part of any general meeting of the said society shall in all cases be deemed and taken to be and shall have effect as the vote or resolution of such meeting, and that in absence of the president the eldest vice-president, and in the absence of the vice-presidents the eldest director, and in the absence of the directors the eldest member of the committee of management, and in their absence the eldest manager present shall preside at the general meetings of the said society, and that in every case in which the votes or opinions of any such meeting shall be equally divided the person who shall preside at such meeting shall have a casting vote, and that in all cases when the election to any office or offices is to be made by any such general meeting, the mode of election shall be by signed lists given in by the members present, and the person or persons who shall (by a committee of scrutiny to be chosen by such meeting) be found to have the most votes in his or their favour shall be deemed and taken to be and shall be duly elected.

Rules of order, meetings.

20. And be it enacted that two ⁽¹⁾ or more managers of the said society shall attend at the office or place of business thereof in rotation, in such manner and at such times as shall be appointed by any rule or regulation to that effect duly made in manner hereinbefore provided, for the purpose of receiving and paying out deposits and transacting such other business of the said society as shall be committed to them by the said committee. ⁽²⁾ her decease without making any other legal disposition of the same and the said committee shall cause every such declaration to be entered in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, and to be signed by the said depositor or by some one for and on behalf and by authority of the said depositor, and in his or her presence and in the presence of and attested by two or more of the managers of the said bank, and the said declaration so made, entered, and attested shall be valid and effectual in law as the will of the said depositor respecting such property, and the said committee are hereby authorised and required, and upon due proof of the decease of such depositor as aforesaid, and provided no other legal disposition of such property by the said depositor shall be produced, and after the payment of the just debts of the said depositor, to administer and distribute the same according to such declaration, any law or usage of the Colony to the contrary notwithstanding. And be it further enacted that such administration and distribution of the said committee shall be entirely free and discharged from all stamps and Government fees and duties whatsoever. And be it further enacted that the managers of the said society who shall at any time receive a deposit from any person then for the first time making a deposit in the said bank, shall inform such person that he or she may make and shall inquire whether such depositor is willing to make such declaration as aforesaid. (1)

Proceedings in case of death of depositor who has not made such declaration.

22. And be it enacted that in case any depositor in the said bank shall die leaving a sum of money in the said bank which with the interest due thereon shall not exceed in the whole the sum of £50, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said committee of management, and they are hereby authorised and required, provided that the said deceased depositor shall have made no such declaration as aforesaid, to cause public notice to be given forthwith in the Government Gazette of this Colony of the death of such depositor, of the amount due to him at the time of his death, and of the period fixed for payment thereof, which period shall be fixed according to the circumstances of the case at the discretion of the said committee. And if no will of such depositor shall be proved before the period so fixed, it shall and may be lawful for the said committee at any time thereafter, and after paying the just debts of such depositor, to pay and divide such money as aforesaid, by and with the consent of the Attorney-General of this Colony, to and among such person or persons as shall appear to him and them to have the best claim thereto; and every such payment shall be a valid and effectual discharge against any demand or claim made upon the funds of the said society or upon the said committee, or upon any member of the said society by any other person or persons, as being the lawful representative or representatives of such depositor; and such person or persons so claiming as aforesaid shall have their remedy by recourse against the person or persons who shall have received such payments, and not otherwise; and such administration or distribution by the said committee shall be entirely free and discharged from all stamps and Government fees and duties whatsoever. Provided always, that in case no claims be made on any such money as aforesaid, or if made shall not be admitted by the said committee, or by the determination and adjudication of one of the Judges of the Supreme Court or of the Resident Magistrate for Cape Town made in manner hereinafter provided, then and in every such case such money shall remain under the administration of the said committee, and the interest thereof shall be applied for the general purposes of the said society, until further provision be made for the application and disposal of such money by any law for that purpose to be hereafter made and provided.

No. 86—1831.

23. And be it enacted that in case any difference shall arise between and amongst the managers of the said society, or between the said managers or any person concerned in the management of the said society and any depositor in the said bank, or any executor, administrator, next of kin, or any party claiming as such, or otherwise, to be entitled to the effects of any deceased depositor in the said bank, then and in every such case the matter so in dispute shall be referred to the summary decision of such one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, or the Resident Magistrate of the Cape District as shall be mutually agreed upon by the parties in dispute; and in case the parties shall not mutually agree thereon then to such Judge or Magistrate aforesaid as shall be determined on by the committee of management (such Judge or Magistrate being willing to accept the said reference), and the said Judge or Magistrate is hereby authorised to inquire and determine the said matter in dispute, and also to adjudge by whom the costs and expenses of the said reference shall be paid, and his determination and adjudication on the premises shall be final and conclusive, and binding on the said parties to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Reference of differences between managers, or between committee of management and other persons to the arbitration of a judge of the Supreme Court or resident magistrate of the Cape district.

24. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the members of the said society, at any general meeting thereof duly holden for such purpose in manner hereinbefore provided, to establish branch savings banks for the like purposes for which the said bank is hereinbefore declared and provided to be established in any district, town or place within this Colony, wherein it shall appear to any such meeting expedient that a savings bank should be established, and wherein there shall be a sufficient number of fit and proper persons able and willing to undertake the management and transact the business of such bank, and to make all necessary rules and regulations for the management of such branch banks.

Establishment of branch banks.

25. And be it enacted that from and after the publication of this Ordinance in the Government Gazette of this Colony, the proclamation of the 11th October, 1822, shall be and the same is William the Fourth, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith.

To all to whom these presents shall come,

GREETING :—

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the better and more effectual administration of justice in our Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and in the several territories and settlements dependent thereupon, and for that purpose to constitute within our said Colony and its dependencies one Supreme Court of Justice, to be holden in the manner and form hereinafter mentioned: Now

Preamble.

¹ By a proclamation of Governor Sir Benjamin D'Urban, K.C.B., under the 55th Section, dated 13th February, 1834, this charter took effect in the Colony from the 1st March, 1834. See Acts 39—1877, §§ 13, 19, 21, 41—1882, §§ 1, 2 and 4, 17—1886, 3—1890, 26—1894, 13—1896, 35—1896, 35—1904, 9—1905.

Charter of Justice.

Creation of the Supreme Court.

A court of record.

Its constitution.

Appointment of judges by letters patent under the seal of the Colony.

Power of the Governor, in case of death, resignation, sickness or incapacity of a judge to appoint a fit person to act in the place of such judge.

know ye, that we of our special grace, certain knowledge, and mere-motion, have thought fit to grant, direct, order, and appoint, and by these presents do accordingly for us, our heirs and successors, grant, direct, order, and appoint, that there shall be within our said Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, a court which shall be called "The Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope."

2. And we do hereby create, erect, and constitute the said
Supreme Court to be a Court of Record.

3. And we do further will, ordain, and appoint, that the said
Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall consist of and be holden by and before one Chief Justice and two ⁽¹⁾ Puisne Judges, and that the said Chief Justice shall be called and known by the name and style of the Chief Justice of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and which said Chief Justice and Puisne Judges shall be respectively barristers in England or Ireland, or advocates admitted to practise in our Courts of Session in Scotland or in the said Supreme Court. And which said Chief Justice and Puisne Judges shall, from time to time, be nominated and appointed to such their offices by us ⁽²⁾, our heirs and successors, by letters patent under the public seal of the said Colony, to be issued in pursuance of any warrants or warrant to be from time to time for that purpose granted by us, our heirs and successors, under our or their sign manual.

4. And we do hereby declare, ordain, and grant that upon the death, resignation, sickness, or incapacity of the said Chief Justice, or any of the said Puisne Judges, or in the case of the absence of any of them from the said Colony, or in case of any such suspension from office as hereinafter mentioned, of any such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge, it shall and may be lawful to and for the Governor of our said Colony for the time being, by letters patent, to be by him for that purpose made and issued under the public seal of the said Colony, to nominate and appoint some fit and proper person or persons to act as and in the place and stead of any such Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, so dying or resigning, or labouring under such sickness or incapacity as aforesaid, or being so absent as aforesaid from the Colony, or being so suspended until the vacancy or vacancies so created by any such death or resignation or sickness or incapacity, or absence or suspension, shall be supplied by a new appointment, to be made in manner aforesaid by us, our heirs and successors, or until the Chief Justice, or Puisne Judge, so becoming sick or incapable, or being absent or suspended, as aforesaid, shall resume such his office and enter into the discharge of the duties thereof.

¹ Increased to 3 by Act 10, 1855 : to 4 by Act 21, 1864 : to 5 by Act 5, 1879 : to 6 by Act 12, 1880 ; and to 8 by Act 40, 1882.

² Judges are now appointed by the Governor in the name of the King by virtue of power delegated to him in his Commission.

5. And we do further will, ordain, and grant, that the said Chief Justice and Puisne Judges shall hold such their offices during their good behaviour: Provided, nevertheless, that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of our said Colony for the time being, by any order or orders to be by him for that purpose made and issued under the public seal of the said Colony, with the advice of the Executive Council of Government of the said Colony, or the major part of them, upon proof of the misconduct of any such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge, as aforesaid, to suspend him from such his office and from the discharge of the duties thereof: Provided, that in every such case the said Governor shall immediately report for our information, through one of our Principal Secretaries of State, the grounds and causes of such suspension.

Charter of Justice
Tenure of office during good behaviour.

6. And we do hereby reserve to us, our heirs and successors, full power and authority to confirm or disallow such suspension from office as aforesaid, of any such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge. And we do hereby further reserve to us, our heirs and successors, full power and authority upon sufficient proof to our or their satisfaction of any such misconduct, to remove and displace any such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge from such his office.

Power of suspension by Governor with advice of the executive council, in case of misconduct.

Confirmation or disallowance of such suspension.

7. And we do hereby give and grant to our said Chief Justice, for the time being, rank and precedence above and before all our subjects whomsoever within the said Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and the territories and places dependent thereupon, excepting the Governor or Lieutenant-Governor for the time being, thereof, and the Commander-in-Chief of our forces for the time being within the same, and excepting all such persons as by law or usage in England take place before our Chief Justice of our Court of King's Bench.

Rank and precedence of Chief Justice.

8. And we do hereby give and grant to the said Puisne Judges for the time being, rank and precedence within our said Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and the territories and places dependent thereupon, next after our said Chief Justice of our said Colony, for the time being.

Of puisne judges.

9. And we do hereby declare that the said Puisne Judges shall take rank and precedence between themselves, according to the priority of their appointments respectively.

Seniority of puisne judges.

10. And we do further grant, ordain, and appoint, that the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall have and use, as occasion may require, a seal, bearing a device and impression of our royal arms, within an exergue or label surrounding the same, within this inscription, "The Seal of the Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope."

Seal of Supreme Court.

11. And we do hereby ordain, grant, and appoint, that the said seal shall be delivered to, and shall be kept in the custody of the said Chief Justice, with full liberty to deliver the same to any Puisne Judge of the said Court, for any temporary purpose; and Custody of the seal.

Charter of Justice. — in case of vacancy of, or suspension from, the office of Chief Justice, the same shall be delivered over to, and kept in the custody of such person as shall be appointed by the said Governor of our said Colony, to act as and in the place and stead of the said Chief Justice.

Salaries of Judges. 12. And we do further grant, ordain, and declare, that the said Chief Justice, and the said Puisne Judges, so long as they shall hold their offices respectively, shall be entitled to have and receive such salaries as shall be granted to them by us, our heirs and successors, which salaries shall be in lieu of all fees of office, perquisites, emoluments, and advantages whatsoever; and that no fee of office, perquisite, emolument, or advantages, other than and except the said salaries, shall be accepted, received, or taken by any such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge, on any account, or any pretence whatsoever.⁽¹⁾

Forfeiture of judicial office by acceptance of other office.

13. And we do further ordain, appoint, and declare, that no such Chief Justice or Puisne Judge as aforesaid, shall accept, take or perform any other ⁽¹⁾ office, place of profit, or emolument, within our said Colony, and that the acceptance of any such other office or place as aforesaid shall actually vacate and avoid such his office of Chief Justice or Puisne Judge, as the case may be, and the salary thereof shall cease accordingly, from the time of the acceptance of any such other office or place.

Officers of the court.

14. And we do hereby ordain, appoint, and declare, that there shall be attached, and belong to the said Court, the following officers, (that is to say),—one officer to be styled the Registrar⁽²⁾ or Prothonotary and Keeper of Records of the said Court, and one other officer to be styled the Master thereof⁽³⁾ together with such and so many other officers as to the Chief Justice of the said Court for the time being, shall from time to time appear to be necessary for the administration of justice, and the due execution of the powers and authorities which are granted and committed to the said Court by these our letters patent: Provided nevertheless, that no new office shall be created in the said Court, unless the Governor of the said Colony, or Lieutenant-Governor for the time being, shall first signify his approbation thereof to the said Chief Justice for the time being, in writing, under the hand of such Governor or Lieutenant-Governor.

Mode of appointment of officers.

15. And we do further ordain and direct, that all persons who shall and may be appointed to the offices of Registrar or Prothonotary and Keeper of Records, or Master of the said Court, and that all persons who shall be appointed in the said court to any offices, of which the duties shall correspond to those performed by the Master or Prothonotary of any or either of our Courts of ² Assistant Registrar appointed by Rule of Court 281.

³ Taxing Officer appointed by Rule of Court 351.

Record at Westminster, shall be so appointed by us, our heirs and successors, by warrant, under our or their Royal Sign Manual, and that all persons who shall and may be appointed to any other office within the said Supreme Court, shall be so appointed by the Governor for the time being of the said Colony.

Charter of Justice.

16. And we do further direct and appoint, that the several officers of the said Court other than and except the said Chief Justice and Puisne Judges thereof shall hold their respective offices therein during the pleasure of us, our heirs and successors.

Duration of office.

17. And we do hereby authorise and empower the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, to approve, admit, and enrol such persons as shall have been admitted as barristers in England or Ireland, or advocates in the Court of Session of Scotland, or to the degree of Doctor of Laws at our Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, (1) to act as barristers or advocates in our said Supreme Court.

Admission of barristers, &c.

18. And we do further authorise and empower the said Supreme Court, to admit any persons to practise as barristers and advocates therein, who, previously to the promulgation of these presents within the said Colony, have been actually admitted to practise as advocates in the Supreme Court of Justice heretofore existing within the same.

Advocates of the late court.

19. And we do further authorise and empower the said Supreme Court, to approve, admit, and enrol any persons, being attorneys or solicitors of any of our Courts of Record at Westminster or Dublin, or being proctors admitted to practise in any Ecclesiastical court in England or Ireland, or being Writers (2) to the Signet in Scotland, or being now entitled to practise as Proctors or Notaries in the said Supreme Court of Justice heretofore existing within the said Colony, to act as attorneys, solicitors, or proctors in the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope.

Admission of attorneys, solicitors and proctors.

20. And we do further authorise our said Supreme Court, to approve, admit, and enrol as such attorneys, solicitors, or proctors, as aforesaid, such and so many persons as may be instructed within our said Colony, in the knowledge and practice of the law, by any barrister, advocate, attorney, solicitor, or proctor, duly admitted to practise in the said Court, and which persons shall be so approved, admitted, and enrolled, according to and in pursuance of any general Rule or Rules of Court, to be for that purpose made in manner hereinafter directed. (3)

Future admission of attorneys, solicitors and proctors.

21. And we do ordain and declare, that persons approved, admitted, and enrolled as aforesaid, shall be, and they are hereby authorised to appear and plead and act for the suitors of the said Supreme Court; subject always to be removed by the said Supreme Court from their station therein, upon reasonable cause.

Capacity and removal of enrolled persons.

¹ See § 2, Act 12, 1858; § 20, Act 16 of 1873; § 1, Acts 30 of 1892; 14, 1899; 11, 1903.

² Includes solicitor or procurator enrolled in the Court of Session, § 6, Act 11, 1903.

³ See § 3, Act 12, 1858, and § 21, Act 16, of 1873, Acts 30, 1892, and 14, 1899. See also Acts 27, 1883, 11, 1903, and § 46 of this Charter.

Charter of Justice.

Incapacity of un-enrolled persons.

Functions of barristers and of solicitors.

Authority of the court, in case of insufficiency in number of barristers or attorneys, to allow attorneys to act as barristers, and vice versa.

22. And we do further ordain, that no person or persons whatsoever, not so approved, admitted, and enrolled, as aforesaid, shall be allowed to appear, plead, or act in the said Supreme Court for or on behalf of any suitors in the said Court.

23. Provided always, and we do further ordain and declare, that the functions and office of barristers and advocates shall not be discharged in the said Court by the attorneys, solicitors, and proctors thereof, and that the functions and office of such attorneys, solicitors, and proctors shall not be discharged by such barristers at law or advocates.

24. Provided nevertheless, and we do further declare our will to be, that in case there shall not be a sufficient number of barristers and advocates within the said Colony, competent and willing to act for the suitors of the said Court, the said Court shall, and is hereby authorised, to admit any of the attorneys, solicitors, or proctors thereof, to appear and act as barristers and advocates, during the time of such insufficiency only; and in case there shall not be a sufficient number of attorneys, solicitors, and proctors within the said Colony, competent and willing to appear and act in that capacity for the suitors of the said Court, the said Supreme Court shall, and is hereby authorised, to admit any of such barristers or advocates, to practise and act in the capacity of attorneys, solicitors, and proctors, during the time of such insufficiency only.

26. [Repealed by Act 13, 1896.]

27. And we do further order, direct, and appoint that the said Sheriff for the time being, shall, by himself, or his sufficient deputies, to be by him appointed and duly authorised under his hand and seal, and for whom he shall be responsible during his continuance in such office, execute, and the said Sheriff, by himself and his said deputies, are hereby authorised to execute, all the sentences, decrees, judgments, writs, summonses, rules, orders, warrants, commands, and processes of the said Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope, or of the Circuit Courts of the said Colony hereafter mentioned, and shall make a return of the same, together with the manner of the execution thereof, to the Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope, or to the said Circuit Courts, as the case may be, and shall receive and detain in prison, all such persons as shall be committed to the custody of such Sheriff by the Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope, or by the said Circuit Courts, or by the Chief Justice, or by any other Judge of the said Courts.

Charter of Justice.

Execution of all sentences, decrees, orders, commands, processes, &c., of the court, by sheriff or his deputies.

28. [Repealed by Act 13, 1896.]

29. And we do further direct, ordain, and appoint that whenever the said Supreme Court of the Cape of Good Hope, or the Circuit Courts hereinafter mentioned, shall direct or award any process against the said Sheriff, or award any process in any cause, matter, or thing, wherein the said Sheriff, on account of his being related to the parties, or any of them, or by reason of any good cause of challenge, which would be allowed against any Sheriff in England, cannot or ought not by law to execute the same, in every such case the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, or the said Circuit Courts, as the case may be, shall name and appoint some other fit person to execute and return the same, and the said process shall be directed to the person so to be named for that purpose, and the cause of such special proceedings shall be registered and entered on the records of the said Courts respectively.

Execution of process by a person specially appointed when the sheriff cannot by law execute.

30. And we do hereby further ordain, direct, and appoint, that the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall have cognizance of all pleas, and jurisdiction in all causes, whether civil, criminal, or mixed, arising within the said Colony, with jurisdiction over our subjects, and all other persons whomsoever residing and being within the said Colony, in as full and ample a manner and to all intents and purposes as the Supreme Court of justice now existing within the said Colony now hath or can lawfully exercise the same. (1)

Laws according to which the court is to judge and determine.

31. And we do further give and grant to the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, full power, authority, and jurisdiction, to apply, judge, and determine upon, and according to the laws now in force within our said Colony, and all such other laws as shall at any time hereafter be made and established for the peace, order, and government thereof by us, our heirs and successors, with the advice and consent of Parliament, or in our or their Privy Council, or by the Governor of the said Colony by the advice of the Legislative Council of Government thereof.

Power of review of proceedings of all inferior courts.

32. And we do further give and grant to the said Supreme Court, full power, jurisdiction, and authority to review the proceedings of all inferior courts of justice within our said Colony, and, if necessary, to set aside or correct the same (2); and in the exercise of such jurisdiction, powers, and authorities as aforesaid, our will and pleasure is, that the pleadings and proceedings of the said Supreme Court and the said Circuit Courts shall be carried on, and the sentences, decrees, judgments, and orders thereof pronounced and declared, in open Court, and not otherwise, and that the several pleadings and proceedings of the said court shall be in the English (3) language; and that in all criminal cases, the witnesses against and for any accused person or persons shall deliver their evidence vivâ voce, and in open Court.

Proceedings in open court, and in the English language.

Quorum of the court in civil suits.

33. And we do further will, direct and appoint, that for the conduct and decision of all civil suits, actions, and causes depending before the said Supreme Court, and of all questions, matters, and things arising in the course of any such civil suits, actions, or causes, any two of the Judges of the said Supreme Court shall form a quorum, and shall be competent to execute all and every the powers, jurisdiction, and authorities hereby granted to and vested in the said Supreme Court, and that in the event of any difference of opinion between such two Judges, the decision of the said Court shall, in any such case, be suspended until all the three Judges shall be present, and the decision of such two Judges, when unanimous, or of the majority of such three Judges in case of any difference of opinion, shall in all cases be deemed and taken to be the decision of the whole Court. (4)

Trial by jury in criminal cases.

34. And we do further ordain, direct and appoint that in any criminal case depending before the said Supreme Court, the trial of the person or persons accused shall be before any one or more of the Judges of the said Court and a jury of nine men, who shall concur in every verdict to be given on the trial of any such accused party or parties; and every such verdict shall be delivered in open Court by the mouth of the foreman of every such jury, and shall be thereupon recorded and read over to such jury before they are discharged from attendance on the said Court. Provided nevertheless, and we do further declare, and direct, that no person within the said Colony, who may be otherwise competent to serve on any such jury as aforesaid shall be or be taken to be incompetent to serve on such jury by reason of his ignorance or supposed ignorance of the English language.

Charter of Justice: —

Delivery of verdict in open court.

Jurors ignorant of the English language.

35. And we do further ordain and direct, that all the duties heretofore performed by the Orphan Chamber within our said Colony, shall henceforth be performed by the Master for the time being of the said Supreme Court, and that the said Orphan Chamber shall be, and the same is hereby, abolished. (1)

Abolition of orphan chamber.

36. And we do further direct and appoint, that the said Supreme Court shall at all times be holden at Cape Town, in our said Colony.

Supreme court in Cape Town.

37. And we do further ordain and direct, that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of the said Colony, by any proclamation or proclamations to be by him for that purpose issued, to apportion and divide the said Colony into two or more districts, and to fix and ascertain the boundaries and limits of every such district, and such boundaries and limits, from time to time, to alter as occasion may require: Provided always, that such apportionment of the said Colony into such districts as aforesaid, be made in such manner as to such Governor may appear to be best adapted for enabling the inhabitants of the said Colony to resort with ease and convenience to the Circuit Courts, to be therein established as after mentioned.

Division of the colony into circuit districts.

38. And we do further grant, ordain, and appoint, that Courts, to be called Circuit Courts, shall be holden twice at the least in each year, in each of the districts into which the said Colony may be so divided as aforesaid: and each of the said Circuit Courts shall be holden by the Chief Justice or by one of the said Puisne Judges of the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, at such times, and at such one, or more, place or places within each of the said districts, as the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall from time to time direct and appoint. (2)

Circuit courts held twice at least in each year before judges of the supreme court.

39. And we do direct and appoint, that each of the said Circuit Courts shall be respectively Courts of Record, and shall within the district in which it may be holden, have, and exercise all such and the same jurisdiction, powers and authority, as is hereby vested in Jurisdiction of circuit courts, and mode of proceeding therein in criminal cases.

Charter of Justice.

the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, throughout the whole of the said Colony (1);—and that all crimes and offences, cognizable in the said Circuit Courts, shall be inquired of, heard and determined by the said Circuit Judge, and a jury of nine men; and that the verdict of such jury shall be pronounced and recorded in the manner before directed, respecting the verdicts of juries to be given in the said Supreme Court; and that the provision hereinbefore (2) contained respecting the ignorance or supposed ignorance of the English language of any person otherwise competent to serve on any jury in the said Supreme Court, shall also extend and apply to persons serving, or who may be required to serve, as jurors in the said Circuit Courts, or any of them.

Number of jurors, and provision in case of a deficiency of jurors.

40. Provided nevertheless, and we do further ordain and direct, that if upon the trial of any crime or offence before any of the said Circuit Courts nine good and lawful men, being duly summoned, shall not appear to form a jury, then, in all such cases, such trial shall be had before the Circuit Judge and any number of the jury who shall appear, not being less than six, who shall be sworn, and have the same power, as if the full number of nine had appeared. (3)

Decision of civil suits.

41. Provided also, and we do further direct and appoint, that all civil suits or actions, depending in any of the said Circuit Courts, shall be tried and decided by the Judge of such Court alone, and without a jury: [Remainder of Section superseded by Section 13, Act 5, 1879. See now § 23, Act 35, 1896.]

43. [Repealed by Section 12, Act 5, 1879.]

Removal of suits from supreme court to circuit court, and vice versa.

44. And we do further direct and appoint, that as often as any action or suit shall be brought in the Supreme Court, or in either of the said Circuit Courts, respectively, and it shall be made to appear to the Court, before which such action or suit may be pending, that such action may be more conveniently heard or determined either in the said Supreme Court or in some other of the said Circuit Courts, it shall be lawful for such Court to permit and allow such action or suit to be removed to such other court: and such allowance shall be certified by the Judge, together with the process and proceedings in such action or suit, to the Court into which such action or suit shall be intended to be removed; and thereupon it shall be lawful for such last-mentioned Court and such Court is hereby required, to proceed in such action or suit in like manner, as if the same had been originally commenced and prosecuted in such last-mentioned Court.

Transmission to the Governor by the presiding judge of report of proceedings on trials resulting in condemnation to death, transportation or banishment.

45. And we do further ordain and direct, that no judgment or sentence, either of the said Supreme Court, or of any such Circuit Provision for the passing of laws respecting the qualification of jurors.

47. And whereas it may be expedient and necessary to make provision respecting the qualifications of jurors, to serve in the said Courts and the mode of enforcing the attendance of such jurors, and it may also be expedient and necessary to make provision for the extension of trial by jury in the said Supreme Court, ⁽²⁾ or Circuit Courts, in civil cases: Now, we do further ordain, direct, and appoint, that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, for the time being, of our said Colony, with the advice of the Legislative Council of Government thereof, to make and establish all such wholesome laws, statutes, and ordinances, as to them may seem meet, respecting the matters aforesaid; which laws, statutes, and ordinances shall forthwith be transmitted to us for our approbation or disallowance, in the manner prescribed by law respecting all other the laws, statutes, and ordinances made, or to be made, by the said Governor with the advice of the said Council.

Provision for the constitution of inferior courts having civil and criminal jurisdiction.

48. And whereas it may be expedient to establish within our said Colony Courts of Request, and other Courts having jurisdiction in civil cases of small amount or value, and in cases of crimes or offences not punishable by death or transportation: Now we do hereby authorise and empower the Governor, for the time being, of our said Colony, with the advice of the Legislative Council of Government thereof, by any Laws and Ordinances to be from time to time made for that purpose, to erect, constitute, and establish all such Courts of Request and other Courts having jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases within our said Colony: Provided that the jurisdiction of such Civil Courts shall not be extended to any case wherein the sum or matter in dispute shall exceed the amount or value of forty pounds sterling money, or wherein the title to any lands or tenements, or any fee, duty, or office may be in question, or whereby rights in future may be bound: And provided also, that the jurisdiction of such Courts in criminal cases shall not be extended to any case wherein any person may be accused of any crime punishable by death, transportation, or banishment from the said Colony. ⁽³⁾

Framing of rules for such courts.

49. And we do hereby authorise and empower the said Governor, by and with the advice of the said Chief Justice and Puisne Judges of the said Supreme Court, for the time being, to make, ordain, and establish all necessary rules, orders, or regulations respecting the manner and form of proceeding in any such last-mentioned Courts, and respecting the local limits within which the jurisdiction thereof is to be exercised, and respecting the manner and form of carrying the judgments and orders of such

Courts into execution, and all such other rules, orders, and regulations as may be necessary for giving full and perfect effect to the jurisdiction of the said Courts. (1)

50. And we do hereby grant, ordain, and direct, that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons, being a party or parties to any civil suit or action depending in the said Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, to appeal (2) to us, our heirs and successors, in our or their Privy Council, against any final judgment, decree, or sentence of the said Court, or against any rule or order, made in any such civil suit or action, having the effect of a final or definitive sentence; and which appeals shall be made subject to the rules, regulations, and limitations following, that is to say: in case any such judgment, decree, order, or sentence shall be given or pronounced, for or in respect of any sum or matter at issue, above the amount or value of five hundred pounds sterling, or in case such judgment, decree, order, or sentence shall involve, directly or indirectly, any claim, demand, or question, to or respecting property, or any civil right amounting to or of the value of five hundred pounds sterling, the person or persons feeling aggrieved by any such judgment, decree, order or sentence of the Supreme Court may, within fourteen days next after the same shall have been pronounced, made, or given, apply to the said Supreme Court, by petition, for leave to appeal therefrom to us, our heirs and successors, in our or their Privy Council; and in case such leave to appeal shall be prayed by the party or parties, who is or are directed to pay any sum of money, or perform any duty, the said Supreme Court shall, and is hereby empowered, either to direct that the judgment, decree, order, or sentence appealed from, shall be carried into execution, or that the execution thereof shall be suspended pending the said appeal, as to the said Court may in each case appear to be most consistent with real and substantial justice. And in case the said Supreme Court shall direct such judgment, decree, order, or sentence to be carried into execution, the person or persons, in whose favour the same shall be given, shall, before the execution thereof, enter into good and sufficient security, to be approved by the said Supreme Court, for the due performance of such judgment or order, as we, our heirs and successors, shall think fit to make thereupon; or in case the said Supreme Court shall direct the execution of any judgment, decree, order, or sentence to be suspended pending the said appeal, the person or persons against whom the same shall have been given, shall, in like manner, and before any order for the suspension of any such execution is made, enter into good and sufficient security, to be approved by the said Supreme Court, for the due performance of such judgment or order, as we, our heirs and successors, shall think fit to make thereupon: and in all cases, we

Charter of Justice.

And whereas our royal brother and predecessor, his late Majesty King George the Fourth, by Letters Patent, under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom aforesaid, bearing date at Westminster, the twenty-fourth day of August, in the eighth year of his reign, did grant, direct, order, and appoint, that there should be within the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, a Court, which should be called the Supreme Court of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and it was thereby amongst other things provided that nothing therein contained should extend or be construed to extend, to prevent us, our heirs and successors, from repealing the said Letters Patent or any part thereof, or from making such further or other provision, by Letters Patent for the administration of justice, civil and criminal, within the said Colony, and the places then or at any time thereafter to be annexed thereto as to us, our heirs and successors, should seem fit, in as full and ample a manner as if the said Letters Patent had not been made; the said Letters Patent, or anything contained to the contrary therein, in anywise notwithstanding:

Now, we do hereby in virtue and in pursuance of the powers so reserved to us as aforesaid, in and by the said Letters Patent, repeal and revoke the beforementioned Letters Patent, and each and every part thereof: Provided nevertheless, that all decrees, judgments and sentences, rules and orders heretofore made by the Courts established by, or by the judges appointed under, the said Letters Patent, or by any or either of such Courts or Judges, and that all general rules, orders, and regulations of Court made under and in pursuance thereof, and that all proclamations issued by any Governor of the said Colony in virtue thereof, and that all Laws and Ordinances promulgated by the Governor of the said Colony, with the advice of the Council of Government thereof for carrying the said Letters Patent, or any part thereof, into effect, shall to all intents and purposes be as binding, conclusive, good, valid, and effectual, as if these presents had not been made.

Repeal of former charter.

55. And we do further ordain and direct, that the Governor of our said Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, upon the arrival therein of these presents, shall, by proclamation, notify to the inhabitants of the said Colony the time when the Courts hereby established will the secretary and bookkeeper thereof, and of such clerks and agents thereof, as to him shall seem fit, so long as the existence of such last-mentioned offices shall be necessary for the administration, distribution, and final settlement of all property, estates, matters, and things which previously to the said first day of March next, shall lawfully have come or been placed, and shall then be under the administration of the said Orphan Chamber. And every such office the abolition of which shall be suspended by the said Governor in manner aforesaid, shall be, and the same is hereby declared to be, finally abolished at such time as shall for that purpose be specified by the said Governor by any advertisement or advertisements inserted in the Government Gazette of this Colony; and the duties of all such offices the abolition of which shall be suspended in manner aforesaid shall be performed, so long as such offices shall continue to exist, under the superintendence and subject to the directions, orders, and absolute control of the Master of the Supreme Court, by the persons holding the same, or by such persons as shall hereafter be appointed by the said Governor to perform the duties thereof.

Performance by Master of the supreme court of the duties of orphan chamber.

2. And be it further enacted that from and after the said first day of March next all the duties which have heretofore been performed by the said Orphan Chamber, except in so far as shall to the contrary be provided by this or any other Law or Ordinance, shall henceforth be performed by the Master for the time being of the Supreme Court of this Colony.

Transfer of administration from orphan chamber to Master.

3. And be it further enacted that all persons, property, estates, matters, and things, which have at any time lawfully fallen or been placed and taken under, and which on the said first day of March next, shall respectively be under the guardianship, charge, or administration of the said Orphan Chamber, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be, from and after the said day, placed respectively under the guardianship, charge, and administration of the Master of the Supreme Court.

Custody of books, accounts and documents.

4. And be it further enacted that on the said first day of March next all books, accounts, vouchers, and other documents, of whatsoever description, which, if the said Orphan Chamber had been in existence on that day, ought by law then to have been under the charge, control, or custody of the said Orphan Chamber, or of any of the officers thereof, shall be placed and shall thereafter be and remain under the charge, control, and custody of the Master of the Supreme Court.

Proceedings by Master to obtain possession of property, books, documents, &c.

5. And be it further enacted that from and after the said first day of March next, the Master of the Supreme Court shall, and he is hereby empowered and required to demand and receive delivery and to take and keep possession of all property, estates, matters, and things, books, accounts, vouchers and documents, which, under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, shall be placed and become under his administration, charge, control, or custody. And that if any such property, estates, matters, or things, or books, accounts, vouchers, or documents shall be withheld or withdrawn, or if any attempt shall be made to withhold or withdraw the same from his possession, charge, control, or custody, the said Master shall and may summarily apply for redress according to law in the premises to the Supreme Court, or if the said Court shall not then be sitting to some one of the Judges thereof, who shall thereupon respectively make such order as to such Court or Judge respectively shall seem proper and necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this Ordinance: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent the said Master from bringing any action or actions in regular form against any person or persons where such a mode of procedure shall be necessary or expedient for the better carrying into effect the aforesaid provisions of this Ordinance. And provided also, that all bonds and other vouchers of any debts thereon payable to the Orphan Chamber, or due or payable or belonging to any person or estate which having been under the guardianship, charge, or administration of the Orphan Chamber, shall by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance have been placed under the guardianship, charge, or administration of the said Master, shall be delivered to and received by the said Master on inventory, which shall be signed by the said Master and by the person or persons by whom the said bonds or vouchers are delivered to the said Master, and shall thereupon be filed in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court.

Ord. 103—1833.

Delivery of bonds, &c., to Master on inventory.

6. And be it further enacted that on the said first day of March next all sums of money which shall form part of any estate or estates, or of any fund under the administration of the said Orphan Chamber, and which shall then be in the charge, possession, or custody of any officer or officers of the said Orphan Chamber, shall by such officer or officers be paid over to the said Master, who shall grant to him or them a receipt for the same. And every such receipt by the said Master shall be a full and sufficient discharge to such officer or officers for the sums therein acknowledged to have been received by the said Master. And all sums of money which by virtue of the provisions of His Majesty's Order in Council dated 28th November, 1828, or otherwise, have been paid into the discount bank, and in the books of such bank have been carried to the account of the said Orphan Chamber, shall on the said first day of March next be in the books of the said bank carried to the account of the Master of the Supreme Court.

Payment of money to Master.

Transfer of bank account to Master.

9. And be it further enacted that from and after the said first day of March next the Master of the Supreme Court shall be and he is hereby empowered and required to execute legal transfers in favour of persons legally entitled thereto of all immovable property which having at any time been or placed or taken under the administration of the said Orphan Chamber, shall not previously to the said day have been duly transferred to the persons entitled by law to receive transfer of the same, and generally to execute every such deed and to do and cause to be done every such matter and thing touching and concerning any person, property, estate, matter, or thing, who or which shall under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance be placed under his guardianship, charge, or administration, as the said Orphan Chamber, if it had continued to exist would have been legally authorised or could have been legally required to execute or to do or cause to be done touching and concerning the same.

10. And be it further enacted that from and after the said first day of March next it shall and may be lawful for any person who if the said Orphan Chamber had continued to exist might then lawfully have instituted any action or other legal proceeding against the said Orphan Chamber in respect of or in relation to any person, property, estate, matter, or thing, who or which shall by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance have been placed under the guardianship, charge, or administration of the Master of the Supreme Court, to institute any such action or legal proceeding against the said Master as such, and in place of the said Orphan Chamber. As also to continue and carry on any action or other legal proceeding which previously to the said first day of March next any such person shall have instituted against the said Orphan Chamber in respect of or with relation to any such person, property, estate, matter, or thing as aforesaid against the said Master as such, and in the place of the said Orphan Chamber: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to make it lawful for any person to continue and carry on, or to institute against the said Master any action or other legal proceeding which such person shall, previously to the said first day of March next have instituted, or, if the said Orphan Chamber had continued to exist, might have instituted against the said Orphan Chamber or any person or persons who shall at any time have been members or officers of the said Chamber, for reparation of any loss, damage, or injury which shall be alleged to have been at any time occasioned by any act improperly done or omitted to be done by the members or officers of the said Orphan Chamber or any of them in the performance of the duties of their office. And that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to free, discharge, or relieve any person or the heirs, executors, or representatives of any person who shall at any time have been a member or officer of the said Orphan Chamber from any obligation, claim, or demand in or to which any such person has at any time made himself or his heirs, executors, or representatives, liable by reason of any act improperly done or omitted to be done by such person in the performance of the duties of his office of member or officer of the said Orphan Chamber.

Ord. 103—1833.

Proceedings at law against Orphan Chamber to be brought or continued against Master, except actions for misconduct by officers of the chamber.

Liability of heirs of such officers.

11. And be it further enacted that the Master of the Supreme Court, so soon after the said first day of March next as may be, shall in order to provide for the proper custody, care, control, maintenance, and education of all such persons as shall by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance be placed under his guardianship and charge, do, and cause to be done, every act and thing which by the provisions of the Ordinance No. 105, he shall be authorised and required to do or cause to be done with reference to the custody, care, control, maintenance, and education of such persons as shall by virtue of the provisions of that Ordinance be placed under his guardianship and charge.

And be it further enacted that with respect to all property, estates, matters, and things which shall by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance be placed under the administration of the Master of the Supreme Court, he shall proceed in the administration, distribution, and final settlement thereof in conformity with and according to the rules and regulations, in conformity with, and according to which the same ought by law to have been administered, distributed, and finally settled by the said Orphan Chamber, if it had continued to exist. And the said Master is hereby authorised and required from and after the said first day of March next to demand, exact, receive, and retain, in respect of such property, estates, matters, and things, and in respect of any proceedings touching or concerning the same all such fees as by law would have been due and could have been exacted by the said Orphan Chamber or any of the officers thereof, if such property, estate, matter, or thing had previously to the said day been administered, distributed, or finally settled by the said Orphan Chamber, or any of the officers thereof. And the said Master shall keep a separate and distinct account of all such fees so received or retained by him, and shall account for and pay over the same in like manner as is by law provided in respect of any other fees received or retained by him as Master of the Supreme Court: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for the said Master, in all cases in which it shall appear to him expedient so to do, to proceed in the administration, distribution, and final settlement of all such property, estates, matters, and things as aforesaid, in such manner and in conformity with and according to the rules and regulations which shall be provided respectively by the Ordinances Nos. 104 and 105, for the administration, distribution, and final settlement of any property, estate, matter, or thing which shall by the provisions of such Ordinances respectively be placed under the administration of the said Master. And provided also, that when under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance there shall be paid to or received by the said Master any money belonging to any person or estate under his guardianship, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to open a debit and credit account in the wards' books with the person or persons to whom, or the estate to which such money shall belong and to pay such money into the discount bank, to be carried to the credit of the guardian's fund, in like manner in all respects as is provided by the twenty-sixth, twenty-seventh, twenty-eighth, and twenty-ninth sections of the Ordinance No. 105, touching and concerning any money therein mentioned.

Ordinance for regulating the Registration of Wills and the Administration of the Estates and Property of Persons dying, either testate or intestate, in so far as the same are situated within this Colony. (1)

WHEREAS it has been enacted by His Majesty's Royal Charter of Justice dated at Westminster on the 4th day of May, 1832, that the Orphan Chamber within this Colony shall be abolished, and that the duties which have heretofore been performed by the said Orphan Chamber shall henceforth be performed by the Master for the time being of the Supreme Court: And whereas the registration of wills, and the administration of certain estates of persons dying within this Colony heretofore formed part of the duties of the said Orphan Chamber, and were performed by the said Orphan Chamber, and by the agents thereof according to certain regulations contained in certain "instructions" and "provisional instructions for the Orphan Chamber," and in certain "instructions for the agents to the board of Orphan Masters in the country districts of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope," which have heretofore been in force, or have been enforced in this Colony, and in the Ordinance No. 42: And whereas, by reason that the duties hereinbefore specified are henceforth to be performed by the Master of the Supreme Court, instead of by the said Orphan Chamber, many of the said regulations have become impracticable or inexpedient. And whereas it is now expedient, in certain respects, to alter and amend the law of this Colony in so far as relates to the registration of wills, and the administration of the estates and property of persons dying, either testate or intestate, in so far as the same are situated within this Colony: Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that from and after the first day of March next, the instructions and provisional instructions hereinbefore mentioned, as also the Ordinance No. 42, shall be and the same are hereby repealed, except in so far as it has been enacted and declared by the Ordinance No. 103, that the said instructions and provisional instructions, and Ordinance, or any of the provisions thereof, shall subsist and have force and effect for regulating the administration, distribution, and final settlement of such property, estates, matters, and things, as by virtue of the provisions of the said Ordinance No. 103 shall be placed under the administration of the Master of the Supreme Court: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to repeal any of the enactments or provisions of His Majesty's Order in Council dated 24th November, 1828.

2. And be it further enacted, that from and after the said first day of March next, it shall and may be competent for any person, to lodge in the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, enclosed under a sealed cover, any will, codicil, or testamentary instrument, executed by him; and the said Master shall keep, or cause to be kept, a register of the names and descriptions of the persons lodging every such deed, and of the date of lodging the same; and every such deed shall be kept under the charge and custody of the said Master, unopened, until the death of the maker thereof, unless re-delivery of the same shall be demanded by the said maker, or in his lifetime by his lawful attorney, specially authorised for that purpose by any deed duly executed by the said maker; and when any such deed shall be re-delivered in manner aforesaid, the maker, or his attorney, as the case may be, shall sign a receipt for the same in the margin of the aforesaid register, opposite to the entry of such deed.

3. And be it further enacted, that from and after the said first day of March next, every person, who shall, at the time of the death of the maker thereof, have in his possession any deed being, or purporting to be, or entitled the last will, codicil, or other testamentary instrument of any other person, or into whose possession any such deed shall come after the death of the maker thereof shall forthwith, by the first opportunity, deliver or transmit every such deed ⁽¹⁾ at or to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, when such possessor shall reside in Cape Town, or the district thereof, or the Cape district, or the district of Stellenbosch; and when such possessor shall reside in any other district of the Colony, then to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which he shall reside. And every such Resident Magistrate shall cause a copy of every such deed so delivered or transmitted to him to be made, and shall authenticate such copy with his signature, and shall forthwith, by the first opportunity, transmit the original deed to the office of the said Master of the Supreme Court, and shall keep and preserve the aforesaid copy thereof, until he shall receive information from the said Master that such original deed has been safely lodged in his office; and when any such Magistrate shall receive information, that any deed transmitted by him as aforesaid to the office of the Master, has not arrived there, but has been lost or has miscarried, he shall forthwith from the copy in his custody, cause another copy to be made, and shall authenticate such copy with his signature, and shall, by the first opportunity, transmit the same to the office of the said Master, and he shall proceed in like manner so often as may be necessary, until he shall receive information from the said Master that the copy so transmitted has been safely lodged in his office; and so soon as he shall be so informed that such original deed or copy thereof has been safely lodged in the said office, the copy kept by the said Resident Magistrate in manner aforesaid, shall be delivered to any person having an interest therein, who shall apply for the same, or shall be destroyed if no such application be made within twelve months after the original shall have been lodged with such Resident Magistrate. ⁽¹⁾

Ord. 104—1833.

4. And be it further enacted, that if any person shall, either during the life of the testator or testatrix, or after his or her death, steal, or for any fraudulent purpose destroy or conceal any will, codicil, or other testamentary instrument, every such offender shall, being convicted thereof, be liable, at the discretion of the Court before which he shall be so convicted, to transportation from this Colony for seven years, or such other punishment by imprisonment with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding seven years, or by fine, or by both, as the said Court shall award; and it shall not in any indictment for such offence be necessary to allege that such will, codicil, or other instrument, is the property of any person, or is of any value: Provided always, that nothing herein contained, relating to the said offences, nor any proceeding, conviction, acquittal, or judgment, to be had or taken thereupon, shall prevent, lessen, or impeach any remedy which any person aggrieved by any such offence might or would by law have had by means of any civil action, suit, or proceeding, if this Ordinance had not been passed; but nevertheless, the conviction of any such offender shall not be received as evidence against him, nor his acquittal as evidence for him, in any such civil action, suit, or proceeding against him. And no person shall be liable to be convicted of the offence aforesaid, by any evidence whatever, in respect of any act done by him, if he shall at any time previous to his being indicted for such offence have disclosed such act on oath, in consequence of any compulsory process of any competent Court in any civil action, suit, or proceeding, which shall have been bona fide instituted by any party thereby aggrieved, or if he shall have disclosed the same in any examination which he may have undergone under and by virtue of the provisions of the sixty-first and sixty-fourth sections of the Ordinance No. 64.

Application by Master to the Court or a Judge for an order on persons refusing to give up wills.

6. And be it further enacted, that, if any person, who shall be in possession of any will, codicil, or testamentary instrument shall, after the death of the testator or testatrix, refuse or fail to deliver or transmit the same in manner hereinbefore provided, at or to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, or to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such person shall reside, the said Master is herewith authorised and required forthwith summarily to apply to the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, for an order of such Court or Judge, on such person, forthwith to deliver to the said Master such will, codicil, or other instrument; and further, on proof that any such person hath refused or failed to obey such order, to apply for and obtain from the said Court, or any Judge thereof, a warrant for the imprisonment of such person, until he shall deliver up to the said Master every such will, codicil, or other instrument in his possession, or under his control. And every such warrant shall and may be executed in like manner in all respects as any arrest may be made under and by virtue of the provisions of the nineteenth section of the Ordinance No. 73.

En registration of wills, &c., at testator's death.

7. And be it further enacted, that every deed, being or purporting to be, the will, codicil, or other testamentary instrument of any person which shall have been lodged in or delivered at or transmitted to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court in any manner hereinbefore provided, shall after the death of the maker thereof, in the original be enregistered by the Master in a register to be by him for that purpose kept in his said office, and to be called the Register of Wills, for which purpose the said Master is hereby authorised and required to open or cause to be opened every such deed which may be sealed up: Provided always, that notwithstanding any such registration, all questions as to the validity and legal effect of every such deed, shall be reserved and remain for the decision of the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, in which any action or suit shall be brought or shall depend touching or concerning the validity and effect of any such deed.

Inspection and copies and extracts of wills.

8. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for any person, on any day, Sundays and holidays excepted, at any hour, when according to any regulation made by competent authority for that purpose, the office of the Master of the Supreme Court shall be directed to be kept open, to apply at the said office, and to demand inspection of any deed enregistered in the Register of Wills aforesaid, and to demand any copies or extracts thereof: and for every such inspection, copy, or extract, there shall be paid by the person demanding the same such fee as is specified in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked A: Provided always, that every person holding office under the Government of this Colony shall be and they are hereby authorised without the payment of any fee or charge whatever to inspect any such deeds as aforesaid, and to take copies or extracts thereof, whenever it shall be necessary or expedient that the same should be done by any such person in the discharge of the duties of his office.

Ord. 104—1833.

9. And be it further enacted, that whenever any death shall occur the nearest relative or connection of the deceased who shall at the time be at or near the place of death, and in default of any such near relative or connection, the person who at or immediately after the death, shall have the chief charge of the house in or of the place on which, the death shall occur, shall cause notice (1) of the death to be given in manner following, that is to say,—where the death shall occur in Cape Town or within six hours' distance thereof, at the office of the Master of the Supreme Court; where the death shall occur elsewhere and in, or within six hours' distance of any town or village in which the office of any Resident Magistrate shall be holden, at such office; and where the death shall occur at any place situated at a greater distance from any such town or village, to the Field-cornet of the Field-cornetcy in which the death shall occur. And every person herein required to cause such notice as aforesaid to be given, who shall without some lawful and sufficient excuse fail to do so, shall, on conviction thereof before the Resident Magistrate of the district, at the instance of the Clerk of the Peace thereof, incur a penalty not exceeding five pounds sterling nor less than five shillings, to be levied out of the movable property of such person. And every Field-cornet within the Cape district and the district of Stellenbosch, to whom any such notice as aforesaid of any death shall be given, shall forthwith transmit the same to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court; and every Field-cornet in any other district to whom any such notice shall be given, shall forthwith transmit the same to the Resident Magistrate of such district; and every Resident Magistrate to whom any such notice shall be transmitted, shall forthwith transmit the same to the Master of the Supreme Court: Provided always, that it shall not be necessary for any person to cause notice of any death to be given under and in terms of the provisions of this Ordinance before the lapse of the period within which it is hereinafter provided that inventories taken of the property left by deceased persons shall be transmitted in manner hereinafter (2) mentioned, and that such notices may at all times be transmitted along with such inventories in manner hereinafter mentioned, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Death notices to master, magistrate or field-cornet.

10. And be it further enacted, that all such notices of death as are hereinbefore required to be given, shall contain and set forth the following ⁽¹⁾ particulars, in so far as the same shall be known to the person giving the same, that is to say:

1. The name and birth-place and names of the parents of the deceased.
2. His or her age.
3. His or her condition.
4. Whether married or unmarried or widower or widow.
5. The day of the decease.
6. At what house or where the person died.
7. Names of the deceased's children, and whether they are majors or minors.
8. Whether deceased has left property of any kind.
9. The name of the surviving spouse, if any, of the deceased.
10. The name and approximate date of death of any pre-deceased spouse of the deceased.
11. Whether the deceased left a will or not.

Provided always, that in such notice it shall not be necessary to specify the nature or amount of such property.

Death register.

11. And be it further enacted, that a register, to be called the "Death Register," shall be kept in the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, in which the said Master shall cause to be inserted every notice of death which shall be transmitted to him in manner hereinbefore provided, together with all the particulars therein contained.

Preference on estate for funeral expenses.

12. And be it further enacted, that every person, by whom the funeral of any deceased person shall be performed, or caused to be performed, shall, for the amount of the expenses of such funeral, in so far as the same were suitable to the condition of the deceased, have a preference on the property and assets of the estate of the deceased, before any other debt or claim which may have been owing by the deceased at the time of his death, or which may arise against his estate after his death.

Possession by survivor of estate in community until institution of proceedings under Ordinance No. 105.

13. And be it further enacted, that when one of two spouses who have been married in communion of property shall die, the joint estate shall remain under the charge of the survivor until the executors of the deceased, or the tutors testamentary, or dative, of the minor children of the marriage, or the Master of the Supreme Court, or curator bonis lawfully appointed to such minor children, shall institute proceedings for the administration, distribution, and final settlement of the said joint estate, under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, or of the Ordinance No. 105: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to prevent any such joint estate from being placed under sequestration as insolvent, at the instance either of the surviving spouse, or of any creditor or creditors on such estate, in like manner as the same might have been done under and by virtue of the provisions of the Ordinance No. 64, prior to the passing of this Ordinance.

Inventory of estate in community by surviving spouse within six weeks of the death.

14. ⁽²⁾ And be it further enacted, that, when one of two spouses who have been married in community of property shall die, the survivor shall within six weeks after the death of the deceased, cause an inventory of all property, goods, and effects, movable and immovable, of what kind soever, which at the time of the death shall have formed part or belonged to the estate possessed in community between the predeceasing and surviving spouses, to be made in presence of two witnesses, being persons qualified by law to serve on juries in the Supreme or Circuit Courts of this Colony, and of such persons having an interest in the distribution of the joint estate, as heirs or legatees of the predeceased spouse, who shall attend. And every such inventory shall be subscribed by the surviving spouse, the witnesses aforesaid, such heirs or legatees as shall be present at the making thereof. Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court and Circuit Courts or any Judge of the Supreme Court on cause being shown by the Master of the Supreme Court, or any person having an interest in such joint estate, respectively, to order that an inventory thereof shall be taken by any person or persons named in such order, or to appoint a curator to take the charge and custody of any such joint estate at any time either before or after the lapse of the said period of six weeks.

Ord. 104—1833.

15. And be it further enacted, that every surviving spouse, who shall wilfully neglect to cause an inventory of the joint estate to be made, in manner and within the period hereinbefore provided, or shall knowingly omit to enter in such inventory any article of property, of whatsoever kind, shall in the distribution of such estate forfeit all right to, and share in, any thing which may accrue to the joint estate after the death of the predeceasing spouse, and in and to such property so omitted in the inventory, and every loss which shall have been caused by the destruction or deterioration of any such property so omitted in the inventory, or which shall have accrued to the joint estate after the death of the predeceasing spouse, by the loss or deterioration of any part thereof, shall in the distribution of the estate fall upon and be borne by such surviving spouse solely and exclusively: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to free or exempt any person who shall for any fraudulent purpose make, or cause to be made, any false inventory of any such joint estate, from any penalty or punishment hereinafter, or by any other law or Ordinance provided, with respect to the offence of making false inventories for fraudulent purposes.

Penalties on omission of inventory.

16. (1) And be it further enacted, that on the death of any person not being one of two spouses married in community of goods, the wife or husband of the deceased, and in default or absence of the wife or husband, the child or children of the deceased, or in default, absence, or minority of the child or children, the next of kin of the deceased, or in default, absence, or minority of the next of kin, the person who at or immediately after the death, shall have the chief charge of the house in, or of the place on which the death shall occur, shall secure and take charge of all goods and effects, of whatever description, belonging to the deceased, and being in the house or upon the premises at the time of the death of the deceased, and shall retain the same in his or her custody and possession until delivery thereof shall be demanded by the executor or executors of the deceased, or by any person lawfully appointed by the Supreme Court, or by a Judge, or the Master thereof to receive delivery of the same, and shall within six days after the death, make or cause to be made in the presence of two witnesses, being persons qualified by law to serve on juries in the Supreme or Circuit Courts of this Colony, an inventory of all such goods and effects as aforesaid and of all others known by the person making, or causing such inventory to be made, to have belonged to the deceased. And every such inventory shall be subscribed by the person making or causing the same to be made and by the witnesses aforesaid.

Penalty for false inventory, two years' imprisonment or fine.

17. And be it further enacted, that if any person required and directed under and by virtue of the provisions of the fourteenth and sixteenth sections of this Ordinance, to make or cause to be made, an inventory of any estate, goods, or effects, shall, for any fraudulent purpose, make a false inventory thereof, every such offender being convicted thereof, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court before which he shall be so convicted, to punishment by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding two years, or by fine, or by both, as the said Court shall award.

Transmission of inventory to Master or resident magistrate.

18. And be it further enacted, that every person hereinbefore required or directed to make or cause to be made any such inventory as aforesaid, shall, so soon as the same has been made, forthwith by the first opportunity deliver or transmit every such inventory ⁽¹⁾ at or to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, when such person shall reside in Cape Town or the district thereof, or the Cape district, or the district of Stellenbosch; and when such person shall reside in any other district, then to the Resident Magistrate of such district. And every such Resident Magistrate shall cause a copy or copies of every such inventory so delivered or transmitted to him to be made, and shall authenticate such copy or copies with his signature, and shall transmit the original of every such inventory to the office of the said Master: Provided always, that when such inventory as aforesaid shall have been made by the survivor of two spouses, to whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will have lawfully bequeathed all the share of the said joint estate belonging to such predeceasing spouse, or whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will or other lawful instrument have appointed the executor of his or her will, and the tutor of his or her minor children, and the administrator (boedelhouder) of the said joint estate during the minority of such children, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for such spouse, if he or she shall think fit so to do, to transmit every such inventory as aforesaid, sealed up, to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, or to the Resident Magistrate of the district respectively, in manner hereinbefore provided. And when any such inventory, so sealed up, shall be transmitted to any Resident Magistrate, there shall also be transmitted to such Magistrate a duplicate and triplicate of such inventory, also sealed up. And such Resident Magistrate shall transmit the original of every such sealed inventory to the office of the said Master, and for and with respect to the transmission of such original inventory, whether sealed up or open, and of such copy or copies thereof as aforesaid, and of such duplicate and triplicate thereof as aforesaid, shall do and cause to be done, everything which, under and by virtue of the provisions of the third section of this Ordinance, such Resident Magistrate is required to do, or cause to be done, for the transmission of the originals and copies of wills, and shall proceed in all respects in like manner as is therein directed: Provided always, that no such duplicate or triplicate shall be re-delivered by such Resident Magistrate to any person, except the surviving spouse by whom the same was transmitted to him, or to some person authorised by such survivor to receive the same; and that no such sealed inventory, or duplicate or triplicate thereof, shall be opened, except by virtue of an order of the Supreme Court, or some Judge thereof, on sufficient cause for opening the same being shown by the Master of the Supreme Court, or by some person having an interest in the said joint estate.

19. And be it further enacted, that the estates of all persons dying either testate or intestate, in so far as the same shall be situated within this Colony, shall be administered and distributed according to law under and by virtue of letters of administration ⁽¹⁾ to be granted in the form contained in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked B, by the Master of the Supreme Court, to the testamentary executors duly appointed by such deceased persons, or to such persons as shall in default of testamentary executors be appointed executors dative to such deceased persons, in manner hereinafter mentioned: Provided always, that in all cases where the same may be necessary or expedient, the Master of the Supreme Court shall and may appoint a curator bonis, to take the custody and charge of any such estate, until letters of administration shall be granted to executors testamentary or dative, for the due administration and distribution thereof. And that every appointment so made by the said Master of any curator bonis, shall, on the application of any person having an interest in such estate, be subject to be reviewed and confirmed, or set aside by the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof; and such Court or Judge by whom any such appointment shall be set aside, shall and may appoint some other fit and proper person to be curator bonis.

20. And be it further enacted, that in all cases in which any deceased person shall by his will have duly appointed any person or persons to be his executor or executors, the Master of the Supreme Court shall, upon the application of such executor or executors, forthwith grant letters of administration to him or them, so soon as the will of the deceased shall have been lodged in the office of the said Master, in manner hereinbefore mentioned: Provided always, that if it shall appear to the said Master, or if any person by writing lodged at the office of the said Master shall object that any deed by virtue whereof any person or persons shall claim to be the testamentary executor or executors of any person deceased is not in law sufficient to warrant and support such claim, then and in every such case letters of administration shall not be granted until the validity and legal effect of such deed shall have been determined by the judgment of some competent Court, or until such objection as aforesaid shall have been withdrawn by the party by whom the same was made.

Proceedings on failure of appointment of executors, or on death, incapacity or refusal to act.

21. (1) And be it further enacted, that when any person shall have died without having by any valid deed appointed any person or persons to be his executor or executors, or where any person or persons duly appointed to be the executor or executors of any deceased person shall have predeceased him, or shall refuse, or become incapacitated to act as such, then and in every such case the Master of the Supreme Court shall cause to be published in the Gazette of this Colony, and in such other manner as to him shall seem fit, an edict, calling the surviving spouse (if any), the next of kin, legatees, and creditors of the deceased, to attend at his office at the time therein specified, to see letters of administration granted to such person or persons as shall then be appointed by him executor or executors dative to the estate of such deceased person: Provided always, that when it shall appear to the said Master necessary or expedient so to do, it shall and may be lawful for him, in such edict, to call such persons as aforesaid to attend at the office of any Resident Magistrate at such time as aforesaid, for the purpose of proposing some person or persons, to be by such Magistrate reported to the Master as fit and proper to be by him appointed executor or executors dative. And the said Master shall, at the meeting so to be holden at his office, or upon receiving the report of such Resident Magistrate, appoint such person or persons as to him shall seem fit and proper to be executor or executors dative of the estate of the deceased, and shall grant letters of administration accordingly, unless it shall appear to him necessary or expedient to postpone such appointment, and to call another or other such meeting or meetings as aforesaid. And provided also, that when it shall appear to the satisfaction of the said Master that the estate of any such deceased person as is hereinbefore mentioned is manifestly insolvent, then and in every such case it shall not be necessary for the said Master to take any such proceedings as aforesaid for the appointment of an executor or executors dative, and no such proceedings shall by him be taken for that purpose; and it shall and may be lawful for him, and he is hereby declared and required to take the necessary proceedings for having such estate placed under sequestration as insolvent, under and by virtue of the provisions of the third section of the Ordinance No. 64.

22. And be it further enacted, that in every case in which a competition shall take place for the office of executor dative, the surviving spouse, whom failing, the next, or some of the next of kin, whom failing, a creditor or creditors, whom failing, a legatee or legatees, shall be preferred by the Master of the Supreme Court to the office of executor dative. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any one or more of the above-mentioned classes of persons from being conjoined in the said office with any one or more of any other of the above-mentioned classes of persons. And that, when it shall appear to the Master or to the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, on reviewing the appointment of the Master, that any valid objection exists to the appointment of all or any of the above-mentioned persons, or classes of persons, as executor or executors dative, such objectionable person or class of persons shall be passed by, and some other fit and proper person or persons shall by the said Master, or by such Court or Judge, be appointed executor or executors dative. And provided also, that every such appointment so made by the said Master shall, on the application of any person having an interest in such estate, be subject to be reviewed and confirmed, or set aside by the Supreme Court or any Judge thereof; and such Court or Judge by whom any such appointment shall be set aside shall and may appoint some other fit and proper person or persons to be executor or executors dative.

23. And be it further enacted, that when it shall happen that any of the next of kin, or creditors, or legatees, of any deceased person shall be minors under the guardianship of any tutor or tutors duly appointed, then and in every such case such tutor or tutors shall be entitled to be preferred to the office of executor or executors dative, under the provisions of the immediately preceding section of this Ordinance, in like manner in all respects as the minor or minors whose tutor or tutors he or they are, would, if of full age, have been entitled to be preferred to that office under the provisions of the said section.

24. And be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent any testamentary executor or executors of any testator from assuming any other person or persons as executor or executors of such testator, under and by virtue of any power for that purpose to him or them committed

25. And be it further enacted, that when, by reason of any testamentary or assumed executor to whom letters of administration shall have been granted for the administration of any estate, having died or become incapacitated to act as such, or having been removed from his office by the decree of any competent Court, there shall not remain, for the administration of such estate, any executor whatever, or so many executors, either testamentary or assumed, as by the provisions of the deed by which such executors were appointed or permitted to be assumed, shall be required to form a quorum of executors for the administration of such estate, and when it shall happen that any executor dative shall, after letters of administration have been granted to him, die or become incapacitated, or be removed in manner aforesaid, then and in every such case proceedings, in order to the appointment of an executor dative, in place of such executor so dying or becoming incapacitated or removed, shall be had and taken by the Master of the Supreme Court, in like manner in all respects as is hereinbefore provided by the provisions of the twenty-first, twenty-second, and twenty-third sections of this Ordinance.

Revocation of letters of administration by decree of court, or in some instances by Master

26. And be it further enacted, that letters of administration granted to any person as testamentary executor, shall at all times be subject to be revoked and annulled by the decree of the Supreme or of any Circuit Court on the proof to the satisfaction of such Court that the deed in respect of which such letters have been granted to such persons is null, or has been revoked, either wholly or in so far as relates to the nomination and appointment of such executor: and that letters of administration granted to any person as executor dative shall be at all times subject to be revoked and annulled by the order of the Master of the Supreme Court, on production to him of any valid deed, by which any other, who shall then be legally capable and qualified, and who shall consent to act as executor, has been legally nominated and appointed testamentary executor to the estate to which such executor dative has been appointed to administer: Provided always, that, if the non-production of such deed, prior to letters of administration having been granted to the executor dative has been owing to the fault or negligence of the person therein appointed testamentary executor, such person shall be personally liable for all expenses which have been incurred in respect of and with reference to the appointment of the executor dative.

Ord. 104—1833.

27. And be it further enacted, that every executor dative shall, before he shall be permitted to enter on the administration of the estate, find security to the satisfaction of the Master of the Supreme Court, for the due and faithful administration of the estate of which he has been appointed executor dative, to such amount as in the circumstances of each particular case shall be reasonable.

Security by executor dative for due administration

28. And be it further enacted, that every executor, whether testamentary or dative, shall, so soon as letters of administration shall have been granted to him in manner aforesaid, forthwith make an inventory of all property, goods, and effects, movable and immovable, of what kind soever, belonging to, or forming part of, the estate which such executor shall have been appointed to administer, and shall, in like manner, from time to time, thereafter and so soon as such executor shall find or know of any other such property, goods, or effects, belonging to, or forming part of, such estate, and not contained in such first-mentioned inventory make an additional inventory or inventories of all such last-mentioned property, goods, and effects. And every such executor, either testamentary or dative, shall forthwith cause every such inventory and additional inventory to be transmitted to the office of the said Master. And when any such additional inventory shall be so transmitted by any executor dative, he shall find such further security as aforesaid as shall be required of him: Provided always, that when the person by whom any testamentary executor has been appointed shall, by any deed duly executed by him, have directed that such testamentary executor shall not transmit to the office of the said Master any such inventory or additional inventory as aforesaid, then and in every such case no such executor shall be required,—and that the survivor of any two spouses, married in community of property, to whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will have lawfully bequeathed all the share of the said joint estate belonging to such predeceasing spouse, or whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will or other lawful instrument have appointed the executor of his or her will, and the tutor of his or her minor children, and the administrator (boedelhouder) of the said joint estate during the minority of such children, shall not in any case be required,—to transmit to the office of the said Master, or to produce any such inventory as aforesaid, except when an order for the production of the same shall have been made by the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, on sufficient cause for the production of the same being shown by the Master, or by some person having an interest in the said joint estate; anything to the contrary herein contained notwithstanding.

Ord. 104—1833.

Liability in certain cases for debts and legacies by persons who previously to the granting of letters of administration have intermeddled with estates, and by persons to whom letters have been granted, — in respect of property not contained in inventory.

29. And be it further enacted, that if previously to letters of administration being granted by the Master of the Supreme Court to any executor or executors, testamentary or dative, for the administration of any estate, any person shall take upon himself to administer, distribute, or in any wise dispose of such estate or any part thereof, except in so far as may be absolutely necessary for the safe custody or preservation thereof, or for providing a suitable funeral for the deceased, or for the subsistence of the family or household or livestock left by the deceased, or if any person to whom letters of administration have been granted either as executor testamentary or dative shall administer, distribute, or in any wise dispose of any property or effects belonging to the estate of which he is the executor, and which shall not have been contained in the inventory or inventories of such estate lodged in the office of the said Master, previously to the granting of the said letters of administration, or shall not be contained in any additional inventory or inventories made by him and transmitted by him to the said office, in terms of the provisions of the twenty-eighth section of this Ordinance; every such person shall thereupon and in respect and by reason of such undue administration, distribution, or disposal of any such estate or any part thereof become and be personally liable to pay to the creditors and legatees of the deceased all debts due by the deceased at the time of his death, or which have thereafter become due by his estate, and all legacies left by the deceased, in so far as the proceeds and assets of such estate shall be insufficient for the full payment of such debts or legacies: Provided always, that when any person who shall be sued for the payment of any debt or legacy which he shall have rendered himself personally liable to pay in manner aforesaid, shall prove to the satisfaction of the Court before which he shall be sued, that the true amount and value of the property which has actually been unduly administered, distributed, or disposed of by him, did not exceed a certain sum, and that his administration, distribution, or disposal of the same was not fraudulent, then and in every such case such person shall only be personally liable for the amount of such sum, or for such part thereof as he shall fail to prove has been distributed or disposed of in such manner and for such purposes as by law the same ought to have been distributed or disposed of, and for the amount of the costs by him incurred in and concerning such suit, as well as for the amount of the taxed costs incurred in and concerning such suit by the plaintiff therein, notwithstanding that by reason of such person's personal liability to have been restricted in manner aforesaid such plaintiff shall not have recovered from such person any part of the debt or legacy sued for.

Public notice by executors to creditors and others to lodge their claims.

30. And be it further enacted, that every executor, whether testamentary or dative, shall so soon as he shall have entered on the administration of any estate, forthwith cause a notice to be published in the Gazette of this Colony, and in such other manner as may be deemed expedient, calling upon the creditors of and all others having claims against the deceased or his estate, to lodge the same with such executor within such period from the date of the publication thereof, as shall be therein specified, not being less than six weeks, or more than four calendar months, as in the particular circumstances of each case shall by such executor be deemed proper.

31. And be it further enacted, that it shall not be lawful for any person who shall have obtained the judgment of any Court against any deceased person in his lifetime, or against his executor or executors, in any suit or action commenced against such executor or executors, or which having been pending against the deceased at the time of his death, shall thereafter have been continued against the executor or executors of such person, to sue out or obtain any process in execution of any such judgment before the expiration of the period notified in the Gazette in manner hereinbefore provided. As also, that it shall not be lawful for any such person as aforesaid, to sue out or obtain any process in execution of any such judgment as aforesaid, within six months from the time when letters of administration shall have been granted to the executor or executors against whom execution of such judgment is sought, without first obtaining an order from the Supreme Court or some Judge thereof for the issuing of such process.

32. And be it further enacted, that on the expiration of the period notified in the Gazette in manner hereinbefore provided, every such executor or executors as aforesaid shall forthwith proceed to rank, according to their legal order of preference, all such debts and claims against the deceased, or his estate, as have been lodged with them, or of the existence of which they shall have knowledge, and shall pay off and discharge the same so soon as the funds necessary for that purpose shall have been realised out of the estate. And if the proceeds of such estate shall be found to be insufficient for the payment of all the just and valid claims to which it is liable, the executor or executors thereof shall be liable to pay to any person having any such just and valid claim, the amount to which such person would have been entitled to receive in respect of such claim as if ranked according to the legal order of preference, in so far as such executor or executors shall have within the said period last-mentioned, or afterwards, at any time when he or they knew of the existence of such claim, paid such amount to any person or persons, the payment of whose claims against the deceased, or his estate, according to the legal order of preference, ought to have been postponed until such just and valid claim as aforesaid had been satisfied; reserving always to such executor or executors recourse against the person or persons to whom payment of their claims may have been improperly made. that, when such notice to creditors as aforesaid shall have been duly published as aforesaid no creditor or claimant on the estate of any deceased person, who shall not have lodged the same with the executor or executors within such period as aforesaid, or thereafter before the distribution of the funds of the estate, shall, in respect thereof, be entitled to recover from any person having a just and valid claim against such estate, restitution of any part of such funds which may have been paid to such person in satisfaction thereof, after the expiry of such period, and before the claim of the person seeking such restitution was lodged with the executor or executors, although, if lodged in due time, such last-mentioned claim would, according to the legal order of preference, have been preferent to that of the person to whom such payment had previously been made, nor shall such person have any claim against any executor or executors in respect of any such distribution as aforesaid of the funds of any such estate made by him or them after the expiry of such period as aforesaid, and before the claim of such person shall have been made known to such executor or executors.

Filing of account of administration by executor with the master and resident magistrate.

Summons if account has not been lodged within six months.

Forfeiture of fees.

33. And be it further enacted, that every executor, whether testamentary or dative, shall so soon as the estate under his administration shall have been fully administered and distributed, lodge with the Master of the Supreme Court, and the Resident Magistrate of the district within which such estate was situated, who shall respectively cause the same to be preserved and registered in their offices for the inspection of all concerned, a full and true account of the whole administration and distribution of such estate. ⁽¹⁾ And every person having an interest in such estate, shall and may, at any time after the expiration of six months from the day on which the letters of administration were granted to such executor or executors, summon him or them to show cause before the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, why such account as aforesaid has not been lodged with the said Master and the said Resident Magistrate. And every executor who shall fail to lodge such account as aforesaid, in manner herein provided, and who shall have no lawful and sufficient excuse for such failure, shall by reason thereof forfeit all claim to any fees which he might otherwise be entitled to receive in respect of his administration of such estate.

36. And be it further enacted, that if any person who shall die after the first day of March next, shall by any will of a testamentary nature, unrevoked at the time of his death, have appointed the Orphan Chamber or the Master of the Supreme Court, to be the executor of his estate, then and in every such case such person shall be deemed and taken in law to have died without having appointed any executor, and the like proceedings shall be had and taken for and in respect of the appointment of executors to administer and distribute his estate, as would have been had or taken under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, if no such deed had ever been executed by such deceased person.

Invalidity of appointment after 1st March, 1834, of the orphan chamber or the master as executor.

37. And be it further enacted, that the law respecting the duties, powers, rights, relief, and responsibility of executors, and touching and concerning the administration by the survivor of two spouses of the joint estate of such spouses during the minority of the children of the predeceased spouse (boedelhouderschap) in force within this Colony, prior to the passing of this Ordinance, shall, except in so far as the same has been expressly repealed or altered by the provisions of this Ordinance, remain in full force and effect in like manner as if this Ordinance had not been made, anything to the contrary herein contained notwithstanding: Provided always, that every executor, either testamentary or native, shall in respect of his administration, distribution, and final settlement of any estate, be entitled to claim, receive, or retain out of the assets of such estate, or from any person who, as heir, legatee,

Transmission by executors to the master of claims of unrepresented minors and lunatics against the estates administered by them.

38. And be it further enacted, that every executor, either testamentary or dative, who shall, in administering, distributing, and settling any estate find that any minor not having a tutor testamentary or dative, or any lunatic, not having a lawful curator, or any person absent from this Colony, and not having a lawful representative within the same, has, any just and lawful right or claim to such estate, or any part thereof, such executor shall forthwith transmit in writing, to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court, a statement containing the name of such minor, lunatic, or absent person, and specifying the nature and amount of the property to which such minor, lunatic, or absent person has such right or claim as aforesaid.

Register of executors and of their sureties.

39. And be it further enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall cause to be kept in his office a register, containing the names of every executor, either testamentary or dative, to whom any letters of administration shall have been granted, and of every surety for any executor dative. And whenever any order for sequestration shall, under and by virtue of the provisions of the nineteenth section of the Ordinance No. 64, be delivered to the said Master, he shall cause such register to be examined, and if upon such examination it shall appear that the person whose estate has been placed under sequestration by such order, is either an executor or the surety of an executor, of any estate not previously administered, distributed, and finally settled, the Master shall in the first notice of such sequestration, which shall be published in the Gazette of this Colony, insert a statement of every such estate as aforesaid, of which such insolvent is an executor, or for the executor of which such insolvent is a surety; and specifying whether he is the executor or the surety for the executor of such estate.

Ordinance for providing for the due Administration and Management of the Estate and Property of Minors, Lunatics, and persons absent from the Colony, and for the proper Care of the Persons of Minors and Lunatics. (1)

WHEREAS it has been enacted by His Majesty's Royal Charter of Justice, dated at Westminster on the 4th day of May, 1832, that the Orphan Chamber within this Colony shall be abolished and that the duties which have heretofore been performed by the said Orphan Chamber shall henceforward be performed by the Master for the time being of the Supreme Court; And whereas the administration of the estates and property of minors and in certain cases of persons absent from the Colony, and the care of the persons of minors heretofore formed part of the duties of the said Orphan Chamber; And whereas, by the Ordinance No. 103 the regulations according to which such duties were performed by the said Orphan Chamber have from and after the first day of March next been repealed, and it has now become expedient to provide for the due administration and management of the estate and property of minors, lunatics, and in certain cases of persons absent from this Colony, and also for the proper care of the persons of minors and lunatics: Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council, that from and after the first day of March next it shall not be lawful for any person except the father of any minor or mother of any minor whose father is dead, by any will or other deed to nominate and appoint any tutor or tutors to administer and manage the estate or to take care of the person of such minor: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend to prevent any person, who shall give or bequeath any property to any person to appoint any curator or curators to administer and manage such property during the minority or during the continuance of the insanity of the person to whom the same shall be given or bequeathed in like manner and as fully in all respects as the same might lawfully have been done prior to the passing of this Ordinance; and that all curators so appointed for any such purpose shall be called and known in law by the style and appellation of curators nominate.

Appointment by father or mother only of tutors to minors.

Curators nominate.

Tutors testamentary.

2. And be it further enacted that all tutors nominated and appointed by fathers or mothers in manner aforesaid to their minor children shall be called and known in law by the style and appellation of tutors testamentary, whether such tutors shall have been nominated and appointed by wills, or by any other deeds duly executed by such fathers or mothers; and that no tutor testamentary shall assume or enter upon the administration or management of the estate or property of any minor, except in so far as may be necessary for the preservation and safe custody of the same, until letters of confirmation shall have been granted to him by the Master of the Supreme Court in the form contained in the schedule hereunto annexed marked A.

Confirmation of tutors testamentary by master.

Mode of granting letters of confirmation.

3. And be it further enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall, on application in writing being made to him for that purpose, grant letters of confirmation as tutor testamentary to every person who shall have been lawfully nominated and appointed tutor testamentary to any minor by any valid deed produced by such person together with his application or which shall previously have been registered in the office of the said Master under and by virtue of the provisions of the Ordinance No. 104. And it shall and may be lawful for any person who shall have been appointed tutor testamentary to any minor by any will, codicil, or other testamentary instrument, which such person shall under and by virtue of the provisions of the said Ordinance No. 104 be required to transmit or to cause to be transmitted to the office of the said Master to transmit to the Master together with such deed an application for letters of confirmation as tutor testamentary. And whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the said Master that any person who has been duly nominated and appointed tutor testamentary by any valid deed has not applied for letters of confirmation, the said Master shall by writing require of such person to inform him whether he is willing to act as such tutor testamentary, and if he shall consent so to do shall grant him letters of confirmation accordingly: Provided always, that letters of confirmation as tutor testamentary shall not in any case be granted to any person who shall at the time be by law incapacitated or disqualified to hold the office of tutor.

Ord. 105—1833.

4. And be it further enacted, that no curator nominate shall assume or enter upon the administration or management of such estate or property, except in so far as may be necessary for the preservation and safe custody of the same, until letters of confirmation shall have been granted to him by the Master of the Supreme Court. And in order to the granting of such letters of confirmation proceedings shall be had and taken by any such person and by the Master, in like manner in all respects as is hereinbefore provided by the provisions of the third section of this Ordinance as to the granting of letters of confirmation to tutors testamentary, and such letters shall be in the form contained in the schedule hereunto annexed marked B.

Letters of confirmation to curators nominate.

5. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court or any Judge thereof on the application of the Master thereof or of any relation or of any person having an interest in the due administration of the estate or property of any minor, in every case in which prior to the passing of this Ordinance any tutor testamentary might by law have been required to give security rem pupilli salvam fore, to make an order that letters of confirmation shall not be granted to any such tutor testamentary or curator nominate as aforesaid until he shall have found security to the satisfaction of the said Master to such an amount as in the circumstances of each particular case shall be reasonable, for the due and faithful administration and management of such estate or property.

Security "rem pupilli salvam fore" by tutors and curators nominate in like manner as before the passing of this ordinance.

6. And be it further enacted, that in every case in which it shall come to the knowledge of the Master of the Supreme Court, that any estate or property within this Colony has devolved on or come to belong to any minor, being within this Colony, and not being at the time under the natural guardianship of his or her father or mother, or of a tutor or tutors testamentary duly confirmed, then and in every such case the said Master, except when it shall be known to him that a tutor or tutors testamentary has or have been duly nominated and appointed to such minor by any valid deed (in which case he shall proceed in manner for that purpose provided by the third section of this Ordinance), shall cause to be published in the Gazette of this Colony and in such other manner as to him shall seem fit an edict calling on the relations of the minor, both paternal and maternal, to attend at his office at the time therein specified, not being less than three weeks or more than eight weeks from the day of the publication thereof, to see letters of confirmation granted to such persons as shall therein be appointed by him tutor or tutors dative of such minor: Provided always, that when it shall appear to the said Master necessary or expedient so to do, it shall and may be lawful for him in such notice to call on the relations of such minor, both paternal and maternal, to attend at the office of any Resident Magistrate at the time therein specified for the purpose of stating any objections which may exist to any of the next of kin or other person being appointed tutor dative, or of proposing some person or persons to be by such Magistrate reported to the Master as fit and proper to be by him appointed tutor or tutors dative. And the said Master shall at the meeting so to be holden at his office, or upon receiving the report of such Resident Magistrate, appoint such person or persons as to him shall seem fit and proper to be the tutor or tutors dative of such minor, and shall grant to him or them letters of confirmation as such, unless it shall appear to him necessary or expedient to postpone such appointment, and to call another or other such meeting or meetings as aforesaid. And provided also, that when any such minor shall not be possessed of or have claim to any other estate or property except such as shall have been given or bequeathed to such minor by some person who has duly appointed a curator or curators nominate to administer and manage the same during the minority of such minor, it shall not be necessary for the said Master to take any such proceedings as aforesaid for the appointment of a tutor dative, and no such proceedings shall by him be taken for that purpose.

Selection of persons to be appointed tutors dative.

7. And be it further enacted, that when it shall be necessary to appoint a tutor dative to any minor in manner hereinbefore provided, the Master of the Supreme Court shall appoint as tutor or tutors dative the mother and one or two or more of the nearest male relations, paternal or maternal, of such minor, who shall have attained the age of twenty-one years, and shall be willing to act as such: Provided always, that when it shall appear to the Master, or to the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, on reviewing the appointment of the Master, that any valid objection exists to the appointment of all or any of such relations to be the tutor or tutors dative of such minor, such objectionable person or persons shall be passed by, and some other fit and proper person or persons shall by the said Master, or by such Court or Judge, be appointed tutor or tutors dative. And provided also, that every such appointment so made by the said Master shall, on the application of any of the relations, either paternal or maternal, of or of the curator or curators nominate of any estate or property belonging to such minor, be subject to be reviewed and confirmed or set aside by the Supreme Court or any Judge thereof, and such Court or Judge by whom any such appointment shall be set aside shall and may appoint some other fit and proper person or persons to be the tutor or tutors dative of such minor.

Ord. 105—1833.

8. And be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent any tutor or tutors testamentary of any minor, or curator or curators nominate of any estate, from assuming respectively any other person or persons as tutor or tutors of such minor, or curator or curators of such estate, under and by virtue of any power for that purpose to him or them committed by the will of or any other deed duly executed by the person by whom such tutor or tutors testamentary or curator or curators nominate shall have been appointed: Provided always, that no person shall be entitled or qualified to act as assumed tutor or curator until letters of confirmation shall have been granted to him as such by the Master of the Supreme Court, who is hereby directed and required to grant the same on production to him of the will or other deed by which the assumption of such tutor or curator is authorised and of the deed by which such tutor or tutors testamentary or curator or curators nominate has or have respectively assumed such person as tutor or curator. And every provision of this and of every other Law or Ordinance applicable or relating to or affecting tutors or curators dative, shall be deemed and taken to and shall apply and relate to and affect every such tutor or curator so assumed respectively.

Assumption under power in will or deed, of other persons by tutors testamentary and curators nominate.

Confirmation by master of assumed tutor or curator.

9. And be it further enacted that when by reason of any tutor of any minor, either testamentary or assumed, or of any curator of any estate, either nominate or assumed, to whom letters of confirmation shall have been granted, having died, or become incapacitated to act as such, or having been removed from his office by the decree of any competent Court, there shall not remain for the guardianship of such minor or for the administration or management of such estate, respectively, any tutor or curator whatever or so many tutors, either testamentary or assumed, or curators nominate or assumed, as by the provisions of the deed by which such tutors or curators were respectively appointed or permitted to be assumed shall be required to form a quorum of tutors or curators of the guardianship of such minor, or for the administration and management of such estate respectively, and when it shall happen that any tutor dative shall after letters of confirmation have been granted to him, die or become incapacitated or be removed in manner aforesaid, then and in every such case proceedings in order to the appointment of a tutor dative in place of the person so dying or becoming incapacitated or removed shall be had and taken by the Master of the Supreme Court, in like manner and in all respects as is hereinbefore provided by the provisions of the sixth and seventh sections of this Ordinance.

Revocation of letters of confirmation by supreme or circuit court: and, as to tutors dative, by master on production of a valid deed appointing a tutor testamentary.

10. And be it further enacted that letters of confirmation granted to any person as tutor testamentary or as curator nominate of the estate of any minor shall be at all times subject to be revoked and annulled by the decree of the Supreme Court or of any Circuit Court on proof to the satisfaction of such Court that the deed in respect of which such letters have been granted to such person is null or has been revoked either wholly or in so far as relates to the appointment of such tutor or curator, and that letters of confirmation granted to any person as tutor dative shall be at all times subject to be revoked and annulled by the order of the Master of the Supreme Court on production to him of any valid deed by which any other person, who shall then be legally capable and qualified and who shall consent to act as tutor, has been legally appointed tutor testamentary of the minor to whom such tutor dative had been appointed: Provided always, that if the non-production of such deed prior to letters of confirmation having been granted to the tutor dative has been owing to the fault or negligence of the person therein appointed tutor testamentary, such person shall be personally liable for all the expenses which have been incurred in respect of and with reference to the appointment of the tutor dative.

Appointment of curators dative for the benefit of lunatics, by the court on the application of the master or other persons interested.

11. (1) And be it further enacted, that in every case in which it shall come to the knowledge of the Master of the Supreme Court that any estate or property within this Colony (not being an estate or property for the administration and management of which a curator nominate has been duly appointed in manner hereinbefore mentioned) has devolved on or come to belong to any lunatic or insane person being within this Colony and not being at the time under the guardianship of some person lawfully appointed his curator dative, then and in every such case the said Master shall apply to the competent Court to appoint some fit and proper person or persons to be the curator or curators of such lunatic or insane person, and to make an order for the safe custody of such lunatic or insane person; and every such application shall be made by the Master, and every such appointment and order shall be made by such Court, in like manner in all respects as the same ought by law to have been made prior to the passing of this Ordinance. And all curators so appointed to any lunatic or insane persons shall be called and known in law by the style and appellation of curators dative: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to or be construed to extend to prevent any person other than the said Master from making such application for the appointment of a curator dative to any lunatic or insane person in like manner as the same might by law have been made by any such person prior to the passing of this Ordinance. And provided also, that it shall and may be lawful for the said Master or any other person at any time to apply to any competent Court to make an order for the safe custody of any lunatic or insane person, although such lunatic or insane person shall not be possessed of or have right to any estate or property, or although any property or estate of which he may be possessed or to which he may have right shall be under the administration and management of any curator or curators nominate duly appointed for that purpose.

12. And be it further enacted, that, when after any person shall have been found and declared by the decree of any competent Court to be a lunatic or insane, and shall have had a curator dative appointed to him, or an order shall have been made for his safe custody, it shall happen that the curator dative of such lunatic or insane person or the curator nominate of any estate or property which has been given or bequeathed to such person shall die or become incapacitated to act as such or be removed from his office by the decree of any competent Court, then and in every such case proceedings in order to the appointment of a curator dative to such lunatic or insane person in place of the person so dying or becoming incapacitated or removed shall be had and taken by the Master of the Supreme Court in like manner in all respects as is hereinbefore provided by the provisions of the sixth and seventh sections of this Ordinance as to the appointment of tutors dative to minors.

13. (1) And be it further enacted that in every case in which it shall come to the knowledge of the Master of the Supreme Court that in consequence of the death of any person any estate or property hath devolved on or come to belong to any person absent from this Colony and not having a legal representative within the same, then and in every such case the said Master shall cause to be published in the Gazette of this Colony, and in such other manner as to him shall seem fit, an edict calling on all whom it may concern to attend at his office at the time therein specified, not being less than six weeks from the day of the publication thereof, to see letters of confirmation granted to such person as shall then be appointed by him curator dative of the estate or property of such absent person. And the said Master shall at the meeting so to be holden at his office appoint some fit and proper person to be such curator dative as aforesaid: Provided always, that when the only property known by the said Master to belong to any such absent person shall consist of a sum or sums of money due and payable to him by the executor of any deceased person or by the trustee of the sequestrated estate of any insolvent person it shall not be necessary for the said Master to take any such proceedings as aforesaid for the appointment of a curator dative, and no such proceedings shall be had or taken, but it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to demand, recover, and receive payment of all such sums of money, to be after the same are so received by him disposed of in manner hereinafter provided.

14. And be it further enacted that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court after the passing of this Ordinance from appointing a curator ad litem to any person in every case and in the same manner in all respects in which such appointment might by law have been made by such Court prior to the passing of this Ordinance. And that in all cases when the same may be necessary or expedient the Master of the Supreme Court shall and may appoint a curator bonis to take the custody and charge of any estate or property until, in order to the due administration and management of the same, letters of confirmation shall be granted to some person as tutor testamentary or dative or as curator nominate or dative in manner hereinbefore provided. And every such appointment as curator bonis so made by the said Master shall on the application of any person having an interest in such estate be subject to be reviewed and confirmed or set aside by the Supreme Court or any Judge thereof; and such Court or Judge by whom any such appointment shall be set aside shall and may appoint some other fit and proper person to be curator bonis.

Retention of colonial law as to powers &c., of curators ad litem and curators bonis, except where specially repealed.

15. And be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to repeal or alter the law in force within this Colony prior to the passing of this Ordinance in so far as relates to the powers, rights, duties, obligations, and liabilities of curators ad litem or curators bonis, except in so far as the same is hereinbefore or hereinafter expressly repealed or altered by any special provision of this Ordinance.

Security for due administration by tutor dative and curator dative.

16. And be it further enacted that every tutor dative and every curator dative who shall be appointed by the Master of the Supreme Court or any Court or Judge to administer the estate or property of any minor or lunatic or insane or absent person shall, before he shall be permitted to enter on the administration of such estate or property, find security to the satisfaction of the Master of the Supreme Court to such amount as in the circumstances of each particular case shall be reasonable for the due and faithful administration and management of such estate and property.

Disqualifications of persons as tutors or curators.

17. And be it further enacted, that every person shall be deemed incapacitated and disqualified to hold and shall be incapable of holding the office of tutor, either testamentary or dative, or of curator, either nominate or dative, in every case and by and for every cause in, by, and for which any person appointed tutor testamentary would previously to the passing of this Ordinance have been deemed incapacitated and disqualified to hold and would have been incapable of holding the office of tutor testamentary under and by virtue of any law then in force within this Colony. And that every tutor, either testamentary or dative, and every curator, either nominate or dative, whose estate shall be placed under sequestration as insolvent, under and by virtue of the provisions of the Ordinance No. 64 shall cease to exercise or hold, and shall thereupon be deemed to have been removed and shall ipso facto be removed from his office as tutor or curator aforesaid so soon as the order for such sequestration has been made when the same has been made on the petition of the insolvent himself, and so soon as the sequestration has been adjudged by the competent Court when the order for the same has been made on the petition of any creditor or creditors of the insolvent. And every such tutor or curator as aforesaid shall be subject to be removed from his office by the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court or to be suspended therefrom by any judge of the Supreme Court in every case and for every cause in or for which any tutor testamentary might previously to the passing of this Ordinance have been removed or suspended from his office by any Court or Judge under and by virtue of any law then in force within this Colony.

Removal ipso facto of insolvent tutors and curators.

Ord. 105—1833.

Removal and suspension for cause of tutors and curators.

18. And be it further enacted, that all tutors, either testamentary or dative, and all curators, either nominate or dative, shall within eight weeks at most after entering upon the administration of their office make or cause to be made and shall subscribe, an inventory of all property, goods, effects, movable and immovable, forming part of or belonging to the estates or persons under their guardianship in the same manner and form in all respects in which any tutor testamentary ought prior to the passing of this Ordinance to have made any such inventory under and by virtue of any law then in force within this Colony. And every such tutor and curator shall thereafter from time to time and so soon as any other such property, goods, or effects as aforesaid shall come into his possession or to his knowledge make in like manner and form as aforesaid an additional inventory thereof. And every such tutor or curator shall respectively, forthwith transmit all such inventories to the office of the Master of the Supreme Court: Provided always, that when the person by whom any tutor testamentary or curator nominate has been appointed shall in the deed by which such appointment is made or in any other deed duly executed by him have directed that the inventory and additional inventories to be made by such tutor or curator in manner hereinbefore provided shall be transmitted to the Master sealed up, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for such tutor or curator,—and when any such inventory shall have been made by the survivor of two spouses whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will or other lawful instrument have appointed the tutor of his or her minor children and the administrator (boedelhouder) of the joint estate of such spouses during the minority of such children, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for such spouse, if he or she shall think fit so to do,—to transmit every such inventory, sealed up, to the office of the said Master. And no such sealed inventory shall be opened except by virtue of an order of the Supreme Court or some Judge thereof, on sufficient cause for opening the same being shown by the said Master or by some person having an interest in the said joint estate. And with every such inventory, whether sealed or unsealed, there shall be

Penalties on failure of tutors and curators to make and transmit inventory.

19. And be it further enacted, that every tutor or curator who shall fail to make up and transmit any such inventory as aforesaid in manner hereinbefore provided and who shall have no lawful and sufficient excuse for such failure shall by reason thereof and in addition to every other liability, consequence, and penalty which he shall thereby by law subject himself to and incur, be liable to pay all the expenses which shall have been and shall be incurred as well with reference to his own appointment as to the appointment of the tutor or curator who shall on his removal be appointed in his place.

Penalty on conviction of tutor or curator for making false inventory.

20. And be it further enacted, that if any tutor or curator required and directed under and by virtue of the seventeenth section of this Ordinance, to make or cause to be made an inventory of any estate, goods, or effects, shall for any fraudulent purpose make a false inventory thereof, every such offender being convicted thereof shall be liable at the discretion of the Court before which he shall be so convicted, to punishment by imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding two years, or by fine or by both as the said Court shall award.

Duties and liabilities of tutors and curators after confirmation.

21. And be it further enacted that when letters of confirmation shall have been granted to any tutor, either testamentary or dative, or to any curator, either nominate or dative, then and in every such case, except in so far as shall to the contrary herein be provided, every such tutor shall in all respects and for all intents and purposes, and every such curator shall in so far as relates to the particular estate or property which has been placed under his guardianship, have every power, right, and privilege, and shall do and cause to be done, every act, matter, and thing, touching and concerning the inventorisation, administration, and management of the estate or property under their guardianship, and every such tutor or curator and his estate shall in respect and by reason of every act, matter, or thing done or omitted to be done by him, incur and be subject to every liability, obligation, and penalty, which by any law in force within this Colony, prior to the passing of this Ordinance, any tutor testamentary would then respectively have had, or have been directed or required to do, and which he and his estate would then in respect and by reason of any such act, matter, or thing done or omitted, to be done by him, have incurred or been subject to: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to give any curator nominate or dative, any power or authority as to the maintenance, education, or custody of the person of any minor or lunatic or insane person, except in so far as the same may have been specially given and committed to him by the decree or order of any competent Court or Judge. And provided, also, that every tutor testamentary and curator nominate shall, in the discharge of such their office and in the administration of the estate and property respectively under their guardianship, conform and obey every lawful direction touching and concerning the same, which shall have been given by the person by who such tutor or curator shall have been appointed in the deed by which such appointment was made or in any other writing duly executed by such person.

22. And be it further enacted, that when, by reason of the death of one of two spouses who have been married in community of property, any part of the joint estate of such spouses shall devolve to any minor, then and in every such case, except when the survivor shall have been by the pre-deceasing spouse appointed the tutor of his or her children, and the administrator (boedelhouder) of the joint estate of such spouses during the minority of such children, the tutor either testamentary or dative or curator nominate of such minor shall and he is hereby authorised and required to take such proceedings as may be necessary to cause the surviving spouse to make an inventory of the joint estate in such manner and form as is provided by the fourteenth section of the Ordinance No. 104 or when such inventory has been made before letters of confirmation have been granted to such tutor, to cause an additional inventory to be made of all property, goods, or effects movable or immovable of what kind soever which at the time of the death shall have formed part or belonged to the estate possessed in community between the pre-deceasing and surviving spouses, and which shall have been omitted in the inventory made by the surviving spouse. And so soon as the amount and extent of such property, goods, or effects as aforesaid, which shall have formed part of or belonged to the said joint estate shall have been ascertained by the inventory or inventories hereinbefore mentioned every such tutor as aforesaid shall forthwith take such proceedings for ascertaining and securing the share of such estate to which such minor shall have right as shall be in conformity with any lawful directions for that purpose given by the deceased spouse in any will or other deed duly executed by such spouse, or in default of such directions as shall be most expedient for the interest of the minor and as shall be consistent with the lawful rights of the surviving spouse: Provided always, for the more effectual securing the interest of such minors, that no Matrimonial Court within this Colony shall authorise or permit, and all such Courts are hereby prohibited to authorise or permit, the father or mother of any such minor heirs, to re-marry, until there shall be produced to such Court a certificate under the hand of the Master of the Supreme Court or of such person or persons as shall have been duly appointed tutor or tutors testamentary or dative, or curator or curators bonis, to such minors that the shares due to such minors out of such joint estate

23. And be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to repeal or alter any law in force within this Colony prior to the passing of this Ordinance, touching and concerning the administration by the survivor of two spouses of the joint estate of such spouses during the minority of the children of the pre-deceased spouse (boedelhouderschap), or touching and concerning the execution, requisites, and privileges of bond passed by surviving spouses previously to their re-marriage for securing the inheritance due to the minor children of their pre-deceased spouse (kinderbewyzen) or touching and concerning the paternal power, guardianship, duties, and obligations of fathers and mothers over, and to their legitimate children, and of mothers over, and to their illegitimate children, or touching and concerning the maintenance and education of minor children, either by their parents or others, and either out of the interest accruing from the paternal or maternal inheritance to which such children have succeeded or otherwise,—or touching and concerning the charge and custody of the persons of minors,—or touching and concerning the rights, privileges, remedies, or obligations of minors or other persons under the guardianship of tutors or curators, or touching and concerning any action competent to such minors against their tutors or curators, or competent to their tutors or curators against such minors or other persons as aforesaid, except in so far as any such law is hereinbefore or hereinafter expressly repealed or altered by any special provision of this Ordinance: Provided always, that when any question shall arise touching and concerning the maintenance or education, or the charge or custody of the person of any minor, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for any Judge of the Supreme Court to make such temporary order as to him shall seem necessary, to provide for the due maintenance, education, and the charge and custody of the person of such minor until such question shall be decided by the decree of the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court.

24. And be it further enacted, that no tutor, either testamentary or dative, and no curator, either nominate or dative, or curator bonis shall sell, alienate, or mortgage any immovable property belonging to any minor, or forming part of any estate under the guardianship of such tutor or curator, unless the Supreme Court or any Judge thereof shall by any order made by such Court or Judge have authorised such sale, alienation, or mortgage, or unless the person by whom any such tutor testamentary or curator nominate shall have been appointed shall have directed such sale, alienation, or mortgage to be made.

25. And be it further enacted, that every tutor dative and every curator dative or curator bonis shall forthwith pay over to the Master of the Supreme Court, all moneys belonging to the person or estate under his guardianship, so soon as the same shall be received by or come into the possession of such tutor or curator, except in so far as the same may be required for the instant payment of debts due by such estate or for the immediate maintenance of such person. And if any such tutor or curator shall without any lawful and sufficient excuse retain and fail to pay over to the said Master any such moneys as it is herein directed, shall be so paid over to the said Master, every such tutor or curator shall be liable to pay to and for the benefit of the person or estate to whom or which such money belongs interest on the same at the rate of ten per cent. per annum for the whole period during which such money shall be so improperly retained and shall not be paid over to the Master; and shall be liable to be removed from his office of tutor or curator by the decree of any competent Court if it shall appear expedient to such Court so to do; and whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the said Master that any such money has been so retained and not paid over to him by any such tutor or curator, he shall forthwith institute an action against such tutor or curator in order to recover payment thereof and of the above-mentioned penal interest due thereon.

26. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for any tutor testamentary or curator nominate to whom it shall seem expedient so to do, except where the person by whom such tutor or curator has been appointed shall have directed that the same shall not be done, to pay over to the Master of the Supreme Court any money belonging to the person or estate under the guardianship of such tutor or curator and which by law such tutor or curator might lend out on interest.

27. And be it further enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall so soon as any money shall be paid over to or received by him under the provisions of the thirteenth, twenty-fifth, and twenty-sixth sections of this Ordinance open in a book to be kept for that purpose, and which shall be called and known in law by the style and appellation of the "Wards' Book," a debit and credit account with the person or persons to whom or with the estate to which such money shall belong, and in this account shall enter to the credit of such person or estate all such money then or which may hereafter be paid over to him or received by him on account of such person or persons or estate. And when such money shall belong to more persons than one the said Master shall ascertain the amount of the share actually belonging to each of such persons, and shall open such account as aforesaid with each of

28. And be it further enacted, that every sum which shall be placed to the credit of any person or estate in any such account so to be opened as aforesaid shall bear interest from the first day of the second month which shall occur after such money shall have been entered in such account, and such interest shall be at the rate of one per cent. less than the legal rate of interest current at the time within this Colony. (1) And on the first day of January in each year all such interest as shall have become due to any such person as aforesaid and shall not have been paid to him or on his account shall be accumulated with the capital then due to such person: and the accumulated sum shall be placed to his credit in such account, and bear interest in like manner as is hereinbefore mentioned: Provided always, that no such money as aforesaid shall bear interest after the period at which the person to whom it shall belong being or having a legal representative within this Colony might by reason of his or her having attained the age of majority, or otherwise, have demanded and received payment of the same. And provided also, that when such money shall belong to any person absent from this Colony and not having any known legal representative within the same or to any unknown person or persons, such interest shall so long as such person shall be unknown or absent from the Colony without having a legal representative within the same, provided such period shall not exceed five years, be at the rate of one-half of the legal rate of interest current at the time within this Colony; and such interest shall on the first day of January in each year be placed to the credit of the person to whom it has become due or of the estate on which it has accrued; but it shall not be accumulated with the capital nor bear interest. And after the lapse of such period of five years, if the person or persons to whom it shall belong shall so long continue to be unknown or absent from the Colony without having a legal representative within the same, no such money as aforesaid shall bear any interest whatever.

29. And be it further enacted, that for the purposes of the provisions of the twenty-eighth section of this Ordinance the legal rate of interest current within this Colony shall be deemed and taken to be and shall be calculated at the rate of six per cent. per annum, until some other rate of interest shall by any law

30. And be it further enacted, that of the moneys which shall be paid over to or received by the Master of the Supreme Court in manner before provided there shall be formed a fund which shall be called and known in law by the style and appellation of the "Guardian's Fund," and that immediately after the promulgation of this Ordinance a debit and credit account shall be opened in the books of the discount bank of this Colony with and in the name of the said guardian's fund; and the Master of the Supreme Court shall on every day on which the said discount bank shall be open for the transaction of business and before the hour of closing the same for the day pay or cause to be paid into the said bank to be carried to the credit of the guardian's fund all moneys which on or previously to every such day shall have been paid to or received by him under and by virtue of the provisions of the thirteenth, twenty-fifth, and twenty-sixth sections of this Ordinance, as also all such moneys as shall have been so paid to or received by him in payment of the interest or repayment of the principal of money belonging to the said guardian's fund, and lent out on bond by him in manner hereinafter provided. And it shall and may be lawful for the said Master from time to time to withdraw the whole or any part of the moneys so paid into the said discount bank and placed to the credit of the guardian's fund upon cheques signed by him, and specifying the purpose for which the sum contained in every such cheque is to be appropriated, and no part of such moneys as aforesaid shall be withdrawn from the said bank otherwise than upon such cheques as aforesaid.

Establishment of "Guardian's Fund."

31. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court to pay any sum of money which in the wards' book aforesaid is placed to the credit of any person or of any estate to the person (or legal representative of the person) by law entitled to demand and receive the same as also to pay to any tutor or curator (upon the written order or receipt of such tutor or curator) of any minor, lunatic, insane, or absent person or of any estate, the whole or any part of such sum of money as in the wards' book aforesaid shall at the time be placed to the credit of such minor, lunatic, insane, or absent person or such estate as aforesaid, and as such tutor or curator is by law authorised or required to expend or dispose of for any purpose touching or concerning or in respect of or with reference to the person or estate under the guardianship of such tutor or curator: and when it shall appear to the said Master that it is either unnecessary or illegal for such tutor or curator to expend or dispose of any such sum of money for the purpose for which it is alleged that the same is to be appropriated it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to refuse or to suspend making such payment until Loans on mortgage by master of moneys to the credit of guardian's fund.

32. And be it further enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall from time to time and as soon as he shall find opportunity so to do lend or cause to be lent on the mortgage of immovable property situated within this Colony ⁽¹⁾ and with or without additional security, as may in each particular case be deemed expedient, all such money as shall at the time be placed to the credit of the guardian's fund in account with the said discount bank and as shall not be required to meet the current expenditure of the said guardian's fund: Provided always, that no such loan shall be made by the said Master without first advising thereupon with the Treasurer-General and Auditor-General of this Colony or any other two persons holding civil offices under the Government of this Colony who shall be from time to time appointed for that purpose by the Governor, or in the event of both or either of them refusing such consent unless he shall have applied to and obtained from the Supreme Court or any judge thereof an order of such Court or Judge authorising the said Master to make such loan. And provided also, that it shall not be lawful for any such loan to be made to or in favour or on account of the said Master or of any of the two civil officers of Government appointed for the time being in manner aforesaid for the purpose of advising with the said Master touching and concerning such loan.

Advice thereupon of treasurer and auditor-general.

Bonds to be payable to guardian's fund.

33. And be it further enacted, that all bonds which shall be taken for any money so to be lent out shall be taken payable to the guardian's fund, and it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to demand, receive, recover, and enforce, by proceedings at law, payment of all such bonds and of the interest which may be due thereon, in like manner to all intents and purposes as if the said bonds had been taken payable to the Master of the Supreme Court; and he shall pay or cause to be paid all sums received by him either as the principal or interest due on any such bonds into the discount bank, to be placed to the credit of the guardian's fund: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to assign any such bond to any person lawfully entitled to demand and receive payment of any sum which shall be placed to the credit of any person or estate in the wards' book aforesaid in payment of the same, if such first-mentioned person shall consent to receive such bond in payment of his just demand, but not otherwise.

Assignment of Bonds.

Regulation of duration of loans so as to have sufficient to make payment to minors on attaining majority.

34. And be it further enacted, that it shall be the duty of the Master of the Supreme Court, and he is hereby required and directed so to regulate the amount and duration of the loans to be made of the money belonging to the guardian's fund, as that when any sum placed in the wards' book to the credit of any minor shall become payable by reason of such minor having attained majority, there shall then be money sufficient for the payment of the sum placed to the credit of the guardian's fund, in account with the discount bank: Provided always, that if it shall at any time happen that there shall not be so placed to the credit of the guardian's fund money sufficient to make any payment or payments which ought to be made by the said Master out of the guardian's fund, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for the said Master to overdraw by such cheques as aforesaid the account of the guardian's fund with the discount bank to any amount not exceeding two thousand pounds to be employed by him in making such payment or payments, and the amount so overdrawn shall be paid by the said bank and shall in the said account be placed to the debit of the guardian's fund, and no interest shall be charged by the bank in respect of any money so overdrawn.

Ord. 105—1833.

35. And be it further enacted, that on the first day of July, in the year 1834, or so soon thereafter as may be within the said month of July, and at the same period in every succeeding year the Master of the Supreme Court, the Treasurer-General ⁽¹⁾ and the Auditor-General shall balance the wards' book and ascertain the total amount of principal and interest due on the thirtieth day of June preceding to all the persons and estates with whom or with which such accounts as aforesaid shall then be open in the said book, and they shall also ascertain the amount which shall on the said day have been placed to the credit of the guardian's fund in account with the discount bank, as also the amount of all sums belonging to the guardian's fund which shall have been lent on bonds in manner hereinbefore provided and of the repayment of which when due there shall then appear to be no reason to doubt. And they shall grant a certificate in writing signed by them of the amount of the sum, if any, by which the total amount of the money due to the guardian's fund by the discount bank and in virtue of such bonds as aforesaid, shall on the said thirtieth day of June have exceeded the total amount then placed to the credit of persons and estates, with whom and with which accounts shall then have been open in the wards' book, and the said certificate shall thereupon be filed in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court. And the sum the amount of which shall be so certified shall thereupon be appropriated in the first place to replace any sums which prior to the said first day of July have been withdrawn from the ten thousand pounds placed in deposit in the discount bank under and by virtue of the provisions of His Majesty's Order in Council dated 24th November, 1828, and the balance of the sum so certified remaining after replacing the sums so withdrawn from such deposit fund as aforesaid shall thereupon and in respect of such certificate become due and payable out of the guardian's fund to the public revenue of this Colony. And the Master of the Supreme Court shall and he is hereby authorised and required to draw by such cheque or cheques as aforesaid for such amount on the account of the guardian's fund with the discount bank and to pay the same to the Treasurer-General or to assign over to the Treasurer-General any good bond or bonds due to the guardian's fund, in order that the Treasurer-General may, as he is hereby authorised and required to do, demand, receive, and recover payment of the same; and the Treasurer-General shall grant a receipt for such money so paid or such bonds so assigned to him by the said Master as aforesaid.

¹Lapse to the crown of moneys unclaimed for forty years.

36. (1) And be it further enacted, that when any money which shall have been placed in the wards' book to the credit of any person or estate shall remain and shall not have been claimed by any person having a just and lawful right thereto for the period of forty years from the date of the entry of such money in the wards' book then and in every such case every account with such person or estate shall be closed, and all such money shall in respect of the lapse of such period become and be forfeited to the Crown, and shall be applied by the Master of the Supreme Court or be by him paid over to the Treasurer-General for the like purposes and in the like manner in all respects as by the provisions of the thirty-fifth section of this Ordinance is hereinbefore provided with respect to any sum or sums of money certified in manner aforesaid as being the amount of the excess of the guardian's fund over the total amount due to the persons and estates having at the time open accounts in the wards' book aforesaid.

Master to publish annually list of moneys belonging to absent or unknown heirs.

37. (2) The Master of the Supreme Court shall in the month of April in each year cause to be drawn up a full and exact account of the amount of all estates or property which shall be entered in the wards' book and shall belong to any persons unknown, or not residing and not having any known legal representative in this Colony, with a statement of the names and designations of the persons so far as known who are supposed to be interested therein, and shall cause the same to be inserted in the Gazette of this Colony, and shall forthwith deliver two or more copies thereof to the Attorney-General who may cause the same or any portion thereof, to be published in such manner as shall be deemed most expedient in any country or countries to which any person or persons interested in such estates or property may be supposed to belong; and in the said advertisements all persons shall be required to submit their claims to the Master of the Supreme Court, and the expenses of such advertisements shall be borne proportionately by the estates to which they relate.

² Printed as amended by § 2, Act 22, 1887.

38. And be it further enacted, that every tutor, either testamentary or dative, and every curator, either nominate or dative or bonis, shall on or before the fifteenth day of February in every year lodge with the Master of the Supreme Court (who shall cause the same to be preserved and registered in his office for the inspection of all concerned) a just, true, and exact account of his administration of the estate or property under his guardianship up to the thirty-first day of December preceding.⁽¹⁾ And every such tutor or curator who shall fail to lodge such account as aforesaid in manner herein provided, and who shall have no lawful and sufficient excuse for such failure shall by reason thereof forfeit all claim to any fees which he might otherwise be entitled to receive in respect of his administration of such estate during the year preceding the said thirty-first day of December: Provided always, that when the person by whom any testamentary tutor or curator nominate has been appointed, shall by any deed duly executed by him have directed that such tutor or curator shall not lodge with the said Master any such annual account of his administration as aforesaid, then and in every such case no such tutor or curator shall be required to lodge any such annual account in manner aforesaid. And that the survivor of two spouses whom the predeceasing spouse shall by will or other lawful instrument have appointed the tutor of his or her minor children and the administrator (boedelhouder) of the joint estate of such spouses during the minority of such children shall not in any case be required to lodge any such annual account in manner aforesaid; anything to the contrary herein contained notwithstanding.

