INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

THE necessity for a revision of the Statute Law of the Colony has long been recognized, and for some years past a sum of money has annually been voted by Parliament for the codification of the Statutes. The codification scheme was, however, abandoned, and we were authorized by the Government to bring out this revised edition, which, it will at once be observed, has been prepared on an entirely different basis from the first edition. The various Statutes, instead of being printed, as hitherto, simply in their chronological order, have been arranged alphabetically according to the subjects to which they relate, all enactments and portions of enactments dealing with the same subject being grouped together.

The expediency of this innovation may perhaps be questioned by some who have been long accustomed to the chronological order; but the advantages of the alphabetical arrangement—which has been adopted in the Australian colonies—are obvious, and we had, moreover, the strongly expressed opinion of the Honourable the Attorney-General in its favour.

The chief difficulty in carrying out the present arrangement has been occasioned by the “patchy” nature of many of the Statutes, it being by no means uncommon to find several subjects of a totally different character treated of in the same Act. This has rendered it necessary to print portions of a large number of Acts more than once.

The alphabetical arrangement was in itself a matter of considerable difficulty. We have endeavoured to produce one which will, we trust, be found practically useful and convenient: for, in the words of the learned and eminent compilers of the first volume of the Statute Law, “A scientific, methodical arrangement of the laws under certain artificial heads, indicating the particular department of polity intended to be embraced, might be useful for the philosopher, and perhaps for the legislator, but for all practical uses by the public in general or by the practitioners of the law, we apprehend it would be of little use.”

Advantage has been taken of the provisions of Sect. 12 of Act 5 of 1883 to embody alterations made in the Statutes by subsequent legislation.

The text of every enactment has been carefully compared with the certified original in the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court, and it may not be amiss to mention that several discrepancies were found to exist between the original and the published copies now in use.

This Edition comprises the whole of the Statute Law up to and including the Acts passed during the Session of 1886. It consists of three volumes, the first two containing the text of the Acts, and the last a full Chronological Table and a complete Alphabetical Index.

On or before the 30th September in every year, accounts of the appropriation of the several supply grants comprised in the Appropriation Act of each year shall be prepared by the several departments, and be transmitted for examination to the Controller and Auditor-General; and when certified and reported upon as hereinafter directed, they shall be laid before Parliament; and such accounts shall be called the "Appropriation Accounts" of the moneys expended for the services to which they relate; and the Government shall determine by what departments such accounts shall be prepared and rendered to the Controller and Auditor-General; and the Controller and Auditor-General shall certify and report on such accounts as hereinafter directed, and the report thereon shall be signed by the Controller and Auditor-General: Provided always, and it is the intention of this Act, that the Government shall direct that the department charged with the expenditure of any vote under the authority of the Government shall prepare the appropriation account thereof: Provided also that the term "department," when used in this Act in connection with the duty of preparing the said appropriation accounts, shall be construed as including any public officer or officers to whom that duty may be assigned by the Government.

Description of account.

11. An appropriation account of supply grants shall exhibit on the charge side thereof the sum or sums appropriated by Parliament for the service of the financial year to which the account relates; and on the discharge side thereof the sums which may actually have come in course of payment within the same period; and no advance of the application of which an account may not have been rendered to and allowed by the accounting department, shall be included on the discharge side thereof.

A balance-sheet, if thought necessary by Controller and Auditor-General, or a statement showing the disposition of the balance to accompany the appropriation account.

12. The department charged with the duty of preparing the appropriation account of a grant shall, if required so to do by the Controller and Auditor-General, transmit to him, together with the annual appropriation account of such grant, a balance sheet so prepared as to show the debtor and creditor balances in the ledgers of such department on the day when the said appropriation account was closed, and to verify the balances appearing upon the annual appropriation account: Provided always that the Controller and Auditor-General may, if he thinks fit, require the said department to transmit to him in lieu of such balance sheet a certified statement showing the actual disposition of the balances appearing upon the annual appropriation account on the last day of the period of such account.

13. Every appropriation account when rendered to the Controller and Auditor-General, shall be accompanied by an explanation, showing how the balance or balances on the grant or grants included in the previous account, have been adjusted, and shall also contain an explanatory statement of any excess of expenditure over the grant or grants included in such account, and such statement as well as the appropriation account shall be signed by such department.

No. 30—1875.