39. And be it further enacted, that every tutor either testamentary or dative, and every curator either nominate or dative, shall in respect of his administration and management of any estate be entitled to claim, receive or retain out of the assets of such estate a reasonable compensation for his care and diligence in the said administration, to be assessed and taxed by the Master of the Supreme Court, subject to the review of the said Court upon the petition of any such tutor or curator or of any person having an interest in the said estate.

40. And be it further enacted, that if any person who shall die after the first day of March next shall by any deed unrevoked at the time of his death have appointed, or if any person who shall after the said day give any estate or property to any minor, lunatic, or insane person, shall appoint the Orphan Chamber or the Master of the Supreme Court to be the tutor testamentary of any minor or curator nominate of any estate or property given or bequeathed by him to any minor or lunatic or insane person, then and in every such case every such appointment shall be null and void and of no effect. And the like proceedings shall be had and

Register of tutors and curators and their sureties and of debtors to minors.

41. And be it further enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall cause to be kept in his office a register containing the names of every tutor, either testamentary or dative, and of every curator, either nominate or dative, to whom any letters of confirmation shall have been granted, and of every surety for every such tutor or curator, and of every person who shall by virtue of any bond or other written instrument be indebted to any minor, lunatic, insane or absent person whose estate has by virtue of letters of confirmation been placed under the guardianship of any tutor or curator, and of every surety for any such debtor; and whenever any order for sequestration shall under and by virtue of the provisions of the nineteenth section of the Ordinance No. 64 be delivered to the said Master, he shall cause such register to be examined, and when upon such examination it shall appear that the person whose estate has been placed under sequestration by such order is then either a tutor or curator to any minor, lunatic, or insane or absent person, he shall forthwith take such proceedings in order to the appointment of a tutor or curator dative in the place of such insolvent as are hereinbefore directed for that purpose; and when it shall appear that such insolvent is then the surety for any tutor or curator, he shall forthwith require such tutor or curator to give such other additional security as in the circumstances of the case shall be reasonable for the due and faithful administration and management of the estate or property under his guardianship; and when it shall appear that such insolvent is the debtor of any minor, lunatic, or insane or absent person, or is then surety for any such debtor, the Master shall in the first notice of such sequestration which shall be published in the Gazette of this Colony insert a statement containing the name of the person or persons to whom such insolvent is indebted as aforesaid or for whose debtor such insolvent is a surety; and specifying whether he is the debtor or surety for the debtor of any such person or persons as aforesaid.

Ord. 105—1833.

43. And be it further enacted, that when the Master of the Supreme Court shall be plaintiff or defendant in any action instituted by him or against him in his official capacity and with reference to any matter or thing placed under his guardianship, control, or superintendence or which he is required to do or cause to be done under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, and the party against whom such action has been instituted by the said Master or by whom it has been instituted against him shall have his or their costs in and with respect to such action adjudged to him or them by the Court before which such action shall have depended, then and in every such case such Court shall cause the Registrar thereof to certify on the record thereof whether in opinion of such Court the said costs so adjudged to the said party shall be paid by the Master out of his private funds or out of the guardian's fund. And when it shall be certified as the opinion of such Court that the said costs should be paid out of the guardian's fund such certificate shall be a sufficient warrant to the said Master to draw the amount of such costs from the guardian's fund by any such cheque or cheques as aforesaid, and with the money so drawn to pay the same: Provided always, that although it shall be certified as the opinion of such Court that the said costs should be paid by the Master out of his private funds, it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony by any writing under his hand to authorise (and any such writing shall have the effect of authorising) the said Master to draw the amount of such costs out of the guardian's fund and to pay the same in manner aforesaid.

Liability of master for costs of actions by or against him.

44. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court and he is hereby authorised and required from time to time to appoint such and so many persons as to him shall seem fit and as shall be necessary to act as appraisers for the valuation of all estates and property the appraisement of which shall become necessary or shall be had for the better ascertaining of the amount of the share or shares thereof which may belong or be due to any person or persons who, or to any estate or estates which shall at the time be under the guardianship of the said Master, or of any tutor, either testamentary or dative, or curator nominate or dative or bonis. And every such appraiser shall in respect of every such appraisement so to be made by him be entitled to demand and receive, and shall be paid out of the estate or property by him appraised, a reasonable compensation, to be assessed and taxed by the Master of the Supreme Court: Provided always, that no person shall act as such appraiser in any case in which he has an interest in the estate to be valued or appraised.

45. And be it further enacted, that every person who shall be appointed by the Master of the Supreme Court to act generally as an appraiser of such estates or properties as aforesaid shall, before he shall proceed to act in virtue of such appointment, take an oath before any Judge of the Supreme Court, Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, that he will appraise all such estates or properties as may be submitted to his valuation according to the just, proper, and true valuation thereof, to the best of his skill and knowledge, and shall transmit the said oath so taken by him and certified by the Judge, Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace before whom the same shall have been taken to the office of the said Master; and when any such person or persons shall be appointed in manner aforesaid to appraise any particular estate or property, it shall and may be lawful for the said Master in such his appointment, to direct whether such person or persons shall be required before proceeding to make such appraisal, to take such oath as aforesaid or not: Provided always, that when any such person or persons as last above mentioned shall have made such appraisal, without having taken such oath as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for the said Master, or any person having an interest in the estate or property appraised, to require that the person or persons by whom the same has been appraised shall before such appraisal shall be received and acted on take an oath in manner aforesaid that such estate and property has been by him or them appraised according to the just, proper, and true valuation thereof, to the best of his or their skill and knowledge.

Laws, &c., repealed by Ordinances Nos. 103 and 104 not revived, except where expressly re-enacted in this Ordinance.

46. And be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to revive or preserve in force or effect the "provisional instructions for the Orphan Chamber," or the "instructions for the agents to the Board of Orphan Masters in the country districts of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope," or the Ordinance No. 42, or any other Law or Ordinance repealed or altered by the provisions of the Ordinances Nos. 103 and 104, except in so far as any of the provisions of such instructions, laws, or ordinances so repealed or altered shall have been expressly re-enacted by some special provision of this Ordinance. And that, whenever and so often as the words "any law in force within this Colony prior to the passing of this Ordinance" occur in any of the provisions of this Ordinance, then and in every such case the said words shall be construed and deemed and taken to mean such law as was then in force within this Colony, independently and exclusively of the provisions or enactments of the said instructions and of the said Ordinance No. 42, so repealed or altered as aforesaid, and of any other instructions or regulations which had at any previous time been in force within this Colony touching or concerning the functions, duties, or powers, of the Orphan Chamber.

ORDINANCE

For authorising a Sum of Money to be raised in Shares for Erecting an English Church at Cape Town.

Preamble.

WHEREAS several persons have subscribed certain sums of money for the purpose of erecting a church at Cape Town for the celebration of divine service according to the rites of the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established, on the site consecrated for that purpose by the late Lord Bishop of Calcutta, upon the principle that such subscribers should have a right of property in the pews of the said church, and in or about the month of October, in the year of our Lord 1827, a committee of management was appointed for carrying their intention into effect, which committee hath received part of the said subscriptions together with several sums of money from various persons by way of donations for furthering the building of the said church: And whereas His Excellency the Governor hath agreed to grant from the treasury of this Colony towards the building and completing the said church, to the persons who shall undertake and become bound for completing the same, a sum not exceeding the sum of five thousand pounds sterling, in manner following,—that is to say, the sum of five hundred pounds when the foundations are up to the surface and completed; five hundred pounds when the walls are as high as the bottom of the windows; five hundred pounds when the walls are as high as the tops of the windows; one thousand pounds when the walls are roof high, the wall-plates on, and the roof in frame; one thousand pounds when the mason's and bricklayer's work is completed, including the tower; five hundred pounds when the plastering inside and outside is completed; five hundred pounds when the joiner's work is completed; and the remainder of the said sum of five thousand pounds to be paid when the whole building is taken over from the contractors in a complete state: And whereas the said committee have received and approved of a plan and specification for building the said church, together with tenders for the building thereof according to the said plan and specification, but the several sums before mentioned have been found to be insufficient for completing the said building; whereupon at a public meeting of the said subscribers and committee of management, holden pursuant to advertisement and notice thereof in the Commercial Advertiser newspaper on the twenty-seventh day of August now last, it was agreed and resolved by the said subscribers and committee of management (amongst other things) that the said scheme should be peremptorily relinquished, and that in order to raise a sum of money amounting together with the said sum to be granted by His Excellency the Governor as aforesaid and the said donations to the sum of twelve thousand and seventy pounds, being near or about the estimated cost of building and completing the said church, a certain number of shares should be disposed of,—that is to say, the number of two hundred and fifty shares at twenty-five pounds each: And whereas several of the said subscribers and other persons have agreed to take shares in the said loan as aforesaid,—that is to say, the Honourable Sir John Wylde, Knight (Chief Justice of this Colony), the Honourable Lieutenant-Colonel John Bell, C.B., and the Reverend George Hough, M.A., ten shares each; Lieutenant-Colonel William Hopper, eight shares Rice Jones Jones and Hamilton Ross, six shares each; George Thompson and John Bardwell Ebdon, five shares each; William Hayward (Assistant Commissary-General), the Reverend Edward Judge, M.A., William Scott, Laurence Twentyman, Hudson, Donaldson, and Dixon, and William Hawkins, (agent to the Honourable the East India Company), four shares each; Ewan Christian and Samuel Olivier, three shares each; Thomas Kift Deane, William Hutchons, George Greig, John Deane, Francis Collison, James Horne, George Wilson Prince, John Blore, John Robert Thomson, William Heyward, Edward Durham & Co., Charles Baron de Lorentz, William Wilberforce Bird, Henry Buckton, John Barker, Joseph Simpson, John Thomas Buck, the Honourable William Westbrook Burton (one of the Judges of the Supreme Court), Antonio Chiappini, Edward Smith, William Hunt, Benjamin Phillips, Charles Mackenzie, Isaac Manuel, Carel Ferdinand Heinrich von Ludwig, Robert Waters, Edward George, Lieutenant James Bance (of the Royal Navy), Robert Reeves, Major George Jackman Rogers, the Honourable Joachim Willem Stoll, Anthony Oliphant (His Majesty's Attorney-General for this Colony), Charles Dixon, Daniel Jacob Cloete, Henry Hewitt, James Smith, William Billingsley, Thomas Fairclough, Clerke Burton (Master of the Supreme Court), the Honourable George Kekewich (one of the Judges of the Supreme Court), Hendrik Cloete, L.'s son, Herman Schutte, Major Charles Cornwallis Michell, Thomas and John Sinclair, Lieutenant-Colonel William Cuthbert Elphinstone Holloway (of the Royal Engineers), James Carfrae & Company, and James Carey, two shares each; William John Mackrill, Frederick Dickinson, William Lawson, John Hartfield Tredgold, George William Silberbauer, George Herbert, Frederik Stephanus Watermeyer, Hercules Tennant, Captain William Ronald, James Duff Watt (Deputy Assistant Commissary-General), William Benson, Pieter Gerhard Brink (Auditor-General), Joseph Dixie, John Brown, Mrs. Johanna Adriana Hardman, Samuel Capon, William Gadney, Thomas Elliott, Thomas Hall, Andries Thomas Stadler, Willem Anthon Joseph Liesching, Edwin Oldham, Andrew Steedman, Richard Stone, Joseph Sturgis, John Syme, Thomas Heyward, John William Lolley, Thomas Ansdell, Daniel Mills, jun., Robert Crozier, Pieter Donald Hohne, Joseph True-man, William Bridekirk, Egbert Andries Buyskes, John Marshall,

Ord. 4—1829.

Jacob Davies Gregory, Adriaan Christian Deneys, Edward Eagar, Joseph Day, Thomas Henry Bowles (Registrar of the Supreme Court), Petrus Borchardus Borchers (Judge of Police), Thomas Tennant, Harrison Watson, Alexander Thomson, John Fairbairn, Michiel Christian Wolff, James Molton, Frederick Venables, Richard Huntley, Michiel de Kock, Johannes Henoch Neethling, the Honourable Sir Johannes Andreas Truter, Knight, Major Abraham Josias Cloete, John Skirrow, Abraham de Smidt, William McDonald Mackay, Edwin Maude, Frederick Wilhelm Heideman, Ker Bailie Hamilton, Lancelot Cooke, John Chisholm, senior, Ralph Rogerson, Carel Gerhard Blanckenberg, John Samuel Merrington, and Howson Edward Rutherford, one share each: And whereas the said persons have made application that an Ordinance may be passed to sanction and confirm the plan adopted at the said meeting and to provide for carrying the same into effect: Now, therefore, be it enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council that from and after the passing of this Ordinance the said first-mentioned scheme shall and may be abandoned and relinquished; and that it shall and may be lawful for the said persons who have already agreed and all such as shall by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance hereafter agree to take shares in the said loan to raise amongst themselves, in manner and for the purpose aforesaid, such a sum of money as, together with the said sum so to be granted from the Colonial Treasury and the said donations shall amount to the sum of twelve thousand and seventy pounds; and it shall and may be lawful for such persons to become shareholders in the said loan and to take such shares therein (not exceeding by any one person the number of ten shares) as such persons have already agreed or shall hereafter agree to take in the said loan, until the whole number of two hundred and fifty shares shall have been disposed of.

Authority to raise money on loan by shares.

Power to transfer shares.

Sale by private contract only.

2. And be it enacted that no share shall be transferable by any holder thereof, nor any right nor interest therein, until all the calls thereon shall have been paid as hereinafter mentioned; but after the said calls shall have been paid it shall and may be lawful for any shareholder to sell or transfer his share or shares and all his right and interest in respect thereof to any other person by endorsement on the said share or otherwise as he shall see fit: Provided, however, that no sale of any such share shall take place by public auction, but shall be by private contract only; and that the person to whom any share or shares shall be sold or transferred as aforesaid shall forthwith give notice thereof to the trustees to be elected in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Interest.

3. And be it enacted that the sums advanced by shareholders in respect of their several shares shall bear interest from and after the day on which the said church shall be opened for divine service therein, and not sooner.

4. And be it enacted that all persons who have subscribed to the original plan for building the said church and have already paid the first instalment of their subscription shall until and upon the fourth day of September next be entitled to become shareholders in the said loan, in preference to all others who have not so subscribed and paid as aforesaid; and all those subscribers who shall decline to take shares in the said loan shall be entitled to demand and receive back from the committee of management during the time of their continuance in office, and afterwards from the trustees, all such sums of money as they shall have paid as aforesaid.

5. And be it enacted that if it should happen that the whole number of two hundred and fifty shares shall be taken before the fourth day of September next, and there should then be other persons desirous of taking shares, those who have agreed to take more than five shares shall relinquish each one share, beginning with the holder of the greatest number of shares, until the required number of shares shall be provided; and the order in which such shares shall be relinquished by the holders of an equal number of shares shall, if need be, be determined by ballot amongst them: Provided, however, that the original holder of a greater number of shares who shall in manner before mentioned have been reduced to be the holder of a smaller number shall not be again obliged to relinquish or give up a share, nor be included in any such ballot as aforesaid, until all the original holders of such smaller number shall each have relinquished and given up a share.

6. And be it enacted that all the shareholders in the said loan shall have the right of voting in the election of trustees and in all matters relating to the erection of the said church and the management of the funds thereof until the said loan shall have been wholly repaid and discharged, according to the number of their respective shares,—that is to say, the holder of one share shall be entitled to one vote; the holder of two or three shares shall be entitled to two votes; the holder of four or five shares, to three votes; the holder of six or seven shares, to four votes; and the holder of eight, nine, or ten shares, to five votes:

7. And be it enacted that on the completion of the said church and after the proper number of pews shall have been set apart and allotted for the use of the Governor, minister, and churchwardens as hereinafter mentioned, all shareholders shall have a right to become each the renter of a pew in preference to any other persons who possess no shares; and the shareholders shall amongst themselves have priority in the choice of pews of whatever size or seats not exceeding six according to the number of their shares, the holder of the greater number of shares to have the prior choice; and the choice of holders of an equal number of shares to be determined if need be by ballot amongst them: Provided, however, that

- Pew-book. 8. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep a book or plan wherein shall be entered the names of all shareholders in the order of the number of shares taken by them, the numbers of their said shares respectively, and the number or description of the pew chosen by each shareholder in respect thereof; and every shareholder shall on making his choice as aforesaid sign his name in a column opposite to the said entry in acknowledgment of the truth thereof; and no second choice shall be afterwards made by any holder of the same shares or any of them except upon the pew or pews so chosen as aforesaid being first relinquished and given up.
- Second choice of pew. 9. And be it enacted that upon any shareholder having duly made choice of a pew, the said shareholder, his heirs and assigns shall and may for ever afterwards possess and occupy the same without the hindrance or disturbance of any person whatsoever, so long as he or they shall continue to pay the rent affixed thereon when and as the same shall become due and payable, and shall continue to hold the share or shares in respect of which the said pew was chosen, or the same shall have been paid off by the trustee by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.
- Right of shareholder, his heirs, and assigns in pew. 10. And be it enacted that a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden on the first Monday of October in every year, at such place as shall be appointed by the trustees for that purpose, and notice whereof shall be given by them by advertisement in one of the newspapers of this Colony fourteen days at least before the same is to be holden; and it shall and may be lawful for the trustees or the auditors, or either of the auditors, to be elected as hereinafter mentioned at any time to call a general meeting of the shareholders upon giving the like notice thereof.
- General meetings of shareholders. 11. And be it enacted that on the ninth day of September now next a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden at some convenient place in Cape Town, notice whereof shall be given by the said committee of management by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony six days at least before the said meeting is appointed to be holden, for the purpose of electing trustees and auditors; and it shall and may be lawful for the said shareholders, or the greater part assembled at such meeting, to elect out of the said shareholders any number of persons not exceeding nine to be trustees, and two other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.
- First general meeting for election of trustees and auditors. 12. And be it enacted that the trustees so elected by the shareholders, and such as shall be afterwards elected upon the death, resignation, or removal of any trustee as hereinafter-mentioned, shall continue in office until the first Monday in October next after the said church shall be erected and completed; and that upon the said first Monday in October, and yearly afterwards on the same day, three of the said trustees shall go out of office, and three other trustees shall be elected instead of them, by and out of the shareholders in manner aforesaid, until the whole of the first appointed and preceding trustees shall have been relieved; and the order of their so going out of office shall if necessary be determined by ballot amongst them.

Ord. 4—1829.

13. And be it enacted that two persons not being trustees, shall be elected by and out of the shareholders yearly on the first Monday in October, to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.

Annual election of auditors.

14. And be it enacted that the said committee of management shall, upon the election of trustees as aforesaid and upon their acceptance of the said office, deliver over to the said trustees all deeds, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church in their custody or power and all and any sums of money, donations, or subscriptions given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid in their possession or control, and the said committee of management and the office and duties thereof shall thereupon cease and determine.

Delivery of books papers, &c., by committee of management to trustees.

15. And be it enacted that the said trustees and all others who shall from time to time be hereafter elected as trustees under any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall during the time of their continuance in office stand and be possessed of all the said sums of money, donations, and subscriptions (except such part thereof as shall be liable to be returned to subscribers demanding the same as aforesaid), and of all such sums of money as shall at any time hereafter be granted to them from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid or shall arise from payments made by the shareholders in respect of their said shares or otherwise; and of all such donations and subscriptions as shall at any time hereafter be given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid, or in aid of the fund of the said church; and of all rents and revenues arising from the letting of pews, fees for placing monuments in the said church or in the enclosed ground about the same, or in the burial-ground belonging to the said church as hereinafter mentioned, and for digging vaults in the said burial-ground, upon trust in the first place, and until the said church shall be erected and completed, to cause the said church to be erected and completed according to the said plan and specification thereof; and from and after the erection and completion of the said church upon trust to pay and apply the said sums of money, donations, subscriptions, rents, and revenues in manner following, that is to say,—in the first place, to pay thereout the cost of all necessary repairs and expenses in and about the said church for repairing, keeping up, and maintaining the same; secondly, in payment of the interest together with any arrears thereof due to the several shareholders on the sums advanced by them on their respective shares in an equal rate, when and as the funds at their disposal shall enable them so to do; and, lastly, upon trust to pay and apply the residue thereof in discharge of the loan advanced by the shareholders whenever and as often as the said residue shall be sufficient to pay off a part of the said loan at a rate of not less than one pound sterling upon each share, until the whole of the said loan shall be paid off and discharged.

Power of trustees to compel payment, enter into contracts, &c.

16. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to them under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance; and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute, and compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for erecting and completing the said church as aforesaid.

Power to bring actions.

17. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees as such at all times and from time to time as they shall see fit to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary, in performance of the trust reposed in them, against any shareholder or other person whatsoever; and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the names of the "trustees of the English Church at Cape Town," or "trustees of Church at Cape Town" (describing the same by its name, after it shall have been named), as the case may require, without specifying the christian or surnames of the trustees; and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any trustee.

Mode of bringing actions against trustees.

18. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or agreement or any other matter or thing made or entered into, done or performed by the said trustees in the execution of the said trust, or which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said shareholders jointly, shall be brought by such person against the said trustees in manner and in the names aforesaid, and not against any individual shareholder or shareholders.

Calls upon shares.

19. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees from time to time to call upon the shareholders for such payments in respect of their said shares as together with the donations and sum of money to be granted from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid they may deem necessary for carrying on the building and completing the said church as aforesaid: Provided, however, that no such call shall at any one time exceed one-fifth part of the amount of the said shares, and that the whole of such calls shall not, except in the case hereinafter provided for, exceed the amount of twenty-five pounds in respect of each share:

Provided, always, and be it further enacted that if the expense of building and completing the church according to the said plan and specification should exceed the sum of twelve thousand and seventy pounds, then it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to make a further call on each shareholder for a proportional part of the said deficiency; such last-mentioned call, however, in no case to exceed the sum of five pounds sterling in respect of each share.

Ord. 4—1829.
In case of deficiency.

20. And be it enacted that the trustees shall cause all calls made by them to be advertised in the public newspapers of this Colony, together with the time and place appointed by them for payment thereof, fourteen days at least before the said time.

Advertisement of calls.

21. And be it enacted that if any shareholder shall neglect or refuse to pay at the time and place appointed for that purpose his proportion of any lawful call made by the trustees upon the shareholders as aforesaid, and the same shall be in arrear for the space of fourteen days next after the said day appointed for payment, it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees, if they shall think fit, to declare and pronounce the share or shares of such shareholder to be forfeited, and the same shall thereupon be forfeited accordingly; and it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to dispose of such forfeited share or shares to any other person who may be desirous of possessing the same: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to prevent the said trustees from bringing and maintaining their action against any shareholder refusing or neglecting to pay as aforesaid if they shall think fit so to do, instead of declaring and pronouncing his share or shares to be forfeited as aforesaid.

Forfeiture of shares on neglect of payment of calls.

22. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep an account, wherein they shall enter all money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times; and the said account, together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon, shall be laid before the shareholders for their inspection at their general annual meetings, and the said accounts shall be thereupon published in one of the public newspapers of this Colony.

Mode of keeping accounts.

23. And be it enacted that the trustees shall as soon as they shall receive any sum of money exceeding twenty pounds open an account with the Government Discount Bank ⁽¹⁾ in this Colony in the names of the trustees; and such sum and every other sum exceeding twenty pounds so received by them shall be forthwith paid into the said bank, to be placed to the credit of such account; and all cheques or orders for payment of any such money out of the said bank shall truly express the cause of such payment and the name of the person in whose favour it is drawn, and shall be signed by all the trustees, or by two of them for themselves and co-trustees.

Bank account.

Ord. 4—1820.

Penalty on improper retention of money by trustees.

24. And be it enacted that any trustee who shall retain in his hands or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to retain any sum of money exceeding twenty pounds, part of the church fund, longer than until the first day after his receiving the same upon which it shall be possible for him to pay the said sum or cause it to be paid into the said bank, or shall employ for his own benefit or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to employ any sum of money, part of the church fund, shall and may be removable by the said shareholders from his said office, and shall, moreover, forfeit and pay, for the benefit of the church fund, double the amount of the sum so retained or employed, and which shall and may be recovered by the other trustees by action in any competent Court.

Winding up of accounts on completion of church.

25. And be it enacted that as soon as the said church shall be erected and completed as aforesaid the accounts of the said trustees shall thereupon be finally wound up and audited, and laid before the shareholders for their inspection; and no further call shall be afterwards made upon the shareholders in respect of their shares.

Death, resignation, or removal of trustee.

26. And be it enacted that in case any trustee shall die or desire to resign his said office or shall be removed as aforesaid, the surviving or other trustees shall forthwith call a meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of electing a new trustee in the place of the one so dying or desiring to resign or being removed as aforesaid; and the same notice shall be given of the time and place of the said meeting and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as upon the original election of trustees: Provided, however, that no trustee shall be permitted to resign his office until he shall have duly accounted to the satisfaction of the shareholders for all sums of money at any times received by him.

Formation of vestry.

27. And be it enacted that as soon as the said church shall be erected and completed as aforesaid the trustees shall take over and enter upon the same; and the care and government of the said church shall thenceforward, and until the said loan shall have been wholly paid off in manner hereinbefore provided together with the interest thereon as aforesaid, be committed to a vestry consisting of the officiating minister for the time being and the trustees elected by the shareholders in manner aforesaid; and the said minister shall when he is present preside at the said vestry, and when he is absent then one of the trustees elected by them; and in case of an equality of votes at any meeting of such vestry, the president shall have a casting vote.

Duty of vestry.

28. And be it enacted that the duty of the said vestry shall be to provide the said church with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine worship and the use of the officiating minister therein, and to keep the same clean and in proper repair.

Election of churchwardens out of vestry.

29. And be it enacted that there shall be two churchwardens chosen yearly, on the first Monday in October, by the vestry from their own number, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts, matters and things necessary for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept and observed in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the said pews and sittings.

Ord. 4—1820.

30. And be it enacted that before any choice of pews by the shareholders shall take place there shall be set apart and allotted by the vestry a pew sufficient to hold ten persons at least for the use of His Excellency the Governor of this Colony, another pew sufficient to hold six persons for the minister, and a third sufficient to hold four persons for the churchwardens; and there shall be also set apart in some convenient part of the said church three hundred free seats at the least for the use of poor persons.

Pews for governor, minister, and churchwardens.

Free seats:

31. And be it enacted that as soon as may be after the erection and completion of the said church the trustees shall call together the shareholders of each class according to their number of shares, for the purpose of exercising their right in the choice of pews; and the rents of all such pews as shall be chosen by shareholders shall be fixed according to the number of sittings at which such pews respectively shall be rated at fifteen shillings yearly for each sitting, and no more.

Selection of pews.

Rent.

32. And be it enacted that after the shareholders shall have chosen their pews in manner provided for that purpose the trustees shall give notice of all the pews and seats which are then vacant, by affixing the same in writing upon the door of the said church and otherwise as they shall see fit; and the said trustees shall give the like notice for six successive weeks at the end of each year of all the pews which are vacant or will become vacant at the commencement of the next year.

Notice of vacant pews.

33. And be it enacted that all the pews and seats in the said church except the pews set apart for His Excellency the Governor, the minister, and churchwardens, and the said free seats, and the pews chosen by shareholders shall and may be let by the said trustees by the year or for any shorter period to any person desiring to take the same at a rent to be affixed to the same respectively by the vestry, and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the trustees; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns, without any hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term; provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable.

Letting of pews.

34. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees, whenever and as often as it shall happen that the rent of any pew is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable, to give notice to the possessor of such pew forthwith to quit and give up the possession thereof; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purposes of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever, and no person having been so dispossessed of his pew for non-payment of rent shall be entitled afterwards to any priority in the choice of a pew: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive the trustees from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action as aforesaid in any competent court.

Burials.

35. And be it enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church, or any part of the enclosed ground about the same; but the burials of all persons according to the rights and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted, or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted, to the said church for that purpose.

Monuments, vaults, &c.

36. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monuments to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church, or of the enclosed ground about the same, or in the burial-ground belonging thereto, or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground, upon the payment to the fund of the said church for such permission by the person or persons desiring to erect and place any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same, or in the said burial-ground, or to dig and make any vault in the said burial-ground of such a reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission, according to the terms and extent thereof.

Rights of owner
vault, &c.

37. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same, or in the said burial-ground, or digging and making any vault in the said burial-ground by and with such permission as aforesaid, to have, maintain, and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons and his or their heirs for ever.

Determination of office of trustees, auditors, &c.

38. And be it enacted that on the first Monday in the month of October next after the whole of the said loan and the interest thereon shall have been paid off and discharged as aforesaid, the office of the trustees and auditors shall thereupon cease and determine, and in the place of the said trustees there shall be elected on the said first Monday in October, and yearly afterwards on the same day, by and out of the resident inhabitants of Cape Town, being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established, a like number of persons, who shall together with the officiating minister for the time being form a vestry for the future care and government of the said church, and a like number of other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry; and the trustees last in office as aforesaid shall upon the last-mentioned vestry entering upon their said office surrender and give up to the said last-mentioned vestry all documents, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church and the administration of the funds thereof, and all sums of money in their custody, possession, or control arising from and belonging to the church fund.

Ord. 4—1829.

39. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such inhabitant householders as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, rights, and duties respecting the said church, and the care and government thereof, and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof, and all other matters and things relating to the same as shall and may be exercised by the trustees and vestry or either of them constituted and elected by such shareholders as aforesaid under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, in so far as the said powers, rights, and duties shall be applicable to the then existing circumstances of the said church.

Powers and duties of vestry.

40. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Magistrates, and others, without being specially pleaded.

Public ordinance.

No. 5. (Local).—Sd. G. Lowry Cole.]

[June 13, 1832.

For Authorising a Sum of Money to be raised in Shares for Building a Church at Bathurst.

WHEREAS several persons being desirous of erecting a church at Bathurst for the celebration of divine service according to the rites of the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established, and being ready and willing to raise and provide by way of loan for that purpose a certain sum of money as hereinafter mentioned, at a public meeting of the said persons, holden at Bathurst on the 27th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1829, a committee of management was appointed for carrying their intention into effect: And whereas His Excellency the Governor hath agreed to grant from the treasury of this Colony, as a donation towards the building and completing the said church, to the persons who shall undertake and become bound for completing the same, the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds in manner following, that is to say: the sum of two hundred pounds when and as soon as the sum of five hundred pounds of the said loan so to be raised and provided by the said persons as aforesaid shall have been paid by them, and the remainder of the said sum of two hundred and fifty pounds when the whole building shall be taken over from the contractors in a complete state: And whereas the venerable Society in England for the Promoting of Christian Knowledge hath agreed to grant and place at the disposal of His Excellency the Governor a certain sum of money for furthering the religious interests of this Colony, according to a mode of appropriation to be recommended by His Excellency and subject to the approval of the said Society: And whereas His Excellency the Governor hath recommended to the said Society that a sum of two hundred and fifty pounds or three hundred pounds of their said grant, according as the said Society shall think fit, shall be appropriated as a donation towards the building of the said church at Bathurst, and His Excellency hath also accordingly agreed to pay to the persons who shall undertake and become bound for completing the said church the said sum of two hundred and fifty pounds or three hundred pounds, or such other sum as shall be approved of and granted by the said Society for this purpose, when and as the said money shall be received by him from the said Society: And whereas several other persons have agreed to subscribe certain sums of money by way of donations for furthering the building and completing of the said church: And whereas at a public meeting of the persons interested in the said church, holden pursuant to notice thereof on the 14th day of September in the year of our Lord 1831, it was agreed and resolved by the said persons, that in order to raise a sum of money amounting together with the said sum of money agreed to be granted by His Excellency the Governor from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid and the said sum of money agreed to be granted by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge as aforesaid, and the said other donations to the sum of one thousand pounds being near or about the estimated cost of building and completing the said church, a certain number of shares should be disposed of, that is to say, one hundred and four shares at five pounds each: And whereas the following persons have agreed to take shares in the said loan as aforesaid,—that is to say, the Reverend William Wright, Walter Currie, the Reverend William Carlisle, and the Honourable Captain Andrew Stockenstrom, four shares each; John Smith, three shares; James Corbould Wilmot, Thomas Hartley, George Anderson, William John Earle, Henry Augustus Crause, William Burnet Biddulph, Joseph Weakley, Alexander Bisset, Thomas Frederik Cowderoy, William Gilfillan, Robert Wood Bagot, William Austin, Donald Moodie, William Waddel, John Carlisle, Benjamin Norden, Thomas Hewson, Jonathan Wainwright, John Norton, and Richard Peacock, two shares each; Samuel Harper Bradshaw, Richard Bradshaw, John Centlivres Chase, John Morris, Edward Hunt Dell, William Lyall, George Mugglestone, William Roberts, William Rowland Thompson, Robert Godlonton, George Gilbert, William Edward Crout, James Boardman, Isaac Dyason, John Henry Dixon, John Mandy, Peter Campbell, George Fredrik Stokes, Leopold Schmidt, Ralph Goddard, William Edward Smith, Charles Stone, Richard Stone, George Edward Joseph, John Rafferty, John M'Kenny, Mynhardus Johannes van Nuldt Onkruydt, the Reverend George Morgan, Philip Richard Marillier, Robert O'Connor, the Reverend John Philip, D.D., the Reverend George Shepheard Porter, William Ayton, Charles Maynard, Henry Maynard, George Palmer, William Lucas, George Dyason, John Pratt, William Thomas Allen, William Forward, John Crause, William Turkington, Thomas Phillips, and John Holt, one share each: And whereas the said persons have made application that an Ordinance may be passed to sanction and confirm the plan adopted at the last mentioned meeting and to provide for carrying the same into effect: Now, therefore, be it enacted by His Excellency the Governor in Council that from and after the passing of this Ordinance it shall and may be lawful for the said persons who have already agreed and all such as shall by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance hereafter agree to take shares in the said loan to raise and provide in manner and for the purpose aforesaid such a sum of money as, together with the said sum so to be granted from the Colonial Treasury and the said sum so to be granted by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge and the said donations, shall amount to the requisite sum for building and completing the said church; and it shall and may be lawful for such persons to become shareholders in the said loan, and to take such shares therein (not exceeding by any one person the number of ten shares), as such persons have already agreed or shall hereafter agree to take in the said loan until the whole number of one hundred and four shares shall have been disposed of.

Ord. 5—1832.

Capital to be raised by shares and loan.

2. And be it enacted that no share shall be transferable by any holder thereof, or any right or interest therein, until all the calls thereon shall have been paid as hereinafter mentioned; but after the said calls shall have been paid it shall and may be lawful for any shareholder to sell or transfer his share or shares and all his right and interest in respect thereof to any other person by endorsement on the said share or otherwise as he shall see fit: Provided, however, that no sale of any such share shall take place by any public auction, but shall be by private contract only; and that the person to whom any share or shares shall be sold or transferred as aforesaid shall forthwith give notice thereof to the trustees to be elected in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Shares saleable and transferable.

3. And be it enacted that the sums advanced by shareholders in respect of their several shares shall bear interest from and after the first Wednesday in October next after the said church shall be erected and completed and opened for divine service therein, and not sooner.

Interest upon capital paid up.

4. And be it enacted that all shareholders in the said loan shall at all public meetings of the shareholders have the right of voting in the election of trustees and in all matters relating to the erection of the said church and the management of the funds thereof, until the said loan shall have been wholly repaid and discharged, according to the number of their respective shares; that is to say, the holder of one share shall be entitled to one vote; the holder of two or three shares to two votes; the holder of four or five shares to three votes; the holder of six or seven shares to four votes; and the holder of eight, nine, or ten shares to five votes.

Free sittings.

5. And be it enacted that on the completion of the said church a part of the whole number of sittings shall be appropriated to the use of the public as free sittings, and that the number of free sittings shall bear the same proportion to the whole number of sittings as the sum raised by donations shall bear to the whole sum raised by shares and donations together.

Sittings for shareholders.

6. And be it enacted that on the completion of the said church and after the proper number of pews and sittings shall have been set apart and allotted for the use of the minister and the churchwardens and public aforesaid, all shareholders shall have a right to become each the renter of a pew in preference to any other persons who possess no shares; and the shareholders shall amongst themselves have priority in the choice of pews of whatever size or seats not exceeding six according to the number of their shares, the holder of the greater number of shares to have the prior choice, and the choice of holders of an equal number of shares to be determined if need be by ballot amongst them: Provided, however, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees at their discretion, upon the application of any shareholder whose family may require a greater number of seats in the said church than six, to permit and allow such shareholder to choose two adjoining pews.

Records of sittings.

7. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep a book or plan wherein shall be entered the names of all shareholders in the order of the number of shares taken by them, the numbers of their said shares respectively, and the number and description of the pew chosen by each shareholder in respect thereof; and every shareholder shall on making his choice as aforesaid sign his name in a column opposite to the said entry in acknowledgment of the truth thereof; and no second choice shall be afterwards made by any holder of the same shares or any of them except upon the pew or pews so chosen as aforesaid being first relinquished and given up.

Rights of shareholders in pews.

8. And be it enacted that upon any shareholder having duly made choice of a pew the said shareholder, his heirs and assigns, shall and may for ever afterwards possess and occupy the same without the hindrance or disturbance of any person whatever so long as he or they shall continue to pay the rent affixed thereon when and as the same shall become due and payable, and shall continue to hold the share or shares in respect of which the said pew was chosen, or the same shall have been paid off by the trustees by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

9. And be it enacted that a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden on the first Wednesday of October in every year at such place as shall be appointed by the trustees for that purpose, and notice whereof shall be given by them by advertisement in one of the newspapers of this Colony twenty-one days at least before the same is to be holden; and it shall and may be lawful for the trustees or the auditors, or either of the auditors to be elected as hereinafter mentioned, at any time to call a general meeting of the shareholders upon giving the like notice thereof.

Ord. 5—1832.
General meetings of shareholders.

10. And be it enacted that as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of this Ordinance a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden at Bathurst, notice whereof shall be given by the said committee of management by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony twenty-one days at least before the said meeting is appointed to be holden, for the purpose of electing trustees and auditors; and it shall and may be lawful for the said shareholders or the greater part assembled at such meeting to elect out of the said shareholders any number of persons, not exceeding nine, to be trustees and two other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.

First election of trustees and auditors.

11. And be it enacted that the trustees so elected by the shareholders, and such as shall be afterwards elected upon the death, resignation, or removal of any trustee as hereinafter mentioned, shall continue in office until the first Wednesday in October next after the said church shall be erected and completed; and that upon the said first Wednesday in October, and yearly afterwards on the same day, three of the said trustees shall go out of office and three other trustees shall be elected instead of them by and out of the shareholders in manner aforesaid until the whole of the first appointed and preceding trustees shall have been relieved; and the order of their so going out of office shall if necessary be determined by ballot amongst them.

Time of first trustees holding office.

Annual election of trustees.

12. And be it enacted that two persons, not being trustees, shall be elected by and out of the shareholders, yearly on the first Wednesday in October, to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.

Election of auditors.

13. And be it enacted that the said committee of management shall upon the election of trustees as aforesaid and upon their acceptance of the said office deliver over to the said trustees all deeds, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church in their custody or power, and all and any sums of money, donations, or subscriptions given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid, or securities for the same, in their possession or control, and the said committee of management and the office and duties thereof shall thereupon cease and determine.

Custody of books, papers, and funds
&c.

14. And be it enacted that the said trustees and all others who shall from time to time be hereafter elected as trustees under any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall during the time of their

Application of the continuance in office stand and be possessed of all the said sums of money, donations, and subscriptions, and of all such sums of money as shall at any time hereafter be granted to them from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid or from the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, or shall arise from payments made by the shareholders in respect of their said shares, or otherwise and of all such donations and subscriptions as shall at any time hereafter be given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid or in aid of the funds of the said church, and of all rents and revenues arising from the letting of pews, fees for placing monuments in the said church or in the burial ground belonging thereto, or for digging vaults in the said burial-ground, or otherwise, upon trust, in the first place and until the said church shall be erected and completed, to cause the said church to be erected and completed according to such plan and specification thereof as shall be approved of and adopted by them, and from and after the erection and completion of the said church upon trust to pay and apply the said sums of money, donations, subscriptions, rents, and revenues in manner following, that is to say,—in the first place, to pay thereout the cost of all necessary repairs and expenses in and about the said church for repairing, keeping up, and maintaining the same; secondly, in payment of the interest together with any arrears thereof due to the several shareholders on the sums advanced by them on their respective shares in an equal rate, when and as the funds at their disposal shall enable them so to do; and, lastly, upon trust to pay and apply the residue thereof in discharge of the loan advanced by the shareholders whenever and as often as the said residue shall be sufficient to pay off a part of the said loan, at a rate of not less than five shillings sterling upon each share until the whole of the said loan shall be paid off and discharged.

¹ Power of trustees to compel payment of church funds and to make contracts, &c.

15. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to them under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute and compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for erecting and completing the said church as aforesaid.

Actions by trustees.

16. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees as such at all times and from time to time as they shall see fit to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any shareholder or other person whatsoever: and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of “the trustees of Bathurst Church,” or “the trustees of Church at Bathurst” (describing the same by its name after it shall have been named), as the case may require, without specifying the christian or surnames of the trustees; and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any trustee.

Ord. 5—1832.

17. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever, from or by reason of any contract or agreement or any other matter or thing made or entered into, done or performed, by the said trustees in the execution of the said trust or which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said shareholders jointly shall be brought by such person against the said trustees in manner and in the name aforesaid, and not against any individual trustee or trustees, shareholder or shareholders.

Actions against trustees or shareholders.

18. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees from time to time to call upon the shareholders for such payments in respect of their said shares as together with the donations and sums of money to be granted from the Colonial Treasury and by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge as aforesaid they may deem necessary for carrying on the building and completing the said church as aforesaid: Provided, however, that no such call shall at any one time exceed one-third part of the amount of the said shares, and that the whole of such calls shall not exceed the amount of five pounds in respect of each share.

Power of the trustees to make calls upon shares.

19. And be it enacted that the trustees shall cause all calls to be made by them to be advertised in one of the public newspapers of this Colony, together with the time and place appointed by them for payment thereof, twenty-one days at least before the said time.

Advertisement of calls.

20. And be it enacted that if any shareholder shall neglect or refuse to pay at the time and place appointed for that purpose his proportion of any lawful call made by the trustees upon the shareholders as aforesaid, and the same shall be in arrear for the space of fourteen days next after the said day appointed for payment, it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees, if they shall think fit, to declare and pronounce the share or shares of such shareholder to be forfeited, and the same shall thereupon be forfeited accordingly; and it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to dispose of such forfeited share or shares to any other person who may be desirous of possessing the same; Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to prevent the said trustees from bringing and maintaining their action against any shareholder refusing or neglecting to pay as aforesaid if they shall think fit so to do, instead of pronouncing and declaring his share or shares to be forfeited as aforesaid.

Shares upon which calls not paid may be forfeited and disposed of.

Consequences of non-payment of calls.

21. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep an account wherein they shall enter all money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times; and the said account, together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon, shall be laid before the shareholders for their inspection at their general annual meetings.

Receipts by trustees exceeding £10.

22. And be it enacted that the trustees shall as soon as they shall receive any sum of money exceeding ten pounds open and keep an account with any person or persons not being trustees who shall be appointed by the shareholders for that purpose at any general meeting; and every other sum of money exceeding ten pounds so received by the said trustees shall be forthwith paid into the hands of the person or persons so to be appointed by the shareholders for that purpose, to be placed to the credit of such account; and all cheques or orders for payment of any such money thus deposited shall truly express the cause of such payment and the name of the person in whose favour it is drawn, and shall be signed by all the trustees or by two of them for themselves and co-trustees.

Drafts by trustees.

Penalty for retaining or employing funds.

23. And be it enacted that any trustee who shall retain in his hands or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to retain any sum of money exceeding ten pounds, part of the church fund, longer than until the first day after his receiving the same upon which it shall be possible for him to pay the said sum or cause it to be paid to the person or persons appointed as aforesaid, or shall employ for his own benefit or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to employ any sum of money, part of the church fund, shall and may be removable by the said shareholders from his said office, and shall, moreover, forfeit and pay, for the benefit of the church fund, double the amount of the fund so retained or employed, and which shall and may be recovered by the other trustees by action in any competent Court.

Final accounts of trustees.

24. And be it enacted that so soon as the said church shall be erected and completed as aforesaid the accounts of the said trustees shall thereupon be finally wound up and audited, and laid before the shareholders for their inspection; and no further call shall be afterwards made upon the shareholders in respect of their shares.

Death, resignation, or removal of trustees.

25. And be it enacted that in case any trustee shall die or desire to resign his said office or shall be removed as aforesaid, the surviving or other trustees shall forthwith call a meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of electing a new trustee in the place of the one dying or desiring to resign or being removed as aforesaid; and the same notice shall be given of the time and place of the said meeting and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as upon the original election of trustees: Provided, however, that no trustee shall be permitted to resign his office until he shall have duly accounted to the satisfaction of the shareholders for all sums of money at any time received by him.

26. And be it enacted that as soon as the said church shall be erected and completed the trustees shall take over and enter upon the possession of the same; and the care and government of the said church shall thenceforward, and until the said loan shall have been wholly paid off in manner hereinbefore provided, together with the interest thereon as aforesaid, be committed to a vestry consisting of the officiating minister for the time being and the trustees elected by the shareholders in manner aforesaid; and the said minister shall when he is present preside at the said vestry, and when he is absent then one of the trustees elected by them; and all the members of the said vestry shall have an equal right of voting in matters belonging to it, except that in case of an equality of votes the president shall likewise have a casting vote.

Ord. 5—1832.
Temporary care and government of church.

27. And be it enacted that the duty of the said vestry shall be to provide the said church with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine worship and the use of the officiating minister therein, and to keep the same clean and in proper repair.

Duty of the trustees' vestry.

28. And be it enacted that there shall be two churchwardens chosen yearly on the first Wednesday in October by the vestry from their own number, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts, matters, and things, necessary for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept and observed in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the said pews and sittings.

Churchwardens, election and duties of.

29. And be it enacted that before any choice of pews by the shareholders shall take place there shall be set apart and allotted by the vestry a pew sufficient to hold six persons for the minister and another sufficient to hold four persons for the churchwardens; and there shall also be set apart in some convenient part of the said church the due proportion of free seats for the use of poor persons.

Free pews.

30. And be it enacted that as soon as may be after the erection and completion of the said church the trustees shall call together the shareholders of each class according to their number of shares, for the purpose of exercising their right in the choice of pews; and the rents of all such pews as shall be chosen by shareholders shall be fixed by the vestry according to the number of sittings therein.

Choice of pews by shareholders, and rent thereof.

31. And be it enacted that after the shareholders shall have chosen their pews in manner provided for that purpose, the trustees shall give notice of all the pews and seats which are then vacant, by affixing the same in writing upon the door of the said church and otherwise as they shall see fit; and the said trustees shall give the like notice for six successive weeks at the end of each year of all the pews which are then vacant or will become vacant at the commencement of the next year.

Notice of vacant pews.

32. And be it enacted that all the pews and seats in the said church, except the pews set apart for the minister and churchwardens and the said free seats and the pews chosen by shareholders, shall and may be let by the trustees by the year or for any Renting of unappropriated pews.

Ord. 5—1832.

shorter period to any person desiring to take the same at a rent to be affixed to the same respectively by the vestry, and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the trustees; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term; provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable.

Remedy for non-payment of pew rent.

33. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees, whenever and as often as it shall happen that the rent of any pew is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable, to give notice to the possessor of such pew forthwith to quit and give up possession thereof; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purpose of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever; and no person having been so dispossessed of his pew for non-payment of rent shall be entitled afterwards to any priority in the choice of a pew: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive the trustees from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action as aforesaid in any competent Court.

No burials within the church.

34. And be it enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church, but the burials of all persons according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted or which hereafter may be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose.

Erection of monuments and vaults.

35. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monuments to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the enclosed ground about the same or in the burial-ground belonging thereto or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground upon the payment to the fund of the said church for such permission by the person or persons desiring to erect or place any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same or in the said burial-ground or to dig and make any vault in the said burial-ground, of such a reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission, according to the terms and extent thereof.

Rights in monuments or vaults.

36. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same or digging and making any vault in the said burial-ground, by and with such permission as aforesaid, to have, maintain, and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission, to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons and his or their heirs for ever.

Ord. 5—1832.

37. And be it enacted that on the first Wednesday in the month of October next after the whole of the said loan and the interest thereon shall have been paid off and discharged as aforesaid the office of the trustees and auditors shall thereupon cease and determine, and in the place of the said trustees there shall be elected on the said first Wednesday in October, and yearly afterwards on the same day, by and out of the resident inhabitants of Bathurst and of the parochial limits thereof, being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established, a like number of persons who shall together with the officiating minister for the time being form a vestry for the future care and government of the said church, and two other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry; and the trustees last in office as aforesaid shall, upon the lastmentioned vestry entering upon their said office, surrender and give up to the said lastmentioned vestry all documents, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church and to the administration of the funds thereof, and all sums of money in their custody, possession, or control, arising from and belonging to the church fund.

Permanent care and government of church.

38. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such inhabitant house-holders as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, rights, and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof, and all other matters and things relating to the same as shall and may be exercised by the trustees and vestry or either of them constituted and elected by such shareholders as aforesaid, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, in so far as the said powers, rights, and duties shall be applicable to the then existing circumstances of the said church.

Powers and duties of shareholders' vestry.

39. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Magistrates, and others, without being specially pleaded.

Ordinance for regulating the Trade in Gunpowder within this Colony. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove the restrictions which now exist upon the purchase and sale of gunpowder within this Colony, and to render the dealing therein as free as a due regard to the public safety will admit; and also to make provision for the prevention of accidents in storing and transporting the same: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that, from and after the passing of this Ordinance, the proclamation of the 27th June, 1797, and all other laws, ordinances, and proclamations relating to the trade in gunpowder in so far as they relate thereto, and in so far as they have not been repealed by the Order of His Majesty in Council bearing date the 22nd day of February, 1832, shall be and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

Repeal of former laws.

¹ By Ordinance No. 5, 1851, the dealing in gunpowder was regulated for one year, and all provisions of Ordinance No. 7, 1834, repugnant to or inconsistent with Ordinance No. 5, 1851, were repealed. Ordinance No. 5, 1851, with Ordinance No. 7, 1852, which amended it, was repealed, except in as far as it repealed former laws, by Ordinance No. 2, 1853, regulating the dealing in gunpowder, firearms, and lead, until the expiration of 1854. Act No. 5, 1854, continued Ordinance No. 2, 1853, in force to the end of 1855; Act No. 7, 1855, to the end of 1856; Act No. 19, 1856, to the end of 1857, with some amendments; Act No. 14, 1857, to the end of 1858, with further amendments; Act No. 8, 1858, to the end of 1859; Act No. 5, 1859, to the end of 1860; and Act No. 20, 1860, to the end of 1861; Act 12, 1861, to the end of 1862; Act 14, 1862, to the end of 1863; Act 6, 1863, to the end of 1864; and Ordinance 2, 1853, as amended by Act 14, 1857, made perpetual by Act 28, 1864. In this Ordinance and in all other laws relating to the dealing in gunpowder, the word "gunpowder" shall include cartridges, § 5, Act 13, 1877. See Acts 29, 1879; 4, 1887; 9, 1888; 39, 1889; 17, 1892.

Ord. 7—1834.

Regulations for the landing and removal of powder.

2-5 [Repealed by Act 17, 1892, § 2.]

6. And be it further enacted that all gunpowder shall be landed and removed to and from the powder ⁽¹⁾ magazines under the regulations hereinafter mentioned, that is to say:—

- 1st. No gunpowder shall be landed before the hour of nine in the morning nor after three in the afternoon.
- 2d. Before the magazine of the vessel containing any gunpowder is opened all fire and light in the said vessel shall be extinguished.
- 3d. During the removal of the gunpowder from such vessel all other work therein shall be suspended.
- 4th. The bottom of the boat in which any gunpowder is landed shall be covered with hides, sails, cloth, or other proper substance by which the casks containing the gunpowder shall be prevented from coming in contact with the bottom of the boat.
- 5th. If the proper means of conveyance should not be in attendance so that the gunpowder when landed may be removed immediately, the gunpowder shall be carefully placed upon hides, sails, cloth, or other fit substance spread upon the beach, and shall be left in charge of some proper person until the means of conveyance shall arrive.
- 6th. If the gunpowder shall be removed from the place of debarkation in wagons or carts, there shall be spread on such wagons or carts, hides, sails, or cloth, so that the casks containing the powder shall not come in contact with the wood or iron-work of the wagon or cart.
- 7th. Every such wagon or cart shall be driven at a walking pace to and from the powder magazine whilst proceeding through any town or village.

Private magazines permitted.

7. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for any person or persons, in any place which he or they shall deem expedient, to erect a private magazine or magazines for the storing of gunpowder for colonial consumption, and to store gunpowder within the same: Provided always, that the site and plan of every such private magazine shall first have been approved of by the Governor on the report of some fit person by him appointed to report thereon. ⁽²⁾

Magazine keeper to be appointed.

8. And be it enacted that the proprietor or proprietors of every such private magazine shall appoint such proper person, to be remunerated by them, and who shall be approved by the Governor, to be the storekeeper thereof, and who before entering upon his said office shall be sworn duly and honestly to discharge the duties thereof, and whose name and appointment shall be thereupon published in the Government Gazette.

Accounts of receipts and issues of powder to be kept and transmitted to magistrate.

9. And be it further enacted that the storekeeper of every private magazine shall keep an exact and true account of all gunpowder received into and issued ⁽³⁾ from his magazine, and which shall contain the quantities of gunpowder received and the time when and by whom the same was stored, as also the quantities issued and the time when and to whom the same were issued respectively. And whenever any gunpowder shall be so received into or issued from any such magazine, such storekeeper shall within fifteen days transmit to the Resident Magistrate of the district within which such magazine is situate a true copy of such account as aforesaid of all such gunpowder so received or issued; as also all such certificates hereinafter mentioned as shall have been delivered to him under and by virtue of the provisions of the twenty-second section of this Ordinance. And every person hereinbefore required to keep and transmit such accounts and certificates as aforesaid who shall fail so to do in manner hereinbefore provided shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding four months; and every person who shall make any false entry in any such account or who shall transmit to the Resident Magistrate any paper purporting to be a true copy of any such account kept by him which shall not be a true copy thereof shall incur and be liable to a fine of fifty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for a period of six months.

10. [Repealed by Act 13, 1877.]

11. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the commissioners of stamps in Cape Town and the distributors of stamps in the several districts of the Colony respectively, and they are hereby authorised and required, to grant to all persons residing within their respective districts who shall apply for the same (1) licences in the form set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked A, on paper stamped of the value of three (2) pounds, to deal in gunpowder and to sell the same at such places as are mentioned in the said licence: Provided always, that persons in partnership and carrying on business under one firm, and proving such partnership, shall not be required to take out more than one licence to deal in gunpowder at any one place: and provided also, that if any person to whom any such licence as aforesaid shall have been granted, and which shall then be in force for any one place, shall desire to remove and to deal in gunpowder at any other place, it shall and may be lawful for such person to apply to the commissioner or distributor of stamps for the district in which such last-mentioned place shall be situate, who are hereby respectively on such application authorised and required to make and sign an endorsement on such licences, setting forth that from the date of such endorsement such licence shall no longer be in force for the place or premises originally specified therein, but shall henceforth be in force for the place or premises specified in such endorsement. ⁽¹⁾

Transference of licences.

12. And be it further enacted that if any person who shall have obtained any such licence to deal in gunpowder as aforesaid shall die or shall wish to assign the same before the expiration of the period of such licence, it shall and may be lawful for the person authorized to grant any such licence in manner aforesaid to transfer such licence by endorsement to the assignee of such person or to the heirs, executors, or administrators of such person in the case of his death.

Notice to public of the licence.

13. And be it further enacted that every person who shall have obtained any such licence to deal in gunpowder as aforesaid shall cause to be painted on some conspicuous place on the wall or on a board affixed to some such conspicuous place on the wall, outside and over or near the door of the premises specified in his licence in letters publicly visible and legible at least one inch long, his name at full length (or where there are partners the name or style of the firm or partnership), and after such name or style the words "licensed dealers in gunpowder"; and in default of having such name or style and such words as aforesaid so painted as to be publicly visible and legible in manner aforesaid at any time during the continuance of such licence such person shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding two months.

Penalty for fixing notice without having licence.

14. And be it further enacted that every person who shall not have obtained any such licence to deal in gunpowder as aforesaid and who shall paint on his premises or give any other notice importing that he is a dealer or is licensed to deal in gunpowder shall for every such offence incur and be liable to the pains and penalties imposed on persons convicted of dealing in gunpowder without a licence.

List of holders of licences to be published.

15. And be it further enacted that a list of the names of all persons who shall take out such licences to deal in gunpowder as are hereinbefore mentioned shall from time to time as occasion may require be published in the Government Gazette, and the commissioner and distributors of stamps respectively shall upon the taking out of every such licence forthwith transmit the name of the person taking out the same to the Colonial Secretary, who shall make publication thereof in the said Gazette, and give due information thereof to the respective storekeepers of every powder magazine within the Colony.

Powder to be issued only to holders of licences.

16. And be it further enacted that if any such storekeeper of any such private magazine as aforesaid shall deliver out of such magazine any gunpowder to any person not being at the time of such delivery duly licensed to deal in gunpowder in manner aforesaid, or not having from some person so licensed as aforesaid an order to receive such gunpowder, he shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months.

17. And be it further enacted that if any person who shall not have taken out such licence as aforesaid shall sell, purchase, or barter gunpowder in any quantity exceeding ten pounds in any one day except in such cases as are hereinafter excepted, he shall incur and be liable to pay a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding one year; and all gunpowder so sold, purchased, or bartered shall be forfeited to His Majesty: Provided, always, and be it enacted that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent any person who is the importer or consignee of gunpowder imported into this Colony from selling and transferring the same in bond to any person whatever, or from selling and transferring the same in any quantity whether in bond or not to any such licensed dealer as aforesaid, without taking out the licence hereinbefore mentioned. (1)

18. And be it further enacted that from and after the passing of this Ordinance it shall and may be lawful for any person who shall have taken out such licence as aforesaid, to sell gunpowder in any quantity to any other person licensed to deal in gunpowder in manner aforesaid, and in any quantity not exceeding ten pounds in any one day to any person who is not such licensed dealer as aforesaid: Provided always, that if any such licensed dealer shall sell any gunpowder to any person who is not such licensed dealer as aforesaid excepting on the premises specified in his licence or at some such private magazine as aforesaid, or shall sell any gunpowder in any quantity exceeding ten pounds in any one day to any person who is not such licensed dealer as aforesaid, or who is not a field-cornet, to whom is hereby authorised to sell any quantity not exceeding twenty-five pounds, or who is not, as being the agent of any other person or persons, authorised under and by virtue of the provisions of the twenty-second section of this Ordinance to purchase and receive any such quantity of gunpowder, he shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof, by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding one year, and shall forfeit his licence. (2)

19. And be it further enacted that if any person shall make information on oath before any Resident Magistrate, and show probable cause for suspecting that any person has sold, purchased or bartered any gunpowder in contravention of any of the son.

20. (1) And be it further enacted that if any field-cornet shall store or have any quantity of gunpowder exceeding twenty-five pounds, and if any other person except as is hereinafter excepted shall store or have any quantity of gunpowder exceeding ten pounds in any building of what kind or description soever, not being a public magazine, or a private magazine, approved of by the Governor in manner aforesaid, unless by special permission to that effect given by the Governor, he shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding six months: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for any licensed dealer in gunpowder to store in the premises specified in his licence any quantity of gunpowder not exceeding fifty pounds where such premises are situated in any of the towns or villages of this Colony, and not exceeding one hundred pounds where such premises are situated elsewhere than in any such town or village: Provided also, that every such dealer so storing in any such premises as aforesaid any quantity of gunpowder exceeding fifty pounds shall keep an exact and true account of all gunpowder received into and issued from the said premises, and which shall contain the quantities in which and the time when the same was so received and the quantities in which and the time when and the person to whom the same was issued; and shall on the first day of each month transmit to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such premises shall be situated a true copy of such account as aforesaid of all the gunpowder by him received into or issued from the said premises; as also all such certificates hereinafter mentioned as shall have been delivered to him under and by virtue of the provisions of the twenty-third section of this Ordinance during the preceding month; and every person hereinbefore required to keep and transmit such account and certificates as aforesaid who shall fail so to do in manner hereinbefore provided shall incur and be liable to a fine of twenty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject

Ord. 7- 1834.

21. (1) And be it further enacted that if any field-cornet shall convey or cause to be conveyed any quantity of gunpowder exceeding twenty-five pounds, and if any other person shall convey or cause to be conveyed any quantity of gunpowder exceeding ten pounds, at one time in any one wagon, cart, vehicle, or other conveyance from any place to any other place, except in removing gunpowder from the place of landing to some public magazine or to any such private magazine as aforesaid, or from any such public or private magazine to the premises specified in the licence of any such licensed dealer in gunpowder as aforesaid, or from any such last-mentioned premises to any such public or private magazine as aforesaid, or to the premises of any other such licensed dealer, and except where any such person so conveying or causing to be conveyed any quantity of gunpowder exceeding ten pounds, shall, as being the agent of any other person or persons, be authorised under and by virtue of the provisions of the twenty-second section of this Ordinance to convey any such quantity exceeding ten pounds at one time in one conveyance, then and in every such case every such offender shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, and in default of payment or satisfaction thereof by legal process shall be subject to imprisonment for any period not exceeding four months; and all such gunpowder so illegally conveyed or caused or attempted to be conveyed, and the wagon, cart, vehicle, or other conveyance used in conveying the same being the property of any person conveying or knowingly causing or suffering such gunpowder to be so conveyed therein, shall be forfeited to His Majesty.

Conveyance of powder by unlicensed persons.

22. Provided always, and be it further enacted that if any person who shall reside at a greater distance than can be travelled in an ox wagon at the rate of travelling usual in this Colony in forty-eight hours from the premises of the nearest licensed dealer in gunpowder shall desire to procure gunpowder through the agency of any other person, it shall and may be lawful for every such first-mentioned person to apply for and obtain from the field-cornet of the field-cornetcy in which he resides, who is hereby authorised and required on such application to grant the same, a certificate in the form set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked B, signed by such field-cornet, certifying the name and residence of such person and the distance of his residence from the premises of the nearest licensed dealer in gunpowder, and the quantity of gunpowder required by him, and that no similar certificate has been granted to him within the last six months previous to the date of the certificate; and every such certificate shall authorise any person to whom the same shall be delivered to act as the agent of the person therein named, in procuring gunpowder for him, for a period not exceeding two months from the date thereof; and it shall and may be lawful for every such agent so authorised on production of such certificate or certificates to any licensed dealer in gunpowder to procure and receive from such dealer, by purchase, barter, or otherwise, any such quantity of gunpowder, not exceeding ten pounds on each certificate, as in addition to any gunpowder which such agent shall procure and receive on his own account shall not exceed in the whole the quantity of twenty-five pounds, and it shall and may be lawful for any such agent as aforesaid to remove, transport, convey, and store any such quantity of gunpowder so procured by him as aforesaid in like manner as he might lawfully remove, transport, convey and store any quantity of gunpowder not exceeding ten pounds and every such certificate shall be delivered to the dealer from whom any gunpowder is so procured, or when the same is issued from any private magazine, to the storekeeper thereof, and such dealer or storekeeper shall give to such agent a permit in the form set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed marked C, specifying the amount of gunpowder so procured, and shall note on the certificate the quantity of gunpowder delivered by him in respect of such certificate, and shall transmit the same to the Resident Magistrate together with the copy of the account of gunpowder received and issued by him, which he shall next transmit to such Magistrate. And if any field-cornet shall grant any such certificate to the same person oftener than once within the same period of six months, or if any person shall knowingly use or attempt to use for the purpose of procuring gunpowder or shall knowingly deliver any gunpowder in respect of more than one such certificate for the same person within the same period of six months, every field-cornet or other person so offending shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

No licence required for judicial sales.

23. And be it further enacted that nothing contained in this Ordinance shall extend or be construed to extend to require any Sheriff or other officer to take out any licence for the sale of any gunpowder made by such Sheriff or other officer while acting under the authority of any Court, Judge, or Magistrate.

Ordinance not to apply to military or government officers acting in discharge of public duty.

24. And be it further enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend or be construed to extend to any case in which any gunpowder shall within this Colony be landed, bought, sold, bartered, stored, issued from store, removed, transported, or conveyed by the order of the Governor or any officer belonging to His Majesty's naval or military service, or by any officer in the service of the Government of this Colony, while acting in the discharge of his duty, nor to any such officer or any other person in respect of any thing done by such officer or by such other person under and by virtue of and in obedience to any lawful orders given by any such officer while acting in the discharge of his duty.

25. And be it further enacted that all offences committed in contravention of this Ordinance may lawfully be prosecuted in the Court of the Resident Magistrate for the district within which the same shall have been committed; and that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony in each particular case to determine, award, and direct what share if any of the amount of any fine or forfeiture imposed in respect of any conviction for any such offence as aforesaid shall be paid to any person who may have given information concerning the same.

Ordinance for defining the Limits of and securing from injury the Cape Flats and Downs. (2)

Preamble.

WHEREAS the provisions of a publication bearing date the 29th September, 1803, for the preservation of the tract of country commonly called "the Cape Flats and Downs," have been found to be insufficient; And whereas many parts of the said lands are unlawfully used and occupied by various persons who, by rooting up the bushes growing thereon, have caused great damage and injury to the said lands, inasmuch as the drifting sands have so greatly accumulated as to threaten to lay waste great part of that country, and the farms contiguous thereto, thus increasing the difficulties of land carriage and endangering the maintenance of the baiting or outspan-places and watering dams established on the lines of public roads through those flats and downs; And whereas it is expedient to fix and define the limits of the said tract of country, and to provide for its security from further damage and injury: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the first of July next, the publication of the Governor J. W. JANSSENS in Council, bearing date the 29th September, 1803, shall be and the same is hereby repealed save in so far as the same repealed the several Laws and Ordinances therein set forth.

Ord. 5—1836.

2. And be it further enacted that from and after the date of this Ordinance, all the lands (1) situate to the eastward of the Salt and Swart Rivers, to the Sand Valley near Muizenberg; thence along the shore of False Bay to the mouth of the Eerste River; thence ascending the right bank of the Eerste River to the place of Mr. Faure, at the lower drift of that river; thence to the place of Mr. Neethling, at the Kuils River; thence to Stickland; thence to Tyger Valley and the place the Grendel, at the foot of Tygerberg; and thence to the Compagnies Dam, under the Blueberg, to the sea, shall for the purposes of this Ordinance, be deemed and taken to be included in the general terms of the Cape Flats and Downs.

Cape Flats and Downs defined.

[§§ 3 and 4 repealed by Ord. 28 of 1846.]

5. And be it further enacted that any person who shall drive or send or cause to be driven or sent any sheep, goats, or swine, to graze on the aforesaid Crown Lands, save and except such sheep, goats, or swine as may be going to or from a market, shall be liable upon conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

Grazing of sheep, &c. prohibited.

6. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioners of the Cape and Stellenbosch districts respectively, to grant to any person applying for the same a licence to graze horned cattle, horses, or mules for one whole year upon the aforesaid Crown lands not being outspan-places; which licence shall commence and take effect from the first day of July of each year, and shall set forth the greatest number of cattle, horses, or mules allowed to graze under and by virtue of the same; and which licence shall be paid for at and after the rate of sixpence sterling for every horse, mule, or head of horned cattle.

Licences for grazing cattle, &c.

7. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said Civil Commissioners respectively to grant to any person applying for the same a licence to cut and carry away from such Crown lands, thatching reeds or rushes; which said licence shall set forth the quantity of bundles of reeds or rushes intended to be cut, and which licence shall be paid for at and after the rate of ninepence sterling for every one thousand bundles, and which licence shall have effect for the term or space of three calendar months and no more from the date of the said licence.

Licences for cutting reeds, &c.

8. And be it further enacted that any person who shall graze horned cattle, horses, or mules, or cut thatching reeds or rushes upon any part of the said Crown lands without having taken out a licence as hereinbefore mentioned, or who shall graze a greater number of horned cattle, horses, or mules upon the aforesaid lands, or who shall cut or carry away therefrom a larger quantity of thatching reeds or rushes than is set forth in his said licence, or who shall make use of the said licence after the expiration of the term for which it shall have been granted, shall be liable upon conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds for each offence.

Publication of licences.

9. And be it further enacted that the Civil Commissioners aforesaid shall as soon as may be after granting the said licences, transmit to the Secretary to Government for publication in the Government Gazette, a list of all persons having taken out licences for grazing and cutting thatching reeds; and the said Civil Commissioners shall transmit a like notice to the several Field-cornets whose wards or any part thereof are situated within the Cape flats and downs; and the said Field-cornets are hereby expressly enjoined and required to enforce to the utmost of their power the provisions of this Ordinance, and to report to the respective Clerks of the Peace for immediate prosecution all persons who shall be found contravening or who shall have contravened the same.

Enforcement of licences.

Outspan-places to be defined.

10. And be it further enacted that the Civil Commissioners aforesaid shall fix the boundaries of the several outspan-places now existing in the said Crown lands and situate within their respective districts, and shall cause the extent thereof to be marked and defined in such manner as to afford to all persons having lawful occasion to use the same the full benefit of such outspan-places.

Illegal use of outspan-places.

11. And be it further enacted that any person (bona fide travellers excepted) who shall graze any animals whatsoever upon those parts of the said Crown lands which now are or may hereafter be appropriated as outspan-places, or who shall water such animals at any of the public watering dams attached or hereafter to be attached to such outspan-places, shall be liable upon conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds; and it shall be lawful for any person whomsoever who shall find any such animals trespassing on the said outspan-places or watering dams, to seize and drive them, or cause them to be seized and driven, to the nearest pound.

Enforcement of Ordinance.

12. And be it further enacted that all offences under this Ordinance shall be tried before the Resident Magistrate of the district within which the offence shall have been committed; and in default of payment of any fine imposed, it shall be lawful for the said Magistrate to sentence the person adjudged and making default to pay such fine, to imprisonment with or without hard labour as such Magistrate shall direct, for any period not exceeding three calendar months.

Ordinance for explaining and extending the Powers of the Trustees appointed for the Management of a Mercantile Establishment at Port Beaufort.

WHEREAS several persons, being desirous of forming a mercantile establishment at Port Beaufort situate at the mouth of the Breede River, have built by subscription at that place a store or warehouse: And whereas upon the thirty-first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Galbraith Lowry Cole, then Governor of this Colony, was pleased to grant in freehold unto Messrs. Ewan Christian, Joseph Barry, and Francis Collison, as trustees for the management of a mercantile warehouse for themselves and the subscribers thereto, a piece of land situate at the mouth of the Breede River, for the purpose of maintaining thereupon a warehouse on the following conditions, to wit: That the right of access over this ground to Port Beaufort and to the subscription store, and to any public passage which is or may hereafter be established over the Breede River, as well as of unyoking cattle on such unoccupied land as shall be fixed upon for that purpose, shall be secured to the public; that the part adjoining the river in front of the said store shall neither be cultivated nor built upon; and with full powers and authority to them or to the trustees to be from time to time chosen by the subscribers to the said grant to possess said piece of land for the above purpose, and such further purposes as to a majority of a meeting of subscribers to be called for the purpose by public advertisement may appear to them most for the general interest; and for the greater security and convenience of the several shareholders to authorise and direct the trustees to grant a certificate to each holder of a share, which certificate will be transferable by endorsement, and the property in the said land as also a share of the said buildings and the remaining unappropriated land thereby vested in the said endorsee, provided such endorsement be first registered in the office of the Registrar of Deeds, and that the usual duties of transfer be previously paid thereon. The land granted being further subject to such duties and regulations as are either already or may in future be established with regard to such land. And whereas doubts have arisen as to the nature and the extent of the powers to be exercised by the said trustees under and by virtue of the said grant: And whereas the said trustees have made application that an Ordinance be passed to explain more fully the objects of the said grant and to give further and more ample powers to the said trustees, and to provide for carrying the same into effect: Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance it shall and may be lawful for the said subscribers, their heirs and assigns to become shareholders of the said mercantile establishment and land in the said grant contained, according to the number of shares for which such persons respectively shall have subscribed, and to make application to the trustees for that purpose: Provided however, that if any such subscriber shall have failed to signify his desire to become such shareholder and shall have failed to pay his proportion, according to his number of shares, of the expenses which have been already incurred or which shall be incurred in obtaining the said grant, and in securing to such subscriber his share or shares therein at the expiration of one year after the passing of this Ordinance, such subscriber shall forfeit all claim to become such shareholder.

Ord. 7—1836.

Unpaid shares to be sold.

2. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to dispose of such shares as shall after the expiration of one year after the passing of this Ordinance not have been paid for by any subscriber to such persons as shall apply for the same, and on such terms as to the said trustees shall appear expedient; and the person so purchasing any shares shall in such case enjoy the same privileges under the said grant as the original subscribers.

Roads may be marked off.

3. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to mark off so much of the land in the said grant contained and in such direction as they shall deem fit and expedient for a road or roads from any part of the said land to any other part thereof; Provided that if such land so marked off shall form part of the erf of any shareholder in manner hereinafter provided to be allotted, such reasonable satisfaction shall be given for the damage which such shareholder shall thereby sustain as shall be agreed upon between the trustees and such shareholder; and if the said trustees and such shareholder cannot agree concerning the amount of such damages, then the same shall be finally assessed, determined, settled, and adjusted by arbitration in manner provided by the twentieth section of this Ordinance.

Division of erven

4. And be it further enacted that as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of this Ordinance, a general meeting of the subscribers shall be holden at Cape Town, notice whereof shall be given by advertisement in one of the public newspapers of this Colony, twenty-one days at least before the said meeting is appointed to be holden, for the purpose of submitting to the subscribers for their ratification a plan for dividing so much of the said land as to the said trustees shall appear expedient into eighty-five erven to be allotted among the said subscribers according to the number of shares which each subscriber respectively shall have agreed to take, the same to be held by them in freehold; and in case the subscribers at such meeting by a majority of votes shall not ratify the said plan, it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to adjourn the said meeting to a future time, and from time to time and as often as shall be necessary to submit an amended plan and to obtain a vote of the majority of the subscribers present at such adjourned meeting ratifying such amended plan.

Ord. 7--1836.

5. And be it further enacted that at such meeting or adjourned meeting after such plan shall have been ratified, so many erven as there shall be subscribers who shall have signified their desire to become shareholders and who shall have paid each his proportion of the expenses then incurred shall be allotted among such subscribers, of each of which erven the choice shall be determined by ballot; Provided that the partners belonging to the firm of Robertson, Venning, and Moodie, and Joseph Barry, shall respectively be entitled to select for their erven the land upon which they have respectively built stores; upon condition, however, that the said firm of Robertson, Venning, and Moodie, and Joseph Barry, in consideration of such preference, shall pay a fine the amount of which shall be fixed by the decision of two indifferent persons, one to be chosen by the said trustees and the other by the said Robertson, Venning, and Moodie, and the said Joseph Barry, respectively.

Allocation of erven.

6. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any subscriber who shall after the said meeting or adjourned meeting and before the expiration of one year after the passing of this Ordinance express his desire to the trustees to become a shareholder and pay his proportion of the expenses at such time incurred according to the priority of his application, to select such erf or erven as shall then have been unallotted.

Future shareholders.

7. And be it further enacted that the said trustees shall keep a book wherein shall be entered the names of all the shareholders and the description of each erf, and every shareholder respectively shall sign his name in a column opposite to the said erf in acknowledgment of the truth thereof; and the said trustees shall deliver to every shareholder of every such erf a certificate thereof signed by the said trustees; which certificate the shareholder, his heirs, executors, administrators, or the holder, may transfer by endorsement, and the property in the said erf; and his interest as a shareholder under the said grant shall be thereby vested in the said endorsee, provided such endorsement be registered in the book so kept by the trustees and in the office of the Registrar of Deeds, and provided the duties of transfer be paid thereon.

Registry of erf and shareholders.

Transfer of erven.

8. And be it further enacted that a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden on the first Wednesday of August in every year at such place as shall be appointed by the trustees for that purpose, and notice whereof shall be given by them by advertisement in one of the newspapers of this Colony twenty-one days at least before the same is to be holden; and it shall and may be lawful for the trustees at any time to call a general meeting of the shareholders upon giving the like notice thereof; and it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees and they are hereby required to call a general meeting, being thereunto required by any writing signed by ten of the shareholders and delivered to the said trustees, upon the like notice thereof being given by the said trustees.

Ord. 7—1836.

Resolution of meetings, effect of.

9. And be it further enacted that the resolutions of the shareholders at any public meeting duly called carried by a majority of votes shall be binding upon the whole of the shareholders, in like manner as if each had been present and had consented to such resolution; and in every case in which the votes of any such meeting shall be equally divided the person who shall preside at such meeting shall have a casting vote.

Votes of shareholders.

10. And be it further enacted that the subscribers at the first general meeting and the shareholders at all subsequent public meetings of the shareholders shall have the right of voting in all matters relating to the objects of this Ordinance according to the number of their respective shares, that is to say,—the holder of one share shall be entitled to one vote; the holder of three shares to two votes; the holder of ten shares to three votes; and the holder of eleven or more shares to five votes; and it shall and may be lawful for any shareholder to empower any other shareholder by authority in writing to that effect given, to vote in his absence: but such shareholder so empowered shall be entitled to one vote and no more for every such shareholder being absent; provided that no shareholder shall be entitled to vote for a greater number than ten, such shareholders being absent.

Votes by proxy.

Accounts of trustees.

11. And be it further enacted that the trustees shall keep a book wherein they shall enter all money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account shall be laid before the shareholders for their inspection at the general annual meetings.

Quorum of trustees.

12. And be it further enacted that two trustees shall be a quorum and shall be competent to do and perform all matters and things which may be done under and by virtue of this Ordinance by the trustees, and that the vote of two trustees shall in all cases be deemed to be and shall have effect as the vote or resolution of the trustees; Provided however, that in the event of the death, resignation, or removal from office of two of the said trustees it shall and may be lawful for the remaining trustee to call a public meeting of the shareholders upon giving the like notice thereof; and it shall and may be lawful for any ten of the shareholders to call a public meeting in the event of the death, resignation or removal from office of all the trustees upon giving the like notice thereof as the trustees would have been required to give.

Calling of meetings.

Tenure of office by trustees.

13. And be it further enacted that the said trustees shall continue in office until the first Wednesday of August, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, and that at the annual public meeting then to be holden three trustees shall be elected in their place and stead from the whole number of shareholders, and the trustees then to be elected and all others who shall afterwards be elected shall continue in office for the period of three years, and shall be succeeded by three trustees to be elected at the annual public meeting to be holden upon the first Wednesday of August in the year when such period expires: Provided however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the said trustees or any shareholder afterwards to be elected to such office from being elected or re-elected to the said office; and provided that in the event of the death, resignation, or removal from office of any trustee or trustees before the expiration of such period, it shall and may be lawful for the shareholders at a public meeting for that purpose called to elect a trustee or trustees in his or their place and stead, such trustee or trustees to continue in office until the expiration of the period for which such trustee or trustees so dying, resigning, or being removed had been elected, and no longer.

Ord. 7--1836.

Vacancies in office of trustee.

14. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees for the time being to let on lease for a period not exceeding nineteen years the whole or any part of the land in the said grant contained and not appropriated for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned, and to authorise any person or persons to graze their cattle upon the said land, and also to dig for, work, and carry away any limestone or other stone for the purpose of building that may be found upon the said land; and it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees, upon being duly authorised by the shareholders at a public meeting to be held for that purpose, to sell to any person or persons the whole or any part thereof and to deliver to such person or persons a certificate of such purchase, which certificate the purchaser, his heirs, executors, administrators, or the holder may transfer by endorsement, and the property therein shall be vested in the said endorsee, provided such endorsement be registered in a book to be kept by the trustee for that purpose and in the office of the Registrar of Deeds, and provided the duties of transfer be paid thereon.

Leases of unappropriated land.

-Sales of unappropriated land.

15. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to repair, alter, or enlarge the said store or warehouse, and to let the same or any part thereof to any person for the purpose of receiving any goods or merchandize, and also to receive into the said store or warehouse the goods and merchandize of any person or persons, and to receive a reasonable sum for warehouse-room for the same.

Repairing and leasing of warehouse.

16. And be it further enacted that the trustees for the time being shall stand and be possessed of all sums of money received for any of the purposes aforesaid, upon trust, to pay and apply the same in the first place, to pay thereout all expenses incurred or which shall be incurred in obtaining the said grant and in securing to each shareholder his respective share; secondly, to keep in proper repair the said subscription store or warehouse; thirdly, to pay such sums as they shall be authorised by the shareholders at any public meeting; fourthly, to pay to each shareholder in an equal rate according to each share such dividends of profits or gains as may hereafter arise, after payment of all expenses incurred on account of and in discharge of their trust.

Actions by trustees.

17. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees as such, at all times when they shall see fit, to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of their trust against any person whatsoever, and such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of the trustees without specifying the names of the said trustees, and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any trustee.

Actions against trustees or shareholders.

18. And be it further enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or agreement, or any other matter or thing made or entered into, done or performed by the said trustees in the execution of the said trust, or shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said shareholders or purchasers or other persons claiming under the said grant or under any of the provisions of this Ordinance jointly with the said shareholders, shall be brought by such person against the said trustees in manner and in the name aforesaid, and not against any individual trustee or trustees, shareholder or shareholders, or other persons as aforesaid; and in the event of such trustees having no funds to enable them to defray the expenses of such suits or actions they shall be authorised and empowered to call upon each shareholder to pay the same according to his respective number of shares, and to call upon each purchaser as aforesaid for a just proportion thereof.

Removal of trustees.

19. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the shareholders at any public meeting duly called for that purpose to remove any trustee or trustees for insolvency or any misconduct in the discharge of his or their trust, or on account of absence from the Colony for a period not less than three months.

Differences between trustees and shareholders.

20. And be it further enacted that in case any difference shall arise between and amongst the trustees or between the trustees and any of the shareholders or any other person claiming under any of the provisions of this Ordinance, touching or concerning any matter or thing under and by virtue of any of the provisions thereof, the same shall be finally determined, settled and adjusted by the award, determination or arbitrament in writing of two indifferent persons, one to be chosen by each party in dispute; and in case the said arbitrators shall not make or deliver their award, determination, or arbitrament within such time as they shall be limited for doing thereof then the said parties shall abide by and perform such award, umpirage and final determination in writing of such umpire as shall be chosen by the said arbitrators, made and delivered within such time as shall be limited by the said arbitrators touching all such matters in difference between the said parties.

Ord. 9—1836.

21. And be it further enacted that such provisions of the said grant as are at variance with or repugnant to the enactments of this Ordinance shall be null and void, and the remainder of the said grant shall continue in full force and effect.

Repugnant provisions of grant to be void.

22. And be it further enacted that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to interfere with or in any way affect the rights of our Sovereign Lord the King, his heirs and successors, or of any body, politic or corporate, or of any other person or persons excepting those for whose especial benefit this Ordinance is made, and all persons claiming by, from, through, and under them.

[August 15, 1836.

Ordinance for the creation of Municipal Boards in the Towns and Villages of this Colony, on which the Local Regulations of each shall be founded. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient that due provisions should be made for the better regulation of certain matters and things of a local nature within the several districts, towns, and villages in this Colony, and that municipal boards should be constituted and established therein for that purpose: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the first day of October next it shall and may be lawful for any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace within the limits of his jurisdiction, and he is hereby required upon a requisition made to him in writing to that effect by any number of resident householders, (2) not less than twenty-five, and severally paying taxes to an amount exceeding six shillings sterling per annum, and resident respectively within one mile of any one central place which shall be specified in the said requisition, to call a Requisition for municipal regulations.

¹ This Ordinance and Ord. 2, 1844, Ord. 8, 1848, Ord. 5, 1852, Act 15, 1860, and Act 13, 1864, are repealed by Act 45, 1882, but they are reprinted in view of the provisions of § 4 of that Act.

This Ordinance with Ord. 2, 1844, revived by Ord 3, 1853, and made perpetual by Act 15, 1860.

meeting of householders paying such amount of taxes as aforesaid and resident within the limits aforesaid to determine whether municipal regulations shall be adopted for the town, village, or place intended to be erected into a municipality. (1)

Notice for public meeting.

2. And be it further enacted that three weeks' notice at the least of the time and place of holding such meeting shall be given by the Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace calling the same by a printed or written notice affixed to some conspicuous place or places of public resort within the limits aforesaid.

Majority of votes at meeting to decide.

3. And be it further enacted that the chairman who shall preside at any meeting assembled as hereinbefore directed shall read or cause to be read the requisition whereupon the meeting shall have been summoned, and shall require such resident householders as aforesaid assembled thereat to determine by majority of votes whether municipal regulations shall or shall not be adopted and acted upon within the said intended municipality.

Meeting of householders for choosing committee.

4. And be it further enacted that if at any such meeting it shall be determined by a majority of votes that municipal regulations shall be adopted then and in such case any such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace as aforesaid to whom such determination shall be notified by the chairman of such meeting shall forthwith call another meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid to be holden within seven days thereafter, in order to elect and appoint a committee of so many of such resident householders as aforesaid as the said meeting shall deem expedient to frame and draw up municipal regulations.

Committees for framing regulations.

5. And be it further enacted that the committee so to be elected and appointed shall be chosen by such resident householders assembled at such meeting by majority of votes.

Preparation of regulations.

6. And be it further enacted that the committee so chosen as aforesaid shall forthwith proceed to frame and draw up such municipal regulations as they may deem expedient, and shall submit the same when prepared to a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid to be called by the said committee upon seven days' notice to be given in manner aforesaid: Provided, always, that such committee shall submit such regulations to such meeting as aforesaid within one month from the date of their appointment, otherwise the said committee shall be ipso facto dissolved, and a new committee shall then and in every such case be chosen in manner and for the purpose aforesaid, at a meeting to be called by any such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace as aforesaid to whom such dissolution of the committee shall have been notified.

What shall be embraced by the regulations.

7. And be it further enacted that in such regulations it shall be the duty of such committee to fix the limits⁽²⁾ of the municipality and to divide the municipality into wards if necessary, and to fix the number of commissioners and wardmasters for the municipality or the several wards thereof, and to make rules for the classification and valuation of the immovable property therein, and to frame all other regulations which shall be necessary to enable the said commissioners to carry into effect the provisions of this Ordinance or such of them as the said committee shall think expedient and necessary for the municipality.

Ord. 9—1836.

8. And be it further enacted that at the meeting to which such regulations as aforesaid shall be submitted by such committee any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace residing at or near such proposed municipality shall preside as chairman: Provided however, that such Magistrate or Justice shall not be a member of the said committee; and when there shall not be any such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace not being a member of such committee present, then and in every such case any such resident householder as aforesaid not being a member of such committee present at such meeting may be elected to preside as chairman at such meeting.

Chairman of meeting of householders.

9. And be it further enacted that at such meeting the question shall be put by the chairman on each and every clause contained in the regulations submitted by the committee seriatim, and afterwards on the whole of the regulations jointly; and a majority of votes shall decide whether such clause or the whole of the regulations jointly as the case may be shall or shall not be adopted.

How questions to be put to meeting.

10. And be it further enacted that the regulations adopted at such meeting shall forthwith be transmitted to the Governor of the Colony for the time being, for the approval, amendment, or disallowance thereof of the said Governor, by and with the advice of the Executive Council; and in case such regulations shall be approved, notice of such approval shall be given by proclamation to be made in that behalf; and the said regulations shall be published in the Government Gazette, and shall thereupon become as legal, valid, and effectual as if the same had been inserted herein; and in the event of the said regulations being amended by the said Governor by and with the advice of the Executive Council, the regulations so amended shall be forthwith transmitted to the chairman of such meeting as last aforesaid, and in his absence to any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace residing in or near the said intended municipality who shall forthwith upon a notice of not less than seven days call a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid, and who shall by a majority of votes decide whether the said regulations so amended shall be adopted or not; and if the regulations be adopted, the chairman of such meeting shall forthwith communicate such adoption to the said Governor, who shall forthwith give notice thereof by proclamation and cause the same to be published in the Government Gazette, and upon such publication the same shall become as legal, valid, and effectual as if the same had been inserted herein.

Alteration of regulations from time to time.

11. (1) And be it further enacted it shall be lawful for the commissioners of any municipality, and they are hereby required upon a requisition made to them in writing to that effect by any number of such resident householders as aforesaid not less than twenty-five to call a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid upon seven days' notice to be given in manner aforesaid for the purpose of adding to, amending, or repealing the existing regulations or any of them by a majority of persons present and entitled to vote at such meeting; and the said regulations after being so reformed shall be forthwith transmitted by the said commissioners to the Governor for the approval or disallowance thereof or of any part thereof of the said Governor by and with the advice of the Executive Council; and such of the said reformed regulations as shall be approved of shall be published in the Government Gazette forthwith; and proclamation of such approval shall be made, and the said reformed regulations so approved of as aforesaid shall thereupon become as legal, valid, and effectual as if the same had been inserted herein, and the former regulations shall become null and void: Provided, always, that nothing in any municipal regulations contained shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with the true intent and meaning of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Election of commissioners.

12. And be it further enacted that so soon as such original regulations as aforesaid shall have appeared in the Government Gazette the Resident Magistrate of the district shall and he is hereby required, by a notice of not less than ten days in manner hereinbefore provided, to call a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid residing within the limits of such municipality, to be holden for the election and choice of so many commissioners as shall have been specified in the said regulations to carry the same into effect; and the said commissioners for the municipality or the wards thereof respectively shall be elected by a majority of votes of such resident householders as aforesaid present at such meeting; and any such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace shall preside as chairman at such meeting.

Qualification of commissioners.

13. (2) And be it further enacted that any person residing within the municipality and being the proprietor of a house situate within the same and who shall pay annually a sum not less than one pound sterling in taxes shall be eligible to be elected a commissioner for the purposes of this Ordinance, and shall be proposed at the said meeting by some person duly qualified to vote thereat and shall be seconded by some other person in like manner qualified.

² Amended by § 7. Ord. 2, 1844.

14. And be it further enacted that every person who shall be elected a commissioner in any municipality in manner aforesaid shall go out of office at the end of the third year from the said first election; and in place of such commissioners so going out of office a like number of other commissioners to be elected as hereinafter provided shall come into office, and remain in office for three years; and at the expiration of such last-mentioned term of three years shall in like manner go out of office and be succeeded by other commissioners, who shall remain in office for a like term of three years, and so on for ever: Provided, always, that any of such out-going commissioners shall be re-eligible and may be re-elected, and shall in such case continue to act and remain in office, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Ord. 9—1836.
Triennial retirement of commissioners.

15. And be it further enacted that on the Monday immediately preceding the day on which any such term of three years shall expire a meeting shall be holden at such hour and place as shall be duly notified by the said commissioners for the election of commissioners for the three years next succeeding; and such election shall proceed in such manner as is hereinbefore provided for the election of the first commissioners under this Ordinance.

Election to supply triennial vacancies in commissionership.

16. (1) And be it further enacted that any commissioner who shall cease to possess any of the qualifications in the thirteenth section required for the eligibility of commissioners, or shall absent himself from the municipality for any period exceeding three months, or shall become incapacitated from fulfilling the duties of his office by mental or bodily infirmity or disease, shall ipso facto vacate his office; and that in case any person so elected a commissioner shall die, or become disqualified in manner aforesaid, or shall resign or refuse to accept the office of commissioner, or in case of any casual vacancy happening in any manner whatever in such office, notice shall be forthwith given by the acting commissioners to any such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace as aforesaid, who shall forthwith in the manner hereinbefore directed by this Ordinance call a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid for the purpose of filling up such vacancy or vacancies.

Vacating of office by commissioners.

17. And be it further enacted that the said commissioners shall meet at such times as are specified in the municipal regulations respectively at some convenient place or office previously publicly notified; and at such meetings it shall be lawful for any person to appear there and prefer any matter of complaint which he may think proper to make concerning any matter or thing done by force or in pursuance of or under pretence of the provisions of this Ordinance or the municipal regulations.

Regular meeting of commissioners.

18. And be it further enacted that such commissioners shall meet at all other times and so often as at any previous meeting shall be determined upon, and it shall be at all times competent for any one commissioner when three commissioners only shall have been appointed, and in all other cases for any two commissioners, by writing under his or their hands to summon, upon at least forty-eight hours' notice, the commissioners for any special purpose therein named; and that at all meetings of such commissioners any number not less than one-third of the whole number when more than three commissioners shall have been appointed, and when only three commissioners shall have been appointed then not less than two commissioners, shall constitute a quorum for transacting business.

Treasurer and other officers.

19. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners elected in any municipality for the time being, acting in pursuance of any municipal regulations to that effect, and they are hereby authorised and required to appoint during pleasure such Treasurer and other officers as shall be specified in any such regulations and to remove and displace the same.

Security by Treasurer.

20. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners or any two or more of them and they are hereby required to take security from the Treasurer to be appointed by virtue of this Ordinance, before he enters on the duties of his office for the due execution of his office of Treasurer, which security shall be to the full amount of the sum likely to be in the hands of the said Treasurer at any one time; and in case any such Treasurer shall neglect or refuse for the space of one week next after his appointment to give such security to the satisfaction of the said commissioners, then the appointment of every such person so neglecting or refusing shall be null and void to all intents and purposes, and the said commissioners shall within three weeks then next assemble and appoint some other fit and proper person to the office of Treasurer, instead of the person so refusing or neglecting as aforesaid, and shall so assemble and appoint from time to time until security shall be given to their satisfaction as aforesaid.

Account to be kept by Treasurer.

21. And be it further enacted that every such Treasurer and other officer appointed by virtue of this Ordinance shall under his hand and at such time or times and in such manner as the said commissioners shall direct, deliver to the said commissioners or such person as they shall appoint true and perfect accounts in writing of all matters and things committed to his charge by virtue of this Ordinance, and also of all moneys which shall have been by such officer received by virtue or for the purposes of this Ordinance, and of how much thereof shall have been expended or disbursed, and for what purposes, together with proper vouchers for such payments; and that every such officer shall pay all such moneys as shall remain due from him to the Treasurer for the time being or to such person or persons as the said commissioners shall appoint to receive the same; and if any such Treasurer, officer, or other person shall refuse or neglect to make and render such account, or refuse to deliver up the vouchers relating to the same or to make payment as aforesaid, or shall refuse or wilfully neglect to deliver to the said commissioners or to such person or persons as they shall appoint to receive the same within three days after being thereunto required by the said commissioners by notice in writing under the hands of any two or more of the said commissioners, given to or left at the last or usual place of abode of such officer, all books, papers, and writings in his custody or power relating to the execution of this Ordinance, or to give satisfaction to the said commissioners or such other person or persons as aforesaid respecting the same, then and in every such case upon complaint made by the said commissioners or by such person or persons as they shall appoint for that purpose of any such refusal or wilful neglect as aforesaid to the Resident Magistrate of the district within which such Treasurer or other officer resides, such Resident Magistrate may and he is hereby authorised and required to summon the officer so refusing or neglecting to appear before him; and if it shall appear to the said Magistrate upon the hearing of the case that any moneys remain due from such officer, or if it shall appear to such Magistrate that such officer had refused or wilfully neglected to render and give such account or to produce the vouchers relating thereto, or that any books, papers, or writings relating to the execution of this Ordinance remained in the hands or in the custody or power of such officer and he refused or wilfully neglected to deliver or give satisfaction respecting the same, as aforesaid, then and in every such case such Magistrate shall and he is hereby required to commit such offender to the common gaol or house of correction for such district, there to remain without bail until he shall have given a true and perfect account as aforesaid or until he shall have paid such moneys as aforesaid, and until he shall have delivered up such books, papers, and writings, or given satisfaction in respect thereof to the said commissioners or to such other person or persons as aforesaid; but no such offender shall be kept or detained in such common gaol or house of correction under such commitment as aforesaid for any longer space of time than three calendar months.

22. And be it further enacted that no prosecution or commitment under the provisions of this Ordinance of any Treasurer or other officer or persons to be appointed under the powers of this Ordinance shall acquit or discharge any surety or security that shall or may have been taken by or given to the commissioners for the due and faithful execution of his or their office, or the payment of the moneys received or to be received by him or them respectively.

Imprisonment of treasurer, effect as to his sureties.

23. And be it further enacted that no person elected and appointed under and by virtue of this Ordinance a commissioner for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions thereof shall have or receive or be entitled to have or receive any salary, or shall exact, take, or accept any fee or reward whatsoever for or on account of anything done or to be done by him by virtue of this Ordinance or on any account whatsoever relative to putting this Ordinance into execution.

Actions by and against commissioners.

24. And be it further enacted that in any action or suit which shall or may be brought for the recovery of any penalty or sum of money due or payable by virtue of this Ordinance, or for or in respect of any property movable or immovable vested in the said commissioners, or for any other matter or thing relating to this Ordinance by or against the said commissioners, it shall and may be lawful for the said commissioners to sue or be sued by the style or description of "the commissioners for the municipality of _____": Provided, always, that every such commissioner may and shall (if not otherwise interested or objectionable) be a good, examinable, and competent witness in every action or suit either for or against the said commissioners; and all the affidavits of debt or service which may be necessary or expedient to be made preparatory to or in the prosecution or defence of any such action, suit, or proceeding shall and may be lawfully made by any such commissioner; and provided, also, that the said commissioners shall always be reimbursed and paid out of the moneys to arise by virtue of this Ordinance all such costs, charges, and expenses as they shall be put to or become chargeable with by reason of bringing or defending such action or suit, and shall not be personally answerable or liable for the payment of the same or any part thereof, unless such action or suit shall arise in consequence of their or any of their own wilful neglect or default.

Minute book of commissioners.

25. And be it further enacted that all acts, orders, and proceedings of the said commissioners at any of their meetings shall be entered in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, and shall be signed by two of the commissioners then present; and all such acts, orders, and proceedings shall then be deemed and taken to be original acts, orders, and proceedings; and such books shall and may be produced and read as primâ facie evidence of all such acts, orders, and proceedings upon any appeal, or trial, or information, or any proceeding civil or criminal, and in any court or courts of law or equity whatsoever.

Books of account of commissioners.

26. And be it further enacted that the said commissioners shall and they are hereby required from time to time to order and direct a book or books to be provided and kept in which shall be entered true and regular accounts of all sums of money received, paid, and expended for or on account of the purposes of this Ordinance and of the several articles, matters, and things for which such sums of money shall have been disbursed and paid; and such book or books shall at all reasonable times be open to the inspection of the said commissioners and of every such resident householder as aforesaid without fee or reward; and the said commissioners and other persons aforesaid or any of them shall or may take copies of or extracts from the said book or books without paying for the same; and in case the said commissioners shall refuse to permit or shall not permit the said persons aforesaid to inspect the same or take copies or extracts as aforesaid, such commissioner shall forfeit and pay any sum of money not exceeding five pounds for each default.

Ord. 9—1836.

27. And be it further enacted that in the month of September in every year a true account shall be made in writing of all moneys received and paid by virtue of this Ordinance during the preceding year ending on the 31st day of August in every year; and a copy or duplicate of such account, verified on oath before any Justice of the Peace by the said commissioners, or any two of them, shall be deposited with the said commissioners and shall be open to the inspection of all parties interested.

Annual account on oath by commissioners.

28. (1) And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said commissioners when they shall see fit, and they are hereby required upon a requisition made to them in writing to that effect by any number of such resident householders as aforesaid, not less than twenty-five, to call a meeting of such resident householders as aforesaid, upon seven days' notice to be given in manner aforesaid, for the purpose of assessing any such rate or rates on the immovable property situate within the municipality, and to endure for such period not exceeding twelve months as the majority of persons present and entitled to vote at such meeting shall deem necessary for all or any of the purposes of this Ordinance.

Meeting for assessing rates.

29. And be it further enacted that after the rates to be levied by virtue of this Ordinance shall have been assessed in manner aforesaid it shall and may be lawful for the said commissioners to appoint a collector for the purpose of collecting the amounts due and payable upon the property so assessed by the proprietors thereof; and the said collector is hereby authorised to demand and receive the amounts so to be collected: Provided, always, that the said collector shall be furnished with an order under the hands of the said commissioners or any two of them, directing the said collector to levy the amount mentioned in the said order; and provided also that the said order shall specify the rate in the pound at which the sum mentioned therein shall be computed.

Collection of rates

30. And be it further enacted that the said collector to whom any such order as aforesaid shall be issued shall pay over the amount collected under such order to the Treasurer to be appointed in the said municipality under this Ordinance within forty days from the delivery of such order to the said collector; and at the time of making any payment to the said Treasurer the said collector shall deliver to him a note in writing signed by him, specifying the amount so paid, which note shall be kept by the Treasurer as a voucher for his receipt of that particular amount; and the receipt of the said Treasurer specifying the amount paid to him by the collector shall be a sufficient discharge to the collector for such amount, and shall be allowed as such in passing his account with his municipality.

Police and watchmen.

31. And be it further enacted that the said commissioners acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid are hereby empowered from time to time to appoint and employ such number of able-bodied watch-house keepers, sergeants of the night, watchmen, patrols, street-keepers, and other persons as shall be sufficient for the proper protection of the inhabitants, houses and property, streets and other places within the limits of the municipality, by day and by night, and provide all such watchmen, watch-house keepers, sergeants of the night, patrols, and persons as aforesaid with such clothing, arms, ammunition, and weapons, and shall assign to them such beat and rounds and duties, and appoint such hours for them to be on duty, and also make such rules, orders, and regulations relative to such watch-house keepers, sergeants of the night, watchmen, patrol, street-keepers, and other persons, and their duties, as shall be deemed fit.

Powers of police.

32. And be it further enacted that all watchmen, sergeants of the night, and patrols shall act as constables while in execution of the powers and authorities of this Ordinance, and they are hereby invested with and shall have and enjoy the like powers and authorities, privileges and immunities, and shall be subject and liable to such and the like penalties and forfeitures as any constable or constables is or are invested with or shall or may have and enjoy, or is or are or shall be subject or liable to by law.

Fire-engines.

33. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, and they are hereby empowered from time to time to provide and keep up fire-engines, with pipes and other utensils proper for the same, for the use of the respective municipalities.

Lighting.

34. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, and they are hereby empowered from time to time to cause such lamp-irons or lamp-posts, or other posts, to be put or fixed upon or against the walls or palisadoes of any houses, tenements, buildings, or enclosures (doing as little damage as may be practicable thereto), or to be put up or erected in such other manner within all or any of the said roads, streets, and places within the limits of the respective municipalities as shall be deemed proper, and also to cause such number of lamps of such sizes and sorts to be provided and affixed and put upon such lamp-irons and lamp-posts as shall be necessary for lighting all or any of such roads, streets, and places, and cause the same to be lighted with oil or otherwise during such hours as shall be necessary; and also to cause such a number of watch-houses or watch-boxes to be provided, erected, or affixed as shall be necessary for watching all or any of the streets, roads, and places within the limits of the municipality.

Ord. 9—1836.

35. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners, acting in pursuance of any such regulations aforesaid, and they are hereby empowered from time to time to provide and to carry and lay any pipe or pipes for the conveyance of water to which the inhabitants of the municipality shall at any time have or acquire a common right from any reservoir, river, or spring to any house, building, or other place within the limits of the municipality, and the said commissioners shall, acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, and they are hereby authorised from time to time to make such regulations touching the quantity of water to be supplied to the inhabitants and the time or times at which such supply is to be received as shall be proper and necessary.

Supply of water.

36. And be it further enacted that the said commissioners, acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, shall and they are hereby empowered to cause to be made, provided, erected, and built such bridges, sluices, dams, reservoirs, watercourses, pumps, wells, fountains, drains, and ditches as shall be deemed necessary within the municipality, and shall cause the same to be kept at all times in good and sufficient repair.

Drains, &c.

37. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners, acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, and they are hereby empowered to cause the public streets, roads, and places within the limits of the municipality to be at all times kept in good and sufficient repair, and as occasion shall require to cause such new streets and roads to be made within the limits aforesaid as may be legally made and shall be necessary for the public use, and to be kept at all times in like good and sufficient repair.

Making and repairing of streets,
&c.

38. And be it further enacted that it shall be lawful for the said commissioners, acting in pursuance of any such regulations as aforesaid, and they are hereby empowered from time to time as occasion may require to establish within the limits of the respective municipalities a market or markets for the sale of cattle, fish, poultry, vegetables, fruit, and the like, and to cause suitable houses or other buildings to be built and erected for the convenience of persons attending such market or markets and to cause the same to be kept in good and sufficient repair; and also to enforce such municipal regulations as shall be made and recover such fines as shall be imposed thereby for ensuing order and cleanliness on the part of the persons attending such market.

Ordinance for the more effectual prevention of Crimes against Life and Property within the Colony. ⁽¹⁾

WHEREAS it is expedient to make further provision for the prevention of crime against life and property in this Colony: Be it therefore enacted and declared by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that where any officer of the law, or private person who, by the provisions of the Ordinance No. 73, entitled "An Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor in Council for explaining, altering, and amending the Ordinance No. 40," and bearing date the fifteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and thirty, is authorised and required to arrest, or assist in arresting, any person who has committed, or is on reasonable grounds suspected to have committed, any murder, culpable homicide, rape, robbery, or assault with intent to commit any of those crimes, or in which a dangerous wound is given, arson, housebreaking with intent to commit any crime, or theft of any cattle, sheep, or goat, or any other crime of equal degree of guilt with any of the crimes aforesaid, ⁽²⁾ shall attempt to make such arrest, and the person so attempted to be arrested shall fly or resist, and cannot be apprehended and prevented from escaping by other means than by such officer or private person killing the person so flying or resisting, such homicide shall be deemed in law to be justifiable homicide.

Death while enforcing arrest justifiable.

2. And whereas certain treaties have been entered into between Andries Stockenstrom, Esquire, Lieutenant-Governor of the Eastern Division of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, on the part of His Britannic Majesty, and the Kafir chiefs of the tribes of T'Slambie, the Kafir chiefs of the tribe of Gaika, the Kafir chiefs of the tribe of Congo, the Fingo chiefs Umklambiso and Iokwani, and the Tambookie chief Mapassa, in which treaties certain regulations and provisions have been agreed upon and made, as to the way and manner of recovering, and as to the particular means to be adopted for the recovery within the territory occupied by any such chiefs, or their tribes respectively, of property, which shall have been stolen, and shall not have been retaken or recovered within the Colony, and shall have been traced into any such territory: And whereas it is expedient to provide in the most effectual manner for the enforcement of such regulations and provisions: Be it enacted, that any person, who shall pass out of the Colony over the boundary between the Colony, and any such territory as aforesaid, for the purpose, or with the intent, of recovering any such property so stolen, and not retaken or recovered, and so traced as aforesaid, except in the manner, and under, and in strict conformity with the regulations, conditions, and restrictions agreed upon, prescribed, made, and declared, in and by such treaties respectively, shall, on conviction, be subject to the payment of a fine not exceeding fifty pounds or to imprisonment for any time not exceeding six months.

Native tribes not to enter the Colony with arms.

3. And be it further enacted that it shall not be lawful for any Kafir, Gonaqua, Tambookie, Griqua, Boschjesman, Bechuana, Mantatee, Namaqua, or other natives of Africa not being natives of the Colony to cross from without to within the boundary line of the Colony armed with any assegai, spear, battle-axe, fire-arms, or other weapon, or to be found in the Colony so armed; and all Justices of the Peace, Field-commandants, Field-cornets, and military officers are hereby authorised and required to prevent any such person as aforesaid so armed as aforesaid from entering the Colony; and to disarm or cause to be disarmed any such person so found within the Colony; and in case such persons shall resist when an attempt is made to disarm them it shall be lawful to kill or disable them if they cannot be disarmed by other means: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent any such foreigner as aforesaid, actually in the service or employment of any inhabitant of the Colony from being armed in such manner as his employer may think proper.

Natives not to be without passes.

4. (1) And be it further enacted that if any such foreigner as aforesaid shall be found within the Colony without a pass, or if under contract without a written authority from his employer, on being required by any Justice of the Peace, Field-commandant, Field-cornet, Constable, or Landholder to show the same, or after receiving a pass for the purpose of procuring employment in the Colony, shall be discovered wandering without any certain occupation or honest means of livelihood, having received his pass as aforesaid, or having been absent from his last employer for a longer period than fourteen days, then in any and in each of such cases it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, Field-commandant, or Field-cornet immediately to apprehend such person, and inquire summarily into the case, and for any constable or landholder immediately to apprehend and convey such person to the Resident Magistrate of the district or to any Justice of the Peace, Field-commandant, or Field-cornet, within the district, in which such person was so apprehended, who shall inquire summarily into the case; and if such foreigner be under contract of service, shall forthwith direct him to be returned to the service of his employer, or shall place such person, with his consent, in the employment of some creditable inhabitant under contract of service for twelve calendar months in the manner directed by the Ordinance No. 49, or shall otherwise cause him to be removed beyond the limits of the

Ord. 2—1837.

5. And be it further enacted, that when any officer of the law, or private person who in virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance is authorised and required to arrest or remove, or to assist in arresting or removing, any such foreigner as aforesaid, shall attempt to make such arrest or removal, and such foreigner so attempted to be arrested or removed shall resist, it shall be lawful for such officer or person if such arrest or removal cannot be effected by other means to kill or disable such foreigner so resisting as aforesaid.

Arrest of Natives.

6. And be it further enacted, that if any body of such armed foreigners as aforesaid, consisting of three or more, shall enter the Colony under any pretext whatever, they shall be deemed and taken to be enemies, and it shall be lawful for any person to repel them by force of arms.

Armed Natives entering the Colony in numbers to be deemed enemies.

7. And be it further enacted, that every male inhabitant between the ages of sixteen and sixty, who shall be called upon by any officer of the law to assist in carrying into effect any of the provisions of this Ordinance, or of the said Ordinance No. 73, which it is the duty of any such officer to carry or cause to be carried into effect, and who shall, without sufficient excuse, refuse so to do, shall on conviction thereof be liable to a fine of not less than one pound nor exceeding twenty pounds or to imprisonment for any period not exceeding three months.

Ordinance for repealing the Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the better Observance of the Lord's Day in this Colony," and dated the 23rd day of August, 1837, and for making other provisions instead thereof. ⁽¹⁾

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to repeal the Ordinance No. 4 of 1837, entitled "An Ordinance for the better Observance of the Lord's Day in this Colony," and dated the 23rd day of August, 1837,

The first Sunday Law, A.D. 321.—On the venerable day of the Sun let the Magistrates and people residing in cities rest, and let all workshops be closed. In the country, however, persons engaged in agriculture may freely and lawfully continue their pursuits, because it often happens that another day is not so suitable for grain sowing or vine planting; lest by neglecting the proper moment for such operations the bounty of heaven be lost. Given the 7th day of March, Crispus and Constantine being Consuls, each of them for the second time. (Schaff's Church History, Vol. 3.)

and to make other provisions for the better observance of the Lord's Day in this Colony instead thereof: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance the said Ordinance No. 4 of 1837 shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

No. 1—1838.

2. And be it enacted that from and after the passing of this Ordinance it shall not be lawful for any person to sell or offer for sale any goods, merchandize, cattle, or other live-stock, or to trade or deal or keep open any shop, store, or other place for the purpose of trade or dealing; or to cut or carry any fuel or to engage in field labour, except for the preservation of the fruits of the earth in cases of urgent necessity, or (except upon some lawful occasion) to discharge any gun or other fire-arm on the Lord's Day. And any person who shall sell or offer for sale any goods, merchandize, cattle, or other live-stock, or shall trade or deal or keep open any shop, store, or other place for the purpose of trade or dealing, or shall cut or carry any fuel, or shall engage in any field labour except as aforesaid, or shall discharge any gun or other fire-arm, except as aforesaid, on the Lord's Day, shall for each offence incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding three pounds nor less than five shillings, or to imprisonment for any period not exceeding fourteen days. And it shall be lawful for any constable or police officer to seize any such goods, merchandize, cattle, or live-stock, or any fuel or fire-arm as aforesaid; and the same shall on the conviction of the offender be and become forfeited to Her Majesty.

Dealings forbidden on the Lord's day.

3. Provided always and be it enacted that it shall be lawful for any apothecary, chemist, or druggist, to vend any medicines or drugs, and to keep open his shop, store, or other place for the purpose of vending the same on any part of the Lord's Day. And provided, also, that it shall be lawful for any licensed inn-keeper or eating-house-keeper to keep open any inn or eating-house and to supply any person who is a traveller or lodger at such inn or eating-house with the necessary provisions on any part of the Lord's Day. And provided, also, that it shall be lawful for any butcher (¹) or baker respectively to vend meat and bread and to keep open any shop, store, or other place for the purpose of vending the same on the Lord's Day at any time before nine o'clock in the morning; and for any dairyman or fishmonger respectively to vend milk and fish and to keep open any shop, store, or other place for the purpose of vending the same on the Lord's Day at any time before nine o'clock in the morning and after four o'clock in the afternoon.

Dealings permitted on the Lord's day.

4. And be it enacted that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any contractor from supplying on the Lord's Day Her Majesty's naval or military forces with any article specified in his

5. And be it enacted that no market shall be held nor shall any goods, merchandize, cattle, or other live-stock be allowed to be sold or offered therein for sale on the Lord's Day. And any market master or other person in charge of any market who shall knowingly permit any market to be held or shall wilfully suffer any goods, merchandise, cattle, or other live-stock to be sold or offered for sale in any such market upon the Lord's Day shall for each offence incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding three pounds nor less than five shillings, or to imprisonment for any period not exceeding fourteen days.

6. And be it enacted that the owner or occupier of any public billiard room, skittle-ground, or other public place of amusement who shall permit or suffer any one to play in his house or premises at any game on the Lord's Day shall incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds nor less than five shillings, or to imprisonment for any period not exceeding one month. And it shall be lawful for any Resident Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or police officer to disperse all persons gathering together on the Lord's Day in any public or open place for the purpose of gambling, fighting dogs or cocks, or playing at any game; and to take and seize any implements, instruments, or animals used therein, and to destroy or carry away the same. And all persons actually gambling, fighting dogs or cocks, or playing as aforesaid he shall arrest or cause to be arrested; and the said person shall on conviction thereof be sentenced to a fine not exceeding three pounds nor less than five shillings, or to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding fourteen days.

7. And be it enacted that all offences against this Ordinance shall be cognizable by the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district or place in which such offences shall be committed and by the Resident Justice of the Peace of Simon's Town if committed within his jurisdiction and that it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor in each particular case to determine, award, and direct what share if any of the amount of any fine or forfeiture recovered in respect of any conviction for any such offence as aforesaid shall be paid to any person who may have given information concerning the same.

8. And be it enacted that the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth sections of the Ordinance No. 48, (1) entitled "Ordinance of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for establishing an Executive Police in Cape Town and the district thereof, and for consolidating and amending the laws and regulations relating thereto," and dated the 3rd day of July, 1828, shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

No. 2.—Sd. George Napier.]

[January 23, 1839.

Ordinance for authorising the appointment of a Vestry and Churchwardens for St. George's Church, Graham's Town.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the inhabitants of Graham's Town and the parochial limits thereof being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established should be invested with the right and privilege of choosing and appointing under certain regulations a vestry and churchwardens for the better and more effectual administration and management of all matters connected with the church of Graham's Town commonly called St. George's Church, and that the said vestry and churchwardens after having been duly appointed should possess certain powers and perform certain duties as the same are usually possessed and exercised by such officers according to the customs and usages of the said United Church of England and Ireland: And whereas on the appointment of the said vestry and churchwardens it is expedient that the office of church committee as at present constituted should cease and determine:

Vestry, appointment of.

1. Now, therefore, be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that on the first Tuesday in March after the passing of this Ordinance and annually afterwards on the same day a general meeting of the male inhabitants of Graham's Town aforesaid and of the parochial limits thereof being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established shall be holden in Graham's Town, notice whereof shall be given by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony at least fourteen days before the said meeting is to be holden, for the purpose of electing a vestry; and it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitants as aforesaid or the greater part assembled at such meeting to elect from among themselves any number of persons not exceeding eight, in manner and subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, who together with the officiating minister for the time being shall form a vestry charged with the duties and invested with the powers hereinafter mentioned.

Auditors.

2. And be it further enacted that two other persons not being members of the said vestry shall likewise be elected to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry.

Qualification of vestrymen.

3. And be it further enacted that every male inhabitant householder being a member of and holding communion with the church aforesaid and resident in Graham's Town or within the parochial limits thereof shall be eligible to be a member of the said vestry.

4. And be it enacted that a list of all persons eligible according to the provisions of the foregoing section shall be prepared by the officiating minister so long as there are no churchwardens appointed, and when churchwardens shall have been appointed as is hereinafter provided then by the minister and churchwardens conjointly, and shall be open for the inspection of all persons entitled to vote at the election of the said vestry and auditors at least fourteen days before any election is to take place.

Ord. 2—1839.
List of persons qualified.

5. And be it further enacted that at every such general meeting as aforesaid the election shall be carried on by lists duly signed by such inhabitants as aforesaid respectively and containing the names of the persons for whom they vote to be elected as vestrymen and as auditors.

Voting. mode of.

6. And be it further enacted that the officiating minister for the time being shall preside as chairman at the meetings of the said vestry, provided that in his absence from any such meeting one of the other members shall be chosen to act as chairman; and in case the votes of the said vestry be equally divided the chairman or acting chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to his own.

Chairman of vestry.

7. And be it enacted that five members of the said vestry or four members besides the chairman shall form a quorum and shall be competent to perform all matters and things which may be done by the vestry under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Quorum of vestry.

8. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed to frame, adopt, alter, or rescind such rules, orders, and by-laws as may to them appear expedient for their guidance in the discharge of their duties, and for more effectually executing the provisions of this Ordinance, and also to take such order for the management of the said church as shall to them seem expedient, provided that the said rules, orders, or by-laws contain nothing repugnant to law or the tenor of this Ordinance or to the customs and usages of the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established.

Powers of vestry as to rules, &c.

9. And be it enacted that the said church committee shall upon the appointment of the said vestry deliver over to the said vestry all deeds, books, and papers relating to the church in their custody or power and all sums of money in their possession or control, and the said church committee and the office and duties thereof shall thereupon cease and determine.

Custody of papers, &c.

10. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such members of the said church as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, and rights, and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof and all other matters and things relating to the same as are now possessed and exercised by the church committee together with such other laws and rights and duties as are hereinafter specified.

Powers of vestry as to money and contracts.

11. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry for the time being to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to their order, and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute, or compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for the good of the church aforesaid.

Actions by vestry.

12. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry as such from time to time to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any person whatsoever, and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of the vestry of St. George's Church at Graham's Town, without specifying the christian or surnames of the members of the vestry, and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any individual members thereof.

Actions against vestry.

13. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or other matter or thing made or entered into or performed by the said vestry in the execution of the said trust, or shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said vestry, shall be brought by such person in manner and in name aforesaid, and not against any individual member of the said vestry.

Accounts of vestry.

14. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall keep an account wherein they shall enter money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times. And the said account together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon shall be laid before the members holding communion with the said church at the general annual meeting aforesaid and published if requisite for general information.

Churchwardens, appointment and duties of.

15. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall forthwith on their appointment or as soon after as conveniently may be choose out of their own number two persons to be churchwardens, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts and matters and things for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the pews and sittings thereof, and for providing the said church (by order and at the charges of the said vestry) with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine service, and for keeping the same clean and in proper repair, and for keeping the burial-ground attached to the said church in decent order and properly fenced, and for discharging all other duties which usually devolve on churchwardens in the United Church of England and Ireland so far as the same may be applicable to this Colony.

Ord. 2—1839.

16. And be it further enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep an exact account of all collections of money made from time to time in the said church for any charitable or religious purposes connected with the said church and congregation ; and the said churchwardens together with the officiating minister for the time being shall faithfully administer the same or see that they be faithfully administered and appropriated in the manner and for the purposes contemplated and intended by the persons contributing to the same. And the churchwardens' accounts of all such sums as shall be subscribed and collected for charitable purposes and received in trust by them in virtue of their office shall be subject to all the same regulations as the general church fund and accounts of the vestry.

Accounts of churchwardens.

17. And be it enacted that the churchwardens appointed as above shall continue in office until after the next general annual election of the vestry is completed, when they shall deliver up to the said vestry all accounts of such charities as aforesaid duly audited, together with all vouchers, sums of money, or securities held by them in virtue of their office ; and the vestry shall then proceed to nominate other churchwardens for the ensuing year : Provided, always, that the churchwardens thus vacating office shall be re-eligible in case they are continued as members of the vestry.

Tenure of office by churchwardens.

18. And be it further enacted that in case any member of the vestry shall die, or desire to resign, or shall be removed, or for any other lawful cause shall vacate his office it shall and may be lawful for the surviving or other members of the said vestry to decide whether a special general meeting shall be called for the purpose of electing another member in the place of the one so dying, or desiring to resign, or being removed, or whether his place shall remain vacant until the next general annual meeting to be holden as aforesaid : Provided, always, that in case the members of the said vestry decide that a special general meeting shall be holden for the purpose aforesaid the same notice shall be given thereof and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as in case of the general annual meeting is provided.

Vacancies in vestry.

19. And be it enacted that there shall be set apart in the said church and allotted to the chief civil and military authorities resident at Graham's Town and to the minister of the said church respectively a pew sufficient to contain eight persons, and likewise for the use of the officers of the garrison pews sufficient for sixteen persons : and there shall likewise be reserved in some convenient part of the church an adequate number of free sittings for the use of the troops and the accommodation of poor people.

Free sittings.

20. And be it further enacted that all the pews and sittings in the said church, with the exception of those allotted and reserved

Sittings to let.

Ord. 2—1859.

as aforesaid, shall and may be let by the vestry by the year or for any shorter period to any person desiring to take the same at a rent to be affixed to them respectively by the vestry, and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the vestry; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term, provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable: Provided, always, that nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with any persons at present holding free sittings on the ground of office.

Non-payment of rent.

21. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the vestry whenever it shall happen that the rent of any pew or sitting is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable, to give notice to the possessor of such pew forthwith to quit and give up possession thereof; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purposes of this Ordinance, without any other form or proceeding whatever: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action in any competent Court.

Burial-places.

22. And be it further enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church, but the burials of all persons according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground unconsecrated and allotted or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose.

Monuments and vaults, erection of.

23. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monument to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the enclosed ground about the same, or in the burial-ground belonging thereto, or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground, upon payment to the fund of the said church for such permission of such reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission according to the terms thereof.

Monuments and vaults, maintenance of.

24. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or digging or making any vault in the said burial-ground by and with such permission as aforesaid to have, maintain and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission, to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons and his or their heirs for ever: Provided, always, that in case any such monument as aforesaid is suffered to fall into decay, and the person or persons to whom the said monument appertains neglects to repair the same it shall and may be lawful after a general notice of such intention to remove the same.

25. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance and shall be judicially taken notice of by all Judges, Magistrates, and others without being specially pleaded.

Ord. 2 1839.
Public ordinance.

MARRIAGE ORDER IN COUNCIL IN FORCE IN THIS COLONY FROM THE 1ST FEBRUARY, 1839. (1)

At the Court at Windsor, the 7th Day of September, 1838.

PRESENT :

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.
The Lord Chancellor. Earl of Albemarle. Viscount Falkland.	The Viscount Palmerston. Viscount Melbourne. Lord Glenelg.

WHEREAS since the abolition of slavery throughout the British colonies, plantations, and possessions abroad the marriage laws of the said colonies, plantations, and possessions have been found inappropriate to the altered condition thereof and inadequate to the increased desire for lawful matrimony therein: And whereas it is expedient and necessary to amend the said marriage laws and to adapt the same to the altered state and condition of society in the said colonies, plantations and possessions:—

2. It is therefore hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice of her Privy Council, that from and after the taking effect of this Order it shall be lawful for any minister of the Christian religion, ordained or otherwise set apart to the ministry of the Christian religion, according to the usage of the persuasion to which he may belong, to publish within the colonies of British Guiana, Trinidad, St. Lucia, the Cape of Good Hope, and Mauritius, or any of them, banns of marriage between persons desirous of being joined together in matrimony, and such publication shall be made in an audible manner some time during public divine service on a Sunday in the face of the congregation before whom such minister shall officiate in the parish in which both or one of the parties to be married shall dwell, and shall contain the christian and other name and surname and place of abode of each of the said parties, and shall be so published by some such minister for three Sundays preceding the solemnization of the marriage during the morning service if there be service in the morning, or if there shall be no morning service then during the evening service.

Banns publication of, before marriages.

3. And if the parties to be married shall dwell in different parishes the banns shall be published in like manner in both such parishes; and if the said parties shall be of different persuasions

Publication of banns in different parishes and churches.

¹ See Order in Council, 20th Feb., 1839 : 3rd April, 1840 ; Ord. 4, 1848 ; Acts, 12, 1856 ; 16, 1860 ; 9, 1882 : 13, 1857 ; 21, 1875 : 40, 1892.

Amended by Act 28, 1897 (banns). See also Act 35, 1896, § 55 (minors). Act 27, 1902, validating certain marriages. See also Act 33, 1905.

the banns shall be published in like manner before each of the congregations to which the said parties may respectively belong, whether both the said congregations shall assemble in the same parish or not.

Publication of banns in extra-parochial places

4. And where one or both of the parties shall dwell in any extra-parochial place, then if there be a congregation of the persuasion to which any such party shall belong assembling for public divine worship as aforesaid in such extra-parochial place the banns of the party or parties dwelling in such extra-parochial place shall be published in manner aforesaid in such extra-parochial place.

Publication of banns in extra-parochial places.
continued.

5. And if there shall be no such congregation in such extra-parochial place then the banns of such of the parties to be married as shall dwell in such extra-parochial place shall be published in manner aforesaid in some parish next adjoining to such extra-parochial place.

Certificate of proclamation.

6. And in cases where the banns shall have been published in different places the officiating minister at either of the said places shall on the request of both or either of the parties whose banns shall have been published as aforesaid give to the party requiring the same a certificate of the banns having been duly published in the place of which he is an officiating minister, and on the production of such certificate to the officiating minister of the other place where the banns were published or of such certificates to any other such minister as aforesaid in the parish or extra-parochial place to which one of the parties shall belong it shall be lawful for such minister where the banns were published on receiving such certificate from such other minister where the banns were published, or for such minister as aforesaid to whom the certificates of such ministers of both places where the banns were published [shall be produced] on receipt of such certificate or certificates (as the case may be) to solemnize matrimony between the said parties according to such form and ceremony as shall be in use or be adopted by the persuasion to which the minister solemnizing such marriage shall belong.

Celebration of marriage.

7. Provided that whenever the form and ceremony used shall be other than that of the United Church of England and Ireland ⁽¹⁾ each of the parties shall in some part of the ceremony make the following declaration:

“I do solemnly declare that I know not of any lawful impediment why I, A.B., may not be joined in matrimony to C.D., here present.”

And each of the parties shall say to the other:

“I call upon these persons here present to witness that I, A.B., do take C.D. to be my lawful wedded wife (or husband).”

Notice of names and abode of parties.

8. And it is hereby further ordered that no minister shall be obliged to publish banns between any person whomsoever unless the persons to be married shall two days at least before the time required for the first publication of such banns respectively deliver or cause to be delivered to such minister a notice of their true christian and other names and surnames, and a description of their place or respective places of abode in such parish or extra-parochial place as aforesaid, and of the time during which they have dwelt in such place or places.

Order in Council,
7th Sept., 1838.

9. And that it shall not be lawful for any minister to solemnize any marriage after three calendar months from the last publication of banns of such marriage; and in all cases where three calendar months shall have elapsed without the marriage having been solemnized, the publication of such banns shall be void; and before the said parties can be married by banns it shall be necessary to republish the banns anew in manner and form aforesaid as if no banns had ever been published between them.

Marriage to be within three months of publication of banns.

10. And be it further enacted that no such minister as aforesaid who shall solemnize any marriage after due publication of banns as aforesaid between persons both or one of whom (not being a widow or widower) shall at the time of such marriage be under legal age, shall be answerable or responsible or liable to any pains, penalty, or proceeding for having solemnized such marriage without the consent of the parents or guardians or other person (if any) whose consent is required by law, unless such parents or guardian, or other person or one of them shall forbid the marriage, and give notice thereof to such minister before he has solemnized the same; and in case such marriage shall be forbidden as aforesaid and such notice shall be given as aforesaid the publication of the banns for such marriage shall be absolutely void.

Marriage of minors

11. And it is hereby further ordered that where by any law in force or which may hereafter be in force in any of the Colonies to which this order applies by which licences (1) for marriage without the publication of banns may be granted or issued in any such Colony by the Governor thereof or any other civil authority therein, it shall be lawful for the parties intending marriage or either of them to require that such licence shall authorise the solemnization of the marriage in respect of which such licence is applied for in any place where and by any minister by whom such marriage could have been solemnized by virtue of this Act if banns thereof had been published as aforesaid.

Special licences.

12. (2) And whereas it may happen that in some of the Colonies to which this order applies or in some parts thereof respectively there may not be any such minister as aforesaid or not a sufficient number of such ministers to afford convenient facilities for marriage, and it is expedient to provide for such cases, it is therefore further ordered that in every such case and whenever the same shall happen in any of the said Colonies it shall be lawful for the ² See §§ 1, 3, and 4, Act 16, 1860.

Order in Council,
7th Sept., 1838.

Governor of such Colony to appoint by writing under his hand and official seal one or more such fit and proper person or persons as he shall from time to time deem necessary or expedient, to be called the marriage officer, to solemnize marriages within such part or parts of the Colony in which such appointment shall be made as the Governor shall from time to time direct; and it shall be lawful for the Governor at any time and from time to time to revoke and cancel any such appointment or appointments, and to alter, vary, enlarge, or contract the district or districts in which any person so appointed shall have power or jurisdiction to celebrate marriage for any cause which to him shall seem meet; and every such appointment shall specify the part or district within which the person thereby appointed shall have power and jurisdiction to celebrate marriage.

Marriage before marriage officer.

13. And until some law shall be made, passed, allowed, and promulgated for regulating marriages by persons so appointed, it shall be lawful for the Governor and he is hereby required to direct, declare, and promulgate the manner by which the intention of parties to marry before any such marriage officer shall be made public.

Marriage of minors before officer.

14. Provided, always, that it shall not be lawful for any such marriage officer to solemnize marriage between persons one or both of whom shall be under lawful age (unless in the case of a widow or widower) after such marriage shall be forbidden, and notice thereof given to him by any person having lawful authority to forbid the same.

Declaration by spouses before
officer.

15. Provided, always, that in every marriage before any such marriage officer not celebrated according to the form of the United Church of England and Ireland the parties shall in some part of the ceremony respectively make the declarations hereinbefore set forth as in the case of marriage by any such minister as aforesaid.

Marriage officer
co-ordinate with ministers.

16. Provided, also, that every such minister as aforesaid may nevertheless publish banns and celebrate marriage under and by virtue of this order in any part or district within which any such marriage officer shall have power or jurisdiction to celebrate marriage as fully as if no such marriage officer had ever been appointed.

When consent of parents, &c., cannot be had, judicial consent may be given.

17. (1) And whereas it may happen that the parents or parent, guardians or guardian, of one or both of the parties to be married may be non compos mentis or absent from the Colony or otherwise incapable in law or in fact of consenting or may be induced unreasonably and improperly to withhold his, her, or their consent to a proper marriage, or may be dead, it is therefore hereby ordered that in case any such parent or guardian whose consent is necessary to a marriage shall be non compos mentis or absent from the Colony or otherwise incapable as aforesaid of consenting or shall withhold his, her, or their consent to any marriage or in case

there shall be no one capable of consenting, it shall be lawful for any person desirous of marriage, to whose marriage such consent is necessary but cannot be given or is withheld, to apply by petition to the chief civil judge or person officiating as such for the time being of the Colony, who is hereby empowered to proceed upon such petition in a summary way; and in case the marriage proposed shall upon examination appear to him to be proper the said chief civil judge or person officiating as such shall judicially declare by his order in writing that such marriage is proper and may be solemnized forthwith; and every marriage duly solemnized in pursuance or under the authority or direction of such order shall be as good, valid and effectual to all intents and purposes whatsoever as if such consent as aforesaid had been duly given thereto.

Order in Council,
7th Sept., 1838.

18. And it is hereby further ordered that after the solemnization of any marriage under or by virtue of this Act it shall not be necessary in support of such marriage or in any action, suit, or proceeding when the same may come into question, to give any proof of the actual dwelling of the parties married or of either of them before the marriage or that the banns were published or that the marriage was solemnized in the place and by a person where and by whom the same ought to have been published and solemnized respectively, nor shall any evidence be received to prove the contrary.

Matters not necessary to be proved in regard to a marriage duly solemnized.

19. And it is hereby further ordered that in no case whatsoever shall any suit or proceeding be had in any Court or before any jurisdiction whatsoever to compel the celebration of any marriage by reason of any promise or marriage-contract entered into or by reason of seduction or of any cause whatsoever which shall arise after the taking effect of this order, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

Actions to compel marriage.

20. Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any person aggrieved from suing for or recovering damages in any Court or by any proceeding wherein and whereby damages may be lawfully recovered for breach of promise of marriage or for seduction or other cause as aforesaid.

Damages in default of marriage.

21. And in order to preserve evidence of marriages and to make the proof thereof certain and easy and for the direction of such ministers and marriage officers as aforesaid in the registration thereof, it is hereby further ordered that from and after the passing and taking effect of this order all marriages (except marriages by special licence to marry at any time and place where such special licences can be lawfully granted) shall be solemnized with open doors between the hours of eight in the forenoon and four in the afternoon, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses beside the minister or marriage officer who shall solemnize the same; and that immediately after the solemnization of every marriage an entry thereof shall be made in a marriage-register book to be kept for that purpose by some such minister or marriage officer as having the care of the same respectively or his deputy, and to have a true copy or true copies of any entries or entry therein or filed as aforesaid certified under the hand of the minister, marriage officer, or officer for the time being respectively having the custody of the original or duplicate original register as aforesaid (as the case may be), which true copies or copy such minister, marriage officer, or Colonial Secretary is hereby required to make and certify under his hand to be a true copy in the form of the duplicate original register, except that the same shall be headed "certified copy (or copies) of original (or duplicate original) marriage register" (as the case may be), and shall be dated on the day, month, and year when the same shall be delivered.

Fees payable.

23. (1) And it is hereby further ordered that in order to meet the expense and as a remuneration for the trouble occasioned by the performance of any duty under this order the following fees shall be demandable and payable before the performance of the duty to which the same respectively relate, that is to say:

For solemnizing and registering a marriage and transmitting the duplicate original to the Colonial Secretary, four shillings.

For every general search not directed to any particular entry, four shillings.

For every search for a particular entry, two shillings.

For every search for two or more particular entries, and not exceeding four entries, one shilling each.

For every search for any number of particular entries exceeding four, four shillings.

For every such certified copy as aforesaid, two shillings.

Customary fees to clergy.

24. (1) Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any clergyman of the Established Church of England and Ireland from receiving for any duty performed by him under this order such fees or payments as have heretofore been customarily paid to such clergyman according to the rules of the said church for the performance of such duties respectively.

Marriages by clergy to be according to rubric.

25. Provided, always, that nothing in this order contained shall authorise or require any clergyman of the established church aforesaid to solemnize marriage in any other manner than is prescribed by the rubric.

Remuneration of marriage officers.

26. Provided, also that it shall be lawful for the Governor to authorise such marriage officers as aforesaid to receive such further or other remuneration as he shall from time to time think the nature of their duties shall reasonably require.

Injury to marriage register.

27. And it is hereby further ordered that if any person shall unlawfully and maliciously erase, obliterate, or destroy, or cause or procure to be erased, obliterated, or destroyed, any such original register or duplicate original register as aforesaid, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and on being duly convicted thereof shall be liable to be imprisoned in the common gaol in the jurisdiction in which he shall be tried and convicted thereof for any term not less than three nor exceeding twelve calendar months.

Order in Council,
7th Sept., 1838.

28. And if any person shall unlawfully and wilfully forge or alter or falsely make or cause or procure or permit to be forged or altered or falsely made any such original register or duplicate original register or any certified copy thereof respectively, or shall knowingly and wilfully deliver, offer, alter, or put off any such forged, false, or altered copy, he shall be liable for such his offence on conviction thereof to be imprisoned in such gaol as aforesaid for any term not exceeding eighteen months nor less than six months.

Falsification of register or certificates.

29. And it is hereby further ordered that it shall and may be lawful for the respective local Legislatures of the said Colonies of British Guiana, Trinidad, St. Lucia, Cape of Good Hope, and Mauritius, by any Ordinance to be by them for that purpose made, to provide for the better adaptation of this present order to the local circumstances of such Colonies respectively: Provided that such Ordinance be not in contradiction or repugnant to any of the provisions of this order, and that all such Ordinances be made, confirmed, or disallowed as the case may be in the manner and according to the rules provided by the law in reference to any other Ordinances of the said respective local Legislatures.

Legislation by colonies.

30. And whereas since the abolition of slavery in the British Colonies, plantations, and possessions abroad doubts have arisen and exist as to the validity of certain marriages contracted and solemnised previous to the abolition of slavery in the said Colonies, plantations, and possessions between slaves and between parties one of whom was a slave, and also in some cases between free persons of colour, and since the abolition of slavery between apprentices and other persons of free condition by ministers of the Christian religion other than clergymen of the United Church of England and Ireland, and it is expedient and necessary that all such doubts shall be removed and such marriages and reputed marriages should be ascertained and confirmed, and that all persons who may have solemnized any such marriages or reputed marriages or who have in any manner assisted thereat should be indemnified from and against all pains, penalties, forfeitures, and proceedings to which such persons or any of them may be liable therefor:

31. It is therefore further ordered that all marriages which at any time before the taking effect of this order shall have been solemnised in any of the Colonies to which this order applies by or before any such ministers of the Christian religion as aforesaid shall be and the same are hereby declared to be and to have been from the time of the solemnization thereof respectively good, valid, and effectual to all intents and purposes whatsoever, any law or usage to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding; and all pains, penalties, forfeitures, and proceedings of whatsoever kind or description which any such Christian minister may have incurred or become liable to before the taking effect of this order by reason of his having solemnized or assisted at any marriage whatsoever or in any wise in relation thereto is and are hereby remitted, released, repealed, and made void.

Registers and certificates of such doubtful marriages.

32. And whereas in the Colonies in which marriages have been celebrated as aforesaid registers thereof have been duly made and kept by such ministers as aforesaid who officiated thereat, it is therefore further ordered that all such registers and all copies thereof respectively certified under the hand of the person for the time being having the lawful care of the same to be true copies shall be and are hereby declared to be good evidence of such marriages as aforesaid respectively as fully as if such registers had been made and kept and such certified copies had been made respectively by persons appointed by law to make and keep the same, and shall be received in evidence in all Courts and before all Judges and Magistrates.

Record of such registers.

33. And it is hereby further ordered that the better to preserve evidence of marriages so registered and to facilitate the proof thereof, every person in whose custody any register lawfully is or shall be at the time shall within six months after the promulgation of this order, to which the same extends, respectively make or cause to be made a fair and correct copy of every such register and of every entry therein contained, and it shall be lawful for any such Christian minister as aforesaid to examine, verify, and correct (if and where found incorrect) by the original any such copy of a register kept by the persuasion to which he belongs, and to take the same before any Magistrate, and make and sign the following declaration, which any Magistrate to whom the same shall be tendered is hereby authorised and required to receive and to certify, in manner following, that is to say:—

I, A.B. (describe the persuasion to which he belongs), do hereby solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare that I have carefully examined this copy beginning the day of (month and year) and ending on the day of (month and year), and containing pages and entries of marriage, with the original register, and I believe the same to be throughout a true and faithful copy of the original register of which it purports to be a copy.

depart be made, signed, and attested in the same manner, and the original declaration shall be appended to and kept with the original register and the duplicate original declaration shall be appended to, sent and kept with the duplicate original register, and shall for all purposes of evidence be deemed part thereof respectively: Provided always, and it is hereby declared that such last-mentioned ceremony and declaration may be performed and made without the previous publication of banns or a licence.

Translation of this order where English language not used.

38. And it is hereby further ordered that where in any Colony to which this order applies any other language than English shall be commonly used, the Governor shall cause a true and faithful translation of this order, and particularly of the several forms and declarations herein contained, to be made, expressing the true intent and meaning thereof; and such translation when promulgated by the Governor may be lawfully used by all persons speaking such language; and everything done under this order by means of such translation shall be as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes whatsoever as if the same had been done in the original language of this order, any law or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Interpretation of terms used.

39. And it is hereby further ordered that the word "Governor" in this order shall be taken to mean the Governor or other officer lawfully administering the Government of such Colony; and the word "parish" in Colonies divided into parishes shall be taken in its ordinary sense, and in Colonies not divided into parishes shall be taken to mean such other districts or divisions as for civil purposes are equivalent to parishes; and the term "extra-parochial place" shall be taken to mean any place not included in any such parish, district, or division; and if in any case there be no such district or division, or if it be uncertain to what kind of district or division the word "parish" is hereby intended to apply the same shall be determined and officially declared by the Governor.

First operation of order.

40. And it is further ordered that this order shall take effect and come into operation in the Colony of Mauritius on the first day of February one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine; in the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope on the said first day of February one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine, and in all other Colonies to which it applies or extends on the first day of December one thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight.

Local operation of order.

41. And it is further ordered and declared that within the meaning and for the purposes of this order all Islands and Territories dependent upon any of the Colonies to which this order applies or extends and constituting parts of the same Colonial Government shall respectively be taken to be parts of such respective Colonies.

42. And the Right Honourable Lord Glenelg, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

ORDER IN COUNCIL, FEBRUARY 20, 1839.

WHEREAS on the 7th day of September, 1838, an order was passed by Her Majesty with the advice of her Privy Council for giving validity to certain marriages contracted within the Colonies of British Guiana, Trinidad, Saint Lucia, the Cape of Good Hope, and Mauritius, and for regulating the celebration of marriages therein hereafter in certain cases: And whereas doubts have arisen whether according to the right construction of the said order the legal effect thereof is not to take away the right theretofore vested in the clergy or ministers of religion within the said Colonies to the fees heretofore payable to them on the celebration of marriages therein: Now, therefore, for the removal of such doubts it is hereby declared and ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council that nothing in the said recited order contained extends or shall be construed to extend to deprive any clergyman or minister of religion in any of the said Colonies hereafter celebrating any marriages therein of any fee, perquisite, or emolument on such celebration which would have been legally payable to him thereupon if the said recited order had not been made, or to take away from any such clergyman or minister any right of action or other remedy which could have been had by him for the recovery of any fee, perquisite, or emolument on any marriage hereafter to be celebrated by him if the said recited order had not been made, anything in the said recited order contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

And the Most Noble the Marquess of Normanby, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

C. GREVILLE.

ORDER IN COUNCIL. (1)

April 3, 1840.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 3rd day of April, 1840.

PRESENT:

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Lord Chancellor,
Lord President,
Lord Privy Seal,
Marquis of Normanby,
Lord Steward,
Lord Chamberlain,
Earl of Albemarle,

Earl of Minto,
Viscount Palmerston,
Viscount Melbourne,
Viscount Duncan,
Viscount Morpeth,
Lord Holland,
Mr. Macaulay.

WHEREAS by an Order made by Her Majesty in Council on the 7th day of September, 1838, it was, amongst other things, ordered that whenever the form and ceremony used in the solemnization

[August 14, 1839.]

Ordinance for the more effectual Recovery of Fines and Penalties before Justices of the Peace and Resident Magistrates on conviction of Offenders in this Colony; and for the application of the same in certain cases. ⁽¹⁾

WHEREAS in some of the Laws and Ordinances which are now in force in this Colony whereby fines and penalties are imposed on persons for certain offences therein mentioned no adequate provision is made for the recovery of the said fines and penalties: And whereas it is expedient that all fines and penalties not exceeding forty pounds sterling which have been or shall be imposed on offenders by any Law or Ordinance in this Colony for the recovery of which no provision has been or shall be expressly made in such Law or Ordinance should be recovered before the Resident Magistrate of the district or place in which the respective offences shall be committed; Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of the Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the passing and publication of this Ordinance all fines and penalties not exceeding forty pounds sterling which have been or shall be imposed on persons for offences by any Law or Ordinance which now is or at any time hereafter shall be in force in this Colony for the recovery of which no provision has been or shall be expressly made in such Law or Ordinance shall be recovered before the Resident Magistrate of the district or place in which the respective offences shall be committed, and shall in case of non-payment thereof be levied by warrant of distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or offenders or enforced at the discretion of such Resident Magistrate by such special commitment in execution as is hereinafter prescribed for and declared to be generally applicable to the recovery of fines and penalties inflicted by any of the laws of this Colony.

Preamble.

Fines and penalties not exceeding forty pounds, recovery of.

2. And whereas by several Laws and Ordinances which are now in force in this Colony certain fines and penalties are inflicted on persons convicted of certain offences which are directed to be recovered before a Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate within their respective jurisdictions, who is authorised to issue forth his warrant for levying such fines and penalties by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or offenders, but no further remedy is provided in case no sufficient goods and chattels of such offender or offenders can be found whereon to levy such fines and penalties, for remedy whereof be it further enacted that from and after the passing and publication of this Ordinance, whenever it shall appear to any such Justice of the Peace or Imprisonment substituted where nulla bona for payment of fine.

Ord. 6—1839.

Resident Magistrate by whom any fine or penalty shall be adjudged to be paid upon the return of any such warrant of distress that no sufficient goods and chattels of the offender or offenders can be found whereon to levy such fine or penalty within the jurisdiction of such Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate, it shall be lawful for such Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate to issue forth his warrant for committing such offender or offenders to the common gaol for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such fine or penalty shall be sooner paid; or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate, either by the confession of the offender or offenders or otherwise, that he, she, or they hath not or have not sufficient goods or chattels within the jurisdiction of such Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate whereon to levy such fine or penalty, such Justice of the Peace or Resident Magistrate may at his discretion without issuing any warrant of distress proceed to the commitment of such offender or offenders in such and the like manner as if a warrant of distress had been issued and a return of nulla bona made thereon as aforesaid.

Release from imprisonment on payment of fine.

3. And be it further enacted that in any case any offender or offenders committed to the common gaol for non-payment of any such fine or penalty shall at any time during the period of his, her, or their imprisonment pay or cause to be paid to the keeper of such common gaol the full amount of such fine or penalty it shall be lawful for such keeper of such common gaol and he is hereby required forthwith to discharge such offender or offenders from his custody.

Application of fines.

4. And be it further enacted that all fines and penalties recovered under any of the Laws or Ordinances of this Colony shall unless it be otherwise expressly provided by such Laws or Ordinances respectively be paid and applied as follows, that is to say, a part not exceeding one-half or less than one-fourth thereof shall be paid to the informer and the remainder into the Colonial Treasury.

or dismiss from his employment any man belonging to the said police force (except the Deputy Superintendent and the Inspector of Police, who may be suspended or dismissed only by the Governor of this Colony for the time being) whom he shall think negligent or remiss in the discharge of his duty or otherwise unfit for the same and when any man shall be dismissed or cease to belong to the said police force all powers vested in him as a constable by virtue of this Ordinance shall immediately cease and determine.

Penalty on constables for neglect, &c., of duty.

8. (1) And be it enacted that any constable belonging to the said force save and except the inspector (who is either here or elsewhere in this Ordinance comprehended under the term constable) who shall be guilty of any neglect or violation of duty in his office of constable, as the same shall be defined by the rules and regulations to be hereafter framed, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, which penalty may be deducted from any salary then due to such offender, or such offender may in the discretion of the Judge and Superintendent of Police, who is hereby authorised and empowered to enforce in a summary manner all penalties to be incurred under this section as well as sections nine and ten next succeeding, be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month; but no such penalty or punishment shall be held or taken to exempt such constable from any other penalty or punishment which may by any other law be affixed to any illegal act or acts of which he may be guilty.

Resignation of constables.

9. (2) And be it enacted that no constable belonging to the said police force shall be at liberty to resign his situation or withdraw himself from the duties thereof unless expressly permitted so to do by the Judge and Superintendent of Police in writing, or unless he shall give to such Judge and Superintendent two full months' notice of his intention; and every constable who shall so resign or withdraw himself without such leave or notice shall be liable to forfeit all arrears of pay then due to him or to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month, as to the said Judge and Superintendent may seem best and most expedient.

Delivery up of clothing, &c., by constables.

10. (3) And be it enacted that every constable belonging to the said police force who shall be dismissed from or shall cease to hold and exercise his office and who shall not forthwith deliver over to the said Judge and Superintendent all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessaries which may have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty, or who shall wilfully or maliciously injure any of the same articles so as to render the same valueless or of less value before delivering the same over, shall be liable to imprisonment for any time not exceeding

11. (1) And be it enacted that every person not being a member of the said police force who shall have in his possession any article being part of the clothing, accoutrements, or appointments supplied to such member and who shall not be able satisfactorily to account for his possession thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, or in the discretion of the Magistrate before whom he shall be convicted to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month.

12. (2) And be it enacted that if any owner or keeper of any house, shop, store, or other place for the sale of any liquors whether spirituous or otherwise shall harbour or entertain any constable belonging to the said police force or permit such constable to remain in his house, shop, store, or other place as aforesaid for any part of the time during which to his knowledge such constable should be on duty, every such owner or keeper as aforesaid shall for every such offence be liable to forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding ten pounds, and in default of payment thereof shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month.

13. [Repealed by Act 27 of 1882.]

14. And be it enacted that the said Judge and Superintendent and the police under his command shall as much as in them lies suppress all tumults, riots, affrays, or breaches of the peace within the limits of the said municipality and enforce every Law or Ordinance made or to be made for the due observance of the Lord's Day; for the regular and decent conduct of houses licensed to retail wines or other liquors, for preventing the opening of such houses on improper days and at improper hours, for the punishment of drunkenness, and generally for every purpose connected with the good order and tranquillity of the Municipality of Cape Town.

who shall be found guilty of dishonest or improper conduct upon complaint laid before the Judge and Superintendent of Police.

Rates of coolie-hire.

33. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the Governor of this Colony for the time being to nominate and appoint such a number of fit and proper persons as he shall deem expedient, of whom the Judge and Superintendent of Police shall be always one, to fix a table of rates for coolie hire, and a scale of the weights to be carried for the same, and to publish the same in the Government Gazette, and to cause the same to be posted at the Town-house of the municipality of Cape Town and at such other places as may appear desirable; and it shall be further lawful for the persons so nominated and appointed or for such other persons as may be appointed from time to time by the said Governor in their room and stead when and so often as such persons shall think it right and fitting to revise the said table of rates, and to make such alterations therein either by raising or lowering the rates of hire therein mentioned as they shall deem expedient, and every change and alteration so made shall be forthwith published and posted in the manner herein directed with respect to the first table to be framed under the provisions of this section.

Refusal of duty or extortion by coolies.

34. And be it enacted that any coolie plying for hire who shall refuse his services at the rates fixed by the table for the time being or who shall demand more than according to such table he is entitled to require or who shall refuse to carry his appointed burden shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding two pounds, and in default of payment thereof may be imprisoned for any period not exceeding fourteen days.

Refusal to pay coolie-hire.

35. And be it enacted that in case of complaint made by any coolie to the Judge and Superintendent of Police that any person by whom he was employed as such coolie has refused to pay him his just and legal hire according to the tariff of rates to be by him produced, it shall be lawful for the said Judge and Superintendent to summon the person so refusing to pay the same to appear before him, and whether the said person shall duly appear according to the exigency of the summons or not to inquire into the case, and if it should be made apparent to his satisfaction that payment has been refused or delayed without any just or proper reason he is hereby empowered to order in a summary manner the payment of whatever sum he shall think right and just; and if the said person so unjustly withholding such sum shall not pay the same when demanded by the messenger or other officer of the Police Court, then the said Judge and Superintendent shall issue his warrant for the apprehension of the person so as aforesaid refusing to obey the said order of the said Judge and Superintendent and shall commit such person to prison for any term not exceeding one week; provided, however, that if such person shall sooner obey the said order of the said Judge and Superintendent he shall be forthwith entitled to his discharge.

36. And be it enacted that the Judge and Superintendent for the time being shall make all such contracts and disbursements as shall be necessary for purchasing or renting any land or building or for erecting, fitting up, furnishing, or repairing any building for a Police Station or any other purposes connected with this Ordinance in such manner as the Governor of this Colony for the time being shall approve of or direct, and of all lands and buildings so to be purchased or rented and of the fixtures or furniture thereof, and of all goods and chattels whatsoever to be from time to time held or purchased for the purposes of this Act; the property and lawful possession shall be deemed and taken to be vested in the said Judge and Superintendent, whom in all legal proceedings whatsoever regarding his public character and office it shall be sufficient to style "the Judge and Superintendent of Police," without any other or more particular description, and in which Judge and Superintendent also shall be vested the property and lawful possession of all watch-houses and watch-boxes mentioned in the Ordinance No. 1, 1840, and thereby vested in and made over to the Governor of this Colony, and in all the arms, accoutrements, and other necessaries furnished or to be furnished to the members of the said police force, and the said Judge and Superintendent for the time being may by the direction of the Governor for the time being sell, assign, or dispose of the whole or any part of any such property as aforesaid.

Ordinance for authorising the appointment of a Vestry and Churchwardens for St. Mary's Church at Port Elizabeth.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it appears expedient that the inhabitants of Port Elizabeth and the parochial limits thereof being members of the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established should be invested with the right and privilege of choosing and appointing under certain regulations a vestry and churchwardens for the better and more effectual administration and management of all matters connected with the Church at Port Elizabeth commonly called St. Mary's Church, and that the said vestry and churchwardens should possess certain powers and perform certain duties as the same are usually possessed and exercised by such officers according to the customs and usages of the said United Church of England and Ireland: And whereas on the appointment of the said vestry and churchwardens it appears expedient that the control over the affairs of the said church which has been hitherto exercised by the original church committee and since the dissolution of that body by the officiating minister and churchwardens or warden should cease and determine:

First election of vestry.

1. Now therefore be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that on the Easter Monday ensuing next after the passing of this Ordinance and on each succeeding Easter Monday a general meeting of the male inhabitants of Port Elizabeth and the parochial limits thereof being of the age of twenty years or upwards who shall be holders of sittings in St. Mary's Church aforesaid or who shall be entitled ex officio to occupy seats in the pews already set apart for the accommodation of the churchwardens and strangers, the officers of the garrison, and the Chief Civil Magistrate of the district, such ex officio holders of seats being members of the aforesaid United Church of England and Ireland, shall be holden in the vestry of St. Mary's Church in Port Elizabeth, fourteen days' notice whereof shall be given during divine service by the minister for the time being and by notice posted on the church doors for the purpose of electing a vestry; and it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitants aforesaid or a majority of them at such meeting assembled to elect from among themselves any number of persons not exceeding eight in the manner and subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, who together with the officiating minister for the time being shall form a vestry charged with the duties and invested with the powers hereafter specified.

Ord. 1 -1842.

2. And be it further enacted that two other persons not being members of the said vestry shall likewise be elected at such meeting as aforesaid as auditors of the accounts of the said vestry.

Auditors of accounts.

3. And be it enacted that no male inhabitant shall be competent to vote at any such meeting for the election of a vestry who shall have allowed the rent of his pew or sitting to continue in arrear and unpaid for twenty-eight days after the same shall have become due and payable and shall have been legally demanded; nor shall any male inhabitant be qualified to be elected as a member of the vestry unless he be a resident householder in the town of Port Elizabeth or within the parochial limits thereof and unless he be a member of the United Church of England and Ireland.

Qualification of voters and of vestrymen.

4. And be it enacted that a list of all persons eligible according to the provisions of the foregoing sections shall be prepared by the officiating minister so long as there are no churchwardens appointed under the provisions of this Ordinance, and when churchwardens shall have been so appointed as is hereinafter provided then by the minister and churchwardens conjointly, which list shall be open for the inspection of all persons entitled to vote at the election of the said vestry and auditors at least fourteen days before any election is to take place.

List of voters.

5. And be it enacted that at every such general meeting as aforesaid the election shall be carried on by lists duly signed by such inhabitants as aforesaid respectively and containing the names of the persons for whom they vote to be elected as vestrymen or as auditors.

Election of vestry by lists.

6. And be it enacted that the officiating minister for the time being shall preside as chairman at all meetings of the said vestry, provided that in case of his being absent from any such meeting one of the other members shall be elected to act as chairman, and in case of the votes of the said vestry being equally divided the chairman or acting chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to his own.

Chairman of vestry.

Ord. 1—1842.
Quorum of vestry.

7. And be it enacted that five members of the said vestry or four members in addition to the chairman or acting chairman shall form a quorum which shall be competent to perform all matters and things which may be done by the entire vestry under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Rules, &c., for vestry.

8. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed to frame adopt, amend, alter, or rescind any rules, orders, or by-laws which may to them appear expedient for their guidance in the discharge of their duties and for more effectually executing the provisions of this Ordinance, and also to take such order for the management of the said church as they shall deem expedient: Provided that the said rules, orders, or by-laws contain nothing repugnant to law or to the tenor of this Ordinance or to the customs and usages of the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established.

Deeds, &c., to be handed over to vestry.

9. And be it enacted that the officiating minister and churchwardens or warden officiating at the time of the election of the first vestry under this Ordinance shall upon the appointment of the said vestry deliver or cause to be delivered over to the said vestry all deeds, accounts, documents, and papers relating to the church which shall be at the time in their custody or power, or authentic copies of the same, and all sums of money in their possession or subject to their control, and that their management of the affairs of the said church which since the dissolution of the church committee devolved upon them shall thereupon cease and determine.

Vestry to take up powers of church committee.

10. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed by such competent electors as hereinbefore specified shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, privileges, rights, and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof and all other matters and things relating to the same as were originally possessed by the church committee, and are at present possessed by the officiating minister and churchwardens or warden, together with such other powers, privileges, rights, and duties as are hereinafter specified.

Election and powers, &c., of churchwardens.

11. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall forthwith on their appointment choose out of their own numbers two persons as churchwardens who shall perform and execute or cause to be performed and executed all lawful acts, matters and things for the good order and decency of behaviour to be observed in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for providing the said church (by order and at the charge of the said vestry) with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine service, and for keeping the same clean and in proper repair, and for furnishing the officiating minister with robes suited to his rank or degree in any university or college of the United Kingdom, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the pews and sittings in the said church, and for keeping the burial-ground appertaining to the said church in decent order, and for discharging all other duties which usually devolve on churchwardens of the United Church of England and Ireland so far as the same may be applicable to this Colony.

Ord. 1—1842.

12. And be it enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep an account wherein they shall enter or cause to be entered all sums of money received or paid by them for and on account of the aforesaid church and under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account shall be opened for the inspection of one or both of the auditors at all reasonable times between the hours of nine o'clock in the fore and five o'clock in the afternoon, and the said account or a copy thereof together with any report of the auditor or auditors thereupon shall be laid before the annual meeting which shall be holden in conformity with the provisions specified in the first clause of this Ordinance, and published for general information in case of such publicity being deemed requisite by the persons assembled at such meeting or a majority of them.

Accounts of churchwardens.

13. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said churchwardens for the time being to call in and compel or enforce payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable on account of the said church and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names for and on behalf of the said vestry to make and enter into, perform and execute or compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem beneficial to the Church aforesaid.

Churchwardens to collect money and make contracts.

14. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said churchwardens for the time being acting as such to commence and maintain from time to time any suit or action which they may deem necessary in conformity with the trust reposed in them against any person or persons whatsoever; and all such suits or actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of the churchwardens acting for and on behalf of the vestry of St. Mary's Church at Port Elizabeth, and no action shall abate by reason of the death, removal, retirement, or resignation of any individual churchwarden or vestryman.

Churchwardens to sue actions.

15. And be it further enacted that all suits or actions which shall arise or accrue to any person or persons whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or other matter or thing made or entered into by the said churchwardens in execution of the trust reposed in them shall be brought by such person or persons in manner and in name aforesaid and not against any individual churchwarden or member of the said vestry: Provided, always, that no such suit or action shall hold or be maintainable against the said churchwardens as such for or on account of any thing done or of any debt contracted by the original church committee and since the Actions against churchwardens.

Ord. 1—1842.

dissolution of that body by the officiating minister and churchwardens or warden acting as such previously to the taking effect of this Ordinance.

Accounts of charitable collections.

16. And be it enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep or cause to be kept an exact account of all collections of money made from time to time in the said church for or on account of any charitable or religious purposes connected with the said church and congregation thereof, and of all disbursements made from the same; and the said churchwardens together with the officiating minister for the time being shall faithfully administer the same or cause the same to be faithfully administered and appropriated in the manner and for the purposes contemplated and intended by the persons contributing to the same. And the churchwardens' accounts of all such sums as shall be subscribed and collected for charitable purposes and received in trust by them in virtue of their office shall be subject to all the same regulations and opened for like inspection as the accounts of the general church fund.

Tenure of office
by churchwardens.

17. And be it enacted that the churchwardens appointed as above shall continue in office until the next general annual election of the vestry shall be completed, when they shall deliver up or cause to be delivered up to the said vestry all accounts relating to the general church fund and to such charities as aforesaid together with all vouchers, sums of money, or securities held by them in virtue of their office, and the vestry shall then proceed to nominate other churchwardens for the ensuing year: Provided, always, that the churchwardens thus vacating office shall be eligible to be re-elected in case they shall be continued as members of the said vestry.

Occasional vacancies in vestry.

18. And be it enacted that in case any member or members of the vestry shall die or desire to resign or shall be removed or for any other lawful cause shall vacate his or their office a special general meeting of the surviving or other members of the said vestry shall be called for the purpose of filling up any and all such vacancies as may arise from death, resignation, or removal.

Occasional vacancies in churchwar-denship.

19. And be it enacted that if either of the said churchwardens shall die or resign or be removed by the said vestry or shall from any other lawful cause vacate his office the meeting of vestry in the last preceding section mentioned which shall be called for the purpose of filling up the vacancy thereby created in the said vestry shall also proceed to choose out of the number of the said vestry in the room of the churchwarden who shall have ceased to hold the office a new churchwarden, who shall continue in office until the time herein fixed for the annual election, and shall in the meantime possess all the powers and perform all the duties appertaining to the said office.

Free sittings.

20. And be it enacted that the four pews already set apart and appropriated to the use of the officers of the garrison, the chief civil authority of the district, the minister and the churchwardens all for the time being shall still continue so set apart and appropriated; and that there shall likewise be reserved in some convenient part of the church an adequate number of free sittings for the accommodation of the troops and of poor people; and further that strangers visiting Port Elizabeth shall be considered as entitled to reasonable accommodation in the pew set apart and appropriated to the churchwardens.

Ord. 1—1842.

21. And be it enacted that all the pews and sittings in the said church excepting those appropriated and reserved as aforesaid shall and may be let by the said churchwardens by the year or for any shorter period to any person desiring to take the same at a rent to be affixed to them respectively by the vestry and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the vestry; and the holder of such pew or sitting so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself, herself, or by his or her assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term: Provided that the holder of such pew or sitting shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable; and provided, always, that nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with any persons who do at present or who may hereafter hold free pews or sittings on the ground of office.

Sittings to be let.

22. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the churchwardens whenever it shall happen that the rent of any pew or sitting is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same shall have become due and payable, and shall have been legally demanded, to give notice to the possessor of such pew or sitting forthwith to quit and give up possession of the same; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said churchwardens acting as aforesaid to re-enter into possession of the said pew or sitting for the purposes of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive the said churchwardens of the right to recover the amount of such rent so in arrear by action as aforesaid in any competent Court.

Remedy where

Ord. 1—1842.

the said pew, seat, or seats to such applicant on condition that he or she shall covenant and engage to pay the rent of the same affixed and made payable as hereinbefore mentioned, and that the said pew, sitting, or sittings so becoming vacant, or the said pew or pews, seat or seats so newly erected shall not be offered to any person whatsoever whose application for the same or any portion of the same shall bear a later date, until it shall have been declined by every applicant preceding such person on the pew-book.

Burials to be after rites of Church of England.

24. And be it further enacted that no burial shall take place in the burial-ground at present unconsecrated and allotted or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted as burying-ground to the said church unless the said burial be performed after the rites and ceremonies of the United Church of England and Ireland, and that no burial shall take place in or under the said church.

Monuments and vaults, erection of.

Monuments and vaults, maintenance of.

26. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument or inscription in the said church or within the ground which may be inclosed about the same or in the burial-ground belonging thereunto, or digging or making any vault in the said burial-ground by and by virtue of such permission as aforesaid, to have, maintain, and keep up such monument, inscription, or vault according to the terms of such permission to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons, and his or their heirs for ever: Provided, always, that in case any such monument, inscription, or vault as aforesaid be suffered to fall into decay or to become effaced or neglected, and the person or persons at whose cost and charges the said monument, inscription, or vault was erected, placed, or constructed shall decline to repair and keep the same in proper order, it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being after a general notice of their intention to remove and efface the same.

Public ordinance.

27. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance, and as such shall be judicially taken notice of by all Judges, Magistrates, and others without being specially pleaded.

Ordinance for authorising the appointment of a Vestry and Churchwardens for Sidbury Church.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the inhabitants of Sidbury and the parochial limits thereof being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established should be invested with the right and privilege of choosing and appointing under certain regulations a vestry and churchwardens for the better and more effectual administration and management of all matters connected with the Episcopal Church at Sidbury recently erected; and that the said vestry and churchwardens after having been duly appointed should possess certain powers and perform certain duties as the same are usually possessed and exercised by such officers according to the customs and usages of the said United Church of England and Ireland: And whereas on the appointment of the said vestry and churchwardens it is expedient that the office of trustees as at present constituted should cease and determine:

Preamble.

1. Now, therefore, be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that on the first Tuesday in Easter week after the passing of this Ordinance, and annually afterwards on the same day a general meeting of the male inhabitants of Sidbury aforesaid and of the parochial limits thereof being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards and members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established shall be holden at Sidbury, fourteen days' notice whereof shall be given by the minister of the said church for the time being by promulgation during divine service and by notice posted on the doors of the church or by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony, for the purpose of electing a vestry; and it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitants as aforesaid or the greater part assembled at such meeting to elect from among themselves any number of persons, not exceeding eight, in manner and subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, who together with the officiating minister for the time being shall form a vestry charged with the duties and invested with the powers hereinafter mentioned.

Election of vestry.

2. And be it further enacted that two other persons not being members of the said vestry shall likewise be elected at such meeting as aforesaid to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry.

Auditors of vestry accounts.

3. And be it further enacted that every male inhabitant householder being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards and a member of and holding communion with the church aforesaid and residing at Sidbury or within the parochial limits thereof shall be eligible to be a member of the said vestry. Provided always, that

Lists of vestry-men.

4. And be it enacted that a list of all persons eligible according to the provisions of the foregoing section shall be prepared by the officiating minister so long as there are no churchwardens appointed, and when churchwardens shall have been appointed as is hereinafter provided then by the minister and churchwardens conjointly, and shall be open for the inspection of all persons entitled to vote at the election of the said vestry and auditors at least fourteen days before any election is to take place.

Election to be by lists.

5. And be it further enacted that at every such general meeting as aforesaid the election shall be carried on by lists duly signed by such inhabitants as aforesaid respectively and containing the names of the persons for whom they vote to be elected as vestrymen and as auditors.

Chairman of vestry.

6. And be it further enacted that the officiating minister for the time being shall preside as chairman at the meetings of the said vestry, provided that in his absence from any such meeting one of the other members shall be chosen to act as chairman; and in case the votes of the said vestry be equally divided the chairman or acting chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to his own.

Quorum of vestry.

7. And be it further enacted that five members of the said vestry or four members besides the chairman shall form a quorum, and shall be competent to perform all matters and things which may be done by the vestry under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Rules, &c., for vestry.

8. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed to frame, adopt, alter, or rescind such rules, orders, and by-laws as may to them appear expedient for their guidance in the discharge of their duties and for more effectually executing the provisions of this Ordinance, and also to take such order for the management of the said church as shall to them seem expedient: Provided that the said rules, orders, or by-laws contain nothing repugnant to law or to the tenor of this Ordinance or to the customs and usages of the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established.

Trustees to deliver deeds, &c., to vestry.

9. And be it enacted that the said trustees shall upon the appointment of the said vestry deliver over to the said vestry all deeds, books, and papers relating to the church in their custody or power and all sums of money in their possession or control; and the office and duties of the said trustees shall thereupon cease and determine.

Powers, &c., of vestry.

10. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such members of the said church as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, and rights, and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof, and all other matters and things relating to the same as are now possessed and exercised by the trustees, together with such other laws, and rights, and duties as are hereinafter specified.

Ord. 2—1842.

11. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry for the time being to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to their order by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute or compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for the good of the church aforesaid.

Power of vestry to call in money and make contracts

12. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry as such from time to time to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any person whatsoever; and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of the vestry of the Episcopal Church Sidbury without specifying the christian or surnames of the members of the vestry, and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any individual members thereof.

Power of vestry to sue.

13. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or other matter or thing made or entered into or performed by the said vestry in the execution of the said trust or shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said vestry shall be brought by such person in manner and in name aforesaid, and not against any individual member of the said vestry.

Actions against vestry.

14. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall keep an account wherein they shall enter money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times. And the said account together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon shall be laid before the members holding communion with the said church at the general annual meeting aforesaid, and published if requisite for general information.

Accounts by vestry.

15. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall forthwith on their appointment or as soon as conveniently may be choose out of their own number two persons to be churchwardens, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts and matters and things for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the pews and sittings thereof and providing the said church (by order and at the charges of the said vestry) with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine service, and for keeping the same clean and in proper repair, and for keeping the burial-ground attached to the said church in decent order and properly fenced, and for discharging all other duties which usually devolve on churchwardens in the United Church of England and Ireland so far as the same may be applicable to this Colony.

charity collections.

16. And be it further enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep an exact account of all collections of money made from time to time in the said church for any charitable or religious purposes connected with the said church or congregation; and the said churchwardens together with the officiating minister for the time being shall faithfully administer the same or see that they be faithfully administered and appropriated in the manner and for the purposes contemplated and intended by the persons contributing to the same. And the churchwardens' accounts of all such sums as shall be subscribed and collected for charitable purposes and received in trust by them in virtue of their office shall be subject to all the same regulations as the general church fund and accounts of the vestry.

Tenure of office
by churchwardens.

17. And be it enacted that the churchwardens appointed as above shall continue in office until after the next general annual election of the vestry is completed, when they shall deliver up to the said vestry all accounts of such charities as aforesaid duly audited, together with all vouchers, sums of money, or securities held by them in virtue of their office; and the vestry shall then proceed to nominate other churchwardens for the ensuing year: Provided, always, that the churchwardens thus vacating office shall be eligible to be re-elected in case they are continued as members of the vestry.

Occasional vacancies in vestryship.

18. And be it further enacted that in case any member of the vestry shall die or desire to resign or shall be removed or for any other lawful cause shall vacate his office, it shall and may be lawful for the surviving or other members of the said vestry to decide whether a special general meeting shall be called for the purpose of electing another member in the place of the one so dying or desiring to resign or being removed, or whether his place shall remain vacant until the next general annual meeting to be holden as aforesaid: Provided, always, that in case the members of the said vestry decide that a special general meeting shall be holden for the purpose aforesaid the same notice shall be given thereof and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as in case of the general annual meeting is provided.

Free sittings.

19. And be it enacted that there shall be set apart in the said church two free pews, one to be allotted to the use of the minister and the other to that of the churchwardens, and that a proportion namely one-third of the remaining accommodation in the church, be reserved as free sittings for the poor.

Ord. 2—1842.

20. And be it further enacted that all the pews and sittings in the said church with the exception of those allotted and reserved as aforesaid shall and may be let by the vestry by the year or for any other shorter period to any person desiring to take the same at a rent to be affixed to them respectively by the vestry, and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the vestry; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term, provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable: Provided, always, that nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with the claims of any person at present holding sittings in the church.

Pews to be let.

21. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the vestry whenever it shall happen that the rent of any pew or sitting is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable to give notice to the possessor of such pew forthwith to quit and give up possession thereof; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purposes of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action in any competent Court.

Remedy when pewrent in arrear.

22. And be it further enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church, but the burials of all persons according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose.

Rites of burial.

23. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monument to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the enclosed ground about the same or in the burial-ground belonging thereto, or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground, upon payment to the fund of the said church for such permission of such reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission according to the terms thereof.

Monuments and vaults, erection of.

24. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or digging or making any vault in the said burial-ground by and with such permission as aforesaid to have, maintain, and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms

[October 24, 1843.]

Ordinance for Regulating the due Collection, Administration, and Distribution of Insolvent Estates within this Colony. (1)

WHEREAS the law as contained in the Ordinance No. 64, bearing date the 6th of August, 1829, and entitled "An Ordinance for regulating the due Collection, Administration, and Distribution of Insolvent Estates within this Colony," requires certain additions and alterations: And whereas it is expedient in order that the said additions and alterations may most conveniently be made that the said Ordinance No. 64 should be repealed and a new Ordinance enacted in its stead: And whereas it is also expedient that all insolvent estates within this Colony should be hereafter administered under one uniform system of law, and to that end that the benefit or relief of cession of goods and property commonly called the cessio bonorum now available to insolvent debtors in this Colony should be abolished: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 64, and the publication of the 4th of September, 1805, respecting transfers, cessions, pledges, and other securities entered into by debtors within twenty-eight days previous to their insolvency, and so much of Ordinance No. 5, 1842, entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the Lodgment elsewhere than in the Government Discount Bank of this Colony of certain Moneys now by law required to be lodged in the same Bank," as is in substance hereinafter set forth and re-enacted, and all laws and customs heretofore in force within this Colony in so far as the same are repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same are hereby respectively repealed.

Repeal of former laws.

Cessio bonorum abolished.

1. And be it enacted, that from and after the passing of this Ordinance, it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to obtain from any Court within this Colony, or for any such Court to grant to any person or persons, the benefit or relief of cession of goods and property, commonly called the cessio bonorum, as heretofore known to and allowed by the law of this Colony: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to affect in any way the estate or condition of any person to whom, before the passing of this Ordinance, the said benefit or relief shall have been duly granted, which estate shall be administered, and which condition shall be judged of, precisely as if this Ordinance never had been made.

Voluntary surrender.

2. (2) And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, or for the Chief Justice of this Colony, or any other of the Judges of the Supreme Court, upon the petition, in writing, of any person, setting forth that he is insolvent, and desirous of surrendering his estate for the benefit of his creditors, to direct such person to appear before him, to be examined touching his said insolvency, or to require such other proof thereof, by affidavits of the said insolvent and others, as to the said Court or the said Judge may seem fit; or to direct such petitioner to appear before any person, duly appointed by the Supreme Court its commissioner for such purposes, and to direct such commissioner to examine the petitioner in manner aforesaid, and to take such proof of the matters aforesaid, as to the said commissioner shall seem fit; and to make out and transmit to the Registrar of the Supreme Court a report of such examination and proof taken as aforesaid. And it shall and may be lawful for the said Court or Judge, before whom such examination is taken, or for the said Court, or the Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme Court, on considering the report of any such commissioner, made in manner aforesaid, upon proof of the matter aforesaid to his satisfaction, to accept the surrender of such estate, and by order, under his hand, to place the same under sequestration in the hands of the Master of the said Court. Provided also, that any person authorised by power of attorney to administer the estate of any person absent from the Colony may present, in the name of such last-mentioned person, such petition as aforesaid, and thereupon the same proceeding shall, as near as may be, be had and taken as if the person so absent from the Colony had himself petitioned.

Ord. 6—1843.

Voluntary surrender by attorney.

Voluntary surrender by executors &c.

Or by trading companies.

3. And be it enacted, that it shall in like manner be lawful for the Supreme or any Circuit Court, or for the Chief Justice, or any other of the Judges of the Supreme Court, upon the like petition of any person legally vested with the administration of the estate of any person deceased, or of any person legally or actually incapable of the administration of his estate, situated within this Colony, stating the insolvency of such estate; or upon the like petition, stating the insolvency of the estate of any company trading or having an estate or effects within this Colony, made by the greater number of the partners of such company, who, at the time of presenting the petition, are within this Colony, to examine the petitioner or petitioners, or cause him or them to be examined in manner aforesaid, or to take or cause to be taken proof of the matters aforesaid, in manner hereinbefore provided. And it shall be lawful for the Judge before whom such examination is taken, or for the Chief Justice, or any Judge of the Supreme Court, on considering the report of any commissioner of the said Court, made in the manner aforesaid, upon proof of the matters aforesaid to his satisfaction, to accept the surrender of any such estate, and to place the same under sequestration in manner aforesaid. And after the order for any such sequestration is made, the like proceedings shall and may be had and take place concerning such estates, and the persons in whom the administration thereof is legally vested, and the partner or partners of such companies, as are herein provided concerning other estates and other insolvents.

4. And be it enacted, that if any person having any property, movable or immovable, personal or real, within this Colony, shall depart therefrom, or being out of this Colony, shall remain absent therefrom, or shall depart from his dwelling-house, or otherwise absent himself with intent to defeat or delay his creditors in obtaining payment of their debts; or having against him the sentence of any competent Court, being thereunto required, shall not satisfy the same, or shall not point out to the officer charged with the execution thereof, sufficient disposable property to satisfy the same: if it shall appear from the return made by such officer or his affidavit, that he has not found sufficient disposable property of such person to satisfy such sentence, or shall make, or cause to be made, either within this Colony or elsewhere, any alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge of any of his goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, with intent, or in such manner as, to defeat or delay his creditors in obtaining payment of their debts, or with intent to prefer one creditor before his other creditors, such person shall be deemed thereby to have committed an act of insolvency. ⁽¹⁾

Compulsory sequestration at instance of creditor.

5. ⁽²⁾ And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme or any Circuit Court, or for the Chief Justice of this Colony, or any other of the Judges of the Supreme Court, upon petition made in writing against any person having committed any act of insolvency, by any creditor or creditors whose debt or debts amount to the value hereinafter provided, and setting forth the amount of the debt of such creditor and the cause thereof, and the alleged act of insolvency, and praying that the estate of such person may be sequestrated for the benefit of his creditors, upon proof thereof to the satisfaction of the said Judge, provided there shall be produced to the said Judge, together with such petition, the affidavit or affidavits and certificate hereinafter required, by order, under his hand, to place the estate of every such person or persons under sequestration, in the hands of the Master of the said Court, until the same shall, in manner hereinafter mentioned, be adjudged to be sequestrated, or the said petition shall be discharged.

Debt of creditor petitioning for sequestration.

6. And be it enacted, that no estate shall be placed under sequestration, unless the debt of a single creditor, petitioning that the same may be sequestrated, shall amount to fifty pounds, or unless the debts of two or more creditors, so petitioning, shall jointly amount to one hundred pounds. And every person who is the creditor of another, upon valuable consideration, for any sum payable at a certain time, which time shall not have arrived when the act of insolvency was committed, may so petition, or join in petitioning as aforesaid, whether he shall have any security for the same or not.

7. And be it enacted that every petitioning creditor shall, before presenting any petition for having any estate placed under sequestration, make an affidavit in writing before one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, or a commissioner of the said Court appointed to take affidavits, (which affidavits shall be filed with the proceedings in the estate) of the truth of his debt and the cause thereof; and shall likewise give security, to the satisfaction of the Master of the Supreme Court, or of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such petition shall be presented, for payment of the necessary fees and charges for prosecution of the said sequestration, until the choice or appointment of trustees. And the Master of the said Court, or Resident Magistrate as the case may be, shall forthwith endorse on every such petition, a certificate that such security has been found, and shall sign the same.

8. And be it enacted that the creditor or creditors on whose petition any order for sequestration shall be made, shall, at his or their own cost, prosecute all the proceedings in the said sequestration, until the election or appointment of trustees in manner hereinafter mentioned; and the same having been first taxed and ascertained by the Master, the said trustees shall reimburse the said creditor or creditors out of the first money that shall be received. And the costs incurred under any sequestration, after the election or appointment of trustees, in rendering any part of the insolvent estate over which any creditor shall hold any special mortgage, pledge, hypothec or lien available for the payment of the debt thereby secured, shall be paid out of the proceeds of the property over which any such security extends, when the proceeds shall be sufficient for the same; and when the proceeds shall be insufficient, such creditor shall be personally liable for the same. And no creditor holding any such security shall be liable to pay, or to have deducted from the proceeds of any such property, any part of the costs of sequestration incurred for any other purpose: and all costs incurred previous to the election or appointment of trustees as aforesaid, in all cases in which upon the petition of the insolvent any estate has by order been placed under sequestration, together with all costs incurred in every case of the sequestration of estates as insolvent, (whether the same has been ordered, or petition as aforesaid is adjudged, at the instance of the creditors,) for any other purpose than as aforesaid, after the election or appointment of trustees as aforesaid, shall, in the first place, and before any other debt, be paid out of the free residue of the insolvent estate when it shall be sufficient for the same: and when the said free residue shall be insufficient for the payment thereof, all the creditors who have proved against the insolvent estate debts not secured as aforesaid, shall be personally liable for the same, in proportion to such

(1) Provided, however, that no person shall, by merely proving a debt, or receiving a dividend, or appearing or voting at a meeting of creditors as a creditor, be so liable for any claim by any person employed by the trustee in relation to any action or suit at law affecting the said estate, or for any portion of the compensation or remuneration the trustee for his care and diligence, reserving always, to every person employed by the trustee, such recourse against the said estate or the said trustee as may be competent to him, and reserving also to such trustee recourse against the said estate and against such creditors thereof, or others, as may on other grounds be liable to such recourse.

Sequestration of company estates.

9. And be it enacted, that any creditor or creditors of any company may, in like manner as aforesaid, petition against the partners of any such company, to have the estate of such company placed under sequestration; in case any such company have, by any one or more of its partners, committed any act of insolvency, with intent or in such manner as to defraud the creditors of such company, or to defeat or delay them in obtaining payment of the debts due by such company; or provided the sentence of any competent Court has been obtained against such company, and the partners thereof, being thereunto required, have not satisfied the same, or pointed out, to the officer charged with the execution of such sentence, sufficient disposable property to satisfy the same; and provided it shall appear from the return made by such officer, or his affidavit, that he has not found sufficient disposable property of such company to satisfy such sentence; and every order for sequestration issued upon such petition shall be valid, although it do not include all the partners of the company. And after the order for sequestration of such estate is made, the like proceedings shall and may be had and take place concerning such estate, and such partner or partners, as are herein provided to be had and take place concerning other estates and other insolvents: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed, to prevent the creditor or creditors of any company from proceeding against any partner, or the separate estate of any partner thereof, in respect of debts due by such company, in the same way in which it is herein provided that the creditors of any person may proceed against him and his estate, in respect of debts due by such person in his individual capacity. And provided, also, that it shall be lawful, upon such petition and proof as last aforesaid, and such other proof, if any, as may be required, to include in the same order for sequestration, (should the Chief Justice or other Judge aforesaid making the same see fit so to do) as well the separate estate or estates of any partner or partners of any company as the joint estate of such company. But the separate estate of a partner shall not be entered upon or attached by virtue merely of an order for the sequestration of the estate of the company to which such partner belongs, and when any separate estate or estates shall be included together with the estate of the company in the same order for sequestration, the creditors of the separate estate or estates, and of the estate of the company respectively, shall, together and indifferently, vote in the election of the trustee or trustees, and in all matters relating to the said estates so included, in the same order just as if the debt of every such creditor were due and owing by one single and undivided estate. Provided always, that the trustee or trustees of any sequestrated estates so consolidated, and the trustee or trustees of every joint and separate estate which may be included, as aforesaid, in the same order for sequestration, shall be bound to keep separate and distinct accounts of the joint estate and of each separate estate, and shall rank the respective creditors, and frame the account and plan of distribution hereinafter mentioned, and award dividends, and generally dispose and arrange the respective rights and claims of the consolidated estate, and settle the affairs thereof according to the provisions hereinbefore in that behalf set forth, precisely as if each of the consolidated estates were under a separate administration.

Ord. 6—1843.

Separate accounts where estates conjoined.

10. (1) And be it enacted, that any creditor or creditors of the estate of any person deceased, or of any person legally or actually incapable of the administration of his estate, situated within this Colony, may, in like manner as aforesaid, petition to have such estate placed under sequestration as insolvent, provided the person in whom the administration of such estate is legally vested, has either in his individual or in his fiduciary capacity, committed any act of insolvency, with intent, or in such manner, as to defraud the creditors of such estate, or to defeat or delay them in obtaining payment of the debts due by such estate; or provided the sentence of any competent Court has been obtained against any such estate, and the person in whom the administration thereof is legally vested, has not satisfied the same, or, being thereunto required, pointed out to the officer charged with the execution of such sentence sufficient disposable property to satisfy the same; and provided it shall appear, from the return made by such officer, or his affidavit, that he has not found sufficient disposable property belonging to such estate to satisfy such sentence; and after the order for any such sequestration is made, the like proceedings shall and may be had and take place concerning such estates and the persons in whom the administration thereof is legally vested, as are herein provided to be had and take place concerning other estates and other insolvents.

Sequestration of estates of deceased or incapable persons.

11. And be it enacted, that every privilege and power given by this Ordinance to any creditor, in respect of any debt due to him individually by any insolvent, and every liability or penalty im-such attachment shall leave with the person in whose possession any such property is attached, a copy of the said inventory, having subjoined thereto a notice, both in the English and Dutch languages, that the property therein specified has been attached by the said messenger, by virtue of an order for the sequestration thereof; and that any person who, knowing the same to have been so attached, shall dispose of, remove, conceal, or receive the same, or any part thereof with intent to defeat the said attachment is liable, on conviction of such offence to be transported for any period, not exceeding seven years, or to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding five years: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for such messenger to secure on the premises by sealing up any repository, room, or closet, any articles which, in the discharge of his duty, it shall seem to him expedient so to secure, causing no unnecessary hindrance or inconvenience to any party by so doing or to leave some person on the premises in custody thereof, and the said messenger shall forthwith report his execution of the said attachment to the Master of the Supreme Court, who shall take such measures, and give such directions for the safe custody of the said property as to him shall seem fit.

Report of attachment to the master.

15. And be it enacted, that the ⁽¹⁾ Resident Magistrates of this Colony, in their respective districts, shall aid and assist in carrying this Ordinance and the provisions thereof into effect; and, for that purpose, shall do and execute all such matters and things as they shall be required to do and execute by any rule or order of the Supreme Court by virtue of this Ordinance.

Resident magistrates, duty of, in regard to sequestration.

16. And be it enacted, that the Sheriff of this Colony, either by himself or by his deputy, and the messengers of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates, being thereunto required by the Master of the Supreme Court, shall, within the districts in which they have respectively been appointed to act, do and execute the duties directed by this Ordinance, or by any rule or order of the Supreme Court in pursuance of this Ordinance, to be done and executed by a messenger and shall receive to their own use for such service, out of the assets of any insolvent estate as to which they may be so employed, such reasonable fees as are, or shall be, allowed by the Supreme Court for their service.

Sheriff, his deputies and messengers of magistrates, their duties in regard to sequestration.

17. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for every petitioning creditor who shall duly obtain any order for placing the estate of his debtor under sequestration, thereupon to take out the process of the Supreme Court, to summon the debtor that he appear before the Supreme Court, or the Circuit Court of the district within which the debtor's ordinary place of residence is, on a certain day, to be appointed by the Judge making such order, as to the said Judge shall seem fit, to show cause why his estate should not, by sentence of the said Court, be adjudged to be sequestrated for the benefit of his creditors: and the service of the said process shall be made in the same manner as is or shall be by law provided for the service of any other process of the said Court: Provided, that, if any debtor has been forty days absent from his usual place of residence or business within the Colony, copies of the said summons shall also be affixed upon the outer door of the Supreme Court, and inserted in the Government Gazette of this Colony.

Adjudication on petition for sequestration.

18. And be it enacted, that, upon the day appointed for any person to show cause why his estate should not be adjudged to be sequestrated, it shall and may be lawful for the Court to receive proof of the matters aforesaid, and to adjudge thereon, whether the said person having been thereto lawfully summoned, shall appear to the said summons or not; or upon sufficient cause being shown to their satisfaction, to delay the said adjudication for any reasonable time, at their discretion. And, if the petitioning creditor shall make default in appearing, or prove his said debt or the act of insolvency to the satisfaction of the Court, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court to supersede the said order for sequestration, and to dismiss the said petition, or to require further proof of the matters contained therein, as to the said Court shall seem fit. And whenever any petition shall be dismissed by the said Court, all questions affecting the estate of any person against whom it was presented, or any right of such person, or of his creditors or debtors, or the validity of any alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, pledge, payment, acquittance, surrender, or discharge, made by such person, or payment made to such person, shall be judged of and determined as if such petition had never been presented.

Where petition vexatious or malicious.

19. And be it enacted, that if it shall appear to the Court before whom any person has been so summoned upon such petition for sequestration, that the said petition was unfounded, and vexatious, or malicious, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court to allow the said person, on his application for the same forthwith to prove any damage alleged to have been by him sustained thereby, and to award to the said person such satisfaction for the said damage, as the said Court shall deem fit, or otherwise to leave the said party to his action for the said injury.

--Sequestration may be followed out by other than petitioning creditor.

20. And be it enacted, that if, after any order has been made for the sequestration of any estate, the debts of the petitioning creditors, or any of them, be found insufficient to entitle such creditors to apply for and obtain such order for sequestration, or if such order shall be superseded in consequence of the consent or default of the petitioning creditor or creditors, or his or their collusion with the insolvent, it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court, or such Circuit Court as aforesaid, upon the application of any other creditor or creditors whose debt or debts amount to the value hereinbefore provided, and have been incurred prior to the said order for sequestration, and who shall produce at the time of making such application, the affidavit or affidavits, and the certificate hereinbefore required, to order that the said sequestration shall be revived and be proceeded in, as if it had been originally obtained on the petition of the creditor or creditors last mentioned; and thereafter the said sequestration shall be revived with all the consequences and effects thereof, as if it had never been superseded; save only, that when the sequestration shall be revived after the same shall have been superseded, the validity of every alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, pledge, payment, acquittance, surrender and discharge made by such insolvent, and every payment to and dealing with the said insolvent between the time of the superseding of the order for sequestration and the time of the making of the order for reviving the same, shall be judged of and decided upon, on such and the like grounds and principles, and no other as would by law have been applicable to the same in case such order for revival were a primary and original order for sequestration.

Ord. 6—1843.

21. And be it enacted, that if any person against whom any order for sequestration has been made, shall pay any money to the person who obtained the same, or give or deliver to any such person any satisfaction or security for his debt, or any part thereof, whereby such person may receive more in the pound in respect of his debt, than he would be entitled to receive if the sequestration were proceeded in, and the estate distributed among the creditors thereof, according to their legal rights and preferences, such payment, gift, delivery, satisfaction, or security, shall be a new act of insolvency. And every person so receiving such money, gift, delivery, satisfaction, or security, shall, in the event of the sequestration being afterwards proceeded in by any other creditor or creditors, in manner hereinbefore mentioned, or of a new order for sequestration being issued upon such new act of insolvency, deliver up such security, and shall repay the said money, gift, or the full value thereof to such person or persons as the Court shall appoint, for the benefit of the creditors of such insolvent, and shall pay all the costs which shall be incurred by any other creditor in obtaining the revival of the said sequestration, and shall forfeit the whole of the debt due and owing to him by such insolvent.

Collusive agreement between insolvent and petitioning creditor.

22. (1) And be it enacted, that further execution of any judgment against any insolvent, or his estate, for the amount of any debt or sum of money, shall, after any order for sequestration of such estate is lodged with the Sheriff, or any such Deputy Sheriff, as aforesaid, for registration, be stayed during the pendency of such sequestration, and the insolvent, if in prison in virtue of any decree of civil imprisonment given in respect of any judgment, debt or costs, or any order for committal made in respect of disobedience to any order for the payment of money made in any civil suit or proceeding, may be released from his imprisonment, in so far as the same is occasioned by reason of any such decree, order, or arrest as aforesaid, by the order of the Supreme Court, or of any Judge thereof, or of any Circuit Court, in case such Court or Judge shall not see cause to refuse to make such order, shall be discharged therefrom. And it shall and may be lawful for the person having right to such judgment, to prove the debt, and costs secured thereby, against the sequestered estate, and to take the benefit thereof upon distribution of the said estate; and where any property has been attached by legal process for satisfaction of any judgment, and has not been sold, or, having been sold, the proceeds thereof remain undistributed in the hands of the Sheriff or other officer of the law, such property or such proceeds shall be placed under sequestration in the same manner as any other part of the insolvent estate, and the person holding such judgment, shall, on the distribution of the said estate, be entitled to be preferred over the proceeds of the property attached or sold, as the case may be, at the time of the lodgment, with the Sheriff or Deputy Sheriff, of the order aforesaid, for the costs incurred by him, for and in respect of the writ of execution, and the execution of the same, but not for the amount of his judgment debt, or of his costs of suit by him incurred before the suing out of such writ of execution.

Effect of order of sequestration upon actions against insolvent.

23. And be it enacted, that all actions pending against any insolvent for any debt or demand provable against his estate, and all proceedings therein, shall, upon any order being made for the sequestration of such estate, in virtue thereof, be stayed: and the insolvent, if in prison under any arrest granted in security of any debt or demand in regard to which any such action shall have been instituted, may, by the authority and under the condition in the last preceding section mentioned, be discharged therefrom, and it shall and may be lawful for the plaintiff in such action to prove his debt, together with the taxed costs of suit then incurred against the sequestered estate, and to take the benefit thereof upon distribution of the said estate: Provided, however, that all actions pending against any insolvent for damages alleged to have been sustained from any injury or wrong, or breach of any contract, committed by him, such damages being uncertain, or for recovery of any claim unliquidated as to its amount, and all proceedings therein, shall, upon any order being made for the sequestration of his estate, be stayed until a trustee shall be elected for the administration thereof, if the sequestration shall remain in force so long; and thereupon, the plaintiff in such action, after summoning the trustee to take up and defend the said action, may proceed to obtain the judgment of the Court thereon, and the said judgment, when recovered, together with the taxed costs of suit, shall be a debt provable against the said estate.

Effect of order of sequestration upon actions by insolvent.

24. And be it enacted, that all actions commenced by any person whose estate shall afterwards be placed under sequestration as insolvent, for any debt or demand due to the said estate, and all proceedings therein, shall, upon the order for such sequestration being made, be stayed, until the trustee thereafter chosen for the administration of the said estate shall make election to prosecute or discontinue the same, and the trustee shall be bound to make such election within six weeks after notice to that effect shall be served upon him by any defendant in any such action, or otherwise shall be deemed to have abandoned the same. Provided, however, that any insolvent shall be permitted to continue, in his own name and for his own benefit, any action commenced by him previous to his insolvency, for any personal injury or wrong done to himself, or any of his family, and any damage which may be recovered in any such action shall not go or belong to the insolvent estate, nor shall any property proved to have been purchased or obtained by the insolvent with any such damages.

Ord. 6 -1843.

Damages for personal injury saved from sequestration.

25. And be it enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall, after any estate has been placed under sequestration, upon surrender thereof as insolvent, or has been adjudged to be sequestrated, forthwith cause notice thereof to be given in the Government Gazette of this Colony, and shall thereby appoint two public meetings of the creditors of such estate, at such times and places as he shall deem most convenient for all the parties concerned, the first for receiving proof of debts against the said estate, and the second for the same purpose, and for electing a trustee for the collection, administration, and distribution thereof. And such publication shall be deemed notice thereof to all persons who may reasonably be presumed to have seen the same. And the times and places so fixed for the holding of any of the meetings aforesaid, may, on cause shown to the said Master, or to the Supreme Court, by any party dissatisfied with the appointment made by the said Master, be altered; of which alteration notice shall be forthwith given in the Government Gazette: Provided always, that if it shall appear to the said Master, before causing notice to be given as aforesaid, that the goods and effects of the insolvent available for the payment of his debts are not the value of seventy-five pounds sterling, he shall specify the same in the said advertisement: and shall therein also give notice, that unless it shall be shown at the first meeting, called as aforesaid, that the goods and effects of the insolvent exceed the value of seventy-five pounds sterling, the Master, or Resident Magistrate holding such meeting will summarily proceed to rank the debts which shall be proved at such meeting according to their respective preferences and to direct the proceeds of the insolvent estate to be forthwith distributed accordingly, by a trustee to be then elected by the greater part of the creditors in number and value attending at such meeting. And in such case, the said insolvent shall at such first meeting attend before the creditors to account for his insolvency, and shall, being thereunto required, do and perform thereat all such other matters and things as are hereinafter required to be done and performed by him at any meeting of creditors, under the provisions of this Ordinance. And if at the said first meeting, which meeting may be adjourned from time to time, if the said Master or Resident Magistrate shall deem it necessary to adjourn the same, it shall still appear to the said Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, before whom the same is holden, that the available assets of the said estate do not exceed the amount of seventy-five pounds sterling, it shall and may be lawful for the said Master or Resident Magistrate to rank the creditors who shall prove their debts at such meeting, according to the legal order of their preference, and for the creditors to elect a trustee for the collection, administration, and distribution of the estate of the said insolvent according to the order of ranking; and to direct the said trustee forthwith to collect, administer, and distribute the same accordingly. And further at the said first meeting the said Master or Resident Magistrate shall and may respectively execute all the powers and authority which may be executed by them at any meeting of creditors under the provisions of this Ordinance, and shall also do and perform thereat all matters and things required to be done for the final settlement of the said estate. And the creditors present at the said first meeting shall then determine what part of the wearing apparel, bedding, household furniture, and tools of trade of the insolvent shall be excepted from the sale of his movable property, and shall be allowed to him; and shall also give to the said trustee such directions as to the management of the said estate as to them shall seem fit. And no other meeting shall be thereafter holden, unless, upon cause shown to the said Master by any trustee or creditor of the said estate, the said Master shall think fit to order the same.

Before whom meetings of creditors to be held.

26. And be it enacted that in all cases where any meeting of creditors for the proof of debts or for the election of trustees shall be appointed to be holden in Cape Town, the same shall take place before the Master of the Supreme Court; and if in any district of the Colony other than the Cape District, then before the Resident Magistrate ⁽¹⁾ of such district, under the direction of the said Master; and the said Master or Resident Magistrate shall respectively take the votes of the creditors, and declare the party so elected trustee of the said estate; and in all cases where such meeting shall be holden before the Resident Magistrate of any district, he shall forthwith certify to the said Master the proceedings thereat.

Proof of debts.

27. And be it enacted, that every creditor shall prove his debt against the said estate to the satisfaction of the Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, who shall admit any debt, or reject the same as not proved. And every creditor shall prove his debt by affidavit, which shall be sworn before the Master or Resident Magistrate, or some commissioner appointed by the Supreme Court for taking affidavits, or some Justice of the Peace, and which shall state the nature of the alleged debt, and when such debt accrued originally to the deponent himself, that the same is a just, true and lawful debt, and, when such debt has accrued to the deponent by cession, or otherwise, from any other person, then that the said debt is a just, true, and lawful debt to the best of the deponent's knowledge and belief, and such affidavit shall state what other persons, if any, are, besides the insolvent, liable for the said debt or any part thereof, or that there are no such persons so liable, and shall state all pledges or security which the deponent, or any person for his use, holds from the insolvent for the said debt or any part thereof, and shall depose to the genuineness of all vouchers or evidences of debt which the deponent shall produce with his said affidavit. Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said Master or Resident Magistrate, in case he shall find that any clerk, agent, or other person is more fully cognizant of the nature of the debt sought to be proved than the creditor is, to allow such clerk, agent, or other person to swear the affidavit aforesaid with such alterations as will thereby become necessary. And provided that any creditor who is out of or absent from this Colony may, in case he have no known agent or mandatory in this Colony cognizant of and capable of proving the alleged debt, make the necessary affidavit before some person duly qualified to administer oaths in the place where he resides, such person being certified to be so qualified by some sufficient authority in that behalf, should such creditor reside or be in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, and if such creditor should reside or be elsewhere than in those dominions, then the said person shall be certified as aforesaid by a British Minister, or a British Consul, or by a notary public; and provided that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, on the application of any party interested, finally to admit or reject any debt admitted or rejected by the said Master or Resident Magistrate, or to allow any action, which may have been instituted for the proof or recovery of any such debt against the insolvent, prior to the sequestration, and which has, in consequence thereof, been stayed, to be proceeded in after the election of a trustee shall have taken place, and after the trustee so elected shall have been duly summoned to take up and defend such action; and if the plaintiff shall thereafter obtain judgment thereon, he shall be ranked on the insolvent estate for the amount of such judgment. And provided, also, that any such Court as aforesaid, before adjudging finally as to the admission or rejection of any debt, may remit such case to the Master or Resident Magistrate for further proof, or may direct any question of fact to be tried by pleadings and proofs, or adopt such other course as to such Court shall seem fit.

28. And be it enacted, that all debts due by any insolvent at the time of adjudication or surrender, may be proved against his estate; and when there has been mutual credit given by the insolvent and any other person, upon which compensation can by law be pleaded on either side, the Master of the Court, or Resident Magistrate, taking the proof of debt, shall thereupon state the account between them, and shall set one debt or demand against the other; and what shall appear due on either side on the balance of such account, and no more, shall be allowed to be proved or claimed, or paid on either side respectively; Provided, that the person claiming the benefit of such set-off, had not, when such credit was given, or when the cause of his debt accrued, notice of the order for sequestration having been made, or of any act of insolvency in virtue of which such order shall have been made; and provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, on the application of any person interested, who shall consider himself aggrieved by any such decision of the said Master or Resident Magistrate, to review the same, and to pronounce such judgment or to direct or allow such further proceedings, as to the Court shall appear just and proper.

Proof of debts not yet due.

29. And be it enacted, that in all questions upon this Ordinance, every person, to whom the insolvent was, at the time of the surrender or adjudication or sequestration of his estate, under any legal obligation to pay money, at a certain future time, shall be accounted creditor de presenti, and shall be entitled to prove his debt for the amount of the money specified in the obligation. But in case the said debt shall not have become payable at the date of the order for sequestration, and shall not bear interest until the term of payment, or shall bear interest at a less rate than six per cent. per annum, the same debt shall be valued in voting, and such creditor shall receive payment thereof, or dividend thereon only, after deduction thereout of a rebate of interest of six per cent. per annum, or of so much per cent. per annum as shall correspond with the difference between the rate of interest payable on such debt and the rate of six per cent. per annum, as the case may be, to be computed from the date of the order for sequestration, to the time when such debt would have become payable according to the terms on which it was contracted.

Dividend on debts not yet due.

Creditors holding lien, their rights as to proof of debt, &c.

30. And be it enacted, that any creditor who shall hold a preferable security or lien upon any part of the insolvent estate, shall, when he is the petitioning creditor, be obliged upon oath in the affidavit accompanying the petition, and when he is not the petitioning creditor, in the affidavit produced by him at the time of proving his debt, to put a value upon such security, so far as his debt may thereby be covered, and to deduct such value from the debt proved by him, but shall have the right to vote for trustees and commissioners, and in all matters regarding the property over which he shall have such security or lien, both in number and value for the full and entire amount of his debt, and in all other matters respecting the insolvent estate he shall vote as creditor only for the balance; which balance shall be specified in his affidavit, without prejudice to such valuation being afterwards corrected, and without prejudice to the amount of the said debt, in other respects : And, in case any creditor shall hold any preferable security or lien for payment of his debt, obtained prior to the order for sequestration of the insolvent estate, and not liable to be set aside in virtue of this Ordinance, upon any part of the said estate, the amount or value of such security or lien shall be deducted from his debt, and he shall only be ranked for, or receive payment of, or a dividend for, the balance after such deduction ; and if any dispute shall arise about the value of such security, the creditor or claimant shall, upon oath, put a value upon it, and the trustees shall then have an option, either of taking an assignment of the security for the benefit of the creditors at large, on payment of the value so estimated out of the first assets of the insolvent estate, or of reserving the full effect of it to the creditor himself ; and, in either case, the creditor shall be ranked on the divisible fund for the balance of his debt, so ascertained, together with the other creditors, such creditor being, in no event, entitled to draw more than full payment of the debt, but being, at the same time, entitled to vote both in number and value, according to the provisions and within the limits hereinbefore set forth.

31. And be it enacted, that no person whose debt depends upon a contingency or an uncertain condition, shall be entitled to petition, or join in the petition, for sequestration of any estate, or to vote in the choice of trustee, or any of the other proceedings herein specified, so long as the contingency shall not happen, or the condition shall not be performed. Provided always, that the creditor in any such debt, contracted before the order for sequestration shall have been made, may if he think fit, while the contingency or condition upon which such debt depends, shall not have happened, or shall not have been performed, apply to the trustee to set a value upon such debt, and the trustee is hereby required to ascertain the value thereof and to admit such creditor to prove the amount so ascertained ; and such creditor shall thereafter be entitled to vote, and to receive dividends or payment, as in respect of a debt of the value of the amount so ascertained ; but whether such value shall or shall not be so ascertained, before the contingency shall have happened, or the condition shall have been performed, such creditor may, whenever such contingency shall have happened, or such condition shall have been performed, prove in respect of his whole debt and receive dividends or payments thereon with the other creditors. Provided always, that when the creditor in any such debt or claim, the contingency of which shall not have happened, or the condition of which shall not have been performed, and the value of which shall not have been ascertained, as aforesaid, shall enter a claim on the estate in respect of such debt, the trustee shall rank the claimant as if the contingency had happened, or the condition had been performed ; and shall forthwith apply to the Supreme Court to make an order, and the said Court shall make such order, for securing the dividend or sum which the claimant would be entitled to draw until the contingency or condition upon which the debt depends, shall happen or be performed, or until it shall have become certain, that such contingency or condition shall never happen or be performed when the sum so secured shall be paid to the claimant, or to the other creditors, as the case may be; and any interest which may in the meantime arise and be received thereupon shall belong to and be paid to the other creditors. And provided, also, that the holder of any such contingent debt or claim, of which the value shall not have been ascertained, and who has been ranked as a claimant as if the contingency had happened or the condition been performed, shall, for the purpose of agreeing to or dissenting from any offer of composition, or the certificate of the insolvent as hereinafter mentioned, be deemed and taken to be creditor for whatever sum the Master of the Supreme Court shall, under the circumstances of the said debt, fix and allow, subject to appeal from his decision to the Supreme Court.

Allowance of claim where debt not yet proved.

32. And be it enacted, that, when by reason of the absence of any person from this Colony or for any other cause appearing to the Supreme Court, the said Court shall be of opinion, that a claimant who has not proved a debt to the satisfaction of the Court, may eventually be able to establish the same, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court to allow such claim to be entered on the proceedings in the insolvent estate, and to give reasonable time for proving the same; and in the meantime to make such order for securing the amount thereof, in case the said claim shall be afterwards established, as the said Court shall see fit.

How interest upon claims to be ranked and paid.

33. And be it enacted, that the mode of settling claims and the interest upon them shall be as follows, viz.: The principal sum of each debt on which interest is chargeable, together with the arrears of interest, if there be any due upon it, at the time the order for sequestration was made, shall be accumulated as at the date of the said order, for the purpose of the claimant being ranked for, and receiving payment of, such accumulated sum, together with the principal sums of such debts as do not bear interest, or from which there may be a rebate of interest, as not being payable till an after period; and the assets of the insolvent estate shall be applied.—1st. In payment according to the legal order of preference, of all the preferent debts and the interest which shall have been due thereon prior to the date of the said order to the extent to which such interest is, by law entitled to a preference; and every creditor shall have the same preference for the interest which shall have accrued on his debt between the date of the said order and the time of payment, to which he may be entitled for any part of the interest which may have become due prior to the said order. And 2ndly, in payment of all the other accumulated sums so ranked, without allowing any interest upon them from and after the date of the said order, if the said assets shall not be sufficient to discharge all the claims due to the insolvent estate; but if after discharging the whole of such claims there shall be any residue left of the sequestrated estate, the creditors as well as those from whom interest has been deducted on account of the provisions of the twenty-ninth section of this Ordinance, as all others, shall be entitled to claim, out of such residue, any arrear of interest which may be due on them, as arising since the date of the order for sequestration, upon the respective sums ranked as hereinbefore mentioned.

Ord. 6—1843.

34. And be it enacted, that in every case in which it shall happen that the estate of any company, and the estate or estates of any one or more of the partners of such company, shall be concurrently under administration as insolvent,—the creditors of the said company shall prove their debts against, and rank upon the estate of the company, and the creditors of each partner, in respect of debts due by such partner separately from the other partners, shall prove their debts against and rank upon the estate belonging to their debtor separately from the other partners, and the estate of the company, shall be first applied in satisfaction of the creditors of the company and each separate estate shall be first applied in satisfaction of the separate creditors of that estate. And if the estate of the company shall prove insufficient to satisfy the creditors of the company, or if there be no such estate, then each creditor of the company shall rank upon the surplus of each separate estate, which may remain after satisfying the separate creditors of that estate, either for the residue or entire of his debt, as the case may be, but so, however, as not to receive, in all, more than the whole of their debts respectively. And if the separate estate of any partner shall prove insufficient to satisfy the separate creditors who have claimed upon it, then the separate creditors upon that separate estate shall rank upon the surplus, if any, of the company's estate which shall remain after satisfying the creditors of that estate in proportion to the share in such surplus belonging to, or claimable in right of, the particular partner whose separate estate has so as aforesaid proved deficient. And whenever the company's estate shall prove insufficient to satisfy the company's creditors, and the latter shall thereupon receive satisfaction, wholly or in part, out of the surplus of the separate estate of any of the partners of such company, the trustee of the separate estate so satisfying, wholly or in part, any of the creditors of the company shall be entitled to rank upon the separate estate of any other partner of such company for amount of whatever the contribution in respect of the debts of the company wholly or in part discharged, such trustee may, by law, be authorised to claim. Provided however, that no partner, if insolvent, and no trustee of the insolvent estate of any partner shall, under any circumstances, rank for the amount of any such claim for contribution, upon the insolvent estate of any other partner in competition or concurrence with any of the creditors of the company claiming upon any such last-mentioned estate, which creditors are hereby declared to be entitled to be paid in preference and priority to any such partner or trustee. And provided, also, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to abridge or affect the rights which the creditors of any insolvent company may, by law, possess to seek satisfaction for their debts from any partner of such company whose estate shall not have been sequestrated, or to abridge or affect the rights which any such solvent partner may, by law, possess in regard either to the insolvent estate of the company or to that of any of his partners whose estate may have been sequestrated.

Company creditors may vote in sequestration of partners' estates.

35. And be it enacted, that in every case in which the separate estate of any partner of a company shall be sequestrated as insolvent, and whether the estate of such company shall also be or have been sequestrated or not, any creditor to whom the insolvent is indebted, jointly with the other partner or partners of the company, shall be entitled to prove his debt under the sequestration of such separate estate, for the purpose of voting in the election of trustees, and of agreeing to or dissenting from any offer of composition, and the certificate and discharge of the insolvent as hereafter mentioned, but no further. And such creditor shall not receive any dividend out of the separate estate of the insolvent until all the separate creditors shall have received the full amount of their respective debts; unless such creditor have been a petitioning creditor, in regard to the sequestration of such separate estate, in which case such creditor may vote and receive dividends in respect of his debt in the same manner as the separate creditor of such estate.

Law to prevail in cases not provided for as to competition between creditors of company and of partners.

36. And be it enacted, that in every case not hereinbefore expressly provided for, and relating to the ranking and priority of the joint creditors of any company, in competition with the separate creditors of any of the partners of such company, or relating to the reciprocal claims of any such insolvent estates in reference to or in relief of each other, the rule for the time being in respect of the like case, according to the law and administration of bankruptcy in England shall first be resorted to, and failing any such rule, the common law of the Colony shall be applied.

Within what period debts may be proved.

37. And be it enacted, that any debt which was due, or the cause of which arose prior to the order for sequestration of any estate may be proved at any meeting of the creditors appointed before the Master or a Resident Magistrate, at any time before the final distribution of the estate; and any creditor may, after the second meeting called by the Master of the Supreme Court in manner hereinbefore provided, at his own expense call such meeting expressly for the purpose of proving his debt: Provided always, that when any debt is so proved after any dividend has been paid to the creditors, such dividend shall not in any way be disturbed or affected by or in respect of any such debt : and provided also, that, when any such debt is proved after the plan of distribution of such estate has been confirmed, and in consequence of the proof of such debt, any alteration in such plan of distribution or any further proceedings in the sequestration shall be rendered necessary, the creditor proving such debt shall be liable for all expenses which may be incurred in consequence of any such alteration or proceedings.

Ord. 6 -1843.

38. And be it enacted, that in all cases of votes given by creditors under this Ordinance, when the creditors are to be counted in number, no creditor whose debt is below thirty pounds sterling shall be reckoned in number, but the debt due to such creditor shall be computed in value; and that in all cases in which any deduction is directed by the provisions of this Ordinance, to be made from the amount of the debt of any creditor, the vote of such creditor shall still be counted in value to the extent of the balance remaining after such deduction; and such creditor shall also be reckoned in number, provided such balance amounts to thirty pounds, and upwards.

How votes of creditors to be reckoned as to number and value.

39. And be it enacted, that in all cases where, under the provisions of this Ordinance, the creditors of any insolvent estate are required or entitled to meet and to vote in any matter regarding such estate, any creditors so entitled may attend and vote at such meeting personally, or by agent, authorised by any power of attorney to that effect duly executed, upon proof thereof to the satisfaction of the Master of the Supreme Court, Resident Magistrate, or other person presiding at such meeting, and all questions at any meeting of creditors shall be determined by a majority in value of those present and entitled to vote, in case a majority both of number and value shall not, in respect of any such question, be by law (1) specially required.

Vote of creditors by agent.

What votes to determine.

40. And be it enacted, that at the second meeting called as aforesaid, or any adjournment thereof (if the said Master or Resident Magistrate shall find it necessary to adjourn the same, which they are hereby authorised and empowered to do), a trustee, or trustees, not exceeding three in number, shall be chosen for the collection, administration, and distribution of the insolvent estate and effects; and all creditors who have proved debts against the insolvent estate shall be entitled to vote in such choice; and creditors holding any preferable security on lien shall vote in manner and form hereinbefore provided; and the choice shall be made by the votes of the greater part in number and value of the creditors, or their agents present and entitled to vote: Provided, however, that it shall be competent to any person interested in any such insolvent estate, or the due administration thereof, and who shall complain of any such election, upon giving, within two days after the Election of trustee.

Complaint against election.

Ord. 6—1843.

Recall of election, said election, a notice in writing of the particulars of such complaint to the said Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, at any time before the election is confirmed, in manner herein-after mentioned, to bring the same under review of the Supreme Court, who shall summarily or otherwise as such Court shall see fit, decide and make such order thereon as the justice of the case may require: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for any person interested in the due administration of the estate, at any time after the confirmation, to apply to the Court to recall the confirmation, and set aside the election, on the ground that such election was fraudulently or unduly made.

Persons disqualified from being trustee.

41. And be it enacted, that in no case shall it be competent for the creditors to elect as trustee, the insolvent himself, or any person related to the insolvent by consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree; nor any minor, nor any attorney, ⁽¹⁾ nor any person, who having had his estate, at any time, placed under sequestration shall not have obtained the sequestration to be superseded, or who shall not have been rehabilitated under the provisions of the law heretofore in force within this Colony, or shall not have obtained his certificate and allowance thereof, as herein-after provided, nor any person not resident within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, nor any person having an interest opposed to the general interest of the creditors in the insolvent estate, nor any person declared to be incapable of being elected by virtue of the provisions in the next succeeding section contained.

Acts by trustee inferring his disqualification.

42. And be it enacted, that if any person elected a trustee shall be proved, to the satisfaction of the Supreme Court, or of any Circuit Court, holden for the district in which the election of trustee was had, to have procured or been privy to the omission from the schedule of the insolvent of the name of any creditor of the insolvent, with intent thereby to obtain some peculiar advantage in regard to the election of trustee, or to have, either directly or indirectly, given or promised to give to any creditor of the insolvent, any species of valuable consideration whatsoever, in order to obtain the vote of such creditor at the election of trustee, or to have agreed to secure and make good to any creditor some certain sum or dividend in discharge or diminution of his debt, upon condition or in order that such creditor should give his vote to such trustee; or to have offered or agreed, in case any creditor of the insolvent should consent to vote for such trustee, to abstain from opening up or investigating some previous transactions between such creditor and the insolvent, which were, or were supposed to be of questionable validity, or to have contrived, or been privy to, any plan or arrangement by which debts or securities really belonging to some one or more persons have been divided amongst a greater number of persons, for the purpose merely of increasing the number of votes at the election for trustee, and thereby influencing the same, or to have undertaken to share with any creditor or creditors of the insolvent, in return for his or their votes, the commission or remuneration to be awarded to him as such trustee;—then such Supreme or Circuit Court as aforesaid, shall, whether before or after the decree confirming the appointment of such trustee, declare such trustee to have forfeited the office of such trustee in regard to the insolvent estate for which he shall have been elected, and to be incapable of being again elected thereto, and it shall and may be lawful for such Court, if it should so think fit, to further declare, that the person so offending shall be incapable of being elected a trustee under the provisions of this Ordinance, for and during his natural life, or such period as such Court shall determine and adjudge: and any person interested in the due administration of the insolvent estate may apply by motion to such Supreme or Circuit Court as aforesaid, either before or after the decree confirming the appointment of any trustee, to declare any such trustee to have forfeited his office by reason of any such misconduct as aforesaid; and as often as a vacancy in the office of trustee shall be created by any such forfeiture, the Court declaring the same shall order a new trustee to be elected, and the same proceedings shall be had thereon as on the original election of trustee.

Ord. 6—1843.

43. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or for any Judge thereof on circuit, and whether sitting in any Circuit Court or not, on cause shown by the Master of the said Court, or any person interested in the due administration of the insolvent estate, by order of Court to appoint one or more fit person or persons to be trustee or trustees of any insolvent estate provisionally, and until the creditors of the said estate shall make choice of a trustee; which trustee or trustees may be removed at the meeting of creditors for the choice of a trustee, if the said creditors shall think fit, but shall and may, until so removed, act in the collection, administration, and distribution of the said estate, in all respects the same as trustees elected by the creditors are by this Ordinance authorised or required to do. Provided however, that no such trustee or trustees shall proceed to make sale of any part of the said estate without the authority for that purpose of the Supreme Court, or of some Judge thereof, or of some Circuit Court, or of the Master of the Supreme Court, first had and obtained.

Confirmation of election of trustee.

45. And be it enacted, that so soon as the trustees elected by the creditors shall have accepted their office, it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, upon the report of the Master, to make a decree confirming the appointment of such trustee.

Vesting of insolvent's rights in master of court.

46. And be it enacted, that every order made for placing any estate under sequestration as insolvent shall, so soon as made, have the effect in law to divest the insolvent and all persons administering the whole or any part of his estate for his use and behoof, and to vest in the Master of the Supreme Court, for the uses and purposes of the sequestration, all the present and future estate, movable and immovable, personal and real, and every right, title, and interest in and to any property, movable or immovable, personal or real, wheresoever the same may be known or found, which shall belong or be due to such insolvent at the date of making such order, or as to which any right of reversion shall then be vested in him, or which may thereafter be purchased or acquired by, or may revert, descend, or be devised, or come, to the insolvent, at any time before the making of the order of Court, allowing and confirming, as hereinafter mentioned, the account and plan of distribution to be framed by the trustees, (except as in the forty-ninth section is excepted) together with all deeds, vouchers, papers, or writings respecting the same: and after the said order for sequestration has been made, neither the insolvent nor any person claiming through or under him shall have power to alienate, give, cede, deliver, mortgage, pledge, or to recover, or to release or discharge the same, or of any part thereof; neither shall the same be attached by any person, as the property of or belonging to the insolvent.

Vesting of insolvent's rights in provisional trustee.

47. And be it enacted, that every order of Court appointing any provisional trustee or trustees shall, so soon as made, have the effect in law to divest the Master of the Supreme Court, and to vest in such provisional trustee or trustees, for the uses and purposes of the sequestration, and until their removal, or until the making of the order of Court, allowing and confirming as hereinafter mentioned the account and plan of distribution, (whichever shall first happen), all the present and future estate of the insolvent as fully, as completely, to all intents and purposes, as the said estate, is by virtue of the next succeeding section of this Ordinance, vested in the trustee or trustees elected by the creditors, by the decree of the Court confirming the appointment of the same. And whenever any provisional trustee or trustees shall die or be removed before the making of the decree aforesaid for confirming the appointment of any trustee or trustees elected by the creditors, then the whole present and future estate of the insolvent for the time being, shall vest again in the said Master, precisely as if the same had never been divested.

48. And be it enacted, that every decree made as herein directed, for confirming any trustee or trustees, shall, so soon as made have the effect in law, to divest the Master of the Supreme Court, or any provisional trustee, and to vest in the trustee or trustees thereby confirmed, for the uses and purposes of the sequestration, and so long as such trustee or trustees shall continue to hold their office, all the present and future estate, movable and immovable, personal or real, which shall have belonged or been due to such insolvent at the time when the order for placing his estate under sequestration was made, or as to which any right of reversion shall then be vested in him, or which may thereafter be purchased, or acquired by, or may revert, descend, or be devised, or come, to the insolvent, during the continuance of the sequestration, and before the making of the order of Court allowing and confirming the account and plan of distribution, as hereinafter provided, wheresoever the same may be found or known, (except as in the forty-ninth section is excepted) together with all deeds, vouchers, papers, or writings respecting the same; and the said trustee or trustees shall have the like remedy to recover the said estate of the insolvent, or any part thereof in their own names for the purposes of the sequestration, as the insolvent himself might have had if his estate had not been sequestrated; and all powers vested in any insolvent at the time the order for placing his estate under sequestration was made, or which may thereafter become vested during the continuance of the sequestration, and before the making of the said order allowing and confirming the account and plan aforesaid, which such insolvent might have legally executed for his benefit, shall, after the said order for placing his estate under sequestration, and until an order of Court appointing a provisional trustee or trustees, or until a decree be made for confirming the appointment of a trustee or trustees elected by the creditors, be executed by the Master of the Supreme Court, and may, after such order appointing a provisional trustee or trustees be executed by such provisional trustee or trustees until their removal, and may after their removal be executed by the said Master until a decree be made for confirming the appointment of such trustee or trustees as aforesaid, and after such decree is made for confirming such appointment as aforesaid may be executed by the trustee or trustees whose appointment is thereby confirmed, for the benefit of the creditors, in such manner as the insolvent might have executed the same, and the said insolvent is hereby declared to be incapable to exercise or execute any such powers, as aforesaid.

absolutely disqualified and incapacitated to acquire or to possess as against the person in whom, for the time being, the insolvent estate shall by law be vested, any property, goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, or any right to any such property, goods or effects; and shall in like manner be absolutely disqualified and incapacitated to cede, transfer or convey, so as to bind the person in whom, for the time being, the insolvent estate shall by law be vested, any property, goods or effects, or any debt, claim or demand, or any bond, bill of exchange, promissory note, or other security for money, and as against or in question with such last-mentioned person every such attempted cession, transfer or conveyance shall be totally null and void. And no person who shall have sold and delivered upon credit any goods, wares, merchandize, or other matter or things, to any such insolvent shall be entitled to reduce or set aside the sale, or to claim the amount of the purchase money from the person in whom the insolvent estate shall, for the time being, by law be vested, by reason merely that the said insolvent was, at the time of contract of sale, so disqualified and incapacitated as aforesaid, or that the articles sold and delivered have been taken possession of by such person in whom the said estate was vested as aforesaid, for the benefit of the said estate. And no such insolvent shall be deemed or taken to have any power to bind any such last-mentioned person, or the insolvent estate in him vested, by any sort or description of dealing, contract or transaction whatsoever, unless the same shall have been entered into by virtue of an authority to that effect from such person in writing: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prevent any such insolvent from passing a valid title by any such cession, transfer, or conveyance as aforesaid, while acting, so far as he shall be authorised in writing so to do, as the mandatory or agent of his trustee, or from acting as the mandatory or agent of any other person by whom such insolvent shall be authorised in writing so to act, and for whom he shall have been in writing permitted so to act by the person in whom, for the time being, the insolvent estate shall be vested: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prevent any insolvent whether acting as such mandatory or agent as aforesaid or not, from well and effectually passing title to any person whatever, by the delivering to him of any movable goods or effects which were next before such delivery in the actual possession of such insolvent, in pursuance of any real and bona fide purchase from such insolvent for a just price duly paid, or to prevent any such insolvent from well and effectually passing title to any money paid by him in cash down for any matter, or thing purchased by him at the time of such payment, or to prevent any such insolvent from receiving, suing for and recovering; in his own name and for his own personal and exclusive use, and free from the control of his trustee, the hire, wages, or reward of his work and labour, or that any of his family, by him or them bestowed during the intervening time aforesaid, or any part thereof, or any damages claimable by reason of any personal wrong or injury done to such insolvent or any member of his family. And provided that whenever any property, goods, or effects shall be proved by such insolvent to have been purchased or obtained by means of any moneys receivable or recoverable as aforesaid for his own personal use, such property goods, or effects shall also be free from the control of his trustee, in like manner as the moneys were by which they were purchased or obtained.