14. Every appropriation account shall be examined and reported on by the Controller and Auditor-General on behalf of the Parliament, and in the examination of such accounts the Controller and Auditor-General shall ascertain, first, whether the payments which the accounting department has charged to the grant are supported by vouchers or proofs of payments, and second, whether the money expended has been applied to the purpose or purposes for which such grant was intended to provide; and in reporting on such accounts, he shall call attention to every case in which it may appear to him that a grant has been exceeded, or that money received by a department from other sources than the grants for the year to which the account relates, has not been applied or accounted for according to the directions of Parliament, or that a sum charged against a grant is not supported by proof of payment, or that a payment so charged did not occur within the period of the account, or was for any other reason not properly charged against the grant.

In what manner the examination of appropriation accounts shall be conducted by the Controller and Auditor-General.

15. In conducting the examination of the vouchers relating to the appropriation of the grants for the several services enumerated in the schedule to this Act annexed, the Controller and Auditor-General after satisfying himself that the accounts bear evidence that the vouchers have been completely checked, examined, and certified as correct in every respect, and that they have been allowed and passed by the proper departmental officers, may admit the same as satisfactory evidence of payment in support of the charges to which they may relate: Provided always, that if the Government should desire any such vouchers to be examined by the Controller and Auditor-General in greater detail, the Controller and Auditor-General shall cause such vouchers to be subjected to such a detailed examination as the Government may think fit to prescribe.

How vouchers of appropriation accounts included in schedule shall be examined.

16. In conducting the examination of the vouchers relating to the appropriation of the grants for any services not enumerated in the schedule, the Controller and Auditor-General shall test the accuracy of the castings and computation of the several items of such vouchers: Provided always, that when any vouchers have been certified to be correct by any officers specially authorized to examine the same, it shall be lawful for the Controller and Auditor-General, with the consent of the Government, to dispense with a second examination of the particular items of such vouchers.

THE BOEKHOO PLANT.

PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency General the Right Hon. Lord CHARLES
HENRY SOMERSET, &c., &c.

WHEREAS I have been given to understand that the medicinal qualities of the Boekhoo (Boego) plant are held in great estimation in Europe, and that it is probable the demand for that article may increase to an extent which may prove very beneficial to the interests of this Colony, provided the necessary measures be taken for its preservation :

And whereas it has been represented to me that the persons employed in collecting this article, not satisfied with gathering the leaves, or even cutting the shoots, of this plant, are in the habit of pulling it up entirely by the roots, or of cutting and hewing it so low down and in such a manner as to destroy the plant itself ; I have deemed it necessary, for the general interests of the Colony, to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared accordingly, that any person who may be convicted before a competent tribunal, of tearing up the Boekhoo (Boego) plant by the roots, or of burning it, or cutting it in such a manner as to injure the further growth of the plant, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and be fined in a penalty of not less than twenty nor more than fifty rixdollars for every such offence, one-third of which shall go to the informer (provided always, that the property so injured or destroyed be not the private property of individuals, and cut or pulled up or burnt by their orders) : And in the event of the inability of the offender to pay the fine awarded, that he be liable to imprisonment at hard labour for a certain period not exceeding two months for every such offence.

And that no person may plead ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed in the usual manner.

- Grazing of sheep, &c., prohibited. 6. And be it further enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioners of the Cape and Stellenbosch districts respectively, to grant to any person applying for the same a licence to graze horned cattle, horses, or mules for one whole year upon the aforesaid crown lands not being outspan-places; which licence shall commence and take effect from the first day of July of each year, and shall set forth the greatest number of cattle, horses, or mules allowed to graze under and by virtue of the same; and which licence shall be paid for at and after the rate of sixpence sterling for every horse, mule, or head of horned cattle.

9. And be it further enacted that the Civil Commissioners aforesaid shall as soon as may be after granting the said licences, transmit to the Secretary to Government for publication in the Government Gazette, a list of all persons having taken out licences for grazing and cutting thatching reeds; and the said Civil Commissioners shall transmit a like notice to the several Field-cornets whose wards or any part thereof are situated within the Cape flats and downs; and the said Field-cornets are hereby expressly enjoined and required to enforce to the utmost of their power the provisions of this Ordinance, and to report to the respective Clerks of the Peace for immediate prosecution all persons who shall be found contravening or who shall have contravened the same.

[October 3, 1846.]

Ordinance for preventing the Mischiefs arising from the cutting, rooting up, and destroying of Trees, Shrubs, and Bushes growing on the Cape Flats and Downs.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it has become an object of the utmost importance to this Colony, to preserve from the effects of drifting sands the new hard road constructed over or across the Cape flats or downs; And whereas a mischievous and illegal practice prevails of cutting down, rooting up, and carrying away from the said flats or downs, for the purpose of firewood, the trees, shrubs, or bushes growing there, by means of which practice the sands are loosened and exposed, and are carried by the wind to, and deposited upon, the said road, to the serious detriment, if not total destruction of certain parts thereof: And whereas no efforts made or to be made by the Central Board of Commissioners of Public Roads to bind and fix those portions of the said flats or downs from which the sands are carried by causing them to be planted with trees, shrubs, bushes, or other vegetable productions, have been or can be of any avail, so long as the mischievous and illegal practice aforesaid shall be permitted to continue; And whereas in order as much as may be to suppress the said practice and protect the road aforesaid, it is expedient to amend the law relative to the removal of trees, shrubs, and bushes from the said flats or downs. Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that the third and fourth sections of Ordinance No. 5, 1836, entitled "Ordinance for defining the limits of and securing from injury the Cape Flats and Downs," shall be repealed, and the same are hereby repealed accordingly.

And provided also, that every person travelling through or over the flats or downs aforesaid shall be at liberty without incurring any of the penalties or forfeitures aforesaid to cut down and collect such trees, shrubs, or bushes as shall be needed for the purpose of any fire which such person shall require or desire to kindle or keep at any outspan-place within the said flats or downs, such person doing no unnecessary damage in the cutting or collection of the same.

4. And be it enacted that no person being the owner, lessee or other occupant of any land being private property situate wholly or in part within the said flats or downs and lying to the westward of an invisible line supposed to be drawn from the beach of Table Bay at the point where a line drawn due west from Duiker Vallei would touch the said beach to the said Duiker Vallei, thence to the seventh milestone on the hard road across the flats, thence to Jackal's Vallei, thence to the house commonly called Mannenberg's, thence to the Vaderlandsche Riet Vallei, thence to the northern end of Zeekoe Vallei, thence to the southern end of Zeekoe Vallei, and thence in a straight line due south to the beach of False Bay, shall deliver or permit to be carried away in or upon any wagon, cart, or other carriage, any trees, shrubs, or bushes having grown upon such private property without having previously obtained a licence in writing from the Civil Commissioner of the Cape division or officer acting as such, authorizing him to remove the trees, shrubs, or bushes growing upon such private property. And be it enacted that the Civil Commissioner aforesaid shall upon the application of any such owner, lessee, or other occupant as is in the last preceding section mentioned, grant such licence as aforesaid as often as such Civil Commissioner shall be satisfied by inspection or otherwise that there are growing upon the private property in question trees, shrubs, or bushes which might be removed without thereby loosening or exposing sands in such a manner as to occasion the drifting of the same. No execution to issue where sufficient security is tendered by accused person.

Nor unless owner give security to refund, if so required.

In case of acquittal where security shall have been given, judgment to be void.

Right of civil action reserved to owner.

In case of acquittal after execution has issued, judgment may be summarily given for amount levied under such execution and damages.

Where necessary, further proof as to value of stolen animal than is shown in the preparatory ex-judgment as aforesaid in any case except one in which the proof of the guilt of the accused, given in the preparatory examination, shall be such as would, in the opinion of such Magistrate, if given in a civil action founded upon the same theft, require such Magistrate to give judgment in favour of the owner and against the accused: And provided that nothing in this section, or in this Act, relating to any such judgment as in this Act mentioned, shall extend to any case in which the animal or animals stolen shall, before the committal for trial, have been recovered by the owner: Provided, also, that no Resident Magistrate shall give any such judgment for any sum exceeding forty pounds sterling.

5. No such judgment as aforesaid shall be put in execution if the accused person will give security, to the satisfaction of the said Magistrate, to pay the amount thereof, should he be afterwards convicted, in due form of law, of the theft of the animal or animals which he is charged with stealing. Nor shall any such judgment be put into execution unless and until the owner of the said animal or animals shall give security, to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, to refund, in case he shall, by law, be required so to do, any sum of money which shall be levied under or upon such judgment, and to make good such damages, if any, as the accused person shall have sustained by the execution of such judgment.

6. If any accused person who shall have given such security as in the last preceding section mentioned, shall ultimately be acquitted of the theft in regard to which he was committed, then the judgment aforesaid shall be null and void: Provided, however, that nothing in this Act contained shall deprive the owner of the animal or animals aforesaid of any right of civil action which he may, by law, be entitled to have or maintain, notwithstanding such acquittal, against the person so acquitted.