Ord. 6—1843.

50. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to take up, and continue in their own names, the process in any action commenced for any debt or demand due to the estate, before their appointment, or to discontinue the same, as they shall see fit; and also to commence any new suit or action in any competent Court, for any debt or demand due to or affecting the estate of any insolvent person; and also to defend any action brought against them, or pending against the insolvent, relating to or affecting the said estate.

Power of election by trustee as to actions in favour of or against estate.

51. And be it enacted, that in every such action as in the last preceding section mentioned, and in every action between any parties for determining the validity of the claim of any person claiming to be a creditor in the insolvent estate, or the right of any person or persons to or of preference over any part of the assets of the insolvent estate, the insolvent, whether he shall have obtained his certificate or not, shall not be deemed or taken to be an incompetent witness either for or against the said trustees, or either of the parties in any such action as aforesaid, by reason of any interest which he may have, or be presumed to have, in the event of the suit.

Insolvent competent witness in suits affecting estate.

52. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, on cause shown by the Master of the said Court, or by any person interested in the due administration of the insolvent estate, to remove any trustee or trustees for insolvency, or for any misconduct in the said trust, or on account of absence from this Colony; and thereupon, and as often as any trustee shall die, or obtain leave from the said Court to resign, or shall become incapacitated, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court, or any Judge thereof, to order a new trustee to be elected, and the same proceedings shall be had thereon as on the original election of trustees; and it shall and may be lawful for the said Court or any Judge thereof, in the meantime, to make such order as may be necessary or expedient for the preservation of the insolvent estate, until such new trustee shall be elected and confirmed.

Causes for removal of trustee.

When office of trustee vacant, how to be supplied.

53. And be it enacted, that whenever, on the death or removal of any trustee, any new trustee shall be elected and confirmed in manner hereinbefore provided, the decree confirming the appointment of such new trustee shall have the effect in law to vest in

And during any period of time which shall elapse between the death or removal of any trustee, and the making of the decree for confirming the election of the trustee confirmed in his place, and no longer, the whole of the then existing insolvent estate shall, except when notwithstanding such death or removal shall remain in office one or more of the trustees of the said estate, be vested in the Master of the Supreme Court.

Death of trustee not to affect his acts.

Vesting of estate during vacancy in office of trustee.

Death of trustee not to abate actions.

54. And be it enacted, that whenever a trustee shall die, or a new trustee shall be chosen, no action relative to the insolvent estate shall be thereby abated; but the Court in which any such action is depending, may, upon the suggestion of such death or removal, or that a new trustee has been chosen and confirmed, allow the name of the surviving or new trustee or trustees to be substituted in the place of the former; and the said action shall proceed as if such surviving or new trustee or trustees had originally commenced or defended the same.

Gazette notice of sequestration and of appointments or removal of trustees.

55. And be it enacted, that every trustee, on being confirmed, shall forthwith cause notice of the sequestration and of his appointment to be given by advertisement in the Government Gazette, and the Master of the Supreme Court shall cause notice of every order made for the removal of any trustee to be given by advertisement in the Government Gazette.

Power of trustees to call meetings of creditors.

56. (1) And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for any trustee or trustees, at any time, to call a general meeting of the creditors, and to require their directions concerning the collection or sale of any part of the estate, or concerning any matter or question relating to the administration of the said estate, and the trustee or trustees shall call such meeting whenever they are thereto required by one-fourth of the creditors in value who have produced and proved their claims; and the said trustees shall pursue the directions of the greater part of the creditors attending such meeting: Provided always, that twenty-eight days' notice, at the least shall be given of every such meeting, and of the purpose thereof, in the Government Gazette, unless in any particular case the Master or Resident Magistrate shall authorise the trustee or trustees to call a meeting upon some shorter notice: And provided also, that no such meeting shall be competent to direct the said trustees to do any thing calculated to interfere with or injure the just rights of any creditor who shall hold any preferable security or lien upon any part of the insolvent estate; and in case any direction shall be given by any such meeting calculated to interfere with or injure such rights, such creditor may apply by motion to the Supreme Court, to set aside such direction, and thereupon the said Court shall make such order in the premises as shall to justice appertain.

Ord. 6—1843.

57. And be it enacted, that all meetings of creditors called by virtue of this Ordinance, and appointed to be holden in Cape Town, shall take place before the Master of the Supreme Court; and if appointed to be holden in any district of the Colony other than the Cape district, then before the Resident Magistrate of such district or the person acting as such, who shall forthwith certify to the said Master the proceedings thereat.

Before whom meetings of creditors to be held.

58. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees, to take legal advice on any legal question affecting the insolvent estate, or the administration thereof, and to employ an attorney for the conducting and defending all actions and suits for or against the insolvent estate, and to charge against the insolvent estate all such fees as shall thereby be incurred and shall be allowed upon taxation by the Master of the Supreme Court, subject to the review of the Supreme Court, upon the complaint of the attorney so employed, or if any person having an interest in the due administration of the estate under sequestration; and when it shall be made to appear to the Supreme Court, that any attorney has improperly advised, commenced, conducted, or defended any such action or suit, or incurred any improper or unnecessary expense therein, with the purpose of thereby benefiting himself, and not with the bonâ fide purpose of thereby benefiting the insolvent estate, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court, to order the whole or any part of the costs of such action to be paid by such attorney, as the said Court shall think fit.

Legal advice may be taken by trustees.

59. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court and for any trustees, whether provisional or elected, respectively, to grant and allow to the insolvent, out of the assets of the insolvent estate, such moderate sum or sums as the said Master or the said trustees, respectively, shall find to be indispensably necessary for the support of the insolvent and his family, pending the decision of the creditors in regard to such support, and the said Master and such trustees as aforesaid, may, if they shall, respectively, see fit, employ the insolvent, or any other person, in the gathering and preservation of any crops or produce, for any reasonable time necessary for the gathering and preservation thereof; and also leave the said insolvent, or place any other person, in the charge of any property manufactory, or concern, belonging to the insolvent estate, until the same shall be sold, disposed of, or wound up, and make to the said insolvent, or other person, so employed, a reasonable allowance, per diem, for his labour: Provided that the amount of every such allowance, whether for support or labour, as the case may be, granted before the meeting of creditors which shall be first holden after the second meeting of creditors by this Ordinance directed, shall be submitted to such meeting, which meeting shall have power to decide whether any such allowance shall be continued, and if so, for what length of time, and what shall be the amount thereof. And provided, also, that every trustee who shall make any such allowance to an insolvent, except with the consent of the creditors assembled at such meeting as last aforesaid, or at some other meeting duly convened, shall forthwith report to the Master of the Supreme Court the amount and grounds of such allowance. And provided, that every such allowance made by any trustee, without the consent of the creditors, shall be subject to the review of the Supreme Court upon the application of the said Master or of any person interested in the due administration of the insolvent estate.

Insolvent to attend meetings of creditors.

60. And be it enacted, that the insolvent or legal administrator of any insolvent estate shall attend before the creditors at the first, second, and third meetings of creditors to be holden by virtue of this Ordinance, and at every adjournment of the said second meeting, unless authorised by the Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, not to attend any such adjourned meeting, and shall also attend before the creditors at every other meeting of creditors held by virtue of this Ordinance, whenever he shall be required to do so by a notice in writing signed by the Master of the Supreme Court or by the Resident Magistrate before whom such meeting is to be held, (which notice the said Master and Resident Magistrate are hereby respectively authorised to give), and shall, at every meeting of creditors which he shall attend, answer all such lawful questions as shall be put to him by the said Master or the said Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, touching and concerning his affairs and estate and the cause and ground of his insolvency, and shall, at the said second meeting, being thereunto required by the creditors, lodge with the Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, to be by him delivered to the trustee or trustees when appointed or confirmed, a true inventory of the whole of such estate and effects, movable and immovable, personal and real, wheresoever the same may be situated, and of all estates and effects in expectancy or contingency, or to which the insolvent may have any eventual right, and all debts due to and by him, to the best of his knowledge and belief, and all books of accounts, papers, writings, documents, bills, and vouchers, relating to the said estate, which are in his custody or power; and the said insolvent or administrator shall, upon being thereunto required, surrender the said books, papers, writings, documents, bills, and vouchers, to the said Master or Resident

61. (1) And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court and for the Resident Magistrate, when they shall respectively preside at any meeting of creditors before which the insolvent shall attend, to examine the insolvent upon oath, if they shall see fit so to do, touching all matters relating to his trade, dealings, or estate, or which may tend to disclose any secret alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, or concealment of his estate and effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, and to cause his examination to be reduced to writing, and signed by him and annexed to the proceedings in the said estate.

Examination of insolvent by officer presiding at meetings.

62. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, upon the application of the trustee or trustees, whenever and so often as they shall see fit, to summon any insolvent before the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, or any commissioner of the Supreme Court, if the said Court shall see fit so to order, whether the said insolvent shall have obtained his certificate and allowance thereof or not. And it shall be lawful for such Court, or commissioner, to examine him upon oath touching all matters relating to his trade, dealings, or estate, which may tend to disclose any secret alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, or concealment of his estate or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, and to cause his examination to be reduced to writing, and signed by him, and annexed to the proceedings in the said estate.

Special examination of insolvent as to estate, &c.

63. And be it enacted, that if any insolvent, being lawfully summoned as aforesaid to appear before the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, or any commissioner of the Supreme Court, shall not, at the time and place appointed in the summons for his appearance, come before such Court or Commissioner, (having no lawful impediment at such time made known to and allowed by such Court or commissioner), it shall be lawful for such Court or for such commissioner, under his hand, to grant warrant, authorising any officer of the law or other person to apprehend such insolvent, and forthwith to bring him before such Court or commissioner, or to lodge him in any prison therein to be detained until the time which such Court or commissioner, as aforesaid, shall have appointed anew, on the application of the trustee or trustees, for his examination: and the gaoler of every such prison shall cause him to be brought before such Court or commissioner, at the time and place specified in such warrant: and every insolvent aforesaid, who, being summoned as aforesaid, shall depart from the Colony, or abscond, or conceal himself within the same, with the purpose and intent to evade appearing at any such examination to which he was summoned, or to prevent any warrant hereinbefore mentioned from being executed upon him, shall be deemed Examination of third parties in regard to estate.

65. And be it enacted, that after surrender or adjudication of sequestration of any estate as insolvent, it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, upon the application of the said trustee or trustees, to summon before the said Court, or any Circuit Court or any commissioner of the Supreme Court, the wife of the insolvent, or any person known or suspected to have in possession any of the estate of the insolvent, or to be indebted to the insolvent, or any person whom the said Court may see reason to believe capable of giving information concerning the person, trade, dealing, or estate of such insolvent, or any information material to the full disclosure thereof: and also to require such person to produce any books, papers, deeds, writings, or other documents, in his or her custody, which may appear to the said Court necessary to the verification or disclosure of any of the matters aforesaid; and it shall and may be lawful for the said Supreme Court, or Circuit Court, or commissioner, to examine every such person, upon oath, concerning the person, trade, dealings, or estate of such insolvent, and to cause his or her examination to be reduced to writing, and signed by him or her, and annexed to the said proceedings; and, if any such person shall, upon being lawfully summoned to appear to be examined, fail so to appear, (having no lawful impediment made known to the Court or commissioner, before whom such person is summoned at such time, and allowed by them), it shall be lawful for such Court, or for such commissioner under his hand to grant warrant, authorising and directing any officer of the law, or other person, to apprehend the person so summoned and failing to appear, and to bring the said person before such Court or commissioner, or to lodge the said person in any prison, therein to be detained until the time which such Court or commissioner shall, on the application of the trustee or trustees, have appointed anew for his or her examination: and the gaoler of any such prison shall cause such person to be brought before such Court or commissioner at the time and place specified in such warrant. And if any such person, so summoned or brought before such Court or commissioner for examination, shall refuse to be sworn, or shall refuse to answer any lawful question put by such Court or commissioner touching any of the matters aforesaid, or shall refuse to sign his or her examination so reduced into writing as aforesaid, (not having any lawful objection allowed by such Court or commissioner), or shall not, being thereunto required, produce any books, papers, deeds, writings, or other documents in his or her custody or power, relating to any of the matters aforesaid, and to the production of which he or she shall not state any objection allowed by them, it shall be lawful for such Court or for such commissioner by warrant under his hand, to commit him to such prison as they shall think fit, there to remain without bail, until such person shall submit to be sworn, or make answers to all such lawful questions, as shall by such Court or commissioner be put, or sign such examination, or produce such books, papers, deeds, writings, or other documents as aforesaid, in his or her custody or power, to the production of which no objection as aforesaid shall be allowed.

Ord. 6—1843.

66. And be it enacted, that the insolvent and every other person summoned before the Supreme Court, or Circuit Court, or any commissioner, by order of the said Court to be examined or give evidence, or make disclosure of the trade, dealings, estate, or effects of any insolvent, under or by virtue of this Ordinance, shall have his necessary expenses tendered to him by the trustee or trustees of such insolvent estate, in like manner as is by law required upon service of a subpoena to a witness in any civil suit. And such necessary expenses shall also be tendered to every insolvent who is required by any notice in writing, signed by the Master of the Supreme Court, or by any Resident Magistrate, to attend any meeting of creditors other than the first, second, and third meetings as aforesaid, or some adjournment of the second meeting.

Tender of expenses to parties to be examined.

67. And be it enacted, that every insolvent or other person sworn by or before any Court, or commissioner, or by the Master of the Supreme Court, or by any Resident Magistrate, by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, who shall wilfully make any false answer to any lawful question put by such Court, Commissioner, Master, or Resident Magistrate, such person shall be deemed guilty of the crime of perjury, and on conviction thereof shall suffer any punishment provided by law for such crime.

Penalty of false answers during examination.

Ord. 6—1843.

Warrant of commitment at examination.

Proceedings on application to be discharged.

68. And be it enacted, that if any person whatsoever be committed by any Court or commissioner, or by the said Master, or by any Resident Magistrate, for refusing to answer, or not fully answering, any question put to him by them, they shall, in their warrant of commitment, specify every such question; and if any person, so committed as aforesaid, shall make any application to any Court or Judge, competent to entertain the same, in order to be discharged from such commitment, and there shall not appear to such Court or Judge any insufficiency or informality in the form of the warrant, whereby such person was committed, by reason whereof he might be discharged, it shall be lawful for such Court or Judge, and such Court or Judge is hereby required, to recommit such person to the same prison, there to remain until he shall conform as aforesaid; unless it be shown to such Court or Judge by the party committed, that he has fully answered all lawful questions put to him on his examination as aforesaid; or, if such person was committed for refusing to be sworn, or for not signing his examination, unless it shall appear to such Court or Judge, that he had a sufficient reason for the same: Provided also, that such Court or Judge shall, if required thereto by the party committed, consider the whole examination of such party, whereof any such question was a part, and, if it shall appear from the whole examination, that the answer or answers of the party committed is or are satisfactory, such Court or Judge shall and may order the party so committed to be discharged.

Master, &c., same protection as justices of peace in action brought against them.

69. And be it enacted, that in case any suit or action shall be instituted, or sought to be instituted against the Master of the Supreme Court, or any commissioner of the said Court, or any Resident Magistrate, by reason or on account of any commitment to prison of the insolvent or other person, the said Master, Commissioner, and Resident Magistrate shall respectively possess and enjoy, in reference to such action, and the process and proceedings therein, every right, privilege and provision, and be subject to every liability which do, or shall by law, belong and pertain to suits or actions instituted or sought to be instituted against Justices of the Peace, for anything done by them in the execution of their office; Provided also, that the Court before which any action founded upon a commitment for refusing to answer, or not fully answering, any question or questions put to the plaintiff, is tried, shall, if required thereto by the defendant, consider the whole examination of the plaintiff, whereof such question was, or such questions were, a part; and if it shall upon such consideration appear to such Court that the plaintiff was lawfully committed, the defendant shall have the same benefit therefrom as if the whole of such examination had been set forth in the warrant of commitment.

What acts constitute fraudulent insolvency.

70. And be it enacted, that if any insolvent whose estate shall have already been, or shall hereafter be, surrendered or adjudged to be sequestrated as insolvent, shall either before or after the making of the order for sequestration, have alienated, transferred, given, ceded, delivered, mortgaged, or pledged, or shall have embezzled, concealed, or removed, any part of his estate or effects, to the value of ten pounds sterling or upwards; or shall have concealed, removed, destroyed, falsified or mutilated any books of accounts, papers, writings, documents, bills, or vouchers relating thereto with intent to defraud his creditors; or shall have fraudulently contracted any debt; or if any such insolvent shall, at the second meeting of his creditors, or any adjournment thereof, holden before the Master of the Supreme Court, or any Resident Magistrate, for the purposes aforesaid, wilfully lodge any inventory containing any false statement of his estate or effects, or any part thereof, or with respect to any debt due to or by him, or shall produce any books of accounts, papers, writings, documents, bills, or vouchers, which are false, or on which any erasure has been made, or caused to be made by him, or with his knowledge, with intent to defraud his creditors; or, if any such insolvent shall, at any time when examined in manner aforesaid before any Court or commissioner, or by the Master of the Supreme Court, or by any Resident Magistrate, wilfully make any false answer to any lawful questions then put to him, with intent to defraud his creditors, or shall have connived at or concealed from the trustee, his knowledge of the proof, by any person, of a false debt against his estate, he shall be deemed to be guilty of the crime of fraudulent insolvency, and, on conviction thereof, shall suffer transportation for life or for any shorter period not less than five years, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding five years.

71. (1) And be it enacted, that if any insolvent whose estate shall hereafter be surrendered or adjudged to be sequestrated as insolvent, shall fail to attend before his creditors at the first, second, and third meetings thereof, or shall fail to attend at any adjournment of the said second meeting, unless authorised by the Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, not to attend the same, or shall, without good and lawful reason for absenting himself, fail to attend before his creditors, at any meeting thereof, after having been personally served with a notice in writing signed by the Master or the Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, requiring him to attend such meeting, or shall not, in case his estate is deficient to the amount of five hundred pounds, or upwards, have kept, or caused to be kept, such reasonable and proper books or accounts containing all such entries belonging to, and exhibiting the nature of, his dealings and transactions as (regard being had to his particular trade or calling), might reasonably be expected and required; or shall not, when thereto required by the said Master or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, at any meeting of his creditors, account for or discover what has become of any money, or valuable security, or other property or effects, which shall have been proved to have been in his possession so recently before the sequestration as to make it his duty so to do; or shall not, when thereto required by such Master or Resident Magistrate as aforesaid, give a true and sufficient explanation of the cause or causes of his insolvency; or if he shall have given to any of his creditors an undue preference as the same is hereinafter defined; or shall have contracted any debt without any reasonable or probable expectation, at the time of contracting the same, of being able to pay the same; or shall have incurred any debt by reason of any breach of trust; or shall, without having obtained his certificate and the allowance thereof, between the time of the making of the order for the sequestration of his estate and the time of the making of the decree confirming the account and plan of distribution as hereinafter mentioned, have entered into any dealing or business, or taken upon him the buying and selling of any goods, wares, or merchandize, whether for himself or any other person whatsoever, without the authority in writing of the person in whom the insolvent estate shall, for the time being, by law be vested, first had and obtained; or shall have granted, made, or promised any gratuity, payment, security, or other undue consideration in order to procure or obtain the concurrence or assent of any creditor either to any offer of composition, or to the certificate, as the same are hereinafter mentioned, such insolvent shall be deemed to be guilty of the crime of culpable insolvency, and, upon conviction, be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding six months.

magistrate in culpable insolvency.

72. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Courts of the Resident Magistrates in this Colony, respectively, on the conviction before any such Court of any person of any of the offences set forth in the last preceding section mentioned, to sentence such person to the punishment in the said section provided.

Prosecution of culpable insolvency
by creditors.

73. And be it enacted, that every trustee and every creditor of or on the estate of any insolvent shall, with regard to any of the offences set forth in the seventy-first section of this Ordinance, have the same right of prosecution which any private person has by law with regard to any offence committed against his person or property, and no other right; Provided always, that no creditor or creditors shall be entitled to exercise any such right of prosecution for any such offence without first obtaining from the trustee, and producing, a certificate that the trustee declines to prosecute for that offence.

Fraudulent alienation, &c., by insolvent in favour of third parties.

74. (1) And be it enacted, that if any person shall receive or accept any alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge made by any insolvent of any part of his estate or effects, with intent to defraud the creditors of the insolvent, knowing, at the time, the same to be fraudulently made, such person shall, on conviction thereof, suffer transportation for life, or for any period not less than five years, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding five years.

75. And be it enacted, that if any person shall dispose of, remove, conceal, embezzle, or receive, any movable property belonging to any insolvent estate, which has been attached by virtue of any order for the sequestration thereof, or any movable property, which has been attached by process of any competent Court, knowing the same to have been so attached and with intent to defeat the said attachment, such person shall, on conviction thereof, suffer transportation for any period not exceeding seven years, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding five years.

76. And be it enacted, that in all cases when, on the application of the Master of the Supreme Court, or any trustee or trustees of any insolvent estate, it shall, on oath, be made to appear to the satisfaction of any Judge of the Supreme Court, or Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace that there is reason to suspect or believe that property of any insolvent is concealed in any house or other place not belonging to the insolvent, it shall and may be lawful to the said Judge, Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, to grant a warrant to search for and take the said property; which warrant shall be executed in like manner as is by law allowed in execution of a search warrant for property reputed to be stolen and concealed: and any property of the insolvent so found shall forthwith be delivered, if no trustee or trustees have hitherto been confirmed, to the Master of the Supreme Court, or otherwise, to the trustee or trustees who have been confirmed, or to any person appointed by the said Master, or trustee or trustees, to receive the same.

77. And be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court, and he is hereby required, so soon as the trustee or trustees, chosen at the second meeting of the creditors of any insolvent estate in manner aforesaid, have been confirmed, forthwith to appoint the third meeting of the creditors of the insolvent to be holden before himself, or any Resident Magistrate, at such time, and at such place, as he shall deem most expedient for all parties concerned, for the purpose of receiving proof of debts and for receiving the report of the trustee or trustees as to the condition of the insolvent estate, and for giving directions to the trustee or trustees as to the management thereof; and the said trustee or trustees shall give notice of the time and place at which, and of the purposes for which, such meeting is to be held, in the same advertisement in the Government Gazette, in which notice is hereinbefore required to be given by them to the creditors, of their confirmation as trustee or trustees.

78. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the creditors of any insolvent estate present at such third meeting as aforesaid, or at any other subsequent meeting, to elect, if they shall by a majority determine so to do, one commissioner, who shall be either a creditor or the mandatory of a creditor, and the same proceedings shall take place, and the same regulations apply, in regard to his election, as are hereinbefore provided in regard to the election of trustees except that no decree of the Supreme Court confirming his appointment shall be necessary. Provided that no person shall be eligible to be a commissioner who is disqualified to be a trustee, and provided that after every such election of a commissioner, the Master of the Supreme Court, or the Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, shall annex a record thereof to the proceedings in the insolvent estate; and provided that the trustee shall, in all cases when a commissioner has declined to act, or died, or resigned, or become incapacitated, call a meeting of creditors for the purpose of electing, should they, by a majority think proper so to do, a new commissioner, and such new commissioner shall be elected in the manner hereinbefore provided:—and provided that no commissioner shall be entitled to or receive any species of salary, commission, allowance, or remuneration whatever from the insolvent estate for his services as such commissioner. And provided, that, when the question of electing a commissioner shall be sought to be submitted to any meeting of creditors other than the third meeting, a public notice of not less than fourteen days shall be given in the Government Gazette, that such a question will be submitted to such meeting.

Duties of commissioner.

79. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the said commissioner, when such shall be elected as aforesaid, to superintend the proceedings of the trustee, give his advice and assistance in the management of the estate, inquire from time to time, into the situation thereof, and of every part thereof, examine all the accounts of the trustee regarding the said estate, require from the trustee all such reasonable explanation or information as he or they may, from time to time, demand, touching any matter or thing belonging to the administration of the said estate, and assist the Master of the Supreme Court in assessing the compensation to be paid to the trustee.

Power of commissioner to call meetings and report.

80. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the commissioner, to call at any time, a general meeting of the creditors, and to make to such meeting such reports or representations in regard to any matter or question respecting the administration of the insolvent estate as he shall deem necessary or expedient; and the trustee shall pursue the directions of the greater part of the creditors attending such meeting: Provided always, that twenty-eight days' notice at the least, shall be given of every such meeting, and of the purpose thereof, in the Government Gazette.

Trustee to furnish information to commissioner.

81. And be it enacted, that any trustee who shall neglect or refuse to give to any commissioner any such information concerning the situation and administration of the insolvent estate, or any such insight into the accounts thereof, as the said commissioner is, as aforesaid, authorised and empowered to demand and require, shall be deemed and taken to have misconducted himself in his trust, and may thereupon be removed in manner and form as hereinbefore provided, from the office of trustee. ⁽¹⁾

Ord. 6—1843.

82. And be it enacted, that the trustee or trustees shall, after being confirmed, forthwith call in and collect all debts due to the estate, and, for that purpose, they shall, by advertisement in the Government Gazette, summon all debtors to pay, or cause the same to be paid to them at such time and place, as shall be therein appointed for that purpose; and any person neglecting or refusing to make such payment, and being afterwards sued for any such debt, shall, if the said trustee or trustees obtain a judgment against him, and if he shall not show cause, to the satisfaction of the Court awarding such judgment, for such neglect or refusal, pay to the said trustee or trustees double costs of suit, for the benefit of the said estate: and the said publication shall be deemed notice thereof to all persons who may reasonably be presumed to have seen the same. And the said trustee or trustees shall also proceed to set aside, and if necessary, by legal process, all such payments, alienations and pledges, made by any person whose estate shall be sequestrated as insolvent, as are hereinafter particularly described, and declared to be null and void, precisely as if the money, or other property delivered or pledged, had belonged to the said trustee or trustees at the time of the making of such payments, alienations or pledges respectively.

Getting in of debts by the trustee.

83. And be it enacted, that every alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge of any goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, made by any insolvent, at a time when it shall be made to appear by proof, that his liabilities fairly calculated exceeded his assets fairly valued, shall, unless the same shall have been made bonâ fide, and upon just and valuable consideration, be null and void. And whenever the immediate and necessary effect of any such alienation, transfer, gift, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge, as aforesaid, shall be to cause such an excess of liabilities over assets, then the same, to the extent to which such excess shall have been thus produced, shall be null and void.

Gratuitous alienations by insolvent.

84. And be it enacted, that every alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge of any goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, and every payment made by any insolvent to any creditor, such insolvent at the time contemplating ⁽²⁾ the sequestration, either voluntary or otherwise, of his estate, and intending thereby to prefer directly or indirectly such creditor before his other creditors, shall be deemed to be an undue preference, and is hereby declared to be null and void. And every such alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge as aforesaid, made by any insolvent to any person whatever, such insolvent at the time contemplating, as aforesaid, the sequestration of his estate, and intending thereby to prefer directly or indirectly any creditor before his other creditors, shall be deemed to be an undue preference of such creditor in so far as he shall have been benefited thereby, and the trustee or trustees shall be entitled to recover the amount or value of such undue preference from the creditor so preferred.

Undue preference of sureties for insolvent.

85. And be it enacted, that every alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, mortgage, or pledge of any goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, and every payment made by any insolvent, with the intention of thereby benefiting any person, who, not being a creditor of such insolvent, would yet have become liable for the amount paid, satisfied, or secured by the insolvent, in case it had not been so paid, satisfied, or secured, either in the character of a surety for such insolvent, or in some character by law analogous thereto, such insolvent at the time contemplating (1) the sequestration, either voluntary or otherwise, of his estate, shall be deemed to be an undue preference, and the trustee or trustees shall be entitled to claim and recover from the person so intended to be benefited whatever amount the insolvent shall have paid, satisfied or secured, in discharge or relief of such person's liability.

Transactions in ordinary course of trade.

86. And be it enacted, that every alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, mortgage or pledge as aforesaid and every payment made by any insolvent to any creditor in the usual and ordinary course of trade or business, shall, prima facie, be held and taken to have been made or given bonâ fide, and without an intention to give to such creditor any preference, although such insolvent may, at the time, contemplate the sequestration of his estate as insolvent, and in every such case it shall be necessary for the trustee or trustees seeking to set the same aside, to show the existence of some collusive arrangement, mutual understanding, or common consent, between the insolvent and the creditor, the one to give and the other to get a preference over the other creditors of the insolvent, under colour of a transaction in the usual and ordinary course of trade or business.

Collusive payments to creditors under execution before sequestration.

87. And be it enacted, that every payment obtained by any creditor before the making of the order for sequestration, by means or under colour of legal process against the insolvent, shall be deemed an undue preference, and be null and void, when and as often as such payment shall have been obtained or facilitated by connivance of the insolvent, or by collusion between such insolvent and such creditor, such insolvent, when so conniving or colluding contemplating (1) the sequestration of his estate, and intending to give such creditor, or allow such creditor to get, a preference above the other creditors of such insolvent.

88. And be it enacted, that, in every case in which any person, whether actually a creditor or not, shall be obliged, by virtue of the eighty-fourth or eighty-fifth or eighty-seventh sections of this Ordinance, to restore or repay, as the case may be, for the benefit of the insolvent estate, any alienation, transfer, cession, delivery, mortgage or pledge, or any payment as having been an undue preference, such person shall not be allowed to claim or prove as a debt the amount of what he shall have so restored or repaid, but shall wholly forfeit such amount as regards the insolvent estate, in case such undue preference was received by such person by or through any collusive arrangement, mutual understanding, or common consent between such person and the insolvent, the one to give and the other to get such undue preference.

Ord. 6—1843.
Forfeiture by creditors where undue preference collusive.

89. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees of any insolvent estate, in any suit or action which he may cause to be instituted against any person for the restoration or repayment of any matter, money or thing alleged to have been given or paid by the insolvent by way of undue preference, to claim amongst other things, that the defendant in such suit or action may be declared by the judgment of the Court in which such suit or action shall be pending, to have forfeited, in regard to the insolvent estate, the amount in which he shall be found to have been unduly preferred by reason of the collusive arrangement, mutual understanding, or common consent, in the last preceding section mentioned, and the question of such forfeiture shall be tried and determined together with the other questions in the case. And in case it shall not be necessary to institute any suit or action against persons who shall be alleged by the trustee or trustees to have been unduly preferred, the right of any such last-mentioned persons to prove a debt in respect of the amount or value of the matter, money, or thing by them restored or repaid shall, if disputed, be determined in manner and form as is hereinbefore provided for the regulation of the proof of debts.

How question as to forfeiture in 88th section may be raised.

90. And be it enacted, that in case any creditor of any insolvent shall have received from such insolvent an undue preference, but under circumstances which do not, by force and virtue of the eighty-eighth section of this Ordinance, occasion a forfeiture of the value or amount of such preference, then in case such creditor shall have received such undue preference in respect of any bill of exchange or promissory note, with recourse on other parties, which was payable by the insolvent, and held by such creditor, or in any respect of any debt of the insolvent for which such creditor had any security, which, by reason of the act of the insolvent constituting the undue preference, such creditor has bonâ fide given up, discharged, or in law, precluded himself from enforcing, such creditor shall not be liable to restore or repay to the trustee or trustees the value or amount of such undue preference, unless the trustee will indemnify and save him harmless in respect of Bona fide purchases by third parties of subject of undue preference from creditor preferred.

91. And be it enacted, that if any person shall lawfully, bonâ fide, and without notice, purchase or acquire any bills of exchange, promissory notes, or other securities for money, or any goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, which have been alienated, transferred, given, ceded, or delivered by any insolvent, under circumstances or in a manner declared by any of the preceding or succeeding sections of this Ordinance to be null and void, from any person to whom such bills, notes, goods, or effects, were so alienated, transferred, given, ceded, or delivered, by any true bargain or agreement upon just and valuable consideration, nothing contained in this Ordinance shall extend or be construed to extend to annul or affect any right which any such person has lawfully, bonâ fide, and without notice, purchased or acquired in such bills or notes, goods, or effects. But in all such cases the persons to whom the same were alienated, transferred, given, ceded, or delivered by the insolvent, shall be bound and obliged to pay the true value of all such goods and effects, by them disposed of to the third party, to the trustee or trustees of the insolvent estate for the benefit of the creditors thereof.

Collusive and fraudulent discharge of debt given by insolvent.

92. (1) And be it enacted, that all acquittances, surrenders, or discharges of any just debt, or of any security for any just debt, or other matter or thing, payment or delivery of which has not been actually and bonâ fide received, made by any insolvent while contemplating the sequestration of his estate, having the effect to deprive his creditors of the benefit of any debt or other matter or thing, shall be, and are hereby declared to be, as against the trustee or trustees of such insolvent, null and void. And in every case in which the person accepting from the insolvent any such acquittance, surrender or discharge as aforesaid had, at the time of accepting the same, actual knowledge or reasonable notice that the effect of the same, if undetected, would be to deprive the creditors in the insolvent estate of the debt or other matter or thing in question, such person, shall besides making good such debt, matter or thing to the trustee or trustees of the insolvent estate, be also bound and obliged to pay to such trustee or trustees a further sum equal to the value of the debt or other matter or thing, originally due and owing, and wrongfully acquitted, surrendered or discharged, or attempted so to be.

Dealings with insolvent estate after the order of sequestration.

93. (1) And be it enacted, that all alienations, transfers, gifts, cessions, deliveries, mortgages, or pledges of any goods or effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, belonging to the insolvent estate, and all payments, and all acquittances, surrenders, and discharges of any just debt due to such insolvent estate, or of any security for any such just debt, or of any other matter or thing belonging or owing to the said estate, made by any insolvent after any order for the sequestration of his estate has been made, and before the making of the order of Court allowing and confirming as hereinafter mentioned, the account and plan of distribution to be framed by the trustees, shall be and are hereby declared to be null and void, the several payments and alienations which such insolvent is by virtue of the forty-ninth section of this Ordinance rendered competent to make, alone excepted.

94. And be it enacted, that all payment or satisfaction made to any insolvent by any person who was the debtor of such insolvent at the time of the making of any order for the sequestration of the insolvent's estate, after the making such order shall be null and void; except only that where the sequestration of such estate shall have been adjudged at the instance of the creditors thereof, all payment or satisfaction really and bonâ fide made to any such insolvent or to any person legally entitled to receive the same on his behalf, before such sequestration has been adjudged, shall be valid and effectual, in case any such person as aforesaid making such payment or satisfaction had not, when so doing, notice of any order for the sequestration of the estate of the insolvent having been made.

Bona fide payments by debtors to insolvent after the order of sequestration.

95. (1) And be it enacted, that every provision hereinbefore contained relative to what shall be deemed to be undue preferences made by persons contemplating the sequestration of their own estates, and to the avoiding of the same, and to the forfeiture, under certain circumstances, of the amount of every such preference, shall be deemed and taken to apply, mutatis mutandis, to preferences given out of the assets of the estates which they administer by persons legally invested with the administration of the estates of deceased persons, and of persons legally or actually incapable of the administration of their estate, when such persons, so invested, contemplating the sequestration of the estates which they administer and intend to prefer some one or more creditors of any such estate before the other creditors thereof.

Undue preferences given by executors and the like persons.

96. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees of the insolvent estate of any deceased person, or of the insolvent estate of any person legally or actually incapable of the administration of his estate, to demand and recover either from the person legally administering such estate before the sequestration thereof, and by whom any such undue preference shall have been given, out of the assets of such estate, or from the person to whom, or for whose benefit, such undue preference shall have been given, the value or amount of such undue preference, or such trustee or trustees may sue such persons successively. Provided always, that it shall not be competent for any such trustee or trustees to require the restoration or repayment of such undue preference, or of the amount thereof, from both such persons as aforesaid concurrently, or to recover from them both, when sued successively, more than the single value or amount of such undue preference, together with the costs and charges of such trustee or trustees.

Transaction by trustee of claims by estate on third parties.

97. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees, subject to the directions of the creditors given in the manner hereinbefore mentioned, to agree, if he or they should think fit, to any offer of composition made by any debtor of the insolvent estate who is himself insolvent, or to the certificate of any such insolvent, and to compound with any debtor to the insolvent estate, and take any reasonable part of the debt in discharge of the whole, or to give a reasonable time or take security for the payment of such debt, or to submit any dispute between them and any person concerning or affecting the said estate to the determination of arbitrators, to be chosen by the trustee or trustees and the party with whom they shall have such dispute; and the award of such arbitrators shall be binding on all the creditors: Provided always, that previous notice of their intention so to agree to any offer of composition, or to any certificate, or to compound any debt, or submit any dispute to arbitration has been given for twenty-eight days, at least, by advertisement in the Government Gazette. And for the purpose of such offer of composition or certificate, the trustees signing, if more than one, shall reckon only as one creditor in number and value.

Sale by trustee of sequestrated estate.

98. (1) And be it enacted, that the trustee or trustees shall, subject to the directions of the creditors given in the manner hereinbefore provided, forthwith proceed to make sale of all the property belonging to the said estate, movable and immovable, giving due notice thereof in the Government Gazette, and also such other notice as they shall think fit: Provided, that from the sale of the said movable property shall be excepted, until the creditors shall determine thereon, the wearing apparel, bedding, household furniture, and tools of trade of the insolvent and his family; and provided, that the sale of all immovable property shall take place in such manner and under such conditions as shall be determined on by the greater part in number and value of the creditors present at any meeting duly summoned: provided, however, that such conditions shall be subject to the approval or disapproval of the Supreme Court, or of any Circuit Court, on the application of any person interested in the due administration or reversion of the estate under sequestration.

number and value of the creditors who shall have proved their debts, present at any meeting, whereof and of the purpose of which twenty-eight days' notice shall have been given in the Government Gazette, to permit the said insolvent to retain for his own use the whole or such part of his wearing apparel, bedding, household furniture, and tools of trade, excepted from the sale of his movable property, as the said creditors shall agree to allow the said insolvent. Provided that every such permission shall be subject to the approval or disapproval of the Supreme or any Circuit Court, on the application of any person interested in the due administration of the estate.

Ord. 6—1843.

100. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for, and shall be the duty of the creditors of any insolvent estate, at the meeting held for the election of trustees, immediately after such election, in case such election shall take place at such meeting, and in case such election shall not then take place, then immediately after the votes of the said creditors in regard to such election shall have been given, to nominate and appoint some certain bank or banks within this Colony, with which bank or banks it shall be the duty of the trustee or trustees of such estate to open an account, and, in case of a difference of opinion amongst the said creditors assembled at such meeting, the greater part in value of the said creditors shall determine upon the bank or banks to be so nominated and appointed as aforesaid, and from and after any such nomination and appointment of any such bank or banks, the trustee or trustees of such insolvent estate, whether chosen by the creditors or provisionally appointed, shall, as soon as he or they shall receive any sum of money exceeding twenty pounds belonging to such estate, open an account with such bank or banks in the name of the insolvent estate, and such sum and every other sum exceeding twenty pounds so received by him or them shall, with all convenient speed, be paid into such bank or banks, to be placed to the credit of such account, and all checks or orders for the payment of any such money out of the said bank or banks shall truly express the cause of such payment and the name of the person in whose favour it is drawn, and shall be signed by all the trustees or by one of them for himself and co-trustees. Provided that in case the creditors of any insolvent estate shall neglect, in manner aforesaid, to nominate any such bank or banks as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the trustee or trustees aforesaid to open an account with, and pay all such moneys as aforesaid into any such bank or banks in this Colony as he or they shall select. And provided that every provisional trustee appointed under this Ordinance before the meeting of creditors for the election of trustees shall, pending such meeting, open an account with, and pay all such moneys as aforesaid into, any such bank or banks in this Colony as he shall select. And provided that all trustees whether provisional or elected, shall, in regard to the bank or banks with which such account as aforesaid

101. And be it enacted, that any trustee who shall retain in his hands, or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to retain, any sum of money exceeding twenty pounds sterling, part of any insolvent estate, longer than until the first day after his receiving the same, upon which it shall be possible for him to pay the said sum, or cause it to be paid, into some such bank or banks as aforesaid, and who shall not have any just and lawful cause for so retaining the same, or shall employ for his own benefit, or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to employ, any sum of money, part of any insolvent estate, shall forfeit and pay, for the benefit of the said estate, double the amount of the sum so retained or employed: and the said sum so forfeited shall be deducted out of any claim the said trustee may have against the said estate, and the surplus, if any, shall be recovered by action in any competent Court.

Accounts to be kept by trustee.

102. And be it enacted, that the trustee or trustees shall keep an account, wherein they shall enter all property of the insolvent received by them, and all payments made by them on account of the insolvent's estate; which account every creditor who shall have proved, may inspect at all reasonable times. And it shall and may be lawful for the Master of the said Court, whenever he shall think fit, to summon the said trustee or trustees, by writing under his hand, to produce the said book, and the said Master shall, as often as he shall see fit examine and inspect the same.

Election by trustee as to adopting purchases by insolvent of immovable property.

103. And be it enacted, that if any insolvent shall have entered into any agreement for the purchase or exchange of any estate or interest in any immovable property, it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees of such insolvent, either to abide by, execute, and sue for performance of such agreement, or abandon ⁽¹⁾ the same; and, if the said trustees shall not (upon being thereto required) elect whether they will abide by and execute such agreement, or abandon the same, the vendor, or person having made such agreement as aforesaid, or anyone legally claiming under him, shall be entitled to apply, by motion, to the Supreme Court, or to any Circuit Court, who may thereupon order the said trustees to deliver up any such agreement, and the possession of the premises to the vendor or person so agreeing as aforesaid, or any one claiming under him, or may make such other order therein, as the said Court shall think fit: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent such vendor, or person having made such agreement as aforesaid, from suing the trustee or trustees in any competent Court, and recovering judgment against the insolvent estate for any damage which he shall prove to the satisfaction of such Court to have been by him sustained by the non-fulfilment, on the part of the insolvent, of any such agreement, or deprive the said trustee or trustees of their legal defence against such suit.

Ord. 6—1843.

104. And be it enacted, that if any insolvent, shall be entitled to any lease, or agreement for any lease of immovable property, such lease or agreement for lease shall, upon the surrender or adjudication of sequestration of the estate of such insolvent, cease and determine: (1) Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the lessor, or person having made such agreement, from suing the trustee or trustees in any competent Court, and from recovering judgment against the insolvent estate for any rent which he shall prove to the satisfaction of such Court to have been due by the insolvent prior to the surrender or adjudication of sequestration of his estate, or for any damage which he shall prove to the satisfaction of such Court to have been by him sustained, in consequence of the non-performance of the conditions of such lease or agreement for a lease during the full period of the stipulated endurance thereof, or to deprive the trustee or trustees of their legal defence against such suit; or to prevent such trustee or trustees from suing the lessor or person having made such agreement in any competent Court, for the amount of any ameliorations made on the subject, and in contemplation of such lease or agreement, by the insolvent, prior to the surrender or adjudication of sequestration of his estate, or to deprive such lessor or person of his legal defence against such suit; and provided also that it shall be lawful for such trustee or trustees, when sued for damages for the non-fulfilment of such lease or agreement for a lease, to offer to take over and accept the same, and to perform the conditions thereof, during the full period of the stipulated endurance thereof; and that it shall be lawful for such lessor or person having made such agreement, when sued for the amount of such ameliorations as aforesaid, to offer to receive the trustee or trustees, as lessors in the place of the insolvent, under the conditions and for the full period of the stipulated endurance of such lease; and if such offer shall be refused, the party who has made it shall be absolved from the suit in which it has been made, and shall be entitled to his costs.

Leases terminated by sequestration.

Saving rights of action to lessor.

Saving claim of trustee for ameliorations.

Action upon lease may be avoided by adopting it.

105. And be it enacted, that no person from whom any insolvent shall have purchased any property, movable or immovable, personal or real, and who shall have delivered or caused or permitted such property to be delivered to such insolvent, shall be entitled either to claim such property being in the sequestered estate, or to claim to be preferred, in any way, for the price or value thereof, by reason alone that such property was sold by such person to such insolvent without any period having been stipulated, until the expiration of which period the price should not be payable, or upon any actual agreement or tacit understanding that such price should be paid or payable forthwith. Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to alter or affect any previous law in force in this Colony, in regard to the right of a vendor to rescind any sale and reclaim his property on account of fraud and circumvention practised upon him by the purchaser, except only in so far as the matters aforesaid hereby declared to be of themselves not sufficient to entitle any such vendor to claim again property sold and delivered, shall have been deemed to amount to, or to be conclusive evidence of, such fraud and circumvention; and provided, also, that nothing herein contained shall apply to any case in which any such vendor shall, within three ⁽¹⁾ days of the delivery of any property sold as aforesaid, reclaim by notice in writing, the possession of the said property, and proceed thereafter, without any unnecessary delay to enforce the re-delivery of the said property by means of legal process.

Offer of composition by or for insolvent.

106. And be it enacted, that, if at the third public meeting of the creditors, appointed by the Master of the Supreme Court, as aforesaid, or at any subsequent meeting of the creditors assembled together by advertisement in the Government Gazette, stating the purpose of such meeting, the insolvent, or any person on his behalf, shall make an offer of composition, or security for composition, which nine-tenths of the creditors in number and value assembled at such meeting shall agree to accept, the trustee or trustees shall forthwith call another meeting for the purpose of deciding upon such offer, whereof at least forty-two days' notice shall be given by advertisement in the Government Gazette, specifying the time, place, and purpose of such meeting; and if, at such second meeting, nine tenths in number and value of the creditors then present shall also agree to accept such offer, then upon such acceptance being certified to the Supreme Court, by the Master of the said Court, and upon oath of the insolvent, that he has made a full and fair surrender of his estate, and has not granted or promised any preference or security, or made or promised any payment, or entered into any secret or collusive agreement or transaction, to obtain the concurrence of any creditor to the said offer of composition, it shall be lawful for the said Court, upon motion, to pronounce, if it should so think fit, a decree discharging the insolvent from all debts due by him at the time his estate was surrendered or adjudged to be sequestrated, and from all claims and demands proved or hereby made provable or claimable against his estate, and declaring the sequestration at an end, and the insolvent re-invested with his estate, but reserving, however, always the claims of the creditors for such composition, or security for composition, as may have been agreed for and be still unexecuted. Provided that at least twenty-one days' notice of the day on which such motion as aforesaid is to be made shall have been given by advertisement in the Government Gazette, and that the said Court shall hear any objection which may be made by any creditor against the pronouncing of such decree, and shall determine thereupon as the justice of the case shall require. Provided also, that if the creditors present at any such second meeting as aforesaid, and agreeing to the offer of composition, do not amount in number and value to four fifths in number and value of the whole of the creditors who have proved debts against the insolvent estate, then the acceptance of such offer of composition by at least four fifths in number and value of such lastmentioned creditors must be certified to the said Court by the said Master at the time of the making of the said motion. And provided, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed so as to affect the right of any creditor entitled by law to be paid in preference, in so far as such creditor shall be so entitled, unless such creditor shall expressly consent to give up his preference, and be bound by the said composition, and no creditor by accepting any such offer of composition shall be deprived of his right to claim from any person bound to him as surety for the insolvent, the balance of the debt secured. And provided that the Court aforesaid shall not, in any case, pronounce the decree aforesaid until it shall be satisfied that no injury or injustice will thereby be done to any person who has been allowed by the said Court to enter a claim upon the insolvent estate, and who shall not, at the time of the making of such motion as aforesaid, have yet proved his debt, and until the said Court shall have made or caused to be made inquiry, by taking the oath of the insolvent, or otherwise, whether there are not other creditors having just and lawful debts and claims against the estate of such insolvent, and who, by reason of absence from the Colony or other causes, may not have proved or claimed against the said estate. And provided that if, upon such inquiry, it shall appear to the said Court that there are such just and lawful debts and claims, it shall not be competent for the said Court to pronounce such decree as aforesaid, until it shall have been certified to such Court by the said Master that there has been paid to or deposited with him, or to or with some other person or persons with his approbation, for and on account of such other just and lawful creditors as aforesaid, whatever amount, according to the terms of the composition, they would have been entitled to receive in case they had proved their debts. And provided that no sum of money or other matter or thing which shall be impounded or secured for any person who has entered a claim upon the insolvent estate, or any such creditor as last aforesaid, shall, after any discharge of the insolvent as in this section provided, revert to such insolvent, but the same, in case the person or persons on whose behalf it was so impounded or secured, shall not, within such reasonable time as the Supreme Court shall fix, prove title to and

Release of estate
from sequestration

107. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, upon the application of any insolvent, to release, if it should so think fit, the estate of such insolvent from sequestration, whenever it shall be certified to the said Court by the Master of the said Court, that all creditors who have proved debts or entered claims against such estate, have testified in writing, their consent to such release, or whenever it shall be certified by the said Master that all the creditors who have proved debts or entered claims as aforesaid, have been paid, or have had tendered to, or deposited for them, as the case may be, the full amount, as well principal as interest, of their several demands. Provided that no such application to release any such estate from sequestration under the provisions of this section shall be capable of being granted until after the third meeting of creditors as hereinbefore mentioned shall have been held. And provided that it shall be lawful, for the said Court, before granting any such application as aforesaid, to make or cause to be made such inquiry relative to the existence of other just and lawful creditors who have neither proved nor claimed as is in the last preceding section mentioned, and thereupon to grant or refuse such application, and that either absolutely or conditionally, as to the said Court shall seem just. And provided that no such release as aforesaid shall be construed to be a discharge of the insolvent, or to alter or affect, in any way, the rights of any creditors of any such insolvent who have neither proved debts nor entered claims upon the insolvent estate, which rights shall be judged of after any such release exactly as if such estate had never been surrendered.

108. (1) And be it enacted, that the trustee or trustees of any insolvent estate shall, as soon as may be, and not later than six months after their appointment, unless upon application to the Supreme Court, upon sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the said Court, further time be given for that purpose, frame and lay before the Master of the said Court, an exact account and balance of the said estate, containing the proceeds of all sales and debts then collected, and an account of all debts still outstanding, and an inventory of all property and effects still unsold, and also all debts due by the said estate; and shall also form a general plan for distribution of the assets of the said estate, specifying, first, such creditors as are preferent by law in the order of their legal preference, and, secondly, the concurrent creditors, and as nearly as may be, the probable balance which will remain for division amongst them. And when and as often as the usual place of residence of any insolvent shall be in any district of this Colony, other than Cape Town and the district thereof, or the Cape Division, the trustee or trustees of that insolvent shall, before laying the account and plan aforesaid before the said Master, lay the same before the Resident Magistrate of such district, in whose office it shall remain for the inspection of creditors, for at least seven days, and every such Resident Magistrate shall cause to be affixed in some public place in or about his said office, a list of all insolvent estates in which such account and plan as aforesaid remains, for the time being, for inspection, together with the date of its intended transmission.

Ord. 6—1843.

Account and plan to be exhibited in magistrate's office.

109. And be it enacted, that, as soon as the Master shall receive from the trustees any such account of the estate and plan for distribution, the same shall lie open in his office, for the inspection of the creditors, a reasonable time, to be appointed by the said Master, not being less than fourteen days from the advertisement thereof, according to the distance from Cape Town of the residence of any creditor who has proved a debt against the said estate; and the said trustee or trustees shall cause notice thereof to be given in the Government Gazette, and that the Supreme Court will thereupon be moved to confirm and allow the said account and distribution of the estate.

Plan and account also to lie in master's office.

110. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the insolvent or any party interested in the estate under sequestration, and for any creditor who may consider himself aggrieved by the said plan of distribution, within the time aforesaid, to enter his objection in writing with the said Master, stating the grounds thereof; and, also, it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court to permit such objection to be entered at any time before the final confirmation of the said plan upon sufficient cause to be shown to the satisfaction of the said Court, and upon such terms as the said Court shall impose.

Objections to plan of distribution.

111. And be it enacted, that any person objecting to the said account or plan of distribution shall apply to the Supreme Court, on motion, calling upon the trustees, and also upon the party whose interest might be affected thereby, to show cause why the said plan should not be altered or amended as the case may be, and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said Court, upon hearing the said parties, to make such order thereon, as to the said Court shall seem fit: Provided that, when any alteration or amendment shall be ordered in the said plan, whereby the interest of any party who has not made appearance in the said Court shall be affected, the same shall again lie open for inspection of the creditors, and notice thereof shall be given as aforesaid.

Disposal of objections.

Exhibition of plan after alterations upon it.

112. And be enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees, after the expiration of the time appointed for the inspection of the said account and plan of distribution, and no

- Effect of confirmation. Distribution of estate. 113. And be it enacted, that after confirmation and allowance of the said account and plan of distribution, the trustees shall, upon the demand of the said creditors, distribute the said estate according thereto, and the remedy of any creditor to obtain payment of any dividend due to him shall be, during the continuance in office of the said trustee or trustees to the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, by motion.
- Scheme of division. 114. And be it enacted that if it shall, from the nature and circumstances of the insolvent estate, be found impracticable to frame the plan of distribution aforesaid, so as to arrange the distribution according thereto, of the whole of the insolvent estate, then the trustee or trustees shall, as soon as may be, after the allowance and confirmation of the said plan, and not later than six months after such allowance and confirmation, unless upon application to the Supreme Court, upon sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the said Court, further time be given for that purpose, frame and lay before the Master a scheme of division which shall contain an account of such of the matters hereinbefore required in regard to the account and plan of distribution in the one hundred and eighth section of this Ordinance mentioned, as the then state and condition of the assets of the insolvent estate shall permit, and shall duly apportion the funds in hand amongst the creditors, and the like proceedings in all respects shall be had and taken relative to the said scheme of division as are hereinbefore prescribed in regard to the said account and plan of distribution, and after the allowance and confirmation of such scheme of division, the dividends declared thereby shall be distributed, and there shall be the like remedy as aforesaid for obtaining the same.
- Successive schemes of division. And if it shall happen that the whole of any insolvent estate shall not be included in one such scheme or division as aforesaid, then as soon as may be after the framing of the same, but not later (except as hereinbefore excepted) than six months after the date on which the six months above fixed for the framing of the first scheme of division shall have expired, a second such scheme of division shall, in like manner and form be framed and proceeded on, and so on from six months to six months until the whole estate shall have been wound up, and finally distributed.

115. And be it enacted, that the trustee or trustees shall, whenever any dividend is payable, give a public notice in the Government Gazette, stating that such dividend is in course of payment, and calling upon all creditors entitled thereto, to apply for, and receive the same; and in case any dividend or dividends shall remain unclaimed for the space of six months from the date of such notice, then it shall be the duty of the trustee or trustees, should he or they still continue in office, or of the Master of the Supreme Court, should the said trustee or trustees have been discharged, to pay such unclaimed dividend or dividends into the guardian ⁽¹⁾ fund to the credit of the parties entitled, there to be subject to the same provisions, in all respects, which are provided by the Ordinance No. 105, bearing date the 5th July, 1833, in regard to moneys placed in the said fund belonging to persons absent from the Colony. And if any trustee or trustees shall neglect to pay, in manner aforesaid into the said fund, by the hands of the said Master, any dividend remaining unclaimed for the space and term aforesaid, such trustee or trustees shall forfeit and pay, for the benefit of the Colonial Treasury, any sum not exceeding the amount of the dividend or dividends unduly retained, which shall be awarded by the Supreme Court, and it shall be lawful for the said Master to summon any such trustee or trustees to show cause before the said Court, why he or they should not be adjudged to pay to him the amount of any such dividend or dividends, as also the fine or forfeiture aforesaid, and the said Court shall summarily make such decision thereon as to it shall seem meet. And the said Master shall be, at all times, after the confirmation and allowance of the plan of distribution, authorised and entitled to call upon such trustee or trustees to show, by vouchers or other sufficient proof, what number of the dividends payable are actually paid; and for the purpose of the penalty hereby imposed, any neglect or refusal to produce such vouchers, or other sufficient evidence to prove the payment of any given dividend, shall amount to prima facie proof that the same is still unclaimed. And it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court, in case of disobedience, by any such trustee or trustees, to any order or decision of such Court, made by virtue of this, or of the one hundred and thirteenth section, to direct the sum in question to be levied by attachment and sale of the goods of the offender, or otherwise to commit such offender to prison until he shall obey such order, or until the said Court shall order his liberation, or otherwise, to apply both remedies, and that either concurrently or successively, as the Court shall see fit.

116. And be it enacted, that when any trustee desires to resign his office, or so soon as the plan of distribution of the insolvent estate has been confirmed, it shall be lawful for such trustee to apply to the Supreme Court, by motion, for leave to resign his office, and to be discharged and acquitted of the said trust; and, if no valid objection be stated, and if the Court be satisfied that the trustee has complied with the regulations of this Ordinance, so far as regards him, his application may be granted by the said Court; but if any objection be stated thereto, the Court shall proceed to determine the same in a summary manner, and shall make such order thereon as they shall think fit. And if the application of the trustee for leave to resign be granted, the said Court shall thereupon make such order as they shall see fit, for the preservation and administration of the estate, until a new trustee be chosen and confirmed, and for the discharge and acquittance of the said trustee, and for the security and payment of any unclaimed dividends to the parties entitled to the same. Provided always, that no order of the said Court allowing the said trustee to resign, shall prevent the trustee thereafter chosen and confirmed in his stead from calling upon him to account for any part of his conduct as trustee prior to his resignation: and provided always, that before making any application for leave to resign, the trustee shall make out a full statement of his accounts, and of the situation of the insolvent estate, and shall call a meeting of the creditors to consider the same, of which meeting at least twenty-eight days' notice shall be given by advertisement in the Government Gazette, intimating the purpose of the meeting, and also, that the aforesaid statement will, in the meantime, lie open for their inspection in the office of the Master of the Supreme Court.

said Court shall judge and determine thereon, and shall refuse or suspend the said certificate, or allow the same absolutely or conditionally, as the justice of the case shall require. Provided always that where in consequence of the goods and effects of the insolvent being under the value of seventy-five pounds sterling, the proceedings in such case directed by the thirty-second clause of this Ordinance shall have taken place, it shall be lawful for such insolvent at any time, not being less than three months after the said first meeting, to apply to his creditors for a certificate as aforesaid.

Ord. 6—1843.

118 (1) And be it enacted, that, if any insolvent shall have committed any act herein declared to amount to the crime of fraudulent insolvency, such insolvent shall not be entitled to his certificate or allowance, and any certificate and allowance, which such insolvent may have obtained, shall be null and void.

Fraudulent insolvent not to have discharge.

119. And be it enacted, that all preferences, gratuities, securities or payments granted, made, or promised by any insolvent, to or in trust for any creditor of such insolvent, and all secret and collusive agreements and transactions intended to persuade any such creditor to accept any offer of composition, or security for composition, or to consent to sign such certificate shall be, and are hereby declared to be null and void: and any creditor who shall have received any money, matter, or thing, or promise of the same, as a consideration for or inducement to such creditor to accept any such composition, or sign any such certificate as aforesaid, shall forfeit a sum equal to the amount of whatever debt such creditor originally proved upon the insolvent estate, together with the amount of whatever money, matter, or thing he may have received from such insolvent, as such consideration or inducement as aforesaid, and also the amount of any composition which may have been paid or secured to such creditor: and all such moneys, matters, or things hereby declared to be claimable or recoverable from any such creditor, shall and may be sued for and recovered in any competent Court by any person who was a creditor of such insolvent estate at the time of the acceptance of any such composition, or the signing of any such certificate, for the use and benefit of such person jointly with that of all such other persons who were also creditors at the time aforesaid, as shall within twenty-eight days after a public notice in the Government Gazette, signed by the person purposing to sue, join and concur in the bringing of such suit, and agree to contribute to the expense thereof; but no such notice need set forth the name of the party intended to be sued, or state more than that legal proceedings are intended to be taken under this section in a certain case of which the particulars may be learned from the person signing the said notice.

Residue of estate.

121. And be it enacted, that in every case any residue of the insolvent estate which may remain after the payment of all claims thereupon, shall be paid to the insolvent or his legal representatives, to whom shall also be restored the property of, and in all debts and assets belonging to the estate which may, after the satisfaction as aforesaid, of all claims, remain or be outstanding.

Trustee becoming insolvent, as such, effect of as to his discharge.

122. And be it enacted, that any trustee becoming insolvent, and being indebted to the estate, of which he was trustee, in respect of any sum of money improperly retained or employed by him, if he shall obtain his certificate and allowance thereof shall not be discharged thereby, as to his future effects, in respect of the said debt, and such insolvent shall be for ever incapable of being again elected a trustee under this Ordinance.

Discharge answers to action for previous debts.

123. And be it further enacted, that any insolvent, who, after his certificate has been allowed, shall have any action brought against him for any debt, claim, or demand due by him at the time his estate was surrendered or adjudged to be sequestered, proved or hereby made provable, or in any manner claimable, against his estate, may plead in general that the cause of action accrued before he surrendered his estate, or the same was sequestered aforesaid, and may give this Ordinance and the special matter in evidence; and such insolvent's certificate and allowance thereof shall be sufficient evidence of the insolvency, surrender, or adjudication, and other proceedings precedent to the obtaining the said certificate and allowance thereof; and if any such insolvent shall be taken in execution, or detained in prison for such debt, claim, or demand, where judgment has been obtained before the allowance of his certificate, it shall be lawful for any Judge of the Court wherein judgment has been obtained (or for any Judge of the Supreme Court) on such insolvent's producing his certificate and allowance thereof, to order any gaoler or officer who shall have the said insolvent in custody by virtue of the said execution, to discharge him therefrom, so far as regards such estate, without exacting any fee from the defendant, and the said gaoler or officer shall be and is hereby indemnified for so doing.

And ground for release from execution.

Imprisonment of insolvent.

124. And be it enacted, that at any time after the plan for distribution of any insolvent estate has been confirmed in manner hereinbefore mentioned, or after the distribution of the said estate has been directed to be made under the provisions of the twenty-fifth clause of this Ordinance and before the insolvent shall have obtained his certificate and allowance thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the trustees, or any creditor of the said estate, to apply to the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court, by motion, for the process of the said Court for the civil imprisonment ⁽¹⁾ of the said insolvent; provided the said insolvent shall first have been duly summoned to appear before such Court on the day whenever the said motion shall be made, to show cause why process of civil imprisonment should not be issued against him, and thereupon, and upon proof, to the satisfaction of the said Court, that the said estate is not sufficient to discharge the debts proved or provable against the said estate as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for the Court to which such application shall be made, to grant the same absolutely or conditionally, or to refuse the same, as to the said Court shall seem just. Provided that, when the application for civil imprisonment has been made by one or more creditors, and the said Court shall suspend the same upon the condition of the insolvent paying any sum of money, such payment shall be made to the trustees or to the Master of the Court, as the case may be, for the benefit of the creditor or creditors making the application, and of such other creditors as shall, before distribution, claim to be admitted to a share thereof.

Ord. 6-1843.

125. And be it enacted that at any time after the plan for the distribution of any insolvent estate has been confirmed in manner hereinbefore mentioned, or after the distribution of the said estate has been directed to be made under the provisions of the twenty-fifth clause of this Ordinance, and before the insolvent shall have obtained his certificate and the allowance thereof, it shall and may be lawful for any insolvent to apply to the Supreme or any Circuit Court, by motion, for a decree of such Court, declaring such insolvent not liable to process of civil imprisonment for or in respect of any debt, claim or demand, proved or provable, or in any manner claimable against the insolvent estate. Provided that at least six weeks' notice of the day on which such motion is to be made shall have been given by advertisement in the Government Gazette; and upon the making of such motion, any creditor of the insolvent estate who has not been fully paid and satisfied, may be heard against making the said decree, and such Court having regard to the conformity of the insolvent to the provisions of this Ordinance, and to his conduct, as well before as since the sequestration of his estate, and to his ability to pay from time to time or otherwise any sum or sums of money for the benefit of such creditors as aforesaid, and, generally to the justice of the case, shall judge of any objection against the making of such decree, and either find the insolvent entitled thereto, and make the same, or refuse or suspend the making thereof, or annex such conditions thereto as circumstances shall render just. And every such decree declaring any insolvent not liable to the process of civil imprisonment in respect of any of the matters aforesaid, shall have the same effect in protecting his person from such process as his certificate and the allowance thereof would have had. But no such decree shall have any effect whatever, either upon the assets of the insolvent estate, or upon the right and power of any such creditor to proceed, in manner and form as hereinafter mentioned, against the future acquired property of such insolvent (so long as he shall remain without his certificate and the allowance thereof), in order to obtain payment of his debt. Provided, that upon cause shown to the satisfaction of such Court, establishing that any such decree as aforesaid was fraudulently or unduly obtained, it shall be competent for such Court to recall the same, and thereupon the condition of the insolvent shall be judged of precisely as if it never had been made.

Competency of insolvent to acquire property.

126. And be it enacted, that from and after the making of the decree aforesaid, confirming the account and plan of distribution of the insolvent estate aforesaid, the insolvent, although he shall not have obtained his certificate and the allowance thereof, shall be competent to acquire and possess, for his own use and as his own property, all such goods and effects, movable or immovable, personal or real, as may be purchased or acquired by him, or may revert, descend, or be devised or come to him in manner whatsoever other than by virtue of any right of reversion which was vested in the insolvent at the date of the order for the sequestration of his estate, precisely as if the estate of such insolvent had never been placed under sequestration.

Execution against insolvent for deficiency of estate.

127. (1) And be it enacted that in every case in which any insolvent shall not have obtained the allowance of his certificate as hereinbefore mentioned, it shall and may be lawful for the trustee or trustees of the insolvent estate, should any such be, or for the Master of the Supreme Court, or for any creditor of the insolvent estate, to whom it shall appear by such account and plan as aforesaid or any such scheme of division as aforesaid, that any portion of his debt is still due and owing, to apply to the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court, by motion, of which notice shall be given to said insolvent, for leave to issue execution against such insolvent, for any sum not exceeding the whole amount of the deficiency which shall at the time of making such application exist in the insolvent estate; and the said Court, upon being satisfied by affidavit or otherwise, that a certain deficiency does so exist, and that there are reasonable grounds for believing that there are assets belonging to the insolvent capable of satisfying the same, wholly or in part, shall allow a writ of execution to be issued, and such writ of execution shall be executed in the like manner as writs of execution issued upon judgments of the said Court, and every attachment or levy made thereunder, and every incident belonging thereto, as well in regard to the right of other writs of execution lodged in the hands of the Sheriff, or other proper officer of the law, to share in the proceeds levied and made, as otherwise, shall be judged of upon the same principles which do or shall by law belong to ordinary writs of execution; and the proceeds of every execution levied under the provisions of this section shall be paid by the Sheriff or other proper officer of the law to the trustee or trustees of the insolvent estate, if such there be, or, if there be none such, to the Master of the Supreme Court, and every such payment by the said Sheriff or other proper officer of the law shall be deemed in law to be the distribution of the proceeds of the writ of execution, and the amount of any such proceeds which shall be so paid to any such trustee or trustees, or to the said Master, after deducting thereout any costs which shall have been properly incurred by the party realising the same, shall be divided amongst all such creditors of the insolvent estate as shall before the distribution thereof claim to be admitted to participate in the same; Provided that the said trustee or trustees, or the said Master, as the case may be, shall distribute such proceeds ratably and proportionably amongst the creditors so claiming, except that if the said proceeds shall have arisen out of an execution issued at the instance of any concurrent creditor, such creditor shall receive a dividend greater by five shillings in the pound than that receivable by any other creditor of equal rank, and if by reason of there being preferent creditors in the said estate, or from any other cause the said recompense shall be deemed inadequate, it shall be lawful for the Master of the Supreme Court to award to such concurrent creditor such reasonable commission in lieu thereof as he shall think fit, subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court: provided also, that no division of such proceeds shall be made by any such trustee or trustees, or by the said Master, until after twenty-one days' previous notice shall have been given in the Government Gazette.

Ord. 6—1843.

Proceeds of execution how to be applied.

128. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Chief Justice of this Colony, or any other of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to accept, if he shall see cause so to do, the surrender of the estate of any insolvent who shall not have obtained his certificate and the allowance thereof, at any time after the making of the decree of Court confirming the plan of distribution as aforesaid, and the estate of any such insolvent may be adjudged to be sequestered at the instance of his creditors, as well those whose debts remain unsatisfied from any former sequestration (if there shall have been more sequestrations than one), as those whose debts have been incurred since the making, for the last time, of such decree as aforesaid, precisely as if the estate of such insolvent had never been placed under sequestration.

Fresh surrender by undischarged insolvents.

129. And be it enacted, that in addition to the several matters and things hereinbefore mentioned and declared to be respectively acts of insolvency, all of which are hereby declared to be applicable to the case of every such insolvent as is in the last preceding section Compulsory sequestration against undischarged insolvents.

Ord. 6—1843.

mentioned, equally with every other person, the suffering of any attachment to be laid on, under and by virtue of any writ of execution issued under and by virtue of the one hundred and twenty-seventh section of this Ordinance, and the subjecting himself by any such insolvent to the issuing against him of the process of civil imprisonment, under and by virtue of the one hundred and twenty-fourth section of this Ordinance, shall be deemed to be, respectively, acts of insolvency in the case of every such insolvent as aforesaid, and shall entitle any creditor or creditors whose debt or debts is or are of the competent amount, and has or have accrued since the making of the last decree confirming such account and plan of distribution as aforesaid, to petition in manner and form as by this Ordinance is provided, to have the estate of such insolvent as aforesaid sequestered for the benefit of his creditors. But no order for sequestration issued in regard to the estate of any such insolvent shall discharge or affect any process of civil imprisonment which may have been issued under and by virtue of the one hundred and twenty-fourth section of this Ordinance, unless the Chief Justice, or other Judge making such order should, as he is hereby authorised to do, otherwise direct.

Ranking under fresh sequestration of creditors under former sequestration.

130. And be it enacted, that as often as the estate of any insolvent, remaining as aforesaid uncertificated, shall be again sequestered as insolvent, the creditors under any former sequestration shall prove debts and rank upon the insolvent estate for whatever balance shall still be due and owing to them, respectively, according to the nature of their respective debts, whether preferent or concurrent, just as if the last order for sequestration had been the only such order ever issued.

Preferences by undischarged insolvent.

131. And be it enacted, that in determining all questions relating to undue preferences given by any insolvent remaining as aforesaid uncertificated, and the proceedings thereon, and the consequences thereof, the creditors under any former sequestration, and those who have first become such since the making of the last decree confirming the account and plan of distribution, shall be considered as one body and without difference or distinction, except in so far as in particular cases, the circumstances of the one class of creditors or of the other may affect, as matter of evidence, the application of the principles hereinbefore, in regard to such questions as aforesaid, stated and set forth.

Master to publish certain lists every six months.

132. (1) The Master of the Supreme Court shall, as soon as may be after the 31st day of March and the 30th day of September in each year, cause to be published in the Gazette two lists, showing respectively

- (1) The name and residence of every uncertificated insolvent whose estate shall have been placed under sequestration during the preceding six months, and in whose estate

Ord. 6—1843.

- (2) The name and residence of every uncertificated insolvent in whose estate the account and plan of distribution shall have been confirmed during the preceding six months together with the date of the decree confirming the same :

And the cost of publishing such lists as well as of inserting all such notices required by the said Ordinance to be given by the said Master by advertisement in the Gazette, shall be defrayed by Government.

133. And be it enacted, that all the provisions of this Ordinance shall apply to and regulate all estates placed under sequestration in pursuance of Ordinance No. 64, in so far as the provisions of this Ordinance, or any part thereof, shall be applicable thereto in the situation and condition in which such estates shall be, at the time of the passing of this Ordinance: Provided always, that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be applied to, or affect in any way, the rights of any person at whose suit any property shall have been attached by legal process at the time of the promulgation of this Ordinance, or the determination of any actions or suits which shall be pending at the time of the promulgation thereof, all which rights, suits, and actions shall be determined according to the principles and provisions of Ordinance No. 64, precisely as if this Ordinance never had been passed. And provided also, that all crimes created or declared by the said Ordinance No. 64, and committed before the promulgation of this Ordinance, may, notwithstanding the repeal of the said Ordinance, be prosecuted and punished precisely as if the said Ordinance remained in full force and effect.

Ordinance to regulate sequestrations under Ordinance No. 64.

134. And be it enacted, that as often as the Ordinance No. 64 is mentioned in Ordinances Nos. 104 and 105, or in any other former Ordinance, or any of the clauses or provisions of the said Ordinance No. 64 mentioned or referred to, every such former Ordinance shall be construed as if this Ordinance were therein mentioned, instead of Ordinance No. 64, and as if the provision of this Ordinance corresponding to that provision of Ordinance No. 64 which is in such former Ordinance referred to, were expressly substituted in lieu and stead thereof.

This Ordinance to be read for Ordinance No. 64 in certain Ordinances.

135. And be it enacted, that the Master of the Supreme Court shall enter of record, and have the custody, of all proceedings relating to any insolvency under and by virtue of this Ordinance: and the insolvent, or any creditor who has proved, shall at all reasonable times have inspection of the same, and be permitted to take extracts or copies therefrom; and extracts of such proceedings, signed by the said Master, shall be received as evidence in all Courts of Justice within the Colony.

Custody of proceedings in insolvencies.

136. And be it enacted, that whenever it shall be made to appear to the Supreme Court, or any Circuit Court, that the Master of the said Court or Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, is prevented by illness, or any unavoidable cause, from holding any meeting under the provisions of this Ordinance, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court to appoint a commissioner for the special purpose of holding such meeting, who shall have, for the purpose of such meeting, the same powers and authorities as are by this Ordinance given to the said Master or Resident Magistrate in the like cases, and failing such appointment, the Chief Clerk of any Resident Magistrate is hereby authorised to exercise, for the purpose of any such meeting, the powers and authorities of such Magistrate.

What things may be done by one judge.

137. And be it enacted, that for the hearing and determination of all questions, matters, and things, as to which jurisdiction is given to the Supreme Court in virtue of the clauses of this Ordinance hereinafter enumerated, that is to say, the twenty-second, twenty-fifth, thirty-first, fortieth, forty-fifth, sixty-second, sixty-third, sixty-fourth, sixty-fifth, ninety-eighth, one hundred and thirteenth, one hundred and sixteenth, one hundred and seventeenth, one hundred and twenty-fourth, one hundred and twenty-fifth, and one hundred and thirty-sixth clauses, except as to so much of the fortieth clause as relates to recalling the confirmation, and setting aside the election of any trustee or trustees, on the ground that such election was fraudulently or unduly made, the said Court shall and may be holden in Cape Town, before any one or more of the Judges thereof, at such times as the said Supreme Court shall by any rule or order of Court appoint.

Rules to be framed by Supreme Court.

138. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme Court, from time to time, as they shall think fit, to make such rules, orders, and regulations, for carrying this Ordinance into effect, and also touching the form and manner of proceeding under the same, as to the said Court shall seem fit.

First operation of Ordinance.

139. And be it enacted, that this Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after the date of publication hereof, from and after which day the Ordinance No. 64 shall stand repealed.

No. 7.—Sd. George Napier.]

[Nov. 8, 1843.]

(1) Ordinance for repealing the Church Regulations of the 25th July, 1804, and enacting others in their stead.*

WHEREAS the church regulations made and published by the Commissioner-General of the then Batavian Government of the Cape of Good Hope, J. A. de Mist, LL.D., bearing date the 25th of July, 1804, have in many respects ceased to be suitable either to the Dutch Reformed Church or to the ecclesiastical condition of this Colony in general: And whereas it is expedient in order that other and more suitable provisions should be substituted for such portions of the regulations aforesaid as have become obsolete or inapplicable that the said regulations should be wholly repealed and the substance of such of them as it is desirable to preserve expressly re-enacted: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the said church regulations of the 25th of July, 1804, and all other laws or customs heretofore in force in this Colony so far as the same are repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

* Revived by Ord. No. 2, 1851.

Ord. 7—1843.

Previous laws re-pealed.

2. And be it enacted and declared that no religious community or denomination within this Colony is or shall be entitled to claim as matter of right from or out of Her ⁽¹⁾ Majesty's revenue in this Colony any pecuniary contribution or allowance for or towards the support of the ministry of any such community or denomination or any other object whatsoever, and that all such sums as shall from time to time be granted from and out of the said revenue to or in behalf of any such community or denomination shall be deemed to be merely voluntary and gratuitous, and as such to be at all times and exclusively under the absolute disposition and control of Government, and revocable at Her Majesty's will and pleasure.

No government church contributions to be demandable as of right.

3. And whereas it is expedient that the religious community or denomination commonly called the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa should be invested with the power of regulating its own internal affairs: And whereas the general assembly or synod of the said church is the natural and proper ecclesiastical authority by which rules and regulations for the government of the said church in its own internal affairs may rightfully be made: And whereas the last general assembly or synod of the said church which was held in Cape Town in the month of November, 1842, did agree upon and desire to have duly authorised and established a number of rules and regulations having for their object the proper direction and management of the said church in its own internal affairs: And whereas it is expedient in order to prevent delay and inconvenience that the said last-mentioned rules and regulations should with some exceptions be forthwith established and declared to form and be the rules and regulations for the time being of the said church: Be it enacted that all former rules and regulations for the government of the said church whensoever and by whomsoever made shall be and the same are hereby declared to be repealed, and that the several rules and regulations in the schedule to this Ordinance contained shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be the rules and regulations for the time being of the said church and shall be duly observed as such.

Previous regulations of Dutch church repealed.

4. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the general assembly or synod of the said church from time to time duly assembled, and proceeding in conformity with the rules or regulations for the time being in regard to the manner and form of altering, enlarging, or improving church laws and ordinances to add to, annul, alter, enlarge, or improve the rules and regulations contained in the said schedule and any further or other rules and regulations which may from time to time be successively established: Provided, always, that any rule or regulation of the said general assembly or synod repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be null and void.

5. [Repealed by Ord. 16, 1845.]

Doctrine and government of the church.

6. (1) And be it enacted that the said Dutch Reformed Church shall be and remain a church exercising its discipline and government by consistories, presbyteries, and a general assembly or synod and acknowledging, receiving, and professing in regard to the doctrine thereof the doctrines contained in the Confessions of Faith and Formularies of Uniformity, namely, the Netherlands Confession of Faith (Confessio Belgica), the Heidelberg Catechism and the Canons of Dort approved and confirmed by the Synod of Dordrecht in 1618 and 1619; and if any questions or divisions respecting church government discipline, or doctrine should hereafter arise between any members or reputed members of the said church or of any congregation, consistory, presbytery, or general assembly of the same then those persons adhering to and professing respectively the said discipline and government and the doctrines of the said confession and catechism shall be deemed and taken as against all persons who shall adhere to and profess any different discipline, government, or doctrines to be the true congregation, consistory, presbytery, or general assembly as the case may be of the said church, and as such of right entitled to the possession and enjoyment of any funds, endowments, or other property or rights by law belonging to the said church or to the congregation, consistory, presbytery, or general assembly in which any such questions or divisions shall have arisen.

Constitution of general assembly.

7. (2) And be it enacted that the general assembly or synod of the said church shall at all times be composed of all acting ministers of the said church and an acting or retired elder to be nominated by each consistory, but the consistory of Cape Town may at all times nominate two elders.

Force of rules and regulations.

8. And be it enacted that no rule or regulations of the said church whether contained in the schedule to this Ordinance or to be afterwards framed shall have or possess any direct or inherent power whatever to affect in any way the persons or properties of any persons whomsoever; but all such rules and regulations shall be regarded in law in like manner as the rules and regulations of a merely voluntary association, and shall be capable of affecting the persons or properties of such persons only as shall be found in the course of any action or suit before any competent Court to have subscribed, agreed to, adopted or recognized, he said rules and regulations or some of them in such manner as to be bound thereby in virtue of the ordinary legal principles applicable to cases of express or implied contract.

9. And be it enacted that no person or persons composing, complaining to, or giving testimony before any duly constituted judicatory of the said church shall be liable to any action, suit, or proceeding at law, civil or criminal, at the instance of any member of the said church for or on account of any matter or thing written or spoken by any such person or persons bona fide and without malice in reference to or upon the occasion of any scandal, offence, or other matter, real, or alleged, which by the rules and regulations of the said church for the time being should be reported to any such judicatory and which any such judicatory is empowered to investigate, nor shall any action, suit, or proceeding at law be instituted for the purpose of preventing any such judicatory from pronouncing in the case of any scandal or offence which shall be brought before it and proved to its satisfaction such spiritual censure as may in that behalf be appointed by the said church or for the purpose of claiming any damages or relief in regard to such censures if the same shall have been pronounced.

10. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the person or persons in whom by the rules and regulations of the said church for the time being the possession or administration of any buildings, lands, funds, moneys, goods or effects, belonging to any congregation or presbytery, or to the general assembly shall respectively be vested to sue and be sued in all actions and suits relating to any matter or thing by any such officer or officers respectively possessed or administered as if the same were his or their private property, and in any criminal proceeding the property of any of the matters or things aforesaid may be laid in the person or persons who in any civil action or suit might sue or be sued in respect thereof.

Laws repealed.

WHEREAS doubts are entertained in regard to the limits which according to the provisions of the Ordinance No. 9, 1836, entitled “An Ordinance for the creation of Municipal Boards in the Towns and Villages of this Colony on which the Local Regulations of each shall be founded,” may lawfully be assigned to any municipality constituted and established under and by virtue of the said Ordinance: And whereas it is expedient to remove the said doubts and to amend the said Ordinance in other respects: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that every matter or thing in the said Ordinance contained repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Limits of municipality how to be fixed.

2. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the committee in the said Ordinance mentioned in framing and drawing up the municipal regulations for framing and drawing which such committee has been elected and appointed to fix the limits of the municipality at and by such convenient boundaries, whether beyond or within the extent in any direction of one mile from the certain central place in the first section of the said Ordinance mentioned as the said committee shall choose and determine.

Limits already fixed.

3. And be it enacted that no limits fixed for any municipality in and by any municipal regulations duly published before the promulgation of this Ordinance shall be deemed or taken to be illegal or invalid by reason that the said limits go beyond or fall short in any direction of the extent of one mile from the certain central place in the first section of the said Ordinance mentioned.

What householders entitled to fix regulations.

4. And be it enacted that the meeting of resident householders in the eighth section of the said Ordinance mentioned to which the municipal regulations framed and drawn up by the committee or any amendment of such regulations made under and by virtue of the tenth section of the said Ordinance by the Governor of the Colony for the time being by and with the advice of the Executive Council shall be submitted, shall be a meeting of householders resident within the limits fixed by the said committee, and every other meeting of resident householders directed or contemplated by any succeeding section of the said Ordinance, shall be convened and composed of the resident householders within the limits fixed for the municipality by the municipal regulations for the time being.

Ord. 3—1844.

5. And be it enacted that so much of the eleventh section of the said Ordinance as is comprised in the words following, that is to say, “that at any time within one month after the expiration of each and every year from the publication of any such regulations as aforesaid,” be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Section 11 of Ordinance 9 of 1836 repealed in part.

6. (1) And be it enacted that the paying of taxes to the amount of six shillings sterling per annum or any other amount shall from and after the promulgation of this Ordinance cease to be a qualification of the resident householders in the first section of the said Ordinance mentioned, and that in lieu and stead of such qualification the qualification in the forty-eighth section of the said Ordinance mentioned shall be substituted as if the same were in the said first section set forth and described.

Qualification as a householder.

7. And be it enacted that the being proprietor of a house within the municipality and the paying annually a sum of not less than one pound sterling in taxes shall from and after the promulgation of this Ordinance cease to be a qualification to be elected a commissioner for the purposes of the said Ordinance, and that henceforth any person being the proprietor of immovable property situated within such municipality of the value of not less than three hundred pounds, and no other shall be qualified and eligible to be elected a commissioner for the purpose of the said Ordinance.

Qualification as a commissioner.

8. And be it enacted that no commissioner heretofore elected in any municipality for the purpose of the said Ordinance shall be deemed or taken to have been illegally or improperly elected by reason merely that he did not possess either the qualification in the forty-eighth section of the said Ordinance mentioned or the qualification by the last preceding section of this Ordinance substituted in its stead.

Ordinance for regulating Sales by Auction. (1)

WHEREAS the law as contained in Ordinance No 31, 1827, entitled "An Ordinance for abolishing the Office of Vendues, and for imposing certain Duties on Licences to be taken out by all persons acting as Auctioneers, and on Property sold by Auction," requires to be amended: And whereas the said law may be most conveniently amended by repealing the said Ordinance, and enacting other provisions in its room and stead: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the first day of July, 1844, the said Ordinance No. 31, 1827, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed, save and except in so far as the same repeals any former laws before that time in force in this Colony, and in so far as relates to, or concerns, the recovery of any duties imposed by virtue of the said Ordinance, or of any sum or sums of money due upon vendue notes or rolls, or in any manner become due by reason of, or in connection with, any public sale which shall be unpaid and in arrear on the said first day of July, 1844.

Ord. 6—1844.

Ordinance No. 31
of 1827 repealed.

2. And be it further enacted, that from and after the said first day of July, 1844, it shall be lawful for any person complying with the regulations hereinafter mentioned, to exercise the trade or business of an auctioneer, upon taking out a licence, which shall be in force for one year from the date thereof ⁽¹⁾, and no longer, from the commissioner of stamps in Cape Town, or the distributors of stamps in the several districts of the Colony, within their respective districts, on paper stamped, to the value of ⁽¹⁾ three pounds sterling, and which shall contain the true name and residence of the person taking out such licence; and if any person shall exercise the said trade or business of an auctioneer, without having a licence in force at the time when he shall so exercise the said trade or business, or sell by way of auction as aforesaid, he shall, for every such offence, incur and be liable to the payment of a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds sterling, ⁽²⁾ to be recovered in any competent court, one-half of which shall be paid to the informer, and the other half to the Colonial Treasury.

Business of auctioneer to be under licence.

3. [Lapsed.]

4. [Repealed by Act 5 of 1858.]

5. And be it enacted, that when and as often as any machinery, implements, utensils, or other matters or things belonging to, or intended for, any trade or manufacture, and whether the same shall be fastened to the ground or building upon or in which the same shall be placed, or separable or separated therefrom, as the case may be, or any movable property whatever, shall be put up and sold in one lot together with any immovable property, (whether the immovable property upon or in which the same shall be at the time of the sale or not), then the whole of the said lot shall for the purpose of the payment of auction duty, and of transfer duty, be deemed and taken to be immovable property, and be chargeable as such.

Things to be deemed immovable
property.¹ But see Tariff 15, Act 20 of 1884 (p. 2208).² See also § 6, Act 13 of 1870 (p. 1168).

Ord. 6—1844.

Duty a charge against auctioneer.

6. And be it enacted, that the several duties aforesaid shall be a charge upon the auctioneer, after the knocking down of the hammer or other closing of the bidding, at every sale by way of auction.

Licence to be given after security found.

7. And be it enacted, that no such licence as aforesaid shall be granted by the commissioner of stamps aforesaid, or any distributor of stamps to any person, until such person shall have produced to such commissioner or distributor, a certificate under the hand of the collector of taxes (1) in Cape Town, or the Civil Commissioner of the division, as in the next succeeding section mentioned, that such person has given the security in the said section described, and the said collector of taxes or Civil Commissioner, as the case may be, is hereby authorised and required to accept such security from every person desiring him so to do, and thereupon to grant a certificate under his hand.

Amount for which security to be found.

8. And be it enacted, that every person about taking out such licence as aforesaid, shall enter into a recognizance before the collector of taxes, (1) in Cape Town, if such person shall reside in Cape Town, and before the Civil Commissioner of the division in which such person resides, if he reside in the country (1) in the sum of one thousand pounds sterling, with two sufficient sureties in the sum of five hundred pounds sterling each, which recognizance, with the condition thereof, shall be in the form in the schedule to this Ordinance prescribed and set forth; and such recognizance shall be acknowledged in the presence of, and shall be signed by, the said collector of taxes or Civil Commissioner as the case may be.

Accounts of sale to be upon oath.

9. And be it enacted, that every person who shall have received such licence as aforesaid, or otherwise, the person who acted as his clerk at the sales in the account in the condition of the said recognizance mentioned and set forth, shall make oath (2) to the truth of every such account, and every person making such oath shall, in case the same be false, be deemed to be guilty of the crime of perjury.

By whom security may be enforced.

10. And be it enacted, that every such recognizance as aforesaid may be put in suit by the collector of taxes, or Civil Commissioner, as the case may be, before whom the same was acknowledged, or by the officer for the time being acting as such collector or Civil Commissioner; and in case of judgment being given against the defendant the licence granted upon such recognizance shall become void.

person for whose benefit the same shall be sold, had no title or no right to dispose of the same; be it further enacted, that from and after the said 1st day of July, 1844, if any sale by auction of any estate, goods, or chattels, shall be rendered void by reason that the person for whose benefit the same was so sold, had no title to the same, or no right to dispose thereof, then in every such case it shall be lawful for the auctioneer who paid the duty for the property so sold, or for the person for whose benefit the same was so sold, to lay his complaint before the (1) collector of taxes, or Civil Commissioner within whose jurisdiction respectively such sale was made, who are hereby required and empowered to hear all such complaints, and to examine all witnesses produced upon oath, and shall report the case for the information of the Governor of this Colony for the time being, in order that the party may be relieved of so much of his payment as shall appear to have been overpaid.

13. And be it enacted that in case the real owner of any property put up to sale by auction shall become the purchaser by means of his own bidding, or the bidding of any other person on his behalf, without fraud or collusion, then the said collector of taxes (1) and Civil Commissioner respectively, shall make an allowance to such owner of the duties hereby imposed upon such bidding, provided notice be given to the auctioneer before such bidding, both by the owner and the person intending to be the bidder, of the latter being appointed by the former, and having agreed accordingly to bid at the sale on behalf of the seller, and provided such notice be verified by the oath of the auctioneer, as also the fairness and reality of the said transaction, to the best of his knowledge and belief; and in case any dispute shall arise, whether such purchase by the owner was not made by collusion, or in order to lessen the full sum hereby appointed to be paid, or concerning the fairness of such transaction, then and in such case proof thereof shall lie upon the person acting as auctioneer, and on failure thereof, or in case of any unfair practice, then no such allowance shall be made as aforesaid.

14. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person appointed by His Excellency the Governor in that behalf, to sell by public sale for or on account of the Government of this Colony any property, movable or immovable, belonging to the said Government, without taking out any licence to exercise the trade or business of an auctioneer, or entering into any recognition or being bound to comply with any of the regulations of this Ordinance, anything contained in any of the former clauses of this Ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding.

SCHEDULE. (1).

Division of _____ (or Cape Town as the case may be).
Before me (Collector of Taxes in Cape Town or Civil Commissioner for the Division of _____) on the _____ day of _____ 18—, A. B., of _____, C. D., of _____, and E. F. of _____, acknowledge themselves to owe to our Sovereign Lady the Queen, that is to say, the said A. B. the sum of £1,000, and the said C. D. and E. F. each the sum of £500, to be made and levied of their goods and chattels respectively.

The condition of the above written recognizance is such that if the said A. B. shall by virtue of or in reference to these presents obtain a licence to exercise the trade or business of an auctioneer, he shall render (to the said collector of taxes or Civil Commissioner as the case may be) an exact and true account in writing of the total amount of the money bid at each sale, and of the several lots which have been there sold, and the price thereof respectively, and for that purpose shall produce to the said collector of taxes or Civil Commissioner (as the case may be) all books kept by him relative to his trade or business on the first day of every month (if to the collector of taxes in Cape Town, but if in a country division, then say, "on the first day of every quarter, to be computed from the first day of July, 1844,") and shall within three months from the date of every such sale make payment of all sums of money imposed upon him by way of duty by this Ordinance; and shall (whenever thereto required by the said collector of taxes or Civil Commissioner as the case may be) truly and justly declare under his hand whether or not he has in any specified period held any sale as such auctioneer as aforesaid; and if he shall so do as aforesaid, then this recognizance to be void, but otherwise to be of full force and effect.

Ordinance for facilitating the Recovery of Land-rents in this Colony. (2)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the recovery of land-rents belonging to the Colonial Government, due and in arrear, and for that purpose to remove certain difficulties of a legal nature which now exist and generally to make such provision for the recovery of the said rents as may prove effectual and at the same time free as far as may be from delay and expense: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the promulgation of this Ordinance all laws and customs heretofore in force in this Colony in so far as the same are repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

¹ Amended by § 4, Act 3 of 1876.

² See Ord. 7, 1846 (p. 761), and Acts 3, 1879 (p. 1588), and 18, 1870 (p. 1177). See Act 5, 1861, § 2 (p. 824), (Tacit Hypothec).

Ord. 9—1844.
Previous laws repealed.

2. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioner of each division of this Colony in every case in which any land-rent payable or belonging to the Colonial Government shall by the books of such Civil Commissioner's office appear to be due and in arrear to prepare or cause to be prepared a notice addressed to the person who shall by the books aforesaid appear to be the owner of the place or property in respect of which such land-rent shall have accrued due, and to all others whom it may concern; and such notice shall in substance be in the form in the first schedule hereunto annexed is set forth; and such notice shall be served by leaving the same with the person in actual occupation of the said place or property, or in case such person cannot be found at his usual place of residence then by leaving the same at the residence of such person with the wife of such person or any child or servant of such person who shall appear to be of the age of sixteen years or upwards. And it shall be the duty of the person employed to serve any such notice, to have and preserve a copy thereof, to mark upon such copy as speedily as may be the time at which and the place and manner in which the original notice was served, by way of a memorandum to refresh if needful the memory of the person so serving the said notice.

Notice to pay arrears.

3. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the person so appearing as aforesaid to be the owner of such place or property or for any mortgagee, lessee, or other person having any interest therein at any time within thirty-one days from the day of the service of such notice as aforesaid to lodge at the office of the Civil Commissioner in writing any objections to the payment of any part of the amount claimed in the said notice as due and in arrear, which may be disputed or denied, and if such objections shall be duly lodged within the time aforesaid but shall not be allowed by such Civil Commissioner, and if the party lodging the same shall, within seven days after the lodging thereof, give security by way of recognizance to Her Majesty the Queen, and either with or without sureties as the said Civil Commissioner shall require, to pay the amount which such party disputes or denies together with the cost of the suit next hereinafter mentioned in case such suit shall be determined against the party so objecting as aforesaid and giving such security, the said Civil Commissioner shall forthwith cause proceedings to be commenced in some competent Court, for the recovery of the amount of rent in controversy, and shall not resort to the remedy by distress and sale as in the next succeeding section mentioned.

Recovery of rent by distress and sale in specified cases.

4. And be it enacted that in case no such objections as aforesaid shall have been lodged, or if lodged and disallowed, in case no such security as aforesaid shall have been given, and in case the amount of the land-rent mentioned in such notice as aforesaid shall not within the space of thirty-one days from the day on which notice shall have been served, be duly paid and discharged, or in case such objections as aforesaid shall have been lodged and allowed but the residue or balance remaining after the allowance of the same shall not be paid and discharged within the said space of thirty-one days from the day of the serving of the notice, then it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioner aforesaid in every case in which the person appearing as aforesaid, by the books aforesaid, to be the owner of the place or property in question, shall be in the actual occupation of such place or property, to place in the hands of the messenger of any Resident Magistrate's Court, within that Civil Commissioner's division an authority in writing, empowering such messenger to seize and arrest all goods and chattels, being in and upon the place or property aforesaid, which goods and chattels would be distrainable by law for rent in arrear, and such authority shall in substance be in the form set forth in the second schedule hereunto annexed; and all goods and chattels so seized under or by virtue of any such authority as aforesaid shall be dealt with, treated and considered, to all intents and purposes as if the same had been attached under process of execution issued upon a judgment of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such seizure shall have been made, but no greater sum shall in any case be levied and raised than the sum mentioned in the said authority, together with such usual costs and charges, as would have been attendant upon the seizure and sale of the said goods and chattels, had the same been attached under such process as aforesaid.

Restrictions as to seizure and sale.

Distress may be levied on occupier under contract for ownership.

5. And be it enacted that in every case in which the person in actual occupation of any such place or property as aforesaid not being the owner thereof shall yet have entered into such occupation under or in pursuance of some contract or agreement for becoming the owner of the same, the power of distress and sale in the last preceding section mentioned may be exercised by the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, in manner and form as in the said section stated, precisely as if the person so in occupation under such contract or agreement were in law the owner.

Cases in which recovery of rent may be sought by action.

6. And be it enacted that in all cases in which neither the person appearing as aforesaid by the books aforesaid to be the owner of the place or property in question, nor any such occupant as in the last preceding section mentioned, shall be in the actual occupation of such place or property or in which although in such occupation no sufficient goods and chattels shall appear to exist, whereof could be made in manner aforesaid the rent due and in arrear; or in which, by reason of any difficulties to him appearing, such Civil Commissioner as aforesaid shall decline to resort to the mode of proceeding in the last preceding section mentioned, it shall and may be lawful for such Civil Commissioner, at any time after the expiration of thirty-one days from the day on which such notice as aforesaid shall have been duly served, but not sooner, in case the rent in arrear shall still remain due and unpaid, to proceed according to law in some competent Court for the recovery of the land-rent due and in arrear, or for such other and alternative relief as by reason of the non-payment of the said rent the Colonial Government shall be legally entitled to demand.

Ord. 9—1844.

7. And be it enacted that any mortgagee, sub-lessee, or other person having any interest in any such place or property as aforesaid, shall be entitled at any time before the execution of the decree of any such Court as aforesaid, to pay and satisfy the amount of land-rent in arrear, with costs, and thereupon to be deemed and taken in case he shall not by reason of some stipulation or agreement be himself responsible for the said rent, to have, in regard to the amount so paid and satisfied, the like rights and remedies against the real debtor, as those which do or shall by law belong to the Colonial Government in regard to the recovery of its land-rents and its costs of suit.

Persons who may pay rent and have remedies of the government for its recovery.

8. And be it enacted that if in any such suit or proceeding as aforesaid, a decree should be pronounced declaring the quitrent grant, or lease of any such place or property, and the right or title derived from, by, or under it to be cancelled, annulled, forfeited, and avoided for or by reason of non-payment of the rent reserved and conditioned to be paid, then, in case the place or property in question shall, at the time of the pronouncing of such decree be under any mortgage either conventional or tacit (the hypothecation of Government for the rent due and in arrear alone excepted), the Civil Commissioner shall instead of entering upon or taking possession of such place or property under such decree be bound and obliged to cause the said place or property, and all right and title to, and interest in, the same, existing by virtue of the quitrent grant or lease thereof to be sold by public sale (in case no mortgagee or other interested person shall previously to such sale pay off the land-rent due and in arrear with all costs and charges), and such Civil Commissioner shall after deducting from the purchase money the amount of rent due and in arrear together with costs and the charges of the sale pay over the surplus (if any) to the party or parties legally entitled to the same.

Cases in which civil commissioner shall sell and not enter into possession for recovery.

9. And be it enacted that every such sale as in the last preceding section mentioned shall be held by the Sheriff and shall be conducted in like manner as sales of immovable property seized or attached by such Sheriff in execution of legal process.

Sales to be by the sheriff.

Ord. 9—1844.

Moneys payable to absent mortgagees.

10. And be it enacted that whenever any such mortgagee as aforesaid shall be absent from the Colony or shall not be discoverable the Civil Commissioner shall cause all such moneys as would be payable to such mortgagee if present to be paid into the guardian's fund to the credit of such mortgagee, there to be subject to the same provisions in all respects which are provided by Ordinance No. 105, bearing date the 5th day of July, 1833, in regard to moneys placed in the said fund belonging to persons absent from the Colony.

Where land is derelict.

11. And be it enacted that in every case in which any place or property in regard to which any arrear of land-rent shall be due to the Colonial Government shall be abandoned, deserted, or left derelict, and the person having or claiming title to the same shall after being duly summoned (1) make default, it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme or some Circuit Court as the case may be, upon proof to the satisfaction of the said Court by affidavit or otherwise as to such Court shall seem fit that a certain amount of land-rent is due and in arrear, in respect to the said place or property, and that such place or property has been and is abandoned, deserted, or left derelict, to decree in a summary manner that the right, title, and interest of the grantee or lessee of the said place or property, and that of all other persons claiming by, through, or under him shall thenceforth be to all intents and purposes cancelled, annulled, forfeited, and avoided, and to adjudge and decree the said place or property to have reverted to the Colonial Government wholly free and unencumbered, and in the same plight and condition, as if the particular title, under and by virtue of which such place or property was previously held had never been created; and as often as any such decree as last aforesaid, shall be pronounced, the Civil Commissioner shall take possession on behalf of the Colonial Government of the place or property in question, and the said Government shall be at liberty to dispose of the same in whatever manner it shall seem fit. Provided always, that nothing in this section contained shall be taken or construed so as to prevent the Colonial Government from claiming from any competent Court a like decree of forfeiture of title for non-payment of rent in any case in which by law the said Government shall be entitled to claim the same. And provided also, that if in any case the place or property so abandoned or deserted shall be under mortgage at the time of any such decree as aforesaid, then the provisions in the eighth, ninth, and tenth sections of this Ordinance contained shall be deemed and taken to apply to the same as fully as if the said sections were each of them herein again repeated.

action, or proceeding for the recovery of land-rent or for any other purpose relating to this Ordinance, it shall not be necessary for the Civil Commission to produce the original title deed of any such place or property as aforesaid or any duplicate thereof or any deed of transfer relating to such place or property; but on the contrary the entry or entries in the books of the Civil Commissioner purporting to contain the leading heads of the grant or lease or other instrument of title of such place or property shall prima facie be deemed and taken to be admissible and sufficient evidence to prove the amount of the rent reserved, and all other matters contained in such entry or entries of which the original grant or lease or other instrument of title might but for the present section be in law the best evidence: Provided always, that it shall be competent for any person defending any such action as aforesaid to produce and prove any such grant or lease or other instrument as aforesaid, and thereupon such deed so produced and proved shall in case of any discrepancy between the said entries and said deed be deemed and taken to be the best evidence of every matter and thing in the said deed contained.

13. And be it enacted that in the interpretation of this Ordinance the term "Civil Commissioner" shall mean the officer for the time being acting as such; and that the terms "Colonial Government" and "Government" shall mean respectively Her Majesty's Local Executive Government within this Colony; and that the term "land-rents due and in arrear" shall extend to and comprise quit-rents, loan-rents, and all other sorts of periodical payments to the Colonial Government, arising out of lands and due and in arrear, as also the amount which would have been paid for stamped receipts had the said rents instead of being allowed to fall into arrear been regularly paid, and stamped receipts as by law required been regularly given for the same; and that the term "owner" shall mean the person in whom whether in his individual or in some fiduciary capacity the complete dominium or legal right in any place or property held by any quitrent grant or lease or other title from and under the Colonial Government, shall for the time being be vested; and that the singular number shall include the plural number; and that the masculine gender shall include females as well as males.

Ordinance to provide for the Enregisterment in the Land Registers of the Colony of certain Sub-divisions of the Locations and Extensions of the Settlers of 1820. (3)

Preamble.

WHEREAS in consequence of the encouragement to emigration to the Cape of Good Hope offered by the Government of his late Majesty King George the Third in certain letters dated Downing-street, London, 1819, certain parties of settlers arrived in this Colony in and about the year 1820 and were located in the lower part of the division of Albany and at Glen Lynden in the division of Somerset, on certain lands which were surveyed for the said parties respectively: And whereas certain of the said parties consisted wholly or in part of individuals who paid, in England certain deposits required by the said Government, and thereby acquired certain rights to portions of the original locations so surveyed for the said parties: And whereas other lands were set aside by Government and certain exchanges of granted land were made for the better maintenance of some of the said parties, and surveys of the shares held by the said individual settlers their heirs or assigns, at the date of survey, effected for the purpose of enabling the proprietors thereof to obtain registry of the same in the Land Registers of the Colony: And whereas the said proprietors have been and still are prevented from obtaining such registry by reason of the death, absence from the Colony, mental incapacity, or insolvency of the former heads or nominal heads of their parties, to whom in most instances grants of the original locations were issued, or of other persons through or from whom the said proprietors have mediately or immediately derived just, lawful, and undisputed rights to the said subdivisions, or by reason that in many instances it has now become impossible to produce such legal evidence of the cessions of the said rights as would enable the Supreme Court or the Circuit Courts of this Colony to declare and enforce the same, while at the same time the provisions of the Ordinance No. 97, entitled "Ordinance for enabling certain persons having respectively the just, lawful, and undisputed right to certain Lands and Houses, to procure the same to be unregistered as their property in the Land Register," could not properly be accommodated so as to meet the exigency of the cases aforesaid, or if they could be so accommodated not without much and unnecessary expense. And whereas in many instances the head of the party cannot give transfer of the subdivisions which have been effected by reason that the said subdivisions include without distinction portions of land registered as his property together with portions of lands granted to others, or of ungranted Crown lands allotted to the party: And whereas by reason of the issue and existence of certain title deeds to portions of the land referred to the Governor of this Colony is prevented from directing the issue of new title deeds of the said subdivisions in the names of the persons justly entitled to the same, and thus giving them registry in the Land Registers of this Colony.

² See Act 12, 1858, § 8 (p. 704).

2. Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the promulgation of this Ordinance, it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony to publish by proclamation in the Government Gazette and in some one or more of such newspapers as shall be published in Graham's Town the names of such persons as shall after due investigation be recommended by the board of commissioners for lands as the persons entitled to receive grants of the aforesaid subdivisions of locations, together with a description of the said subdivisions and also the particulars of all such grants of original locations and other lands as it may be necessary to cancel by reason of portions thereof being included in such aforesaid subdivisions, and thereupon to proclaim that unless objections showing cause to the contrary be lodged in writing at the office of the Secretary to Government, in Cape Town, within six weeks from the day on which such proclamation shall be last published the title deeds therein mentioned will be cancelled and the subdivisions aforesaid granted accordingly. (1)

Grants to be issued in absence of objections.

3. And be it enacted that in case no objections are lodged in the office of the Secretary to Government as aforesaid at or before the expiration of the term of six weeks as aforesaid it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor to direct the said title deeds to be cancelled and the grants of the said subdivisions to be issued accordingly.

Consideration and disposal of objections.

4. And be it enacted that in case any such objections as aforesaid shall be lodged as aforesaid the said objections shall be referred to the board of commissioners for lands for investigation, and should the said board deem it necessary in any case to amend their previous recommendation a further publication of six weeks by proclamation in manner aforesaid of such amended recommendation, shall be necessary before it shall be lawful for the said Governor to direct that any title deeds or title deed shall in conformity with such amended recommendation be cancelled or be issued as the case may be: Provided that if no objection be lodged within the said period of six weeks to any such amended recommendation it shall be lawful for the said Governor to direct the certain title deeds or title deed referred to in such amended recommendation to be cancelled or issued as the case may be in conformity therewith.

Proceedings when objections disallowed.

5. And be it enacted that if after any such objections as are mentioned in the second section of this Ordinance shall have been referred to the board of commissioners for lands the said board shall report to the said Governor that they do not see cause to amend their recommendation, or if any objections to the amended recommendation mentioned in the fourth section of this Ordinance shall be lodged as aforesaid, the said Governor shall cause a Government notice to be published in the Government Gazette and in one or more of the newspapers to be published in Graham's Town setting forth the particulars of any title deeds or title deed the cancellation of which shall have been objected to and a description of the several subdivisions which contain portions of the land described therein, and also the names of the person or persons to whom it is recommended to issue title deeds of the said subdivisions respectively, and in the case of such of the said subdivisions as may be unclaimed or if claimed when the claims to the said subdivisions are not proved or have not been reported on, then the name or names of the persons for whom the said subdivisions respectively have been surveyed, or a description of the title deed or title deeds if any the issue of which shall have been objected to accompanied by an announcement that the deeds aforesaid will be cancelled or issued as the case may be unless such cancellation or issue shall be restrained by the interdict of some competent Court or Judge to be duly sued out within three months from the date of such notice; and when and as often as any such notice shall be published then all persons who shall object to any of the matters or things embraced, in such notice, and by the same announced as intended to be done shall be bound to apply to some competent Court or some Judge having lawful authority for an interdict or order restraining all parties whom it may concern from proceeding to do the matter or thing which the person applying alleges ought not to be done; and unless the person so applying for such interdict shall obtain the same and shall within a period of three months from the date of the last publication of the said notice (if published on more days than one) lodge the said interdict or a copy thereof in the office of the Secretary to Government in Cape Town, then it shall be lawful for the Governor of the Colony to direct that the title deed shall be issued or the existing title deed shall be cancelled as recommended by the said board of commissioners for lands: Provided, always, that it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor upon cause being shown to enlarge the time within which in any particular case such interdict may be applied for.

Ord. 15—1844.

Objector may apply for interdict.

Interdict to be lodged with Secretary to Government.

6. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for the Supreme Court or any Circuit Court of this Colony to grant an interdict to any person or persons applying as aforesaid for the same in case it shall appear that the party so applying has some right to or over or in respect of the land of which a title deed is recommended to be cancelled, and to the cancellation of which such party objects or to which any new grant is announced as intended to be made, and moreover that such party is likely to be prejudiced by the cancellation or issue as the case may be of any title deeds or title deed intended to be cancelled or issued respectively.

In what cases interdict may be granted.

7. And be it enacted that when and as often as any such interdict as aforesaid or any copy thereof shall be lodged at the office of the Secretary to Government in Cape Town as aforesaid a public notice of the lodgment of the same shall be forthwith given in the Government Gazette, and in some one of such newspapers as aforesaid, and the said interdict or a copy thereof together with the claim or claims and all the proofs and documents relating thereto on which the recommendation of the board of commissioners for lands was founded, shall be delivered or transmitted to or placed at the disposal of the person or persons or some one of them to whom the grant was recommended, or whose claims shall be stayed by the said interdict, or their heirs or other representatives, for the purpose of enabling him or them to procure the removal of the said interdict, and the final determination according to law of all questions in dispute connected with the same.

Ord. 15—1844.

Interdict to be conclusive of rights unless removed.

8. And be it enacted that when and as often as any such final determination as aforesaid shall have been made by any competent Court in any suit or proceeding arising from or connected with any such interdict as aforesaid the cancellation of any old title deed or issue of any new title deed respectively shall be regulated in conformity with the judgment of such Court, and so as to secure as much as may be the rights of all parties as the same shall have been ascertained and declared by the judgment of such Court. But in case it shall so happen that the person or persons whose claims are stayed or supposed rights affected by any such interdict shall not within a period of six months from the date of the publication of the notice in the last preceding section mentioned obtain a final determination of the matters in dispute in regard to the same and give notice of such final determination being had and come to to the Secretary to Government in Cape Town, then the matters so in dispute shall be considered as if decided in favour of the party who shall have obtained the interdict, and thereupon the consequences hereinbefore mentioned shall take place in the same manner as if a competent Court had finally determined in favour of such party. Provided, always, that it shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid to enlarge the time during which notice of any such final determination being had and come to may be given as aforesaid to the Secretary to Government.

Locations to be sold, if there be no application for grant.

9. And be it enacted that when there shall remain any subdivision or subdivisions of locations aforesaid to which no claim has been made or the claims to which shall not have been proved so as to enable the said land board to recommend the issue of the title deed or title deeds thereof to the claimant or claimants respectively, or to any other person, it shall be lawful for the Governor of the Colony to cause to be published in the Government Gazette and in one or more of the newspapers which shall be published at Graham's Town a notice describing the said subdivision or subdivisions, and declaring that unless a notice stating cause to the contrary be lodged in the office of the Secretary to Government in Cape Town within three months after such notice shall be last published the said subdivision or subdivisions will be sold by public auction for account of whom it may concern.

Application of proceeds of sale.

10. And be it enacted that if no such notice as aforesaid be lodged as aforesaid at or before the expiration of the said three months then it shall be lawful for the said Governor at any time thereafter to cause the said subdivision or subdivisions to be sold in freehold by public auction; and in case of any such sale the proceeds after deduction of the expenses of sale shall be disposed of in manner following, that is to say: first, a sum equal to fifteen years' purchase of the annual quitrent fixed for settlers' grants and of such stamps as would have been required in respect of such annual quitrent for the said period, shall be paid into the Colonial Treasury to account for the general revenue; secondly, the amount of loan from the Storm Fund if any with the interest thereon if any shall be paid into the said treasury to account of the said fund; and lastly, the remainder of the said proceeds if any shall be paid into the Guardian Fund in the name of the proprietor at the date of the said sale of the location surveyed for or other person justly entitled thereto or to any portion thereof, there to be subject to the same provisions in all respects which are provided by the Ordinance No. 105, bearing date the 5th of July, 1833, in regard to moneys placed in the said fund belonging to persons absent from the Colony.