7. As often as any such judgment, as aforesaid, shall have been put into execution, and the person against whom such judgment was given shall ultimately be acquitted, then the Court by or before which such person shall have been tried shall, upon application of, or on behalf of, such person, give judgment, summarily and without pleadings, for such sum as shall have been levied under such execution, and such damages, if any, as aforesaid, unless it shall be found by such Court upon considering the evidence in the criminal case and any other evidence which may be given by the owner aforesaid and the person acquitted, or either of them, that, upon grounds of law, applicable to the decision of civil actions, the said owner was and is rightfully entitled to have and retain such judgment as aforesaid against the person acquitted, notwithstanding such acquittal.

8. In case the value of any animal or animals charged to have been stolen, and the amount of such damages as aforesaid, shall not sufficiently appear upon the depositions taken on the preparatory examination, and further proof of such value or such damages shall be tendered on the part either of the owner or of the accused, such further proof shall be taken down in writing, and shall by such Magistrate be preserved.

9. As often as any charge of theft, in regard to which any such judgment as aforesaid shall have been given by any Resident Magistrate, shall be tried in the Supreme or any Circuit Court, it shall be the duty of the Resident Magistrate who gave such judgment to deliver, or cause to be delivered to the registrar of such Court, a copy of such further proof, if any, of value and damages as such Magistrate shall have taken, over and above the preparatory examination, together with a statement of the date and amount of the said judgment, as also a statement of the amount, if any, levied thereupon, and the said registrar shall before, during, or immediately after the trial, lay the same before the presiding judge for his inspection.

10. In case any such owner as aforesaid shall not have obtained from the committing Magistrate any such judgment as aforesaid, and the prisoner committed for trial shall be afterwards convicted, before the Supreme or any Circuit Court, then the judge before whom such conviction shall have taken place may, upon the like request as that in the fourth section of this Act mentioned, but in the presence of the prisoner, inquire summarily, and without pleadings, into the value and damages therein referred to, and give judgment for the same, and such judgment shall be of the same force and effect, and be executable in the same manner, as if it had been given in a civil action duly instituted.

11. Should any case in which any such judgment as aforesaid shall have been given by any Resident Magistrate be afterwards remitted to the Court of such Resident Magistrate, under the Act No. 12 of 1860, such Magistrate shall, in forwarding the record of the proceedings in such case to the Registrar of the Supreme Court, to be laid before a judge in chamber for his consideration, forward with such record the same particulars regarding such judgment as such Magistrate is, under and by virtue of the ninth section of this Act, enjoined to deliver, or cause to be delivered, in cases in which the person accused is tried in the Supreme or any Circuit Court.

12. If, in any case, the Attorney-General, upon considering the preparatory examination, shall decline to prosecute any person against whom any such judgment as aforesaid shall have been given, then, unless the owner in whose favour such judgment was given shall undertake to prosecute, as a private prosecutor, the person accused, and give security to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that he will carry on such prosecution, the judgment aforesaid shall become and be null and void, and the Resident Magistrate shall give judgment summarily and without pleadings for such sum, if any, as shall have been levied in execution of the

SUPERANNUATION.

20. It shall be lawful for the Governor, if to him it shall appear expedient, to call upon any person on the fixed establishment of the Civil Service of this Colony who shall have attained the age of sixty years, to vacate his office on condition of being paid the superannuation allowance which may be granted to such person in consideration of his past services by virtue of any regulations in force for the time being; and thereupon the office held by such person shall be deemed to be vacant, and some other person may be duly appointed to fill the same.

Superannuation.—
Allowances thereon.

21. Subject to the exceptions and provisions hereinafter contained, the superannuation allowance which may be granted, after the taking effect of this Act, to any person who shall have served on the fixed establishment of the Civil Service of the Colony, and for whom provision shall not otherwise have been made by Act of Parliament, or who may not be specially excepted by the authority of Parliament, shall be as follows:—

Rates of such allowances.

To any person who shall have served ten years and upwards, and under eleven years, an annual allowance of ten-sixtieths of such salary and emoluments;

And, in like manner, a further addition to the annual allowance of one-sixtieth in respect of each additional year of service, until the completion of a period of service of forty years, when an annual allowance of forty-sixtieths may be granted; and no addition shall be made in respect of any service beyond forty years.

22. Except as is hereinafter provided, it shall not be lawful to grant superannuation allowance under the provisions of this Act to any person who shall be under sixty years of age, unless upon medical certificate, to the satisfaction of the Governor, that he is incapable, from infirmity of mind or body, to discharge the duties of his office, and that such infirmity is likely to be permanent.

No allowance to officers under 60 except in cases of illness, &c.

23. It shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to any person who, being the holder of an office in respect of which a superan-

Allowance to officers incapacitated by infirmity.

24. It shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to any person who, being the holder of an office in respect of which a superannuation allowance may be granted, is constrained, from infirmity of mind or body, to leave the public service before the completion of ten years' service, such sum of money by way of gratuity as the said Governor may think proper, but so as that no such gratuity shall exceed the amount of one month's pay for each year of service.

Allowance to widows and children of officers dying from injuries while on duty.

25. Should any person, being the holder of an office in respect of which a superannuation allowance may be granted, die from bodily injury, occasioned, without his own default, in the discharge of his public duty, it shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to the widow or minor children of such person, or to his parents, if dependent on him for their maintenance, a gratuity not exceeding one month's pay for each year of service. <sup>(1)</sup>

Allowances on abolition of office.

26. It shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to any person retiring or removed from the public service in consequence of the abolition of his office, such special annual allowance, not exceeding two-thirds of the salary and emoluments of the office, by way of compensation, as on a full consideration of the circumstances of the case may seem to the said Governor to be a reasonable and just compensation for the loss of office: Provided that such special annual allowance shall not exceed the amount which might be granted under the scale provided in this Act:—

If to persons who shall have served twenty years and upwards, ten years were added to their actual service;

If to persons who shall have served under twenty years and not less than fifteen years, seven years were added to their actual service;

If to persons who shall have served under fifteen years and not less than ten years, five years were added to their actual service;

If to persons who shall have served under ten years and not less than five years, three-sixtieths were added to as many sixtieths of the salary and emoluments of the office as the person has served a complete number of years;

If to persons who shall have served under five years, one-sixtieth were added to as many sixtieths of the salary and emoluments of the office as the person has served a complete number of years:

Provided always that the number of years to be added shall in no case exceed such number as would, if added to the actual age of the person retiring or removed, make up sixty-five.

27. Every person to whom a superannuation or compensation allowance shall have been granted before he shall have attained the age of sixty years, shall, until he has attained that age, be liable to be called upon to resume his duties in his former office, or to fill any public office or situation in the Colony for which he is qualified; and if he shall decline, when called upon to do so, to take upon him such office or situation, or shall decline or neglect to execute the duties thereof satisfactorily, being in a competent state of health, he shall forfeit his right to the compensation or superannuation allowance which had been granted to him.

No. 42—1885.
 Person enjoying allowances under 60 may be called on to serve again.

28. In case any person enjoying any superannuation allowance, in consequence of his having retired from office on account of age, infirmity, or any other cause, or enjoying any compensation for past services upon the abolition or reduction of office, shall be appointed to fill any office in any public department in this Colony or elsewhere, such allowance or compensation shall cease to be paid for any period subsequent to such appointment, if the annual amount of the salary and emoluments of the office to which he shall be appointed be equal to those of the office formerly held by him, and in case they shall not be equal to those of his former office, then no more of such superannuation allowance or compensation shall be paid to him than what, with the salary of his new appointment, shall be equal to that of his former office.

Allowance to cease on appointment to office of a value equal thereto.

29. It shall be lawful for the Governor, on the ultimate retirement of any person who may have been re-employed under the twenty-fourth section, to grant to such person a retiring allowance, not exceeding forty-sixtieths of his salary and emoluments, based on his periods of actual service before and after his temporary retirement, precisely as if such periods had formed continuous service.

Calculation of term of service of officers reappointed under § 24.

30. It shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to a person any superannuation, compensation, gratuity, or other allowance of greater amount than the amount which might be awarded to him under the foregoing provisions, when special services rendered by such person, and requiring special reward, shall appear to him to justify such increase, but so that such allowance shall in no case exceed the salary and emoluments enjoyed by such person at the time of his retirement: Provided that the minute detailing the circumstances under which such increase was recommended to the Governor shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament before it be granted, and it shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to any person any such allowance of less amount than otherwise would have been awarded to him, when his defaults or demerits in relation to the public service appear to him to justify such diminution.

Special cases in which larger allowances may be granted.