11. And be it enacted that in case such a notice be lodged as the second notice in the ninth section mentioned the said notice shall be referred to the land board, and if the said board shall be enabled thereby to recommend the issue of title deed to the party who shall have lodged such notice or to any other person the name of the person or persons so recommended by the said board and the description of the subdivision or subdivisions referred to shall be published by proclamation as in the second section of this Ordinance provided. But if it shall appear to the said board that the said notice does not state any sufficient cause against the said sale and the party lodging it does not furnish sufficient proof to enable the said board to recommend the issue of title deed to such party or any other person then it shall be lawful for the said Governor to cause a notice to be inserted in the Government Gazette and in some one or more of such newspapers as shall be published at Graham's Town declaring that unless restrained by an interdict of some competent Court or some Judge having lawful authority to be lodged at the office of the Secretary to Government in Cape Town within three months from the publication of such notice the subdivision or subdivisions mentioned in such notice will be sold by public auction; and provided no such interdict be lodged as aforesaid then it shall be lawful for the said Governor to direct the said subdivision or subdivisions to be sold as aforesaid by public auction and the proceeds thereof disposed of as provided for in the tenth section of this Ordinance; but in case an interdict shall have been so lodged as aforesaid then every matter and thing in relation to the said subdivision or subdivisions or to the title deed thereof or to the rights of any parties to or over the name shall be governed and directed by any order, judgment, or decree in the premises of any competent Court.

12. And be it enacted that the cancellation of every title deed effected under the provisions of this Ordinance and every title deed issued under the said provisions shall respectively be liable to be annulled, set aside, limited, qualified, and affected on every ground and by reason of every cause, matter or thing (and shall not be annulled, set aside, limited, qualified, or affected on any Proceedings at law, or applications under Ordinance 97 competent in all cases, notwithstanding this ordinance.

13. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be held or construed so as to prevent any person or persons whomsoever from proceeding in any manner in which he or they may be advised in any competent Court in regard to any lands belonging or appertaining to any of the locations or extensions of the said settlers of 1820; or from applying to the committee nominated and appointed under Ordinance No. 97 in order to obtain enregisterment in any case to which the said Ordinance No. 97 shall be considered by such person or persons to apply. Provided, always, that no such proceeding as aforesaid in any such Court (except as certain proceedings are by this Ordinance contemplated and provided as aforesaid) and no application to the said committee shall in any case be commenced by any person or persons in regard to any locations or subdivisions mentioned in any such proclamation as in the second section of this Ordinance provided; and all persons having commenced or being interested in any suit or proceeding at law or any application to the said committee in regard to any title deed or to any subdivision or subdivisions mentioned in any such proclamation shall be bound within six weeks from the date of the publication of such proclamation to lodge at the office of the Secretary to Government in Cape Town notice of the pending of such suit or application, which notice shall be deemed and taken to be an objection duly lodged as in the fourth section of this Ordinance provided.

Limitation.

14. And whereas it is expedient to limit the time during which the provisions of this Ordinance shall be operative be it enacted that this Ordinance shall take effect from and after the promulgation hereof, and that no such proclamation as is in the second section of this Ordinance mentioned shall be issued after the 31st day of December, 1846. And in default of immediate payment of such penalty, the person condemned to pay the same may be imprisoned with or without hard labour until he shall pay the same, but so, however, that he shall not be detained for any period exceeding three months. But it shall be competent for the Governor in any case in which it shall appear to him to be just and proper so to do to remit the whole or any part of any such penalty as aforesaid.

Ordinance for authorising the appointment of a Vestry and Churchwardens for St. Paul's Church, Rondebosch. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient that the inhabitants of Rondebosch in the Cape district and the parochial limits thereof, and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established should be invested with the right and privilege of choosing and appointing under certain regulations a vestry and churchwardens for the better and more effectual administration and management of all matters connected with St. Paul's Church at Rondebosch, and that the said vestry and churchwardens after having been duly appointed should possess certain powers and perform certain duties as the same are usually possessed and exercised by such officers according to the customs and usages of the said United Church of England and Ireland: And whereas on the appointment of the said vestry and churchwardens it is expedient that the office of trustees as at present instituted should cease and determine:

Preamble.

1. Now, therefore, be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that on and after the promulgation of this Ordinance, and annually afterwards on the same day a general meeting of the inhabitant householders of Rondebosch aforesaid and of the parochial limits thereof holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established shall be holden at Rondebosch, fourteen days' notice whereof Annual election of vestry.

Ord. 5-1845.

shall be given by the officiating minister of the said church for the time being by promulgation during divine service and by notice posted on the doors of the church or by advertisement in the Government Gazette, for the purpose of electing a vestry, and it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitant householders as aforesaid or the greater part assembled at such meeting to elect from among themselves any number of persons not exceeding eight in manner and subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, who together with the officiating minister for the time being shall form a vestry charged with the duties and invested with the powers hereinafter mentioned.

Auditors of accounts.

2. And be it further enacted that two other persons not being members of the said vestry shall likewise be elected at such meeting as aforesaid to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry.

Qualification of members of vestry

3. And be it further enacted that every inhabitant householder being a member of and holding communion with the church aforesaid and within the parochial limits thereof shall be eligible to be a member of the said vestry: Provided, always, that no person shall be entitled to vote at such election or be eligible to be chosen a member of the vestry or an auditor of the accounts thereof so long as (legal demand having previously been made) any just claim had upon him by the said vestry as such shall remain unsatisfied.

Preparation and inspection of lists of persons eligible.

4. And be it enacted that a list of all persons eligible according to the provisions of the foregoing section shall be prepared by the officiating minister so long as there are no churchwardens appointed, and when churchwardens shall have been appointed as is hereinafter provided then by the officiating minister and churchwardens conjointly, and shall be open for the inspection of all persons entitled to vote at the election of the said vestry and auditors at least fourteen days before any election is to take place.

Mode of election.

5. And be it further enacted that at every such general meeting as aforesaid the election shall be carried on by lists duly signed by such inhabitant householders aforesaid respectively and containing the names of the persons for whom they vote to be elected as vestrymen and auditors.

Appointment of chairman.

6. And be it further enacted that the officiating minister for the time being shall preside as chairman at the meetings of the said vestry, provided that in his absence from any such meeting one of the other members shall be chosen to act as chairman, and in case the votes of the said vestry be equally divided the chairman or acting chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to his own.

Quorum of vestry.

7. And be it further enacted that four members of the said vestry or three members beside the chairman shall form a quorum and shall be competent to perform all matters and things which may be done by the vestry under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

8. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed to frame, adopt, alter, or rescind such rules, orders, and by-laws as may to them appear expedient for their guidance in the discharge of their duties and for more effectually executing the provisions of this Ordinance and also to take such order for the management of the said church as shall to them seem expedient, provided that the said rules, orders, or by-laws contain nothing repugnant to law or to the tenor of this Ordinance or to the customs and usages of the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established.

Ord. 5—1845.
Power to make rules, orders, and by-laws.

9. And be it enacted that the trustees of the church aforesaid shall upon the appointment of the said vestry deliver over to the said vestry all deeds, books, and papers relating to the church in their custody or power and all sums of money in their possession or control, and the office and duties of the said trustees shall thereupon cease and determine.

Delivery of deeds, papers, &c., by trustees to vestry.

10. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such members of the said church as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers and rights and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof, and the administration of the grounds, funds, rents, and revenues thereof and all other matters and things relating to the same as are now possessed and exercised by the trustees together with such other laws and rights and duties as are hereinafter specified.

Transfer of powers of trustees to vestry.

11. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry for the time being to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to their order by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute or compel performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for the good of the church aforesaid.

Power to compel payments, enter into contracts, &c.

12. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry as such from time to time to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court of this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any person whatsoever; and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of the vestry of St. Paul's Church at Rondebosch, without specifying the christian or surnames of the members of the vestry, and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or the going out of office of any individual member thereof.

Power to sue and defend suits.

13. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or other matter or thing made or entered into or

Actions against vestry not competent against individual members

Ord. 5-1845.

performed by the said vestry in the execution of the said trust or shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said vestry shall be brought by such person in manner and in name aforesaid and not against any individual member of the said vestry.

Accounts, with report of auditors
at annual meeting.

14. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall keep an account wherein they shall enter all moneys received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times. And the said account together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon shall be laid before the members holding communion with the said church at the general annual meeting aforesaid and published if requisite for general information.

Appointment and duties of churchwardens.

15. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall forthwith on their appointment or so soon as conveniently may be choose out of their own number two persons to be churchwardens who shall perform and execute all lawful acts and matters and things for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept in the said church by the congregation thereof and for preserving to all persons their rights in the pews and sittings thereof, and providing the said church (by order and at the charges of the said vestry) with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine service and for keeping the same clean and in proper repair, and for keeping the burial-ground attached to the said church in decent order and properly fenced, and for discharging all other duties which usually devolve on churchwardens in the United Church of England and Ireland, so far as the same may be applicable to this Colony.

Account and appropriation of collections.

16. And be it further enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep an exact account of all collections of money made from time to time in the said church for any charitable or religious purposes connected with the said church or congregation; and the said churchwardens together with the officiating minister for the time being shall faithfully administer the same or see that they be faithfully administered and appropriated in the manner and for the purposes contemplated and intended by the persons contributing to the same. And the churchwardens' accounts of all such sums as shall be subscribed and collected for charitable purposes and received in trust by them in virtue of their office shall be subject to all the same regulations as the general church fund and accounts of the vestry.

Continuance in office of church-
wardens.

17. And be it enacted that the churchwardens appointed as above shall continue in office until after the next general annual election of the vestry is completed, when they shall deliver up to the said vestry all accounts of such charities as aforesaid duly audited, together with all vouchers, sums of money, or securities held by them in virtue of their office; and the vestry shall then proceed to nominate other churchwardens for the ensuing year : Provided always that the churchwardens thus vacating office shall be eligible to be re-elected in case they are continued as members of the vestry.

Ord. 5-1845.

18. And be it further enacted that in case any member of the vestry shall die or desire to resign or shall be removed or for any other lawful cause shall vacate his office it shall and may be lawful for the surviving or other members of the said vestry to decide whether a special general meeting shall be called for the purpose of electing another member in the place of the one so dying or desiring to resign or being removed, or whether his place shall remain vacant until the next general annual meeting to be holden as aforesaid : Provided always, that in case the members of the said vestry decide that a special general meeting shall be holden for the purpose aforesaid the same notice shall be given thereof and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as in case of the general annual meeting is provided.

Proceedings in case of vacancies.

19. And be it enacted that all the pews and sittings in the said church with the exception of a reasonable proportion of free sittings reserved for the poor shall and may be let by the vestry by the year or for any shorter period to any person desiring to take the same, at a rent to be affixed to them respectively by the vestry and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the vestry; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term, provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable: Provided, always, that nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with the claims of any person at present holding sittings in the church.

Letting of pew and sittings.

20. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the vestry whenever it shall happen that the rent of any pew or sitting is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable to give notice to the possessor of such pew, forthwith to quit and give up possession thereof; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purposes of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive the said vestry from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action in any competent Court.

Proceedings in case of arrear in payment of pews-rents.

21. And be it further enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church; but the burials of all persons according to the rights and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose; and the vestry shall have the right to demand and receive reasonable fees for the permission to bury in the burial-ground of the said church.

Monuments and vaults in burial ground.

22. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monument to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the burial-ground belonging thereto or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground upon payment to the fund of the said church for such permission of such reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission according to the terms thereof.

Ownership in vaults and monuments.

23. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or digging or making any vault in the said burial-ground by and with such permission as aforesaid to have, maintain and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons or his or their heirs for ever: Provided always, that in case any such monument as aforesaid is suffered to fall into decay and the person or persons to whom the said monument appertains neglect to repair the same it shall and may be lawful after a general notice of such intention to remove the same.

Public ordinance.

24. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance and shall be judicially taken notice of by all Judges, Magistrates, and others without being specially pleaded, and shall commence and come into operation as law from and after the promulgation thereof.

[March 25, 1845.]

Ordinance for authorising a Sum of Money to be raised in Shares for Building a Church at Fort Beaufort.

Preamble.

WHEREAS several persons being desirous of erecting a church at Fort Beaufort for the celebration of divine service according to the rites of the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established, and being ready and willing to raise and provide by way of loan for that purpose a certain sum of money as herein-after mentioned, at a public meeting of the said persons holden at Fort Beaufort on the 15th day of November, 1843, a committee of management was appointed for carrying their intention into effect: And whereas His Excellency the Governor has agreed to grant from the treasury of this Colony as a donation towards the building and completing the said church to the persons who shall undertake and become bound for completing the same the sum of one hundred pounds: And whereas the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge hath agreed to grant the sum of one hundred pounds and the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts hath agreed to grant the sum of one hundred pounds as donations toward the building of the said church: And whereas several other persons have agreed to subscribe certain sums of money by way of donation for furthering the building and completing the said church: And whereas at a public meeting of the persons interested in the said church holden pursuant to notice thereof on the 17th December, 1844, it was agreed and resolved by the said persons that in order to raise a sum of money amounting together with the said sum of money agreed to be granted by His Excellency the Governor from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid and the said sums of money agreed to be granted by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge and by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts and the said other donations to the sum of eight hundred pounds, being near or about the estimated cost of building and completing the said church, a certain number of shares should be disposed of, that is to say, one hundred shares at five pounds each: And whereas the following persons have agreed to take shares in the said loan as aforesaid, that is to say: Charles Holliday and John Vaughan, four shares each; Robert Bovey, John Blakeway, William Ayton, Wm. Gilbert, and George Gilbert, three shares each; John Holliday and Bradshaw Daniel Bell, two shares each; William Parrot, Meent John Henry Borchers, George McKay, the Rev. Herbert Beaver, Philip Norton, William Andrews, William Nelson, Charles Blakeway, David Mills, Stephen Humphreys, the Rev. James Barrow, the Rev. John Heavyside, Charles Burton, Richard Ralph, Thomas Foden, John North Annan, George Broster, and Ezekiel Hams, one share each:

1. And whereas the said persons have made application that an Ordinance may be passed to sanction and confirm the plan adopted at the last-mentioned meeting and to provide for carrying the same into effect: Now, therefore, be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that it shall and may be lawful for the said persons who have already agreed and all such as shall by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance hereafter agree to take shares in the said loan to raise and provide in manner and for the purpose aforesaid such a sum of money as together with the said sum so to be granted from the Colonial Treasury and the said sums so to be granted by the Societies for

loan by shares.

- Ord. 7—1845. — Promoting Christian Knowledge and for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts and the said donation shall amount to the requisite sum for building and completing the said church, and it shall and may be lawful for such persons to become shareholders in the said loan, and to take such shares therein (not exceeding by any one person the number of ten shares) as such persons have already agreed or shall hereafter agree to take in the said loan until the whole number of one hundred shares shall have been disposed of.
- Sale and transfer of shares. 2. And be it enacted that no share shall be transferable by any holder thereof or any right or interest therein until all the calls thereon shall have been paid as hereinafter mentioned, but after the said calls shall have been paid it shall and may be lawful for any shareholder to sell or transfer his share or shares and all his right and interest in respect thereof to any other person by endorsement on the said share or otherwise as he shall see fit: Provided, however, that no sale of any such share shall take place by any public auction, but shall be by private contract only, and that the person to whom any share or shares shall be sold or transferred as aforesaid shall forthwith give notice thereof to the trustees to be elected in manner hereinafter mentioned.
- Interest on shares. 3. And be it enacted that the sums advanced by shareholders in respect of their several shares shall bear interest from and after the first day to be fixed by the trustees after the said church shall be erected and completed and open for divine service therein, and not sooner.
- Right of shareholders to vote. 4. And be it enacted that all shareholders in the said loan shall at all public meetings of the shareholders have the right of voting in the election of trustee and in all matters relating to the erection of the said church, and the management of the funds thereof until the said loan shall have been wholly repaid and discharged according to the number of their respective shares, that is to say, the holder of one share shall be entitled to one vote; the holder of two or three shares to two votes, the holder of four or five shares to three votes, the holder of six or seven shares to four votes, and the holder of eight, nine, or ten shares to five votes.
- Free sittings. 5. And be it enacted that on the completion of the said church a part of the whole number of sittings shall be appropriated to the use of the public as free sittings, and that the number of free sittings shall bear the same proportion to the whole number of sittings as the sum raised by donations shall bear to the whole sum raised by shares and donations together.
- Preference of shareholders in renting pews. 6. And be it enacted that on the completion of the said church and after the proper number of pews and sittings shall have been set apart and allotted for the use of the minister and the churchwardens and public aforesaid, all shareholders shall have a right to become each the renter of one pew in preference to any other persons who possess no shares, and the shareholders shall amongst themselves have priority in the choice of pews of whatever size or seats not exceeding six according to the number of their shares, the holder of the greater number of shares to have the prior choice, and the choice of holders of an equal number of shares to be determined if need be by ballot amongst them: Provided, however, that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees at their discretion upon the application of any shareholder whose family may require a greater number of seats in the said church than six to permit and allow such shareholder to choose two adjoining pews.

Ord. 7—1845.

7. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep a book or plan wherein shall be entered the names of all shareholders in the order of the number of shares taken by them, the numbers of their said shares respectively, and the number and description of the pew chosen by each shareholder in respect thereof; and every shareholder shall on making his choice as aforesaid sign his name in a column opposite to the said entry in acknowledgment of the truth thereof, and no second choice shall be afterwards made by any holder of the same share or any of them except upon the pew or pews so chosen as aforesaid being first relinquished and given up.

Subscription by shareholders to selection of pews.

8. And be it enacted that upon any shareholder having duly made choice of a pew the said shareholder, his heirs and assigns shall and may for ever afterwards possess and occupy the same without the hindrance or disturbance of any person whatever, so long as he or they shall continue to pay the rent affixed thereon when and as the same shall become due and payable and shall continue to hold the share or shares in respect of which the said pew was chosen or the same shall have been paid off by the trustees by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Rights of shareholders in pews.

9. And be it enacted that a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden on the first Wednesday of May in every year at such place as shall be appointed by the trustees for that purpose, and notice whereof shall be given by them by advertisement in one of the newspapers of this Colony twenty-one days at least before the same is to be holden, and it shall and may be lawful for the trustees or the auditors or either of the auditors to be elected as hereinafter mentioned at any time to call a general meeting of the shareholders upon giving the like notice thereof.

General annual meeting.

10. And be it enacted that as soon as conveniently may be after the passing of this Ordinance a general meeting of the shareholders shall be holden at Fort Beaufort, notice whereof shall be given by the said committee of management by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony twenty-one days at least before the said meeting is appointed to be holden, for the purpose of electing trustees and auditors, and it shall and may be lawful for the said shareholders or the greater part assembled at such meeting to elect out of the said shareholders any number of persons not exceeding

Election of first trustees and auditors.

Ord. 7—1845.

nine to be trustees and two other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.

Continuance in office of trustees.

11. And be it enacted that the trustees so elected by the shareholders and such as shall be afterwards elected upon the death, resignation, or removal of any trustee as hereinafter mentioned shall continue in office until the first Wednesday of May next after the said church shall be erected and completed, and that upon the said first Wednesday of May and yearly afterwards on the same day three of the said trustees shall go out of office and three other trustees shall be elected instead of them by and out of the shareholders in manner aforesaid until the whole of the first appointed and preceding trustees shall have been relieved; and the order of their so going out of office shall if necessary be determined by ballot amongst them.

Auditors of accounts.

12. And be it enacted that two persons not being trustees shall be elected by and out of the shareholders yearly on the first Wednesday of May to be auditors of the accounts of the said trustees.

Delivery of books, papers, &c., by committee of management to trustees.

13. And be it enacted that the said committee of management shall upon the election of trustees as aforesaid and upon their acceptance of the said office deliver over to the said trustees all deeds, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church in their custody or power and all and any sums of money, donations, or subscriptions given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid or securities for the same in their possession or control, and the said committee of management and the office and duties thereof shall thereupon cease and determine.

Powers and duties of trustees as to trust funds.

14. And be it enacted that the said trustees and all others who shall from time to time be hereafter elected as trustees under any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall during the time of their continuance in office stand and be possessed of all the said sums of money, donations, and subscriptions and of all such sums of money as shall at any time hereafter be granted to them from the Colonial Treasury as aforesaid or from the Societies for Promoting Christian Knowledge and for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts or shall arise from payments made by the shareholders in respect of their said shares or otherwise, and of all such donations and subscriptions as shall at any time hereafter be given or subscribed for the purpose aforesaid or in aid of the funds of the said church, and of all rents and revenues arising from the letting of pews, fees for placing monuments in the said church or in the burial-ground belonging thereto or for digging vaults in the said burial-ground or otherwise, upon trust in the first place and until the said church shall be erected and completed; to cause the said church to be erected and completed according to such plan and specification thereof as shall be approved of and adopted by them, and from and after the erection and completion of the said church upon trust to pay and apply the said sums of money, donations, subscriptions, rents, and revenues in manner following, that is to say: in the first place, to pay thereout the cost of all necessary repairs and expenses in and about the said church, for repairing, keeping up, and maintaining the same; secondly, in payment of the interest together with any arrears thereof due to the several shareholders on the sums advanced by them on their respective shares in an equal rate, when and as the funds at their disposal shall enable them so to do; and lastly, upon trust to pay and apply the residue thereof in discharge of the loan advanced by the shareholders whenever and as often as the said residue shall be sufficient to pay off a part of the said loan at a rate of not less than five shillings sterling upon each share until the whole of the said loan shall be paid off and discharged.

Ord. 7—1845.

15. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to then under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute, and compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for erecting and completing the said church as aforesaid.

Power of trustees to compel payments, make contracts, &c.

16. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees as such at all times and from time to time as they shall see fit to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any shareholder or other person whatsoever, and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of "The Trustees of Saint John's Church at Beaufort" (being the name given to it by His Excellency the Governor), as the case may require, without specifying the christian or surnames of the trustees; and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any trustee.

Power of trustees to sue and defend suits, &c.

17. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or agreement or any other matter or thing made or entered into, done or performed by the said trustees in the execution of the said trust, or which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said shareholders jointly, shall be brought by such person against the said trustees in manner and in the name aforesaid and not against any individual trustee or trustees, shareholder or shareholders.

Actions against trustees in execution of their trust not competent against individual trustees.

18. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees from time to time to call upon the shareholders for such payments in respect of their said shares as together with the donations and sums of money to be granted from the Colonial Treasury, and by the Societies for Promoting Christian Knowledge and for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts as aforesaid they may deem necessary for carrying on the building and completing the said church as aforesaid: Provided, however, that no such call shall at any one time exceed one-third part of the amount of the said shares and that the whole of such calls shall not exceed the amount of five pounds in respect of each share.

Calls on shareholders.

Ord. 7—1845.

Advertisement of calls.

19. And be it enacted that the trustees shall cause all calls to be made by them to be advertised in one of the public newspapers of this Colony together with the time and place appointed by them for payment thereof twenty-one days at least before the said time.

Forfeiture of share on non-payment.

20. And be it enacted that if any shareholder shall neglect or refuse to pay at the time and place appointed for that purpose his proportion of any lawful call made by the trustees upon the shareholders as aforesaid, and the same shall be in arrear for the space of fourteen days next after the said day appointed for payment, it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees if they shall think fit to declare and pronounce the share or shares of such shareholder to be forfeited and the same shall thereupon be forfeited accordingly; and it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to dispose of such forfeited share or shares to any other person who may be desirous of possessing the same: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to prevent the said trustees from bringing and maintaining their action against any shareholder refusing or neglecting to pay as aforesaid if they shall think fit so to do instead of pronouncing and declaring his share or shares to be forfeited as aforesaid.

Account and audit.

21. And be it enacted that the trustees shall keep an account wherein they shall enter all money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times; and the said account together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon shall be laid before the shareholders for their inspection at their general annual meetings.

Lodgment of moneys in bank.

22. And be it enacted that the trustees shall as soon as they shall receive any sum of money exceeding ten pounds open and keep an account with any person or persons not being trustees who shall be appointed by the shareholders for that purpose at any general meeting or in any bank; and every other sum of money exceeding ten pounds so received by the said trustees shall be forthwith paid into the hands of the person or persons or bank so to be appointed by the shareholders for that purpose, to be placed to the credit of such account; and all cheques or orders for payment of any such money thus deposited shall truly express the cause of such payment and the name of the person in whose favour it is drawn, and shall be signed by all the trustees or by two of them for themselves and co-trustees.

Penalty on improper retention of money.

23. And be it enacted that any trustee who shall retain in his hands or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to retain any sum of money exceeding ten pounds part of the church fund longer than until the first day after his receiving the same upon which it shall be possible for him to pay the said sum or cause it to be paid to the person or persons or bank appointed as aforesaid or shall employ for his own benefit or knowingly permit any co-trustee so to employ any sum of money part of the church fund shall and may be removable by the said shareholders from his said office, and shall moreover forfeit and pay for the benefit of the church fund double the amount of the fund so retained and employed, and which shall and may be recovered by the other trustees by action in any competent Court.

Ord. 7—1845.

24. And be it enacted that as soon as the said church shall be erected and completed as aforesaid the accounts of the said trustees shall thereupon be finally wound up and audited, and laid before the shareholders for their inspection, and no further call shall be afterwards made upon the shareholders in respect of their shares.

Final account.

25. And be it enacted that in case any trustee shall die or desire to resign his said office or shall be removed as aforesaid the surviving or other trustees shall forthwith call a meeting of the shareholders for the purpose of electing a new trustee in the place of the one dying or desiring to resign or being removed as aforesaid, and the same notice shall be given of the time and place of the said meeting and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as upon the original election of trustees: Provided, however, that no trustee shall be permitted to resign his office until he shall have duly accounted to the satisfaction of the shareholders for all sums of money at any time received by him.

Death, resignation, or removal of trustee.

26. And be it enacted that as soon as the said church shall be erected and completed the care and government of the said church shall be thenceforward and until the said loan shall have been wholly paid off in manner hereinbefore provided, together with the interest thereon as aforesaid, be committed to a vestry consisting of the officiating minister for the time being and the trustees elected by the shareholders without any new election in manner aforesaid; and the said minister shall when he is present preside at the said vestry, and when he is absent then one of the trustees elected by them; and all the members of the said vestry shall have an equal right of voting in matters belonging to it, except that in case of an equality of votes the president shall likewise have a casting vote.

Constitution of vestry.

27. And be it enacted that the duty of the said vestry shall be to provide the said church with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine worship and the use of the officiating minister therein, and to keep the same clean and in proper repair.

Duty of vestry.

28. And be it enacted that there shall be two churchwardens chosen yearly on the first Wednesday of May by the vestry from their own number, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts, matters, and things necessary for the good order and decency of Election of churchwardens.

Ord. 7—1845.

behaviour to be kept and observed in the said church by the congregation thereof and for preserving to all persons their rights in the said pews and sittings.

Minister and churchwardens' pews.

29. And be it enacted that before any choice of pews by the shareholders shall take place there shall be set apart and allotted by the vestry a pew sufficient to hold six persons for the minister and another sufficient to hold four persons for the churchwardens; and there shall also be set apart in some convenient part of the said church the due proportion of free seats for the use of poor persons.

Free seats.

Choice and rent of pews.

30. And be it enacted that as soon as may be after the erection and completion of the said church the trustees shall call together the shareholders of each class according to their number of shares for the purpose of exercising their right in the choice of pews, and the rents of all such pews as shall be chosen by shareholders shall be fixed by the vestry according to the number of sittings therein.

Vacant pews.

31. And be it enacted that after the shareholders shall have chosen their pews in manner provided for that purpose the trustees shall give notice of all the pews and seats which are then vacant by affixing the same in writing upon the door of the said church and otherwise as they shall see fit; and the said trustees shall give the like notice for six successive weeks at the end of each year of all the pews which are then vacant or will become vacant at the commencement of the next year.

Letting of pews.

32. And be it enacted that all the pews and seats in the said church except the pews set apart for the minister and churchwardens and the said free seats and the pews chosen by shareholders shall and may be let by the trustees by the year or for any shorter period to any person desiring to take the same, at a rent to be affixed to the same respectively by the vestry and payable at such time and in such manner as shall be appointed by the trustees; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term, provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable.

Proceedings on non-payment of pew-rent.

33. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the trustees whenever and as often as it shall happen that the rent of any pew is in arrear and unpaid for the space of twenty-eight days after the same is due and payable to give notice to the possessor of such pew forthwith to quit and give up possession thereof, and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said trustees to re-enter into the possession of the said pew for the purposes of this Ordinance without any other form or proceeding whatever; and no person having been so dispossessed of his pew for non-payment of rent shall be entitled afterwards to any priority in the choice of a pew: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to deprive the trustees from recovering the amount of such rent in arrear by action as aforesaid in any competent Court.

Ord. 7—1845.

34. And be it enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church; but the burials of all persons according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted or which hereafter may be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose.

Burials.

35. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monuments to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the enclosed ground about the same or in the burial-ground belonging thereto, or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground upon the payment to the fund of the said church for such permission by the person or persons desiring to erect or place any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same or in the said burial-ground or to dig and make any vault in the said burial-ground of such a reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission according to the terms and extent thereof.

Monuments and vaults.

36. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or enclosed ground about the same or digging and making any vault in the said burial-ground by and with such permission aforesaid to have, maintain, and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons and his or their heirs for ever.

Property in do.

37. And be it enacted that on the first Wednesday in the month of May next after the whole of the said loan and the interest thereon shall have been paid off and discharged as aforesaid the office of the trustees and auditors shall thereupon cease and determine, and in the place of the said trustees there shall be elected on the said first Wednesday in May and yearly afterwards on the same day by and out of the resident inhabitants of Fort Beaufort and of the parochial limits thereof being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as by law established a like number of persons, who shall together with the officiating minister for the time being form a vestry for the future care and government of the said church, and two other persons to be auditors of the accounts of the said vestry; and the trustees last in office aforesaid shall upon the last-mentioned vestry entering upon their said office surrender and give up to the said last-mentioned vestry all documents, books, plans, papers, and vouchers relating to the said church and to the administration of the funds thereof and all sums of money in their custody, possession, or control arising from and belonging to the church fund.

Election of new vestry.

Ord. 10—1845.
Powers of new vestry.

38. And be it enacted that the said vestry so from time to time constituted and elected by such inhabitant householders as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise all the same powers, rights, and duties respecting the said church and the care and government thereof, and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof and all other matters and things relating to the same as shall and may be exercised by the trustees and vestry or either of them, constituted and elected by such shareholders as aforesaid under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, in so far as the said powers, rights, and duties shall be applicable to the then existing circumstances of the said church.

Public ordinance.

39. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Magistrates, and others without being specially pleaded.

 Ordinance for authorising the Appointment of a Vestry and Churchwardens for the Episcopal Church about to be erected at Graaff-Reinet.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the inhabitants of Graaff-Reinet and the parochial limits thereof being members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established should be invested with the right and privilege of choosing and appointing under certain regulations a vestry and churchwardens for the better and more effectual administration and management of all matters connected with the Episcopal Church about to be erected at Graaff-Reinet, and that the said vestry and churchwardens after having been duly appointed should possess certain powers and perform certain duties as the same are usually possessed and exercised by such officers according to the customs and usages of the said United Church of England and Ireland: And whereas on the appointment of the said vestry and churchwardens it is expedient that the committee and secretary at present constituted should cease and determine. Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that on the first Wednesday in the month next but one ensuing after the promulgation of this Ordinance, and annually afterwards on the same day, a general meeting of the male inhabitants of Graaff-Reinet aforesaid and of the parochial limits thereof being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards and members of and holding communion with the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established shall be holden at Graaff-Reinet, fourteen days' notice whereof, shall be given by the minister of the said church for the time being by promulgation during divine service and by notice posted on the doors of the church or by advertisement in one of the public papers of this Colony for the purpose of electing a vestry, and it shall and may be lawful for the inhabitants as aforesaid or a greater part assembled at such meeting to elect from among themselves any number of persons not exceeding eight, in manner and subject to the provisions hereinafter mentioned, who together with the officiating minister for the time being shall form a vestry charged with the duties and invested with the powers hereinafter mentioned.

Annual election of vestry.

Auditors.

2. And be it enacted that two other persons not being members of the said vestry shall likewise be elected at such meeting as aforesaid to be auditors of the accounts of said vestry.

Qualification of members of vestry.

3. And be it enacted that every male inhabitant householder being of the age of twenty-one years or upwards and a member of and holding communion with the church aforesaid and residing at Graaff-Reinet or within the parochial limits thereof shall be eligible to be a member of the said vestry: Provided, always that no person shall be entitled to vote at such election or be eligible to be chosen a member of the vestry or an auditor of accounts thereof so long as (legal demand having previously been made) any just claim had upon him by the said vestry as such shall remain unsatisfied.

Ord. 8—1846.

4. And be it enacted that a list of all persons eligible according to the provisions of the foregoing section shall be prepared by the officiating minister so long as there are no churchwardens appointed, and when churchwardens shall have been appointed as is hereinafter provided, then by the minister and churchwardens conjointly, and shall be open for inspection of all persons entitled to vote at the election of the said vestry and auditors at least fourteen days before any election is to take place.

List of eligible persons.

5. And be it enacted that at every such general meeting as aforesaid the election shall be carried on by lists duly signed by such inhabitants as aforesaid respectively and containing the names of the persons for whom they vote to be elected as vestrymen and as auditors.

Manner of election.

6. And be it enacted that the officiating minister for the time being shall preside as chairman at the meetings of the said vestry, provided that in his absence from any such meeting one of the other members shall be chosen to act as chairman; and in case the votes of the said vestry be equally divided the chairman or acting chairman shall have a casting vote in addition to his own.

Chairman.

7. And be it enacted that five members of the said vestry or four members besides the chairman shall form a quorum and shall be competent to perform all matters and things which may be done by the vestry under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Quorum.

8. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry so from time to time constituted and appointed to frame, adopt, alter, or rescind such rules, orders, and by-laws as may to them appear expedient for their guidance in the discharge of their duties and for more effectually executing the provisions of this Ordinance, and also to take such order for the management of the said church as shall to them seem expedient; provided that the same rules, orders, or by-laws contain nothing repugnant to law or to the tenor of this Ordinance or to the customs and usages of the United Church of England and Ireland as there by law established.

Power to make, alter, &c. rules.

9. And be it enacted that the said committee shall upon the appointment of the said vestry deliver over to the said vestry all deeds, books, and papers relating to the church in their custody or power and all sums of money in their possession or control; and the office and duties of the said committee shall thereupon cease and determine.

Cessation of committee.

10. And be it enacted that the said vestry as from time to time constituted and elected by such members of the said church as aforesaid shall and may have and exercise the whole power and rights and duties respecting the said church and the full care and government thereof and the administration of the funds, rents, and revenues thereof, and all other matters and things relating to the same.

Powers of vestry as to administration, &c.

As to payment of money, contracts,
&c.

11. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry for the time being to call in and compel payment of all sums of money which are or shall be at any time hereafter due and payable to their order by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, and in their own names to make and enter into, perform and execute, or compel the performance and execution of all such contracts and agreements, matters and things as they shall from time to time deem necessary for the good of the church aforesaid.

Manner of bringing actions by vestry.

12. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the said vestry as such from time to time to commence and maintain all such suits and actions in any competent Court in this Colony as they shall deem necessary in performance of the trust reposed in them against any person whatsoever; and all such suits and actions shall and may be brought by them in the name of "The Vestry of St. James' Church," without specifying the christian or surnames of the members of the vestry and no action shall abate by reason of the death or removal or going out of office of any individual members thereof.

Actions against vestry.

13. And be it enacted that all suits or actions the cause of which shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever from or by reason of any contract or other matter or thing made or entered into or performed by the said vestry in the execution of the said trust or shall arise or accrue to any person whatsoever against the said vestry shall be brought by such person in manner and in name aforesaid and not against any individual member of the said vestry.

Accounts of vestry.

14. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall keep an account wherein they shall enter money received and paid by them under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, which account the auditors or either of them may inspect at all reasonable times. And the said account together with any report of the auditors or either of them thereon shall be laid before the members holding communion with the said church at the general annual meeting aforesaid, and published if requisite for general information.

Churchwardens.

15. And be it enacted that the said vestry shall forthwith on their appointment or as soon as conveniently may be choose out of their own number two persons to be churchwardens, who shall perform and execute all lawful acts, and matters, and things for the good order and decency of behaviour to be kept in the said church by the congregation thereof, and for preserving to all persons their rights in the pews and sittings thereof, and providing the said church (by order and at the charges of the said vestry) with necessary and customary furniture for the performance of divine service, and for keeping the same clean and in proper repair, and for keeping the burial-ground attached to the said church in decent order and properly fenced, and for discharging all other duties which usually devolve on churchwardens in the United Church of England and Ireland so far as the same may be applicable to this Colony.

Ord. 8—1846.

16. And be it enacted that the said churchwardens shall keep an exact account of all collections of money made from time to time in the said church for any charitable or religious purposes connected with the said church or congregation, and the said churchwardens together with the officiating minister for the time being shall faithfully administer the same or see that they be faithfully administered and appropriated in the manner and for the purposes contemplated and intended by the persons contributing to the same. And the churchwardens' accounts of all such sums as shall be subscribed and collected for charitable purposes and received in trust by them in virtue of their office shall be subject to all the same regulations as the general church fund and accounts of the vestry.

Charitable collections, &c.

17. And be it enacted that the churchwardens appointed as above shall continue in office until after the next general annual election of the vestry is completed when they shall deliver up to the said vestry all accounts of such charities as aforesaid duly audited, together with all vouchers, sums of money, or securities held by them in virtue of their office, and the vestry shall then proceed to nominate other churchwardens for the ensuing year: Provided, always, that the churchwardens thus vacating office shall be eligible to be re-elected in case they are continued as members of the vestry.

Continuance in office of churchwardens.

18. And be it enacted that in case any member of the vestry shall die or desire to resign or shall be removed for any other lawful cause shall vacate his office it shall and may be lawful for the surviving or other members of the said vestry to decide whether a special general meeting shall be called for the purpose of electing another member in the place of the one so dying or desiring to resign or being removed, or whether his place shall remain vacant until the next general annual meeting to be holden as aforesaid: Provided, always, that in case the members of the said vestry decide that a special general meeting shall be holden for the purpose aforesaid, the same notice shall be given thereof and the same proceedings shall be observed thereat as in case of the general annual meeting is provided.

Vacancy in vestry.

19. And be it enacted that there shall be set apart in the said church two free pews, one to be allotted to the use of the minister and the other to that of the churchwardens, and such other pews as the vestry for the time being may deem necessary as free sittings for strangers and poor persons.

Free sittings.

20. And be it enacted that all the pews and sittings in the said church with the exception of these allotted and reserved as aforesaid shall and may be let by the vestry by the year or for any other shorter period to any person desiring to take the same, at a rent to be affixed to them respectively by the vestry and payable at such times and in such manner as shall be appointed by the vestry; and the holder of any pew so rented shall and may possess and occupy the same by himself or his assigns without hindrance or disturbance by any person whatsoever until the end of the said term, provided he shall continue to pay the rent affixed to the same at the times whereon and in the manner in which the same shall be made payable.

Proceedings in case of arrear pew-rents.

Pew-book.

22. And be it enacted that the said churchwardens acting as aforesaid shall keep a book to be called the "Pew-book," wherein they shall enter or cause to be entered the name of every person applying for either a pew, sitting, or sittings in the said church together with the date of such application; and that on any pew, sitting, or sittings becoming vacant, either by death, resignation, removal, or in any other way, or in case of the erection of any new pew or pews or seats in any part of the said church, the churchwardens for the time being shall forthwith apprise the applicant whose name shall stand first on the pew-book of the vacancy so caused or of the new pew, pews, or seat so erected, and shall offer the said pew, seat or seats to such applicant on condition that he or she shall covenant and engage to pay the rent of the same affixed and made payable as hereinbefore mentioned; and that the said pew, sitting, or sittings so becoming vacant, or the said pew or pews, seat or seats so newly erected shall not be offered to any person whatsoever whose application for the same or any portion of the same shall bear a later date until it shall have been declined by every applicant preceding such person on the pew-book.

Burials.

23. And be it enacted that no burial shall take place within or under the said church, but the burials of all persons according to the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England shall take place in the burial-ground consecrated and allotted or which may hereafter be consecrated and allotted to the said church for that purpose.

Monuments and vaults.

24. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the officiating minister and churchwardens for the time being to permit any monument to be erected or placed in such convenient parts of the said church or of the enclosed ground about the same or in the burial-ground belonging thereto, or vaults to be dug and made in the said burial-ground, upon payment to the fund of the said church for such permission of such reasonable fee as shall be affixed by the said vestry for such permission according to the term thereof.

Ord. 9 - 1846.

25. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons erecting or placing any monument in the said church or digging or making any vaults in the said burial-ground by and with such permission as aforesaid to have, maintain, and keep up such monument or vault according to the terms of such permission to and for the sole and separate use of the said person or persons and his or their heirs for ever: Provided, always, that in case any such monument as aforesaid is suffered to fall into decay and the person or persons to whom the said monument appertains neglect to repair the same it shall and may be lawful after a general notice of such intention to remove the same.

Ownership in vaults and monuments.

26. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall be deemed and taken to be a public Ordinance and shall be judicially taken notice of by all the Judges, Magistrates, and others without being specially pleaded, and shall be of full force and effect after the promulgation thereof.

not upon conviction pay the sum awarded such Magistrate is hereby authorised to commit him to prison, there to be kept to hard labour should the said Magistrate so order for any term not exceeding six weeks, unless the sum awarded shall be sooner paid or recovered. Provided, always, that it shall be competent for such Magistrate notwithstanding such committal to prison as aforesaid to authorise by warrant under his hand the amount adjudged to be forfeited (together with such costs if any as may be awarded under and by virtue of the forty-first section of this Ordinance) to be levied by distress and sale of the goods of the offender. And provided, also, that when and as often as any of the goods of the offender shall be within any district other than that of the convicting Magistrate, the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such goods shall be shall endorse any such warrant as aforesaid, after which it shall and may be executed in like manner as if the same had been issued by the Magistrate so endorsing it; and provided, also, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed so as to affect or impair the force and validity of the eighteenth or thirty-fifth or of the concluding clause of the thirtieth section of this Ordinance. And provided, also, that the keeper of every public prison shall receive into his charge and custody the body of any person committed by any Resident Magistrate whether of the district in which such prison is situate or not to be imprisoned under the provisions of this Ordinance for any contravention of the same.

Appointment by Governor of road magistrates.

7. And whereas it is expedient in order to prevent delay, inconvenience, and expense that Magistrates should be created having in regard to such fines, penalties and forfeitures as aforesaid a certain concurrent jurisdiction with such Resident Magistrates as aforesaid: Be it therefore enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony from time to time to nominate and appoint in such places as he shall deem expedient so many fit and proper persons as he shall select, to be called and termed Road Magistrates, who shall severally and respectively have jurisdiction to try and determine all cases of offences alleged to have been committed in contravention of any of the provisions of the second, third, and fourth sections of this Ordinance and all other offences created by this Ordinance, in regard to which such Road Magistrates shall be expressly invested with jurisdiction, and to impose all fines, penalties, and forfeitures consequent thereon, and if it need be award imprisonment in as full and ample a manner as is hereinbefore provided in regard to the Court of Resident Magistrates.

Their jurisdiction.

Oaths of road
magistrate.

8. And be it enacted that every such Road Magistrate shall before acting as such take the oath of allegiance and the oath of office in the first schedule hereunto annexed set forth, which oaths respectively any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace is hereby empowered to administer.

9. And be it enacted that every such Road Magistrate as aforesaid shall act in and exercise the jurisdiction aforesaid in a purely summary manner, that is to say, when and as often as any person or persons shall under and by virtue of the provisions in that behalf hereafter contained bring or cause to be brought before such Road Magistrate at any place where he shall happen to be any wagon, cart, or other carriage, or owner or driver thereof, and shall complain that any offence against the provisions of the second or third sections of this Ordinance has been by it or by means of it committed such Road Magistrate shall record such complaint and shall forthwith hear and determine the same.

Ord. 9—1846.
Summary exercise of jurisdiction.

10. And be it enacted that every complaint shall if possible before but at all events as soon as may be after the determination of the case be recorded by the Road Magistrate by entering in separate columns in a record book to be kept for that purpose the name and residence of the person complaining, the name and residence if known of the owner of the wagon, cart, or other carriage, by or by means of which the alleged offence has been committed, the description of such alleged offence, and the day of the hearing of the same.

Record book of complaints, &c.

11. And be it enacted that every such Road Magistrate as aforesaid shall also record in a separate column in the said record book the judgment given by him in regard to any such complaint as soon as the same shall have been pronounced.

Judgment.

12. And be it enacted that in every case in which any such Road Magistrate shall see cause in regard to any such complaint to convict the party offending, being the owner of the wagon, cart, or other carriage, it shall and may be lawful for him in case the fine, penalty, or forfeiture imposed shall not be paid forthwith or in case sufficient security for the payment of the same shall not be given to issue a warrant under his hand directed to any person whom he shall name therein, authorising such person to seize and attach any property, matter, or thing being in or upon such wagon, cart, or other carriage, sufficient to satisfy the exigency of the warrant, or failing such to seize and attach so many of the oxen or other cattle belonging to or drawing the wagon, cart, or other carriage in regard to which such conviction shall have been had as may be deemed sufficient to satisfy the exigency of the warrant, and which number shall be specified in such warrant.

Execution of judgment.

13. And be it enacted that every such warrant shall in substance and effect be agreeable to the form in the second schedule hereunto annexed mentioned and set forth.

Form of warrant.

14. (1) And be it enacted that when and as often as any oxen or other cattle shall be seized and attached under any such warrant as aforesaid they shall by the person named in the said warrant, be forwarded to the nearest public pound, the keeper of which is hereby required to receive the same, and at or as soon as may be after the expiration of ten days from the day of such seizure and attachment shall be publicly sold for ready money by the keeper of such pound (who shall not require any licence as an auctioneer in order to sell the same) to the highest bidder; provided that a notice of such sale shall be affixed by such pound-keeper at such pound and such other place if any as such Road Magistrate may order three days at least before the sale. And provided also that if the amount mentioned in any such warrant together with the reasonable expenses of seizing and sending such oxen or other cattle to the pound and the legal pound charges be sooner paid and satisfied to the Road Magistrate convicting, to be by him applied according to law, the said Magistrate shall grant his order for the restoration of the said oxen or other cattle, which shall be restored accordingly.

Ord. 9—1846.

Application of proceeds.

15. (1) And be it enacted that the keeper of every pound by whom any such oxen or cattle shall be sold as aforesaid shall forthwith pay and hand over to the Road Magistrate convicting or any person by him authorised to receive the same the amount which shall have been realized by such sale; deducting only his legal and usual charges in regard to similar cattle impounded for the same time for other causes; and if after the payment of such charges and the reasonable expenses of the persons mentioned in such warrant as aforesaid and the amount of the fine, penalty, forfeiture imposed any surplus shall remain the same shall be paid upon demand to the owner of the oxen or other cattle seized and sold.

Manner of proceeding on attachment of property other than cattle.

16. And be it enacted that when and as often as any property, matter, or thing other than cattle shall be seized and attached under and by virtue of the provision in that behalf in the twelfth section of this Ordinance contained, the same shall be sold publicly and for ready money by the person to whom the warrant aforesaid shall be directed or by some other person to be approved of by the Road Magistrate issuing the same to the highest bidder at such place as such Magistrate shall direct for the sale thereof. Provided that a notice of every such sale shall be affixed at such place or places as the said Magistrate shall deem requisite seven days at least before the day appointed for such sale, which shall not be earlier than the fourteenth day from the day of the seizure. And provided, also, that the person conducting such sale shall pay and hand over to the Road Magistrate, to be applied as in and by the forty-second section of this Ordinance is directed the whole amount of the proceeds realized thereby less such fee or charge not exceeding seven shillings and six pence as the said Magistrate shall deem reasonable and allow, and any surplus shall upon demand be paid to the person convicted. And provided, also, that if such last mentioned person shall pay or cause to be paid at any time before such sale as aforesaid the amount of the fine imposed, together with a fee of three shillings and six pence for the person who shall have made seizure the property seized shall be restored.

Ord. 9—1846.

17. And be it enacted that in every case in which the driver of any wagon, cart, or carriage shall be convicted by any Road Magistrate of contravening any of the provisions of the third section of this Ordinance, such Magistrate, in case the fine imposed shall not be forthwith paid and it shall appear that the offender may be committed to prison without thereby depriving the wagon, cart or other carriage of which he shall be in charge of a person necessary for the safe conduct of the same, shall forthwith commit such offender to prison, and his warrant for that purpose shall in substance and effect be agreeable to the form in the third schedule of this Ordinance mentioned and set forth.

Imprisonment of driver on non-payment of fine.

18. And be it enacted that in every case in which it shall appear that to commit to prison forthwith any driver convicted as in the last preceding section mentioned would have the effect of depriving the wagon, cart, or carriage of which he was in charge of a person necessary for the safe conduct of the same the Magistrate convicting (whether a Resident Magistrate or a Road Magistrate) shall instead of forthwith committing the offender cause to be seized and detained in some safe place some sufficient property, matter, or thing in, upon, or belonging to such wagon, cart, or carriage, by way of caution or security for the payment of the fine imposed or otherwise for the reappearance of such offender at some reasonable time to be fixed by the said Magistrate for such payment or reappearance. And when and as often as any property, matter, or thing shall be seized and detained under the provisions of this section the Magistrate causing such seizure or detention shall deliver to the person convicted a certificate which shall in substance and effect be agreeable to the form in the fourth schedule hereunto annexed, and shall allow him to depart. And in case the fine imposed shall not be paid, or failing that in case the offender shall not again appear on the day limited for such purpose in the said certificate, the property or thing seized and detained shall be treated and considered as if seized and attached under a warrant of the Magistrate granting such certificate against the goods and chattels of the offender, and shall be sold in case such Magistrate be a Resident Magistrate, by the messenger in manner and form as by the rules of his Court in that behalf provided, and in case such Magistrate be a Road Magistrate by some person by him appointed for that purpose in manner and form as is hereinbefore in the sixteenth section in this Ordinance provided. Provided, always, that in case the fine imposed be paid or the offender again appear on or before the day in and by the said certificate limited for that purpose the property, article, matter or thing detained shall be restored.

Manner of proceeding when the immediate imprisonment of driver would endanger the safety of the master's property.

Ord. 9—1846.

Payment by master of fine in last section.

or delivery up of offender.

19. And be it enacted that the owner of any property, matter, or thing seized or detained under the circumstances in the last preceding section mentioned, shall be authorised either to pay the fine imposed for and on account of the offender, and to retain or recover the amount thereof from such offender, or otherwise to convey such offender to the Magistrate granting the certificate aforesaid, so as to produce such offender at any time before the expiration of the day limited in such certificate for that purpose. And whenever any such offender shall be so produced before any Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate and shall not pay the fine imposed such Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate shall forthwith commit him to prison, and the warrant to be issued by any Resident Magistrate for that purpose shall be in substance and effect agreeable to the form in the third schedule of this Ordinance mentioned and set forth.

Authority of persons seeing contraventions of this ordinance to compel offenders to appear before magistrate;

20. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person who shall witness or discover any contravention of the provisions of the second, third, or fourth sections of this Ordinance and for any other person whom he shall desire to assist him and shall be willing so to do to require and if necessary and practicable use all force necessary to compel the owner, driver, or other person or persons in charge of the wagon, cart, or other carriage by or by mean of which such contravention shall have been committed forthwith to proceed with the wagon, cart, or other carriage in question and the oxen or other cattle belonging thereto to the residence or place of abode of whatever Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate shall be or reside or be found nearest to the place where such wagon, cart, or other carriage shall be when so required to proceed as aforesaid, and such Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate shall as soon as may be proceed to hear and determine the subject-matter of the complaint, and shall detain the wagon, cart, or other carriage in question to abide the issue of the investigation of the case. Provided that it shall not be lawful to require any such owner, driver, or other person as aforesaid to proceed to any Magistrate whose residence shall be distant three miles or upwards.

if within three miles.

Manner of proceeding when offender cannot at once be taken before magistrate.

21. And be it enacted that when and as often as any person witnessing or discovering any such contravention as aforesaid shall by reason of distance or other impediment find it impossible or deem it inexpedient to require any such wagon, cart, or other carriage to proceed to any Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate, and in every case in which the residence of the nearest Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate shall be distant three miles or upwards from the place at which any such contravention as aforesaid shall be witnessed or discovered and there shall be nearer than the nearest Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler, the person so witnessing or discovering any such contravention as aforesaid may require and compel such wagon, cart, or other carriage to proceed to whoever of the last mentioned persons can be most conveniently reached, and such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler is hereby authorised and empowered at his discretion either to detain the said wagon, cart, or other carriage with the oxen or other cattle thereto belonging, for any period not exceeding twelve hours in order that during that period the case concerning it or them may be disposed of by some Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate, should it be practicable so to do, or such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler may in case the owner of such wagon, cart, or other carriage shall be in charge of or with the same take, but without fee or reward and as near as may be in the form in the fifth schedule to this Ordinance set forth, the bond, obligation, or recognizance of such owner with or without sureties as may be thought fit, conditioned for the appearance of such owner before any Resident Magistrate whom the said owner and the person complaining shall agree to have inserted, and in case they shall not so agree then before the Resident Magistrate whom the Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, gaoler, or constable shall under the circumstances deem the most convenient, upon some convenient day to be after consulting such owner and person complaining fixed by the Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler, and which day shall be mentioned in such bond, obligation or recognizance, then to answer the charge to be preferred against him; and upon such owner entering into such bond, obligation, or recognizance the wagon, cart, or other carriage in question, and the oxen used for drawing the same shall be allowed to depart. But if in any case the owner of the wagon, cart, or other carriage brought as aforesaid to any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler should not in person be in charge of or present with the same then in place and stead of taking such bond, obligation, or recognizance as aforesaid such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall and may detain the alleged offender to answer the charge against him, provided his so doing would not have the effect of depriving any wagon, cart, or other carriage of a person necessary for the safe conduct of the same, but if such detention would have such effect such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall and may seize and detain and if he shall think fit forward to and place in the nearest public pound such number of the oxen or other cattle belonging to such wagon, cart, or other carriage as he shall deem sufficient to meet and satisfy any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, which may be imposed for or in respect of the charge preferred; or should it be practicable shall seize and detain instead some property, matter, or thing in, upon, or belonging to such wagon, cart, or other carriage, and shall then permit and suffer such wagon, cart, or other carriage to depart, having first delivered a written statement to the owner or person in charge thereof of the day on which the case will come on to be investigated in and by the Court of the Resident Magistrate.

Ord. 9--1846.

Bond for appearance of owner before magistrate.

Detention of offender in default of bond;

or seizure of sufficient property.

Ord. 9—1846.

Provision for appearance of complainants on day of trial.

22. And be it enacted that in every case in which any wagon, cart, or other carriage shall be brought as aforesaid to any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, gaoler, or constable shall take down in writing the name and residence of every person bringing the same or causing the same to be brought, and may require every such person to enter into a bond, obligation, or recognizance with or without sureties and as near as may be in the form in the sixth schedule to this Ordinance set forth to appear and give evidence in the Court of the Resident Magistrate, or in case such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall propose to detain the wagon, cart, or other carriage with the oxen or other cattle as aforesaid in order that the case may be brought before any Road Magistrate then before such Road Magistrate, touching and concerning such alleged offence; and in case no sufficient security either personally or by sureties shall when required be given by some person or persons so to appear and give evidence the wagon, cart, or other carriage shall, unless the matter complained of in regard thereto shall be apparent upon the view thereof and the Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall himself think fit to prosecute be permitted to pursue its journey.

Proceeding on frivolous and vexatious complaints.

23. And be it enacted that if in any case in which any wagon, cart, or other carriage shall be brought as aforesaid to any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler it shall appear to such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler that the complaint made is groundless and vexatious; the person preferring the same and neglecting to give sufficient security personally or by sureties to appear and give evidence as aforesaid may upon the request of the owner or person in charge of the wagon, cart, or other carriage in question be detained in custody until he shall be brought up before the Court of the Resident Magistrate, such owner or person in charge in his turn giving security to appear and give evidence in the said Court or in person abiding in order so to do when the said person or persons shall be brought before the same, which shall be as soon as reasonably may be.

Penalty on such complaints.

24. And be it enacted that any person who shall to any Resident Magistrate, Road Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler prefer by virtue or under pretext of this Ordinance any groundless and vexatious complaint against any other person or any wagon, cart, or other carriage shall in addition to any civil action to which he may render himself liable forfeit upon conviction any sum not exceeding forty shillings.

Transmission of bonds for appearance to magistrate.

25. And be it enacted that in every case in which any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall take from any such owner as aforesaid (whether resident in the district in which any alleged offence shall have been witnessed or discovered or not) any such bond, obligation, or recognizance as aforesaid he shall forthwith forward the same to the Resident Magistrate mentioned therein, together with the name and residence of every person complaining as aforesaid, as also any bond, obligation, or recognizance which may have been entered into by any such last mentioned person to appear and give his evidence in the Court of the Resident Magistrate at the time fixed in the bond, obligation, or recognizance of such owner as aforesaid for the hearing of the case.

Ord. 9—1846.

26. And be it enacted that in every case in which any oxen or other cattle or any property, matter, or thing shall have been detained or impounded under and by virtue of the provision in that behalf hereinbefore set forth, by any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler, such Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler shall transmit forthwith to the Resident Magistrate a report of what has been done in that behalf, mentioning the day named by him to the parties for the hearing of the case together with the name and residence of and the other matters and things concerning every person complaining, in manner and form as in the last clause of the last preceding section mentioned and set forth.

Report of detention of Cattle &c., to magistrate.

27. And be it enacted that it shall be the duty of every Resident Magistrate to whom any such bond, obligation, or recognizance as aforesaid or any such report as in the last preceding section mentioned shall be transmitted by any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler to sit for the hearing of the case to which it relates upon the day which has been specified for the hearing of the same, and thereupon in the presence of the parties interested should both attend or in the absence of such of them if any as may make default to pronounce such judgment as shall to justice appertain.

Duty of magistrate to sit for hearing of case on day fixed.

28. And be it enacted that if the Court of the Resident Magistrate shall see cause to convict any owner in any case in which it shall have been reported as aforesaid that any oxen or other cattle or any property, matter, or thing seized and detained have been detained and impounded as aforesaid by any Justice of the Peace, field-cornet, or gaoler, the said oxen or other cattle shall and may be excused in satisfaction of the judgment. Provided, always, that the pound fees or charges due and payable thereon shall be first deducted from the amount for which any such oxen or other cattle shall be sold; and that there shall be next deducted the expense of sending the same to pound by such Justice of the Peace; and that in case there shall then remain any surplus after deducting the fine, penalty, or forfeiture imposed such surplus shall be paid over to such owner.

Excussion of property detained on conviction of owner.

29. And be it enacted that if the Court of the Resident Magistrate shall see cause to convict in his absence any driver in any case in which any oxen, cattle, property, article, matter, or thing, shall have been seized, detained, or impounded the same shall and may be executed in satisfaction of the judgment. Provided, always, that if such driver duly appear the thing seized, detained, or impounded shall be forthwith restored to the owner; and provided that it shall be competent for such owner at any time before the actual sale of the thing so seized, detained, or impounded to redeem the same by payment for and on account of the offenders of the fine imposed with reasonable charges to be assessed by the said Magistrate, and provided that if such owner shall produce to such Magistrate at any time before such sale aforesaid the convicted party (as he is hereby authorised to do) and shall pay such reasonable charges as aforesaid the thing seized, detained, or impounded shall be forthwith restored.

Prosecuted by summons,

30. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be construed so as to make it imperative or necessary for any person witnessing or discovering any contravention of this Ordinance to require the wagon, cart, or other carriage by or by means of which such contravention shall have taken place to proceed at once to any Resident Magistrate, Road Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Field-cornet, gaoler, or constable as aforesaid, but that such person may should he so think fit prosecute or cause to be prosecuted the party offending before any Court of Resident Magistrate which such person shall select. Provided, however, that no summons shall be issued by any such Court in any such case until such person shall have deposed on oath to the fact or facts charged to be or to have been such a contravention as aforesaid: and provided, also, that no person shall be summoned to appear before any such Court other than that of the district in which he resides, except such Court shall be appointed to be holden within the distance of twenty miles of such residence.

have been found sufficient to satisfy the exigency of the writ or warrant of execution it shall and may be lawful for the Court having cognizance of the case then to issue a warrant against the defendant for committing him to the prison nearest to his residence in manner and form as such Court might have done forthwith in case such defendant had duly appeared or been apprehended and brought before the same.

Ord. 9—1846.

32. (1) And be it enacted that every sentence or judgment of any Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate given or pronounced in any case of alleged contravention of any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be final and conclusive and shall not be subject to be brought by way of appeal or review before any other Court, anything in the Charter of Justice or any other Law or Ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sentence without appeal or review.

33. And be it enacted that if any person being in charge of any wagon, cart, or other carriage, whether the owner thereof or not, shall in any case in which he shall be required to proceed to any Resident Magistrate, Road Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Field-cornet, or gaoler under and by virtue of either the twentieth or the twenty-first sections of this Ordinance resist or refuse so doing or make any undue or unnecessary delay in so doing such person shall forfeit upon conviction any sum not exceeding five pounds. Provided, always, that the said forfeiture shall in no case attach or be inflicted except where it shall be proved that some one or more of the provisions of the second, third, or fourth sections of this Ordinance were actually contravened in the view of the person requiring the wagon, cart, or other carriage contravening the same to proceed as aforesaid.

Penalty on refusal to proceed to magistrate as required under 20th and 21st sections.

34. And be it enacted that if any person shall whether by day or night kindle, place, or have any fire upon the ground upon any part or within twenty yards on either side of the public road aforesaid from Cape Town to Simon's Town or of the new hard road aforesaid from Cape Town to its terminus at the Eerste River or of the public road from Cape Town to and through the municipality of Green Point; such person shall upon conviction forfeit any sum not exceeding two pounds, and it shall and may be lawful for any person finding any such fire forthwith to extinguish the same or cause the same to be extinguished: Provided, also, that it shall and may be lawful for His Excellency the Governor by any proclamation or proclamations to be by him from time to time issued in that behalf to extend the provisions of this section to any other public road or part thereof.

Penalty for the kindling of fires near certain roads.

35. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any person in whose presence any such offence as is in the last preceding section mentioned shall be committed to apprehend without warrant the person offending and to deliver him to any Resident Apprehension without warrant of offenders under last section.

Magistrate, Road Magistrate, Field-cornet, constable or peace officer, who shall keep him in safe custody and with all reasonable dispatch convey him with the witness or witnesses before the nearest Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate (which Road Magistrate shall have in regard to the said offence the same jurisdiction as a Resident Magistrate), to be dealt with according to law. Provided, always, that if in any case the person about to be apprehended as aforesaid shall be in actual charge of or belong to any wagon, cart, or other carriage the person apprehending shall unless there shall be on the spot some other person ready and willing with the consent of the person about to be apprehended to take charge of such wagon, cart, or other carriage cause the offender or some other person to conduct the said wagon, cart, or other carriage to such Resident Magistrate, Road Magistrate, or Field-cornet, or to some public pound or police station, there to be kept for the owner, by whom it may at any time be taken possession of, such owner, however, being bound before receiving possession thereof to pay and satisfy all reasonable charges and expenses attendant upon the keeping of the same and of the oxen or other cattle belonging thereto, and provided, also, that the warrant of committal by any Road Magistrate for the offence in the last preceding section mentioned shall in substance and effect be agreeable to the form in the third schedule hereunto annexed set forth; or such Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate may in case it shall appear more conducive to the interest of the owner of such wagon, cart, or carriage, proceed in manner and form as in the eighteenth section is provided to seize and detain some property or such matter or thing and allow the said offender to depart; and thereupon all and singular the provisions of the said eighteenth and nineteenth sections of this Ordinance shall be applicable and be applied as fully as if the same were here again repeated.

Form of committal.

Payment of charges by owner or offender.

36. And be it enacted that the reasonable charges and expenses in the last preceding section mentioned shall be and constitute a debt due by and recoverable from the owner of the wagon, cart, or other carriage in regard to which or the oxen or other cattle belonging to which the same shall have been incurred, and in case such owner shall not himself be a party offending such charges and expenses shall be by him recoverable over from the offender. Provided, always, that in case of any dispute about the amount of any charges or expenses claimed under and by virtue of the last preceding or of the fourteenth, fifteenth, twenty-eighth, or fortieth sections of this Ordinance, and of which the amount shall not be ascertained by law such dispute shall be settled by the decision of any Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate.

Presumption of ownership of oxen, &c., in owner of wagon.

37. And be it enacted that in all cases the oxen or other cattle drawing or belonging to any wagon, cart, or other carriage which shall under the provisions of the twentieth or twenty-first sections of this Ordinance be brought to or before any Resident Magistrate, Road Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Field-cornet, or gaoler shall be deemed to belong to the owner of such wagon, cart, or other carriage, and shall be liable to be seized and sold in satisfaction of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred by such owner.

Ord. 9—1846.

38. And be it enacted that when and as often as it shall be necessary to proceed by summons from the Resident Magistrate's Court in regard to any alleged contravention, by or by means of any wagon, cart, or other carriage, for which contravention the owner is hereinbefore declared to be liable, the several and respective persons following shall in the several and respective cases following be deemed to be for the purpose of incurring any fine, penalty, or forfeiture under the provisions of this Ordinance but not otherwise such owners, that is to say,—1st, the person whose name shall at the time of the alleged contravention be painted upon any wagon, cart, or other carriage, as the owner thereof, shall be deemed to be such owner and as such responsible, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court that his name was so upon the said wagon, cart, or other carriage, without his knowledge or consent; 2nd, the person having the right of property in any wagon, cart, or other such carriage, which ought by the second section of this Ordinance to have the name of the owner legibly painted thereon, and which either has not any name so painted or has so painted the name of some person not being the person having such right of property without the knowledge or consent of such person, shall be deemed to be the owner and as such responsible; 3rd, the person having the right of property in any carriage of a species or description in regard to which the painting thereupon of the owner's name is not hereinbefore enjoined, shall be deemed to be the owner, should such person be present in or with such carriage at the time of any contravention complained of, or should such carriage be then under the care and management of any person as his servant or agent; but in every other case the owner of any such last mentioned carriage shall be deemed to be the person by whom or by whose servant or agent the same shall be driven or conducted at the time of any such contravention as aforesaid. Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend so as to enable the messenger to attach in order to satisfy any fine, penalty, or forfeiture imposed upon any person as such owner as aforesaid anything except what would independently of this Ordinance be the property of such person.

furiously as to injure or endanger the person or property of any other person shall upon conviction forfeit any sum not exceeding forty shillings.

Apprehension of persons furiously driving without warrant.

40. And be it enacted that every person offending against the provisions of the last preceding section may be apprehended without warrant in order to be brought before the nearest Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate (which Road Magistrate shall have in regard to the said offence the same jurisdiction as a Resident Magistrate) in like manner and form as is by the thirty-fifth section of this Ordinance provided in regard to the offending person therein mentioned: Provided, also, that the horse or other animal upon which such person so offending as aforesaid shall then be riding may be detained and conducted to the Magistrate aforesaid by the person apprehending such person, and such horse may for the purpose of satisfying or making good the fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred by any such person be deemed to be the property of the offender and be dealt with as such. And provided, further, that when and as often as any such horse shall be seized and attached under the warrant of any Road Magistrate to satisfy the sentence of any such Magistrate the person seizing and attaching the same may place such horse at livery instead of sending him to the public pound, in which case he shall give immediate notice to the messenger of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such horse shall be detained, who shall proceed in regard to the sale thereof precisely as if such horse had been seized and attached by himself under and by virtue of a warrant of the said Resident Magistrate. Provided, always, that every such horse shall be restored upon the payment of the fine, penalty, or forfeiture imposed together with the reasonable charges and expenses of the horse's keep as also of the person who seized and attached the same under and by virtue of the warrant of the Road Magistrate aforesaid. And provided, further, that the warrant of committal by any Road Magistrate for the offence in the last preceding section mentioned shall in substance and effect be agreeable to the form in the third schedule hereunto annexed set forth.

Property in and attachment of horse, &c.

Restoration of horse.

Form of committal.

Power of magistrate to award costs.

41. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any Resident Magistrate should he so think fit to award in regard to any prosecution by virtue or under pretext of any of the provisions of this Ordinance either to the party complaining or the party complained against such reasonable costs as might lawfully be awarded by such Magistrate in regard to any civil action pending in his Court, and such Resident Magistrate may commit to prison any defendant adjudged to pay the same until the same shall be paid in like manner as is by the sixth section of this Ordinance provided, in regard to the fine, penalty, or forfeiture which such defendant shall have incurred. Provided, however, that all such costs as may be awarded against any complainant shall be recoverable in manner and form as costs awarded against a plaintiff in a civil suit or proceeding in such Court, except when the complainant shall appear to have committed the offence in the twenty-fourth section of this Ordinance mentioned and be thereof convicted, in which case the amount of such costs shall in the warrant of committal be added to the amount of the fine imposed.

Ord. 9—1846.

42. And be it enacted that the whole amount of every fine, penalty, and forfeiture levied upon conviction of any offence in contravention of any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall upon recovery thereof be paid to the person prosecuting the offender, unless such person shall decline to receive the same and direct some charitable or other appropriation thereof, in which case it shall be applied accordingly.

Appropriation of fines.

43. And be it enacted that every Road Magistrate shall on or before the 31st day of December now next ensuing, and on or before the 31st day of December in each succeeding year prepare from his record book and transmit to His Excellency the Governor a statement in writing, showing the number of cases connected with this Ordinance by him determined, the names of the parties, the date of the hearing, the judgment pronounced, and the aggregate amount received or levied, and the mode in which that amount has been applied, and every such statement shall be vouched by having added thereto by such Road Magistrate the declaration following, that is to say, "I, —— do solemnly and sincerely declare that the above is a true and correct statement regarding the several matters mentioned and set forth in the forty-third section of the Ordinance No. 9 of 1846," which declaration such Road Magistrate shall sign.

Annual return of cases, &c., by road magistrate.

44. And be it enacted that the fifth and remaining sections of the Ordinance No. 32, of 1827, entitled, "Ordinance for creating Justices of the Peace in this Colony," shall apply and extend to all Road Magistrates appointed under and by virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, and every person acting in obedience to any warrant of any such Road Magistrates or acting in aid of such person, precisely as if the said sections were herein again set forth and word for word repeated, substituting only Road Magistrate for Justice of the Peace whenever the former word occurs and such person as last aforesaid for the constable or other officer or person or persons acting by his order and in his aid in the tenth and twenty-first sections of the said Ordinance mentioned.

Application to road magistrate of certain sections of Ordinance No. 32.

45. And be it enacted that in the interpretation of this Ordinance the term "Governor" shall mean the officer for the time being administering the Government of this Colony; and that the term "Resident Magistrate" shall comprehend any officer for the time being acting as such; and that the term "carriage" shall comprehend every description of vehicle whether upon two wheels or more, or whether drawn by one horse or more, except when there is something in the context to restrict the meaning of the said term; and that the term "cattle" shall comprehend

Ordinance for amending the Law relating to the Baking Trade. (1)

WHEREAS doubts exist whether or not all bakers within the Colony are by law required to take out licences to trade as such: And whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts and to regulate in certain other respects the baking trade: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that so much of the proclamation of Lord Charles Henry Somerset, the then Governor of this Colony, bearing date the 6th of December, 1822, and of any other law or usage heretofore in force in this Colony as shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be repealed and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Preamble.

Repeal of former laws.

2. And be it enacted that from and after the first of May next no person shall within this Colony exercise the trade or calling of a baker without having previously taken out a baker's licence. And any person exercising the trade or calling of a baker as aforesaid without having previously taken out such licence as aforesaid shall for every offence forfeit five pounds. (2) Provided, however, that every person within this Colony lawfully keeping a retail shop may without taking out a baker's licence sell bread purchased or obtained from any person who shall have taken out a baker's licence aforesaid. Provided, also, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent any person from selling bread to travellers without any licence whatever.

Penalty on carrying on trade of a baker without licence.

Sale of bread at retail shops.

3. [Repealed in part by Act 20, 1884, and lapsed as to remainder.]

4. And be it enacted that no person who shall have taken out a baker's licence shall be entitled by virtue thereof to bake or make bread at more than one place or premises or to sell the same elsewhere than at the place or premises where it is baked or made. Provided, however, that any one person may take out as many baker's licences as he may require, and that the holder of a baker's licence who shall also keep a lawful retail shop may sell in such retail shop bread baked and made at the place or premises licensed as a bakery without taking out any additional baker's licence. And provided, also, that the servant of any licensed baker in charge of any delivering cart of such baker may sell bread for and on account of such baker from and out of such cart while on its daily or usual delivering rounds.

Licence applicable to one baking place only.

Sale by delivery from carts.

5. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to alter or affect any municipal regulation of the municipality of Cape Town touching and concerning the registration at the office of the municipality of any licence to exercise the Municipal regulation as to registration of bakers.

Presumption on sale of bread without licence.

6. And be it enacted that every person selling bread without having previously taken out a baker's licence shall be deemed and taken to have himself baked and made the same unless he shall prove that the same was baked and made by some licensed baker.

Repeal of clause of proclamation of 1822.

7. And be it enacted that the tenth clause or section of the proclamation aforesaid of the 6th of December, 1822, shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Meaning of term "bread."

8. And be it enacted that in the interpretation of this Ordinance the term bread shall not extend to sweetened or spiced bread or cakes or any species of confectionery, and that the singular number shall include several persons as well as one person and that the masculine gender shall include females as well as males. ⁽¹⁾

Ordinance for facilitating Loans on Security of Shares in Joint-stock Companies.

WHEREAS a number of banking, and other Joint-stock companies exist in this Colony, constituted respectively by and under respective deeds of co-partnership or association, commonly called trust deeds: And whereas in all or most of such deeds as aforesaid a certain clause or provision is contained by which it is stipulated and agreed between the parties thereto, that proprietors should assign and transfer their shares by endorsement upon the certificates thereof, but that no such endorsement should be valid to transfer any interest in, or right or title to, any share until such endorsement should have been registered and certified in manner and form as by the said deeds, provided: And whereas in all or most of the said deeds, a certain other clause or provision is contained, limiting, and determining the number of shares which it shall be competent for any person to hold or possess: And whereas the two certain clauses or provisions aforesaid, were devised and intended to apply to and govern cases of sale and purchase, and are inapplicable to cases in which shares are sought to be only pledged, seeing that in such cases, it would be inconvenient to require that a complete and entire change of ownership should be ab inito effected, while, moreover, the second of the clauses or provisions aforesaid, limiting and determining the number of shares to be held or possessed by any one person, would, in many instances, tend to prevent such complete and entire change from being effected: And whereas it may be apprehended, that the title of any person to or with whom any certificates of shares of any such joint-stock company as aforesaid, may be pledged, might, whether such certificates have endorsed thereon, fitting words of cession from the person pledging to the person receiving the pledge, or are only endorsed in blank by such first-mentioned person; or are by him pledged and deposited without either cession or endorsement, but with a collateral power to sell conferred upon the person receiving the pledge to be executed in case of default made by the person pledging; be drawn into question and disputed by execution creditors or creditors, in an insolvent estate; so long as no assignment or transfer as aforesaid, has been as aforesaid, registered and certified. And whereas any such apprehension may tend to impede the freedom of raising money upon security of certificates of shares; and it is therefore expedient to remove the same, and to facilitate transactions tending to promote the interest and convenience of traders and others requiring from other persons temporary advances, or forbearance of their demands; Be it therefore enacted, by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that it shall and may be lawful for the legal holder of any share of the capital stock of any joint-stock company now existing, or to be hereafter established, within this Colony, to pledge, or to have pledged, such share for any purpose, object, or consideration for which movable property may lawfully be pledged, by pledging, or having pledged, in manner and form as in the next succeeding section mentioned, the certificate of such share, and the person receiving such pledge, (called hereafter in this Ordinance the pledgee) shall be deemed and taken as against the pledger and his creditors, whether in execution or insolvency, and all persons claiming from, through or under him, or them, to have a good and valid hypothec, or lien upon the said certificate, and upon the said share, and to be in the same plight and condition, in regard to such share as if the same like the certificate thereof, were a thing capable of being actually handed over and deposited with such person, and had actually so been; Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to alter or affect the mutual rights or claims of the company, in which such share exists and the owner of any such share, which rights or claims, notwithstanding any such pledge, shall be deemed and judged of precisely as if such pledge had never been effected. And provided also, that nothing in this Ordinance contained, shall extend to supersede, invalidate, or otherwise affect any special provision in any trust deed contained, touching and concerning the manner and form in which alone pledges of shares, shall be constituted and effected.

Manner of pledging certificates.

2. And be it enacted, that every such share as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken, as against the pledger, his heirs, and creditors, to be or to have been lawfully and effectually pledged, when and as often as the certificate of such share shall be, or shall have been delivered into and detained in the actual custody and possession of the pledgee; having endorsed thereon, in fitting words, a cession of the said share made in favour of the pledgee, by the person entitled to cede the same, or having thereon the blank endorsement of such person so entitled, or otherwise, when in reference to the certificate so delivered and detained as aforesaid, some instrument, note, or memorandum in writing, shall be, or shall have been, made containing a description of the share pledged, and a statement of the purpose, object or consideration, for which the same shall have been pledged. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to deprive any pledge sought to be effected in any manner or form other than is in this section mentioned, of any force or validity which it might otherwise have had. And provided also, that nothing in this Ordinance contained, shall be deemed, or taken to abridge, alter or affect the right, if any, of any pledgee of any share to retain the same for or account of any future or other debt or demand, not contemplated at the time of the original pledge, or mentioned in any such instrument, note or memorandum as aforesaid, which right shall be judged of and determined according to the ordinary rules of law relative to the detention of movables pledged, for the security of future or other debts or demands.

Ord. 13—1846.

3. And whereas certificates of shares which have been pledged, or otherwise delivered, upon good consideration, may, through fraud, be alleged, or through mistake be supposed, to be lost or destroyed, and thereupon application for fresh certificates may be made to the directors of the company in which the shares exist: And whereas a sudden or secret compliance with any such application might tend to the prejudice of pledgees or other persons, and it is therefore expedient, to provide for the protection of such pledgees or other persons, and, at the same time, to provide, for the issue of fresh certificates in cases where the original certificates shall appear to have been really lost or destroyed; Be it enacted, that in every case in which any such application as aforesaid shall be made to the directors of any joint-stock company, such directors, in case they shall not have knowledge or notice that the share in regard to which the fresh certificate is applied for is in pledge, or otherwise disposed of, shall, (but at the cost and charge of the applicant) insert an advertisement in the Government Gazette, and in such one of the newspapers in the Colony as they shall select, stating that an application has been made for a fresh certificate for the share numbered — and issued to — as the proprietor thereof, upon the ground that the original or former certificates of the said share has been lost or destroyed (as the case may be), and that, should no objection be lodged at the office of the company on or before some certain day to be fixed in such advertisement, (not being less than fourteen days from the date of the last publication of the said advertisement), the said fresh certificate will be issued as requested.

Issue of fresh certificates on proof of loss of originals.

4. And be it enacted, that in case no such objection as aforesaid shall be lodged, it shall and may be lawful for the said directors to issue, or cause to be issued, the fresh certificate applied for, and such directors shall not, nor shall the company, incur thereby any liability whatsoever: Provided always, that if any pledgee of any certificate or share shall have at any time before the application for a fresh certificate, given notice in writing at the office of the company, that the same has been pledged to him, or if the pledgee of any certificate and share shall lodge an objection in pursuance of any such advertisement, and the directors shall, nevertheless, without the consent of such pledgee, or the decree of some competent Court, issue such fresh certificate, such directors shall be personally responsible to such pledgee for any loss or damage which he may thereby sustain.

Non-liability of company on issue of fresh certificates.

Personal responsibility of directors in certain cases.

5. And be it enacted, that in case the pledgee of any original or former certificate of any share of which a fresh certificate is applied for as aforesaid, shall not have given notice in writing of such pledge at the office of the company, or after such advertisement as aforesaid shall have been duly published, shall not within the time

Ordinance for improving the Law of Evidence. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS the inquiry after truth in Courts of Justice is often obstructed by incapacities created by the present law, and it is desirable that full information as to the facts in issue both in criminal and civil cases should be laid before the persons who are appointed to decide upon them and that such persons should exercise their judgment on the credit to be given to the witnesses adduced and on the truth of their testimony: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that so much of the Ordinance No. 72, 1830, entitled "Ordinance for altering, amending, and declaring in certain respects the Law of Evidence within this Colony," and of the Ordinance No. 19, 1845, entitled "Ordinance for altering, amending, and declaring in certain respects the Law of Evidence within the District of Natal," and

2. And be it enacted that no person offered as a witness shall hereafter be incompetent to give evidence in any action, suit, or proceeding by reason that such person has been previously convicted of any crime or offence.

Abolition of incompetency of witness from prior conviction.

3. And be it enacted that no person offered as a witness shall hereafter be incompetent to give evidence in any action, suit, or proceeding by reason of any interest which such person may have in the matter in question or in the event of such action, suit, or proceeding. Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to alter or in anywise affect the law relative to the giving or requiring of the oath or evidence of either party to any suit, action, or proceeding, which oath or evidence shall hereafter be received or required in such cases, and none other as those in which the same might lawfully have been received or required, previously to the passing of this Ordinance. And provided also, that this Ordinance shall not be construed so as to render competent to give evidence, any person though not a party on the record, in whose immediate and individual behalf any action, suit, or proceeding may either wholly or in part be instituted or defended, or the husband or wife of any such person respectively. No. 27.—Sd. P. Maitland.] [October 3, 1846.
Ordinance for amending Law relative to Conventional Hypotheca-
tions. (1)

WHEREAS it is found that parties to whom, or in whose favour, mortgages or hypothecations, as well general as special, have been passed, sometimes abstain from registering the same against their debtors, until the increasing embarrassments of such debtors, or other reasons, render it necessary to secure a preference over other creditors, who may have dealt with such debtors in total ignorance, that any such mortgages or hypothecations were in existence:
And whereas such a practice may be used so as to cover fraud, and is one which tends to defeat the objects or limit the advantages of the Debt Registry of this Colony, and which should therefore be suppressed: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that every deed or instrument of mortgage or hypothecation, commonly called a general bond, executed after the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance, shall, if executed by the debtor or mortgagor within the limits of the municipality of Cape Town, be tendered for registration in the Deeds Registry office within the space of seven days next after the day of the execution thereof; and if so executed elsewhere within the limits of the Western Division of this Colony, shall be tendered as aforesaid within the space of fourteen days next after such execution as aforesaid; and if so executed within the limits of any

Registration of general bonds within seven days after execution in Cape Town, within fourteen days in western divisions, within twenty-eight days in eastern divisions.

of the Eastern Districts, shall be tendered as aforesaid within the space of twenty-eight days next after such execution as aforesaid; and no such deed or instrument which shall be tendered for registration after the expiration of the term hereinbefore limited for the tendering of the same shall be (except as in the next succeeding section is excepted) registered, and if registered such registration shall be null and void. Provided always, that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be deemed or taken to extend to any deed or instrument executed elsewhere than in any of the places aforesaid, nor to deprive any deed or instrument executed within any of the said places of any force or effect which though unregistered, it may by law possess. Provided also, that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be construed so as to entitle any instrument to be registered, which instrument would not by law be now entitled to registration.

Order by judge on proof of absence of fraud or neglect of registration after lapse of due time.

2. And be it enacted, that if, in any case, the occurrence of peculiar circumstances shall prevent any such deed or instrument as aforesaid, which should have been tendered for registration within some one of the certain times or spaces aforesaid, from being so tendered, it shall and may be lawful for any person whom it shall concern to apply to any Judge of the Supreme Court for an order directing the Registrar of Deeds to register the said deed or instrument, notwithstanding the time or space aforesaid shall have elapsed, and such judge, upon being satisfied by the person applying, that the delay has not arisen from fraud or neglect, may, should he think fit, make such order; and thereupon the Registrar of Deeds shall register such deed or instrument, and such registration and the effect thereof shall be taken and judged of precisely as if this Ordinance never had been passed.

Insertion of date of execution.

Penalty on notary inserting false date.

3. And be it enacted, that every such deed or instrument as aforesaid, executed as aforesaid within any of the places aforesaid shall, in some part or portion thereof, set forth the date and place of the execution thereof; and if any notary public, or any other person whomsoever shall, knowingly and wilfully, insert or set forth, in any such deed or instrument, any false or erroneous date or place, such notary public, or other person, shall, for such offence forfeit any sum not exceeding one hundred pounds, and not less than ten pounds, to be recovered for his own use, with costs of suit, by any person suing in any competent Court for, the recovery of the same.

Necessity of express words and maximum amount in deeds to cover future advances.

4. And whereas it is expedient that notice, as particular as possible, should be given upon the face of every deed or instrument of hypothecation of the amount which such hypothecation is intended to secure; and whereas as often as such deeds or instruments are framed so as to cover or secure future debts or advances to an indefinite amount, no such notice is conveyed, and inconveniences may thence result: and whereas it is expedient to amend the law in this respect: Be it enacted, that no deed or instrument of hypothecation, whether general or special, executed at any time after the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance, shall be of any force or effect to give any preference or priority to the payment of any advances, debts, or demands, made or accruing after the date of the registration of such deed or instrument, unless it shall be expressed in such deed or instrument, that the same is meant or intended to cover and secure future advances, debts, or demands generally, or some particular description thereof to be in the said deed or instrument described, and unless also some certain sum shall be expressed in such deed or instrument as a sum beyond which such future advances, debts, or demands, shall not be deemed to be covered or secured by the hypothecation made or created by such deed or instrument: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to give validity or effect to any deed or instrument or any part of any deed or instrument which before this Ordinance would have been invalid or ineffectual.

Ord. 28—1846.

5. And be it enacted, that every such deed or instrument as aforesaid, which shall have been executed before, but shall remain unregistered upon the day of the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance, shall be tendered for registration within the space of one month next after such day, and if not so tendered shall not be registered, or if registered, such registration shall be null and void: Provided always, that the provisions in the second section of this Ordinance contained shall apply to every such last-mentioned deed or instrument, when and as often as the occurrence of peculiar circumstances shall prevent the same from being tendered for registration within the said space of one month.

Registry within one month of deeds already executed.

6. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to the district of Natal.

Non-extension to Natal.

[October 3, 1846.

Ordinance for preventing the Mischiefs arising from the cutting, rooting up, and destroying of Trees, Shrubs, and Bushes growing on the Cape Flats and Downs.

WHEREAS it has become an object of the utmost importance to this Colony, to preserve from the effects of drifting sands the new hard road constructed over or across the Cape flats or downs; And whereas a mischievous and illegal practice prevails of cutting down, rooting up, and carrying away from the said flats or downs, for the purpose of firewood, the trees, shrubs, or bushes growing there, by means of which practice the sands are loosened and exposed, and are carried by the wind to, and deposited upon, the said road, to the serious detriment, if not total destruction of certain parts thereof: And whereas no efforts made or to be made by the Central Board of Commissioners of Public Roads to bind and fix those portions of the said flats or downs from which the sands are carried by causing them to be planted with trees, shrubs, bushes, or other vegetable productions, have been or can be of any avail, so long as the mischievous and illegal practice aforesaid shall be permitted to continue: And whereas in order as much as may be to suppress the said practice and protect the road aforesaid, it is expedient to amend the law relative to the removal of trees, shrubs, and bushes from the said flats or downs. Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the third and fourth sections of Ordinance No. 5, 1836, entitled "Ordinance for defining the limits of and securing from injury the Cape Flats and Downs," shall be repealed, and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

Penalties on destroying trees, shrubs, &c.

- Second and subsequent convictions.

Exemption of travellers.

2. And be it enacted that if any person (except persons travelling as hereafter is excepted) shall cut, root up, burn, break, destroy, or carry away any tree, shrub, or bush growing upon any part of the Crown lands situate within the Cape downs or flats, or shall engage or employ any other person so to do (whether such last-mentioned person shall actually do so or not) or shall take upon himself to sell or dispose of or authorise to be carried away any such tree, shrub, or bush, such person shall upon a first conviction for the said offence forfeit any sum not exceeding five pounds; and upon non-payment thereof shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month; and upon a second conviction for the said offence shall forfeit any sum not exceeding ten pounds and not less than five pounds; and upon non-payment thereof shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three months and not less than one month; and upon a third or any subsequent conviction for the said offence shall forfeit any sum not exceeding twenty pounds and not less than ten pounds, and upon non-payment thereof shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding six months and not less than three months. Provided always, that every such imprisonment as aforesaid shall be with hard labour unless the Magistrate committing shall otherwise award. And provided also, that every person travelling through or over the flats or downs aforesaid shall be at liberty without incurring any of the penalties or forfeitures aforesaid to cut down and collect such trees, shrubs, or bushes as shall be needed for the purpose of any fire which such person shall require or desire to kindle or keep at any outspan-place within the said flats or downs, such person doing no unnecessary damage in the cutting or collection of the same.

Certificates by owners of private property in flats to persons carrying away trees, shrubs, &c.

3. And be it enacted that every person being the owner, lessee, or other occupant of any land being private property situate wholly or in part within the said flats or downs who shall deliver to or permit to be carried away upon any wagon, cart, or other carriage any trees, shrubs, or bushes which shall have grown upon such private property, shall grant and deliver to the person in charge of such wagon, cart, or other carriage, a certificate or note in writing signed by such owner, lessee, or other occupant certifying in substance that the trees, shrubs, or bushes carried in or upon such wagon, cart, or other carriage have been obtained from the person signing the same; and every owner, lessee, or occupant who shall neglect to give such certificate or note in writing to the person in charge of every wagon, cart, or other carriage carrying away with his knowledge and consent any such trees, shrubs, or bushes as aforesaid, shall for every such neglect forfeit any sum not exceeding twenty shillings.

Ord. 28—1846.

Penalty on neglect of such certificates.

4. And be it enacted that no person being the owner, lessee, or other occupant of any land being private property situate wholly or in part within the said flats or downs and lying to the westward of an invisible line supposed to be drawn from the beach of Table Bay at the point where a line drawn due west from Duiker Vallei would touch the said beach to the said Duiker Vallei, thence to the seventh milestone on the hard road across the flats, thence to Jackal's Vallei, thence to the house commonly called Mannenberg's, thence to the Vaderlandsche Riet Vallei, thence to the northern end of Zeekoe Vallei, thence to the southern end of Zeekoe Vallei, and thence in a straight line due south to the beach of False Bay, shall deliver or permit to be carried away in or upon any wagon, cart, or other carriage, any trees, shrubs, or bushes having grown upon such private property without having previously obtained a licence in writing from the Civil Commissioner of the Cape division or officer acting as such, authorising him to remove the trees, shrubs, or bushes growing upon such private property. And any such owner, lessee or occupant as is in this section mentioned, who shall without having obtained such licence permit any trees, shrubs, or bushes to be carried away in or upon any wagon, cart, or other carriage, shall for every such offence forfeit any sum not exceeding forty shillings and not less than one pound; and upon non-payment thereof shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month.

Licences by civil commissioner to owners of certain portions of flats to carry away trees &c., on their property.

Penalty on so carrying away without licence.

5. And be it enacted that the Civil Commissioner aforesaid shall upon the application of any such owner, lessee, or other occupant as is in the last preceding section mentioned, grant such licence as aforesaid as often as such Civil Commissioner shall be satisfied by inspection or otherwise that there are growing upon the private property in question trees, shrubs, or bushes which might be removed without thereby loosening or exposing sands in such a manner as to occasion the drifting of the same. And every such licence shall be revocable by such Civil Commissioner, and shall be by him revoked whenever it shall appear that the said private property and the trees, shrubs, or other bushes thereupon are in such a condition that the further removal of the latter would produce injurious consequences. Provided always, that every such licence may be framed in such a manner as to authorise the removal of such trees, shrubs, or bushes as aforesaid from a part or parts only of any private property instead of the entire. And provided also, that when and as often as any owner, lessee, or other occupant applying for such a licence as aforesaid shall be wholly refused the same or shall be allowed a licence covering a part or parts only of his property, it shall and may be lawful for such owner, lessee, or other occupant to require compensation from the Central Board of Commissioners of Public Roads for any losses which he may allege himself to have sustained, and thereupon such proceedings shall be had as if such claim were a claim for compensation preferred under and by virtue of the tenth section of Ordinance No. 8, 1843, (1) entitled an "Ordinance for improving the Public Roads of this Colony."

Evidence of contravention of second section.

6. And be it enacted that when and as often as any wagon, cart or other carriage shall be found within or upon any part of the said flats or downs (not being private property) or upon the said hard road or any other road or place to which the said wagon, cart, or other carriage shall have come from any place eastward of the Salt River having in or upon such wagon, cart or other carriage, trees, shrubs or bushes of a species or description commonly found growing on the said flats or downs, it shall and may be lawful for any person finding the same to require the person in charge thereof to produce and show such a certificate or note in writing as aforesaid; and his refusal or neglect so to do shall be deemed and taken for the purpose of the penalties by this Ordinance provided to be conclusive evidence that the said trees, shrubs, or bushes were carried away by the persons so neglecting or refusing, from Crown land as in the second section of this Ordinance mentioned, and thereupon such person may lawfully be required, and if he shall refuse may, if necessary, be forcibly compelled to proceed forthwith to the nearest Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate, there to be dealt with according to law in the exercise of the jurisdiction hereinafter conferred. Provided always, that if it shall be proved to the satisfaction of such Resident Magistrate or Road Magistrate that the certificate or note in writing by law required was really given and received, and afterwards lost or mislaid, the person accused shall be acquitted, or if he shall have paid any fine imposed upon him previous to such proof being given, shall have the same returned to him, or if in prison by reason of default made in the payment of any such fine shall be forthwith discharged by an order under the hand of the committing magistrate.

Jurisdiction in all cases under the ordinance.

7. And be it enacted that the Court of the Resident Magistrate of Cape Town and the district thereof, and the Cape District, and the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district of Wynberg, and the Court of the Judge and Superintendent of Police of Cape Town, shall respectively have jurisdiction to inquire into and determine all cases and questions of fines, forfeitures, or penalties by this Ordinance provided.

Ord. 28--1846.

8. And be it enacted that every Road Magistrate resident within the division of the Cape shall have jurisdiction in regard to every offence in the second section of this Ordinance mentioned, whenever any wagon, cart, or other carriage shall be brought before him under and by virtue of the sixth section of this Ordinance, and shall in regard to the prosecution of any such offence proceed in manner and form as by law would have been fit and proper had such wagon, cart, or other carriage been brought before him under and by virtue of the twentieth section of Ordinance No. 9, 1846, entitled "Ordinance for the better preservation of the Public Roads and the prevention of Accidents thereon," charged with having contravened any of the provisions of the third section of the last-mentioned Ordinance.

Jurisdiction as to offences under second section.

9. And be it enacted that if any person shall forge or alter any such certificate or note in writing as aforesaid, or if any person in charge of any wagon, cart, or other carriage shall knowingly produce and show as genuine, any forged or altered certificate or note in writing as aforesaid, or any paper purporting to be such a certificate or note in writing as aforesaid, which shall not bear and shall by the person producing and showing the same be known not to bear the signature of any person by the provisions of this Ordinance authorised and entitled to grant such a certificate or note in writing, or if any person so authorised and entitled as last aforesaid, shall knowingly put or affix any wrong date to any such certificate or note in writing as aforesaid, or if any such last mentioned person shall deliver to any other person any such certificate or note in writing, save only for the use and protection of some wagon, cart, or other carriage then actually loaded with or loading, or about to load the trees, shrubs, or bushes referred to in and intended to be protected by such certificate, such person so offending shall upon conviction of any such offence be liable to forfeit any sum not exceeding twenty pounds, and upon non-payment thereof shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding six months.

Penalty on forging certificate.

[October 29, 1847.]

Ordinance for relieving Agricultural and other Produce and other Articles from the necessity of passing through Public Markets.

WHEREAS under and by virtue of certain powers and authorities contained in the following Ordinances respectively, that is to say, the Ordinance No. 9, 1836, entitled “ Ordinance for the Creation of Municipal Boards in the Towns and Villages of this Colony on which the local Regulations of each shall be founded ”; the Ordinance No. 6, of 1837, entitled “ Ordinance to authorise the Governor of the Colony, by and with the advice of the Executive Council, to establish Markets and provide Regulations for the same in Villages and other places not being Municipalities,” and the Ordinance No. 1, 1840, entitled “ Ordinance for the better Regulation of the Municipal Board of Cape Town and the Vicinity thereof,” markets have been established in various towns and villages throughout the Colony and various regulations regarding the said markets having the force of law been from time to time framed and published: And whereas by the respective regulations of and concerning the said markets respectively or the greater number of the said markets it is provided and required that certain produce and other articles brought into the said towns or villages shall be obliged to pass through the market established within the same and be there sold by public sale, in case the same shall not have been previously entered in manner and form as by such regulations in that behalf provided: And whereas the compulsory provisions aforesaid whereby the owners of produce or other articles brought into such towns or villages for sale are prevented from selling the same where and when and in what manner they themselves deem best, and are forced to pass the same through the public market and pay market dues and charges thereupon, are subversive of that freedom in regard to their dealings which the inhabitants are entitled to enjoy and are justly deemed oppressive by many farmers and others frequenting the several towns and villages in which such compulsory provisions exist: And whereas it is expedient to annul and make void all such compulsory provisions, leaving all such markets as aforesaid to be resorted to by persons voluntarily desirous of so doing but none other: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that all municipal or market regulations heretofore framed and published under and by virtue of any of the aforesaid Ordinances respectively, in so far as such regulations or any of them shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be repealed, avoided, and annulled, and the same are hereby repealed, avoided, and annulled accordingly.

Preamble.

Repeal of repugnant municipal market regulations.

Ord. 20—1847.

Relief of produce,
&c., from passing market.

2. And be it enacted that no person conveying or carrying any agricultural or other produce or any article, matter, or thing whatever to and into any town or village in this Colony shall henceforth be required or obliged under any pain or penalty whatsoever to carry or convey the same into or upon any market established in such town or village under or by virtue of the said Ordinances respectively, nor to pass the same through or sell the same at any such market, nor to pay or satisfy any manner of municipal or market dues or charges in respect of any produce, article, matter, or thing not voluntarily carried or conveyed into or within the precincts of the markets, nor to enter or cause to be entered upon any market registry any produce, article, matter, or thing not as aforesaid voluntarily brought to such market; but on the contrary all persons whomsoever shall be fully and lawfully entitled to bring into, through, or out of every town or village for sale or barter or any other purpose any description of property whatsoever, and to dispose of the same elsewhere than at or on the public market, or to take the same away again as he shall deem expedient, without being thereby liable to pay any fine, forfeiture, due, or charge whatsoever: Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall be taken or construed so as to impair or affect any such market regulation as aforesaid so far as it may relate to any produce, article, matter or thing which shall be voluntarily carried or conveyed into or within the precincts of any such market aforesaid in order to be sold or offered for sale thereat; and such produce, article, matter, or thing shall be subject to all such regulations and be liable to the like dues and charges as if this Ordinance never had been passed.

Prohibition of future municipal and market regulations making it compulsory for produce to pass
market.

3. And be it enacted that it shall not be competent or lawful for any municipal or market regulation to be hereafter framed and published whether under and by virtue of the Ordinances aforesaid or of the Ordinance No. 4, (1) 1839, entitled "Ordinance for the creation of a Municipal Board for the Districts of Green Point and Sea Point," to make or render it compulsory upon any person to convey or carry any produce, matter or thing to any particular market or place of sale or to impose any fine or penalty upon any person for not conveying or carrying the same to such market or place or to impose any due or charge upon or in regard to the sale, barter, or other disposition of any property not voluntarily and actually conveyed or carried into or upon the public market.

Limits of markets.

4. And be it enacted that the limits of every market established in any town or village under or by virtue of any of the Ordinances aforesaid respectively shall remain and continue as fixed or reputed at the time of the promulgation of this Ordinance, unless altered or enlarged by some regulation, municipal or otherwise, having the force of law, duly framed and published.

5. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to the district of Natal.

Nomination of chairman.

3. And be it enacted that the said Governor shall by proclamation as aforesaid from time to time nominate and appoint one of the members of every such board as aforesaid to be the chairman thereof; and the said board shall hold its meetings ⁽¹⁾ at such times and at such place or places as the members thereof shall find it convenient for the dispatch of business to appoint; and such a number of members as shall by any such proclamation as aforesaid be directed shall form a quorum and shall be competent to exercise the several powers and authorities hereinafter mentioned and granted to every such board; and at any meeting of any such board at which the chairman for the time being shall not be present, some member thereof present shall be chosen by a majority of votes of the members present to take the chair, and whenever at any meeting of any such board the votes of the members in regard to any question shall be equally divided the chairman besides his vote as a member shall have a casting vote. And every such board shall be competent to frame all necessary rules and regulations for the due and proper dispatch of business.

Quorum.

Powers and duties of board.

4. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for every such board and it shall be the duty thereof, so far as a necessity shall appear to exist and the means at its disposal shall permit, to take measures for improving by means of piers, wharfs, landing-places, moorings, engines, and other works of a like nature the port, harbour, roadstead, bay or inlet for or in regard to which such board shall have been appointed. ⁽²⁾

Report to Governor of intended works.

5. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for every such board as aforesaid and it is hereby required to frame and transmit to the Governor aforesaid a report setting forth what particular works appear to the said board to be most required for the improvement of the port or place in regard to which such board shall have been appointed, and stating as accurately as may be the probable nature and cost of such preliminary examinations, surveys, plans, and estimates as shall be necessary, in order to determine in regard to the practicability and expense of such proposed works; and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor, should he approve of such report, to cause to be issued as a temporary advance from time to time as he shall find necessary from the Colonial Treasury to such board as aforesaid, to be by it applied in procuring and prosecuting in respect of such work or works as the said Governor shall approve of and direct any such examinations, surveys, plans, and estimates as aforesaid; and every such temporary advance as aforesaid shall be repaid to the Colonial Treasury by the board receiving the same from and out of any funds or moneys to be by it received, borrowed, or raised under the provisions and for the purposes of this Ordinance; but in case there shall be no such funds or moneys then such advance shall become a charge upon and be borne by the public revenue.

Ord. 21—1847.

6. And be it enacted that when and as soon as the necessary examinations and surveys, plans and estimates shall have been made or caused to be made by any such board in respect of any intended work or works as aforesaid the same shall be sent in by such board for the inspection and approval of the said Governor, and thereupon it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council ⁽¹⁾ of the Colony, to be declared by any vote or resolution of the Council, to authorise any such board to borrow and take up from time to time upon interest such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for the execution of any such work or works, and to engage and pledge the credit and responsibility of the public revenue of this Colony for the repayment of the principal and interest of every such sum as shall be so borrowed.

Authorisation of loans on credit of the public revenue.

7. And be it enacted that all sums of money which shall be borrowed or taken up by way of loan by any such board as aforesaid shall be borrowed and taken up in such amounts and for such times and at such rate of interest as the Governor aforesaid with such advice and consent as aforesaid to be declared as aforesaid shall approve of, and all such sums shall be a charge upon and payable out of such tolls, charges, fees and revenues as shall under and by virtue of any of the provisions in that behalf hereafter mentioned be claimable and recoverable by such board for or in respect of the use by any person or persons of all or any of the works to be provided and completed by such board; and every bond, hypothecation, or other deed necessary for the securing of the due and punctual repayment of every such loan with interest thereon in the meantime shall be executed by and on behalf of the board borrowing the same by the chairman of such board in his capacity as such chairman, and shall be executed by and on behalf of the Colonial Government by such person as shall by the Secretary to Government in the name of the Governor aforesaid by any writing under his hand be authorised to execute the same, and the execution by any such last-mentioned person of any such bond, hypothecation, or other deed as aforesaid as surety in solidum and co-principal debtor for or in respect of the punctual repayment of any principal sum with interest shall have the force and effect of pledging and engaging the public revenue of this Colony for the due fulfilment of the stipulations and provisions in the said deed contained and by the board aforesaid to be performed.

Power of employing engineers, &c.

8. And be it enacted that it shall be lawful for every such board and it is hereby empowered from time to time, to appoint such and so many surveyors, engineers, clerks, officers, and other persons as it shall deem necessary to employ in the execution of any of the powers conferred upon such board by this Ordinance, and may from time to time remove such surveyors, engineers, clerks, officers, and other persons or any of them and appoint others in their stead, and fix the respective duties and salaries of such surveyors, engineers, clerks, officers, or other persons, and if it shall think proper so to do take such security from any surveyor, engineer, clerk, officer, or other person appointed by virtue of this Ordinance for the due and faithful execution of his office or employment as the said board shall think fit: but no amount of salary shall be assigned to any person engaged for an indefinite period, or for any definite period longer than six months, until the same shall have been first approved of by the Governor aforesaid.

Power with consent of Governor to use public lands and excavate materials.

9. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for every such board by and with the consent of the Governor aforesaid to enter upon and take possession of so much of any land belonging to the Queen's most excellent Majesty as shall be required for the purpose of any of the works, matters or things aforesaid by such board to be constructed or made or for any other purpose relating to the execution of this Ordinance. And also to enter upon all lands of her said Majesty lying convenient to any such works and there to dig for, excavate, and carry away all such stones, clay, or other materials as may be required or serviceable for the making and repairing of any of the said works.

Vesting in boards of rights of government in regard to private property.

10. And be it enacted that for the purpose of executing any of the objects of this Ordinance it shall be lawful for every such board and it is hereby authorised to take and use any land and to dig out and carry away any materials belonging to or being found in or upon the land of any person or persons whatsoever and which land shall adjoin or lie convenient to any work to be performed or carried on, and that such board shall be and is hereby invested for the purpose of so doing with all and singular the legal rights if any belonging to the Government of this Colony in respect to the taking of any such land adjacent to the sea and the raising and carrying away such materials for making and repairing roads or harbours and whether such rights shall have been preserved to the said Government by the proclamation of His Excellency Sir John Francis Cradock, bearing date the 6th day of August, 1813, permitting the conversion of lands on loan into places on perpetual quitrent, or shall have been created by express stipulation or condition in any grant of freehold property, or shall exist in any other way or manner whatsoever.

11. And be it enacted that in any case any such board shall require to take or use any land or to dig out or carry away any materials belonging to any person who shall not be bound by law to allow the said board so to do without requiring any recompense or payment by reason of the powers and authorities in the last preceding section delegated to or bestowed upon the said board, and which person shall think proper to require compensation from the said board, it shall be lawful for the said board and it is hereby authorised to treat and agree with every such person for the purchase or hire as the case may be of any such lands or materials as last aforesaid, and generally to enter into such contract or contracts relative to the obtaining of any such land or materials upon such terms and conditions as it shall judge expedient. And if any such person and the said board shall not agree upon the purchase money or hire or other recompense to be respectively given by the one party and accepted by the other, then the said board shall cause to be served upon such person a written notice offering as recompense or compensation whatever sum of money it shall deem sufficient, and requiring such person to state in writing to the said board or to some person by it appointed, within a certain limited time to be specified in the said notice, whether he is willing to accept the sum therein mentioned or not. And in case such person shall refuse to accept the sum offered or shall neglect to reply to said notice then the said board shall by another notice in writing call upon such person to refer to arbitration the amount of recompense or compensation to be paid to him by the said board, and for that purpose to transmit to the said board within a certain reasonable time to be specified in the said last-mentioned notice the name of some person whom he shall select to be an arbitrator upon such arbitration; and the said board upon receiving the name of the person so selected shall nominate a second arbitrator, and shall cause a deed of submission to be prepared, which shall be signed on behalf of the said board by the secretary of the said board for the time being and by the person claiming such recompense or compensation as aforesaid, and which shall clearly set forth the matter to be determined by the said arbitrators, and shall contain amongst other things a direction to the said arbitrators to set off against and deduct from the amount of such recompense or compensation as would otherwise be claimable, the amount of which they shall estimate the benefit and advantage derived or to be derived by the person claiming recompense or compensation by reason of the formation or improvement of the work in regard to which the question shall have arisen, together with a power to the said arbitrators in case of a difference in opinion to call in an umpire, whose decision shall be final; and the award of such arbitrators or umpire as the case may be shall be made a rule of the Supreme Court and shall be binding and conclusive, and may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding at law brought for or on account of the same subject-matter. Ord. 21-1847.

Payment of sum awarded into guardian's funds.

13. And be it enacted that all works constructed, altered, repaired or improved by any such board as aforesaid shall vest in such board together with all lands reclaimed by any such board from the sea.

Vesting of property in boards.

14. And be it enacted that all lands which shall under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance become vested in any such board as aforesaid and which shall be or become unnecessary for the purposes of any of the works under the management or administration of such board, may be sold or alienated by such board, and the moneys arising from the sale or alienation thereof shall be applied by the said board to the purposes thereof: Provided always that no such board shall sell or alienate any such land without the consent of the Governor aforesaid first had and obtained; and provided also that in the application of the proceeds thereof the said board shall conform to such directions in that behalf as the said Governor shall issue.

Disposal of unnecessary lands.

15. And be it enacted that when and so often as any pier, harbour, quay, landing-place, engine, moorings, or other work shall become vested in any such board as aforesaid under the provisions of this Ordinance it shall and may be lawful for the said board and they are hereby authorised to levy or cause to be levied and paid for the use of such pier, harbour, quay, landing-place, engine, moorings, or other work, such tolls and rates as the Governor aforesaid, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council ⁽¹⁾ aforesaid, to be declared as aforesaid, issued from time to time, approve of, and by any proclamation to be by him shall in that behalf from time to time publish and announce: Provided always, that when and so soon as the moneys if any due and owing by any such board

And such reduction shall be made by the Governor aforesaid by any such proclamation as aforesaid.

Letting to hire of tolls, &c., by tender or public auction.

16. And be it enacted that every such board may from time to time if it shall deem it to be expedient let or farm the tolls and rates to be payable in regard to the use of any pier, harbour, quay, landing-place, engine, moorings, or other work vested in such board by tender or by public auction to the highest and best bidder, for any time not exceeding one year in any case: Provided always, that previously to every letting of such tolls or rates the said board shall give in some convenient manner public notice of the time and place at which tenders will be received or any such auction as aforesaid will take place; and that the person who shall at any such auction be declared to be the highest bidder or whose tender shall be accepted will be required to produce two sufficient sureties for the payment of the stipulated hire; and provided also that in every letting of such tolls or rates whether by tender or by auction the said board shall require the farmer or renter thereof to enter into a bond with not less than two responsible sureties, each binding himself as principal debtor for the payment of the whole rent or hire of the said tolls at the time and in the manner in that behalf to be in the said bond specified; and in case any instalment or payment of such rent or hire shall be in arrear and unpaid for the space of three days after the same shall have become due then it shall be lawful for the said board to enter into and take possession of the said tolls or rates and of all toll houses or other buildings of which the renter or farmer in default would otherwise be entitled to the use, and to re-let the said tolls, or otherwise to place a collector or collectors in receipt thereof and possession of the said houses and buildings, as to them may seem fit; and the sum for which the said renter or farmer shall have been in default together with all further instalments or payments stipulated to be made by the said farmer or renter shall be due and demandable from him in like manner and form as if he still remained in receipt of the said tolls or rates, credit being given to him by the said board for whatever sums they shall receive for or on account of the said tolls in respect of the term for which the said rates or tolls were let to the renter or farmer making default.

Ord. 21—1847.

18. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor aforesaid, with the advice and consent as aforesaid, to be declared as aforesaid when and as often as he shall with such advice and consent approve of any tolls or rates to be levied and paid for and in respect of any pier, harbour, quay, landing-place, engine, moorings, or other work as aforesaid, to fix and determine and by any such proclamation as aforesaid publish and announce whether such tolls or rates shall be levied and paid upon or in respect of every rated article, matter or thing landed or shipped at or in any part of the port, harbour, or roadstead in question, or only upon or in respect of such rated articles, matters or things as shall voluntarily be brought or taken to the pier, harbour, quay, landing-place, engine, moorings, or other work aforesaid in regard to the use of which such tolls or rates shall be imposed. And when and as often as any tolls or rates shall be imposed upon or in respect of all rated articles, matters and things landed or shipped at or in any part of any port, harbour, or roadstead, the Governor aforesaid with the advice aforesaid shall by any such proclamation as aforesaid publish and announce the limits of such port, harbour, or roadstead, for the objects and purposes of such tolls or rates, and the levy and payment thereof, but not otherwise. Provided always, that no toll or rate in respect of the use of any moorings which shall be put down or fixed by any such board as aforesaid shall be claimed from or be payable by any vessel other than one which shall by the voluntary act of the master or person in charge have made use of the said moorings.