31. Any superannuation or compensation allowance which may be granted to any person after the passing of this Act shall not be computed upon the amount of the salary and emoluments enjoyed by him at the time of his retirement, unless he shall have been in the receipt of the same for a period of at least three years immediately before the granting of such superannuation allowance; and in case he shall not have enjoyed his then existing salary for that period, such superannuation or compensation allowance shall be calculated upon the average amount of salary and emoluments received by such person for the three years next preceding the commencement of such allowance: Provided that, if at the date of his retirement the whole period of service of such person be less than three years, any superannuation or compensation allowance which may, under the provisions of this Act, be granted to him, shall be calculated on his average salary and emoluments during his whole period of service: Provided, also, in the case of a person re-employed under the twenty-fourth section hereof, that, if, at the date of his ultimate retirement, his whole period of service subsequent to the date of his re-employment shall have been less than three years, his superannuation or compensation allowance shall be calculated upon his average salary and emoluments during the last three years of his actual service, precisely as if a period of temporary retirement had not existed.

Continuous services required in calculation of allowances.

32. Service in respect of which superannuation or compensation allowances may be granted must in all cases be continuous, unless interrupted by reduction of office, leave of absence, or other temporary suspension of employment, not arising from misconduct or voluntary resignation; and in computing the amount of any superannuation or compensation allowance, the term salary and emoluments shall be taken to include house rent or house allowance, or the annual value of quarters in any buildings belonging to the Crown which an officer may be allowed to occupy, to an extent not exceeding one-sixth of the average salary and other emoluments of the office during the three years preceding; the net amount of fees to an extent not exceeding one-fourth of such salary; the value of rations; and any other unquestionable remuneration for personal service; but it shall not include local allowances contingent on the high cost of living in certain localities, or allowance for horse keep, or travelling, or stationery, or any other allowance contingent on the particular nature and actual transaction of the business of the office, and presumably spent in the discharge of such business: Provided that the net amount of fees shall be obtained by deducting from the average gross amount of fees received during the three years next preceding the average office expenses during such three years personally defrayed by the officer.

No leave of absence beyond one month to officers about to retire on pension.

33. It shall not be lawful to grant leave of absence for any period exceeding one month to any person who purposes to retire on pension at or within six months of the termination of such leave; and should any person who has obtained leave of absence for any period exceeding one month, voluntarily retire on pension during such leave, or within six months after its termination, any superannuation allowance which may lawfully be granted to him under the provisions of this Act shall be calculated on his period of service up to the date from which such leave commenced: Provided if it be established by medical certificate, to the satisfaction of the Governor, that such person is incapable, from infirmity of mind or body, of resuming the duties of his office at the termination of his leave, or of continuing to serve for six months thereafter, and that such infirmity is likely to be permanent, it shall be lawful for the Governor, should he see fit, to direct that the period of service of such person shall be reckoned up to the date of his ultimate retirement.

No. 42—1885.

Exceptions.

34. Except in so far as it is otherwise by law provided, it shall not be lawful to grant any superannuation allowance to any person who is paid entirely by fees or allowances.

No pension to officers paid by fees.

35. In the computation of superannuation or compensation allowances, no fractional part of a month and no increase of salary or emoluments granted after the date of the application to be allowed to retire, shall be taken into consideration.

Fractional part of month not to count.

36. It shall not be lawful to grant a superannuation or compensation allowance to any person holding more than one appointment or office until he shall retire from all the offices held by him.

Pension not claimable by person not retiring from all the offices held by him.

37. For the purpose of calculating any superannuation or compensation allowance, absence on leave on full or half-pay in accordance with this Act shall be regarded as service, and the person during such absence on leave shall be deemed to have drawn his full salary and emoluments, but any absence on leave without salary shall not be reckoned in the period of service.

Absence on leave to count as service if on full or half-pay.

38. After a pension or superannuation allowance has been awarded to any person, the same may thereafter be rescinded, in case it shall appear that during his tenure of office he was guilty of any such grave offence as would have led to his dismissal.

When pension awarded may be stopped.

39. Should any person, serving in a capacity to which a pension calculated according to the scale of one-fiftieth of yearly pay may be granted for each year of service, be transferred to the Civil Service of the Colony, or vice versa from the Civil Service to service in such capacity, then, on the ultimate retirement of such person, it shall be lawful for the Governor to grant to him a pension or superannuation allowance according to the rules of the service from which he retires, allowing, however, one-sixtieth of the amount on which such pension or superannuation allowance may be calculated in respect of each year in which he shall have served in the Civil Service, and one-fiftieth of such amount for each year in which he shall have served in such other capacity: Provided that no pension or retiring allowance may be granted under this section, unless the aggregate number of years of service of such person shall have been at least ten years, if he shall at the time of his retirement have been serving in the Civil Service; or at least

Pensions only to persons whose duties occupy their whole time.

40. Except as hereinafter is excepted, it shall not be lawful to grant any superannuation allowance to any person holding an office, the duties of which are not such as to require that the holder should give his whole time to the public service; but nothing herein contained shall prevent the Governor from granting a retiring allowance, under the preceding sections of this Act, to the Solicitor-General, the Crown Prosecutor at Kimberley, the Assistant Law Adviser to the Crown, or to the holder of such other office as he may from time to time see fit to direct: Provided that no such direction shall be of force and effect until the expiration of thirty days from the date on which a minute, embodying the reasons on which it was made, shall have been laid before both Houses of Parliament; or shall extend or apply to any holder of an office unless made not later than twelve months after the date of the appointment of such holder.

Exceptions.

Pension to be calculated on actual service.

41. Save as may in this Act be excepted, the superannuation allowance to be granted to any person holding office in the Civil Service of the Colony shall be calculated according to the actual period of service of such person, and no addition shall on any pretext whatsoever be made to such period: Provided that nothing in this section contained shall be taken to prejudice the rights under existing superannuation regulations of any person who may at the time of the taking effect of this Act be on the fixed establishment of the Public Service.

SECURITY.

Security to be given by public officers.

42. It shall be the duty of the Treasurer of the Colony to fix and determine the amount of security to be given by the holder of every office in the public service of the Colony involving the receipt, custody, or payment of public money, or the receipt, issue, or custody of stamps, and to frame a schedule for the guidance of public officers, showing the amount so fixed in respect of such offices, and from time to time to amend such schedule as circumstances may require: Provided that in determining the amount of security to be required of the holder of any such office the said Treasurer shall act in conjunction with the ministerial head of the department in which such office may happen to be.

“Public Service Guarantee Fund.”

43. In order to provide proper security for the faithful and punctual discharge of the duties of the holders of offices from whom security is required, and to enable the practice heretofore followed of obtaining the guarantee of private persons, or of a public company to be discontinued, a fund shall be created to be styled the “Public Service Guarantee Fund,” which shall provide such security for all persons who shall contribute thereto under the provisions of sections forty-two to forty-six hereof, both inclusive.

44. All contributions or other moneys payable to the said fund shall be lodged in the Treasury and shall be accounted for by the Paymaster-General of the Colony.

Payments thereto to be lodged in Treasury.

45. Whenever any person who has not previously contributed to the Public Service Guarantee Fund, in respect of any appointment previously held by him, is appointed to any office in the public service of the Colony, the holder of which is required to give security, a deduction of one-eighth per cent. on the amount for which he is required to give security shall be made on account of such fund from the first payment of salary in respect of such office, and such person shall further contribute to such fund at the rate of one-eighth per cent. per annum on such amount from the date of his entering on the discharge of the duties of such office.

Deductions in case of officers not hitherto called on to give security.

46. Should any person hereafter appointed to any such office have contributed to such fund in respect of an office previously held by him, then, in case the amount of security required in respect of his new office shall be either less than or equal to that required in respect of such former office, he shall contribute to such fund at the rate of one-eighth per cent. per annum on the amount of security required in respect of such new office, and such contribution shall accrue from the termination of the period for which he shall have already contributed, or if such period shall have already terminated, then from the date of his entering on the discharge of the duties of such new office; and in case the amount of security required in respect of his new office shall be greater than that required in respect of his former office, a deduction at the rate of one-eighth per cent. on the increase in the amount for which the security is required shall be made on account of such fund from the first payment of salary in respect of such new office, and such person shall further contribute to such fund at the rate of one-eighth per cent. per annum on such higher amount of security from the date of his entering on the discharge of the duties of such new office: Provided that if the period for which he shall have previously contributed shall not have expired, a portion of such previous contribution, proportionate to such unexpired period, shall be deducted from the first contribution required by this section.

Adjustment of contributions to fund where a less or greater security for new office required.

47. Any person who at the time of taking effect of this Act holds an office in respect of which security has been given, shall from and after the 31st March, 1886, contribute to the said fund as if then first appointed to such office, and on his so doing his sureties shall be relieved from all responsibility in respect of his subsequent transactions: Provided that any person may, should he desire, so contribute at any time before that date.

In respect of every first annual contribution to the said fund, an amount proportionate to the period between the date from which it commences to accrue, and the 31st of March next ensuing, shall be deducted from the first payment of salary payable to the holder of the office in respect of which security is given, and thereafter the annual contribution shall be payable in advance, on the 31st of March in each year, and shall be deducted from the payment of salary for the said month of March, and should any deduction not be made as prescribed in this Act, the amount shall be forthwith recovered from the person in default.