Decision by Governor and council whether all articles or only articles, voluntarily conveyed to the pier, &c., shall be subject to tolls.

19. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for any such board as aforesaid, in cases in which any tolls or rates as aforesaid shall not be leased or let, or for the lessees or lessee of such tolls or rates if leased or let from time to time to appoint by and with the approbation of the Governor aforesaid sufficient collectors and officers or agents for the purpose of receiving the tolls or rates payable under this Ordinance, and in case any person liable to pay such tolls or rates shall refuse or neglect to pay the same it shall be lawful for such board or for the lessees or lessee of the said tolls or rates or their officer or agent or other person to whom such toll or rate ought to have been paid to seize the vessels, goods, articles, matters, and things in respect of which such tolls or rates ought to have been paid wherever the same may be found, and to detain the same until such tolls or rates together with the reasonable cost and expense of such seizures and detention shall be paid; and if such vessels, goods, articles, matters and things shall be the head of the police force of such district, who shall be called and styled "Chief Constable of the district of ———."

Ord. 25—1847.

Chief Constable.

2. And be it enacted that every such chief constable shall before entering upon the duties of his office take the oath of allegiance and also subscribe the declaration of office following, that is to say, "I, A. B., do declare that I will truly and faithfully to the best of my ability, without fear, favour or affection, perform the duties of chief constable of the district of ———; " which oath and declaration the Resident Magistrate of the district is hereby authorised to receive.

Oath of allegiance and declaration of office.

3. And be it enacted that such chief constable shall have and possess all the powers and authorities of a constable as in the next succeeding section more particularly described, and he shall be under the authority and control of the Resident Magistrate of the district and shall as such chief constable yield obedience to all the lawful commands of such Resident Magistrate, and shall constantly report to such Resident Magistrate all cases of crimes or offences which shall come to his knowledge.

Powers and duties of chief constables.

4. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Resident Magistrate of every district other than Cape Town and the district thereof, with the consent of the Governor aforesaid, to nominate and appoint so many fit and proper men as may be necessary to be and constitute the police force of such district, who shall be sworn in by such Magistrate to act as constables for preserving the peace, preventing the commission of crimes, and apprehending offenders when crimes have been committed; and the men so sworn shall within the said district have all such powers, authorities, privileges, and advantages and perform all such duties and incur all such responsibilities as any constable duly appointed now has or hereafter may have within his constablewick or assigned district by virtue of any Law or Ordinance existing or to exist in this Colony, and shall obey all such lawful commands touching the manner in which they shall conduct themselves in the execution of their office as they may from time to time receive from their lawful superiors, as the latter shall be constituted, named, and specified in the rules and regulations to be hereafter framed.

Appointment of police made by magistrate with consent of Governor.

Powers and duties of constables.

5. And be it enacted that the Resident Magistrate of each district, subject to the approval of the Governor aforesaid, shall and may from time to time frame such rules and regulations as the said Magistrate shall deem expedient relative to the general government and management of the men so as aforesaid to be appointed members of the police force of such district, the classification, rank, and particular duty of the several members, their distribution and inspection, the description of arms, accoutrements, and other necessaries to be furnished to them, and which of them shall be provided with horses for the performance of their duty, and all such other rules and regulations relative to the said police force as the said Magistrate shall from time to time deem expedient for preventing neglect of duty or abuse of authority and for rendering such force as efficient as possible for the performance of its duties.

Ord. 25--1847.

Chief constable may suspend members of the force, but not dismiss.

6. And be it enacted that the chief constable of the district with the consent of the Resident Magistrate thereof may suspend from his employment any man belonging to the police force of that district whom he shall deem guilty of misconduct or negligent or remiss in the discharge of his duty or otherwise unfit for the same. But no man belonging to such force shall be dismissed save by the said Governor, and when and as often as any man shall be dismissed or shall cease to belong to such force all powers vested in him as a constable by this Ordinance shall immediately cease and determine.

Penalty for infringing the rules.

7. And be it enacted that any constable belonging to the police force of any district who shall be guilty of any neglect or violation of duty in his office of constable as the same shall be defined by the rules and regulations to be hereafter framed shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds, which penalty may be deducted from any salary then due to such offender, or such offender may in the discretion of the Resident Magistrate ⁽¹⁾ of the district who is hereby authorised and empowered to enforce in a summary manner, all penalties to be incurred under this section, as well as under the section next succeeding be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month; but no such penalty or punishment shall be held or taken to exempt such constable from any other penalty or punishment which may by any other law be affixed to any illegal act or acts of which he may be guilty.

Resignation of constable.

8. And be it enacted that no constable belonging to any such police force shall be at liberty to resign his situation or withdraw himself from the duties thereof unless expressly permitted so to do by the chief constable in writing or unless he shall give to such chief constable two full months' notice of his intention; and every constable who shall so resign or withdraw himself without such leave or notice shall be liable to forfeit all arrears of pay then due to him or to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month as to the Resident Magistrate of the district shall seem best and most expedient.

Penalty.

9. And be it enacted that every constable belonging to any such police force who shall be dismissed from or shall cease to hold and exercise his office and who shall not forthwith deliver over to the chief constable all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessaries which may have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty or who shall wilfully or maliciously injure any of the said articles so as to render the same valueless or of less value before delivering the same over shall be liable to imprisonment for any time not exceeding two months; and it shall be lawful for the Resident Magistrate of that district to issue his warrant to search for and seize for the use of the said police force all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessaries which shall not be so delivered over wherever the same may be found.

Ord. 25—1847.

10. And be it enacted that every person not being a member of any such police force who shall have in his possession any article being part of the clothing, accoutrements, or appointments supplied to such member and who shall not be able satisfactorily to account for his possession thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds or in the discretion of the Magistrate before whom he shall be convicted to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month.

Penalty on persons possessing clothing, &c., belonging to the force.

11. And be it enacted that if any owner or keeper of any house, shop, store, or other place for the sale of any liquors whether spirituous or otherwise shall harbour or entertain any constable belonging to any such police force or permit such constable to remain in his house, shop, store, or other place as aforesaid for any part of the time during which to his knowledge such constable should be on duty every such owner or keeper as aforesaid shall for every such offence be liable to forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding ten pounds, and in default of payment thereof shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month.

Public-housekeepers not to harbour constables on duty.

12. And be it enacted that no constable during any part of that time during which he shall be on duty shall be employed by any Resident Magistrate or chief constable or other public officer in any sort or description of private business, work, or labour under any circumstances or pretext whatsoever.

Constables on duty not to be employed on private business.

13. [Repealed by Act 27 of 1882.]

14. And be it enacted that the said chief constable and the police under his command shall as much as in them lies suppress all tumults, riots, affrays, or breaches of the peace within the limits of their district, and enforce every Law or Ordinance made or to be made for the due observance of the Lord's Day, for the regular and decent conduct of houses licensed to retail wines or other liquors, for preventing the opening of such houses on improper days and at improper hours, for the suppression of unlicensed tippling houses, for the punishment of drunkenness, and generally for every purpose connected with the good order and tranquillity of the said district.

Duties of police force.

15. [Repealed by Act 27 of 1882.]

16. [Repealed by Act 27 of 1882.]

17. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the members of any such police force to prevent, abate, and suppress all such nuisances and offences within any municipality situated in their district as shall be punishable by any municipal regulations of such municipality, and they are hereby empowered to arrest without warrant any person whom they shall see in the actual commission of any such nuisance or who shall be charged by any street-keeper or other officer of the said municipality or any other credible person with having recently committed any such nuisance; provided there shall exist reasonable ground for apprehending that except by arresting the party so offending within view of the said constable or so charged as aforesaid with having offended when not within such view such party could not be found or made answerable to justice without delay, trouble, or expense.

18. [§§ 18-20 repealed by Act 27 of 1882.]

Unlawful payments to constables

21. And be it enacted that no chief constable or constable of or belonging to any such police force as aforesaid shall demand or receive from any person whatsoever any fee, gratuity, or payment for anything done or abstained from by such chief or other constable by virtue of or under colour of his office.

Constables not to be concerned in canteens nor in supplying gaols.

22. And be it enacted that no chief constable or other constable shall directly or indirectly be concerned in or derive any profit or advantage from any tap, canteen, public house, or inn within the district nor from the supply of any rations, transport, matter, or thing to the public gaol or to the police force of such district, and any chief or other constable contravening any of the provisions of this section shall forfeit any sum not exceeding one hundred and not less than five pounds.

Criminal process of supreme court.

23. (1) And be it enacted that the chief constable of every district shall diligently and faithfully execute or cause to be executed as he shall be by law required all criminal process of the Supreme or any Circuit Court.

Returns to be made by chief constable.

24. And be it enacted that every chief constable shall every morning (unless prevented by some lawful cause) make a return in writing to the Resident Magistrate of the district showing how each constable of the force has been employed during the hours of duty of the previous day.

Residences of members of police force.

25. And be it enacted that when and as often as the members of any such police force as aforesaid shall not be provided with a place of residence by the Government of this Colony but shall be required to provide a residence for themselves such residence shall be fixed as near as may be to the public gaol of the district and shall be approved of by the Resident Magistrate.

Field-cornet's duties to be performed by chief constable.

26. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for chief constables to perform within the limits of the town or village in which the office of the Resident Magistrate of his district shall be situated all and singular the several duties which by law might be performed within such town or village by the Field-cornet of a field-cornetcy embracing such town or village. Provided that the limits of every town or village shall for the purpose of this section be as follows, that is to say,—should the same be or become a municipality the municipal limits for the time being and should the same not be a municipality then the limits of such town or village shall be an imaginary circle drawn at the distance of two miles from the office aforesaid of the Resident Magistrate.

Ord. 26—1847.

27. [§§ 27-36 repealed by Act 12 of 1874.]

37. And be it enacted that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to or affect the executive police of Cape Town and the district thereof.

Cape Town police not affected.

38. And be it enacted that in the construction of this Ordinance the term “Governor” shall mean the Officer Administering the Government of this Colony for the time being, and that the term “month,” whenever the same occurs, shall be taken to mean a calendar month, and that the term “imprisonment” shall embrace imprisonment either with or without hard labour as the functionary awarding such imprisonment shall adjudge and declare; and that all words importing the singular number only, shall include several persons, matters and things, as well as one person, matter, or thing; and the words importing the masculine gender only, shall include females as well as males, unless there be something in the subject or context, repugnant to such construction.

Interpretation clause.

39. And be it enacted, that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to the district of Natal.

40. And be it enacted, that this Ordinance shall commence and take effect as law from and after the date of the promulgation thereof.

SCHEDULE.

Proclamation.

WHEREAS I did by a proclamation bearing date the 3rd of February, 1848, issued by me in my capacity as Her Majesty's High Commissioner for settling and adjusting the affairs of certain territories adjacent to the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope proclaim, declare, and make known the sovereignty of Her said Majesty over certain territories north of the Great Orange River in the said proclamation mentioned and described: And whereas at various times during the period for which Her Majesty's emigrant subjects have occupied parts or portions of the said territories many marriages have taken place amongst them which owing to the impossibility of obtaining the presence or aid of any minister of the gospel and of conforming to divers requirements of law have not as it is supposed been solemnized in such a manner as to render the same valid and effectual: And whereas the said marriages were so irregularly contracted by reason solely of the necessity under which the parties lay while deprived alike of religious teachers and of regular and established laws, and arose from no want of due reverence for the holy ordinance in question or for the spiritual sanctions with which amongst Christians it is customarily and fitly solemnized: And whereas taking these things into my consideration and being desirous to confer upon Her Majesty's said subjects the important advantage of having their children's legitimacy established and their said marriages legalized for all purposes of law, I have determined to exercise for that end the powers and authorities in me vested : Now therefore I do, as Her Majesty's High Commissioner as aforesaid, hereby proclaim, declare, and make known the several following provisions and regulations touching and concerning the marriages aforesaid, that is to say :

1st. The British Resident in the territories aforesaid is hereby authorised and required to frame and preserve a general register of all such marriages as shall under any of the provisions hereinafter contained be transacted or reported to him for registration.

2nd. Such general register shall set forth or show the names and residence of the husband and of the wife, their respective ages and condition in life, the date of the marriage and any other particulars which the said British Resident may be instructed by the High Commissioner to record.

3rd. Every couple (except as hereinafter excepted) united together within the said territories as man and wife in the presence of witnesses by any form of words expressive of their mutual and solemn consent to become and be then and there and from thenceforth married people, married together, may have the said marriage registered. But no marriage or pretended marriage shall be registered in which the parties are connected with each other by consanguinity or affinity in such a degree that the Governor of the Colony of the Cape could not by law have granted to them if resident in the said Colony a valid dispensation or authority to marry, and that no valid marriage could by the laws of the said Colony be therein solemnized between them if domiciled in the said Colony ; and if any marriage or pretended marriage hereby declared incapable of registration shall yet be registered such registration shall have or possess no force or effect. But no ground of objection arising from consanguinity or affinity which could in the said Colony have been dispensed with by the authority of the said Governor shall prevent registration or its consequences as hereinafter declared.

4th. Whenever any two spouses married as aforesaid shall together come before the British Resident or any Magistrate resident in the said territories and shall declare the fact of such marriage, the Resident or Magistrate (as the case may be) shall ascertain and record in writing the names of the said spouses, their residence, the date and place of their said marriage, and their respective conditions in life at the time of such marriage, whether they were previously married or not ; and such record shall be signed or acknowledged by the said spouses in presence of the Resident or Magistrate. When any doubt shall appear to rest upon the fact or date of the alleged marriage, the Resident or Magistrate may call for the certificate in writing or the solemn declaration before himself or such credible witness or witnesses as were present at or cognizant of the said marriage. But when and as often as any such marriage shall have been contracted before and attested by any person or persons recognized at the time amongst Her Majesty's emigrant subjects as holding a public office or authority entitling him or them to attest marriage, any such attestation or a copy thereof shall upon the identity of the married people being ascertained be conclusive proof of the fact and date of the said marriage.

Ord. 4—1848.

5th. In case it shall be inconvenient for both spouses to repair to the said Resident or to any Magistrate, the latter may ascertain from the husband alone the circumstances aforesaid, and from them prepare the record. But when the husband shall appear alone he will provide himself with a written certificate or statement signed by the wife, or acknowledged by her in the presence of two neighbours who shall witness the same, in which certificate or statement the wife shall set forth the date of the marriage between herself and her husband. And this certificate or statement shall be preserved together with the record signed by the husband. In case of any doubt as to the fact or date of the marriage the Resident or Magistrate shall proceed as before in order to remove the same.

6th. Should either of the spouses have departed this life since contracting any such marriage as aforesaid, leaving the other of them still surviving, such survivor may appear before the British Resident or any Magistrate as aforesaid, and thereupon the record shall be prepared as if both spouses were living and present: except that the signature of the survivor alone shall be sufficient and that the record shall set forth the death of the deceased. In every such case, moreover, the Resident or Magistrate shall require clear evidence, whether oral or by certificate or affidavit as he shall judge necessary, of the fact and date of the marriage, and shall when it is practicable ascertain that the relatives or friends of the deceased concur in recognizing the said marriage.

7th. Should it happen in any instance in which any such marriage shall have been contracted before and attested by any such persons in office or authority as are hereinbefore referred to that either of the spouses shall refuse to join the other of them in obtaining the registration of the said marriage then the spouse desiring such registration shall be at liberty to appear before the Resident or Magistrate who shall upon proof of such refusal and production of such attestation as aforesaid or an authentic copy thereof, and upon such further inquiry or proof if any as the said Resident or Magistrate shall judge necessary, prepare the necessary record, to which the signature of the spouse applying shall be sufficient, and which shall set forth the refusal of the other spouse.

8th. It shall not be any ground for refusing to prepare a record of or to register any marriage that both or either of the parties to the same at the time of contracting the same were under age.

9th. When and as often as any such Magistrate as aforesaid shall have prepared any such record as aforesaid, he shall with all convenient speed transmit the same with all other writings or papers connected therewith to the British Resident, who shall register every such marriage; and in all cases in which the necessary records shall be prepared by such Resident himself, he shall from or by means of them register the marriage therein mentioned.

10th. Every such marriage as aforesaid when registered by the British Resident shall from and after such registration be a marriage as lawful for all objects and purposes as a lawful marriage within the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and shall for all purposes and objects of a civil nature be deemed and taken to have been a lawful marriage from and after the date of the contracting of the same; but whether the same shall from the date last mentioned be deemed and taken to have been a lawful marriage for the purpose of a prosecution for bigamy or polygamy, in case either party shall afterwards during the lifetime of the other party have contracted another marriage, shall be judged of and determined by the general principles of law and independently of any of the provisions of this proclamation.

11th. And whereas some ministers of the Dutch Reformed Church of the Cape Colony have heretofore proceeded to the said territories for the purpose of performing therein as generally as circumstances would permit the rites and services of religion: And whereas certain of the emigrant subjects aforesaid have from time to time been married by such ministers, as also by the officiating minister in the Dutch Reformed Church at Pietermaritzburg in the district of Natal: And whereas there is reason to suppose that in all cases in which any such minister as aforesaid shall have solemnized any marriage between parties who had previously lived together as man and wife, by virtue of any such irregular marriage as is hereinbefore mentioned, the said minister has recorded as well the fact and date of such previous marriage as the marriage solemnized by himself: And whereas it is fit that full credit be given to all matters so vouched: It is hereby declared and directed that the British Resident shall receive all original marriage records made by any such minister or authentic copies thereof as evidence of the facts therein contained, and shall from or by means of them register the marriages therein mentioned, without requiring the presence of either spouse or any further proof: And that from and after such registration every such marriage shall be deemed and taken to have been a lawful marriage to all intents and purposes from the date of the solemnization thereof by such minister, and to have been for all purposes of a civil nature a lawful marriage from the date mentioned in the marriage record made by such minister as that on which the first or previous marriage if any was contracted. But if in any case the fact or date of such previous marriage shall not appear in or by such marriage record then the spouses or spouse desiring the registration of such first or previous marriage shall proceed in the same manner as is in that or the like behalf hereinbefore provided: but in every case, the marriage solemnized by such minister shall after the registration thereof be deemed to be a lawful marriage to all intents and purposes from the date of such solemnization.

12th. And whereas it is necessary to make temporary provision for the contracting of marriages within the territory aforesaid pending the opening of churches and the settlement of fixed ministers within the same, it is hereby declared and directed that all persons who shall hereafter be married by any minister belonging to the Dutch Reformed Church of the Cape Colony or person commissioned by the same to solemnize marriages within the said territories shall be deemed and taken to be lawfully married; and such marriage shall be registered by the British Resident aforesaid from or by means of the marriage records of such minister or person and no publication of banns shall be necessary.

13th. If it shall so happen that any person desirous to marry shall be unable to obtain the services of a minister from whom their marriage might receive the solemn and becoming sanctions of religion such persons may apply to and come before the said British Resident or to the nearest Magistrate, and each of them shall in his presence solemnly declare that they know of no impediment to their marriage and that they desire him to witness that they take each other respectively to be husband and wife; and thereupon a record of the said marriage shall be prepared and the same shall be duly registered; and every such marriage shall be deemed to be as valid and effectual and of the same force and obligation as a lawful marriage solemnized within the Cape Colony.

14th. If both or either of the intended spouses be under age the Resident or Magistrate (as the case may be) shall before permitting the marriage (unless in the case of a widow or widower) require proof of the consent of the parents or guardians, unless it shall be made to appear to him that there are none such living, or that they without sufficient reason refuse consent, or that owing to distance or other causes such consent could not possibly or without much inconvenience be obtained. But no marriage once permitted and recorded shall be impeached upon the ground that both or either of the spouses being under age were or was married without consent of parents or guardians.

15th. A certificate signed by the British Resident or officer acting as such stating the registered particulars of any marriage registered by him or in his office in pursuance of this proclamation shall be good evidence of such marriage before all Courts and Magistrates.

And, lastly, I do hereby proclaim, declare, and make known, that while, in my earnest desire to consult as much as in me lies the interests and feelings of all Her Majesty's subjects in the territories aforesaid and those of their wives and children, I have determined to take all measures necessary for establishing their marriages as aforesaid beyond dispute or controversy, nothing in this proclamation contained is to be construed so as to render invalid any marriage contracted in the said territories and not registered under this proclamation which marriage would otherwise by law be regarded as valid; it being my wish and intention not now to decide that any sort or description of marriage is illegal but to furnish an easy and convenient mode by which certain marriages now supposed to be illegal may have their legality placed beyond doubt.

Ordinance for enabling Resident Magistrates to exercise in regard to disputed Rights of Water certain Powers formerly exercised by Landdrost and Heemraden. (1)

WHEREAS in times of drought, disputes not unfrequently arise between farmers and others respecting the enjoyment of the water running through and over their respective properties; And whereas, before the abolition of the Boards of Landdrost and Heemraden such disputes were cognizable by such boards, which were accustomed to settle and arrange the same speedily and at small expense. And whereas since the abolition of the said boards on the 31st of December, 1827, no local Court or functionary has had any jurisdiction or authority touching or concerning such disputes, which alone could be entertained by the Supreme Court of the Colony or by some Circuit Court: And whereas recourse in the first instance to either of such Courts is necessarily attended with delay in a class of cases in which a speedy remedy is particularly important, while the expense of resorting to the same is often disproportioned to the injury complained of, whereby wrong-doers, calculating upon probable impunity, are emboldened to deprive their neighbours of their just rights: And whereas by the Ordinance No. 77, bearing date the 30th October, 1830, and entitled “ Ordinance for the better defining and fixing the Duties and Functions of the Civil Commissioners of this Colony,” all such duties as were formerly performed by the Landdrosts of the same districts and which had not by any other Ordinances been appointed to be performed by the Resident Magistrates or any other officers were directed to be performed by such Civil Commissioners: And whereas no Law or Ordinance has yet bestowed upon such Civil Commissioners or any other officers the powers or any of them which were formerly exercised by the Board of Landdrost and Heemraden: And whereas it will be expedient in regard to disputes and questions about water to bestow the jurisdiction and authority hereinafter mentioned upon the Resident Magistrates rather than upon the Civil Commissioners, the same being of a judicial nature: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that anything in the Royal Letters Patent granted by His late Majesty King William the Fourth, bearing date at Westminster, the 4th of May, in the second year of his reign, and commonly called the Charter of Justice, or in the Ordinance No. 33, bearing date the 19th of December, 1827, entitled “ Ordinance for creating Resident Magistrates and Clerks of the Peace in certain districts and places in this Colony,” or in any other Law or Ordinance heretofore in force in this Colony which shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Repeal of repugnant laws.

Power of boards of landdrost and heemraden in regard to water disputes vested in courts of resident magistrates.

2. And be it enacted that the respective Courts of Resident Magistrates shall possess and exercise in regard to all complaints and disputes arising within their respective districts relative to the wrongful diversion or appropriation of water or injury to or obstructions in watercourses the same powers, jurisdiction, and authority which the former Board of Landdrost and Heemraden of the same district or of any district which embraced the territory now constituting the district of the Resident Magistrate, together with other territory, possessed and exercised in like cases. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to confer upon any Resident Magistrate the right or power to frame or enforce any new distribution of any stream or supply of water or to alter rights to water as subsisting at the time of the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance. But in regard to the vindication of all subsisting rights, whether arising from regulations duly made by any former Board of Landdrost and Heemraden or from contract, condition, prescription, or other legal source, or origin, the Resident Magistrate shall adjudge and determine in like manner as Landdrost and Heemraden might, if now in existence have lawfully adjudged and determined. Provided, however, that except in a case in which by some written record, act, or instrument preserved of record and having the force of law some greater sum is fixed by way of damages or penalty for the act complained of and proved before such Magistrate, such Magistrate, acting under the provisions of this Ordinance, shall not be authorised in any civil case to award any damages or in any criminal case to impose any fine exceeding the sums to which his general jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases respectively is limited.

- (g) Every Field-cornet whose ward adjoins the sea shall in all cases of ships or vessels wrecked or stranded upon the coast repair to the spot and use every exertion in his power to save life and property; and he may appoint such number of special Constables as may be necessary to protect property and prevent plunder. Proceedings in cases of wrecks.
- (h) Every Field-cornet receiving special instructions from the Resident Magistrate or Civil Commissioner respecting any special duty to be performed will duly conform to the same. Special duties.
3. And be it enacted that the remuneration to be received by Field-cornets shall hereafter be as follows, that is to say: Remuneration.
- (a) When he shall be from home engaged in any such service as aforesaid, he shall receive an allowance for horse-hire at the rate of one shilling and sixpence per hour.
- (b) When he shall be from home engaged in any such service as aforesaid, he shall receive an allowance for his time at the rate of seven shillings and six pence per day.
- (c) ⁽¹⁾ Besides any claim which he may have for time and horse-hire he shall receive for every inquest which he may hold the sum of one pound.
- (d) For receiving, supplying with necessary food, and forwarding from his residence any person brought to him on his way to gaol he shall be entitled to the sum of one shilling per day.
- (e) For any special service required of him by the Resident Magistrate or Civil Commissioner and not adequately repaid by an allowance for time and horse-hire the Field-cornet shall receive such a sum as the Governor of the Colony shall approve of and direct.
4. And be it enacted that from henceforth the Field-cornets shall be deemed and taken to be under the authority of the Resident Magistrate of the district as well as of the Civil Commissioner of the division. Subordination to civil commissioner and resident magistrate.

Ordinance for amending the Ordinance No. 86, entitled “Ordinance for establishing and regulating a new Savings Bank in the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope.” (1)

Preamble. WHEREAS the Ordinance No. 86, entitled “Ordinance for establishing and regulating a new Savings Bank in the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope,” requires in some respects to be amended:

Repeal of inconsistent parts of Ordinance No. 86. Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that so much of the said Ordinance as shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Qualification of managers. 2. And be it enacted that all inhabitants resident in Cape Town or within ten miles thereof, shall be eligible to be elected and become managers of “the Cape of Good Hope Savings Bank Society.”

Deposits, etc., by members. 3. And be it enacted that no person by reason merely that such person is a member of the said society shall be deemed or taken to be debarred from making deposits in the said savings bank or deriving interest or profit from the funds so deposited in like manner as if such depositor were not a member of the said society.

Remuneration of managers. 4. And whereas the attendance of two (2) or more managers as in the twentieth section of the Ordinance aforesaid mentioned, is at times irregular, and it is desirable to provide for greater punctuality in the dispatch of the business devolving upon such managers: Be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the committee of management of the said society by any resolution thereof, from time to time to authorise and direct the payment, out of the surplus funds of the said society, of a fee or allowance not exceeding the sum of five shillings to each manager not exceeding two who shall attend at the office or place of business of such society at such time as shall be appointed by any rule or regulation of the said society. And it shall and may be lawful for the said committee of management by any resolution thereof, to provide as they shall see fit for the mode in which other managers or another manager shall be called in in case of non-attendance at the proper time of both or either of the managers in their order of rotation,

5. And be it enacted that the general meeting of the committee of management in the tenth section of the said Ordinance mentioned, and therein directed to be held on the first Thursday in every month, may be lawfully held upon such day in the first week of every month as shall by any rule or regulation of the said committee of management be fixed and appointed.

General meetings of committee of management.

6. And be it enacted that the general meeting of the said savings bank society in the seventeenth section of the Ordinance aforesaid mentioned and therein directed to be holden in the month of January in each year, shall be held not in the said last-mentioned month, but in lieu and stead thereof in the month of March in each year. Provided always that the said seventeenth section shall, in all other respects remain and continue in full force and effect, and that the committee of management now existing, shall continue to act until their successors shall be elected at the next general meeting aforesaid, which will be held in the month of March, 1849.

General meetings of the society.

7. And be it enacted that for the purpose of attesting any such declaration as is in the twenty-first section of the said Ordinance mentioned, any office-bearer in the said society shall be taken and construed to be a manager, and, as such, to be competent to attest any such declaration.

Attestation of certain declarations.

wharfage and cranage had been imposed by the said lastmentioned Ordinance than but for such harbour of refuge would have been imposed, must be postponed; whereupon the said Governor, by and with the advice of the Executive Council, did by letter bearing date the 24th day of April, 1847, authorise the Collector of Customs at Cape Town to levy and receive in lieu and stead of the dues and rates claimable and payable under the said lastmentioned Ordinance certain other rates and dues less by one-third than such former rates and dues respectively, which lowered scale or tariff of rates and dues the said Collector of Customs has since continued to levy and receive: And whereas it is necessary to sanction and render valid all wharfage and cranage dues received by said Collector of Customs during the existence of the said Ordinance No. 34, 1846, but not in accordance with its provisions, and all such dues received by him since the expiration of the said lastmentioned Ordinance but not in accordance with the provisions of the said Ordinance No. 8, 1834; as also to make provision for levying wharfage and cranage dues at the port of Cape Town in time to come; and moreover to establish in regard to the port of Simon's Town the same rate of wharfage and cranage dues established in regard to the port of Cape Town: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that upon and after the sixth day of January, 1852, the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 8, 1834, except so far as the same repeals any former Law or Ordinance, shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Ord. 6—1851.

Repeal of Ordinance No 8, 1834.

2. And be it enacted that all sums of money not exceeding in amount the dues of wharfage and cranage specified in the schedule to the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 34, 1846, which have at any time since the passing of the said Ordinance been paid to the Collector of Customs at Cape Town as and for dues of wharfage and cranage payable upon goods, articles, matters, and things landed or shipped in Table Bay shall from and after the taking effect of this Ordinance be held and taken to have been legally levied and received, and every such payment shall be deemed to be as legal, rightful, and effectual as if the same had been made under and by virtue of some valid and subsisting law especially authorising and requiring such payment to be made.

Legislation of dues taken not exceeding dues under Ordinance No. 34, 1846.

3. And be it enacted that the said Collector of Customs shall be and he is hereby declared to be acquitted and indemnified from and against all actions, suits, penalties, and proceedings whatsoever in respect of the levying or receiving by him of any of the payments or sums of money in the last preceding section mentioned and therein ratified and rendered valid.

Indemnification of collector of customs.

4. And be it enacted that upon and after the sixth day of January, 1852, there shall be levied and paid to the officers respectively in that behalf in the schedule to this Ordinance mentioned upon all goods, articles, matters, and things landed or shipped in

Ordinance to enable Municipal Commissioners appointed under Ordinance No. 9, 1836, to purchase or hire Immovable Property for Municipal Purposes. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS the forty-fourth section of the Ordinance No. 9, 1836, entitled "Ordinance for the Creation of Municipal Boards in the Towns and Villages of this Colony on which the local Regulations of each shall be founded," has recently been adjudged to be so worded as to render its meaning and operation doubtful, for which reason it is necessary to repeal the said section and to make other provisions in its room and stead: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the said forty-fourth section of the said Ordinance shall be repealed and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Ordinance to prevent the Commission of Nuisances in the River Liesbeek. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS a large and increasing number of families resident in Rondebosch and neighbouring places are solely dependent for their supply of water for drinking and domestic purposes upon the water of the River Liesbeek: And whereas owing to the commission of nuisances in the said river and the absence of proper regulations for securing the purity thereof, the water of the said river is likely to be rendered, more especially in the summer season, so unwholesome as to be unfit for use: And whereas it is expedient to remedy this growing evil: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that all and singular the rules and regulations in the schedule to this Ordinance contained, and all and singular the penalties and punishments by the said rules and regulations provided for contraventions thereof shall have and they are hereby declared to have the force of law, and to be of the like effect in every respect as if they had been severally and respectively inserted in the body of this Ordinance.

Legalization of rules in schedule.

Prosecution of offences in court of resident magistrate

2. And be it enacted that the offence of contravening any of the rules and regulations aforesaid may lawfully be prosecuted in the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such contravention shall have taken place: and be it enacted that the amount of every fine imposed and recovered under this Ordinance and not exceeding twenty shillings shall be paid to the informer, and that when any such fine exceeding twenty shillings shall be imposed and recovered one-half thereof shall be paid to the informer and the other half to the Colonial Treasury: Provided that if one-half of such last-mentioned fine shall amount to less than twenty shillings the informer shall nevertheless receive twenty shillings thereof and the balance only shall be payable to the Colonial Treasury.

Time of taking effect.

3. And be it enacted that this Ordinance shall commence and take effect from and after the date of the promulgation thereof.

SCHEDULE.

Ord. 6—1852.

Prohibition of dams.

1. No dam (by which is meant any hindrance placed in the river to prevent the ordinary flow thereof) shall be placed or continued in the bed of the river unless provided with a fit sluice or fit sluices. Any person placing or continuing to keep up any dam not provided with a fit sluice or sluices to forfeit any sum not exceeding ten pounds nor less than two pounds, and in default of payment to be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month : Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to confer any right or title upon any person whomsoever to place hereafter any dam in the said river or to continue therein any dam already placed therein, which right or title if any shall be judged of precisely as if this Ordinance had never been passed.

Raising and putting down of sluices

2. All sluices in the Liesbeek River shall be raised by the respective persons by whom they shall have been respectively placed or by whom they shall be respectively kept up or used at least once in every month during the period between the 1st of September and the 1st of May in every year ; that is to say, they shall be raised so as to allow the free escape of the water on the last Saturday of every month during such period, not later than five o'clock p.m., and shall not be again put down so as to stop the flow of the water before seven o'clock on the same evening. Any person having a dam and neglecting to cause this regulation to be complied with to forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding ten pounds nor less than two pounds, and in default of payment to be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month : Provided that if any person shall succeed in showing the existence of a legal right antecedent to the passing of this Ordinance to object to the opening of his sluice or sluices in the manner above directed if such opening had been enforced by the authority of the Colonial Government, shall be enabled to claim compensation from the Colonial Government for any damage which he shall prove himself to sustain by being compelled to obey this regulation.

Penalty on contravention.

Prior legal rights.

3. Every person having or keeping up any dam and sluice in the said river must within seven days from the commencement of this Ordinance report the same to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which the same shall be placed ; and any sluice found in the said river in regard to which no such report shall have been made shall by order of the Resident Magistrate of the district be demolished. The person who shall make such report and in case of change of possession the occupier for the time being of the property occupied by such person to be the person bound to fulfil the preceding regulations.

Report of dams to resident magistrate.

4. Any person erecting or having any privy or watercloset so situated that the filth thereof or therefrom will fall into the said river or by means of any drain, pipe or other channel find its way into the said river, and any person throwing or conducting nightsoil or throwing or conducting the offal of blood of slaughtered animals into the said river, or washing wool, or dressing or steeping skins in the said river or throwing into the said river any dead carcase of any animal, or drowning any animal in the said river, shall forfeit any sum not exceeding twenty pounds and not less than ten pounds, and in default of payment shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding three months.

Penalty on throwing rubbish, &c., into the river.

5. Any person casting or throwing garden or other rubbish into the said river, or throwing or suffering to run over the surface of the ground into the said river any water fouled by washing dirty clothes therein, or doing wilfully and knowingly any other act not specified in these regulations and plainly calculated to make the water of the said river impure shall forfeit any sum not exceeding ten pounds nor less than one pound, and in default of payment shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month.

Erection of washing-places.

6. It being in contemplation to raise by public subscription or other means sufficient funds for providing suitable washing-places on the banks of the river furnished with necessaries and conveniences for washing clothes, at which washing-places all persons shall be at liberty to wash clothes free of charge, it shall not be lawful for any person at any time after a sufficient number of such washing-places shall have been provided and suitably supplied with necessaries and conveniences for washing clothes to wash or place dirty clothes in the bed of the said river, under any penalty not exceeding two pounds nor less than five shillings, and in default of payment the person convicted shall be liable to be imprisoned with or without hard labour and with or without spare diet for any period not exceeding fourteen days: Provided that nothing in this regulation shall have any force or effect until one month after His Excellency the Governor shall by a Government notice to be published in the Government Gazette announce for general information that a sufficient number of such washing-places furnished with necessaries and conveniences for washing clothes have been provided. And printed notices containing such Government notice, both in the English and Dutch languages, and such other matters as may be useful, shall be posted at convenient places at and near the river for the guidance of all whom it may concern.

Government notice of such erection, &c.

Regulations for washing-places.

7. It shall be lawful for the respective Resident Magistrates of the Cape and Wynberg districts in their respective districts to frame rules for such washing-places when established, regulating the mode in which persons frequenting them shall make use of them and of the several conveniences to be there provided, which rules shall be approved of by the Governor for the time being. Any person who shall disobey any of such rules so approved of may by the Magistrate be excluded from the privilege of using any of the washing-places in his district, and may moreover be fined any sum not exceeding ten shillings, and in default of payment may be imprisoned with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding seven days.

Washing-tubs on adjacent properties.

8. As soon as the sixth of these regulations shall come into force, but not before all occupiers of any and by or through which the river runs and generally all persons whomsoever using the water of the said river for washing purposes elsewhere than at some public washing-place shall be bound to be provided with washing-tubs, which tubs must not be placed in the river but only upon or adjacent to one or other of its banks under the like penalty as in the sixth of these regulations provided.

9. Every such occupier or other person as in the eighth regulation mentioned shall be bound by digging a pit or by some other means to prevent the dirty water from the washing-tubs from falling or running back over the surface of the soil into the river, unless from the lie of his ground such dirty water may be emptied upon it without falling or running back into the river. And any occupier who shall permit the washing of clothes upon his land without providing pits or other means of preventing the dirty water aforesaid from running back over the surface into the river when such means shall be necessary for preventing the same shall for each offence forfeit any sum not exceeding five pounds and not less than one pound, and in default of payment shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month.

10. In order that the public may be able to obtain occasional supplies of drinkwater comparatively free from impurity pending the time when such washing-places as aforesaid may be established no washing of dirty clothes in the said river shall during the period between the 1st September and the 1st of May in every year take place sooner than eight o'clock in the morning of any day. Any person found washing dirty clothes in the said river contrary to the terms of this regulation shall incur the like penalty as that by the sixth regulation provided.

Hours within which washing may be done.

11. Any person washing clothes upon private property by or through which the said river runs without being employed or authorised so to do by the occupier of the property in or on which such person shall be so washing shall forfeit any sum not exceeding two pounds and not less than ten shillings, and in default of payment shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour and with or without spare diet for any period not exceeding one month.

13. It shall be competent for any police constable or other person authorised in writing by either of the Resident Magistrates aforesaid to enter upon any private property lying along the sides of the said river in order to ascertain that the foregoing regulations are complied with and to note any contraventions of the same; and any person obstructing any police constable or other person so authorised whilst in the performance of such duty shall for every offence forfeit any sum not exceeding ten pounds and not less than two pounds, and in default of payment shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month. But every such constable shall announce to the occupier or some person at his residence his office and the object of his visit.

Ordinance for regulating in certain respects the Prosecution of Crimes in Districts in which there shall not be Resident Clerks of the Peace and for other purposes. ⁽¹⁾

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient pending further provision in that behalf to regulate provisionally the prosecution of crimes in districts the Clerks of the Peace of which shall not have their homes or usual places of residence within the same: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the Ordinance No. 40, entitled "Ordinance for regulating the manner of proceeding in Criminal Cases in this Colony," and the Ordinance No. 73 entitled "Ordinance for explaining, altering, and amending the Ordinance No. 40," and any rules of the Supreme Court or of the Circuit Court or of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates ⁽²⁾ in so far as the said Ordinances and rules shall be repugnant to, or inconsistent with the provisions and operations of this Ordinance, shall be repealed, and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

Repeal of repugnant laws.

Issue of criminal process by clerk of Magistrates where there is no clerk of the peace.

2. ⁽³⁾ And be it enacted that in every district of this Colony, the Clerk of the Peace of which shall not have his home or usual place of residence within the same, it shall and may be lawful for the clerk of the Court of the Resident Magistrate for such district, upon being satisfied that any crime or offence within the jurisdiction of such Court, and proper to be summarily prosecuted therein at the public expense, has been committed; to issue and deliver to the messenger of the said Court, or other proper officer of the law, the process of the said Court in the fifty-sixth ⁽⁴⁾ rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates mentioned, precisely as if the public prosecutor for such district had duly requested the said clerk to issue and deliver such process, save and except only that from the form of the summons in or under the said fifty-sixth ⁽⁴⁾ rule set forth shall be omitted the following words, that is to say, "Upon the complaint and information of ———, Esquire, who prosecutes in the name and on behalf of Her Majesty": Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to alter or affect the sixth section of the aforesaid Ordinance No. 73, which shall as much as may be acted upon in every such district as aforesaid.

Retention of section 6 of Ord. No. 73.

Issue of process for summoning of witnesses.

3. ⁽⁵⁾ And be it enacted that when and as often as the clerk of the Court shall under and by virtue of the last preceding section issue and deliver such a summons as aforesaid, for compelling the appearance of any party to answer any charge, the said clerk shall also issue and deliver to the messenger, or other proper officer, the process of the said Court for compelling the attendance of all necessary witnesses in the case, and such process shall be in the form in that behalf provided in the first of the two forms in or under the fifty-seventh ⁽¹⁾ rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates set forth, save and except only that the following words of the said form, that is to say, "Preferred by the public prosecutor," shall be omitted.

Ord. 8—1852.

4. (2) And be it enacted, that upon the day appointed by any such summons as is in the second section of this Ordinance mentioned for the appearance of any party to answer any criminal charge, it shall be lawful for the Resident Magistrate to issue the warrant in the fifty-eighth rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrate mentioned, without being requested by any prosecutor so to do.

Issue of warrant to enforce appearance.

5. (3) And be it enacted, that no charge or complaint in any such last-mentioned summons contained shall be dismissed by reason merely that no prosecutor appears on the court day appointed for the appearance of the party in the last preceding section mentioned anything in the fifty-ninth rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates to the contrary notwithstanding. Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or taken to prevent the Clerk of the Court from assisting in the conduct of the trial in such manner as shall be in his power. Provided also, that no judgment or sentence of the Court of Resident Magistrate for any such district as aforesaid, shall be liable to be reversed or in anywise impeached, by reason that no public prosecutor appeared upon the trial of any charge contained in any such summons as aforesaid.

Proceedings notwithstanding non-appearance of prosecutor.

Assistance by clerk in the conduct of trial.

6. (3) And be it enacted that upon the day of the hearing of any charge contained in any such summons as aforesaid, the Magistrate shall cause the clerk of the Court to read in lieu and stead of the statement of the prosecutor in the sixty-second rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates mentioned, a copy of the summons aforesaid, and no reading of any such statement as aforesaid shall be necessary.

Reading of charge.

7. (4) And be it enacted, that all witnesses summoned in any such district as aforesaid, by any such process as is in the third section of this Ordinance mentioned, shall, for the purpose of receiving their expenses as such witnesses, be taken and considered to be witnesses summoned at the instance of the public prosecutor, and that the clerk of the Court shall in lieu and stead of the Clerk of the Peace, make out the bills of the expenses of such witnesses,

Deposit of expenses by private prosecutor.

8. (1) And be it enacted that when in any Court of Resident Magistrate within this Colony, the prosecution is at the instance of a private person prosecuting under or by virtue of the sixth section of the aforesaid Ordinance No. 73, such private prosecutor or some one on his behalf shall (except as is in the next succeeding section excepted) before or at the time of the delivery to the messenger or other proper officer of the process for procuring the attendance of any person before the said Court to give evidence in support of such prosecution, deposit in the hands of the clerk of the Court such a sum of money as shall be sufficient to pay the expenses which such witness would be by law entitled to receive after giving his attendance in case he had been summoned at the instance of the public prosecutor, and such witness shall, after giving his attendance receive such expenses from the said clerk. Provided that if the Court shall, for sufficient cause, disallow the expenses of any witness in regard to whom any such sum shall have been deposited, or if any such witness shall fail to attend the sum so deposited shall be returned to the party who deposited the same.

Return of deposit on disallowance of expenses of witness.

Cases in which the deposit need not be made.

9. And be it enacted, that in every district the Clerk of the Peace of which shall not have his home or usual place of residence within the same, no private person prosecuting summarily, at his own instance, in the Court of the Resident Magistrate of such district, shall be required to make any such deposit as is in the last preceding section mentioned, or to pay any of the expenses of any witnesses summoned at his instance; nor shall any such private prosecutor be required to pay the expense of the process in the fifty-sixth (2) rule of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates mentioned, in case such private prosecutor shall satisfy the clerk of the Court that the charge which such private prosecutor prosecutes is one which, from its nature and circumstances, would be proper to be prosecuted at the public instance, by a resident public prosecutor, and that the witnesses proposed to be summoned are material and necessary: and bills of expenses for the witnesses summoned at the instance of any such last-mentioned private prosecutor shall be made out and paid, in like manner, as if such witnesses had been summoned in manner and form hereinbefore, in the third section of this Ordinance mentioned. Provided that in every case in which the clerk of the Court shall be satisfied, as aforesaid, by any private prosecutor, the said clerk shall, before issuing the process in such case, enter, under the head "Remarks," in the "Criminal Record Book," or in some other and more convenient place in the said book, the following words, or words to the same effect, "Process in this case to be executed free." And provided, further, that it shall be competent for the Court, upon the hearing of any case in which the process shall have been issued, as aforesaid, free of charge to the private prosecutor, to order such private prosecutor to pay all costs and expenses of process issued and witnesses summoned, at his instance, in case such Court shall pronounce the charge to be unfounded and vexatious (1), and shall be satisfied by oath that it was through, or by means of, some misrepresentation or concealment of the true facts of the case, upon the part of such private prosecutor or some one acting on his behalf that the clerk of the Court was induced to cause the process to be in the first instance executed free, and in such a case the Court may order to the witnesses aforesaid their just and reasonable expenses and shall not be obliged to allow them only the rate by law allowed to witnesses summoned at the instance of the public prosecutor. And provided, also, that if from the nature of any case prosecuted at the instance of a private prosecutor, for or on whose behalf the process was not executed free, the Court should, upon the hearing thereof, see reason to think that the case, as it then appears, is one proper to have been prosecuted at the public expense, such Court may make an order directing that all sums paid or deposited by such private prosecutor, in regard to such case shall be returned to him, and that the costs and expenses of process and witnesses shall be paid in like manner as if the process had been sued out and the witnesses had been summoned at the instance of the public Prosecutor.

Restitution to private prosecutor of expenses.

10. (2) And be it enacted that in every such district as in the last preceding section mentioned, it shall be competent for the Clerk of the Peace thereof or for any other person specially authorised by the Attorney-General by any writing under his hand, to act in any particular case to appear in Court at any stage of any summary prosecution pending in such Court and to take up and conduct all the further proceedings in such case, or to apply, by motion to the Court, to stop all further proceedings in such case, in order that a prosecution for the same crime or offence may be instituted in some other form or Court; and the Court shall, in every such case, be bound to make an order in the terms of such motion.

Authority of clerk of peace or person specially appointed by Attorney-General to take up and assume conduct of pending cases.

11. And be it enacted that in every such lastmentioned district it shall and may be lawful for the Resident Magistrate or any Justice of the Peace, on receiving information of any crime or offence having been committed within the said district (except it shall plainly appear to be proper for the cognizance of a court of summary jurisdiction) to issue his warrant for the apprehension of any person who, from information on oath, may be reasonably suspected of having committed such crime or offence, and also to issue his warrant for summoning those persons whom it shall appear necessary to examine as witnesses, and in case of refusal or failure to attend after due proof of the service of such summons, a further warrant under the hand of such Magistrate to enforce the appearance of such witnesses (which warrant may be executed by the person to whom it is directed either within or without the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate issuing the same), and such Magistrate shall proceed with the preparatory examination in the usual manner and do or cause to be done everything which by the said Ordinance No. 40 or any other Law or Ordinance is enjoined to be done by the officer conducting the preparatory examination, anything in the Ordinances No. 40 and No. 73 respectively to the contrary notwithstanding. Provided always that the Clerk of the Peace of such district or other person specially authorised in writing by the Attorney-General to act in any particular case may commence any preparatory examination or appear and intervene at any stage of any preparatory examination and assume the sole conduct and management thereof.

Intervention of Clerk of the Peace.Transmission of preparatory examination to Attorney-General.

12. And be it enacted that in every such lastmentioned district where a preparatory examination has been taken by any Magistrate without the presence of the Clerk of the Peace or other person deputed by the Attorney-General such Magistrate shall transmit such preparatory examination to the Attorney-General at his office in Cape Town, or to such Clerk of the Peace as may from time to time be specified by the Attorney-General, to be by such Clerk of the Peace submitted for the consideration of the Attorney-General.

Conduct of prosecutions in Circuit Courts.

13. And be it enacted, that at every Circuit Court held for two or more districts, all crimes and offences committed in either or any of the districts for which such court shall be holden, may lawfully be prosecuted either by the Clerk of the Peace of the said district, or by the Clerk of the Peace of the district in which such Court is held, or by any other person specially authorised by the Attorney-General by any writing under his hand to prosecute in such Court all and singular the said crimes and offences: Provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to deprive the said Attorney-General of any power which he may now possess to grant to any person a special authority to prosecute in any particular case pending in such Court.

Appointment of prosecutor by Resident Magistrate in case of emergency.

14. And be it enacted that when and as often as any Clerk of the Peace shall by reason of sudden illness or other cause be unable to conduct in any Circuit Court the prosecutions which he would or might otherwise have conducted, and in consequence of such inability there shall not be any person entitled by law to conduct such prosecutions, it shall and may be lawful for the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such Circuit Court shall be holden or for the officer acting as such upon being satisfied of such inability, to grant by any writing under his hand an authority to some fit and proper person to prosecute such cases, which written authority shall be in substance as follows, that is to say:

“ I, the undersigned, do hereby certify that it has been made to appear to me that A.B., Esquire, the Clerk of the Peace for the district of ———, is unable to appear in the Circuit Court to be holden at ———, on the ——— day of ———, 18—, for the division of ———, (or divisions of ——— and ———, according to the fact), and that in consequence of such inability it is necessary that some other person should be appointed to conduct in the said Court the prosecution of all crimes and offences committed in the district of ——— (or districts of ——— and ———, as the case may be), and I do therefore hereby authorise and appoint C.D., of ———, to appear in the said Court and to conduct therein, in room and stead of the said A.B., the prosecution of such last-mentioned crimes and offences.

Given under my hand this ——— day of ———, 18—.

(Signed) E.F.,
Resident Magistrate of ———.”

Form of appointment.

And every person producing in any such Circuit Court any such authority, shall be entitled to conduct all such prosecutions as the person in whose room and stead he has been so appointed to act would, had he personally appeared in such Court, been competent to conduct: Provided always, that no such Resident Magistrate shall grant any such authority, unless from want of time, or other cause no authority to prosecute shall have been obtained from the Attorney-General upon application to him for that purpose. Provided, however, that no such authority, when given, shall be impeached or questioned upon the ground that, under the circumstances of the case, an authority from the said Attorney-General might have been obtained, had timely application in that behalf been made.

Ordinance to regulate till the expiration of the year 1854 the Dealing in Gunpowder, Firearms, and Lead. (1)

Preamble

WHEREAS an Ordinance was duly made and passed in this Colony on the 17th day of November, 1851, and numbered 5, 1851, entitled "Ordinance to regulate for one year the Dealing in Gunpowder and Firearms": And whereas by the twenty-seventh section of the said Ordinance it was enacted that the said Ordinance should commence from and after promulgation thereof, in manner and form as in the said section set forth, and should remain and continue in force for one year from the commencement thereof but with the provision nevertheless that it should be lawful for the Governor by proclamation in the Government Gazette to continue the said Ordinance in force for such further space or term not exceeding one year from and after the year aforesaid as the said Governor should deem necessary and determine. And whereas the said Ordinance was promulgated as aforesaid upon the 29th day of November, 1851, and thereupon took effect as law: And, whereas upon the 16th day of April, 1852, a certain other Ordinance, numbered 7, 1852, was duly made and passed in this Colony, entitled: "Ordinance to amend the Ordinance No. 5, 1851, entitled: "Ordinance to regulate for one year the Dealing in Gunpowder and Firearms," by which lastmentioned Ordinance all dealings in lead were placed under the like restrictions and alienations as those which by the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 5, 1851, had been and were provided in regard to firearms; And whereas the Governor of this Colony did, upon the 11th day of November, 1852, publish his proclamation bearing date the 8th day of the said month, whereby after reciting as therein is recited he did proclaim, declare, and make known that the said Ordinance No. 5, 1851, would continue and be of force for the space or term of one year, from and after the date upon or at which the said last-mentioned Ordinance would but for the said proclamation have expired and become of no effect: And whereas it is expedient to continue for a further limited term the said Ordinance No. 5, 1851, as amended by the said Ordinance No. 7, 1852, and with some other amendments: and whereas the end in view may be most conveniently and advantageously accomplished by repealing both the Ordinances aforesaid and by re-enacting in this Ordinance the several provisions of the Ordinances aforesaid with all necessary amendments: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 5, 1851, and the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 7, 1852, shall be and the same are hereby respectively repealed, save and except in so far as either of the said Ordinances repeals any former Law or Ordinance or any part thereof or relates to the prosecution and punishment of any offences committed before the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance, in regard to which repeal and which offences the said Ordinances shall respectively remain and be in full force and effect.

2-7. [Repealed by Act No. 17, 1892.]

8. (1) And be it enacted that no storekeeper of any private magazine situate within this Colony shall, from and after the commencement of this Ordinance, issue any gunpowder in any quantity whatsoever from any such magazine without previous permission in writing of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such magazine shall be situated; which permission shall set forth the quantity of gunpowder to be issued and the name of the person to whom it is to be issued, and which permission, which shall in substance correspond with the form marked No. 3 in the schedule to this Ordinance annexed, shall be delivered to and preserved by such storekeeper; and any storekeeper who shall deliver any gunpowder contrary to the provisions of this section shall for every offence be liable upon conviction to be imprisoned and kept at hard labour for any term not exceeding seven years: Provided that if in any case any private magazine shall be situated at a greater distance than twelve miles from the office of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such magazine shall be situated, then the permission in writing of any Justice of the Peace of the said district (not being the owner of or interested in the gunpowder mentioned in such permission) may be received by such storekeeper in lieu and stead of the permission of the said Resident Magistrate: provided, also, that in any district in which there shall not be at the time of the commencement of this Ordinance such safe and fitting private magazines as shall be required for the secure storing of such gunpowder as shall be in or come to such district, every such building, store, or place as the Resident Magistrate of such district shall approve of and appoint to be a private magazine for the time being shall be deemed and taken to be a private magazine within the meaning of this Ordinance: provided, also, that such Resident Magistrate may subject to the confirmation or disallowance of the Governor appoint a fit and proper person to be storekeeper to any such temporary magazine as well as to any private magazine in his district which shall not already have a storekeeper duly appointed: and provided also, that every store or place belonging to Her Majesty's Board of Ordnance in which gunpowder belonging to private persons shall be permitted to be placed shall also so far as such last mentioned gunpowder is concerned but no farther, be deemed to be a private magazine: and provided, also, that no storekeeper of any such magazine shall open or permit to be opened within any such magazine any barrel, keg, or other case containing gunpowder; and any such storekeeper as aforesaid who shall contravene this provision of this section shall upon conviction forfeit not exceeding ⁽¹⁾ fifty pounds; and provided, also, that in case there shall be in any town or place in which there shall be one private magazine or more private magazines than one any licensed dealers therein at whose premises it shall be deemed to be inadvisable that gunpowder should be retailed in the manner hereinafter contemplated and provided for, it shall and may be lawful for the Resident Magistrate of the district in which any such private magazine shall be situated, by writing under his hand, to authorise and require the storekeeper thereof to remove from and out of such magazine, at the desire of the owner of any of the gunpowder stored therein, any quantity of such owner's gunpowder, not exceeding one hundred pounds weight, at any one time, to some safe and convenient place adjacent to such magazine, and to be mentioned in such written authority, there to be strictly kept by such storekeeper, at which safe place any barrel, keg, or other case containing such removed gunpowder may be opened by such storekeeper, and any quantity of gunpowder mentioned in any such permission as is in this section mentioned may be from time to time delivered by such storekeeper. But no second or subsequent removal as aforesaid of any gunpowder belonging to any one owner shall take place as long as any of that owner's gunpowder first or previously removed shall not have been delivered by such storekeeper under and by virtue of some such permissions as aforesaid, and all gunpowder in any such place as aforesaid and not yet delivered by such storekeeper shall be regarded, deemed, and judged of for all purposes of this Ordinance precisely as if such place were actually part and parcel of the private magazine under such storekeeper's control.

Proof of proper purpose for which gunpowder is needed.

9. And be it enacted, that no such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, as is in the last preceding section mentioned shall grant any such permission as in the said section mentioned until it shall have been made to appear to his satisfaction by the person applying for the same that the gunpowder sought to be taken from or out of such private magazine is needed for some necessary and proper purpose: and every such Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace is hereby authorised, in every case in which he shall see reason or think it necessary so to do, to require before granting such permission that the person desiring the same shall enter into a bond or obligation, which shall in substance correspond with the form marked No. 2 in the schedule to this Ordinance annexed, conditioned for the production of such proof or evidence as such bond shall specify that the gunpowder to be mentioned in such permission has been actually delivered or dealt with in the manner proposed by such person and agreed to by such Magistrate or Justice of the Peace.

10. And be it enacted that every Justice of the Peace who shall under the circumstances in the said eighth section mentioned grant any such permission as therein authorised shall forthwith transmit to the Resident Magistrate of the district a copy of such permission, in order that the same may by such Resident Magistrate be recorded.

11. (1) And be it enacted that every Resident Magistrate shall within the first seven days of every calendar month prepare and transmit to the Secretary to Government, for the information of His Excellency the Governor, a tabular statement, showing in regard to every such permission as aforesaid granted by or reported to him during the month next preceding that in which such statement shall be prepared, the date when such permission was issued the name and residence of the person to whom it was issued and the quantity of gunpowder which it authorised to be delivered. And every such Resident Magistrate shall moreover within the same period of seven days affix a copy of such tabular statement to some conspicuous place at or near his public office for general information.

12. And be it enacted that every storekeeper of every private magazine shall within the first seven days of every calendar month, prepare a tabular statement of the like nature with that which is in the last preceding section mentioned, showing the date of every issue from such private magazine during the previous month, and the name of the person to whom such issue shall have been made and the quantity delivered to such person; and to every such tabular statement the storekeeper shall subjoin a solemn declaration which shall be in substance as follows that is to say :

“ I, A. B., storekeeper of the private gunpowder magazine situated in —, do solemnly and sincerely declare that the above statement contains, to the best of my knowledge and belief, a true and correct account of all the gunpowder delivered from or taken out of the said magazine during the month ending the — of — last. Ord. 2—1853.

Exceptions.

22. And be it enacted that if any person shall within this Colony wilfully deliver or cause to be delivered to any person whomsoever any gunpowder, gun, or pistol, or any lock, stock, barrel, or other part of any gun, or pistol, or any percussion caps, or any lead, with the purpose, design, or knowledge that the same should or would be conveyed to and made use of by the Queen's enemies, or by any of her subjects in rebellion against her authority, such person shall whether the gunpowder or other matter or thing shall or shall not come into the hands of such enemies or rebels be deemed and taken to have committed by such delivery an overt act of high treason, and shall upon conviction suffer death as a traitor.

Delivery of gunpowder, &c. to Queen's enemies, high treason.

23. And be it enacted that every person dealing in firearms within this Colony shall within fourteen days next after the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance return an account to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such person shall reside of every gun and pistol and part of any gun or pistol and of all percussion caps and of all lead in his possession, and shall verify such return by a solemn declaration at the foot of or attached to such return; and shall provide a book in which the guns and pistols or parts thereof and percussion caps, and lead ⁽¹⁾ mentioned in such return shall be entered, and shall from time to time in the first week of every calendar month, and also upon receiving any number of guns, pistols, or parts thereof, or percussion caps or lead to be sold, make a like return verified as aforesaid and a like entry; and every such dealer shall also enter separately in such book an account of every gun or pistol and of all percussion caps and of all lead sold and delivered or otherwise disposed of, with the time when and the person to whom the same shall have been delivered; and it shall and may be lawful for such Resident Magistrate or any person authorised by him by any writing under his hand at all reasonable times to have access to such book and to examine the stock of guns, pistols, and unconnected parts or portions thereof and of percussion caps and of all lead ⁽¹⁾ in the possession of such dealer, and compare and balance the same with the amount kept in such book, and if it shall appear that any error has been designedly committed, either in regard to any such return as aforesaid or to the non-entry in the said

Duke of Newcastle,	Earl of Clarendon,
Duke of Wellington,	Mr. Herbert,
Lord Chamberlain,	Sir James Graham, Bart.

Recital of Letters Patent.

WHEREAS Her Majesty did, by her Letters Patent under the great seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, bearing date at Westminster, the twenty-third day of May, in the thirteenth year of her reign, declare and ordain that there should be within her settlement of the Cape of Good Hope a Parliament, to be holden by the Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the said settlement, and to consist of the said Governor and Commander-in-Chief, a Legislative Council, and a House of Assembly: And did thereby declare, ordain, and appoint that the said Legislative Council (subject to the exceptions thereafter provided) and the said House of Assembly should consist and be constituted of such persons as should be elected in such manner and form, and for such terms and under such regulations as should for that purpose be prescribed in any Ordinance or Ordinances to be for that purpose passed by the said Governor, with the advice and consent of the then Legislative Council of the said settlement: Provided, nevertheless, that it should be prescribed in and by such Ordinance or Ordinances that the Chief Justice of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope for the time being should be, by virtue of his office, a member of the Legislative Council, and should preside over the same: Provided also, that every such Ordinance should contain a clause suspending the operation of the same until it should have been confirmed by her said Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council: and did thereby declare her will and pleasure that the said Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, so to be constituted and elected in manner and form aforesaid, should have authority to make laws for the peace, welfare, and good government of the said settlement: And did further declare her will and pleasure that, in the said Ordinance or Ordinances for constituting the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly, provision should be made for enabling and empowering the said Governor to transmit to the said Legislative Council or House of Assembly, for their consideration, the drafts of any laws which it might appear to him desirable to introduce, and also any amendments for the consideration of the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly (if he should so think fit) in any bill presented to him for her assent, and for prescribing the manner in which such drafts of laws and amendments should be dealt with by the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly, and for determining the regulations under which bills appropriating sums of money to the public service might be introduced in such Assembly, amended, and finally enacted: and for empowering the said Governor, from time to time, in the exercise of his discretion, to dissolve such Legislative Council and House of Assembly together, or such House of Assembly separately: And did thereby reserve to herself full power and authority, by an order or orders to be made by her, in her Privy Council, to alter or amend such Ordinance or Ordinances as should be passed by the said Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council of the said settlement, for the purpose of constituting and establishing the said Assembly, and for such other purposes as are hereinbefore specified: And did further declare her will and pleasure to be that it should be competent for the said Governor to continue, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council of the said settlement, to make, enact, ordain, and establish laws for the peace, order, and good government of the said settlement, until the first writs should issue for the election of members of the said Legislative Council and House of Representatives, under and by virtue of such Ordinance or Ordinances so to be made and passed as aforesaid, but no longer:

Order in Council.
11th March. 1853.

And whereas, on the 3rd day of April, in the year 1852, in pursuance of the authority conveyed by the said Letters Patent, an Ordinance was enacted by the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, entitled "An Ordinance for constituting a Parliament for the said Colony":

Confirmation of Ordinance of April

And whereas it is expedient that certain amendments should be made in the said Ordinance, in pursuance of the power and authority reserved to Her Majesty in her said Council in that behalf by the said Letters Patent; of which said Ordinance, with such amendments as aforesaid, a copy is contained in the Schedule to the present Order in Council annexed:

With certain amendments.

And whereas it is expedient that the said Ordinance so amended as aforesaid shall be ratified and confirmed by Her Majesty in Council:

It is therefore hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council, that the said Ordinance so amended as aforesaid shall be, and the same is hereby ratified, confirmed, and finally enacted.

And it is further ordered and declared by the authority aforesaid, that the said Ordinance shall commence and take effect within the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope from and after the first

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THE FOREGOING ORDER.

Ordinance, enacted by His Excellency the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, for constituting a Parliament of the said Colony.

Establishment of a Parliament within the Cape of Good Hope, to consist of the Governor, a Legislative Council and House of Assembly.

WHEREAS Her Majesty did, by certain Letters Patent, bearing date at Westminster, on the 23rd day of May, in the thirteenth year of her reign, amongst other things, declare and ordain that there should be within the settlement of the Cape of Good Hope, a Parliament, to consist of the Governor, a Legislative Council, and House of Assembly; and did declare, ordain, and appoint that the said Legislative Council (subject to the exception hereinafter contained) and the said House of Assembly should consist and be constituted of such persons as should be elected in such manner and form, and for such terms and under such regulations, as should for that purpose be prescribed in any Ordinance or Ordinances to be for that purpose passed by the Governor of the said settlement, with the advice and consent of the then present Legislative Council thereof; provided, nevertheless, that it should be prescribed in and by such Ordinance or Ordinances that the Chief Justice of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope for the time being should be, by virtue of his office, a member of the said Legislative Council, and should preside over the same; provided also, that every such Ordinance should contain a clause suspending the operation of the same until it should have been confirmed by Her Majesty, with the advice of her Privy Council; and her said Majesty did thereby declare her will and pleasure that the said Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, so to be constituted and elected in manner and form aforesaid, should have authority to make laws for the peace, welfare, and good government of the said settlement; and that, in the said Ordinance or Ordinances for constituting the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly, provision should be made for enabling and empowering the said Governor to transmit to the said Legislative Council or House of Assembly, for their consideration, the drafts of any laws which it might appear to him desirable to introduce, and also any amendments for the consideration of the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly (if he should so think fit) in any bill presented to him for her said Majesty's assent, and for prescribing the manner in which such drafts of laws and amendments should be dealt with by the said Legislative Council and House of Assembly, and for determining the regulations under which bills appropriating sums of money to the public service might be introduced in such Assembly, amended, and finally enacted; and for empowering the said Governor, from time to time, in the exercise of his discretion, to dissolve such Legislative Council and House of Assembly together, or such House of Assembly separately: And whereas her said Majesty did thereby reserve to herself full power and authority, by an order or orders to be made by her in her Privy Council, to alter or amend such Ordinance or Ordinances as should be so passed as aforesaid, for the purpose of constituting and establishing the said Council and Assembly, and for such other purposes as are thereinbefore specified: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the Legislative Council and House of Assembly for the said Colony shall be severally constituted and composed as is hereinafter provided.

Constitution Ordinance.

2. And be it enacted, that the said Legislative Council shall consist of the Chief Justice for the time being of the said Colony, and of fifteen ⁽¹⁾ elective members; and the said Chief Justice ⁽²⁾ (when present) shall preside in the said Council. Provided that it shall be at all times lawful for the said Chief Justice (notwithstanding his so acting as President) to take part in any debate or discussion which may arise in the Legislative Council.

Provided always, that every such list as aforesaid shall be drawn out in four columns, of which the first shall set forth the name of the person objected to, the second, his residence, or supposed residence, the third, that one of the appointed polling-places in such division which shall be most easily reached from the place or residence, or supposed residence, of the person objected to, and the fourth, the day upon which such person is to attend at such polling-place, which day shall be that appointed, in manner aforesaid, for the commencement of the poll at such polling-place: Provided also, that nothing in this nor in any of the four next succeeding sections mentioned shall extend to the Electoral Divisions of the city of Cape Town or the town of Graham’s Town.

18. And be it enacted, that every such Civil Commissioner aforesaid shall, when drawing out and posting the list in the last preceding section mentioned, or as near such time as may be, draw out and post another list, containing the names and, as far as known, the residences, or supposed residences, of all persons not inserted in the list of voters for such division who shall, in 16th (1) section of this Ordinance described, certified under the hand of the Civil Commissioner to be a correct copy, and (1) also a list of the names of all persons, whether claimants, persons objected to, or persons objecting, who shall, in manner aforesaid, have been noticed or directed to attend at the particular polling-place, in order to have any claim or objection heard and determined. (1)

Constitution Ordinance.

21. (1) And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for every person, whether claimant or person objected to, or person objecting, who shall, in manner aforesaid, have been noticed or directed to attend at any such polling-place, to come upon the day in that behalf prescribed before the officer appointed to take the poll at such polling-place, and the said officer shall hear all such parties, and finally determine every such claim and every such objection; and such officer is hereby authorised to administer any oath to any person whom he shall see fit to examine touching any such claim or objection, and may admit or reject any claim or objection, as justice shall require; and that, as often as the claim of any claimant shall be admitted, he shall be entitled to give his vote forthwith, precisely as if his name had stood, from the first, free from objection upon the general list; and the name of every person objected to in regard to whom the objection shall have been allowed, shall be considered as if the same had never been inserted in the voters' list aforesaid: Provided, always, that the officer taking the poll at any such polling-place shall, when delivering or transmitting, as hereinafter directed, the list of persons admitted to poll at such polling-place, also deliver or transmit to the Civil Commissioner of the division a list of all claimants whose claims shall have been admitted, and of all persons objected to in regard to whom the objection shall have been allowed; and the voters' list for such division shall be rectified by adding the name of every such claimant, and expunging the name of every person objected to in regard to whom the objection shall be allowed; and such list, when so rectified, shall become and remain, so long as no fresh registration of voters shall have taken place in and for such division, the list of registered voters for such Electoral Division; and a clear and correct copy of such list shall be, at all times, preserved in the office of the Civil Commissioner: Provided also, that in every case in which the Governor aforesaid shall have ascertained that the claims or objections to be heard and determined at any particular polling-place are too numerous to be conveniently determined by one officer, it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor to appoint a second officer for such polling-place,—and when and as often as two such officers shall be so appointed, one of them shall hear and determine all claims and objections, at some place adjacent to, but distinct from, the place at which the poll shall be taken.

Officer at polling-place to hear and determine claims and objections.

Lists of voters for Graham's Town how to be made.

Persons appointed to make out such list, to make out list of resident householders from the municipal records.

When lists of resident householders obtained, other persons claiming to be voters to receive notice to make their claims.

Manner of making claims.

22. (1) And be it enacted, that the lists of voters for the Electoral Division of Cape Town and the Electoral Division of Graham's Town respectively, shall be made out by such fit and proper persons as shall be for that purpose nominated by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by Government Notice in the Government Gazette.

23. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the commissioners of the municipalities of Cape Town and Green Point respectively, and they are hereby required to permit the persons so nominated as aforesaid to make out the lists of voters for the Electoral Division of Cape Town to copy, or cause to be copied, the names of all the resident householders in the said municipalities respectively, for the purpose of placing such resident householders upon the said lists as hereinafter mentioned; and that the commissioners of the municipality of Graham's Town shall, in like manner, and for the like purpose, permit the person nominated to make out the list of voters for Graham's Town to copy, or cause to be copied, the names of the resident householders of Graham's Town.

24. And be it enacted, that so soon as the persons in the last preceding section mentioned shall be respectively in possession of lists of all the resident householders of the municipalities of Cape Town and Green Point, and of all the resident householders of the municipality of Graham's Town, each of the said persons shall respectively give notice, by publication in whatever manner shall, for the time being, be used for the publication of Government notices in Cape Town and in Graham's Town respectively, that he will attend at some convenient time, and at some place, within his Electoral Division for which he shall have been appointed to act (which time and place shall be specified in such notice), at which time and place all persons claiming to be registered as voters for Cape Town or for Graham's Town (as the case may be), and not being resident householders of either or any of the respective municipalities, shall be called upon to attend and give in their names: Provided always, that it shall be lawful, in any such notice as aforesaid, to fix different times or different places in regard to different districts of the said Electoral Divisions respectively: Provided also, that when the person so attending as aforesaid at any particular time and place, in pursuance of the notice aforesaid, shall see cause, he may announce, in some public manner, so as to make the same known to whom it may concern, that he will again attend there for the same purpose at some appointed hour upon some future day, on which day and hour it shall be his duty to attend.

¹ § § 22 to 31 inclusive, repealed by Act 14 of 1874 in so far as they relate to the Electoral Division of Cape Town. See also § 27, Act 16 of 1856 (p. 597), as to framing of lists for Graham's Town.

25. (1) And be it enacted, that the persons so nominated as aforesaid, and attending at such a place or places as in the last preceding section mentioned, shall respectively take down the names of all persons who shall, in person, claim before them to be registered; but the names of no persons other than those who shall so claim.

Constitution Ordinance.

Claimants attending in person to have their names taken down.

26. (1) And be it enacted, that the persons so nominated as aforesaid shall, so soon as they shall respectively have collected the names of all such claimants as aforesaid, proceed to frame, from and out of the names of the resident householders aforesaid, an alphabetical list of voters for the city of Cape Town and town of Graham's Town respectively, and shall cause a copy of such list, legibly written or printed, to be posted upon or affixed to some public place within such city and such town respectively, there to remain for general information during not less than seven days.

When names of claimants and resident householders shall be all received, copies of the several lists to be posted for not less than seven days.

27. And be it enacted, that as soon as may be after any such list as aforesaid shall have been posted or affixed, the person who shall have posted it, or caused it to be posted, shall give notice in Cape Town and in Graham's Town respectively, by publication in whatever manner shall, for the time being, be used for the publication of Government notices in Cape Town and in Graham's Town respectively, and by printed placards posted through the said city and the said town, that such list has been posted or affixed, and such notice shall, moreover, contain a further announcement, which shall, in substance, be the same, mutatis mutandis, as the notice hereinbefore in the 14th section of this Ordinance directed to be given in regard to the lists therein mentioned; and the forms of claims and of objections respectively in the said lastmentioned section contained shall, mutatis mutandis, be applicable and be used.

When several lists posted, notice thereof shall be given, as well as notices similar to those in the 14th section mentioned.

28. And be it enacted, that as soon as may be after the publication in Cape Town and in Graham's Town respectively of any such notice as in the last preceding section mentioned, the Resident Magistrate of Cape Town and the Resident Magistrate of Albany (as the case may be) shall respectively, by a notice of not less than fourteen days, to be published in whatever manner shall, for the time being, be used for the publication of Government notices in Cape Town and Graham's Town respectively, inform all whom it may concern that such Resident Magistrate will attend in his Court-room, on some day and hour to be specified in such notice, for the purpose of revising and amending the voters' list of Cape Town or of Graham's Town, as the case may be.

Notice of revision of the general lists for Cape Town and Graham's Town, how to be given.

Constitution Ordinance.

After the time for making claims and objections, as fixed by the notice required in the 27th section, shall have expired, but not later than forty-eight hours before the sitting of the resident magistrate, announced in the notice required by the 28th section, lists posted, together with separate lists of persons claiming to be inserted and of persons objected to, to be delivered to resident magistrates.

29. And it be enacted, that as soon as may be after the expiration of the number of days in the 27th section of this Ordinance mentioned, and not later than forty-eight hours before the hour announced for the sitting of the Resident Magistrate, for the purpose of revising and amending such list as aforesaid, the person nominated as aforesaid to prepare the lists of voters for the division to which such notice shall relate, shall deliver to the said Resident Magistrate a correct copy of such list, in the plight and condition in which the same was originally posted, together with two such other or separate lists as are in the 15th section of this Ordinance directed to be framed, containing, respectively, the names of persons not inserted in such original list who shall have claimed to be therein inserted, and the names of persons inserted in such original list whose right to be so inserted shall have been objected to: Provided always, that the person nominated as aforesaid shall also deliver to the Resident Magistrate the original writings, containing all such claims and objections, and shall, moreover, not less than forty-eight hours before the hour appointed for the sitting of the Resident Magistrate to revise and amend the list aforesaid, cause notice, in writing, to be given to every person inserted in such original list, whose right to be so inserted shall have been objected to, that his said right has been so objected to, and that the hearing of such objection will come on before the Resident Magistrate at the sitting appointed to be held by him for the purpose aforesaid.

Resident magistrate to revise the voters' lists, Graham's Town.

30. And be it enacted, that the respective Resident Magistrates of Cape Town and Albany shall, upon the days and hours by them respectively announced as aforesaid, attend in their respective Court-rooms, and it shall be lawful for any person not inserted in the original list, who shall have claimed, in writing, to be inserted therein, and for any person who shall, in writing, have objected to the right of any person inserted in the said list to be so inserted, and for any person who shall have been so objected to, to come before such Resident Magistrate; and such Resident Magistrate shall hear all such parties, and may, should he think fit, summon before him, and examine upon oath, any person whom he shall deem it necessary to examine, and may impose a fine not exceeding ten pounds on any person duly summoned who shall, without sufficient cause, refuse or neglect to attend; and such Magistrate shall finally determine all questions brought before him, and revise and amend the said original list as justice shall require: Provided always, that every such Magistrate may adjourn such sitting from time to time, if it shall seem to him expedient so to do.

Lists for Graham's Town, as revised, to be kept in the office of the resident magistrate.

31. And be it enacted, that so soon the Resident Magistrates as aforesaid shall respectively have revised and amended the respective lists aforesaid, each of the said Magistrates shall cause to be made out, and safely kept in his office, the list of voters as so by him revised and amended, and such lists shall respectively be the lists of registered voters for the City of Cape Town and the town of Graham's Town, respectively; and, as soon as the said Resident Magistrates shall respectively have made out such revised and amended lists, they shall respectively report that they have done so to the Secretary to Government.

Constitution Ordinance.

32. And be it enacted, that so soon as it shall appear, from the reports of the Civil Commissioners and Resident Magistrates aforesaid, that the lists of persons qualified to vote in the several Electoral Divisions of the said Colony have, in such manner and form as aforesaid, been completed, it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, by (1) proclamation, to command that the returning officer, to be by him appointed for each of the said Electoral Divisions (2) in the Western districts and the Eastern districts respectively, shall cause to be taken and returned to the Secretary to Government, or such other person as by such proclamation may be in his behalf appointed, all the votes of persons entitled to vote in such respective Electoral Divisions which shall be given, in manner herein provided, for the candidates for election as members of the Legislative Council, for the districts of which such respective Electoral Divisions may form part; and the Governor shall, in such proclamation or proclamations as he shall issue as aforesaid, fix and appoint the several polling-places in and for every Electoral Division (of which there shall be one at least in every Field-cornetcy in each of the several Electoral Divisions other than Cape Town and Graham's Town), and fix and appoint the day on which the polling shall commence at every such place, and the day on which the same shall finally close: Provided that every such proclamation shall be published in the Government Gazette, not less than thirty days before the earliest day mentioned therein for the commencement of the poll at any polling-place in any division in such proclamation mentioned.

Votes for members of the Legislative Council to be called for, and polling-places to be appointed.

33. (3) And be it enacted, that no person shall be qualified to be elected a member of the said Council who would, under and by virtue of any of the provisions of this Ordinance, be incapacitated to be registered as a voter as herein provided, or who shall be under the age of thirty years; or who shall not be the owner, for his own use and benefit, of immovable property, situate within the districts of this Colony, of the value of two thousand pounds of sterling money, over and above all special conventional mortgagees affecting the same; or who shall not, being the owner of such property to such value, but under mortgage, be at the same time possessed of property, movable and immovable, within the said Colony, to the value of not less than four thousand pounds of sterling money, over and above his just debts: Provided always, that every married man shall, for the purposes of this and every other section of the present Ordinance which regards the ownership or occupation of property, be deemed and taken to own or occupy (as the case may be) the whole of the property belonging to his wife: Provided also, that no person holding any office of profit under Her Majesty the Queen within the said Colony, and no uncertificated insolvent, and no alien who shall have been registered as a voter by virtue merely of having obtained a deed of burghership, shall be eligible to be elected a member of the said Council. ⁽¹⁾

Requisition to candidates.

34. And be it enacted, that no person shall be deemed a candidate at any election of members of the said Council for the said ⁽²⁾ Western districts or Eastern districts, unless he shall have been invited to become such candidate by a requisition in writing, signed by not less than twenty-five of the persons qualified to vote in the election of members of the said Council for such respective ⁽²⁾ districts, every such signature being accompanied by a full and correct address of the person so signing, and shall have accepted such requisition, in writing under his hand, and shall have transmitted, within the time limited in this behalf, such requisition, with such acceptance thereof, to the Secretary to the Government, or such other person as may be appointed as herein mentioned.

No person to sign more than one requisition.

35. And be it enacted, that no person shall be entitled to sign a requisition to more than one candidate, or to sign more than one requisition in respect of the same election; and that if the same person shall sign more than one such requisition his signature shall be expunged from all requisitions which he may have signed, and he shall not be capable of signing another requisition for the election in respect of which he shall have so signed.

Governor to require persons who have received and accepted such a requisition to transmit the same as directed.

36. And be it enacted, that the Governor shall, by proclamation to be published in the Government Gazette not less than twenty-eight days before the day appointed for the commencement of the poll, call upon all persons who may have received and accepted such requisitions as aforesaid to become candidates to transmit such requisitions, and their acceptance thereof, within a time to be limited in such proclamation, to the Secretary to the Government, or such other person as by such proclamation may be appointed in this behalf; and the Governor shall, in such proclamation, require the persons who shall be invited in manner herein mentioned to become candidates for election as members of the said Council, and who shall accept such invitations, severally to nominate, by writing under their hands, transmitted to the Secretary to the Government, or such other person as may in this behalf be appointed by such proclamation, and within such time as by such proclamation may be limited, one person as a scrutineer, for the purpose of examining the lists of votes returned as herein provided.

38. And be it enacted, that all persons whose names shall be inserted in the list of voters for any Electoral Division, but no other persons, shall be entitled to (3) vote in and for such Electoral Division for members of the Legislative Council: Provided always, that the list of voters for every Electoral Division, other than the city of Cape Town or the town of Graham's Town, shall, for the purposes of this section, be taken to include the name of every claimant whose claim shall be allowed by any such officer as aforesaid, at any such polling-place as aforesaid, and not to include the name of any person originally inserted upon such list in regard to whom an objection shall have been allowed by any such officer.

Persons on registered lists entitled to vote.

39. And be it enacted, that the poll at every polling-place in every Electoral Division shall, upon every day appointed for taking the poll thereat, open at eight o'clock in the forenoon and close at (4) five o'clock in the afternoon.

Commencement and continuation of poll.

40. And be it enacted, that each person entitled to vote in and for any Electoral Division comprised in the Western districts shall be entitled to vote for the members of the said Council to be elected for such districts, and shall be entitled to give at such election as many votes as there are members of such Council to be elected at such election for such districts; and each person entitled to vote in and for any Electoral Division comprised in the Eastern districts shall be entitled to vote for the members of the said Council to be elected for such districts, and

The votes for members of Legislative Council may be distributed amongst the candidates as the voter pleases.

shall be entitled to give at each election as many votes as there are members of such Council to be elected at such election for such districts; and every person so entitled to vote for members to be elected for the Western districts and for the Eastern districts, respectively, shall be entitled, at his discretion, to give at any such election one vote to each of any number of the candidates not exceeding the whole number of members to be elected, or to distribute, in such proportion as he may think fit, the whole number of votes which he is entitled to give among any lesser number of candidates, or to give all his votes to one candidate. ⁽¹⁾

41. ⁽¹⁾ And be it enacted, that the manner of voting at every polling-place in every Electoral Division for members of the said Council shall be as follows, that is to say: the Governor shall cause the officer appointed as aforesaid to take the poll at each polling place to be furnished with a sufficient number of printed lists of the several candidates for the Western or Eastern districts, as the case may be, whose names shall have been published in the Government Gazette, as aforesaid, and such voter shall, in the presence of such officer, write, or cause such officer to write, upon one such list, against the name or names of the candidates whom such voter shall desire to be chosen, the number or respective numbers of votes which he shall give to such candidate or to each of such candidates respectively, and the name of such voter shall by such officer be legibly written at the top of such list, and shall, either by himself or by such officer, at his request, be signed or written at the foot of such list, which list shall also be signed by such officer, in attestation of the correctness thereof: Provided always, that when and as often as the identity of any voter shall be established, no omission, either in the voters' list of the division, or in the list in this section mentioned, of one or more of the christian names of such voter,—and no variance between the said last-mentioned lists in regard to the christian names of such voter,—and no error in the spelling of either the christian names or the surname of such voter, shall destroy or affect the validity of his vote.

42. [Repealed by Act 14 of 1874 § 37.]

43. ⁽¹⁾ And be it enacted, that as soon as the time limited for keeping open the poll at any polling-place at any election of a member or members of the Legislative Council shall have expired, no further votes shall be received thereat, and the officer who shall have taken the poll at such polling-place shall, with all convenient speed, deliver in person, or securely enclose and transmit to the Secretary to the Government, or such other person as may be appointed in this behalf as hereinbefore mentioned, the lists received by such officer from the voters at such polling-place.

officer shall also deliver or transmit, the same time, to the same person, the names of the candidates who have been proposed; and the person receiving the said names shall forthwith fix them up in some conspicuous place at such polling-place, for general information: Provided always, that in case there shall be more polling places than one within the Electoral Divisions of Cape Town and Graham's Town, or either of them, the list of registered voters to be delivered as aforesaid shall be certified, not by the Civil Commissioner, but by the Resident Magistrate of Cape Town or the Resident Magistrate of Albany, as the case may be.

Constitution Ordinance.

50. And be it enacted, that no person shall be permitted to vote in any Electoral Division for any member of the House of Assembly except a person whose name shall be inserted in the list of registered voters (1) for such Electoral Division, and who shall, in person, appear to vote: Provided that the list of registered voters for the time being in and for the several Electoral Divisions shall, for all purposes and in all places, be deemed and taken to be conclusive proof of the right to vote of every person inserted therein; and no such list shall be opened up, or the right of any voter mentioned therein questioned in any manner or by any proceeding, either in the Legislative Council or the House of Assembly.

The register to be conclusive proof of right to vote.

51. And be it enacted, that no vote shall be received, or, if received, shall be reckoned or regarded, which vote is given, or proposed to be given, to or for any person not proposed and seconded as aforesaid, as a candidate for representing in the Legislative Assembly the Electoral Division in or for which such vote shall be given or proposed.

No vote to be received except for a candidate nominated as in the 48th section mentioned.

52. [Repealed by § 37, Act 14 of 1874, which see: and note to § 42 of this Ord.]

53. (2) And be it enacted, that as soon as the time limited for keeping open the poll at any polling-place for any election of a member or members of the House of Assembly shall have expired, the person charged with the duty of taking the poll thereat shall, with all convenient speed, deliver, in person, to the returning officer for the Electoral Division for which such poll is taken, or, in case it be inconvenient to deliver the same in person, shall securely enclose and transmit to such returning officer, a list containing the names of all persons admitted to poll at such polling-place, together with the names of the respective persons for whom such voters shall respectively have voted.

Lists of voters received at polling places to be transmitted to the returning officers.

54. (2) And be it enacted, that when and as soon as the returning officer of any Electoral Division shall be in possession of the whole of the poll-lists of such division, he shall cast up and ascertain the number of votes for each candidate.

Returning officer to cast up such lists.

² But see § 37, Act 9, 1892 (p. 2981).

Constitution Ordinance.

55. (1) And be it enacted, that every such returning officer shall, as soon as may be after he shall be in possession of the whole of the said poll-lists, but nevertheless upon a notice to be posted or affixed for not less than two clear days at the Court-room in which the court aforesaid for the nomination of the candidates was held, hold in the said Court-room another court, whereat such returning officer shall openly declare the state of the poll, and make proclamation of the member or members of the House of Assembly returned, and such returning officer shall, without delay, transmit to the Governor the names of the member elected, and the number of votes received by the respective candidates.

The names of the members of the House of Assembly to be published.

56. (2) *And be it enacted, that as soon as the said Governor shall have received from the several returning officers throughout the Colony the names of the members elected by the several Electoral Divisions to serve in the House of Assembly, the Governor shall, by proclamation in the Government Gazette, publish the names of the members returned, together with the Electoral Divisions which they severally represent; and the day of the publication of such proclamation shall, for the purposes of the sixth section of this Ordinance, be deemed and taken to be the date of the election of all and singular the members of the said House of Assembly.*

Provision for the case in which the same member is elected for more than one division.

57. And be it enacted, that if in any case the same person shall have been elected for more than one Electoral Division, such person shall be bound, upon being thereto required by the Governor, if not before, to elect what Electoral Division he will represent, and upon such election being declared, the Governor shall, by a proclamation of the same nature with the proclamation in the 45th section of this Ordinance mentioned, command the returning officer of any other division for which such person shall have been returned to proceed to the election of another person in the room and stead of the person so originally elected, and thereupon the like proceedings shall take place as are hereinbefore directed in regard to the original election; and if such person shall fail to make his election as aforesaid when thereto required, then his election for every division for which he shall have been elected shall be deemed and taken to be void; and, by proclamation as aforesaid, a new election for a member in place and stead of such person shall be commanded in regard to every such division.

Provision for failure to elect.

58. And be it enacted, that if, at any such public court as in the 48th section of this Ordinance mentioned, it shall so happen that no candidates or candidate shall be proposed and seconded, whereby there shall be no election in such Electoral Division for any member of the House of Assembly, the returning officer shall forthwith notify the fact to the Governor, who shall, in publishing, in the manner hereinbefore in the 56th section of this Ordinance mentioned, the names of the members of the House of Assembly, announce, at the same time, the division or divisions in which no election shall have taken place; but no such refusal or failure to elect in any one division, or divisions more than one, shall be deemed or taken to make the House of Assembly incomplete, or to prevent it from meeting and dispatching business, so long as there shall be a quorum of members present.

¹ This Section is inconsistent with § 37, Act 9, 1892 (p. 2982) and is therefore repealed.

Constitution Ordinance.

59. And be it enacted, that if any returning officer or any person whatsoever shall wilfully contravene or disobey the provisions of this Ordinance, or any of them, with respect to any matter or thing which such returning officer or other person is hereby required to do, he shall, for such his offence, be liable to be sued in any competent Court, for the penal sum of one hundred pounds, and the plaintiff shall recover the said sum or such lesser sum as such Court shall think he ought to pay for such offence, with full costs; Provided that no such action shall be brought except by a voter, or person claiming to be a voter, or a candidate, or a member actually returned for either House of Parliament, or other party aggrieved.

Penalty on returning officer or other person for contravening this ordinance.

60. And be it enacted, that as soon as every Electoral District in the Colony shall have either elected or fail in electing its representative, in the House of Assembly, it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope to summon, by proclamation, the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly of the Cape of Good Hope, to meet at such place within the said Colony and at such time as the said Governor shall think fit: Provided always, that the said Council and Assembly shall be summoned to meet at some period not later than twelve months next after the promulgation of this Ordinance in the said Colony.

Governor to summon the Council and the Assembly to meet at such place and time as he shall appoint.

61. And be it enacted, that no member, either of the Legislative Council or of the House of Assembly of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, shall be permitted to sit or vote therein until he shall have taken and subscribed the following oath before the Governor of the Colony, or before some person or persons authorised by such Governor to administer such oath:—

The oath of allegiance to be taken by the members of the Council and of the Assembly.

“ I, A. B., do sincerely promise and swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, as lawful Sovereign of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of this Colony of the Cape of Good Hope. (1)

62. And be it enacted, that every person authorised by law to make an affirmation instead of taking an oath, may make such affirmation in every case in which an oath is hereinbefore required to be taken.

Affirmation in lieu of oath in certain cases.

63. And be it enacted, that the House of Assembly shall, at its first meeting, and before proceeding to the dispatch of any other business, elect one member thereof to be and be called the Speaker of such House; and as often as the place of such Speaker shall become vacant by death, resignation, or removal by vote of the said House, shall again elect before proceeding to the dispatch of any other business, some other member to fill the said place; and the Speaker elected shall, unless, it shall be otherwise provided in the standing rules and orders hereinafter mentioned, preside at all meetings of the said House.

Declaration of property qualification to be made by members of the Legislative Council.

64. And be it enacted, that every elective member of the Legislative Council, before he shall sit or vote therein, shall deliver to the Clerk of the said Council, while the Council is sitting, with the President in the chair, the following declaration:—

Or if such member cannot or shall not make the last-mentioned declaration, he may make, in lieu and stead thereof, the declaration following:—

“ I, A. B., do declare and testify that I am the owner, for my own use and benefit, of immovable property situate at _____ in the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, of the clear value, if unencumbered, of two thousand pounds sterling money, and that I am possessed of property, movable and immovable, within the said Colony, to the value of four thousand pounds sterling money, over and above all my just debts; and I further testify and declare that I have not collusively or colourably obtained a title to the said property, or any part thereof, for the purpose of qualifying or enabling me to be returned as member of the Legislative Council of the Cape of Good Hope.”

Declaration to be filed.

And that every such declaration as aforesaid shall be contained in a paper signed by the member making the same, and every such paper shall be filed and kept by the Clerk of the Legislative Council with the other records of his office; and every member of the said Council who shall sit and vote in the said Council before making such declaration as aforesaid shall be liable, for every day on which he shall so offend, to a penalty of one hundred pounds, to be sued for and recovered for his own use by any person suing for the same; and if any person shall knowingly or wilfully deliver a false declaration respecting his qualifications aforesaid, such person shall be deemed to be guilty of the crime of falsity, Penalty for sitting and voting before making the said declaration.

and upon conviction thereof shall suffer the like pains and penalties as by law are incurred by persons guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

65. And be it enacted, that every elective member of the Legislative Council shall have and possess the qualification aforesaid during all the time he shall be and remain a member of the said Council. ⁽¹⁾

[§§ 66, 67 and 68, repealed by Act 9, 1883.]

69. And be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for any member of the Legislative Council of the Cape of Good Hope, by writing, ⁽²⁾ under his hand, addressed to the President of the said Council, to resign his seat in the said Council; and upon such resignation, the seat of such member shall become vacant.

70. And be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for any member of the House of Assembly of the Cape of Good Hope, by ⁽²⁾ writing, under his hand, addressed to the ⁽³⁾ Speaker of the said Assembly, to resign his seat in the said Assembly and upon such resignation, the seat of such member shall become vacant.

71. And be it enacted, that if any Legislative Councillor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, or any member of the House of Assembly thereof, shall for one whole Session of the Parliament of the said Colony fail to give his attendance in the House of Parliament to which he belongs, without the permission of such House, or shall take any oath, or make any declaration of acknowledgment of allegiance, obedience, or adherence to any foreign prince or power,—or shall do, concur in, or adopt any act whereby he may become a subject or citizen of any foreign state or power, or if his estate shall be sequestrated as insolvent, ⁽⁴⁾—the seat of such councillor or member of the Assembly shall thereby become vacant.

72. And be it enacted, that no member of the Legislative Council shall be eligible for a seat in the House of Assembly; and that if any member of the House of Assembly shall be elected a member of the Legislative Council, the former seat of such member shall, ipso facto, become vacant.

73. ⁽⁵⁾ And be it enacted, that when and as often as a vacancy shall, by death or other cause in this Ordinance specified, occur in regard to any elective seat or seats in the Legislative Council, or any seat or seats in the House of Assembly, it shall and may be lawful for the House in which such vacancy or vacancies shall have occurred to address the Governor, stating the existence of such vacancy or vacancies, and the cause or causes thereof; and the Constitution Ordinance.

76. (1) And whereas it is expedient that provision should be made that at the expiration of every two years a fresh register of voters should take place throughout the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, be it therefore enacted, that not sooner than one month before nor later than one month after the expiration of two years from the day of the publication of the proclamation, announcing, as hereinbefore mentioned, the names of the first members of the Legislative Council of the said Colony, the like proclamation and proceedings, in all respects, mutatis mutandis, as are hereinbefore directed in regard to the first or original registration of voters under this order, shall respectively be issued and take place, in order that there shall thereby be prepared and preserved fresh lists of voters in and for the several Electoral Divisions, similar to the lists hereinbefore directed to be prepared and preserved; and such a fresh registration shall, in like manner, take place every two years: Provided that in future registrations no objection shall be received to names which shall have been retained on the list of voters at the two preceding biennial registrations, unless these names are objected to on the ground that the persons so previously registered no longer possess the qualification in respect of which they had been registered: Provided also, that if, after the preparation of any fresh list in any Electoral Division (other than Cape Town and Graham's Town), a poll shall, in such division, be taken for members or a member of the House of Assembly before any poll shall be there taken for members or a member of the Legislative Council, and before any further biennial list of the voters in such division shall begin to be prepared, then and in that case the same proceedings relative to the determination of claims and objections which are hereinbefore directed in regard to the officers charged with the taking of the votes at the first election of members for the Legislative Council, shall take place in regard to the officers taking the poll at such election of members or a member of the House of Assembly, precisely as if the said poll for members or a member of the Legislative Assembly were the first poll for the first members of the Legislative Council: Provided, also, that if, in any division, no poll shall be taken for members of the Legislative Council or House of Assembly before a fresh biennial list shall begin to be prepared, then in that case the respective officers appointed to prepare such fresh biennial list in the respective Field-cornets, shall determine upon all claims and objections growing out of or connected with

A session of Parliament once, at least, in every year.

77. And be it enacted, that there shall be a session of the Parliament of the Cape of Good Hope once (1) at least every year; so that a period of twelve calendar months shall not intervene between the last sitting of the said Parliament in one session and its first sitting at next session.

Standing rules and orders to be made in and for the Council and the Assembly respectively.

78. (2) And be it enacted that the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly, at the first sitting of each respectively, and from time to time afterwards, as there shall be occasion, shall prepare and adopt such standing rules and orders as shall appear to the said Council and Assembly best adapted for the orderly and efficient conduct of the business of such Council and Assembly respectively, and for the manner in which the said Council and Assembly shall respectively be presided over, in case of the absence of the President or Speaker, and for the mode in which the said Council and the said Assembly shall confer, correspond, and communicate with each other, relative to votes or bills passed by or pending in the said Council and Assembly respectively; and for the manner in which notice of bills, resolutions, and other business, intended to be submitted to the said Council and Assembly respectively, at any session thereof, may be published in the Government Gazette or otherwise, for general information, for some convenient space of time before the meeting of such Council and Assembly respectively: and for the proper framing, entitling, and numbering of the Acts to be made and passed by the said Council and Assembly, and for any other purpose necessary for the convenient dispatch of business: all of which rules and orders shall, by such Council and Assembly respectively, be laid before the Governor of the Colony, and being by him approved, shall become binding and of force, but subject nevertheless to the confirmation or disallowance of Her Majesty, in manner as hereinafter provided respecting the Acts to be made by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Colony.

Governor may transmit drafts of laws to either house.

81. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope to transmit, by message, to either the Legislative Council or the House of Assembly, for their consideration, the drafts of any laws which it may appear to him desirable to introduce, and all such drafts shall be taken into consideration in such convenient manner as shall, in and by the rules and orders aforesaid, be in that behalf provided: Provided always, that the said Governor shall not transmit ⁽¹⁾ to the Legislative Council the draft of any law which ought, under and in virtue of the provisions of this Ordinance, to originate in or be introduced into the House of Assembly.

Power of Governor to assent to, or to refuse to assent to, or to reserve for the royal pleasure, bills which have passed the two houses.

82. And be it enacted, that whenever any bill which has been passed by the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall be presented for Her Majesty's assent to the Governor of the said Colony, such Governor shall declare, according to his discretion, but subject nevertheless to the provisions contained in this Ordinance, and to such instructions as may from time to time be given in that behalf by Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, that he assents to such bill in Her Majesty's name, or that he refuses his assent to such bill, or that he reserves such bill for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, before declaring his pleasure in regard to any bill which shall have been so presented to him, to make such amendments in such bill as he shall think needful or expedient, and by message to return such bills, with such amendments, to the Legislative Council, or the House of Assembly, as he shall think more fitting; and the consideration of such amendments by the said Council and Assembly respectively shall take place in such convenient manner as shall, in and by the rules and orders aforesaid, be in that behalf provided.

Power of the Crown to disallow acts assented to by the Governor.

83. And be it enacted, that whenever any bill which shall have been presented for Her Majesty's assent to the Governor of the said Colony of the Cape of Good Hope shall, by such Governor, have been assented to in Her Majesty's name, such Governor shall, by the first convenient opportunity, transmit to one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State an authentic copy of the Act so assented to; and that it shall be lawful, at any time within two years after such bill shall have been received by such Secretary of State, for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to declare her disallowance of such Act, and that such disallowance, together with a certificate under the hand and seal of such Secretary of State, certifying the day on which such bill was received as aforesaid, being signified by such Governor to the Bills reserved, when to take effect,

84. And be it enacted, that no bill which shall be reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon, shall have any force or authority within the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope until the Governor of the said Colony shall signify, either by speech or message to the Legislative Council and Assembly of the said Colony, or by proclamation, that such bill has been laid before Her Majesty in Council, and that Her Majesty has been pleased to assent to the same; and that an entry shall be made in the journals of the said Legislative Council of every such speech, message, or proclamation, and a duplicate thereof, duly attested, shall be delivered to the proper officer, to be kept amongst the records of the said Colony; and that no bill which shall be so reserved as aforesaid shall have any force or authority in the said Colony, unless Her Majesty's assent thereto shall have been so signified as aforesaid within the space of two years from the day on which such bill shall have been presented for Her Majesty's assent to the Governor as aforesaid.

Acts of Parliament to be printed in the Government Gazette.

85. And be it enacted, that the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope shall cause every Act of the Parliament of the Cape of Good Hope which he shall have assented to in Her Majesty's name to be printed in the Government Gazette for general information, and such publication by such Governor of any Act of the said Parliament shall be deemed to be in law the promulgation of the same. (1)

Copies of Acts of the Parliament to be enrolled.

86. And be it enacted, that as soon as may be after any Act of the Parliament aforesaid shall have been assented to, in Her Majesty's name, by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, or having been reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure, Her Majesty's assent thereto shall, in manner aforesaid, having been signified by the said Governor, the Clerk of the Legislative Council shall cause a fair copy of such Act, signed by the said Governor, as well as by the President of the said Legislative Council and the Speaker of the House of Assembly, to be enrolled of record in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court: Provided, however, that the validity of any such Act shall not depend upon the enrolment thereof.

Certificates of disallowance of acts of the Parliament to be enrolled.

87. And be it enacted, that when and as often as any bill, provisionally assented to by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope in the name of Her Majesty, shall, in manner aforesaid, have been disallowed by Her Majesty, the Governor aforesaid shall cause a certificate of such disallowance, certified under the public

88. And be it enacted, that in regard to all bills relative to the granting of supplies to Her Majesty, or the imposition of any impost, rate, or pecuniary burden upon the inhabitants, and which bills shall be of such a nature that if bills similar to them should be proposed to the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain and Ireland, such bills would, by the law and custom of Parliament, be required to originate in the House of Commons, that all such bills shall originate in, or be by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope introduced into, the House of Assembly of the said Colony: Provided that the Legislative Council of the said Colony and the Governor thereof shall, respectively, have full power and authority to make, in all such bills, such amendments as the said Council and the said Governor shall, respectively, regard as needful or expedient; and the said Council and the said Governor may, respectively, return such bills, so amended, to the House of Assembly or the Legislative Council.

Bills granting supplies or imposing taxes to originate in the Assembly.

89. And be it enacted, that all debates and discussions in the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, respectively, shall be conducted in the English ⁽¹⁾ language, and that all journals, entries, minutes, and proceedings of the said Council and Assembly be made and recorded in the same language.

Proceedings in both houses to be in the English or Dutch languages.

90. ⁽²⁾ Provided always, that no part of such sums ⁽³⁾ shall become payable to any member in any session until after an Act providing funds for the public service of the current year shall have been passed by the said Council and Assembly, and assented to by the Governor.

Provision for the payment of the expenses of certain members of the two houses.

91. And be it enacted, that in the construing of this Ordinance, the word "Governor" shall mean any officer for the time being lawfully administering the Government of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope; and that the words "Chief Justice" shall mean the person for the time being lawfully administering the functions of the Chief Justice; and that the words "Colony of the Cape of Good Hope" shall not include the district of Natal; and that the words "Government Gazette" shall mean the Government Gazette of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope; and that whenever mention is made of any public officer, the officer mentioned shall be deemed to be such officer for the time being, or the officer acting as such; and that words importing the singular number shall include the plural number, and words importing the plural number shall include also the singular number, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 11th day of March, 1853.

PRESENT :

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty,
His Royal Highness Prince Albert,
Lord Privy Seal,	Earl of Aberdeen,
Duke of Newcastle,	Earl of Clarendon,
Duke of Wellington,	Mr. Herbert,
Lord Chamberlain,	Sir James Graham, Bt.

WHEREAS, on the 3rd day of April, in the year 1852, an Ordinance was enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, entitled "An Ordinance for regulating in certain respects the Appropriation of the Revenue of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope by the Parliament thereof," of which said Ordinance a copy is contained in the schedule to this present Order in Council annexed :

And whereas it is expedient that the said Ordinance should be ratified and confirmed by Her Majesty in Council :

It is, therefore, hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, with the advice of Her Privy Council, that the said Ordinance shall, and the same is, hereby ratified, confirmed, and finally enacted.

And it is further ordered and declared, by the authority aforesaid, that the Ordinance shall commence and take effect within the Colony aforesaid, from and after the first day of July next ensuing :

Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent the Parliament of the said Colony from making any Act or Acts (subject to Her Majesty's power to disallow the same, if reserved for the signification of her pleasure thereon), in amendment of the said Ordinance or in furtherance of the objects thereof.

And the Most Noble the Duke of Newcastle, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, is to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Constitution Ordinance.

Ordinance (enacted by the Honourable the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof,) for regulating, in certain respects, the Appropriation of the Revenue of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope by the Parliament thereof.

Preamble.

WHEREAS Her Majesty did, by certain Letters Patent, bearing date at Westminster on the twenty-third day of May, in the thirteenth year of her reign, amongst other things declare and ordain that there should be within the settlement of the Cape of Good Hope, a Parliament, to consist of the Governor, a Legislative Council, and House of Assembly: And whereas, by an Ordinance, entitled "Ordinance enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, for constituting a Parliament for the said Colony," provision has been made for constituting a Legislative Council and House of Assembly for the said Colony, and for defining the powers of the same: And whereas it is expedient that provision should be made for defraying certain expenses out of the revenue of the said Colony:

Charges of collecting and managing the revenue to be paid thereout.

1. Be it therefore enacted, by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the said Governor shall be authorised to pay, out of the revenue of the said Colony, all the costs, charges, and expenses incident to the collection, management and receipt thereof: Provided always, that full and particular accounts of all such disbursements shall from time to time be laid before the Parliament of the said Colony.

Accounts of all such disbursements to be laid before the Parliament.

2. And be it enacted, that until the Parliament of the said Colony shall otherwise direct, there shall be payable every year to Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, out of the said revenue fund, the sum of one hundred and six thousand and ninety pounds, for defraying the expenses of the several services and purposes in the schedules (marked A, B, C, and D) annexed to this Ordinance: the said sum to be issued by the Treasurer of the said Colony, in discharge of such warrant or warrants as shall be from time to time directed to him under the hand and seal of the Governor.

Grants for civil and other services.

3. And be it enacted, that in construing this Ordinance, the word "Governor" shall mean any officer for the time being administering the Government of the Cape of Good Hope.

Interpretation clause.

4. And be it enacted, that this Ordinance shall commence and take effect within the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope from and after such date as Her Majesty shall, by advice of her Privy Council, fix for that purpose.

obstructions or impediments should exist to the publication of such reports, papers, votes, or proceedings of either House of Parliament as such House of Parliament may deem fit or necessary to be published: And whereas it is fit that such freedom should be secured by law, and that all such obstructions or impediments, should any arise, may be summarily removed: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly, that there shall be freedom of speech and debates or proceedings in Parliament, and that such freedom of speech and debates or proceedings in Parliament, shall not be liable to be impeached or questioned in any Court or place out of Parliament.

No. 1—1854.

Freedom of speech and debates, or proceedings in Parliament not to be questioned out of Parliament.

2. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons who may be a defendant or defendants in any civil or criminal proceeding, commenced or prosecuted in any manner soever, for or in respect of the publication of any report, paper, votes, or proceedings, by such person or persons, by or under the authority of either House of Parliament, to bring before the Court in which such proceeding shall be so commenced or prosecuted, or before any Judge thereof (should the proceedings be in the Supreme or any Circuit Court), first giving twenty-four hours' notice of his intention so to do to the plaintiff or prosecutor in such proceeding, a certificate under the hand of the President of the Legislative Council for the time being, or of the Clerk of the Legislative Council, or of the Speaker of the House of Assembly, or of the Clerk of the same House, stating that the report, paper, votes, or proceedings, as the case may be, in respect whereof such civil or criminal proceedings shall have been commenced or prosecuted, was or were published by such person or persons, or by his or their servant or servants, by order or under the authority of the Legislative Council, or the House of Assembly, as the case may be, together with an affidavit verifying such certificate; and such Court or Judge shall thereupon immediately stay any such civil or criminal proceeding, and the same and every writ or process issued thereon shall be, and the same shall be deemed and taken to be, finally put an end to, determined, and superseded, by virtue of this Act.

Mode of proceeding in cases in which suits at law are instituted in regard to papers published by authority of either Houses of Parliament.

3. Provided always, and it is hereby expressly declared and enacted, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed, or taken, or held, or construed, directly or indirectly, by implication or otherwise, to affect the rights and privileges of Parliament, in any manner whatsoever.

This Act not to affect the rights and privileges of Parliament.

ACT

For the Appointment of Shipping Masters, and for other purposes relating to the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1854." (1)

WHEREAS, by an Act of the Imperial Parliament, to wit, the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," it is among other things enacted, that "If the Governor-General of India in Council, or the respective Legislative authorities in any British possession abroad,

Preamble

¹ See Acts 3, 1863 (p. 883): 13, 1874 (p. 1316): 18, 1905 (p. 4841). By this Act provisions of the "Merchant Shipping Act," 57 and 58 Victoria, Chapter 60, as therein printed, declared to be law of Colony. See also Act 3, 1858 (p. 693): 18, 1861 (p. 834). Lighthouse dues.

No. 13—1855.

by any Acts, Ordinances, or other appropriate legal means, apply or adapt any of the provisions in the third part of this Act contained to any British ships registered at, trading with, or being at any place within their respective jurisdictions, and to the owners, masters, mates, and crews thereof, such provisions, when so applied and adapted as aforesaid, and as long as they remain in force, shall, in respect of the ships and persons to which the same are applied, be enforced, and penalties and punishments for the breach thereof shall be recovered and inflicted, throughout Her Majesty's dominions, in the same manner as if such provisions had been hereby so adopted and applied, and such penalties and punishments had been hereby expressly imposed": And whereas it is expedient to apply and adapt to this Colony certain provisions of the third part of the said Act to British ships registered at or being within the limits of this Colony, and to the owners, masters, mates, and crews of such ships: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Governor may establish shipping offices, and appoint shipping masters.

1. The Governor may establish a shipping office, or shipping offices, at any port or ports in this Colony, and may, for that purpose, appoint, and from time to time remove and re-appoint, superintendents of such offices, to be called shipping masters, with any necessary deputies, clerks, and servants; and every act done by or before any deputy, duly appointed, shall have the same effect as if done by or before a shipping master; and such shipping masters shall perform in this Colony the duties and exercise the powers conferred upon such shipping masters by the aforesaid Act, in so far as may be applicable in this respect to this Colony, in regard to British ships registered at or being within the limits of this Colony.

Governor may grant to shipping masters, and other officers, reasonable salaries.

2. It shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to such shipping masters, deputies, clerks, and servants, appointed as aforesaid such salaries or other allowances out of the fees to be received under this Act, for the labour and responsibility in executing the duties of their respective offices or employments, as the Governor shall deem to be reasonable and necessary.

Duties of shipping masters.

3. It shall be the general business of shipping masters, appointed as aforesaid, to afford facilities for engaging seamen by keeping registries of their names and characters; to superintend and facilitate their engagement and discharge in manner provided in the aforesaid Act; to provide means for securing the presence on board, at the proper times, of men who are so engaged; to facilitate the making of apprenticeships to the sea service; and to perform such other duties relating to merchant seamen and merchants ships as are now or may hereafter be legally committed to them.

What fees to be payable at shipping offices.

4. Such fees, not exceeding the sums specified in the table marked A in the schedule hereto annexed, as shall from time to time be fixed by the Governor, shall be payable upon all engagements and discharges effected before shipping masters; and the Governor shall cause scales of the fees payable for the time being to be prepared, and to be conspicuously placed in the shipping offices; and all shipping masters, their deputies, clerks, and servants, may refuse to proceed with any engagement or discharge, unless the fees payable thereon are first paid.

No. 13—1855.

By whom certain fees are to be paid in the first instance, and how those parties are to be reimbursed.

5. Every owner or master of a ship engaging or discharging any seamen or seaman in a shipping office, or before a shipping master, shall pay to the shipping master the whole of the fees hereby made payable in respect of such engagement or discharge, and may, for the purpose of in part reimbursing himself, deduct, in respect of each such engagement or discharge, from the wages of all persons (except apprentices) so engaged or discharged, and retain any sums not exceeding the sums specified in that behalf in the table marked B in the schedule hereto annexed: Provided that if in any case the sums which the owners so entitled to deduct exceed the amount of the fees payable by him, such excess shall be paid by him to the shipping master, in addition to such fee.

The receiving of anything, except lawful fees, an offence.

6. Any shipping master, deputy shipping master, or any clerk or servant in any shipping office, who demands or receives any remuneration whatever, either directly or indirectly, for hiring or supplying any seaman for any merchant ship excepting the lawful fees payable under this Act, shall for every such offence, incur a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds, and shall also be liable to be dismissed from his office.

Fees to be paid into the colonial treasury.

7. The whole of the fees received by the shipping masters under this Act shall be paid by them into the Colonial Treasury, at such times and in such manner as the Governor shall direct.

Shipping masters to keep correct account of fees.

8. The shipping masters shall keep true and correct accounts of all such fees, and shall render accounts of the receipts and payments of the same, duly vouched, in such manner and form, and at such periods as the Governor shall direct.

Shipping masters may be required to give security.

9. All shipping masters, deputies, clerks, and servants so appointed as aforesaid, shall, before entering upon their duties, give such security (if any) for the due performance thereof as the Governor may require.

No person, under a penalty of £20, to interfere with or perform any of the duties of shipping masters.

10. Any person interfering with or taking upon him to perform any of the duties and powers of any shipping master, in this Colony, by engaging seamen, or otherwise dealing with any matter within the province of such shipping master, shall incur a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prevent any owner, master, or mate, from entering into any agreement with any seaman, such agreement to be perfected according to the provisions of this Act, before a shipping master at the shipping office.

No. 13—1855.

Governor may dispense with the ministration of shipping masters in regard to matters by this Act required to be transacted before shipping masters,

The agreements mentioned in the 149th and 150th sections of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," to be conformed to.

Penalty for carrying seamen to sea without an agreement executed.

Shipping masters to arbitrate in disputes between masters and seamen.

Fees for so arbitrating.

How seamen to be engaged to serve on board British ships registered and being within this colony.

11. The Governor may from time or time, dispense with the transaction before a shipping master, or in a shipping office, of any matters required by this Act to be so transacted, and thereupon such matters shall, if otherwise duly transacted as required by law, be as valid as if transacted before a shipping master, or in a shipping office.

12. In the case of all British registered ships, the agreements entered into in this Colony between the masters of such ships and their crews shall be dated and signed, and shall contain all the particulars, as far as applicable, as are set forth in the 149th and 150th section of the aforesaid Act, and in the second schedule to this Act annexed.

13. If, in any case, a master carries any seaman to sea without entering into an agreement with him in the form and manner and at the place and time hereby in such case required, the master or owner of the ship shall, for each such offence, incur a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

14. Every shipping master shall hear and decide any question whatever between a master or owner and any of his crew, which both parties agree, in writing, to submit to him; and every award so made by him shall be in writing, and shall be binding on both parties, and shall, in any legal proceeding which may be taken in the matter before any Court of Justice, be deemed to be conclusive as to the rights of the parties; and no such submission or award shall require a stamp; and any document purporting to be such submission or award shall be primâ facie evidence thereof. And every shipping master shall receive from the parties such fee, not exceeding one pound sterling, upon each arbitration, as the said shipping master shall fix and determine.

15. And whereas it is further enacted in the Act aforesaid, that "Every master of a ship who, if such ship is registered in the United Kingdom, engages any ⁽¹⁾ seaman in any British possession, or if such ship belongs to any British possession, engages any seaman in any British possession other than that to which the ship belongs shall, if there is at the place where such seaman is engaged any official shipping master or other officer duly appointed for the purpose of shipping seamen, engage such seaman before such shipping master, and if there is no such shipping master or officer, then before some officer of Customs; and the same rules, qualifications, and penalties as are hereinbefore specified, with respect to the engagement of seamen before shipping masters in the United Kingdom shall apply to such engagements in a British possession; and upon every such engagement such shipping master or officer as aforesaid shall endorse upon the agreement an attestation, to the effect that the same has been signed in his presence, and otherwise made as hereby required; and if, in any case, such attestation is not made, the burthen of proving that seaman was duly engaged as hereby required, shall lie upon the master":

And whereas it is expedient to extend and apply in this Colony the provisions of the Act above recited to all British registered vessels registered in this Colony: Be it further enacted, that such provisions shall extend and apply to all British vessels registered in this Colony, which shall be within the limits of this Colony.

16. The provisions contained in the 243rd, the 244th, the 247th, and 248th sections of the aforesaid Act, and in the second schedule to this Act annexed, relating to punishments for offences committed by seamen or apprentices to the sea service, are hereby extended and applied to all crews of all British ships, registered in this Colony, which shall be within the limits of this Colony.

17. (1) Whereas it is enacted by the 242nd section of the aforesaid Act, and in the second schedule to this Act annexed, that the Board of Trade may suspend or cancel the certificate (whether of competency or service) of any master or mate, in certain cases, one of which cases, set forth in paragraph 5 of the said section, is as follows:—“ If upon any investigation made by any Court or Tribunal, authorised or hereafter to be authorised, by the Legislative authority, in any British possession, to make inquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters or mates of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, a report is made by such Court or Tribunal to the effect that he has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness, or tyranny, or that the loss or abandonment of or serious damage to any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, and such report is confirmed by the Governor or person administering the Government of such possession ”: And whereas it is expedient to authorise Courts or Tribunals in this Colony, for the purposes stated in the said recited section: Be it hereby further enacted, that any of the Courts of Resident Magistrate in this Colony shall be authorised to make the inquiries into all the matters, and for the purposes set forth in the said section; and, further, that it shall be lawful for the Governor, upon any occasion which he may see fit, to nominate and appoint any other person or persons whatever to be a Court or Tribunal duly authorised to make inquiry into the several matters and things set forth in the aforesaid recited section.

18. The provisions contained in the 518th, the 520th, and 521st sections of the aforesaid Act, and in the second schedule to this Act annexed, relating to legal procedure, to the punishment of offences, to the recovery of penalties, and to jurisdiction, shall be held to extend, as far as applicable, to this Colony.

19. All penalties recovered under this Act shall be applied in the same manner, and upon the same principles, as are set forth in the 524th section of the aforesaid Act, and in the second schedule to this Act annexed.

No. 13—1855.

- (6) A scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman.
- (7) And regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions, or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Board of Trade as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations, to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case, as to advance and allotment of wages, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law : Provided that if the master of any ship belonging to any British possession has an agreement with his crew made in due form according to the law of the possession to which such ship belongs or in which her crew were engaged, and engages single seamen in the United Kingdom, such seamen may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for them to sign an agreement in the form sanctioned by the Board of Trade.

150. In the case of all foreign-going ships, in whatever part of Her Majesty's dominions the same are registered, the following rules shall be observed with respect to agreements, that is to say :

- (1) Every agreement made in the United Kingdom (except in such cases of agreements with substitutes as are hereinafter specially provided for) shall be signed by each seaman in the presence of a shipping master.
- (2) Such shipping master shall cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, or otherwise ascertain that each seaman understands the same before he signs it and shall attest each signature.
- (3) When the crew is first engaged the agreement shall be signed in duplicate, and one part shall be retained by the shipping master, and the other part shall contain a special place or form for the descriptions and signatures of substitutes, or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship, and shall be delivered to the master.

- (4) In the case of substitutes engaged in the place of seamen who have duly signed the agreement, and whose services are lost within twenty-four hours of the ship's putting to sea by death, desertion, or other unforeseen cause, the engagement shall, when practicable, be made before some shipping master duly appointed in the manner hereinbefore specified; and whenever such last-mentioned engagement cannot be so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to the seamen; and the seamen shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest their signatures.

242. (1) The Board of Trade may suspend or cancel the certificate (whether of competency or service) of any master or mate⁽²⁾ in the following cases, that is to say:

- (1) If upon any investigation made, in pursuance of the last preceding section, he is reported to be incompetent, or to have been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness, or tyranny.
- (2) If upon any investigation, conducted under the provisions contained in the eighth part of this Act, or upon any investigation made by a Naval Court, constituted as hereinafter mentioned, it is reported, that the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default.
- (3) If he is superseded by the order of an Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court, constituted as hereinafter mentioned.
- (4) If he is shown to have been convicted of any offence.
- (5) If, upon any investigation made by any Court or Tribunal authorised, or hereinafter to be authorised, by the Legislative authority in any British possession to make inquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters and mates of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, a report is made by such Court or Tribunal to the effect that he has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness, or tyranny, or that the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, [and such report is confirmed by the Governor or person administering the Government of such possession].⁽³⁾

And every master or mate whose certificate is cancelled or suspended shall deliver it to the Board of Trade, or as it directs, and in default, shall for each offence incur a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds; and the Board of Trade may at any subsequent time grant to any person whose certificate has been cancelled a new certificate of the same, or of any lower grade.

243. Whenever any seaman who has been lawfully engaged, or any apprentice to the sea service commits any of the following offences, he shall be liable to be punished summarily as follows, that is to say:

- (1) For desertion, he shall be liable [to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour, and also] ⁽¹⁾ to forfeit all or any part of the clothes and effects he leaves on board, and all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned, and also, if such desertion takes place abroad, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to the United Kingdom, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated to be paid to him.
- (2) For neglecting or refusing, without reasonable cause, to join his ship, or to proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours of the ship's sailing from any port either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty, not amounting to desertion or not treated as such by the master, he shall be liable [to imprisonment for any period not exceeding ten weeks, with or without hard labour, and also] ⁽¹⁾ at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit, out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of two days' pay, and in addition for every twenty-four hours of absence either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses, which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.
- (3) For quitting the ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery, and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages, a sum not exceeding one month's pay.
- (4) For wilful disobedience of any lawful command he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding four weeks, with or without hard labour, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay.
- (5) For continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or continued wilful neglect of duty, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit, for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay, or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute.

¹ Words in brackets repealed as regards the United Kingdom by § 12, 43 and 44 Vict. c. 16.

No. 13—1855.

- (6) For assaulting any master or mate, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour.
- (7) For combining with any other or others of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour.
- (8) For wilfully damaging the ship, or embezzling, or wilfully damaging any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit, out of his wages, a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for any period not exceeding twelve weeks, with or without hard labour.
- (9) For any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the master or owner, he shall be liable to pay to such master or owner such a sum as is sufficient to reimburse the master or owner for such loss or damage; and the whole, or a proportionate part, of his wages may be retained, in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

244. Upon the commission of any of the offences enumerated in the last preceding section, an entry thereof shall be made in the official log-book, and shall be signed by the master, and also by the mate or one of the crew: and the offender, if still in the ship, shall before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or if she is at the time in port, before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry, or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he thinks fit; and a statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid; and in any subsequent legal proceedings, the entries hereinbefore required shall, if practicable, be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof, the Court hearing the case may, at its discretion, refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

247. Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court, on the ground of having neglected or refused to join, or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, such Court may, if the master or the owner, or his agent, so requires, [instead of committing the offender to prison] ⁽¹⁾ cause him to be conveyed on board, for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed, and may, in such case, order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner, by reason of the offence, to be paid by the offender, and, if necessary, to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which, by virtue of his then existing engagement, he may afterwards earn.

¹ The words in brackets and the next section (248) repealed as regards United Kingdom by § 12, 43 and 44, Vict. c. 16.

248. If any seaman or apprentice is imprisoned on the ground of his having neglected or refused to join or to proceed to sea in any ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having deserted or otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, or of his having committed any other breach of discipline, and if, during such imprisonment, and before his engagement is at an end, his services are required on board his ship, any Justice may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause such seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board his said ship, for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship, or to the owner or his agent, to be by them so conveyed, notwithstanding that the termination of the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not arrived.

518. In all places within Her Majesty's dominions, except Scotland, the offences hereinafter mentioned shall be punished, and penalties recovered in manner following, that is to say :

- (1) Every offence by this Act declared to be a misdemeanour, shall be punishable by fine or imprisonment, with or without hard labour ; and the Court before which such offence is tried may, in England, make the same allowances, and order payment of the same costs and expenses as if such misdemeanour had been enumerated in the Act passed in the seventh year of his late Majesty King George the Fourth, chapter sixty-four, or any other Act that may be passed for the like purpose ; and may in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions make such allowances, and order payment of such costs and expenses (if any) as are payable or allowable upon the trial of any misdemeanour, under any existing Act or Ordinance, or as may be payable or allowable under any Act or Law, for the time being, in force therein.
- (2) Every offence, declared by this Act to be a misdemeanour, shall also be deemed to be an offence hereby made punishable by imprisonment for any period not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, or by a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, and may be prosecuted accordingly in a summary manner, instead of being prosecuted as a misdemeanour.
- (3) Every offence hereby made punishable by imprisonment for any period not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, or by any penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, shall, in England and Ireland, be prosecuted summarily, before any two or more Justices, as to England, in the manner directed by the Act of the eleventh and twelfth years of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter forty-three, and as to Ireland, in the manner directed by the Act of the fourteenth and fifteenth years of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, chapter ninety-three, or in such other manner as may be directed by any Act or Acts that may be passed for like purposes ; And all provisions contained in the said Acts shall be applicable to such prosecutions in the same manner as if the offences, in respect of which the same are instituted, were hereby stated

- to be offences in respect of which two or more Justices have power to convict summarily, or to make a summary order.
- (4) In all cases of summary convictions in England, where the sum adjudged to be paid exceeds five pounds, or the period of imprisonment adjudged exceeds one month, any person who thinks himself aggrieved by such conviction, may appeal to the next Court of General or Quarter Sessions, which is holden not less than twelve days after the day of such conviction for the county, city, borough, liberty, riding, division or place wherein the case has been tried; provided that such persons shall give to the complainant a notice, in writing, of such appeal, and of the cause and matter thereof, within three days after such conviction, and seven clear days at the least before such Sessions, and shall also either remain in custody until the Sessions, or enter into a recognizance, with two sufficient sureties, before a Justice of the Peace, conditioned personally to appear at the said Sessions, and to try such appeal, and to abide the judgment of the Court thereupon, and to pay such costs as shall be by the Court awarded; and upon such notice being given, and such recognizance being entered into, the Justice, before whom the same shall be entered into, shall liberate such person, if in custody; and the Court at such Sessions shall hear and determine the matter of the appeal, and shall make such order therein, with or without costs to either party, as to the Court shall seem meet; and in case of dismissal of the appeal, or the affirmance of the conviction, shall order and adjudge the offender to be punished according to the conviction, and to pay such costs as may be awarded, and shall, if necessary, issue process for enforcing such judgment.
- (5) All offences under this Act shall, in any British possession be punishable in any Court, or by any Justice of the Peace, or Magistrate, in which or by whom offences of a like character are ordinarily punishable or in such other manner or by such other Courts, Justices, or Magistrates as may, from time to time, be determined by any Act or Ordinance duly made in such possession, in such manner as Acts and Ordinances in such possession are required to be made, in order to have the force of law.

520. For the purpose of giving jurisdiction under this Act, every offence shall be deemed to have been committed, and every cause of complaint to have arisen either in the place in which the same actually was committed or arose, or in any place in which the offender or person complained against may be.

521. In all cases where any district within which any Court or Justice of the Peace, or other Magistrate has jurisdiction, either under this Act, or under any other Act, or at common law for any purpose whatever, is situate in the coast of any sea, or abutting on or projecting into any bay, channel, lake, river, or other navigable water, every such court, Justice of the Peace, or Magistrate shall have jurisdiction over any ship or boat being on, or lying, or passing off such coast, or being in or near such bay, channel, lake, river, or navigable water as aforesaid, and over all persons on board such ship or boat, or for the time being belonging thereto, in the same manner as if such ship, boat, or person were within the limits of the original jurisdiction of such Court, Justice, or Magistrate.

No. 14—1855.

524. Any Court, Justice, or Magistrate imposing any penalty under this Act for which no specific application is herein provided, may, if it or he think fit, direct the whole or every part thereof to be applied in compensating any person for any wrong or damage which he may have sustained by the act or default in respect of which such penalty is imposed, or to be applied in or towards payment of the expenses of the proceedings; and subject to such directions or specific application as aforesaid, all penalties recovered in the United Kingdom shall be paid into the receipt of Her Majesty's exchequer, in such manner as the Treasury may direct, and shall be carried to and form part of the consolidated fund of the United Kingdom; and all penalties recovered in any British possession shall be paid over into the public treasury of such possession, and form part of the public revenue thereof.

ACT

For Regulating the Provincial Hospital at Port Elizabeth.

WHEREAS it is intended to establish an hospital, to be called the “ Provincial Hospital at Port Elizabeth ”: And whereas it is expedient that the Board of Managers of the said Provincial Hospital should be incorporated, and that certain other matters likely to promote the welfare of the said hospital should be provided for by Parliament: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows, that is to say:—

Preamble.

1. The hospital aforesaid shall be called the “ Provincial Hospital at Port Elizabeth,” and shall be managed by a Board of Managers.

Hospital how to be designated.

¹ The First Monday or any Day in October duly proclaimed and declared Public Holiday within the meaning of this Act. See Act 34, 1889 (p. 2683).

- No. 5—1856.
- Board of management: civil commissioner, municipal commissioners and elective members.
- Board how to be styled.
- Elective members.
- Life-governor.
- Donor to the funds entitled to elect and be elected.
- Subscribers of one guinea.
- Subscribers of half a guinea.
- Board of managers, when to be elected.
- Election, how to be made.
- Who, entitled to vote.
2. (1) The Civil Commissioner of the division of Port Elizabeth for the time being, the commissioners of the municipality of Port Elizabeth for the time being, together with a number of elective members equal to the number of municipal commissioners for the time being, which members shall be elected as hereinafter provided, shall form a board for the management of the said hospital, of which board the Civil Commissioner for the time being shall be the chairman: Provided always, however, that when the Civil Commissioner is not present, then the managers present shall choose their own chairman; and in case of an equality of votes upon any matter or question submitted to the said board, he shall, besides a deliberative vote, possess a casting vote.
3. For the purposes of this Act, the said Board of Managers for the time being shall be a corporation by the name or style of "The Board of Managers of the Provincial Hospital," and shall have perpetual succession, and shall and may sue and be sued in all courts, places, and proceedings, by the name or style aforesaid.
4. The elective members of the said board shall be elected by the life-governors of and the annual subscribers to the said hospital.
5. Any person making a donation to the funds of the said hospital of not less than £20 (twenty pounds) shall become a life-governor, and be entitled to elect and be elected.
6. Any person making a donation to the funds of the said hospital of not less than twenty-five pounds shall be entitled to nominate some other person as a life-governor, who shall be entitled to elect and be elected.
7. Any subscriber subscribing annually not less than one guinea shall be entitled to elect and be elected.
8. Any subscriber subscribing not less than half-a-guinea annually, shall be entitled to elect, but not to be elected.
9. As soon as there shall be twenty persons entitled to vote at the election of the elective members of the Board of Managers aforesaid, but not sooner, the Civil Commissioner aforesaid shall, by a notice to be published in the Government Gazette, for not less than twenty-one days before the day appointed, call a meeting of the life-governors and subscribers to the said hospital, to be held at some place in Port Elizabeth, to be specified in such notice, for the purpose of electing so many members of the said board as shall be then to be elected.
10. At the meeting last mentioned, the Civil Commissioner shall preside, and the election shall be by signed lists, and the Civil Commissioner shall transmit the names of the members elected to the Colonial Secretary, who shall cause the same to be published in the Government Gazette: Provided that at such meeting all persons entitled to vote who shall be females, or who shall reside beyond the limits of the municipality of Port Elizabeth, but no other persons, shall be entitled to appoint, by any writing under their hands respectively, some other person, being himself a person entitled to vote, to be the proxy of or for the person by whom he shall have been so appointed, and to vote in such person's behalf.

No. 5—1856.

11. The elective members elected at the first meeting held for the election of elective members shall hold office for three years; and thereafter until the expiration of one year and one half year from the day on which the municipal commissioners of Port Elizabeth, in office at the expiration of the said three years were elected, at which time such first elected members shall go out of office, and be succeeded by others to be then elected; and all elective members other than those first elected shall go out of office at the end of the third year from the date of their election, and be succeeded by others; and so one for ever: Provided that all outgoing elective members shall be eligible to be re-elected.

Elective members, when to retire

How their places to be supplied.

12. On the Monday next before the day on which any body of elective members are appointed to go out of office as aforesaid, a meeting shall be holden of the life-governors and subscribers to the said hospital, for the election of elective members for the three years next succeeding, of which meeting a notice of not less than twenty-one days shall be given by the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, in the Government Gazette.

Election of new members.

13. If any elected member of the said board shall die or resign, or, being a subscriber, shall cease to subscribe, in manner aforesaid, an amount not less than one guinea per annum, or shall cease to reside in the division of Port Elizabeth, or shall become incapacitated for fulfilling the duties of his office by mental or bodily infirmity or disease, he shall, ipso facto, vacate his office, and the said board shall give notice of such vacancy to the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, who shall, upon the like notice as that in the last preceding section mentioned, call a meeting of life-governors and subscribers, for the purpose of filling up such vacancy; and the person elected to fill such vacancy shall be entitled to continue in office till the next general election of elected members, but no longer: Provided that every such person shall be eligible to be re-elected.

What constitutes vacation of office.

How vacancy to be filled.

14. Should it happen by reason of any failure or neglect, or other cause, that any such meeting as in the twelfth section mentioned shall not have been duly holden, or that at such meeting the number of elected members which were then to be elected shall not have been duly elected, then the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, upon being informed by the Board of Managers of such non-election, shall forthwith, upon the like notice as in the said twelfth section mentioned, call a meeting of life-governors and subscribers, in order thereat to elect the members necessary to be elected: Provided that the elected members in office at the time of such non-election of new members shall remain in office till such new members shall be elected: And provided that the new members, elected at any such meeting as in this section mentioned, shall remain in office as long as members elected at such regular meeting as in the twelfth section mentioned would have remained in office, and no longer.

- Ex-officio members to constitute the board until elective members are chosen.

15. Until elective members of the Board of Managers shall be elected, the members ex officio, of the said board shall be deemed and taken to form the said board, and shall possess all and singular the powers and authorities of the said board, as fully as if elective members had been elected; and no vacancy or vacancies at any time occurring amongst or in regard to the elective members shall be deemed or taken to render the said board incomplete, or to suspend or impair any of its powers.

Increase or diminution of municipal commissioners, before any general election, not to affect the board.

16. Should the number of commissioners of the municipality of Port Elizabeth be increased or diminished in the interval between one general election of elective members and the next succeeding general election, such increase or diminution shall not alter or affect the tenure of office of any of the elective members who shall be in office at the time of such increase or diminution: Provided that at the then next ensuing general election, the number of members to be elected shall be the same as the number of municipal commissioners for the time being: Provided also, that if, during any such interval as aforesaid, the number of municipal commissioners shall be diminished, so as to fall below the number of elected members for the time being, no casual vacancies occurring in the office of elective members shall be filled up, so long as the elected members for the time being shall exceed the number of municipal commissioners for the time being.

Board of managers to hold property for the benefit of the institution

17. The Board of Managers aforesaid shall stand and be possessed of all lands which may be granted to the said board by Her Majesty the Queen, or by any private person, for the use and benefit of the Provincial Hospital aforesaid, and of all lands and buildings which may be purchased, erected, or in any manner acquired by the said board for the purposes of the said hospital; and of all funds and moneys granted to the said board from and out of the public revenue of this Colony, or given, subscribed, bequeathed, paid, or in any manner coming to the said board, for the use and benefit of the said hospital; and generally of all property, movable or immovable, belonging to the said hospital, —more especially of a certain grant of land already made in trust to the municipal commissioners of Port Elizabeth, for the use and benefit of the said hospital.

Board may, with sanction of the Governor, sell or lease lands held in trust.

18. It shall be lawful for the said board, with the sanction of the Governor of this Colony for the time being, first had and obtained, but not otherwise, to sell by public sale, but not otherwise, any portion or portions of any land which may have been granted to the said board by Her Majesty the Queen, which land it may be found expedient to alienate; and the said board may, in case the sanction aforesaid shall have been obtained, lease any of the said lastmentioned lands, at the best rent that can be obtained, without any fine or fore-gift, for any term not exceeding thirty-three years from the time when such lease shall be made.

19. All transfers, leases, contracts, or other instruments to be executed by the said board, for any of the purposes of this Act, or of the said hospital, shall be executed by three members of the said board, acting for and on behalf of the board, of which three members the chairman of the said board for the time being shall be one.

20. The Provincial Hospital at Port Elizabeth shall be at all times open, so far as its funds will permit, to receive all persons standing in need of medical or surgical aid or treatment, and to supply such aid and treatment to all persons in poor or indigent circumstances, free of any fee or charge whatever.

21. It shall be the duty of the Board of Managers to make provisions for the reception and treatment of patients able and willing to pay for the same, and to frame in regard to such paying patients a scale or tariff of the charges to be made by or on behalf of the said hospital.

22. It shall be lawful for the Board of Managers to appoint all such doctors of medicine and surgeons as may be required for the said hospital, at such salaries as the said board shall deem expedient, and to discharge any such doctor of medicine or surgeon for immoral or improper conduct, or for non-fulfilment of his engagements with the said board: Provided that no such doctor of medicine or surgeon shall be discharged upon any of the grounds in this section mentioned until he shall have been furnished in writing by the said board with a statement of the charges against him and shall have had an opportunity of making his defence, and until a majority of the members present at some meeting of the said board at which not less than three-fourths of the members for the time being shall be present shall have resolved that such doctor of medicine or surgeon be so discharged.

23. All persons other than doctors of medicine and surgeons employed in or about the said hospital shall be engaged by the said board and shall hold their situations at the pleasure of the said board.

24. It shall be the duty of the Board of Managers to frame and from time to time if need be to amend all such rules and regulations as to the said board shall seem necessary touching and concerning the times of meeting and mode of summoning of the members of the said board: how many members shall form a quorum; the recording of the proceedings of every such meeting; the officers of such board and their salaries, if any; the mode in which the moneys belonging to the said board shall be collected, kept, and paid out; the mode in which the accounts of the said hospital shall be kept; the number and the duties of the officers, hospital attendants, and other persons employed in or about the said hospital: the length of notice to be given or received by each

For Regulating the Public Schools in Port Elizabeth upon the Grey Foundation.

WHEREAS it is intended to establish Public Schools in Port Elizabeth, for the education of youth, without distinction of creed, class, or colour, which schools, in honour of His Excellency Sir George Grey, K.C.B., the Governor of this Colony, and in acknowledgment of the interest which he has evinced in their success, are to be called the "Public Schools of Port Elizabeth upon the Grey Foundation": And whereas it is expedient that the board of managers for managing the said schools should be incorporated, and that certain other matters likely to promote the welfare of the said schools should be provided for by Parliament: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows, that is to say:—

Preamble.

1. The schools aforesaid shall be called the "Public Schools of Port Elizabeth upon the Grey Foundation," and shall be managed by a board of managers.

Designation of schools.

2. [Repealed by Act 14, 1888.]

3. For the purposes of this Act, the said board of managers for the time being shall be a corporation by the name or style of "The Board of Managers of the Public Schools of Port Elizabeth upon the Grey Foundation," and shall have perpetual succession, and shall and may sue and be sued in all courts, places, and proceedings, by the name or style aforesaid.

Board how to be styled.

4. The elective members of the board aforesaid shall be elected by donors to the said schools, of sums not less, respectively, than fifty pounds, and subscribers subscribing, each of them, a sum of not less than five pounds: Provided that any sum not less than five pounds paid by any person by way of a fee or fees for any pupil belonging to the said schools shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be a subscription.

Who elective members.

5. Every donor of a sum of fifty pounds shall be entitled to one vote; every donor of one hundred pounds to two votes; and in like manner, every donor shall have one vote for every fifty pounds of his donation: Provided that all successive donations given by the same person shall, for the purposes of this Act, be regarded as one donation of the whole amount of the donations of such person for the time being.

What entitles to vote.

6. Every such subscriber as already defined, of five pounds, shall be entitled to one vote; every subscriber of ten pounds, to two votes; and in like manner, every subscriber shall have one vote for every five pounds of his subscription: Provided that no subscriber shall be entitled to vote at any election, except a subscriber who shall have paid a subscription of not less than five

Number of votes to each.

- No. 6—1856.
Donor may vote.
- pounds for the year in which such election shall be held: Provided, also, that a donation of not less than five pounds shall be considered as a subscription, entitling the donor to vote as if a subscriber of the same amount at any election which shall be held within twelve months next after the bestowal of such donation.
7. [Repealed by Act 14, 1888.]
- Election how to take place.
Who to vote.
8. At the meeting lastmentioned, the Civil Commissioner shall preside, and the election shall be by signed lists, and the Civil Commissioner shall transmit the names of the members elected to the Colonial Secretary, who shall cause the same to be published in the Government Gazette: Provided that at such meeting all persons entitled to vote who shall be females, or who shall reside beyond the limits of the municipality of Port Elizabeth, but no other persons, shall be entitled to appoint, by any writing under their hands respectively, some other person, being himself a person entitled to vote, to be the proxy of or for the person by whom he shall have been so appointed, and to vote in such person's behalf.
9. [Repealed by Act 14, 1888.]
10. [Repealed by Act 14, 1888.]
- What constitutes vacancy.
11. If any elected member of the said board shall die or resign, or, being a subscriber, shall cease to subscribe, in manner aforesaid, an amount not less than five pounds per annum, or shall cease to reside in the division of Port Elizabeth, or shall become incapacitated for fulfilling the duties of his office by mental or bodily infirmity or disease he shall, ipso facto, vacate his office, and the said board shall give notice of such vacancy to the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, who shall, upon the like notice as that in the last preceding section mentioned, call a meeting of donors and subscribers, for the purpose of filling up such vacancy; and the person elected to fill such vacancy shall be entitled to continue in office till the next general election of elected members, but no longer: Provided that every such person shall be eligible to be re-elected.
- Vacancy to be filled.
- In case of failure to elect.
12. Should it happen by reason of any failure or neglect, or other cause, that any such meeting as in the fourth section of Act 14 of 1888 mentioned⁽¹⁾ shall not have been duly holden, or that at such meeting the number of elected members which were then to be elected shall not have been duly elected, then the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, upon being informed by the board of managers of such non-election, shall forthwith, upon the like notice as in the said tenth section mentioned, call a meeting of donors and subscribers, in order thereat to elect the members necessary to be elected: Provided that the elected members in office at the time of such non-election of new members shall remain in office till such new members shall be elected: And provided that the new members, elected at any such meeting as in this section mentioned, shall remain in office as long as members elected at such regular meeting as in the tenth section mentioned would have remained in office, and no longer.

No. 6—1856.

13. Until elective members of the board of managers shall be elected, the members ex officio of the said board shall be deemed and taken to form the said board, and shall possess all and singular the powers and authorities of the said board, as fully as if elective members had been elected; and no vacancy or vacancies at any time occurring amongst or in regard to the elective members shall be deemed or taken to render the said board incomplete, or to suspend or impair any of its powers.

Ex-officio members to constitute board until elective members are chosen.

14. [Repealed by Act 14, 1888.]

15. The board of managers aforesaid shall stand and be possessed of all lands which may be granted to the said board by Her Majesty the Queen, or by any private person, for the use and benefit of the public schools aforesaid, and of all lands and buildings which may be purchased, erected, or in any manner acquired by the said board for the purposes of the said schools; and of all funds and moneys granted to the said board from and out of the public revenue of this Colony, or given, subscribed, bequeathed, paid, or in any manner coming to the said board for the use and benefit of the said schools; and generally of all property, movable or immovable, belonging to the said schools.

Board to hold property for the benefit of the institution.

16. It shall be lawful for the said board, with the sanction of the Governor of this Colony for the time being, first had and obtained, but not otherwise, to sell by public sale, but not otherwise, any portion or portions of any land which may have been granted to the said board by Her Majesty the Queen, which land it may be found expedient to alienate; and the said board may in case the sanction aforesaid shall have been obtained, lease any of the said lastmentioned lands, at the best rent that can be obtained, without any fine or fore-gift, for any term not exceeding thirty-three years from the time when such lease shall be made.

Board may, with sanction of the Governor, sell or lease lands held in trust.

17. All transfers, leases, contracts, or other instruments to be executed by the said board, for any of the purposes of this Act, or of the said schools, shall be executed by three members of the said board, acting for and on behalf of the board, of which three members the chairman of the said board for the time being shall be one.

Transfers, leases, &c., to be executed by three members.

18. The schools aforesaid to be managed as aforesaid by the said board shall be, in the first instance, three in number, that is to say, one High or Collegiate School, to be called the "Grey Institution," and two Elementary or Training Schools, for the preparation of pupils for the High or Collegiate School aforesaid.

Schools to be three in number.

19. It shall be lawful for the board of managers to appoint all such teachers and masters as may be required for the said schools, at such salaries as the said board shall deem expedient, and to discharge any such teacher or master for improper conduct, or other incapacity, or for non-fulfilment of his engagements with the said board: Provided that no such teacher or master shall be discharged upon any of the grounds in this section mentioned until he shall have been furnished, in writing, by the said board with a statement of the charges against him, and shall have had an opportunity of making his defence, and until a majority of the members present at some meeting of the said board, at which not less than three-fourths of the members for the time being shall be present, shall have resolved that such teacher or master be so discharged.

Board to appoint other officers.

20. All persons other than teachers and masters employed in or about the said schools shall be engaged by the said board, and shall hold their situations at the pleasure of the said board.

Board to frame rules for the institution.

21. It shall be the duty of the board of managers to frame, and from time to time, if need be, to amend all rules and regulations as to the said board shall seem necessary, touching and concerning the times of meeting, and mode of summoning of the members of the board; how many shall form a quorum; the recording of the proceedings of every such meeting; the officers of such board, and their salaries (if any); the mode in which the moneys belonging to the said board shall be collected, kept, and paid out; the mode in which the accounts of the said board shall be kept; the ages and proficiency in learning which shall be a condition of admission into the Grey Institution aforesaid, and into both or either of the two other schools aforesaid; the fees or other charges which shall be payable by or in regard to the pupils in the said three schools respectively; the number and the duties of the teachers, masters, or other persons employed in each of the said schools; the length of notice to be given or received by each teacher or master, before it shall be lawful for him, without mutual consent, to vacate his office, or for the said board to dispense with his services, unless for some cause in the 19th section specified; the branches of learning which shall be taught in the said schools respectively; the terms and conditions upon which benevolent persons may entitle themselves, or others nominated by them, to send free pupils to the said schools respectively; and generally any subject connected with the due and proper conduct, discipline, management, and advancement of the said schools.

To regulate duties and salaries of officers.

22. It shall at all time be provided by such rules and regulations that every donor to the said schools of not less than £100⁽¹⁾ shall have the right to send to and keep at the said schools, or any of them, for the term of twenty-one years next after the date of the donation, one free pupil; and that every donor of not less than £200 shall have the right to send and keep at the said schools, or any of them, for ever, one free pupil for every £200 which he shall give to the said schools; and such rules and regulations shall also provide for the manner in which, and the persons by whom, such donors as aforesaid may exercise such right of presentation: Provided that it shall be lawful for the board of managers to agree, if they should so think fit, to the mode of exercising a right of presentation which shall be proposed by any donor, or intended donor, anything in the said rules and regulations to the contrary notwithstanding.

No. 6--1856.

23. The board of managers shall furnish to the Governor for the time being a copy of the rules and regulations aforesaid for the time being, and shall regularly report to the said Governor all amendments thereof and additions thereto.

Copy of rules and amendments to be sent to Governor.

24. It shall be lawful for the said board to purchase or rent all such lands or buildings as shall be necessary for the purposes of the said schools, and when it shall be desirable so to do, to sell again, by public sale, but not otherwise, any lands or buildings which the said board shall have purchased, and shall no longer require; and the said board may also contract for the building of any buildings, or the supply of any furniture or apparatus which shall be required for such schools: Provided that no contract for any purpose which shall require any expenditure above £20 shall be entered into, unless tenders for the same shall have been called for by a notice, written or printed, and posted at the office of the Resident Magistrate of Port Elizabeth, for not less than eight days, as also by an advertisement to be published in some one or more of the newspapers of Port Elizabeth, for not less than eight days.

Board may purchase, rent, or dispose of lands, buildings, &c., for benefit of institution.

25. The board of managers aforesaid shall cause detailed accounts, in writing, of all sums of money received by them for any of the purposes of this Act, and of all sums expended by them for any purpose thereof, to be made up to the 31st of December in every year; and the said board shall also frame a full report of the state and proceedings of the schools, up to the same day in each year, and shall cause a copy of such accounts and of such report to be transmitted to the Governor of the Colony, not later than the 1st of March in the next succeeding year; and the said Governor shall lay a copy of such accounts and of such report before each House of Parliament, should Parliament be sitting at the time of the receipt of such accounts by such Governor; and in case Parliament should not then be sitting, the Governor shall lay the copies aforesaid before the said Houses respectively at the then next ensuing session of Parliament. And the said Governor shall also cause the said accounts and report, or an abstract of them, to be published in the Government Gazette.

Report of state and proceedings, with accounts of expenditure, to be sent to Governor, for presentation to Parliament.

(1) ACT

For apportioning Quitrents upon the Subdivision of Fixed Property.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that provision should be made, by law, for apportioning the quitrent payable by or out of fixed property which may become, or may have become subdivided amongst several owners: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Repugnant laws repealed.

1. So much of the proclamation of Sir John Francis Cradock, the then Governor of the Colony, bearing date the 6th August, 1813, as may be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act, is hereby repealed.

Seller and purchaser to agree upon the respective shares of quitrent.

2. As often as the owner of any fixed property, in its original extent subject to the payment of quitrent to Her Majesty the Queen, shall, after the taking effect of this Act, sell or otherwise alienate any part, but not the whole, of such property, whether an undivided share thereof, or a portion thereof to be divided off by diagram, it shall be lawful for the seller and purchaser, by agreement (2) between themselves, or by their attorneys or agents, duly authorised, made in the presence of the Civil Commissioner of the division in which such property shall be situated, to fix and determine the shares or proportions of the quitrent previously payable by or out of the entire of the said property, which shall, for the future be payable by the seller and the purchaser, respectively, and from or out of their respective shares or portions of the said property, and the terms of such agreement shall be put in writing, and certified by the Civil Commissioner, and in every transfer deed which shall be passed in virtue of, and for carrying into effect such sale or alienation, the amount of quitrent to be thenceforth payable from or out of the share or portion of such property as aforesaid, transferred by such transfer deed, shall be stated and embodied: Provided that in every such case as in this section mentioned the amount of quitrent which shall continue to be paid by the said party so selling or alienating as aforesaid shall be, by the Civil Commissioner, endorsed upon the title deed or transfer deed, as the case may be, under or by virtue of which such party holds such property; and provided, further, that on no division shall less than 5s. quitrent be payable; and provided, also, that in any farm sub-divided for the purpose of a village, the quitrent thereon shall be redeemable at a twenty years' purchase.

Agreement to be certified by Civil Commissioner.

Amount of quitrent to be stated in transfer deed.

Quitrent on original property to be endorsed on title deed.

Minimum quitrent to be five shillings.

Farms subdivided for purposes of village redeemable.

Civil Commissioner to keep record-book of apportionment of quitrents.

3. The Civil Commissioner shall cause every such apportionment of quitrent so made as aforesaid to be recorded in a book to be kept by him for that purpose.

² For proceedings where parties concerned do not agree, see Act 10, 1875 (p. 1363).

4. As often as any owner of fixed property shall sell or alienate the whole thereof to more persons than one, either in undivided shares, or in portions to be divided off by diagram, then the several purchasers may, in manner aforesaid, agree upon the proportionate amounts of quitrent to be thenceforth payable by each; and the 2nd and 3rd sections aforesaid shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to this case as well as to the case therein mentioned.

No. 7—1856.

Several purchasers of one property to agree as to their proportionate shares of quitrent.

5. When any persons shall, under any deed of grant or transfer deed, or transfer deeds, made prior to the taking effect of this Act, own, amongst them, in either undivided or divided shares or portions, any extent of fixed property, subject to quitrent, as such extent was originally granted, or some such persons shall own a part of such extent in undivided shares, and the rest of such person shall own the rest of such extent in portions divided off by diagram, such persons may, by any agreement made in manner and form as in the 2nd section of this Act mentioned, fix and determine the shares and proportions of the quitrent previously payable from or out of the entire property in its original extent, which shall thenceforth be payable from or out of each undivided share and each divided portion, and such shares and proportions of quitrent shall be endorsed by the Civil Commissioner upon the title deed, or transfer deed or deeds, under or by virtue of which the several shares or portions of such property shall be enjoyed by such owners respectively, and shall also be recorded by such Civil Commissioner, as in the 3rd section of this Act directed, and be stated and embodied in any transfer deed by which any such share or portion may be afterwards transferred.

Act applicable to previous purchases.

6. As often as the quitrent originally payable by or out of any fixed property in its original extent shall have been apportioned in manner and form as by this Act provided, then each share or portion of such property shall be chargeable with its share or proportion of such quitrent, according to such apportionment, and no more, precisely as if such share or proportion had been originally granted, subject to such share and proportion, and no more.

Each share of the entire property to pay its own proportion of quitrent, and no more.

7. In all cases in which any share or portion of fixed property in regard to which the quitrent shall have been apportioned as aforesaid, shall be again subdivided in any manner already referred to in this Act, then the rent first apportioned as aforesaid shall, in its turn, be again apportioned in manner and form as aforesaid; and so on, in regard to succeeding subdivisions, so long as such subdivisions shall continue to be made.

If any share be again subdivided, the quitrent apportioned to it shall be subdivided in proportion.

8. Nothing in this Act contained shall extend to or affect any case of subdivision of fixed property in regard to which the parties shall not, by agreement, made in manner aforesaid, fix and determine, amongst each other, the quitrent to be afterwards payable, by or out of their several shares or portions respectively.

Act not to affect subdivisions of fixed property in regard to which there is no such agreement as is in the second section mentioned.

No. 7—1856.

Certificate of Civil Commissioner to be prima facie evidence that quitrent is due.

9. In all actions, suits, and proceedings for the recovery of apportioned quitrent in arrear, a certificate under the hand of the Civil Commissioner of the division in which the property shall be situated, shall be prima facie evidence that the amount mentioned in such certificate is due and owing by the person named therein, which certificate shall be in substance and effect as in the schedule to this Act set forth.

Act when to commence.

10. This Act shall commence and take effect from and after the promulgation thereof.

SCHEDULE.

Form of certificate referred to in ninth section.

I, A. B., Civil Commissioner of the division of _____, do hereby certify that, from the records in my office, it appears that the sum of _____ pounds _____ shillings and _____ pence is the amount of apportioned quitrent, annually payable from and out of a certain undivided (fourth) part or share of the quitrent farm called _____ (or otherwise describe the property), situated in the Field-cornetcy of _____, in this division, of which part or share _____ is the owner; and I further certify that the sum of £ _____ is due and payable upon or in regard to such part or share, being for such quitrent, from the _____ day of _____ 18 _____, to the _____ day of _____, 18 _____.

(Signed) A. B.,

Civil Commissioner of the division of _____.

NOTE.—In case the apportioned quitrent shall be payable out of a portion of land divided off by diagram from any other part of any original extent, the certificate will describe such land as a certain piece or portion of land, formerly part of the quitrent farm called _____, and will substitute the words “piece or portion of land” for the words “part or share,” in the remainder of the certificate.

Preamble.

To Cancel a Grant of certain Piece of Land situate in the Government Gardens, Cape Town (commonly called “the Paddock”), made in favour of the See of Cape Town, under date the 11th day of April, 1848.

WHEREAS His Excellency Sir Henry George Wakelyn Smith, K.C.B., the then Governor of this Colony, granted, on the 11th day of April, 1848, unto the Right Reverend Robert Gray, D.D.,

Bishop of Cape Town, and his successors in the said see, a certain piece of land (commonly called "the Paddock,") containing 501 square roods and 136 square feet, situate in Cape Town, bounded north-east by the Government Gardens, south-east by private property, south-west by municipal property, and north-west by the walk of the said Government Gardens; together with a right of carriage-road to, into, and from the said piece of land, over and along so much of the said Government walk or avenue leading from Orange-street, in Cape Town aforesaid, to the said piece of land, as is necessary for ingress and egress to the same by the present gateway, and also together with the right of foot-road to, into, and from the said land, over all and any part of the roads or walks adjoining the north-western and north-eastern boundaries thereof, through proper doors or wickets: And whereas such grant was improperly made, and without any prior public notice thereof to those interested in the non-alienation of the said land, and has, further, been found to be injudicious, unnecessary, and in violation of the prescriptive right of the public to safe and unimpeded access to and through the said Government gardens: And whereas the said grant is in other respects detrimental to the interests and adverse to the wishes of the public, and ought, by reason thereof, to be cancelled:

No. 9—1856.

1. Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, that the said grant of the said piece of land, together with the grant of right of carriage and foot-road aforesaid, shall be, and the same hereby accordingly are cancelled, rescinded, set aside, and made null, void, and of no force or effect, to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Grant to the see of Cape Town annulled.

2. Be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall debar the said Right Reverend Robert Gray, D.D., or the Bishop of Cape Town for the time being, from being reimbursed, from out of the Colonial Treasury, all sums of money expended by him in and upon the said piece of land.

For Better Securing in certain cases the Inheritances of Minors. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS, from ignorance, neglect, and other causes, it not unfrequently happens that the survivor of two spouses, who at the time of the death of the first dying of them, had children of their marriage, under age, not merely fails to settle for, or secure in proper time, and in the usual way, the inheritances accruing to such minor children out of the estate of their deceased parent, but proceeds to marry again, without settling for or securing such inheritances, whereby confusion and litigation are likely to be created, and such minors are exposed to the risk of injury and loss: And whereas, whilst it is the duty of the several Matrimonial Courts of the Colony, before which all persons about to be married by special licence are bound to appear, to ascertain, in the case of widowers and widows, having minor children of a former marriage, that the inheritances which have devolved upon such minors have been settled for or secured, no provision exists of the same nature or with the same object in regard to surviving spouses who are minded to marry not by special licence, but by banns : And whereas, it is expedient to make such provision : Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows :—

1. As often as any widower or widow, (1) being the parent of any minor child entitled to claim from such widower or widow any inheritance out of the estate of his or her deceased spouse, shall be minded to contract another marriage, and to that end shall be desirous to have the banns of such intended marriage published by any minister of religion or marriage officer in this Colony, such widower or widow, or his or her agent, shall obtain and deliver to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such banns are intended to be published, a certificate, signed by the Master of the Supreme Court, certifying that the amount of inheritance due to such minor child as aforesaid, from and out of the estate of his or her deceased parent, has been paid into the Guardians Fund, or otherwise, a certificate from the Registrar of Deeds, certifying that the customary bond or obligation, commonly called a "kinderbewys," is registered in the debt registry, for securing the amount of such inheritance : Provided that should it be necessary to publish the banns of any such marriage in more districts than one, then one such certificate as aforesaid shall be delivered to the Resident Magistrate of each district ; or otherwise one such certificate shall be delivered to one of the said Magistrates, and a copy thereof, certified by such Magistrate to be correct, shall be delivered to the other Magistrate : And, provided, also, that the said Master and the said Registrar shall, upon request, grant such certificates as aforesaid, without fee or charge. (2)

A widower or widow shall, prior to re-marriage pay to the Master of the Supreme Court the inheritance due to their minor children, or secure such inheritance by a deed of "kinderbewys."

2. The Resident Magistrate, upon receiving such a certificate or attested copy of certificate as aforesaid, shall deliver to the party delivering the same to him a certificate signed by him, certifying that it has been made to appear to him, that no reason exists, arising out of unsecured inheritances of minor children, why the banns of marriage of the widower or widow who shall be named in such certificate shall not be published.

Magistrate's certificate.

3. In any case in which any widower or widow, having any minor child who is alleged not to be by law entitled to any inheritance from or out of the estate of his or her deceased parent, shall be minded to contract another marriage, such widower or widow shall apply to the Resident Magistrate of the district in which banns are desired or required to be published, for a certificate, of the like tenor as that in the last preceding section mentioned :

In case of doubt or question as to minor's title to inheritance.

No. 12—1856.

Provided that in any such case, involving matter of law, which the said Magistrate shall decline to take upon him to determine without legal advice, he shall require the party applying for such certificate to state, under the inspection and subject to the correction of such Magistrate, a case for the written opinion of the Attorney-General of the Colony, and to obtain such opinion for the information of such Magistrate, who shall grant his certificate as aforesaid, in case the said Attorney-General shall be of opinion that the minor child or children in question are not, by law, entitled to any inheritance from or out of the estate of its or their deceased parent; but who shall withhold such certificate in case the said Attorney-General shall not give such an opinion as aforesaid, as also in case no opinion of the said Attorney-General shall be produced: Provided, further, that when any such banns as in this section mentioned are desired or required to be published in each of two districts, a certificate from each Resident Magistrate shall be necessary; and provided, also, that it shall be lawful for any such Magistrate to grant his certificate, although he shall not have received the certain other certificate in the first section mentioned,—in case it shall be made to appear to him by the party applying for his certificate that the value of the joint estate in question in such case was under one hundred pounds sterling.

If magistrates refuse certificate application to judge in chambers

4. In any case under this Act in which the Resident Magistrate shall see cause to withhold his certificate aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the person who shall have applied for such certificate to apply to a Judge of the Supreme Court, in Chambers, for an order upon such Magistrate, to grant such certificate, and thereupon it shall be lawful for such Judge, in the most summary and least expensive manner, to inquire into the case, and after inspecting such documents, and calling for such proofs, as to him shall seem needful, to grant or refuse such order, as to him shall seem expedient: Provided that in no case shall the costs of making any such order be awarded against the Magistrate, unless the necessity for such order shall have arisen from his wilful neglect or default.

Certificate has no legal force except as authorising publication of banns.

5. No such certificate as aforesaid, whether made upon a Judge's order or not, shall be of any force or effect in law, except simply to authorise the publication of banns of marriage; and all matters and things regarding the rights, inheritances, estates or interests of minors, and of all others, shall be judged of, after the granting of such certificate, precisely as if the same never had been granted.

Banns not to be published until such certificate is produced.

6. (1) No minister of religion or marriage officers shall publish the banns of any person whom he shall know to be a widower or widow, having a minor child or children of a former marriage, until there shall be delivered to him such a certificate as aforesaid, signed by the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such banns are desired or required to be published; and if any such minister or marriage officer shall discover, after one or more publications of banns, that either of the parties intending to marry is such a widower or widow as aforesaid, then such minister or marriage officer shall suspend the further publication of such banns until he shall be furnished with such certificate as aforesaid: Provided, also that if such discovery as aforesaid shall be made after the publication of banns shall have been completed, such minister or marriage officer shall not solemnize the marriage until such certificate shall have been delivered to him.

ACT

To Amend the Laws regulating the relative Rights and Duties of Masters, Servants, and Apprentices. (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend and consolidate the laws regulating the relative rights and duties of masters, servants, and apprentices: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Repugnant laws repealed.

1. From and after the commencement and taking effect of this Act, the Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for amending and consolidating the Laws regulating the relative rights and duties of Masters, Servants, and Apprentices," enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice of the Legislative Council thereof, and bearing date the 1st of March, 1841, and all Orders in Council confirming or continuing the said Ordinance (except in so far as the said Ordinance, or any of the said orders, repeals any former law or usage), the Act No. 4, 1855, entitled "An Act for encouraging the importation of European Labourers into this Colony," and all others laws and regulations repugnant to any of the provisions of this Act, shall be repealed, and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

Interpretation clause.

2. For the purposes and within the meaning of this Act, unless it be otherwise specially provided, or there be something in the subject or in the context repugnant to such construction,—1st, The word "Governor" shall mean the officer lawfully administering the Government of this Colony; 2nd, The word "servant" shall be construed and understood to comprise any person employed for hire, wages, or other remuneration, to perform any handicraft or other bodily labour in agriculture or manufactures, or in domestic service, or as a boatman, porter, or other occupation of a like nature; 3rd, The word "apprentice" shall be construed and understood to comprise any person indentured or bound by any contract of apprenticeship made according to law, as apprentice to any other person; 4th, The word "master" shall be construed and understood to comprise any person, whether male or female, employing for hire, wages, or other remuneration, any person falling within the beforementioned definition of the word "servant," or to whom any person falling within the beforementioned definition of the word "apprentice" shall have been indentured or bound by any contract of apprenticeship, made according to law; 5th, The words "contract of service" and "contract of apprenticeship" shall respectively be construed and understood to comprise any agreement, whether oral or written, whether expressed or implied, which any person falling within the beforementioned definitions of the word "servant" and "apprentice" shall respectively have entered in to or made, according to law, with any person falling within the beforementioned definition of the word "master," for the performance of any work or labour of any kind hereinbefore mentioned; 6th, The words "Magistrate" and "Magistrates" shall be construed and understood to comprise the Resident Magistrates duly appointed for the different districts of this Colony; 7th, The words "this Colony" shall be construed and understood to comprise all islands, and other territories whatsoever, which are dependent on the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, and subject to the Government thereof; 8th, The word "month" shall be construed and understood to comprise the period of one calendar month; 9th, The words "father," "parent," "relative," "husband," and "wife," shall be respectively construed and understood to comprise reputed fathers, parents, relatives, husbands, or wives, as well as actual parents and relatives, and lawful husbands and wives; 10th, The words "officer" and "proper officer," when used with reference to the attestation or making of contracts of service of apprenticeship, or to the transfer and assignment of apprentices, shall be construed and understood to comprise every person who shall have been appointed by the Governor to attest or make such contracts; 11th, All words in this Act, and in the various rules and regulations hereinafter enacted, importing the singular number or the masculine gender only, shall be construed and understood to include several persons as well as one person, and females as well as males.

CHAPTER I.

1. Notwithstanding the repeal, by the Ordinance aforesaid, of the laws thereby repealed, the Courts of this Colony, in all cases which are now or shall be hereafter depending before the same,

In cases not provided for, the law of bi-lateral contracts in general to prevail.

No. 15—1856.

arising out of or respecting the formation or dissolution of contracts of service or apprenticeship, or touching or concerning any rights, duties, obligations, powers, liabilities, or other matters or things arising out of or proceeding from any contracts of service or apprenticeship, or any of the mutual relations subsisting between masters and servants or apprentices, shall respectively try, judge, and determine the said causes according to the law of this Colony, respecting and applicable to bi-lateral contracts in general, except when other provisions touching and concerning any such matter and thing as aforesaid shall have been made in this Act, or by any other law not repealed by the Ordinance aforesaid.

Repeal aforesaid not to annul contracts entered into previously to the taking effect of this Act.

2. The beforementioned repeal shall not annul or affect any contracts of service or apprenticeship entered into previously to the time when this Act shall take effect, and which, under and by virtue of, and according to any laws in force within this Colony on the day previously to the taking effect of this Act, were then subsisting legal and valid contracts.

Contracts liable to be set aside on account of fraud, &c.

3. Nevertheless any such lastmentioned contract of service or apprenticeship, to be performed within this Colony, shall be liable to be set aside by any Magistrate having jurisdiction over the parties, or any competent Court, upon reasonable proof being made to the satisfaction of such Magistrate or Court, that either of the parties to such contract was induced to enter into the same by any fraud, misrepresentation, or concealment.

CHAPTER II.

On the formation of the Contract of Service.

Contracts entered into out of the Colony, how to be certified.

1. No contract of service made elsewhere than within the limits of this Colony shall be of force or effect within this Colony, except the same shall have been made in writing, and be duly certified by the British Consul, or other similar officer, at the place where the same was made, or if there be no such officer, then by such Magistrate of such place, or other proper authority; but contracts not so certified shall, notwithstanding, have force and effect in this Colony, upon other proof of such contract, to the satisfaction of the Magistrate before whom the same shall come in question.

Every contract shall be deemed to be entered into for one month, unless otherwise specified: except the servant be non-resident, or shall work by the piece.

2. Every contract of service, whether oral or written, the term of endurance of which shall not have been expressly specified and limited by such contract, shall, in the absence of sufficient proof to the contrary, be deemed and taken to be for the term of one month from the commencement thereof; save and except contracts for service in any trade or handicraft, whereby it shall not have been stipulated that the servant shall, during the term thereof, reside in the house of or on the premises of the master, which shall be deemed and taken to endure only until the night of Saturday of the week on any day of which it shall have been stipulated that

(Signed) E. F.

Resident Magistrate (or officer specially appointed by the Governor to attest contracts of service for the district).

In the absence of special agreement, one month's notice is required, before a contract shall be deemed to have expired.

7. No contract of service for a month or any longer period shall be deemed and taken to have expired until at least one month's notice, calculated from, and inclusive of, the day of giving such notice, shall have been given by either of the parties to the other party, unless it shall have been expressly stipulated that no such notice shall be necessary; and when the service shall be a weekly one, a week's notice shall be necessary: Provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to enable any party to any contract of service to determine the same without the consent of the other party, before the expiration of the term of service originally agreed upon.

How such notice may be waived.

8. When any such notice as is hereinbefore mentioned shall have been given by either of the parties to the other, and the master shall suffer the servant to remain, or the servant shall remain in his service after the day on which according to the notice given the contract of service should expire, such notice shall be deemed and taken to have been withdrawn and passed from, and the contract of service shall continue to endure as long, and in like manner, as if no such notice had been given unless it shall have been otherwise expressly and specially agreed between the parties.

Servants hired to reside on the premises to be supplied with food and lodging, unless otherwise agreed upon.

9. In all contracts, whether oral or written, by which it is stipulated that the servant shall reside on the premises of his master, and wherein it shall not be expressly provided that the master is not to supply food and lodging, the master shall be deemed and taken to have engaged to provide such servant, and such of his family (if any) as shall have been included in the contract, in manner hereinafter mentioned, in section twelve of this chapter, with lodging and sufficient food of good and wholesome quality, during the continuance of the contract.

When rate of wages not specified, the magistrate to fix such rate by custom.

10. In case of any action for non-payment of wages, due and payable by virtue of any contract of service, being brought before any Magistrate, or other competent Court by any servant, and when the rate of wages at which such contract was made shall not be proved to the satisfaction of such Magistrate or Court, such Magistrate or Court is hereby required to fix the rate of wages at that usually paid in the district or place in which the service for which the wages are claimed was performed, reference being had to the skill and ability of the servant, and to give decree accordingly.

Provision in case of sickness.

11. When any servant shall, in consequence of any sickness or accident, which shall not have been occasioned by his own fault, be rendered incapable of performing his master's service, he shall,

in the absence of any special provision in the contract to the contrary, be entitled to receive his full wages during the first month of such incapacity, and every other benefit, privilege or advantage, whether for himself or his family, stipulated for in the contract of service during the whole period of such incapacity, unless the stipulated term of service shall sooner expire, or unless the period of such incapacity shall extend to a longer period than two months; in which latter case the master shall be entitled, if he shall so think fit, at the expiration of such two months, or at any time afterwards during which such incapacity shall uninterruptedly continue, to treat and consider the contract of service as rescinded and determined, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, he, the said master, being however bound, before being so entitled to consider the said contract as determined, to make good all stipulations therein mentioned and agreed upon, up to and for the day on which he shall declare his intention to treat and consider the said contract as rescinded, with, however, the limitation as to wages, hereinbefore provided: Provided, however, that if the master shall not think fit, at or after the expiration of such two months as aforesaid, to treat the contract of service as determined and rescinded, but shall permit the servant to remain in his service, such servant shall not be entitled to claim any portion of the wages beyond wages for the first month as aforesaid, or any other benefit or advantage stipulated for in the contract of service (save and except such food and lodging for himself and family as by the contract of service the master had engaged, or shall be deemed and taken to have engaged, to provide him with), for any period subsequent to such two months during which such incapacity as aforesaid shall continue: And provided, always, that no servant hired by any contract expressly to perform service in any trade or handicraft, shall be entitled to receive the wages, or any other benefit or advantage stipulated in the contract of service, for any part of the time during which he shall have been rendered incapable of performing his master's work by any such sickness or accident as aforesaid, save and except such food and lodging for himself or family as by the contract of service his master has engaged to provide him with, such food and lodging to be provided during such incapacity as aforesaid, unless the contract of service shall sooner expire, or unless such incapacity shall extend to a period longer than one month, in which latter case the master shall be entitled, if he shall so think fit, under the same powers and conditions in every respect as in this section before set forth, to treat and consider such last-mentioned contract of service as absolutely, and, to all intents and purposes, determined and rescinded.

12. All contracts of service stipulating for the services of the wife of any servant, together with those of her husband, shall be made or executed by her in like manner as the same shall be made and executed by her said husband: And it shall be lawful for the father, or, in the event of his death or absence, then for the mother, of any child under the age of 16 years, to contract for the service of such child together with his own, in like manner as such person may contract for his own services; and when such contract shall be in writing, the name and age of every such child shall be clearly set forth and specified in the contract: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall give to the master of any such parent any claim on the services of any such child beyond the period for which the parent shall be engaged, nor beyond the period when such child shall attain the age of 16; nor to the services of any other child of the contracting parent, whether under colour of such lastmentioned child having been fed or clothed by the master, or having been born while the parent of such child was in the said master's service, or under any other pretence whatsoever.

One month after the death of the husband, contract to be null and void with regard to the services of the wife and children.

Wife and children of the servant not to reside on the premises of the master, unless stipulated in the contract, nor the master to claim their services by reason merely of their residence on the premises.

An agricultural labourer or herdsman to remain in his master's service during public commotion or invasion of the colony, or if called out for burgher service, the master to provide for his family.

13. On the death of any person being at the time, together with his wife and any child, under contract as aforesaid, the contract shall become null and void, in respect of such wife and children, at the expiration of one month after the death of such person.

14. It shall not be lawful for any person entering into any contract of service by which it is stipulated that the servant shall himself reside on the premises of the master, to keep his wife and children on the premises of his master, unless when the master shall have also stipulated in such contract that this shall and may be done; Provided that, when the master shall have so stipulated, it shall not be lawful for him to claim the services of any such wife or child by reason merely of their residence on his premises.

15. When, in times of public commotion or invasion of the Colony, the Governor shall deem it expedient to call out for service any portion of the burgher force of any division of the Colony, under the Act No. 16, of 1855, (1) every person under contract of service under this Act, as an agricultural labourer or herdsman, for any period not less than one month, to any master residing in such division, shall, if the period of service contracted for should expire during the persistence of such commotion or invasion, notwithstanding such expiration, be bound to continue in the service of his employer, on the terms of the contract under which he had been serving, until the cessation of such commotion or invasion, and until the services of the burghers of such division shall be dispensed with for the occasion: Provided that, if any such servant shall at any time be called out for burgher service under the said Act No. 16, 1855, (1) the master of such servant shall, during the absence of such servant on such duty, be bound to permit the family and property of such servant to remain upon his premises, and to provide for the same, in the same manner as he would have been bound to do by the contract of service, if such servant had not proceeded to the performance of such duty.

CHAPTER III.

No. 15—1856.

On the Apprenticeship of Children.⁽¹⁾

1. No contract of apprenticeship shall be valid unless, at the time of its being entered into, it shall have been reduced into writing, and signed with the name, or, in case of illiterate persons, with the mark, of the master and parent, or guardian, as the case may be, of the apprentice, and also of the apprentice if of the full age of 16 years.

Contracts to be in writing.

2. No contract of apprenticeship by which any child under 16 years, if a female, and 18 years if a male, may be apprenticed as an agricultural or domestic servant, shall be valid for any longer period than until such child shall have attained the full age of 16 years, if a female, and 18 years, if a male.

Children under 16 to be apprenticed to agricultural labour only till that age.

3. Children not being in a state of destitution, above the age of 10, and under the age of 16 years, may be apprenticed by their fathers, or, in the case of fatherless children, by their mothers, or, in case of orphans, having guardians, by their guardians, until they shall have attained their 21st year, or for any shorter period, and due provision for the maintenance, clothing, and instruction of every such apprentice shall be made in the contract of apprenticeship: Provided always, that every contract of apprenticeship, whereby any child under the age of 10 years, not being in a state of destitution, shall be apprenticed, or attempted so to be, shall be null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; save and except a contract of apprenticeship executed by the parent or guardian, and the master, in the presence of a Resident Magistrate and attested by such Magistrate to be a contract which appears to him to be for the benefit of the child.

Children, not destitute, above 10 and under 16 years, may be apprenticed till 21

4. Any minor of the full age of 16 years or upwards may, by his own consent, be apprenticed for any term not exceeding five years to any trade, in the practice of which any peculiar art or skill is required, but not otherwise; Provided always, that in the case of such minor or minors being females, they may, with such consent, be apprenticed to domestic service for any such period as last aforesaid.

Persons of 16 years and upwards may, by their own consent, be apprenticed for five years.

5. The Resident Magistrates of the Colony shall be, ex officio the guardians, within their respective districts, of all such minors as in the last preceding section mentioned, which minors have no parents or guardians within the Colony, or none discoverable, and such Resident Magistrates may lawfully indenture such minors.

Resident magistrate to be the guardian, ex officio, of minors who have no parents or guardians.

6. When any parent or parents shall abandon or desert, or by death shall leave, in a state of destitution any child under the age of 16 years, the person with whom such child shall have been so left, or by whom such child shall be found in such state of destitution, shall, with all convenient speed, give notice thereof to the nearest Field-cornet, or directly to the Magistrate, in order that means may be taken for providing for the maintenance and education of such child, by apprenticeship, in manner hereinafter mentioned; and if any person shall be duly convicted by any Magistrate or other competent Court of detaining in his possession or employment any such destitute child as aforesaid for a longer period than one month without giving such notice, every such person shall forfeit and pay, at a rate not exceeding twenty, nor less than five shillings for each month that such child shall have been detained; and every such sum so forfeited shall be paid into the Public Treasury; and all reasonable expense incurred in giving such notice, and for the maintenance of such child until removed by the proper authority, shall be paid from the said treasury.

Destitute children, how to be apprenticed.

7. The Field-cornet or Resident Magistrate shall, upon receiving such notice as aforesaid, cause the child to be removed to the residence of such Magistrate, and the said Magistrate shall, unless when it shall be made to appear to him that the child is actually not in a state of destitution, or is able to earn his own livelihood (in either of which events he shall decline to act in the case), cause such child to be lodged and provided for at the public cost, until he shall have sufficiently ascertained by inquiry, which he is hereby required to cause to be made, whether such child have any relative, fit, proper, and willing to maintain and take care of him, and if he shall discover any such relative or relatives, he shall apprentice such child, either to the sole relative, or to that one among the several relatives of whom it shall appear most for the interest of such child to become the apprentice; and if no such fit and proper relative be found, he shall apprentice him, as soon as a suitable opportunity can be found, to some fit and proper person, until he shall have attained his eighteenth year, or in the case of females, until their sixteenth year, or for any shorter period that may be deemed advisable. And every such Magistrate shall give public notice in the Government Gazette of the name of every such apprentice and of the person to whom he shall have been apprenticed.

Maintenance and wages to be stipulated on behalf of such destitute children when apprenticed.

8. Due provision for the maintenance, clothing, and instruction of every destitute child so apprenticed shall be made in every such contract of apprenticeship, and suitable wages shall also be therein stipulated for, whenever such Magistrate or other proper officer shall deem that the child's service in any part thereof will be worth wages; and in apprenticing every such child, either to a relative or stranger, it shall be the duty of such Magistrate or officer to make the best terms he can for such child.

Form of contract in apprenticing destitute children.

9. All such contracts for the apprenticeship of destitute children as aforesaid shall be drawn up as near as possible in the following terms:

District of

This contract of apprenticeship of A. B. (here insert the designation of A. B. as accurately as possible), a destitute child, witnesseth that C. D. (here describe C. D. as the Resident Magistrate, or as the officer specially appointed by the Governor to attest such contracts of apprenticeship for the district, as the case may be), pursuant to the Act No. , in that case made and provided, does by these presents apprentice the said A. B., aged years, or thereabouts, to E. F. (here insert the designation of E. F. as accurately as possible), with him to dwell and serve as an apprentice until (or for, as the case may be—here insert the age at which the apprentice is to determine, or the term for which it is to endure), during all which time the said apprentice shall faithfully and honestly serve and obey his master; and the said E. F. for himself, his heirs, and executors, does hereby covenant and agree with the said C. D., for and on behalf of the said A. B., that he, the said E. F., shall teach and instruct, or cause to be taught and instructed, the said A. B., in the (here insert the particular trade or occupation), in the best manner that he can, during the said term, and shall also duly provide, or cause due provision to be made, for the education and religious instruction of the said A. B., to the best of his ability, and shall, during the said term, provide the said apprentice with suitable and sufficient food, washing, lodging, and all other things necessary and fit for such apprentice, and shall also pay, as wages, to the said apprentice, the sum of (here insert the terms at which the wages stipulated are to be payable); and also, the said E. F. shall not assign or transfer the said apprentice to any other person during the said term, without the consent, in writing, first had and obtained, of the Magistrate or other proper officer having power and authority to give such consent.

In witness whereof, we, the said C. D. and E. F., have set our hands at on this the day of 18 .
(Here insert the signatures or marks of the parties.)

In presence of (here shall be inserted the signatures of at least two witnesses, who have witnessed the execution of the contract.

10. In case the Magistrate or other proper officer by whom the contract for the apprenticeship of any such destitute child as aforesaid shall have been entered into as aforesaid shall, by death or otherwise, cease to act as such Magistrate or officer, then, and in that case, all the provisions and covenants in such contract of apprenticeship contained shall endure in favour of the successor of such Magistrate or officer, duly appointed, and such successor shall and may sue upon and take all other benefit and advantage whatsoever of such provisions and covenants, in like manner as if such successor had been himself the person by whom such contract as aforesaid was originally made.

11. Every such last-mentioned contract of apprenticeship shall be made and signed as aforesaid in three parts, one of which parts shall be given to the master, and one to the apprentice, and the third shall be filed and registered in the office of the Magistrate by whom it is attested; or where it shall have been attested by any other officer specially appointed as aforesaid, an entry of it shall be made in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, and the said third part shall be transmitted by him to the Magistrate of the district in which the master by whom such contract has been made usually resides, to be filed and registered in his office.

12. No master shall or may assign or transfer any apprentice, having been apprenticed as aforesaid by any Magistrate or other proper officer as aforesaid, to any other person, without the consent, in writing, first had and obtained, of the Magistrate or other proper officer of the district in which such master resides; and in case such apprentice shall be of the age of sixteen years, or upwards, without the consent of such apprentice himself.

CHAPTER IV.

Respecting the effects of the Death, Insolvency, and change of Residence of the Master; and other circumstances dissolving Contracts of Service without notice.

Effect of death or insolvency of master upon the contract of service.

1. In the event of the death or insolvency of the master, the contract of service shall, except as hereafter excepted, cease and determine after one month from the date of such death or insolvency, in case the stipulated term of service shall not sooner expire; and up to the period of such determination of such contract, such servant shall be entitled to claim his full wages and every other remuneration specified in such contract, and shall be bound, if required, to perform his service for the person legally representing the deceased or insolvent master.

Effect of death or insolvency of master upon the contract of apprenticeship.

2. In the event of the death or insolvency of the master of any apprentice, or in the event of the apprentice being prevented, in the manner hereinafter in the 6th section of this chapter particularly mentioned, from performing his service or fulfilling his engagement at the place where the same ought to be performed or fulfilled, such death, insolvency or prevention shall be a complete discharge of the contract of apprenticeship, and if any sum shall have been really and bonâ fide paid by or on behalf of such apprentice as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any Magistrate having jurisdiction, or other competent Court, upon proof of such payment, to order, in a summary manner, any sum which to the said Magistrate or Court shall seem reasonable to be paid to or for the use of such apprentice as aforesaid, by any such master as aforesaid, or his legal representative; regard being had, however, in estimating such sum, to the amount of the sum originally paid by or on behalf of such apprentice, and to the time during which such apprentice continued in the service of such master as aforesaid; Provided always, that every such apprentice shall be entitled to his full wages, or other remuneration, which may have become due previous to such dissolution of the contract of apprenticeship.

No. 15—1856.

3. In the event of the death or insolvency of the master of any child, who having been in a state of destitution, shall have been apprenticed by a Magistrate or other proper officer in the manner hereinbefore set forth, it shall be the duty of such Magistrate or other proper officer, in case such apprentice shall, at the time of the death or insolvency of his former master, be under the age of 16 years, and unable to support himself, to retake the charge and care of such child; and it shall be deemed expedient, to apprentice again the said child for any term within the limits prescribed by this Bill for the duration of apprenticeship to such fit and proper person as such Magistrate or other proper officer and such child, if of the age of 16 years or upwards, shall mutually approve of and agree upon; Provided that when such child has not attained the said age of 16 years, his consent shall not be necessary in any case.

Effect of death or insolvency of master where apprentice is under or of the age of 16.

4. The wife of the deceased master of every servant or apprentice, hired or contracted to perform service as a domestic or agricultural servant, is entitled, if she shall so think fit, to claim the service of such servant or apprentice during the full period of the stipulated term of service, provided she shall consent to perform, and shall perform, all the stipulations of the contract in favour of the servant or apprentice which the master was bound to perform.

Widow of deceased master may adopt the contract of service.

5. In the event of a servant or apprentice dying during the currency of the stipulated term of service, his heirs, executors, or other legal representatives, are entitled to claim from the master the full wages and other remuneration due to such servant or apprentice for the period which he had served previously to his death, and no more.

On death of servant or apprentice, wages to be paid up to period of death.

6. No servant or apprentice (save as hereafter provided as to persons apprenticed as destitute children), hired or contracted to perform service at the residence of, or at any particular place of trade or business, occupied by his master, is, in the event of his master's removing his residence, or place of trade or business, out of the town, or (where such place is not in any town) from the place in which by the contract such servant or apprentice was bound to perform his service, to any greater distance than two miles from such town or place where, by the stipulations of the contract, such servant or apprentice is not bound to reside in the house or on the premises of his master, or out of the district of such town or place where such servant or apprentice is bound to reside in the house or on the premises of his master,—bound to perform his service at the place to which his master shall have removed his residence or place of trade or business, without the consent of such servant, or of the parents or guardians of such apprentice;—but such consent shall in all cases be deemed and taken to have been given whenever it shall be proved that such servant or apprentice, being one not bound to reside in the house or on the premises of his master, has performed, or in the case of an apprentice, been knowingly permitted and allowed by his parent or guardian to perform, at the new residence or place of trade or business of his master, any service to his master of any kind which he was bound by the contract to perform,—or being one bound to reside in his master's house or premises, has gone to and remained, and in the case of an apprentice, been permitted and allowed by his parent or guardian to go to and remain in such house or on such premises, for one week after his master's removal thereto.

The master of an apprentice, who shall have been a destitute child, may remove such apprentice, with permission of magistrate.

7. The master of any apprentice who has been apprenticed to him in manner hereinbefore provided as a destitute child is entitled, without limitation or restraint, to remove such apprentice to and to exact the performance of the service stipulated in the contract wherever such master may have removed his residence or place of trade or business within this Colony, upon giving notice of his intention so to do before his departure to the Magistrate of the district which he is going to leave, and the Magistrate, upon receiving such notice, shall endorse the same on the third part of the contract of apprenticeship registered and filed by him; and on such removal taking place, forthwith transmit such third part to the Magistrate of the district to which such an apprentice shall be removed, to be by him duly registered and filed in manner hereinbefore provided.

Certain servants and apprentices bound to make certain journeys, if required.

8. No servant or apprentice, hired or contracted to perform domestic service, may lawfully refuse to accompany his master, or any of his family, by desire of his master, on any journey within this Colony, or in the course of such journey to perform every such service as, by reason of his contract of service or apprenticeship, he would be bound to perform in his master's house or on his premises; and no servant or apprentice may lawfully refuse to go on any journey within this Colony on which his master shall order him to go, or in charge of, or to drive, herd, tend, or take care of any carriage, horse, or any kind of cattle, the property or in the lawful possession of or under the lawful control of his master, which such servant or apprentice would, by reason of his contract of service or apprenticeship, be bound to ride, drive, herd, tend or take care of, or charge of, at his master's residence or on his premises: Provided always, that there shall be reasonable ground for believing that such journey may and will be performed before the expiration of the stipulated term of the service of such servant or apprentice; and that such master shall be bound to provide such servant or apprentice with food and every other thing which may be necessary and proper to enable such servant or apprentice to perform such journey, and to return to the residence or premises of his master before the expiration of the term of service.

No. 15—1856.

9. No servant or apprentice shall be bound to accompany his master or to go out of this Colony, without the special agreement or consent of such servant, or of the parent or guardian of such apprentice, or when such apprentice is of the full age of sixteen years, without, also, the consent of such apprentice.

No servant or apprentice shall be bound to accompany his master or go out of the colony without special agreement or consent.

10. When any servant not being bound or obliged to accompany his master, or go to any place to which the master shall remove his residence or place of trade or business, or to which the master shall order such servant to go, shall decline or refuse so to do, the contract of service shall, from the date on which the servant shall be prevented from performing his stipulated service at the place where the same was to have been performed, stand dissolved, and such servant shall be entitled to claim from the master such wages or other remuneration, at the rate specified in the contract of service, as shall have been earned up to the time of the refusal beforementioned, together with wages and remuneration after the rate aforesaid for the period of one month additional, or until the expiration of the contract of service, in case it shall expire within one month from the time of such refusal: Provided always, that when notice of his intention to remove as aforesaid, or to send such servant as aforesaid, shall have been given by such master, such additional wages and remuneration shall not in any case be due or payable for any period longer than one month from the date of such notice.

Where servant not bound to accompany his master to new residence, contract dissolved by master's removal.

11. Nothing herein contained shall annul or affect any special agreement or stipulation, made in any contract of service or apprenticeship, whereby the servant or apprentice shall be bound to accompany his master, or to go to any place, to which the master shall remove his residence or place of trade or business, or order such servant or apprentice to go, and there perform the service stipulated in such contract.

Any special agreement touching change of residence to be good.

12. When any female servant or apprentice shall be lawfully married during the currency of her stipulated term of service, her husband may at any time subsequent to such marriage dissolve the contract of service or apprenticeship, and remove his wife from her master's service, if he shall think fit so to do, and shall be entitled to claim the wages and other remuneration which may have become due to her, for services previously to such removal, but shall be liable to her master for all damage which her master may sustain by such removal. But such damages shall in no case exceed the amount of the wages which she would have earned between the time of her marriage, and the time of the expiration of her service, had she continued in such service until such expiration.

13. The master of any female servant or apprentice, who during the currency of her stipulated term of service, shall marry or enter into any state which in this Colony is or shall be reputed to be the marriage state, shall, where such servant or apprentice is, by her contract of service or apprenticeship, bound to reside or to perform domestic service in the house or on the premises of her master, be entitled, at any time subsequent to such marriage or reputed marriage, to dissolve such contract and dismiss such servant or apprentice, and when such servant or apprentice is not by such contract bound to reside or to perform domestic service, in the house of the premises of her master, he shall be entitled to dissolve such contract, and dismiss such servant or apprentice from his service, whenever she shall, by reason of her pregnancy or delivery of a child, become disabled from performing the service which, by such contract she is bound to perform; but any such servant or apprentice so dismissed on account of her marriage, or entering into a state so reputed as aforesaid to be the marriage state, or of pregnancy or delivery of child, shall be entitled to claim from her master the wages and every other remuneration which shall have become due to her for her services previously to the date of such dismissal; and the master, before being entitled to dismiss such servant or apprentice, shall be bound to pay and satisfy the same.

CHAPTER V.

Of the Jurisdiction of the Resident Magistrates in cases between Masters and Servants and Apprentices.

Jurisdiction of resident magistrates in cases between masters and their servants and apprentices.

1. The Resident Magistrates within the Colony have jurisdiction in all cases arising in their respective districts between masters and their servants and apprentices, and with reference to their relative rights and duties, or to any matter or thing, or offence, as to which provision is made by this bill.

Resident magistrates have jurisdiction over all persons within their respective districts.

2. Every Resident Magistrate has jurisdiction in any such case as aforesaid, brought before him against any person being at the time within his district, whether the grounds of such case arose within the district or not, or whether the person against whom the case is brought has his usual residence or place of abode in that district or not; but the Magistrate shall, whenever it shall appear to him that any such case can be more conveniently tried or determined by the Resident Magistrate of any other district, dismiss such case, and, in the event of his doing so, when the servant or apprentice is accused of desertion, and when he shall have probable cause shown to him, by oath or affidavit, of any credible person, for believing this to be the fact, such Magistrate may, if he think fit, issue a warrant for the conveyance, under sure custody, of such servant or apprentice to the town or place where the Court of such other Magistrate is held; Provided the master shall undertake to pay the expense of such conveyance, and the Magistrate by whom the cause shall be ultimately tried and decided shall adjudge by which of the parties the said expenses shall be paid.

3. [§§ 3-9 repealed by § 21, Act 18 of 1873.]

10. If any servant or apprentice, whose contract of service or apprenticeship still subsists, shall, upon being discharged from prison after undergoing imprisonment under this Act, refuse or neglect, upon his master's request, to resume his service under his contract, he shall be liable to be imprisoned with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding one month, and so on for successive periods, not any of them exceeding one month, until he shall consent to resume, and shall resume, his service under his contract; and every such period of imprisonment, or so much thereof as the convicting Magistrate shall adjudge, may be with solitary confinement with or without spare diet, or with spare diet with or without solitary confinement: Provided, however, that no servant or apprentice shall, under this Act be imprisoned continuously, and without any intermediate resumption of service, under his contract, for longer than six months in all.

11. When any period of imprisonment shall be undergone by any servant or apprentice for any offence under this Act, a like period shall be added to the term of service stipulated for in the contract of service or apprenticeship, as it subsisted when such imprisonment was commenced, so that such servant or apprentice shall be obliged to serve a further period equal to the period of his imprisonment, in addition to the term of service originally stipulated.

Period of imprisonment of servant to be added to the term of service stipulated in the contract.

12. When the offence of which any servant or apprentice shall be convicted under this Act, shall be the offence of absenting himself from, or of departing from, the service of his master, then the period of his absence shall be added to the term of service originally stipulated, in like manner as in the last preceding section directed in regard to the period of imprisonment therein mentioned; and it shall be the duty of the Magistrate convicting such servant or apprentice, to ascertain, at the trial, the period of absence, and to certify the same by some writing under his hand, to be delivered to the master, and the period mentioned in such writing shall, by all Courts and in all places, be deemed to be added to the original term of service.

Period during which any servant shall have absented himself from the service of his master to be added to the term of service originally stipulated.

13. As often as any property of the master shall be lost or damaged by means of any act or omission of his servant or apprentice, which act or omission is by this Act declared to be an offence, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate, should he so think fit, and the master shall thereto agree, to ascertain whether such servant or apprentice is able to make compensation for such loss or damage, and if so, to fix the amount of such compensation, and make such order as to the payment thereof, either at once or by instalments out of wages to be yet earned, or otherwise, as shall seem reasonable and just, and in the meantime, and until default made in such payment, or in the payment of such some instalment, to defer passing sentence upon the party offending; but such Magistrate shall preserve on record the evidence in the case, and, upon application of the master, and proof given, upon oath, of some such default as aforesaid, shall issue his warrant for the apprehension of such servant or apprentice, and shall pronounce upon him such sentence as, regard being had to the circumstances of the original offence, and to the degree in which such servant or apprentice has made, or failed to make, the compensation ordered, shall appear equitable and just.

Cancellation of contract for misconduct of servant

14. As often as the master of any servant or apprentice, who shall be convicted of any offence under this Act, shall desire the cancellation of the contract of service or apprenticeship, the Magistrate, should he so think fit, may order the cancellation of the same, and the same shall be cancelled accordingly; Provided that such cancellation shall not prevent the execution of any sentence which the Magistrate may pronounce or may have pronounced upon the offender for his offence.

Cancellation of contract on groundless accusation by the master.

15. As often as the master shall have caused any servant or apprentice to be brought before the Magistrate to answer any charge preferred against him by such master, and such master shall fail in obtaining the conviction of such servant or apprentice, then the Magistrate, should he so think fit, may, at the desire of such servant or apprentice, order the cancellation of the contract of service or apprenticeship, and the same shall be cancelled accordingly.

16. [§§ 16-20 repealed by Act 18 of 1873.]

Actions by servants to compel delivery of property detained.

21. (1) The Magistrates of this Colony have jurisdiction in any civil case instituted by any servant or apprentice, to compel the delivery of any of his cattle, sheep, goats, or other animals, lawfully running or being upon his master's land, and which his master shall, either before or after the expiration of the contract of service or apprenticeship, upon demand made, and without lawful cause, have refused to deliver or permit to be taken away; and in case it shall be made to appear that the master had no reasonable and probable cause for believing that the animals in question were lawfully detained, the Magistrate shall, besides giving judgment for the delivery of such animals, and for costs, impose, at the same time, upon the master, a fine not exceeding one pound for every animal so unlawfully detained: Provided, however, that the total amount of the fine so payable shall not exceed the sum of five pounds altogether; such fine to be recoverable in like manner as the said costs, but, when recovered, to be applied as by this Act directed, in regard to fines in criminal cases: Provided that neither the fact that the contract of service or apprenticeship of such servant or apprentice has not yet expired, nor the fact that money is due or alleged to be due by such servant or apprentice to the master, shall be deemed or taken to be, of itself, reasonable and probable cause for such detention: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall impair the effect of any express contract of lawful kind, by force of which the master shall claim a right to retain any such animals as aforesaid.

No. 15—1856.

22. [§§ 22 and 23 repealed by Act 18 of 1873.]

24. As often as any master shall be convicted of wrongfully and unlawfully assaulting his servant or apprentice, the convicting Magistrate may, should he so think fit, and should the servant or apprentice so desire, order the cancellation of the contract of service or apprenticeship, and the same shall be cancelled accordingly.

Contract may be cancelled if the master has wrongfully assaulted his servant or apprentice.

25. [§§ 25 and 26 repealed by Act 18 of 1873.]

27. If any child under the age of sixteen years shall be wrongfully detained by any person as a servant or inmate, the Resident Magistrate of the district in which it shall be so detained, shall have jurisdiction to order the restoration of such child to such of its parents as would, under this Act, be entitled to apprentice such child, if then about to be apprenticed: Provided, however, that should it be made to appear, upon the hearing of any such case, that the person complained against originally obtained the said child in a lawful manner, and when an infant under the age of five years, and that the parent claiming the same has so acted in reference to the said child, and to the person bringing it up, as to make it a breach of good faith on the part of such parent to seek to take it away, as he or she now seeks to do,—and that from the character of the said parent, the purpose for which he or she appears to desire to obtain possession of the said child or other circumstances, it will be for the manifest benefit of the said child to remain with the person with whom it is residing, rather than to be delivered to the parent applying, then the Magistrate shall refuse to order the delivery of the said child, leaving it to the parent applying for the same to take such other proceedings, if any, as he or she may be advised; and such Magistrate may, in the meantime, authorise the person rearing up such child to retain possession thereof.

Detaining a child under 16 years of age.

28. In any case between a master and his servant, or apprentice, in which the Resident Magistrate shall have given judgment in favour of such servant or apprentice, and such master shall appeal from such judgment, or apply to have the same reviewed, it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General, in case such appeal or application shall be brought before the Supreme Court, and of the Clerk of the Peace for the district in which such judgment was made, in case such appeal or application shall be brought before the Circuit Court, (provided the said Attorney-General or such Clerk of the Peace shall be called on so to do), to appear for and conduct the case of such servant or apprentice, free of all charge or expense whatever,—and the Judge of the Circuit Court is hereby empowered, upon the motion of any such Clerk of the Peace, to assign counsel to act gratuitously for such servant or apprentice whenever such Judge shall be of opinion that it is fit and proper so to do.

CHAPTER VI.

Respecting Characters given by Masters to Servants or Apprentices.

No master is bound to give a character of a servant.

Consequences of knowingly giving a false character.

Penalties for counterfeit certificates of character and false representations.

1. No master is bound to give a character to any servant or apprentice, who is or has been in his service, or to assign any reason for refusing to give it.

2. Every master who shall knowingly have given any false character to any servant or apprentice is liable to make compensation for any loss or damages which any third party, who, by reason of such character so given, has been induced to take such servant or apprentice into his service, has sustained by the misconduct of such servant or apprentice in any respect, or with reference to any matter to which such character so given was false.

3. Every person who, for the purpose of giving a character to any servant or apprentice, or other person intending to offer himself to be hired as a servant, shall forge or counterfeit and utter any certificate of such servant's or apprentice's character, or shall falsely personate any other person, and as such, either personally or by writing, give any false, forged, or counterfeit character or certificate of character, of any such servant, apprentice, or other person offering or intending to offer to hire himself as a servant; and every person who shall offer to hire as a servant, asserting or pretending that he has served in any service in which he has not actually served, or with a false, forged, or counterfeit certificate of character, or shall in any wise add to or alter, by effacing, or erasing, or inserting any word or date, in any certificate given to him by his present or any former master, or by any other person duly authorised by any such master to give the same, and shall use, or attempt to use, the same, as an inducement to hire him, shall, on conviction thereof, incur and be liable to a fine not exceeding £50, nor less than £10, or to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding one year, nor less than one month, or to both such fine and imprisonment.

CHAPTER VII.

No. 15—1856

Respecting the Constraints of Masters, Servants, and Apprentices.

1. Any person who shall by violence to the person or property, or by threats or intimidation, or by molesting, or in any way obstructing another, force or endeavour to force any servant or apprentice to depart from his service or work, or to return his work to his master before the same shall be finished, or to prevent or endeavour to prevent any servant or other person, not being hired or employed, from hiring himself to, or accepting service or work from any person, or force or induce, or endeavour to force or induce, any such servant or apprentice, or other such person to belong to any club or association, or to contribute to any common fund, or shall use or employ violence to the property of another, or threats of intimidation, or shall molest or in any way obstruct another on account of his not belonging to any particular club or association, or not having contributed, or having refused to contribute, to any common fund, or to pay any fine or penalty, or on account of his not having complied, or of his refusing to comply, with any rules, orders, resolutions, and regulations, made to obtain an advance or to reduce the rate of wages, or to lessen or alter the hours of working, or to decrease or alter the quantity of work, or to regulate the mode of carrying on any manufacture, trade, business, work, or labour, or the management thereof; or who, by any such violence, threats, intimidation, molestation, or obstruction, shall force, or endeavour to force, any manufacturer, or person carrying on any trade, business, work, or labour or engaged in agriculture, to make any alteration in his mode of regulating, managing, conducting, or carrying on the same, or to increase or limit the number of his apprentices or servants, shall on conviction thereof before any Resident Magistrate, or other competent Court, be imprisoned with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding three months.

Definition and punishment of unlawful interference with servants or apprentices, in order, to prevent them from entering into or completing contract of service or apprenticeship.

2. Provided always that nothing herein contained shall extend to subject to punishment any persons who shall meet together for the sole purpose of consulting upon and determining the rate of wages or prices which the persons present at that meeting, or any of them respectively, shall require or demand for his or their service or work, or shall pay his or their servants or apprentices for their service or work, or who shall enter into any agreement, verbal or written, among themselves, for the purpose of fixing the rate of wages or prices, which rate of wages or prices the persons entering into such agreement, or any of them, shall require or demand for his or their service or work, or pay to his or their servants or apprentices for their service or work, or of fixing the number of hours of work which he or they will work, or will require his or their servants or apprentices to work in any manufacture, trade business, labour, or agriculture, and that no such

For Amending the Law relative to the Registration of Voters and to the taking of Polls.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it appears to be practicable to lessen the expense, without impairing the efficiency, of the system now in force for the registration of voters and the taking of polls: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

[Sections 1 to 26, p.p. 591—596 deal with preparation, etc., of voters' lists, and being inconsistent with the provisions of Act 14, 1887, as amended by subsequent Acts, are repealed. See footnote to Act 14, 1887, p. 2457.]

27. The list of voters for the Electoral Divisions of Cape Town ⁽¹⁾ and Graham's Town respectively shall be framed in manner and form as is in that behalf directed in the ⁽²⁾ Ordinance in the last preceding section mentioned, save and except that the persons in the 26th section of the said ⁽²⁾ Ordinance mentioned may, in the list in the said section mentioned, and therein directed to be posted upon or affixed to some public place, include the name of any person inserted in the registered list of voters for the time being who is believed by such persons to be still qualified to be inserted in such list, although such person may not be a resident householder of the municipality in question, and may not, under the 25th section of the said ⁽²⁾ Ordinance have claimed in person to be registered: Provided always that the Government notice in the 22nd section of the said Ordinance mentioned, shall be published not more than 14 days next after the publication of the proclamation in the 2nd section of this Act mentioned.

AN ACT

To Regulate, till the expiration of the Year 1857, the Dealing in Gunpowder, Firearms, and Lead. (1)

WHEREAS the Ordinance No. 2, 1853, entitled " Ordinance to regulate, till the expiration of the year 1854, the dealing in Gunpowder, Firearms, and Lead," was, by the 27th section thereof, limited to continue and be in force till the expiration of the year 1854, and no longer: and whereas, by the Act No. 5, 1854, the said Ordinance was continued in force until the expiration of the year 1855; and whereas, by the Act No. 7, 1855, the said Ordinance was again continued in force until the expiration of the year 1856; and whereas it is expedient further to continue the said Ordinance: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Preamble.

1. The said Ordinance, No. 2, 1853, and every provision thereof, shall continue and be in force until the expiration of the year

Ordinance 2 of 1853 extended to 1857.

Powder magazines to be guarded at night, or otherwise protected.

2. And whereas, in some places, private magazines for storing gunpowder, established under the provisions of Ordinance No. 7 of 1834, are built in exposed situations, so as to be in danger of being broken into by enemies or others who might desire to possess themselves of the gunpowder stored therein; and whereas it is necessary for the public safety that such exposed magazines should be guarded at night, or else be, by other means, made secure against attack; and that in case a sufficient protection shall not be provided, no gunpowder should be permitted to remain in such exposed magazines: Be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, or officer for the time being administering the Government, to require the owner or owners of any private magazine, containing gunpowder, placed in such a situation as to be, in the judgment of the said Governor, exposed to be attacked and plundered, to provide a sufficient guard of men for the protection of such magazine during the night, or else to require that such magazine shall, by a wall, fence, or other means, be sufficiently protected from attack without the aid of a guard of men.

In case of refusal or neglect.

3. Should the owner or owners of any such magazine as aforesaid refuse or neglect to provide such guard or other protection, after being required so to do, it shall be lawful for the Governor or other officer as aforesaid, to cause the gunpowder contained in any such magazine to be removed, at the expense of the owner or owners of the magazine, to such neighbouring receptacle, if any there be, as the said Governor or other officer shall deem safe and sufficient; or such Governor or other officer may cause such gunpowder to be destroyed.

No appeal from Governor's decision

4. The decision of the Governor or other officer aforesaid, regarding the nature of the situation of any such magazine, and regarding the necessity of providing any such magazine with some such protection as aforesaid, and regarding the sufficiency or otherwise of any protection proposed to be afforded by the owner or owners of any magazine, and regarding the propriety of destroying instead of removing the gunpowder contained in any exposed and unprotected magazine, shall be final and conclusive, and shall not be disputed or questioned in any Court or by any proceeding whatsoever.

AN ACT

For Amending and Consolidating the Laws relative to the Courts of Resident Magistrates. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend and consolidate the laws relative to the courts, jurisdiction, powers, and duties of the Resident Magistrates within this Colony: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:

Preamble.

1. Courts of Resident Magistrates shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be, erected, constituted, and established for and within each of the following districts, that is to say,—Cape Town and the district thereof, Wynberg, Simon's Town, Malmesbury, Piquetberg, Stellenbosch, the Paarl, Worcester, Tulbagh, Clanwilliam, Swellendam, Riversdale, Caledon, Beaufort, George, Aliwal, Uitenhage, Port Elizabeth, Albany, Fort Beaufort, Bathurst, Stockenstrom, Somerset, Victoria, Fort Peddie, Albert, Queen's Town, Graaff-Reinet, Richmond, Cradock, Colesberg, East London, Alexandria, Prince Albert, Victoria West, Bredasdorp, Calvinia, Middelburg, Aliwal North, Oudtshoorn, and Namaqualand; and the said Courts shall be respectively holden by and before the Resident Magistrates for the districts aforesaid.

Districts in which courts are established.

2. It shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony, by any proclamation to be by him, from time to time, issued for that purpose, and published in the Government Gazette, to erect, constitute, and establish Courts of Resident Magistrates, to be held for and within such districts, respectively, as the said Governor shall think fit, which Courts shall respectively be holden before such persons as shall respectively be appointed to be Resident Magistrates of such districts.

Establishment of courts by proclamation.

3. It shall and may be lawful for the Governor of this Colony, by any proclamation to be by him issued for that purpose, and published in the Government Gazette, on the passing of this Act, and thereafter from time to time as occasion may seem to him to require, to define, fix, and appoint the local limits of the territory which shall be comprehended and included in any of the aforesaid districts, whether in the first section mentioned or such as shall hereafter be created, and within which the Resident Magistrate for such district shall have and exercise jurisdiction and authority: and whenever the said Governor shall deem it to be inexpedient or unnecessary that any of the said Courts shall continue to be holden for and within any of the districts aforesaid, then and in every such case it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor, by any proclamation to be by him issued for that purpose, and published as aforesaid, to abolish such Court and the office of Resident Magistrate for such district, as also to annex any such district, or any part thereof, to any other district or districts; and every district, or part thereof, which shall be so annexed as aforesaid to any other district, shall thereby become and be within and subject to the jurisdiction and authority of the Resident Magistrate for the district to which it shall be so annexed; and whenever any Court shall be erected under or by virtue of the power and authority in that behalf in the second section of this Act mentioned, and the district assigned for the exercise of the jurisdiction of such Court shall comprise territory which was, before then, either wholly or in part, within the jurisdiction of some other Court or Courts of Resident Magistrate, then and thereupon such territory shall wholly cease to be within or subject to the jurisdiction of such other Court or Courts. ⁽¹⁾

Revival of abolished magistracies.

4. Whenever the said Governor shall, by any proclamation to be by him issued for that purpose, repeal any such proclamation by which the Court of, and the office of the Resident Magistrate for any district was abolished, thereupon, and by virtue of such repeal, such Court and such office shall of new become and be created, constituted, and established, in like manner, and to all intents and purposes, as if the same had never been abolished in manner aforesaid.

Appointment of magistrates.

5. Every person who shall hereafter be appointed the Resident Magistrate for any district, shall be so appointed by the Governor of this Colony, under the great seal thereof; and it shall and may be lawful for the said Governor when and so often as, by reason of the death, sickness, absence, or other incapacity of any Resident Magistrate, it shall appear to him to be necessary or expedient so to do, to appoint some fit and proper person to act as and in the said stead of such Resident Magistrate, within his district; and all deeds, acts, matters, and things which shall be done and performed by or before any person so appointed to act as aforesaid, under and by virtue of such his appointment, shall be as legal, valid, and effectual, to all intents and purposes, as if the same had been done and performed by or before the Resident Magistrate instead of whom such person shall have been so appointed to act; Provided, always, that no Resident Magistrate of any district existing at the time of the commencing and taking effect of this Act, and of which the local limits shall not be changed by any

No. 20—1856.

6. Every person who shall in manner aforesaid be appointed to be a Resident Magistrate, or to act as or in the stead of any Resident Magistrate, shall, before exercising any of the functions of his office, take the oath of office set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked A, before the Chief Justice or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court, or before the Clerk of the Peace, or any Justice of the Peace, for the district for or in which such person is appointed to act, who are hereby empowered and required to administer the same; and every such person shall, so soon as he shall have duly taken the oaths aforesaid, cause such oaths to be recorded, and shall subscribe the same, in the record book of the proceedings of his Court, or of the Court in which he shall so have been appointed to act, as the case may be.

Oath to be taken by Magistrates.

7. The Courts of the Resident Magistrates aforesaid shall be respectively Courts of Record, and the pleadings and proceedings of the said Courts shall be carried on, and the sentences, decrees, judgments, and orders thereof, pronounced and declared in open Court, and not otherwise; and the several pleadings and proceedings of the said Courts shall be in the English language ⁽¹⁾; and in all criminal cases the witnesses against and for any accused person or persons shall deliver their evidence viva voce, and in open Court.

Nature of courts.

8. Every Resident Magistrate of the Colony shall have, in all civil cases brought or instituted against any person residing within the district for which such Resident Magistrate shall have been appointed, the jurisdiction following, that is to say:

Civil jurisdiction of magistrates. Vide also sections 10, 53, 55, and 56.

1. [Superseded by § 5, Act 43, 1885.]

2. In all cases (except as hereinafter is excepted) in which the debt or damages demanded shall not exceed twenty pounds sterling.⁽²⁾

3. No such Magistrate shall have jurisdiction in, or cognizance of, any action or suit wherein the title to any lands or tenements, or the title to any fee, duty, or office is in question, or any action or suit to try the validity of any will or other testamentary instrument, or any action or suit whereby rights in future can be bound: Provided that any such Magistrate may, in the course of any action or suit to recover damages for criminal conversation with the wife of the plaintiff or for the amount or value of necessaries lawfully supplied to the wife of any person, determine upon or in regard to the fact of marriage, and may, in the course of any action or suit for

4. [Superseded by § 5, Act 43, 1885.]

Protest of bill of exchange or promissory note under £20 not necessary.

9. In any action or suit brought in the Court of any Resident Magistrate upon any bill of exchange or promissory note, for any sum under twenty pounds, against the drawer or any endorser thereof, it shall not be necessary to prove the dishonour of such bill or note, or notice of such dishonour, by a protest made by a public notary,—but such dishonour and notice thereof may be proved by the evidence of any competent witness: and no charge shall be allowed in the taxation of costs between party and party, for any such protest, should one have been made: Provided that, as often as notice of dishonour shall be necessary to be proved in regard to any bill or note, the reasonable horse-hire and other expenses of the person employed to give such notice shall be allowed to the successful party in the cause: Provided, however, that no horse-hire or other expenses shall be allowed in regard to any notice of dishonour given at any place within the two miles of the residence of the person causing the same to be given.

Jurisdiction in ejectment.

10. The Resident Magistrates aforesaid shall, in their respective Courts, have jurisdiction in all actions of ejectment against the occupier of any lands, tenements, or premises, situated within the local limits of their respective districts, at the suit of any person (or of his lawful attorney, administrator or executor) under whom such occupier has holden or occupied the same in virtue of any lease, contract, or agreement; or at the suit of any person (or of his lawful attorney, administrator, or executor) whose name if enregistered in the land register of the Colony as the proprietor of any such lands, tenements, or premises, against the tenant or occupier thereof; or at the suit of any tenant (or his lawful attorney, administrator, or executor) holding a subsisting written lease of any such lands, tenements, or premises, under the person whose name is enregistered in the land register of the Colony as the proprietor thereof, against any occupier of such lands, tenements, or premises, whose right, or alleged right, of occupation is not derived from the person whose name is enregistered as aforesaid as the proprietor thereof: Provided always, that the title to the ownership of any of the lands, tenements, or premises aforesaid shall not in any such action be in question, but only the right of occupation: And provided, also, that it shall not be shown by the defendant that the right to the occupation of any such lands, tenements, or premises, during the term or period as to which the right of occupation shall be in dispute, is to him of the clear value of forty pounds sterling, or upwards.

No. 20—1850.

11. Every such Court as aforesaid may make orders concerning the time or times, and by what instalments, ⁽¹⁾ any debt or costs for which judgment shall be obtained in the said Court shall be paid, and all such moneys shall be paid into Court, unless the said Court shall otherwise direct; and every such order shall be in the form in that behalf in the rules and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates provided.

Payment of debt by instalments.

12. Whenever any Court shall give judgment for the payment of money, the amount shall be recoverable—in case of default, or failure of payment thereof forthwith, or at the time or times, and in the manner, ordered by the said Court—by execution ⁽²⁾ against the movable property of the party against whom such judgment shall be given; which execution shall be sued out and executed in manner and form as in that behalf directed by the rules and regulations aforesaid. ⁽³⁾

Recovery of sums adjudged.

13. Whenever there shall not be found within the district of the Resident Magistrate, from or out of whose Court such execution shall issue, sufficient movables of such person from which the debt or costs can be levied, by virtue of any writ or warrant issued by such Magistrate, such writ or warrant, when endorsed by the Resident Magistrate of any other district (and every Resident Magistrate is hereby authorised and required, on production to him of any such writ or warrant, to endorse the same), shall have the like force and effect, and may be executed by the officer or person to whom such writ or warrant shall be directed, within the district of the Magistrate by whom it has been endorsed, as if it had been issued by such last-mentioned Magistrate for execution of any sentence or judgment of his Court.

Recovery of debts beyond district of magistrate adjudging.

14. Whenever any such Court as aforesaid shall have made any order for the payment of any sum of money, by instalment, execution upon the judgment recovered against the debtor shall not issue until after default made in the payment of some instalment according to such order, and execution, or successive executions, may then issue for the whole of the said sum of money and costs then remaining unpaid, or for such portion thereof as the Court shall order, either at the time of making the original order, or at any subsequent sitting of the Court.

Effect of failure to pay instalment as adjudged.

15. In respect of any process of execution issued against any person out of any such Court as aforesaid, the wearing apparel and bedding of such person and his family, as well as the tools and implements of his trade, to the value of five pounds, on the whole, shall be protected from seizure, and shall not be attached or sold.

Decree of civil imprisonment.

16. Whenever it shall appear from or by the return of the messenger of any of the Courts aforesaid to any process of execution, whereby such messenger was required to cause to be levied and raised of the movable property of any defendant the amount of any debt and costs recovered by the judgment of the said Court by any plaintiff, that such messenger had not found any such movable property, or had found sufficient of the same wherewith to satisfy only some part or portion of such debt or costs as aforesaid, then, and in that case, it shall and may be lawful for the clerk of the said Court, and he is hereby required, upon the application of the said plaintiff, or his lawful agent, to issue and deliver to the messenger of the said Court a summons for the said defendant, calling upon him to appear and show why a decree of civil imprisonment should not be pronounced against him, which summons shall, in substance and effect, be in the form in that behalf in the schedule to this Act contained. (1)

Warrant of imprisonment.

17. When and as often as any such Court as aforesaid shall make a decree of civil imprisonment against any defendant, the process for the execution of the same shall be by warrant under the hands of the Resident Magistrate, which warrant shall, in substance and effect, be in the form in that behalf in the schedule to this Act contained. (2)

Imprisonment, and maintenance during.

18. The keeper of whatever prison shall in any such warrant be mentioned and referred to, shall receive into his custody, and retain therein, according to the tenor of such warrant, the person against whom the same shall have been sued out: Provided, always, that the plaintiff suing out the same shall pay and satisfy the charges for the maintenance of the defendant, precisely as if such defendant had been committed under or by virtue of a decree of civil imprisonment, made or granted by the Supreme or any Circuit Court: And provided, also, that it shall and may be lawful for such keeper as aforesaid, in case any such charges shall remain unsatisfied, to discharge the debtor from custody forthwith: And provided, further, that such charges as aforesaid for maintenance shall be one shilling per day, payable weekly in advance, and shall be paid by the keeper of the prison into the hands of the imprisoned debtor.

Circumstances under which decree of imprisonment may be withheld.

19. When and as often as any defendant, summoned as aforesaid to show why a decree of civil imprisonment shall not be made or granted against him, shall propose terms of settlement to the plaintiff, which terms the said plaintiff shall agree to accept, or shall propose terms of settlement which although the said plaintiff shall refuse to accept the same, shall yet be deemed by the said

Court to be fair and reasonable, or shall make it appear that he is incapable of paying or settling ⁽¹⁾ the amount of the debt or damages, or any part thereof; it shall and may be lawful for the said Court, either to withhold the said decree, or to grant the same, with such certain stay of execution, or other equitable condition, as shall best tend to carry into effect or secure the performance of the terms of settlement agreed upon between the parties, when such terms there are, or, when there are none such, then as shall best tend to carry into effect and secure the performance of any terms proposed by the defendant, which, by the said Court, shall be deemed fair and reasonable, and as such be approved and adopted, or otherwise, as shall best tend to meet the merits of the case.

20. No defendant shall be detained in prison, under any such warrant as aforesaid, in any case in which the debt and costs mentioned in such warrant shall together amount to less than five pounds for any period longer than one month; nor in any case whatever for any period longer than three months; and no defendant once discharged shall ever be again arrested for the same debt or cause of action: Provided, always, that when any defendant shall be discharged from prison, by reason merely that any such period as aforesaid has expired, such imprisonment shall not be deemed to be a satisfaction of the debt, damages, or costs for which he was taken in execution, so as to prevent the plaintiff from having further execution, against the property of such defendant: And provided, also, that every defendant imprisoned under any such warrant shall be discharged forthwith upon payment of the amount of debt and costs mentioned in the said warrant.

Period of imprisonment and effect of liberation.

21. The costs and charges of every summons for civil imprisonment and for the service of the same, and of every decree made in pursuance thereof, shall be the same as those, for the time being, respectively fixed in regard to other summonses or judgments by the schedule or table of fees appointed and authorised to be taken by the officers of the Courts of Resident Magistrates respectively, and the costs and charges of every warrant issued upon or by virtue of any such decree, and of the execution of the same, shall be payable and paid according to the scale in the schedule to this Act set forth.

Costs of proceedings for imprisonment.

22. All and singular the costs and charges in the last preceding section mentioned shall be payable and paid by the plaintiff, who shall not (except as hereinafter excepted) recover or have the same, or any of them, from the defendant: Provided, always, that if, in any case in which any such decree of civil imprisonment shall be made or granted, it shall be made to appear to the Court, at the time of granting the same, that the non-payment by the said defendant of the debt and costs due by him, and then in question, is vexatious, it shall and may be lawful for such Court to allow against such defendant the costs and charges aforesaid, or any part thereof, which to the Court shall seem fit: And provided, also, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed so as to affect any settlements, by means of terms offered by the defendant and accepted by the plaintiff, or to prevent the Court from taking such costs and charges into its consideration, in any case in which terms are proposed by the defendant as fair and reasonable, for the purpose of being sanctioned by the said Court, and carried into effect by its authority.

Proceedings for recovery of possession of house, &c., upon return of nulla bona to action for rent.

23. When and as often as a judgment of any such Court as aforesaid shall have been obtained for the amount of any rent of any house, land, or premises held by the defendant from or under the plaintiff, due and in arrear, and it shall appear by the messenger's return to any process of execution issued upon the said judgment, that no movable property has been found wherewith to satisfy the debt and costs mentioned in such process, or any part thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the clerk of the said Court, and he is hereby required, upon the application of the said plaintiff, to issue and deliver to the messenger of the said Court a summons for the said defendant, calling upon him to appear and show why he should not be condemned to deliver up to the said plaintiff possession of the house, land, or premises by the said defendant held from the said plaintiff, and in respect of which the rent recovered as aforesaid shall be due and owing; which summons shall, in substance and effect, be in the form in that behalf in the rules and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates contained (1): Provided, always, that no claim or demand for the delivery up of such possession shall be made under or by virtue of the provisions of this section in any case in which the lease or contract of hire, or the time or term thereof yet to come and unexpired, shall be respectively of a nature or value which would exclude the jurisdiction of any Court of Resident Magistrate, under or by virtue of the tenth section of this Act.

Decree for delivery of possession, and its effects.

24. Upon the hearing of every case in which such delivery up of possession as aforesaid shall be claimed, it shall and may be lawful for the Court of Resident Magistrate in which the same shall be pending, upon proof of such return as aforesaid to the process of execution, to condemn the said defendant to deliver up such possession forthwith, but without costs; and thereupon such Court shall, upon the application of the plaintiff, grant a warrant authorising and requiring the messenger of the said Court to put the plaintiff into possession of the house, land, or premises in question; which warrant shall, in substance and effect, be in the form in that behalf in the rules and regulations of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates contained, (2) and which warrant it shall and may be lawful for such messenger to execute as against the defendant, and all persons claiming from, through, or under him; and thereupon every previous contract or agreement for the hire or use of such house, land, or premises by the said defendant, from the said plaintiff, shall become and be wholly evicted, avoided, and from thenceforth absolutely determined: Provided always, that the execution of such warrant shall not operate as a satisfaction or extinguishment of the rent recovered by such judgment.

No. 20—1856.

25. If it shall be made to appear to any such Court as aforesaid, at the time of the hearing of any action brought for the recovery of any such rent as aforesaid, either by the admission of the defendant, or otherwise, and whether such defendant shall personally appear at any such hearing or not, that there is no movable property to be found against which to execute any process of execution, the said Court may then, and without the issue of any such process or any fresh summons, condemn the defendant to deliver up possession as aforesaid, in like manner as if he had been duly summoned in manner and form as in the twenty-fourth section of this Act mentioned.

Court in a certain case may, in an action for rent, decree delivery up of possession.

26. When and as often as the landlord of any house, land, or premises, situate within the jurisdiction of any Resident Magistrate, shall make an oath before such Magistrate that an amount of rent, not exceeding the amount to which the jurisdiction of the Court of such Resident Magistrate is limited, is due and in arrear in regard to the said house, land, or premises, and that the said rent has been demanded for the space of seven days and upwards, or, if not so demanded, that the deponent believes that the tenant is about to remove the movable property in and upon the said premises, in order to defeat and avoid the payment of the rent so due and in arrear, and shall enter into security, together with some one as his surety, to be approved of by the said Magistrate, to prosecute in such Court as aforesaid, if need be, a suit for the recovery of such rent so in arrear, and also to pay and satisfy all damages, costs, and charges which the tenant of such house, land, or premises, or any other person, may sustain or incur, by reason of or in connection with the distress or seizure hereinafter mentioned, if the said landlord shall fail to prove that the rent aforesaid is really due and in arrear; then, and in that case, it shall and may be lawful for such Magistrate to issue an order in writing, directed to the messenger of the said Court, authorising and requiring him to seize and arrest, if need be, so much of the movable property in or upon the place or premises in question, and by law distrainable for rent in arrear, as may be sufficient to satisfy the amount of rent due and in arrear, together with the costs and charges of the action aforesaid, to be afterwards, if need be, instituted for the recovery thereof; and such affidavit, security, and order, respectively, shall, in substance and effect, be in the forms in the rules and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates in that

28. The said messenger shall deliver a copy of the said inventory, signed by himself, to the tenant, or, if he be not present, or will not accept it, shall leave the same upon the premises; and such inventory shall have subjoined thereto a notice, which shall, in substance and effect, be conformable to the form in that behalf in the rules and regulations of Courts of Resident Magistrates contained. (2)

When security

When no such security found, goods arrested how to be kept.

31. If any person shall dispose of, conceal, embezzle, or receive any movable property attached under and by virtue of any such order as aforesaid, knowing the same to have been attached, and with intent to defeat the said attachment, such person shall, on conviction thereof, be liable to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding six months.

Embezzlement &c. of goods arrested, how punishable.

32. Where any person whose movable property has been attached under any such order as aforesaid, shall admit the amount of rent due and in arrear, and shall be minded, in order to save expense, to consent to an immediate sale thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the Resident Magistrate by whom the said order was issued, upon such consent being certified to him by such person, both in person and in writing, to grant another order, directed to the messenger aforesaid, authorising and requiring him to sell, on some convenient day, and at some convenient place, to be specified in such order, the said movable property, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the amount of rent due and in arrear, together with the charges of the said sale, which shall be the same as would by law be payable if such sale were a sale under process of execution of the Resident Magistrate's Court; and such order shall, in substance and effect, be in the form in that behalf in the rules and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates contained (1); and every such sale may be made by the said messenger without taking out any licence as an auctioneer, and shall be made publicly, and for ready money, to the highest bidder: and a notice of every such sale shall be affixed at the door of the Court-house of the said Resident Magistrate, and at, or as near as may be to, the place where the sale is actually to take place, for seven days at least before the day appointed for such sale: Provided always, that it shall be competent for the tenant at any time before such sale, to pay the amount of rent due and in arrear, together with such further sum, not exceeding fifteen shillings, as the Magistrate shall tax and allow for the costs and charges of such messenger about such seizure and arrest as aforesaid; and thereupon the movable property arrested shall be restored.

Goods arrested may, with consent of tenant, be sold at once.

Females not to be liable to corporal punishment, or to labour in a public place.

Jurisdiction as to offences committed beyond local limits of magistracy.

43. It shall not be lawful for any Court of Resident Magistrate, in any case, to sentence or adjudge any female to receive personal correction, or to hard labour on any road, street, or public place. ⁽¹⁾

44. No Resident Magistrate shall have jurisdiction, except as is hereinafter excepted and provided, in any case of any crime or offence committed without the local limits of the district within which such Magistrate shall have been appointed to exercise jurisdiction: Provided that when any crime or offence shall be committed on the boundary or boundaries of two or more districts, or within the distance of two miles of any such boundary or boundaries, or shall be begun in one district and completed in another every such crime or offence may be dealt with, inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in any of the said districts, in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed therein: And provided also, that where any crime or offence shall be committed in respect of any property in or upon any cart, wagon, coach, or other carriage whatever, employed on any journey through any part of this Colony, such crime or offence may be dealt with, inquired of, tried, determined, and punished in any district through any part whereof or on, or within the distance of two miles of the boundary whereof such coach, wagon, cart or carriage, shall have passed in the course of the journey during which such crime or offence shall have been committed, in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed in such district. ⁽²⁾

Accused persons may make their defence by counsel, attorney, or agent.

45. Every person, upon trial on any criminal charge in any Court of Resident Magistrate, shall be entitled to make his defence by counsel, or by attorney, or by any such agent as is hereinbefore in the thirty-sixth section of this Act mentioned: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend to alter or affect the law heretofore in force, regarding the admission of legal advisers upon any preparatory examination. ⁽³⁾

46. Every Resident Magistrate shall prepare and transmit to the Attorney-General of the Colony a report of every criminal case adjudicated upon by such Magistrate under and by virtue of his summary jurisdiction, showing the name and occupation of the party accused, the name and occupation of the complainant, the crime or offence charged, the judgment of the Court, and, in cases of conviction, the sentence pronounced. (1)

47. When as often as any Court of Resident Magistrate shall sentence any person, upon conviction, to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any period exceeding one month, (2) or to pay any fine exceeding five pounds or to receive any number of lashes [exceeding twelve] (3) the Magistrate pronouncing such sentence shall forward to the Registrar of the Supreme Court, (4) not later than one week next after the determination of the case, the record of the proceedings in the case, together with such remarks, if any, as he may desire to append; and such Registrar shall, with all convenient speed, lay the same before one of the Judges of the Court, in chambers, for his consideration,—and in case the said proceedings shall appear to such Judge to be in accordance with real and substantial justice, he shall endorse his certificate to that effect upon the said proceedings, and the said proceedings shall then, by the Registrar aforesaid, be returned to the Resident Magistrate by whom the same shall have been transmitted: Provided, always, that the execution of any sentence of imprisonment, with or without hard labour, or to pay a fine, shall not be suspended by the transmission of, or the obligation to transmit, the record aforesaid, unless the person sentenced shall give sufficient bail to surrender himself in order to undergo such imprisonment, or to pay a fine imposed upon him (as the case may be), in case the proceedings in the case shall be approved as aforesaid,—and in case a written notice to surrender or to pay (as the case may be), signed by the clerk of the Court of the convicting Magistrate, shall be served upon or for the person, at some place to be mentioned in the bail bond or recognizance; and every such notice requiring the surrender of the person, or payment of the fine (as the case may be), shall be served in manner and form as are prescribed and directed by the rules and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates, in regard to the service of the summons on a defendant in a civil case. Registrar of the said Court, or of any of the Judges thereof; and it shall be lawful for such attorney, should he so think fit, acting as aforesaid, to set down the case contained in such record for argument before the said Court, in like manner as if such record had been returned or transmitted to such Court in obedience to any summons of such Court, issued in or for an appeal from, or review of, a judgment of the Court of Resident Magistrate: Provided always, that a written notice shall, in every such case, whether prosecuted at the public instance, or at the instance of a private party, be served upon the Attorney-General of the Colony, at his office, in Cape Town, not less than forty-eight hours before the hour appointed for the argument, setting forth that such case has been so set down for argument, as well as the grounds or reasons upon which the judgment is sought to be reversed or altered. And provided, that whether the said judgment shall be confirmed, or shall be reversed or altered, no costs shall be payable by the prosecutor to the person convicted, or by the person convicted to the prosecutor. Provided, also, that no sentence contained in any record of proceedings, forwarded as in the forty-seventh section of this Act directed, which sentence shall have been pronounced in regard to what was by law an offence, sufficiently charged and proved, and lawfully punishable as by the said sentence directed, shall be reversed or altered, by reason merely that the degree of punishment awarded by such sentence may appear to the Court or Judge considering such record to have been unusually or unnecessarily severe. And provided, lastly, that nothing herein contained shall extend to prevent such Court or Judge, or any other person, from making such representation to the Governor of this Colony, respecting the mitigation of any such sentence, as the circumstances of the case may appear to justify.

50. In actions and proceedings before the respective Courts of Resident Magistrates, whether civil or criminal, it shall and may be lawful for such court, before or at the hearing, to amend any plaint or summons, or other record, in regard to the misdescription therein of any written instrument or paper writing relating to such action or proceeding, or of any contract, or any other particular or particulars: Provided that no such amendment be made, except in some particular which, in the judgment of such Court, is not material to the merits of the case, and by which the opposite party cannot be prejudiced in the conduct of his action, prosecution, or defence: Provided also, that such amendment shall be made upon the payment of such costs to the other party, if any, as such Court shall judge reasonable: And provided further, that no misnomer in regard to the name of any person or any place shall vitiate any summons or other writ, or plaint, or proceeding, in case the place or person be therein described so as to be commonly known.

husbands (as the case may be) unless the defendant shall show to the Court that any such minor or married woman (as the case may be) has a guardian or a husband (as the case may be), resident within the district of such Magistrate: Provided also, that if, after such proof by the defendant, the plaintiff shall make it appear that the assistance of such guardian or husband (as the case may be) has been solicited, and has (without just and reasonable grounds) been refused, the Resident Magistrate may disallow the objection of the defendant, and permit the suit or action to proceed precisely as if such minor were of full age, or such married woman were unmarried.

Summoning of witnesses resident in another district.

52. Whenever any person whom it shall be necessary to examine as a witness ⁽¹⁾ in the course of any preparatory examination, or at the trial of any cause, whether civil or criminal, before any of the Resident Magistrates aforesaid, shall reside, or be for the time within any other district than that of such Magistrate, then, and in every such case, it shall and may be lawful for the said Magistrate to issue a summons for the attendance of such person before him, in the like form as is by law provided in respect of summonses to be issued in the like cases, for procuring or compelling the attendance of witnesses residing or being within the district of the Resident Magistrate issuing the same; and every such summons when endorsed by the Resident Magistrate or any Justice of the Peace for such other district, or by the Field-cornet of the Field-cornetcy within which the person so to be summoned resides for the time, or shall be found (who are hereby respectively authorised and required, on production to them of any such summons, to endorse the same), and being duly served and returned, by any person authorised to serve such a summons in either of the said districts, shall have in law the like effect in requiring the attendance of such person as aforesaid, before the Magistrate by whom the same was issued, and in rendering such person, if he shall fail so to attend, liable to every penalty provided for the non-attendance of persons summoned as witnesses, as if such person, at the time when such summons was served, had resided or been within the district of such last-mentioned Magistrate: Provided that, as often as any witness in any civil case brought in any Court of Resident Magistrate shall reside or be in a district other than that under the jurisdiction of such Court, it shall be lawful for the Court in which such civil action shall be brought, should it appear to be for the convenience of the witness, and to be consistent with the ends of justice, upon the request of either party, and after hearing the other party, to frame or approve of such interrogatories as either party shall desire to have put to such witness, and to forward the same (together with the reasonable expenses of such witness, which shall be advanced by the party desiring his examination) to

No. 20—1856.

thereupon any action which may have been brought in any other Court in respect of such claim, shall be stayed, and the Court in which such action shall have been brought, or any Judge thereof, on proof of the issue of such summons, and that the movable property in question was so taken in execution, may order the party bringing such action to pay the costs of all proceedings had upon such action, after the issue of the summons aforesaid, and the Court of Resident Magistrate issuing such summons shall adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order between the parties in respect thereof, and of the costs of the proceedings, as to such Court shall seem just and lawful, and such order shall be deemed to be a judgment of such Court, and shall be enforced and may be appealed from, in like manner and as any other judgment.

Contempts of court, what, and how punishable.

54. If any person shall wilfully insult the Resident Magistrate during his sitting in any such Court, or any clerk, or messenger, or other officer of any such Court, during his attendance therein, or shall wilfully interrupt the proceedings of such Court, or otherwise misbehave in such Court, it shall be lawful for any constable or private person, by order of the said Court, to take such offender into custody, and to detain him until the rising of the Court; and the Resident Magistrate shall be empowered, if he shall think fit, by warrant under his hand, to commit any person so offending to prison, for any period not exceeding seven days, or to impose upon any such person a fine not exceeding five pounds, for every such offence, and in default of payment thereof to commit the offender to prison, for any time not exceeding seven days, unless the said fine be sooner paid. But in any case in which any such Court shall commit or fine any person, under the provisions of this section for contempt of Court, the Resident Magistrate shall without delay (and if in a country district, by the next succeeding post) transmit to the Registrar of the Supreme Court, for the consideration of a Judge in chambers, a statement, certified by such Magistrate to be true and correct, of the grounds and reasons of his proceedings, and shall also furnish to the party committed a copy of such statement, so certified as aforesaid.

Records of inferior courts, how kept.

55. All the records and proceedings whatsoever of and belonging to any inferior Court, which has at any time heretofore existed within this Colony, shall be kept and preserved, where it has been provided by any law in force at the time of the passing of this Act that the same should now be deposited, and shall there remain until further or other provision respecting the custody of the same shall be made by the Governor of this Colony, by any proclamation to be by him issued for that purpose; and all parties concerned shall and may have access and recourse to the said records and proceedings, and to the records and proceedings of any of the Courts created and established by or under this Act; and every judgment and sentence of any inferior Court which heretofore existed within any district of this Colony, shall and may be proceeded upon in the Court of the Resident Magistrate hereby created and established, having jurisdiction over a district comprising the town or village in which such former Court was holden, precisely as if the complaint or action whereon the same was given or pronounced had been originally commenced, and the said judgment or sentence given or pronounced in such last-mentioned Court. And if, at any time hereafter, Courts of Resident Magistrates should be created by any such proclamation as in the second section of this Act mentioned, and the district assigned for the jurisdiction of such Court by any such proclamation as is in the third section of this Act mentioned, should be composed of any territory before then under the jurisdiction of some other Court of Resident Magistrate, any judgment or sentence of such last-mentioned Court, pronounced previously to the publication of such last-mentioned proclamation and affecting any person or any property in such territory, shall be as valid and effectual, and may be proceeded upon precisely in the same manner, as if such territory still remained under the jurisdiction of the Court by which such judgment or sentence was pronounced.

Judgment of former inferior courts may be executed.

56. All proceedings prior to judgment or sentence which shall be pending in any Court of Resident Magistrate at the time of the commencement and taking effect of this Act may be proceeded with in any Court of Resident Magistrate established by this Act, in case such last-mentioned Court be held in the same town or village in which such other Court was holden, and shall be a Court which would have jurisdiction in regard to such proceeding were the same commenced de novo.

Proceedings now pending may be continued.

57. And whereas a Court of Resident Magistrate exists, and is intended to be continued at Simon's Town, and it is therefore unnecessary and inexpedient to maintain the Police Court in the said town, be it enacted, that the "Police Court of Simon's Town," as erected, constituted, and established by the Ordinance No. 4 of 1834, entitled "Ordinance for erecting, constituting, and establishing Police Courts to be holden in Cape Town and Simon's Town respectively, and for defining the duties and jurisdiction of the Judge of Police of Cape Town, and of the Justice of the Peace of Simon's Town, respectively," shall be abolished: and every clause, provision, matter, or thing in the said Ordinance contained, relative to the said Police Court, shall be repealed, and the same is hereby repealed accordingly.

Police court of Simon's Town abolished.

58. From and after the commencement and taking effect of this Act, so much of the royal letters patent, commonly called the "Charter of Justice," as may be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act, also as the Ordinances respectively entitled "Ordinance of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for creating Resident Magistrates and Clerks of the Peace in certain districts and places in this Colony, dated 19th day of December, 1827, No. 33; "Ordinance of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for authorising the Civil Commissioner of the Cape district to act within the district and residency of Simon's Town, and for establishing a board for the registration of marriages therein; and for repealing the proclamation of the 8th April, 1825, granting jurisdiction to the Government residents at Algoa Bay (now Port Elizabeth) and Port Frances, in certain criminal and civil cases," dated the 19th day of January, 1828, No. 38; "Ordinance of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, for establishing and regulating the Court of the Judge of Police and Resident Magistrate for Cape Town and the district thereof, and the Cape district, and for other purposes," dated the 19th day of March, 1828, No. 44, save and except in so far as, by the seventeenth section thereof, the messengers of the Courts of the Resident Magistrates are authorised to sell by auction goods taken in execution of the process of such Courts; "Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor for establishing boards for the registration of marriages at the Paarl and Port Elizabeth," dated the 29th day of July, 1829, No. 63; "Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor in Council, for extending the jurisdiction of Resident Magistrates, in certain cases of ejectment," dated the 1st day of September, 1829, No. 66; "Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor in Council, for annexing the district of Port Elizabeth to the district of Uitenhage, and for defining and appointing the local limits within which the Courts of the Resident Magistrates and Matrimonial Courts within this Colony, shall respectively have and exercise jurisdiction," dated the 6th day of February, 1832, No. 89, save and except in so far as, by the fourth and fifth sections thereof, provision is made touching and concerning Matrimonial Courts of this Colony; Ordinance No. 11 of 1836, entitled "Ordinance for rendering valid acts done and duties performed by persons appointed to act as and for certain Magistrates, and to empower the Governor to appoint Assistant Magistrates"; Ordinance No. 1 of 1837, entitled "Ordinance for erecting certain Resident Magistrates' Courts within the Eastern Division of this Colony, and for defining the jurisdiction thereof"; Ordinance No. 1 of 1839, entitled "Ordinance for erecting certain Resident Magistrates' Courts in the Western Division of this Colony, and for defining the jurisdiction thereof"; Ordinance 14 of 1847, entitled "Ordinance for empowering the Governor of this Colony to establish Courts of Resident Magistrates,"—save and except in so far as any of the said Ordinances enact that certain acts, done previously to the passing thereof, shall be legal, valid, and effectual, and save and except in so far as the said Ordinances, or any of them, may repeal the whole or any part of any former Law or Ordinance,—shall be repealed, and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

59. And whereas it is expedient to add to and, in some particulars, amend the rules, orders, and regulations respecting the manner and form of proceeding in civil and criminal cases before the Courts of the Resident Magistrates, respectively, of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, bearing date the 22nd March, 1828,—Be it enacted, that the same shall be, and they are hereby repealed; and that the rules, orders, and regulations respecting the manner and form of proceeding in civil and criminal cases before the Courts hereby erected, or authorised so to be, shall be the rules, orders, and regulations in that behalf in the schedule to this Act contained, marked B; and that every rule, order or regulation in the said schedule contained shall be deemed and taken to be of the same force and effect as if the same, or the substance thereof, had been embodied in so many enacting clauses of this Act: Provided that nothing herein, or in the said rules, orders, and regulations contained, shall prevent the application to the said rules, orders, and regulations of the Ordinance No. 8, 1852.

No. 20—1856.
Rules of court set forth in schedule.

60. In the interpretation of this Act, the rules, orders, and regulations hereunto annexed, the term Governor shall be deemed and taken to mean the officer for the time being administering the Government of this Colony, and the term Resident Magistrate, the officer for the time being acting as such; and any word or words importing the singular number or the masculine gender only, shall respectively be understood to include several persons, matters, and things, as well as one person, matter, or thing, and females, as well as males, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction.

SCHEDULE B. (1)

Rules. Orders and Regulations respecting the manner and form of proceeding in Civil and Criminal Cases before the Courts of the Resident Magistrates respectively of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope.

1. The jurisdiction in regard to civil cases belonging to any Court of Resident Magistrate is exercisable over or in respect of any person residing or inhabiting within the district assigned to, or appointed for, such Resident Magistrate.

See Act 12, 1869 (p. 1130), and § 13, Act 17, 1886 (p. 2343). For procedure under Small Debts Recovery Act 15, 1905, and special fees on process, see page 4837.

2. [Repealed by § 4, Act 9, 1857.]

3. The clerk of the said Court shall, upon entering into his said office, take an oath for the faithful performance of his duty, in the form following :

I, A. B., do swear that I will truly and faithfully execute the office of clerk of this Court, without fear, favour, or affection for any one ; and that I will not, by myself or any other, receive or take, for my own use, any fee or reward for anything done by me in my said office ; and that I will not take, or permit or suffer any person under me to take, any other than such lawful fees as I shall be instructed to take or permit to be taken in my said office ; and for all such I will duly and faithfully account to the Civil Commissioner of this district, whensoever I am thereunto required. So help me God !

4. The oath of the messenger of the said Court shall be as follows :

I, A. B., do swear that, faithfully and diligently, I will serve the office of messenger of this Court, and execute all summonses and process thereof, without favour or affection for any one ; and that I will not, by myself or any other, take, receive, or demand any other than such lawful fees as I may be permitted by this Court to receive for anything done by me in my said office. So help me God !

5. The said messenger shall give security to the satisfaction of the Resident Magistrate for the due fulfilment of the duties of his office, and for the due and punctual payment by him, to the parties entitled thereto, of all moneys which shall come into his hands by virtue of his office.

6. The clerk of the said Court shall keep a book, ruled and divided into columns, headed and entitled according to the form set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked E, which shall be called "The Civil Record Book of the Court of the Resident Magistrate, district of _____," and the said clerk shall enter therein, in manner hereinafter set forth, ⁽¹⁾ all proceedings in the said Court ; and the Resident Magistrate, once in every week, shall, before the rising of the Court, on any Court day, sign the same.

7. The clerk of the Court shall, upon the application and statement, personally or in writing, or by the lawful agent of any one having matter of complaint or demand against another, subject to the jurisdiction of the said Court, enter a plaint into the proper column of the said book, setting forth, shortly and distinctly, the names and places of abode of the said parties ; the nature and grounds of the said complaint or demand ; and the relief prayed ; and the said plaint shall stand for, and be taken as, and in the place of, a declaration of the cause of action between the parties ; and the said plaint shall be entered as near as is material in the forms and according to the precedents set forth in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked C.

8. After entering the plaint of the party complaining, the clerk of the said Court shall appoint and specify a day for the appearance of the said parties, with their witnesses, in order to the hearing of the said complaint at a reasonable time, according to the distance at which the party summoned lives from the said Court; and he shall inform the party complaining thereof; and the said clerk shall issue and deliver to the messenger of the said Court a summons for the party complained against, to appear before the said Court with his witnesses, if he have any, on the said day; and the said summons shall be, as near as may be, in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate

for the district of Albany.

Messenger of the Court,

Summon C.D., of (describing him so particularly that the officer of the Court may know where to find him), that he appear before the Court of the Resident Magistrate of this district, to be holden at Graham's Town on the day of next, at of the clock in the forenoon, with his witnesses, if he have any, to show why he hath not paid to A.B., of (describing him as in the plaint) the sum of which the said A.B. complains that he owes him for, &c. (following the statement in the plaint); or why he hath not satisfied A. B., of &c., the damage which the said A. B. complains that he has sustained, by reason that the said C. D., on or about, &c., broke down the fence, &c., of the said A. B., as the case may be—(following the statement in the plaint); and serve on the said C. D. a copy of this summons (and, where the action is founded on any document a copy of the said promissory note or other document, &c. ;— or, and a copy of the account or bill of the said A. B., where the demand is upon account or bill), and return you on that day to the said Court what you have done on this summons.

Graham's Town, the 1st May, 185 .

J. M., Clerk to the Court of the Resident
Magistrate of the district of Albany.

9. Where the party, against whom any summons or other process of the said Court is issued, resides at such a distance from the place where the said Court is holden, or where, from the number of such summonses or other process, the said messenger cannot possibly serve or execute the same, the said summonses or other process may be served or executed by his sufficient deputy, to be first approved of as such by the Resident Magistrate, who shall be paid by the said messenger, and for whom he shall be responsible.

10. A copy of the said summons, together with copies of any documents, account, or bill, upon which the said complaint or demand is founded, shall be delivered to the messenger with the said summons, and shall be served, either personally on the said defendant, or left for him at his dwelling-house, with some one of his household, ⁽¹⁾ at least forty-eight hours before the time therein specified for his appearance, where the party summoned lives within five miles of the place of holding the said Court; three days, where the said party lives at a greater distance than five miles, and not exceeding ten miles ; and so on, one day in addition to forty-eight hours for every ten miles of distance at which the party summoned lives from the place of holding the said Court. But no case shall be dismissed for or on account of the omission to deliver the copy of any such document, account, or bill as aforesaid in case it shall appear to the Court that such omission has not, in fact and in truth, prejudiced the defendant in respect of his defence.

¹ See also § 12, Act 17, 1886 (p. 2343).

No. 20—1856.

11. If two or more persons, jointly sued, are partners in trade, the like service upon either of them shall be sufficient.

12. The messenger of the said Court shall endorse or annex to the summons the manner of his executing the same, and shall return the said summons to the clerk of the said Court.

13. It shall be permitted to any plaintiff or defendant in the said Court to appear and conduct his case by means of any person authorised by writing under his hand, to be filed with the clerk of the said Court ; and when it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of such Court that, by reason of the absence from home of any defendant, such written authority could not be obtained, then it shall be permitted to any one of his family, or any one having a general authority to manage his affairs in his absence, and willing to conduct the said case to appear for the defendant and conduct the same. But nothing shall, in the taxation of costs against either party, be allowed for the attendance or services of any person, not being enrolled in such Court to practise as an agent therein, nor an Attorney of the Supreme or Circuit Court, and not being an advocate of the Supreme Court of the Colony, instructed by such agent or attorney. And every such Court of Resident Magistrate, upon being satisfied that any person who appears to have a right of action is, from poverty, unable to sue out the process of such Court, may order all such process to issue without fee or charge. Provided, always, that such person, should he recover and receive sufficient from the other party, shall be liable to pay and make good all fees and charges so remitted.

14. On the Court day appointed for appearance of the parties, unless the said summons shall have been withdrawn, the clerk of the said Court shall cause the said parties, plaintiff and defendant, to be called ; and if they, or any one duly authorised on their behalf, appear, he shall record the same, and the Court shall proceed to inquire of and determine the said complaint or demand ; and the said clerk shall read over the plaint, and ask the defendant, or his agent, whether he will confess or deny the same ; or where the complaint of the plaintiff is in respect of any sum of money alleged to be due to him, if he will make any like counter claim against the plaintiff ; and the said clerk shall record his answer in the proper column of the record book.

15. If the defendant deny the said complaint or demand, or make claim of any sum of money as due to him by the said plaintiff, the said plaintiff, or some one on his part, shall forthwith produce and exhibit to the Court any writings or documents whereon his complaint or demand may be founded, and shall also produce any witnesses he may require to have examined in support of the same.

16. The process of the said Court, for compelling the attendance of any person to give evidence therein, shall be by summons issued by the clerk of the said Court, and directed to the messenger thereof; and shall be served and returned by him, in the same manner as any other summons of the said Court; and the said summons may be sued out by either party requiring the attendance of any witness, and shall be, as near as is material, in the form following: that is to say,—

Court of Resident Magistrate of the District of Albany.

Messenger of the Court,

Summon A. B., of &c., C. D., of &c., and E. F., of &c., that, laying aside all and singular business and excuses, they and each of them appear in person before this Court, at Graham's Town, on the day of next, at of the clock in the forenoon, to testify and declare all and singular those things which they, or any of them, know in a certain case, now depending in the said Court, between I. K., plaintiff, and N. O., defendant; and that they, or either of them, by no means omit so to do at their peril. Serve on each of them, the said A. B., &c., a copy of this summons, and pay to the said A. B. the sum of , to the said C. D. the sum of , and to the said E. F. the sum of , for their travelling expenses, respectively,—and return to the said Court what you have done thereupon.

J. M., Clerk of the said Court.

Graham's Town, 1st May, 185 .

17. If any witness have in his possession or control any deed, instrument, or writing which the party requiring his attendance is desirous to show in evidence, then the said summons shall be in the form following, namely—(as in the former case, to the day of hearing, and then proceed as follows),—“And also that they bring with them, and produce at the time and place aforesaid, a certain deed or instrument in writing, bearing date, &c., (describing very accurately the thing to be produced), and then and there to testify and declare, &c.” (as before).

18. There shall be delivered to the said messenger, together with the said summons, so many copies thereof as there are witnesses to be summoned, and also such sum or sums of money, as the party for whom they are to be summoned intends that the said messenger shall pay or offer to the said witnesses respectively for their travelling expenses; and if any person, being duly summoned to give evidence, and his reasonable expenses be paid or offered to be paid to him, and having no sufficient excuse, shall neglect or refuse to attend or give evidence according to said summons, then the said Court shall impose upon the said person a fine for his default, not exceeding five pounds sterling; and for non-payment shall commit such person to the gaol of the said district for any time not exceeding fourteen days. Provided that as often as any person duly summoned shall fail to appear, it shall be lawful for the Resident Magistrate, in case no lawful cause for such non-appearance shall seem to him to exist, to issue his warrant for the apprehension of the party making default, in order that he may be brought up to give his evidence, and to be otherwise dealt with according to law.

19. If it shall appear to the said Court, upon oath, that any person, who is a material witness for either party to any cause, having been duly summoned, doth not attend at the hearing thereof, then the Resident Magistrate shall, at his discretion, either postpone the hearing of the said case to another day, then to be appointed by him, or else shall take the examination of such witnesses as appear, and suspend the further hearing of the said case to another day; which postponement or suspension, and the cause thereof, and the day appointed for the further hearing, the said clerk shall note in the column of the said record book entitled "day of hearing the case."

20. All persons examined or giving evidence in the said Court shall be examined orally and apart, and in open Court; and shall be sworn by the Resident Magistrate, according to the form of the religion they respectively profess, "to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth"; but all persons entitled by law to affirm, instead of taking an oath, may so affirm. Nothing herein contained shall extend to or affect the provisions of the sixth section of Ordinance No. 14, 1846. ⁽¹⁾

21. Whenever it shall appear necessary to the Resident Magistrate, before administering an oath, to examine the person touching his knowledge of the obligation thereof, he shall not merely ask such person generally, whether he understands the nature of the oath, but shall, after explaining to the said person that he is about to administer to him such oath, and the terms thereof,—further ask him:

1st. Whether he believes it to be wicked not to speak the truth?

2ndly. Whether he understands that the taking of such oath is calling upon God to witness that he does speak the truth?

3rdly. Whether he believes that God will hereafter punish any one who, upon oath, does not speak the truth?

4thly. Whether he considers the oath about to be administered to him binding upon him to speak the truth, and the whole truth?

22. The said Court may, at its discretion, and for the information of the said Court, examine the parties upon oath, or either or any of them. ⁽²⁾

23. Where in the course of any case, it may be necessary for either party to produce and show to the Court any record, entry, or document of the said Court, it shall not be required of the said party to produce any office copy of such record, entry, or document; but the clerk of the said Court shall, at his request, produce and show, or refer to, the original.

24. In every civil case, the clerk of the Court shall take down the evidence and proceedings in writing, and shall also note any objections made by either party to any evidence received or to any evidence or any document tendered by either party to the Court.

25. The case on the part of the plaintiff having been heard, the defendant, or some one on his part, shall in like manner produce any writing or documents he may desire to have read to the Court, and any witness to be examined in support of his answer or denial: and the plaintiff shall be heard in reply thereto.

26. All judgments and sentences of the said Court shall be given in open Court, and shall be recorded by the clerk in the proper column of the said book.

¹ § 6, Ord. 14, 1846, repealed by § 11, Act 4, 1861 (p. 822). See § 12 of Act 4, 1861.

² But see § 2, Act 4, 1861.

27. Where any judgment shall be upon any debt, payable with interest thereon, the said interest shall be given up to the day of suing out the process of the Court for the execution thereof.

28. If neither the defendant, nor any one admitted for him, appear on the Court day appointed for that purpose, then the said Court, upon the request of the said plaintiff, and being satisfied by the return of the messenger of the said Court, endorsed upon the said summons, that the same hath been duly served, shall proceed to hear the said plaintiff and his witnesses, and cause the evidence to be taken down in writing, and shall give judgment thereon against the said defendant, in the full sum due by him or awarded against him by the Court; but the said judgment shall be only provisional in its nature, and no execution shall issue upon it until the plaintiff, together with some one as his surety, to be approved of by the said Court, shall give security for full restitution of the amount to be levied and raised under such judgment, should the same be reversed; and the form of such security shall be the same as that set forth in the thirty-fourth of these rules and regulations, save and except that the words "notwithstanding the said C. D. has noted an appeal against the same," shall be omitted in the body of the said form, and the word "cause" shall be substituted for the word "appeal" in the end thereof.

29. The defendant may, at any time within one month⁽¹⁾ after the levy made under any writ of execution issued by virtue of any such provisional judgment, take out a summons of the said Court, calling upon the plaintiff in the original action to show cause why the judgment obtained by him should not be reversed. And if it shall be made to appear to the said Court, by oath, that the defendant was absent from his home at the time when the summons of the said Court was served, and that he did not receive the same a sufficient time before the day of the return thereof to be able to obey the same, and that he did not absent himself from home for the purpose of avoiding the service of the said summons, or that, having been duly summoned, he was by just and reasonable cause prevented from attending the Court in pursuance of the said summons,—then the said Court shall order the said judgment to be opened, and shall permit the defendant to answer the said complaint or demand,—upon the terms, nevertheless, of payment of the costs incurred by his default, and that the evidence before given by the said plaintiff shall, on the re-hearing of the case, be read from the evidence and proceedings taken down by the clerk of the said Court, the said plaintiff being at liberty to bring further evidence, if he think fit; and upon the said re-hearing, the case, except as aforesaid, shall proceed as if the defendant had appeared on the original summons.

30. If the defendant, or some one duly authorised on his behalf, do not, within one month⁽¹⁾ next after such levy, as aforesaid, take out such a summons as aforesaid, the provisional judgment shall become final,—and the security aforesaid shall become, ipso facto, null and void. But if, upon the hearing of any such summons, the judgment therein mentioned shall be reversed or set aside, then the defendant shall be entitled, without any cession, to sue upon the said security, for the recovery of the sums therein mentioned, less the costs incurred by his default.

¹ Printed as amended by § 5, Act 9, 1857 (p. 663).

No. 20—1856.

31. If any person summoned to appear on any day to answer any complaint or demand, shall appear according to the said summons, and the party complaining shall make default, the Court shall adjudge the said plaint to be dismissed; or if he appear, and the judgment of the Court be for the defendant, the said Court shall adjudge to the said defendant his costs, to be taxed by the clerk of the said Court, in like manner as for the party complaining; and the said defendant shall be entitled to the like process of execution for the same. ⁽¹⁾

32. After judgment of the Court against the party complaining, for default of appearance, the same may, upon payment of costs, be admitted to commence a new action for the same cause, and the Court may, in any case, when it shall see fit, absolve the defendant from that instance, instead of giving judgment in his favour, in which case the plaintiff, upon the payment of the costs awarded against him, may commence a new action for the same cause. But the judgment of the said Court, given in favour of the defendant, when pronounced after the hearing of the cause, is a perpetual bar to any other suit or action for the same cause.

33. Any party against whom any final judgment or sentence of the said Court has been given in any civil case (and an absolution from the instance shall be deemed to be such a final judgment or sentence), if he intend to appeal therefrom to any superior Court, shall, on the next Court day, make known his intention to the clerk of the said Court, who shall note his appeal, with the date thereof, in the proper column of the record book—and the party appealing shall then deposit and lodge with the clerk of the said Court the sum of one pound seventeen shillings and sixpence, as security for the costs of conducting the said appeal, and the said clerk shall make a note of the said deposit, in the last column of the record book, immediately after the note of the said appeal; and thereupon the said appeal shall be allowed, but not otherwise. And any person abandoning his appeal within fourteen days next after he shall have noted the same, shall be entitled to receive back the said sum of one pound seventeen shillings and sixpence provided he have taken no proceedings in the appeal, save the noting thereof.

34. In any case where an appeal may have been duly noted, and the proper security for costs given, the said Court may direct that the judgment or sentence appealed from shall be carried into execution,—or that the execution thereof shall be suspended, pending the said appeal, as to the said Court may appear most consistent with justice:—and in every case where the said Court shall direct such judgment or sentence to be carried into execution, the party in whose favour the same shall have been given shall, before the execution thereof, enter into security, together with some one as his surety, to be approved of by the said Court, for full restitution of the amount to be levied and raised under such judgment, should the same be reversed, as also for the due execution of any such further judgment, order, or decree as shall be afterwards pronounced upon or in respect of the said appeal.

And the said security shall be, as near as may be, in the form following :

No. 20—1856.

Graham's Town, May 1, 185 .

A. B., of &c., Plaintiff, against

C. D., of &c., Defendant.

Whereas the said A.B., on the day of , recovered, by judgment of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district of Albany, against the said C.D., the sum of together with the sum of , for costs in a certain case, before the said Court; and whereas the said Court has directed the said judgment, notwithstanding the said C.D. has noted an appeal against the same, to be carried into execution upon security being given for restitution: Now, therefore, the said A. B., and L. M., of , farmer, as surety for him, the said A.B., hereby severally undertake and bind themselves, jointly and severally, to refund and make due restitution of the above several sums of and , should the judgment of the said Court be reversed; and, further, severally to conform to and execute such judgment, order, or decree, as shall be given and pronounced upon or in respect of such appeal.

In witness whereof, the said A.B. and L.M. have hereunto set their hands, on this 1st day of May, 185 .

(Signed) A. B.

E. F., Clerk of the said Court.

L. M.

35. Where the party, who may have deposited with the clerk of the said Court the sum required as security for the costs of conducting the said appeal, shall not afterwards duly proceed thereon to judgment, the sum so deposited, in case the same shall not have been returned as in the thirty-third rule provided, shall be applied to the payment of the costs incurred by the opposite party; and if there be any surplus, the same shall be forfeited and disposed of in the same manner as fines otherwise imposed by the said Court.

36. At the time when judgment or sentence of the Court is given in any case, the clerk of the Court shall, at the request of the party in whose favour the same is given, ascertain and allow the necessary costs and expenses of the said suit against the party to be charged therewith; and in the said taxation he shall charge and allow all such necessary payments and disbursements made in the said case as are provided to be paid by the tariff of charges in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked D, and all such other reasonable sums of money as the party, in whose favour the said judgment or sentence is given, has paid in bringing before the Court any necessary witnesses or evidence, or otherwise: and where he shall think it reasonable to allow any expense not herein provided for, the same not being prohibited by any rule of the said Court, then he shall take the direction of the said Court thereon, and make his allowance accordingly.

No. 20—1856.

37. Whenever the Court shall make an order for the payment of any debt or damages by instalments, such order shall be recorded by the clerk of the Court in the last column of the civil record book, in manner and form as shown by schedule E, hereinafter contained.

38. The party in whose favour any judgment or sentence of the said Court shall be given, in any civil case, in regard to which an appeal shall not have been noted, or, having been noted, shall have been withdrawn, may sue out of the office of the clerk of the said Court the process of the said Court for the execution thereof.

39. In all cases of appeal the said Court shall conform to and execute such judgments, orders, and decrees as shall be afterwards made and pronounced thereon, in like manner as any original judgment, sentence, or decree by the said Court could or might have been executed.

40. ⁽¹⁾ The process for execution of any sentence or judgment of the said Court shall be by warrant under the hand of the Resident Magistrate, directed to the messenger of the said Court, as near as may be in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate,

District of Albany.

E. F., Messenger of the Court.

Whereas, in a certain case in this Court, before me, wherein A.B., of &c., was the plaintiff, and C.D., of &c., was the defendant (describing the parties as in the plaint), the said A.B., on the day of last by the judgment of the Court, recovered against the said C.D., the sum of , together with the sum of for his costs (which said judgment has been duly affirmed on appeal—if the case so be,—with the further sum of £ for costs thereon), as appears in the proceedings of the said Court; this is, therefore, to require you, that of the movable property of the said C.D., in this district, you cause to be levied and raised the debt (or damages) and costs aforesaid, together with your charges about the same, and pay to the said plaintiff the debt (or damages) and costs aforesaid, and return to the clerk of this Court, on or before the day of next, what you have done by virtue hereof; for which shall this be your warrant.

Given under my hand, at Graham's Town, this day of , 185 .

I. K., Clerk of the Court.

J. L.

41. Where any person, against whom any judgment of the Court shall have been given, shall before any warrant shall have been taken out to levy in execution of the process of the said Court, appear before the said Court, and there deliver in to the clerk thereof an inventory of goods, duly proved, upon oath, to belong to the said person, and to exceed in value the amount to be levied under such judgment, with the costs thereof, and shall then and there undertake, in writing, together with some one as his surety, that the goods or chattels contained in the said inventory shall be brought for sale at such time and place as the Court shall appoint, unless the person in whose behalf the said process was issued be sooner satisfied in respect of his debt or damages, as the case may be; then no further proceedings shall be had in respect of such judgment of the Court, until after the day so appointed for the sale of such goods or chattels; and the form of such security shall be in substance and as near as is material, according to the form prescribed in respect of the security hereinafter set forth for not making away with goods laid under legal attachment by the process of the said Court.

42. The messenger of the said Court shall, upon receiving the said warrant, repair to the house of the defendant, within twenty-four hours, if he live at the town or place where the said Court is holden,—or within forty-eight hours, if within five miles thereof,—or if at any greater distance therefrom, within so many days' distance in addition thereto as the said party resides therefrom, and there demand payment of the said debt or damages, and costs, or else require that so much movable property be pointed out as the said messenger may deem sufficient to satisfy the exigency of the said warrant; and if he comply therewith, the said messenger shall make inventory thereof, and lay a judicial attachment on the same; but if the debtor will not point out such property, and the judgment of the Court do not declare any to be specially bound, then the said messenger shall immediately lay an attachment under inventory on as much movable property belonging to the debtor as he may deem sufficient to satisfy the execution: and if the judgment of the Court declare any particular property to be specially bound, and liable to execution for the judgment, then the said messenger shall first take the same.

43. The said messenger shall deliver a copy of the said inventory, signed by himself, to the debtor, or, if he will not accept it, shall leave the same on the premises; which inventory shall have subjoined thereto a notice in the following terms:

C. D.,

May 1st, 185 .

Take notice, that I have this day seized and laid under judicial attachment the articles comprised in the above inventory, in pursuance of a warrant to me directed under the hand of _____, Esq., Resident Magistrate for the district of Albany, whereby I am required to cause to be levied and raised of your movable property, in this district, the sum of _____, and _____ costs, recovered against you by the judgment of the said Court, in a certain case wherein A. B. was the plaintiff, and yourself the defendant (as the case may be); and also for my charges in and about the said warrant.

I. K., Messenger of the said Court.

44. Where any person, whose movable property has been attached in execution of the process of the said Court, will undertake, in writing, together with some of his neighbourhood as his security, that the same shall be produced on the day appointed for the sale thereof, if the person, in whose behalf the said process was issued, shall not be sooner satisfied, in respect of his debt, or damages, as the case may be,—then the messenger of the said Court shall leave the said property so attached and inventoried as aforesaid upon the premises

Magistrate shall forthwith issue his warrant for the apprehension of the said person, to answer for the said fraud according to law.

47. Any property sold in execution of the process of the said Court shall be sold publicly, and for ready money, by the said messenger or his deputy, so to be approved of by the said Court, to the highest bidder, at or near as to the place where the same was taken as may be convenient for the sale thereof; and the said messenger shall affix notice of the said sale, and of the day and place thereof, on the door of the Court-house, or on some other like public building, in the place where the said Court is holden; as also where, or as near as may be, the place where the said sale is actually to take place, seven days at least before the day appointed for the said sale; which day shall be not earlier than the fourteenth day from the time of seizure or attachment.

48. The form of summons in cases of civil imprisonment shall be as follows:

Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of Albany.

To A. B., Messenger of the Court.

Summon C. D., of (describe the defendant, as in the former process), that he appear before the Court of the Resident Magistrate of this district, to be holden at Graham's Town on the day of next, at o'clock in the forenoon, to show why a decree of civil imprisonment should not be made against him, at the suit of E.F., of (describe the plaintiff as in the former process), in respect of the non-payment of the sum of £ (insert the joint amount of debt and costs), recovered against the said C. D. by the said E. F., by a judgment of the said Court, bearing date the day of , 185 , and for the recovery of which sum a warrant of execution was, on the day of , last past, duly sued out against the movable property of the said C.D., and in regard to which warrant a return has been duly made that no movable property has been found, whereof could be made the amount stated in the said warrant or any part thereof (or whereof could be made more than the sum of £ parcel of the amount stated in the said warrant), and serve on the said C. D. a copy of this summons, and return you on the said day of next what you have done thereon.

Graham's Town, 1st , 185 .

G. H., Clerk to the Court of the Resident
Magistrate of the District of Albany.

49. As often as the Resident Magistrate shall see cause to grant a decree of civil imprisonment, the defendant shall be committed to the gaol of the district by warrant under the hand of the Resident Magistrate, in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of Albany.

To A. B., Messenger of the Court, and to the Keeper of the Public Prison of the District of Albany.

These are to command you, the said messenger, to take C. D., of (describe as in the summons in the last preceding rule), and deliver him to the keeper of the public prison of the district aforesaid, together with this warrant, there to be safely kept until he shall have paid unto E. F., of (describe the plaintiff as in the summons aforesaid), the sum of £ , which the said E. F., recovered for his debt and costs by judgment of this Court, bearing date the day of , 185 , or until the expiration of months, from the day on which the said C. D. shall be received into the said prison by virtue of this warrant, whichever of the two shall first happen, or until the said E. F. shall be otherwise legally discharged; and for your so doing, this shall be your warrant.

No. 20—1856.

Dated at Graham's Town, this day of , 185 .

R. G., Resident Magistrate of the District of Albany.

L. N., Clerk of the Court.

* * * When a decree of civil imprisonment shall be made after an insufficient levy under process of execution against property, the words "parcel of the sum of £ ," should be inserted before the words "which the said E. F. recovered for his debt and costs," &c. (1)

50. (2) Every summons sued out for the recovery of possession of premises shall be, as near as may be, in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate
for the District of Albany.

To , Messenger of the said Court.

Summon C. D., of (describe the defendant as in the former process), that he appear before the Court of the Resident Magistrate of this district, to be holden at on the day of next, at o'clock in the forenoon, to show why he shall not be condemned to yield and deliver up to A. B., of (describe the plaintiff as in the former process), possession of a certain dwelling-house (or apartment, or other tenement or premises, according to the fact), situate at (describe the local situation), held by the said C. D. from and under the said A. B., for the amount of certain rent or hire due and in arrear from the said C. D. to the said A. B., in regard to the said dwelling-house (or otherwise as before), amounting, together with costs, to the sum of £ , for which a warrant of execution was, on the day of last, duly sued out under a judgment of this Court, against the movable property of the said C. D., on which warrant a return has been duly made that no such movable property as aforesaid has been found whereof could be made the amount stated in the said warrant, or any part thereof; and serve upon the said C. D. a copy of this summons, and return you on the said day of , 185 , what you have done thereon.

Dated at Graham's Town, this day of , 185 .

E. F., Clerk of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of Albany.

² § 23.

51. ⁽¹⁾ When a decree for the delivery up of possession shall be made, the warrant of the execution of the same shall, as near as may be, be in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate for the District of
To _____, Messenger of the said Court.

It having appeared to this Court that C. D., of (describe the tenant, as in the summons), holds from and under A. B., of (describe the landlord, as in the summons), a certain dwelling-house (or apartment, or other tenement or premises, according to the fact), situate at (describe the local situation), and that the said A. B., who has recovered judgment and sued out execution against the movable property of the said C. D. for the amount of certain rent of the said (name the sort of premises), due and in arrear, hath not had of the said movable property, or otherwise, the amount of the said rent, or any part thereof; and the said A. B. having afterwards, to wit, on _____ day of _____, 185____, by the judgment of this Court, been duly decreed to be put into possession of the said (name again the sort of premises); this is, therefore, to authorise and require you to put the said A. B. into possession of the same, by removing therefrom the said C. D. and all other persons claiming from, through, or under him, for which this shall be your warrant; and return you on the _____ day of _____, 185____, what you have done in pursuance thereof.

Given under my hand, at _____, this _____ day of _____ 185____.

Resident Magistrate for the District of _____

E. F., Clerk of the Court.

52. ⁽²⁾ The affidavit of rent in arrear, on which to ground an attachment of the movable property of the tenant, or upon the demised premises, shall be, as near as may be, in the form following, that is to say,—

A. B., of (describe the landlord), maketh oath and saith that C. D., of (describe the tenant), is justly and truly indebted to this deponent in the sum of £ _____ for the arrears of a certain monthly (or yearly, &c., as the case may be) rent due and payable by the said C. D., to the said deponent, for the hire and occupation, from and under this deponent, of a certain dwelling-house (or apartment, or other tenement or premises, according to the fact), situate at (describe the local situation), which said sum of £ _____ has been demanded from the said C. D., for the space of seven days and upwards, reckoned from this day, but has not yet been paid (or, when the deponent believes that the property is about to be removed, then say, “on which premises there now are certain movables of the said C. D., which this deponent verily believes he is about to remove, in order to avoid the payment of the said rent").

Sworn before me, this day of 185 , at A. B.

Resident Magistrate of the District of

53. ⁽¹⁾ When any person shall apply for an order to seize and arrest movables for rent in arrear, the form of security to be entered into on his part and behalf shall be, as near as may be, as follows, that is to say,—

Whereas A. B., of (describe the landlord), hath this day made oath before me that C. D., of (describe the tenant), holds from and under him, as tenant or occupant, a certain dwelling-house (or apartment, or other tenement or premises according to the fact), and that there is now justly due and owing by the said C. D., to the said A. B., the sum of £ for months' rent of the said dwelling-house (or otherwise, as the case may be): and whereas the said A. B., hath applied to me for an order for the seizure and arrest of movable property, according to the provisions of the Act in that behalf made and provided; and whereas E. F., of (describe the surety), hath agreed to join the said A. B., in giving the security in the said section mentioned; now, therefore, the said A. B. and the said E. F., do hereby jointly and severally promise and undertake, to and with the said Resident Magistrate, and his assigns, that the said A. B. shall, not later than the day of (date of the next day but one), unless the rent due and in arrear as aforesaid shall be sooner paid and satisfied, or unless the said C. D., shall sooner consent, under the provisions of the Act aforesaid, to a sale, without suit, of the movable property, which may be seized and arrested by virtue of the said order, "sue out from the Court of the said Resident Magistrate, a summons against the said C. D., for the recovery of the rent or hire aforesaid, and shall prosecute the same to judgment, without any unnecessary delay," and that the said A. B., and E. F., or either of them, at the option of the said Resident Magistrate or his assigns, shall pay, satisfy, and make good to, or for the use of, the said C. D., or whom else it may concern, all damage, costs, and charges which he or they may receive or sustain by reason of, or in connection with, the execution of the order aforesaid, in case the said A. B. shall fail to prove, in the suit or action aforesaid, that the said amount of rent to be therein demanded is due and in arrear.

Dated at , this day of , 185 ,
before me, , Resident Magistrate.

(Signed) A. B.
E. F.

* * When a summons shall have been sued out for the rent in arrear at or before the time of applying for the order to arrest, the words within the inverted commas should be omitted, and the following words inserted in their stead: "Duly and without any unnecessary delay prosecute to judgment the pending suit or action by the said A. B., against the said C. D., for the recovery of the rent aforesaid, commenced by a summons sued out of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of this district, this day of , 185 (or on the day of , 185 , as the case may be)."

54. ⁽¹⁾ Every order for arresting movables to meet a demand for rent in arrear shall be, as near as may be, in the form following, that is to say,—

To , Messenger of the Court of the Resident Magistrate for the District of .

This is to authorise and require you to repair, as by law provided, to the dwelling-house (or apartment, or other tenement or premises, according to the fact), situate at (describe the local situation), and there demand payment of the sum of £ , being the amount of certain rent or hire of the said (name the sort of premises), due by C. D. to A. B., of (describe the lessor), and in case such payment shall not be made, then require that so much movable property may be pointed out, by law distrainable for the rent so in arrear as you shall deem sufficient to satisfy the said sum of £ , and make an inventory of such property, and lay the attachment thereon under the provisions of the Act in that behalf made and provided; but if no such property shall be pointed out, then seize and arrest, according to the provisions of the said Act, so much of such property as you shall deem sufficient, and further act in that behalf as by the said Act directed; and return on the day of 185 , what you shall have done under this order.

Given under my hand, at , this day of , 185 .

Resident Magistrate for the District of

55. ⁽²⁾ Whenever the messenger shall have attached any movables, under any such order as aforesaid, the notice to be subjoined to the inventory shall be, as near as may be, in the form following, that is to say,—

C. D.,

Take notice that I have this day seized and arrested the articles comprised in the above inventory, in pursuance of an order to me directed, under the hand of , Esq., Resident Magistrate for the district of , whereby I am authorised and required to seize and arrest movable property distrainable for rent, sufficient to satisfy A. B. the sum of

o. 20—1856.

of the movable property of one C. D. to levy and raise certain sums of money in the said writ mentioned, and which movable property is claimed by the said G. H. as being his property, and not liable to such execution, be or be not the property of the said G. H., and be or be not so liable; and serve as well upon the said A. B. as upon the said G. H. a copy of this summons, and return you, on the said day of , 185 , what you have done on this summons.

R. G., Resident Magistrate.

Dated at , this day of , 185 .

L. M., Clerk of the Court.

59. ⁽¹⁾ Where the judgment or sentence of the said Court in any case is appealed from, and the said appeal is duly prosecuted and allowed in manner provided for that purpose, the clerk of the said Court shall forthwith transmit the proceedings in the said case to the Registrar of the Supreme Court, or to the Registrar of the next Circuit Court for the said district, as the case may be, together with a certificate, under his hand, subjoined to the said proceedings in the following terms:

I, L. M., clerk of the Court of Resident Magistrate for the district of Albany, hereby certify and declare that the above are the true proceedings in the case A. B. against C. D.; and that the said proceedings contain true notes of all evidence received by the said Court, objected to, or offered by either party, and rejected by the said Court, on the hearing of the said case.

Graham's Town, May 1, 185 .

L. M.

60. The clerk of the said Court shall, a sufficient time before the holding of any Circuit Court for the district, apprise the parties in appeal of the day and place of the holding thereof; and shall warn them to appear before the said Circuit Court, and prosecute the said case in appeal, and hear the determination thereof.

61. All fines imposed by the Court in any case, civil or criminal, shall be paid to the clerk of the said Court; and the same, together with all fees of office received by him in every month, shall be paid over on the first day of the following month to the Civil Commissioner of the division; and the said clerk shall deliver therewith an account in such form as the Civil Commissioner shall from to time direct. And the officers of the said Court shall take such fees as are allowed in the tariff hereunto annexed, and the same shall be taken at the time when anything is required to be done by any officer, for which such fees are allowed, and together with the same, shall also be taken and charged the duty imposed by law upon any stamp where the stamp is supplied by such officer.

IN CRIMINAL CASES.

62. All crimes and offences against the law, within the jurisdiction of the said Court, and which may have been committed by any person within any district of this Colony, may be prosecuted in the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the said district. ⁽¹⁾

¹ See § 33 and Rule 33.

63. Where the public prosecutor shall, by virtue of his office, have determined to prosecute any party in the said Court, for any crime or offence within the jurisdiction of the said Court, he shall forthwith lodge with the clerk of the Court a statement ⁽²⁾, in writing, of the charge or complaint against the said person, describing him by his name, surname, place of abode, and occupation or degree; and setting forth, shortly and distinctly, the nature of the said crime or offence, and the time and place at which the same was committed.

64. Any private person entitled to prosecute ⁽³⁾ for any crime or offence, may prosecute summarily for such crime or offence, by lodging his complaint in any Court of Resident Magistrate, having jurisdiction, nor shall any certificate of any Clerk of the Peace, or any other competent public prosecutor, to the effect that he declines to prosecute for such crime or offence, be necessary. ⁽⁴⁾ But any competent public prosecutor may, at any time before judgment, intervene in any such case and assume the management and conduct thereof, ⁽⁵⁾ and the clerk of the Court shall, in the column of the Criminal Record Book, hereinafter mentioned, headed "Remarks, &c.," make an entry of such intervention.

65. The clerk of the Court shall keep a book, ruled and divided into columns, headed and entitled according to the form in the schedule hereunto annexed, marked F, which shall be called "The Criminal Record Book of the Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of _____," and the said clerk shall enter therein, in manner hereinafter set forth, all criminal proceedings in the said Court, and shall present the said book to the Resident Magistrate at the first sitting of the Court, upon every Court day; and the Resident Magistrate shall, before the rising of the said Court, sign the same.

66. The clerk of the Court shall, upon such complaint being lodged with him, either by the public prosecutor or any private party, forthwith enter into the proper columns of the Criminal Record Book, the name of the prosecutor, the name of the party charged, the crime or offence charged or complained of, the day of commitment of the party charged, and by whom committed, and any remarks which it may be proper to record.

67. All persons to be prosecuted upon any criminal charge in the said Court shall be brought to trial at the next possible Court day,—but whenever it shall be made to appear, on oath, to the satisfaction of the Resident Magistrate, that any criminal case cannot be proceeded in upon the day appointed for that purpose, without danger of defeating the ends of justice, he shall adjourn the hearing thereof to some future Court day, which day shall be specified by him; and the said adjournment, and the cause thereof, shall be noted by the clerk in the last column of the said Criminal Record Book. ⁽⁶⁾

⁵ See § 8, Ord. 73, and § 10, Ord. 8, 1852 (p. 475).

⁶ See Rule 81.

No. 20—1856.

68. The clerk of the said Court shall, upon or after the lodging of the said complaint at the request of the prosecutor (and at his charge, where the prosecution is by a private party) ⁽¹⁾, issue and deliver to the messenger of the said Court, the process of the said Court for compelling the appearance of the said party to answer the charge, and of the witnesses in support thereof,—together with so many copies of the said process as there are persons to be summoned, if there be more than one; and the said messenger shall serve a copy thereof on any defendant, and shall at the same time explain to him the nature and exigency of the said process; and the said process shall be by summons under the hand of the Resident Magistrate, and shall be, as near as may be, in the form following:

Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of .

To J. P., Messenger of the Court.

You are hereby required and directed, in Her Majesty's name, on the sight hereof, to summon C. D., of &c. (describing him particularly) that he appear personally before this Court at Graham's Town, on the day of next, at o'clock in the forenoon, then to answer and abide the judgment of this Court, upon the complaint and information of E. F., Esq., who prosecutes in the name and on behalf of Her Majesty (or of G. H., of &c., describing him particularly), that the said C. D., on or about the day of last, violently beat and assaulted the said G. H., of &c., and summon M. N., of &c., O. P., of &c., and such persons (if any) as you shall be required by the said C. D. to summon on his behalf, that they, and each of them, be and appear personally, at the day and place aforesaid to testify all they, and each of them, know concerning the said charge. Serve on each of them, the said C. D., M. N., O. P., &c., a copy of this summons, and return to this Court, on that day, what you have done hereon.

Given under my hand, at , this day of , 185 .

J. L., Resident Magistrate

of the said District.

J. M., Clerk of the said Court.

69. ⁽²⁾ Either party desiring to compel the attendance of any person to give evidence in any criminal case, may take out of the office of the clerk of the said Court the process of the Court for that purpose; and in like manner, when the party charged with any offence, is unable to pay the cost of such process, the clerk of the said Court shall summon, on his behalf such witnesses as he shall desire to have summoned, and shall satisfy the said clerk to be material and necessary for his defence; and the said process shall be, as near as may be, in one or other of the forms following:

¹ See §§ 2 and 8, Ord. 8, 1852 (p. 475), also Rules 10 and 84.

² See also § 8, Ord. 8, 1852, and § 2, Ord. 59 (p. 53).

To J. P., Messenger of the Court.

You are hereby required, in Her Majesty's name, to summon A. B., of &c., C. D., of &c., and E. F., of &c. (describing them particularly), that they, and each of them, appear personally before this Court at , on the day of next, at o'clock in the forenoon, to testify and declare all they, and each of them, know concerning a certain charge preferred by the public prosecutor against J. A., of (describing particularly the person charged). Serve on each of them, the said A. B., &c., a copy of this summons, and return to this Court, on that day, what you have done hereon.

Given under my hand, at Graham's Town,
the day of 185 .

J. L., Resident Magistrate
of the said District.

L. M., Clerk of the said Court.

Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of .
To J. P., Messenger of the said Court.

You are hereby required and directed to summon A. B., of &c., C. D., of &c., and E. F., of &c. (describing them particularly), that they, and each of them, appear personally before this Court at , on the day of next, at o'clock in the forenoon, to testify and declare all they, and each of them, know concerning a certain complaint preferred by G. H., of &c., against J. A., of &c.; and serve on each of them, the said A. B., &c., a copy of this summons, and return to this Court, on that day, what you have done hereon.

Given under my hand at Graham's Town,
the day of , 185 .

J. L., Resident Magistrate
of the said District.

L. M., Clerk of the said Court.

70. The process of any such Court for summoning any person, whether as a party or a witness, to appear before that Court, when holden at any place, other than the ordinary and stated place for the holding of the same, may be issued by any Justice of the Peace, resident near the place at which such Court is intended to be holden, and who shall, by any proclamation of the Governor, be nominated and appointed to issue the said process ⁽¹⁾; and such process shall in substance correspond with the forms prescribed for process issued and delivered by the clerk of the Court, and shall state the place where the said Court is intended to be holden, and shall be directed to, and be executed by, such person as such Justice of the Peace shall nominate and appoint, and such person so nominated and appointed shall have and possess, in regard to the execution and return of such process, the like powers and authorities, and be entitled to the like fees, as the messenger of the said Court would have possessed or been entitled to, had the same been directed to and executed and returned by him, and such process shall at the foot be signed thus: "J. L., Justice of the Peace, duly authorised," and the same need not be signed by either the Resident Magistrate or the clerk of the Court.

No. 20—1856.

71. All such process as in the last preceding section mentioned, shall have the like force and effect, in all respects, as if the same had been directed to the officer appointed to execute, ordinarily, the criminal process of the said Court, and had been under the hand of the Resident Magistrate of the district, and signed, issued, and delivered by the clerk of the said Court: Provided always that nothing in this rule contained shall be construed so as to prevent the issue and delivery in common form by such clerk, of any process for requiring the appearance of any person before the said Court, at any place where such Court shall be appointed to be held.

72. No person shall be summoned to appear before any such Court, as aforesaid, at any place, other than the ordinary and stated place for the holding of the said Court, to answer any charge, unless such person shall reside nearer to such other place than to the ordinary and stated place aforesaid; and any summons issued in contravention of the provisions of this rule shall be null and void.

73. If upon the day appointed for the appearance of any party to answer to any charge, he shall neglect to appear, and the Court shall be satisfied, upon the return of the messenger, or other person (as the case may be), that he was duly summoned, then the Resident Magistrate shall (on the request of the prosecutor) ⁽¹⁾ issue his warrant for the apprehension of the said party, and shall also, if he think fit, impose on the said party for his default, a fine not exceeding five pounds sterling. ⁽²⁾

74. If the prosecutor do not appear on the Court day appointed for appearance, the charge or complaint shall be dismissed ⁽³⁾: and where the prosecutor, being a private party, does not appear, or appearing, the Court, upon hearing the charge or complaint, shall pronounce the same unfounded and vexatious, the Resident Magistrate shall award to the defendant, on his request, such costs as the said Magistrate may think fit. And in case of any such dismissal as aforesaid, the accused party shall not be again liable to prosecution on the same charge, save and except only that where the prosecutor was a private person no dismissal upon account of his non-appearance shall prevent the public prosecutor from afterwards, should he see fit, taking up the case.

75. In case of the non-attendance of any person, duly summoned to give evidence, and not having any lawful excuse allowed by the Court, the Resident Magistrate shall impose upon him the same fine as is provided for such default in civil cases before the said Court. ⁽⁴⁾

76. Where any person shall, upon any Court day, appear before the said Court to prefer any complaint against another, who shall also appear thereto, and the said parties shall both be desirous of then proceeding therein, the Court shall, after the other business of the day has been concluded, cause the said complaint to be recorded; and shall

¹ See § 4, Ord. 8, 1852 (p. 475).

² For procedure in case of non-payment of fine, see Ord. 6, 1839 (p. 245).

³ But see § 19, Ord. 40 (p. 39), and § 5, Ord. 8, 1852.

⁴ See Rule 18.

forthwith hear and determine the same, or adjourn the hearing thereof to some following day, if the same be necessary,—as the Resident Magistrate shall see fit.

77. On the day of hearing, the Magistrate shall inquire into the said charge or complaint, by causing the clerk of the Court to read over the statement of the prosecutor, ⁽¹⁾ and by hearing such witnesses as he may produce in support of the charge; and, in like manner he shall hear any statement made by the defendant relevant thereto, and his witnesses, if any, in support thereof.

78. The Resident Magistrate shall hear and summarily decide upon each case, and his judgment and sentence shall be pronounced in open Court, and shall be recorded by the clerk in the proper column of the Criminal Record Book.

79. If the sentence of the said Court be for any higher degree of punishment than such as is prescribed by the Act for erecting and establishing the said Court, the said clerk shall also note in the last column of the said Criminal Record Book the particular law authorising the said punishment, and giving jurisdiction to the said Court. ⁽²⁾

80. All persons examined, or giving evidence in the said Court in criminal cases, shall be examined and give evidence in the same ⁽³⁾ manner and form as is provided in civil cases before the said Court.

81. Any person acquitted upon any charge or complaint, or where the same shall be dismissed for want of prosecution thereof, shall forthwith be discharged out of custody. And any person who shall once have been called upon to plead to any charge, and who shall have pleaded not guilty thereto, shall be entitled to demand that he be either acquitted or found guilty. But nothing herein contained shall apply to any such case as is in the 28th section of Ordinance No. 40, or in the seventh and eighth sections of the Ordinance No. 73, mentioned: Provided, however, that the Court may, after a case has been partially heard, adjourn the further hearing thereof until some future time, in case it should be made to appear, by either the prosecutor or the party accused, that some witness or witnesses, material to the case, and who, without neglect or default of the party applying for the adjournment, are not present, will probably be present in case an adjournment be granted.

82. All persons sentenced by the Court of the Resident Magistrate in any district to undergo the punishment of imprisonment, shall be committed to the gaol of the said district, for the purposes aforesaid, by warrant under the hand of the said Resident Magistrate in the form following, that is to say,—

Court of the Resident Magistrate, District of
To the Gaoler or Keeper of Her Majesty's Gaol for the District of

Whereas the undermentioned prisoners were this day respectively and duly convicted before me of the several offences undermentioned, and were for the said offences sentenced by me to undergo the several punishments respectively affixed to their names; this is,

² § 42.

³ See Rules 20 and 21.

No. 20—1856.

therefore, to require you, in Her Majesty's name, to receive the said several prisoners into your custody, and there safely keep them, until they shall have undergone the said punishment or shall be otherwise lawfully discharged therefrom.

Prisoners' Names.	Sentence.	Of what offence convicted.
J. T.	One month's imprisonment, with hard labour.	Theft.
C. D.	Fined twenty shillings, and to be imprisoned until fine is paid.	Assault.
E. F.	To be imprisoned one week, and to receive private whipping of 24 lashes.	Theft.
Given under my hand, at this day of , 185 .
Witness, J. L., Resident Magistrate of the said District.

L. M., Clerk of the said Court.

83. ⁽¹⁾ In all cases of crimes or offences prosecuted in the said Court, where by law there is, or shall be, an appeal from the judgment or sentence thereof to any superior Court, the clerk of the Court shall make note of any such appeal, and shall certify to the said superior Court the said proceedings in such cases, in like manner as is provided for certifying the proceedings in appeal from the judgment or sentence of the said Court in civil cases.

84. ⁽²⁾ The service of all summonses in criminal cases in the said Court shall be made by the messenger of the said Court, or his lawful deputy, in the same manner as is provided to be done in civil cases before the said Court.

SCHEDULE C.

FORMS OF PLAINTS.

March 1, 185

In case of goods sold.—A. B., of (Bathurst, of this district), farmer, complains of C. D., of the same place, baker (or if as executor, &c., then "A. B., as executor of E. F. complains of C. D."), that the said C. D. is indebted to him (as executor, E. F.) in the sum of five pounds sterling, for corn (or hay, or other things, briefly describing it) sold and delivered by the said A. B. to the said C. D. (or by E. F. in his lifetime), in or about the month of February last; which sum the said C. D. refuses to pay, and the said A. B. prays that he may be adjudged to pay the same.

In case of demand for rent.—For three months' rent, due from the said C. D. to the said A. B., on or about the 1st of February last, in respect of the occupation by the said C. D., of a house and garden of the said A. B. (as the case may be), situate at Bathurst; which sum, &c.

For lodging.—For meat, drink, washing, lodging, and other things found and provided by the said A. B. for the said C. D., between the months of December and February last; which sum, &c.

² See Rules 10, 12 and 18.

For hire of horses.—For the hire of a horse (or as the case may be) and cart of the said A. B., hired and used by the said C. D., for three weeks, in or about the month of February last; which sum, &c.

For agistment.—For the agistment, depasturing, and keeping fifty oxen and one hundred sheep, by the said A. B., for the said C. D., between the months of December and February last.

For work and labour.—For the work and labour of the said A. B., performed for the said C. D., at his request, on or about, &c.

For same by servants.—For the work and labour of the servants of and belonging to the said A. B., performed for the said C. D., at his request.

For same by servants, horses, and carriages.—For the work and labour of the said A. B., by himself (or his servants, or horses, carts and carriages, as the case may be), performed by the said A. B. (or his servants, &c.), for the said C. D., at his request: and for timber, nails, &c. (as the case may be), provided by the said A. B. for the said C. D., and used in such work and labour.

For wages.—For wages due and payable from the said C. D. to the said A. B., for his service performed as the servant of the said C. D., between the months of December and February last.

For money lent.—For money lent by the said A. B. to the said C. D. in or about the month of February last.

On note or bill of exchange.—For principal and interest due to the said A. B., on a promissory note drawn by the said C. D., payable to one E. F., or order, and by him endorsed to the said A. B. (or on a bill of exchange, drawn by one E. F., and accepted by the said C. D., payable to the said A. B.)

On a bond.—For principal and interest due on a bond bearing date the day of , made and entered into by the said C. D., for the payment of , and interest, on the day of last.

For money due on an agreement.—For principal and interest upon and by virtue of a certain agreement, bearing date, &c. (date of agreement), and made between, &c., whereby the said C. D. agreed to pay to the said A. B. the sum of £ , together with lawful interest on the same, on the day of now past.

On an award.—For money due to the said A. B., upon and by virtue of a certain award made by E. F., upon a submission by the said A. B., and the said C. D. to the arbitration of the said E. F., concerning certain matters in difference between them; and upon which reference the said E. F. awarded and ordered that the said C. D. should pay the sum of £ to the said A. B. on a certain day, now past.

For detention of property.—A. B., of , farmer, complains that C. D., of the same place, farmer, hath possessed himself of a cow (or wagon or horse, or other thing detained), of the value of £ , or thereabouts, which he unjustly detains from the said A. B.; and the said A. B. prays he may be adjudged to restore to him the said cow, &c., or pay him the value of the same.

For detention of property deposited.—That the said A. B., in or about the month of last, deposited and left several articles of household furniture and wearing apparel, the property of the said A. B., of the value of £ , or thereabouts, with the said C. D., to be safely kept for the said A. B., until he should have occasion for them; and the said A. B. saith that he has demanded the said household furniture,

No. 20—1866.

&c. (or caused the same to be demanded for him), but the said C. D. refuses to deliver up, and unjustly detains the same from him; and the said A. B. prays the said C. D. may be adjudged to restore to him the said household furniture, &c., or pay him the value of the same.

For damage sustained by improper driving.—That, on or about the day of last, the said A. B. (or the servant of the said A. B.), was driving his cart, &c., on the public road between and , and the said C. D. (or the servant of the said C. D.) was also on the said road with a certain carriage, &c., under his care and direction; and the said C. D. (or the servant of the said C. D.) so improperly drove and directed his carriage and horses that thereby his carriage was forced and driven with great violence against the cart of the said A. B., and broke to pieces one of the wheels thereof; and the said A. B. was thereby damaged to the amount of £ , and the said C. D. refuses to make amends for the same; and the said A. B. prays he may be adjudged to pay the amount of the said damage.

For wrongfully impounding cattle.—That the said C. D., on or about the day of last, wrongfully impounded, or caused to be impounded, five oxen of the said A. B., and kept the same impounded, for five days, to the damage of the said A. B., of forty shillings; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For injury done by obstructing a stream of water, the right to the stream not being disputed.—That the said C. D., on or about, &c., wrongfully obstructed a certain stream of water, which of right ought to run through the land of the said A. B., situate at Bathurst, by making dams in the same (or digging trenches, laying timber, &c., in the said stream), above the land of the said plaintiff; and the said A. B., was thereby deprived of the use of the said stream for the space of hours (or days), and hath sustained damage to the amount of £ ; and the said A. B. prays the said C. D. may be adjudged to pay the same.

For wrongfully breaking down a dam in a stream of water.—That the said A. B., having by right made a certain dam in a stream of water running near or through the land of the said A. B., situate at &c., whereby the said A. B. might lawfully pen up and detain the water of the said stream for hours in each day, so that the same might run upon the land or premises of the said A. B.; yet the said C. D., whilst the water was lawfully stopped by the said A. B., wrongfully broke down the said dam, to the damage of the said A. B. of £ ; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For wrongfully keeping back the water of a stream.—That the said C. D. wrongfully detained and dammed up the water of a certain stream running through or near the land (or premises) respectively of the said A. B. and C. D., situate at, &c., and which, after passing through the land (or premises) of the said C. D. ought to have run into the land (or premises) of the said A. B., and the said A. B. was thereby deprived of the use of the said stream for hours (or days), and hath sustained damage to the amount of £ ; and that the said A. B. prays, &c.

For injury to land by cattle.—That the said A. B. hath a piece of land adjoining to the land of the said C. D., the hedge (fence or ditch) between which belongs to the said C. D., and ought to be repaired by him; yet, through the want of repair of the said hedge, &c., the cattle of the said C. D., on or about the day of last, broke into the land of the said A. B., and eat up, trampled down, and destroyed the corn of the said A. B., there growing, whereby the said A. B. was damaged to the amount of five pounds sterling; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For injury sustained by obstructing a right of watercourse, the right itself not being disputed.—That the said A. B. hath a right of watercourse through the land (or premises) of the said C. D., but the said C. D. on the day of , obstructed him in the exercise of his right, by stopping up the said watercourse, and the house (or premises) of the said A. B. were thereby flooded with water, to the damage to the said A. B. of £ ; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For obstructing a right of watercourse.—That the said A. B. hath the right of discharging dirty water, &c., through a gutter which runs through the land (or premises) of the said C. D., but the said C. D., on or about, &c., obstructed him from using the said right, by stopping up the said gutter, to the damage, &c.; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For injury sustained by obstructing a right of road, the right itself not being disputed.—Hath a right of way to pass and repass on foot (or with horses or other beast, or with carts and carriages) from and towards the land (or premises) of the said A. B., over the land of the said C. D., to and from the village of Bathurst; yet the said C. D. obstructs and hinders him in the said right; and especially on the day of prevented him from using the same by digging a ditch across the said way, &c., to damage, &c.; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For obstructing a right of road to fetch water.—Hath a right to use a certain well or fountain of water, on the land (or premises) of the said C. D. (as before.)

Leading water through the land of another.—Hath the right of a stream of water through the land of C. D. to his own; yet, &c.

Right of way to fetch water.—Hath the right to pass over the land of C. D., to fetch water from a fountain, reservoir, &c., situate upon the land of E. F.

For destroying fences, &c., and of injuries to land or cattle.—That the said C. D., on or about the day of , broke down and destroyed a fence of the said A. B., at Bathurst, in the district of Albany, whereby the said A. B. hath sustained damage to the amount of £ ; &c., (or broke down the door of the house of the said A. B.; and disturbed him in his peaceable possession thereof; or cut down two trees of the said A. B., of the value of £ ; or wrongfully trampled down and destroyed the corn of the said A. B.; or drove about or injured the sheep or cattle; or killed or wounded a dog, horse, &c., of the said A. B., of the value of £); and the said A. B. prays, &c.

For an assault or injury to the person, wife, &c.—That the said C. D., on &c., assaulted and ill-treated the said A. B. (or the wife or child, or servant of the said A. B.), to the damage of the said A. B. of £ ; and the said A. B. prays, &c.

Namaqualand to be a separate fiscal division.

2. From and after the commencement and taking effect of this Act, the district of Namaqualand according to its existing limits, shall become and be a division for fiscal purposes, as well as a district, and shall cease, for fiscal purposes, or any purpose other than that in the next succeeding section mentioned, to belong to the divisions of Clanwilliam and Victoria respectively; and from and after the date aforesaid the Divisional Council, for the time being, of the now existing division of Clanwilliam shall stand dissolved, and the provisions of the Act No. 5, 1855, entitled "An Act for creating Divisional Councils in this Colony," shall apply to the Fiscal Divisions of Clanwilliam and Namaqualand respectively, as then limited and bounded, precisely as if no Divisional Council in the existing division of Clanwilliam had ever been elected: Provided also, that the registered voters for the Electoral Division of Clanwilliam for the time being, resident within the Fiscal Division of Namaqualand, and none other, shall be entitled to vote at any election of members of the Divisional Council for the division of Namaqualand.

Divisional Council of Clanwilliam dissolved.

Separate council for Namaqualand and Clanwilliam.

Registered voters resident in Namaqualand to vote for its divisional council.

3. Notwithstanding the erection of the said district into a division, as aforesaid, the said district and division of Namaqualand⁽¹⁾ shall for electoral purposes, form part of the Electoral Division of Clanwilliam, precisely as if the said division of Namaqualand had formed part of the division of Clanwilliam at the time when the Ordinance for constituting a Parliament commenced and took effect.

For electoral purposes, Namaqualand to form part of Clanwilliam.

Act, when to commence.

AN ACT

For Amending the Act No. 20, 1856, entitled "An Act for Amending and Consolidating the Laws relative to the Courts of Resident Magistrates." (1)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Act No. 20, 1856, entitled "An Act for Amending and Consolidating the Laws relative to the Courts of Resident Magistrates," by authorising Courts of Resident Magistrates, held elsewhere than at the stated and ordinary place for holding such Courts, to try civil cases:

And whereas, also, it is expedient to correct a manifest error in the forty-seventh section of the said Act, arising from the accidental insertion of the word "not," where the said word was not meant to be inserted, whereby the construction of the said section might be rendered doubtful and obscure: And whereas, also, it is expedient to make certain other amendments in the said Act, and in the rules, orders, or regulations contained in the schedule annexed thereto, marked B: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

No. 9—1857.

1. So much of the Act aforesaid, No. 20, 1856, and of any of the rules, orders, or regulations of Court contained in the schedule to the said Act, marked B, as shall be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, any of the provisions of this Act, is hereby repealed.

Repugnant parts of Act No. 20, 1856, repealed.

2. In the forty-seventh section of the said Act, the word "not," where it occurs in the third line of the said Act, as printed upon vellum, between the words "for any period" and the words "exceeding one month," is hereby struck out and expunged; and all Magistrates and other persons who have hitherto acted upon, or in reference to, the said section as if it had been originally printed and passed as now amended, are hereby indemnified and held harmless for having so done.

Forty-seventh section of Act No. 20, 1856, corrected.

3. The Courts of Resident Magistrate, held elsewhere than at the places fixed and appointed by proclamation of the Governor as the stated and ordinary places for holding such Courts, shall henceforth have and exercise the same jurisdiction in civil cases as that possessed by the said Courts, when held at the stated and ordinary places so fixed and appointed as aforesaid.

Periodical courts to have civil jurisdiction.

4. Rule No. 2, as set forth in the schedule aforesaid, marked B, is hereby repealed, and the rule No. 2, in the schedule to this Act, marked A, is hereby substituted in its place and stead.

Rule 2 in schedule B to Act No. 20, 1856, repealed.

5. In the rules numbered twenty-nine and thirty, in the said schedule set forth, the words "four months," are hereby struck out and expunged, and the words "one month" substituted in their room and stead.

Rules 29 and 30 altered.

6. The additional rules, orders, and regulations contained in the schedule to this Act, marked B, are hereby established and enacted.

Additional rules in Schedule B to this Act established.

7. [Repealed by Act 16, 1882.]

8. The messenger of the Magistrate's Court, serving or executing any summons, warrant, or order, mentioned in the schedule, marked D, to the Act aforesaid, No. 20, 1856, shall be entitled in addition to the fees mentioned in the said schedule as fees to be taken by such messenger, to his reasonable horse-hire, (1) to be fixed by the Resident Magistrate: Provided that no messenger shall be entitled to any horse-hire in any case in which the place for the service of the summons, or the execution of the warrant or order, shall be within three miles of the place of holding the Court: And provided that no messenger shall be allowed horse-hire at a rate exceeding the rate, for the time being, which would be lawfully chargeable by a Deputy Sheriff, executing, in the same district, the process of the Supreme or of any Circuit Court.

Messenger of the court to be entitled to horse-hire.

SCHEDULE A.

Magistrate to hold courts at places and on days appointed by Governor.

Rule 2. The Resident Magistrate shall hold a Court at such place or places as the Governor shall, by proclamation, have appointed, and upon such days as shall, in regard to each Resident Magistrate, have been announced by Government notice, published in the Government Gazette. The places for the holding of the Court, as well as the days for the holding of the same, may be from time to time increased, diminished, or otherwise changed, by proclamation or Government notice, according as the change shall relate to the place or places, or to the days, of holding such Court; and every such Court when holden at more places than one within any district, shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, civil and criminal, at every place at which it shall be held. But in all districts in which the Court of Resident Magistrate is appointed to be held at more places than one, some one place shall, by proclamation, be, in case it shall not have already been, announced as the stated and ordinary place for the holding of such Court.

Such courts to exercise the same jurisdiction in all places.

Stated and ordinary places for holding court to be appointed for each magistracy.

SCHEDULE B.

ADDITIONAL RULES, ORDERS, and REGULATIONS, respecting the manner and form of proceeding in civil and criminal cases before the Courts of Resident Magistrates, respectively, of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope.

IN CIVIL CASES.

Process of periodical court in civil cases may be issued by any person appointed thereto by Government notice.

Process to be in due form, and may be executed by any person appointed for that purpose.

1. The process of the Court of Resident Magistrate for summoning any person, whether as a party or a witness, in any Periodical Court, may be issued by any person, resident at or near the place where such Court is intended to be holden, who shall be nominated and appointed, by any Government notice in the Government Gazette, to issue the said process: And such process shall, in substance, correspond with the forms prescribed by the rules of Court for process issued and delivered by the clerk of the Court, and shall state the place where the said Periodical Court is intended to be holden, and shall be directed to and be executed and returned by any such person as the Resident Magistrate shall from time to time, by any writing under his hand, nominate and appoint. And any such person so nominated and appointed shall have and possess the like powers and authorities, and be entitled to the like fees, as the messenger of the said Court would have been possessed of, or been entitled to, had the same process been directed to and executed and returned by him: and such process shall at the foot be signed thus, "A. B., appointed by Government notice of the _____, 185—, to issue the process of the Periodical Court at _____.”

No. 9—1857.

2. All such process as in the last preceding section mentioned shall have the like force and effect, in all respects, as if the same had been directed to the officer appointed to execute, ordinarily, the civil process of the said Court, and had been signed, issued, and delivered by the clerk of the said Court: Provided, always, that nothing in this rule contained shall be construed so as to prevent the issue and delivery, in common form, by such clerk, of any process for requiring the appearance of any person before the said Court, at any place where such Court shall be appointed to be held: Provided, also, that the clerk of the Court may, at the stated and ordinary place for holding the Court of Resident Magistrate, sign and issue process for any Periodical Court within the district, and may direct, and may deliver or transmit, such process to the person nominated and appointed as aforesaid, by the Resident Magistrate, to execute the process of such Periodical Court: who shall execute the same, and return the same, after execution, to the person authorised by Government notice as aforesaid to issue the process of such Periodical Court.

Process so issued, as aforesaid, to be of the same force as that issued by clerk of the court.

Clerk of court may issue process for periodical court.

Such process, how to be executed.

3. No person shall, without his own consent, be summoned, as the defendant in any civil action or proceeding, to appear before any Periodical Court, unless such person shall reside nearer to the place for holding such Periodical Court than to the ordinary and stated place for holding the Court of Resident Magistrate; and any summons issued in contravention of the provisions of this rule shall, upon the application of the defendant, be dismissed with costs.

Defendant residing nearer to district than to periodical court not to be sued before the latter without his consent.

Summons in contravention of this rule to be dismissed with costs.

4. The person so appointed as aforesaid to issue the process for any Periodical Court, shall be furnished with a book, corresponding to the Civil Record Book, mentioned in the sixth rule of the Courts of Resident Magistrates, which book shall be called “Civil Record Book of the Periodical Court at _____,” and in which book such person as aforesaid shall make entries similar to the entries proper to be made in the Civil Record Book, kept by the clerk of the Court, and the Resident Magistrate, at every sitting of any Periodical Court, after the first sitting thereof, shall sign the said book, in attestation of its correctness.

Officer issuing process of periodical court to keep civil record book.

5. The several duties which are by the rules, orders, and regulations of the Courts of Resident Magistrates appointed to be performed by the clerk of the Court, shall be performed, in regard to any Periodical Court, by the person appointed as aforesaid to issue the process of such Periodical Court, who shall be entitled to demand, and shall receive and account for, the same fees which the clerk of the said Court would be by law entitled to demand and receive: Provided, however, that the Resident Magistrate himself, or the clerk of the Court of Resident Magistrate of the district, if present, shall be entitled to perform, in any Periodical Court, such of the duties aforesaid as such Magistrate or clerk may see fit to undertake.

To act also as clerk of the court and receive fees.

Magistrate, or clerk of district court, if present, may act.

6. The process for the execution of any sentence or judgment, pronounced in any civil case determined in any Periodical Court, shall be issued by the person appointed as aforesaid to issue the process of such Periodical Court, and shall be directed to, and be executed and returned by, the messenger of the Resident Magistrate's Court of the district, or by such other person as the Resident Magistrate shall from time to time, by any writing under his hand, nominate and appoint;

Judgment in civil cases to be issued by the officer issuing process, and to be executed by the messenger of the district court or other person there-to appointed.

No. 9—1857.

Messenger of district court not bound to issue process of periodical court, but if so employed, not to charge fees as in ordinary court.

Appeal from periodical court to be noted, within ten days, to the officer issuing process.

How such appeal to be prosecuted.

Costs in periodical court to be taxed by officer issuing process, under control of the magistrate.

In an appeal from periodical court, magistrate, and not clerk, to transmit proceedings.

Meaning of term "periodical court."

Process in criminal cases to be issued by any person appointed thereto by Government notice.

Officer issuing process may conduct criminal prosecution.

and every such last mentioned person shall have and possess the same powers and authorities, and be burthened with the same duties, and be entitled to the like fees, as if such person were himself the messenger aforesaid: Provided that the said messenger shall not be bound to execute the process of any Periodical Court, but that, should any such process be executed by him, his fees and charges for executing the same shall be calculated and regulated, precisely as if the place of holding such Periodical Court had been the stated and ordinary place for holding the Court of Resident Magistrate for the district, and such messenger shall not be entitled to claim fees or charges as if the said process had been issued to him from or out of the stated and ordinary Court. And a warrant for commitment in civil imprisonment, or for the delivery up of possession of premises, shall be deemed to be process of execution within the meaning of this rule.

7. Any party intending to appeal against any judgment or sentence of any Periodical Court shall make known his intention so to do to the person aforesaid appointed to issue the process of such Court at any time within ten days next after the day on which such judgment or sentence shall have been pronounced; and thereupon the thirty-third, thirty-fourth, and thirty-fifth rules of the Courts of Resident Magistrates shall apply to such appeal, precisely as if the said sentence or judgment had been pronounced by the Court of Resident Magistrate at the stated and ordinary place for holding the said Court, and as if the person so appointed to issue process were the clerk of the Court.

8. The taxation of costs and expenses, as in the thirty-sixth rule of the Courts of Resident Magistrates directed, shall be made in all Periodical Courts by the person appointed to issue the process of such Court, but under the immediate supervision and control of the Resident Magistrate who shall sign, or place his initials to, the bill of costs when taxed, in token that he has examined and approved of the charges therein contained.

9. As often as the judgment or sentence of any Periodical Court shall be appealed from, the Resident Magistrate, and not the clerk of the Court, shall transmit the proceedings in the fifty-ninth rule of the Courts of Resident Magistrates mentioned, and shall also transmit a certificate under the hand of such Magistrate, which certificate shall be, in substance, the same as the certificate in the said rule set forth.

10. In construing these rules, the words "Periodical Court" shall mean a Court of Resident Magistrate held elsewhere, within any district, than at the place appointed as the stated and ordinary place for the holding of such Court.

IN CRIMINAL CASES.

11. The process mentioned in the seventieth rule of the Courts of Resident Magistrates, may be issued by any person, whether a Justice of the Peace or not, who shall be appointed by any Government notice in the Government Gazette to issue the said process, and such person, whether a Justice of the Peace or not, may be appointed by such notice, and a proclamation shall not be necessary.

12. The person by whom the criminal process for any Periodical Court shall be issued, shall be entitled, subject to the discretion of the Resident Magistrate, to assist in conducting the prosecution in any criminal case which shall be pending therein.

AN ACT

For Constituting certain Districts of this Colony, Divisions. (1)

WHEREAS it is expedient that the several districts of this Colony should (unless where local circumstances render such a change unnecessary) be constituted divisions, in order that the inhabitants may have the advantage of transacting their fiscal business at the same place to which they resort for the administration of justice, instead of being compelled, as at present, to transact such business at another, and, in general, far more distant place: And whereas, whilst it is expedient to constitute the said districts, divisions for all fiscal purposes, as well as for the purpose of enabling every such division to have and possess its own Divisional Council, it is at the same time expedient that the several Electoral Divisions of the Colony, as described in the Constitution Ordinance, should not be altered or affected by this Act: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Preamble.

1. So much of the Ordinance for constituting a Parliament in this Colony, and commonly called the "Constitution Ordinance," as is repugnant to, or inconsistent with this Act, is hereby repealed.

Repugnant parts of the Constitution Ordinance repealed.

2. Each of the several districts named in the Schedule to this Act, shall, from and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, become and be a division, for fiscal purposes, as well as a district, and shall cease, for fiscal purposes, or for any purpose other than the election of members of Parliament, to belong to any division to which the said district, or any part of the said district, belonged, down to, and next before, the day and year aforesaid.

Certain districts to be fiscal divisions.

AN ACT

For Removing all Doubts regarding the Validity of the Marriages of certain Military Settlers.

Preamble.

WHEREAS certain of the men belonging to the British-German Legion, and about to emigrate to South Africa as military settlers, were married in England upon the eve of embarkation, whilst certain other members of the same force were married as soon as they had put out to sea: And whereas the said marriages were, all of them, entered into in good faith, and solemnized by chaplains of the said force, or by other ministers of religion; and it is just and expedient, for the sake of the said married people and their issue, to prevent any doubts or questions being raised, at any future time, in regard to the validity of such marriages, grounded upon the want, or supposed want, of certain formalities, with which, by reason of haste and other circumstances, it was impracticable to comply: And whereas it has been found impracticable to obtain, for the purpose of being embodied in this Act, a correct list of the marriages aforesaid: And whereas it is expedient that the Governor of this Colony should be empowered, by any proclamation or proclamations, to be by him published in the Government Gazette, to proclaim the names of the married people whose marriages shall, by this Act, be declared valid: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

1. It shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid, as soon as he shall have obtained a correct and authentic list of the marriages described in the preamble of this Act, to publish the same by proclamation or proclamations, in the Government Gazette, and the marriage of each husband and wife, whose names shall be set forth in any such proclamation, or in any schedule to any such proclamation, ⁽¹⁾ as married people, married to each other, is hereby declared to have been, and to be, a legal, valid, and effectual marriage, to all intents and purposes, precisely as if such names had been inserted in this Act, and such marriage had been by this Act declared valid: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed so as to render valid any marriage which would, by reason of the consanguinity or affinity of the parties to such marriage, or a former and still subsisting marriage of either of them, be void, ab initio, by the law of England, notwithstanding that such marriage had been solemnized in manner and form, in every respect, as by the law of England prescribed and required.

AN ACT

To Regulate, till the expiration of the Year 1858, the Dealing in Gunpowder, Firearms, and Lead. ⁽²⁾

WHEREAS the Act No. 19, 1856, entitled “An Act to regulate, till the expiration of the year 1857, the dealing in Gunpowder, Firearms, and Lead,” is framed so as to expire at the end of this present year, 1857; and whereas it is expedient that the provisions of the said Act, and of the certain Ordinance therein mentioned, should, with the amendment hereinafter

Preamble.

¹ See Proclamations in Gazette 31st July, 1857, and 12th February, 1858.

No. 14—1857.

specified, be continued down to the expiration of the year 1858; Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Previous laws, excepting the repugnant portions thereof, to continue until end of 1858.

1. The Ordinance No. 2, 1853, and the Act No. 19, 1856, and every provision of the said Ordinance and Act respectively, shall, except as in the next succeeding sections is excepted, continue and be in force till the expiration of the year 1858, anything in the said Ordinance or Act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Restrictions on sale of lead confined to certain divisions.

2. From and after the taking effect of this Act, so much of the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 2, 1853, and so much of any former Law or Ordinance as relate to lead, and place the dealing in that article under the same or similar restrictions with those imposed upon the dealing in gunpowder or firearms, are hereby restricted to the following divisions of this Colony, namely,—Albany, Fort Beaufort, Port Elizabeth, Uitenhage, Somerset, Graaff-Reinet, Colesberg, Cradock, Albert, Victoria, and Queen's Town, and shall not, except as hereinafter excepted, extend to any other divisions ⁽¹⁾; Provided, always, that in regard to all lead shipped or placed on board any ship, vessel, or boat, being in or near any port or place within this Colony, the said Act No. 2, 1853, shall remain, in all parts of this Colony, in full force and effect.

Except when shipped.

Resident magistrate or justice of the peace may permit issues of 100 lbs. of gunpowder from private magazines.

3. It shall be lawful for any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, entitled to grant any such permission as is in the eighth section of the Ordinance aforesaid mentioned, should such Magistrate or Justice, in the exercise of his discretion, think it proper so to do, to grant to any person licensed to deal in gunpowder, such a permission as is in the eighth section aforesaid mentioned, to obtain, at one and the same time, any quantity of gunpowder not exceeding one hundred pounds weight thereof, and the form of permission set forth in schedule three of the said Ordinance shall be altered accordingly.

Form of permission.

Licensed dealers receiving such permission, may have 100 lbs. of gunpowder.

4. It shall be lawful for such licensed dealer, receiving and acting upon such permission as aforesaid, to store at his warehouse or shop any quantity of gunpowder not exceeding one hundred pounds weight thereof, anything in the fifteenth section of the said Ordinance, and in the twentieth section of Ordinance No. 7, 1834, to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided that every licensed dealer shall be bound to satisfy the Resident Magistrate of his district, or some Justice of the Peace named by such Magistrate, that the premises in which such dealer proposes to store or keep any such gunpowder are fit and proper for the purpose, and not dangerous to the public safety.

Provided it be safely stored.

Licensed dealer having a permission, may receive a further one, to supply his trade in respect of different qualities of powder.

5. It shall be lawful for any licensed dealer who shall have obtained one permission to obtain, at one and the same time, any Penalties of perjury to apply to false declaration.

6. If any person shall make any wilfully false statement in any such declaration as is in the last preceding section mentioned, such person shall upon conviction, incur the penalties by law provided for the crime of perjury.

Section 8, Ord. No. 2, 1853, to extend to permissions issued under this Act, and to gunpowder so obtained.

7. All and singular the several provisions of the Ordinance aforesaid, which relate to the permissions in the eighth section of the said Ordinance mentioned, and to the gunpowder obtained by virtue of such permissions, and which provisions are not repugnant to the provisions of this Act, shall extend and apply to the permissions authorised by this Act.

Certificate under section 13 of Ordinance No. 2, 1853, not transferable.

8. No person who shall have received from any Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, any such certificate as is in the thirteenth section of the Ordinance aforesaid mentioned, shall deliver such certificate to any other person, with intent that the gunpowder mentioned in such certificate should be obtained for the use of any person other than the person named in such certificate; nor shall any person who shall have received any such certificate deliver the same to, or leave the same, with any licensed dealer, without, at the time of such delivery, or within three days thereafter, removing from the premises of such dealer, the gunpowder mentioned in such certificate. Any person contravening any of the provisions of this section, shall, upon conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding £50, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding six months.

All gunpowder mentioned in such certificate, to be removed within three days.

Penalty for contravention.

9. Every offence against the Ordinance aforesaid, No. 2, 1853, as amended by this Act, committed after the commencement and taking effect of this Act, and before the 31st of December, 1858, shall, in any indictment relative thereto, be charged as a contravention of the said Ordinance No. 2, 1853, as amended by this Act; and it shall not be necessary in any such indictment to recite or refer to any of the other Acts by which the said Ordinance has been from time to time continued.

In indictments, not necessary to quote other laws than Ordinance No. 2, 1853, as amended by this Act.

AN ACT

To Consolidate the Laws relating to Quarantine and Port Regulations. ⁽¹⁾

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the laws relating to the performance of quarantine, and the observance of port regulations, by vessels arriving in the ports of this Colony: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Preamble.

1. The Ordinance No. 65, dated 6th August, 1829, entitled "An Ordinance for establishing certain regulations for the protection of the public health, in cases of arrival of vessels from foreign countries in the ports of this Colony, with malignant diseases on board, of an infectious or contagious nature," and the Ordinance No. 4, of 1844, entitled "An Ordinance relating to merchant vessels arriving in the ports of this Colony," are hereby repealed, excepting so far as the said Ordinances repeal or revoke any former Ordinance or proclamation, or any part thereof.

Ordinance 65, and Ordinance 4, 1844,
repealed.

¹ See Acts 5, 1887; 27, 1893 (p. 3261), §§ 3-7; 7, 1894 (p. 3327), §§ 36, 37; 23, 1897 (3757). The Defence Port of Simon's Town exempt from operation of this Act to a certain extent. Act 25, 1898 (p. 3950).

No. 16—1857.
Interpretation of terms.

2. In the interpretation of this Act, whenever the terms or expressions following shall occur, the same shall be construed respectively in the manner hereinafter directed, that is to say, the term ship and the term vessel shall be construed to mean ship or vessel generally: the term commander or master of any ship or vessel shall be construed to mean the person having or taking the charge or command of such ship; the term seaman shall be construed to mean alike seaman, mariner, sailor, or landsman, being one of the crew of any ship; and the term port captain shall extend to and embrace the deputy port captain or harbour master, or any other person authorised to perform the particular duty, or act in the particular matter referred to, or in question, in the section in which the said term port captain is used; and whenever mention is made of any public officer, the officer mentioned shall be deemed to be such officer for the time being, or the officer acting as such.

QUARANTINE REGULATIONS.

[Sections 3 to 18 inclusive repealed by Act 4 of 1883.]

(1) PORT REGULATIONS.

Ship's papers, &c.,
to be produced.

19. The master of every merchant vessel arriving in a port of this Colony, shall, upon demand, produce and show the ship's register and ship's papers to the Port Captain, or Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, as the case may be, for his inspection; and shall deliver a list of his passengers, with a description of their rank, sex, and occupation, together with a list of any deaths, or removals that may have occurred during the voyage, and shall report in writing if any person or persons should have stowed themselves away, or concealed themselves on board of such vessel without his knowledge or consent; and any master not duly accounting for every individual aforesaid, or falsely accounting for any of them, or refusing to deliver the list when thereunto required as aforesaid, shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of £50.

Penalty.

Public mails, &c.,
to be delivered.

20. (2) The master of every merchant vessel arriving as aforesaid, shall deliver all public mails entrusted to him for delivery in the Colony to the Port Captain, Resident Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, at the time of his vessel being boarded by such officer, under a penalty of £20 for every mail, box, bag, or parcel, which he may neglect or refuse so to deliver; and he shall at the same time deliver, in order that they may be transmitted to the post office, all letters, placed in his charge for delivery in this Colony, whether in packages or loose, with the exception only of letters addressed to owners, freighters, or consignees of the vessel, and of letters addressed to be delivered with goods brought by the vessel to the consignees of such goods; and in case he neglect or refuse so to do, he shall forfeit for every such letter so unlawfully retained a sum not exceeding £2.

21. (1) The respective Port Captains of the Ports of Cape Town, Port Elizabeth, Simon's Town, Port Alfred, East London, and such other ports in this Colony as may from time to time be appointed for that purpose by Proclamation of His Excellency the Governor, to be published in the Government Gazette, shall, upon the arrival of any vessel in the said ports between sunrise and sunset, board her immediately, and, if practicable, previous to her coming to anchor, in order that he may point out to the master of the vessel a proper berth; and in case he should be prevented from so boarding, in consequence of the quarantine regulations, he shall point out a berth for such vessel arriving under such circumstances, and after having pointed out any such berth as aforesaid it shall be lawful for the Port Captain, if it shall appear to him necessary so to do, to order any vessel to shift or change her berth to any other berth to be pointed out, and any master of a vessel disobeying any order of a Port Captain under this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £50.

22. Upon the arrival in any of the ports of this Colony of any of Her Majesty's ships or of any vessel in the employment of Her Majesty, or of any national ship belonging to any foreign state, the Port Captain shall go off on board such ship as speedily as practicable, and offer to the commander thereof every assistance or service in his power; and if he be thereunto requested by the commander, he shall point out a proper berth for such vessel.

23. Upon the Port Captain boarding any such vessel as aforesaid, or going alongside of her, as the case may be, he shall deliver to the commander or master a copy of this Act, and of such port instructions as may be in force in such port.

24. The Port Captains, respectively, shall immediately upon coming on shore, after having boarded or communicated with any vessel arriving in the ports of this Colony, make out and transmit a report of such arrival to the Governor, the Colonial Secretary, and the Collector or Sub-Collector of Customs, in the port of arrival; and further, as regards arrivals in the ports of Cape Town and Simon's Town, to the Senior Officer of Her Majesty's ships and vessels in Simon's Bay; and, as regards arrivals at Port Elizabeth, to the Lieutenant-Governor.

25. The master of every merchant vessel arriving at either of the ports of Cape Town, Simon's Town, or Port Elizabeth, shall within twenty-four hours after anchoring, unless prevented by sickness or stress of weather from coming on shore, give bond at the Port Office, with one approved surety, in the sum of £100,

No. 16—1857.

Penalty.

Vessels arriving at certain ports to be boarded, and have berths assigned to them.

Penalty on vessels changing berths.

Port captain to offer his services to Her Majesty's ships and national vessels of foreign states.

Commander of such vessels to be supplied with a copy of this Act and port instructions.

Port captain to transmit report of arrival to certain civil and naval authorities.

Bond with security to be given by master at Cape Town, Simon's Town, and Port Elizabeth.

for the due fulfilment of the provisions of this Act; and if he omit or refuse to give such bond as is hereby required, he shall forfeit the sum of £100: Provided, always, that if no suit be commenced in respect of the said bond within one calendar month after the departure of the master of the vessel entering into such security, the said bond shall be null and void, so far as regards the surety mentioned therein, but shall remain in full force and effect as against the master.

The like bond at other ports.

26. The master of any vessel arriving at any port or place in this Colony, other than the ports aforesaid, shall, if required thereunto by the Resident Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or other local officer as aforesaid, or by any person duly authorised by him, give like bond at the respective office or residence of said officers, in the like sum, and shall, in case of refusal, be subject to the like forfeiture as is provided in respect of the ports of Cape Town, Simon's Town, and Port Elizabeth respectively.

On entering port, vessel's guns to be unloaded.

27. The master of every merchant vessel entering any of the ports of this Colony shall cause all guns on board to be immediately unloaded, and shall not suffer them to be reloaded until the vessel is clear of the anchorage, under a penalty of £5; and any such master firing any gun or rocket, or burning any blue light, on board of his vessel, while within a port of this Colony, without having previously obtained permission from the Port Captain, except when such vessel may be in actual distress or want of assistance, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20 for every such offence; and any person discharging a musket or other firearm loaded with ball or shot from any vessel or boat within the anchorage, or on the beach, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £2, or in default of payment, to imprisonment for a period not exceeding eight days.

Regulations to be observed when shipping or unshipping gunpowder.

28. The master of every merchant vessel shall, whilst shipping or unshipping any ⁽¹⁾ gunpowder in any port of this Colony, keep a red flag hoisted at the fore, and suspend all other work on board his vessel during the removal of such gunpowder into or out of his vessel, under a penalty of not exceeding £50; and shall, before the magazine of the vessel containing any gunpowder is opened, extinguish all fire and light in the said vessel, under a like penalty of not exceeding £50. And all boats carrying gunpowder to or from any vessel in any port of this Colony shall keep hoisted a red flag, under a like penalty.

No ballast, &c., to be cast into the harbour below high water mark.

29. If any stones, gravel, or ballast, be cast into the water below high water mark, within the bays, rivers, or harbours of this Colony, from any merchant vessel, or from any boat, hired or employed by or on behalf of the owner or master of such vessel, unless with the permission of the Port Captain, Resident Magistrate, or other person duly authorised, as the case may be, then the master of such vessel shall, for every such offence, forfeit a sum of not exceeding £50.

30. [Repealed by § 37 Act No. 7, 1894.]

31. Any master of a merchant vessel shifting or changing the berth of his vessel, after he has come to anchor in the anchorage ground of any port in this Colony, by direction of the Port Captain without obtaining the previous sanction of such Port Captain, excepting in case of emergency, when he shall report his having done so as early as possible to the Port Captain, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10.

32 to 35. [Section 32 to 35 repealed by Act 46 of 1885.]

36. (1) It shall not be lawful for any Port Captain, or for any of the crew of his boat, or for any person whatsoever belonging to his department, to supply, by way of sale or for profit, any anchor or cable, or to keep any boat or launch for the purpose of sending off anchors or cables to vessels, or to employ the boats or crews provided by the Government for that purpose, or to own or use any private boat or launch for the purpose of conveying water or ballast to ships, or for any purpose of trade, profit, or emolument whatever, excepting for the recovery of anchors or cables which may have been parted with, or for the removal of any article or thing whatever which may be deemed necessary for the sole purpose of keeping the anchorage ground clear and free from obstructions, as hereinbefore mentioned: Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to preclude or prevent any Port Captain from procuring, taking, or sending off in the Government or any other boat, any anchor or cable to any vessel in distress, or from rendering any other assistance in such cases, or from being duly and properly remunerated for the same according to law.

37. It shall not be lawful for any Port Captain, or for any of the crew under his authority, or for any other person belonging to his department, to take off in the Government boat any merchant, agent, dealer, or other person connected with the shipping interests, or to recommend, directly or indirectly, to the master of any vessel arriving in the ports of this Colony, or to any passenger, or any other person on board thereof, any merchant, agent, dealer, hotel-keeper, lodginghouse-keeper, tradesman, boatman, or other person whatever, for employment in any capacity, or to be dealt with for the shipping of stores, provisions, or supplies of any kind.

PILOTAGE.

38. It shall not be lawful for any Port Captain to make any charge, or to receive from the master of any vessel any sum of money, as pilotage, or for acting as a pilot.

39. It shall not be lawful for any person to act as, or exercise the employment of a pilot to vessels entering into, or departing

40. Before any person may be so licensed as a pilot, he shall be required to undergo an examination, touching his fitness and qualification to perform the duties of that employment, before two competent persons, to be nominated by the Governor; and if the persons so nominated shall report to the Governor that the person who is a candidate for the pilot's licence has been duly examined by them, and that they are of opinion that he is qualified to receive such licence, the Governor may, if he see fit, grant him a licence to act as, and exercise the employment of, a pilot in such port or ports of this Colony as are named in such licence; and upon the granting of any such licence, the same shall be notified in the Government Gazette: Provided, always, that if at any time afterwards the Governor should see reason to annul or suspend such licence, it shall be lawful for him so to do.
41. It shall be optional with the master to employ a pilot; and it is hereby declared that the Government shall incur no risk or responsibility whatever, in respect of any licensed pilot whom the master shall, at his option, think fit to employ.
42. Although it has been deemed expedient, by this Act, to require that persons acting as pilots to vessels entering into the ports of this Colony shall be licensed, in order the better to provide for the competency and good conduct of such persons, it has not been deemed expedient to establish or fix any rates of pilotage or remuneration to pilots when so employed, but to leave such remuneration for such service to be agreed upon or regulated between the master and pilot themselves; and nothing in this Act contained shall be deemed to have established or fixed any specific rates of pilotage.
43. In consideration of the nature of the services required of a pilot, it shall be lawful for any licensed pilot to proceed to any distance in the offing of any ports of this Colony, and to board any vessel, if the master think fit to receive him or to accept his services, notwithstanding that the vessel may not have been previously boarded by a Port Captain or Health Officer, as hereinbefore provided. But in every such case, neither the pilot nor any of his crew shall communicate with persons on or from the shore, or with any other vessel lying at anchor, until the vessel boarded by such pilot has received pratique; nor shall the pilot take any person with him in his boat, excepting the regular and usual crew of and belonging to his boat, when boarding a vessel before the Port Captain or his crew, under a penalty of £10, in respect of each person taken off contrary to the provisions of this section; nor

To Incorporate the South African Museum.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the specimens of natural history and other public property deposited in the South African Museum have now become of considerable value: And whereas it is deemed expedient for public convenience, and the promotion of literature and science, that the books, coins, specimens of natural history, and other objects which this Colony now possesses, or may hereafter acquire by gift, bequest, purchase, or exchange, should be deposited in the custody of trustworthy persons: And whereas His Excellency the Governor has already appointed a committee for the management and guardianship of the said museum, and of the collections therein, and it is now deemed necessary that the members of the said committee should be incorporated as a board of trustees Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

1. A board of trustees, composed as hereinafter mentioned, shall be, and is hereby, constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name of "The Trustees of the South African Museum," by which name such body corporate shall have perpetual succession, and shall have a common seal, and shall, by the same name, from time to time sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, in all Courts of the said Colony, and shall be able and capable, in law, to take, purchase, and hold to them and their successors all goods, chattels, and personal property whatever, either now deposited within the precincts of the South African Museum, or hereafter to be acquired by gift, bequest, purchase, or exchange, and shall also be able and capable, in law, to take, purchase, and hold to them and their successors, not only such lands, buildings, hereditaments, and possessions as may from time to time be exclusively used and occupied for the immediate requirements of the said "South African Museum," but also any other lands, buildings, hereditaments, and possessions whatever, situated in the said Colony or elsewhere; and they and their successors shall be able and capable, in law, to grant, demise, alienate, and otherwise dispose of all or any of the property, real or personal, belonging to the said museum; and also shall be able and capable to borrow and take up moneys for the use and purpose of the said museum upon mortgage of the lands, tenements, books, coins, specimens of natural history, and other said objects belonging to the said museum, and upon the security of the moneys granted and payable to the said museum under this present or any future Act; and also to do all other matters and things incidental to, or appertaining to, a body politic and corporate.

Board of trustees appointed.

To hold fixed and other property.

May raise money on loan.

2. Provided, always, that it shall not be lawful for the said trustees to alienate, mortgage, lease, charge, or demise any lands, tenements, or hereditaments to which they may become entitled by grant, purchase, or otherwise, unless with the approval of the Governor of the said Colony for the time being.

Not sell, or otherwise alienate, lands without consent of Governor.

3. The said South African Museum shall be kept open free of charge, to visitors, during at least four days in the week.

Museum, when to be open free of charge.

- No. 17—1857.
- Who to be trustees. 4. The said body corporate shall consist of three trustees, and shall consist of the following gentlemen,—The Honourable Rawson William Rawson, Esq., Colonial Secretary, Thomas Maclear, Esq., Astronomer Royal, Ludovic Pappe, Esq., Doctor of Medicine,—being members of the present committee for the management of the said museum.
- Vacancies, how to be filled. 5. All vacancies which may occur by death, resignation, absence from the Colony, removal from office by the Governor, or otherwise, in the trustees aforesaid, or in the trustees for the time being, shall be filled up, as they may occur, by the said Governor, who shall announce every appointment by him of any trustee as aforesaid, by proclamation in the Government Gazette.
- Quorum. 6. At every meeting of the said trustees, two trustees shall form a quorum, and all questions shall be decided by the majority of votes of the trustees present, and in cases of difference of opinion between the trustees, when only two trustees are present, the question shall be deferred till another meeting, when all the trustees shall be present.
- Duties of Trustees. 7. The said trustees shall have the entire management and superintendence of the affairs, concerns, and property of the said museum; and in all cases not provided for by this Act, it shall be lawful for the said trustees to act in such manner as shall appear to them best calculated to advance the objects of the said institution.