Initial deductions may be altered by Parliament.

50. The rates of initial deduction and annual contribution, set forth or referred to in the sections of this Act, from the forty-second to the forty-sixth inclusive, may from time to time be altered and amended by resolutions of both Houses of Parliament, and thereafter such amended rates shall be substituted for the rates set forth or referred to in such sections, as if the same had been originally inserted therein.

Recovery from person who has rendered the fund liable to pay for his default.

51. Should any person who has become a contributor to the Public Service Guarantee Fund cause any pecuniary loss to the public revenue of the Colony, by reason of any wrongful act or omission the amount of such loss shall be charged against such person, and shall, as far as possible, be recovered from him, in such manner as the Governor may direct; and in case the amount recovered shall be insufficient to cover such loss, it shall be lawful for the Paymaster-General, on being authorized so to do by the Treasurer of the Colony, to pay out of the aforesaid fund such sum as shall be sufficient to make good the amount of loss sustained by the said revenue, not exceeding however the amount for which security was given by the defaulter: Provided that if any amount be subsequently recovered from such defaulter, such amount shall be applied, firstly, to make good the deficiency (if any) still remaining due to the revenue, and secondly, to the reimbursement of such fund.

Interest at 4 per cent. on quarterly balance of fund.

52. It shall be lawful for the Governor to cause interest to be paid from and out of the public revenue, at the rate of four per cent. per annum, on the balance at the close of each quarter to the credit of the fund in the books of the Paymaster-General.

53. It shall be lawful for the Treasurer of the Colony to invest any portion of the balance to the credit of the fund, in Government debentures or stock, and to sell any such debentures or stock which may have been previously purchased.

Statement of accounts of fund to be laid before Parliament,

54. A statement of all moneys received and disbursed under the provisions of the fortieth to the fiftieth sections of this Act inclusive, and of all investments and sales under the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament annually.

No. 42—1885.

55. At the end of every period of five years, the first period being reckoned from the taking effect of this Act, a complete statement of all moneys received and disbursed under the provisions of the fortieth to the fiftieth sections of this Act inclusive, and of the position of the Public Service Guarantee Fund, together with all such further particulars connected therewith, as may be required for full investigation into the working and condition of the said fund, shall be prepared by the Assistant Treasurer, and laid before both Houses of Parliament, during the first session after the expiration of every such period.

17. No alteration made by virtue of this Act in the name of any company shall prejudice or affect any right which previously to such alteration has accrued to such company as against any other company or person, or which has accrued to any other company or person as against such company, but every such company as against any other company or person, and every other company or person as against such company and the members thereof, shall be entitled to all such remedies as they or he would have been entitled to if no such alteration had been made, and no such alteration shall abate or render defective any legal proceeding pending at the time when such alteration is made.

Certain companies excluded from the operation of this Act.

18. Every company in which the liability of the shareholders shall have been limited by any special Act passed during the present or any previous Session of Parliament, or by any Ordinance of any former Legislature of this Colony, shall be subject to the provisions of sections four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, and seventeen of this Act, in so far as these provisions are not repugnant to the provisions of any such special Act or Ordinance aforesaid; and the directors and other officers of every such company shall be liable to the penalties in the said sections of this Act provided in case of their neglecting or failing to comply with the provisions of the said sections. Ordinance for facilitating Loans on security of Shares in Joint-stock Companies.

Preamble.

WHEREAS a number of banking, and other joint-stock companies exist in this Colony, constituted respectively by and under respective deeds of co-partnership or association, commonly called trust deeds: And whereas in all or most of such deeds as aforesaid a certain clause or provision is contained by which it is stipulated and agreed between the parties thereto, that proprietors should assign and transfer their shares by endorsement upon the certificates thereof, but that no such endorsement should be valid to transfer any interest in, or right or title to, any share until such endorsement should have been registered and certified in manner and form as by the said deeds, provided: And whereas in all or most of the said deeds, a certain other clause or provision is contained, limiting, and determining the number of shares which it shall be competent for any person to hold or possess: And whereas the two certain clauses or provisions aforesaid, were devised and intended to apply to and govern cases of sale and purchase, and are inapplicable to cases in which shares are sought to be only pledged, seeing that in such cases, it would be inconvenient to require that a complete and entire change of ownership should be ab initio effected, while, moreover, the second of the clauses or provisions aforesaid, limiting and determining the number of shares to be held or possessed by any one person, would, in many instances, tend to prevent such complete and entire change from being effected: And whereas it may be apprehended, that the title of any person to or with whom any certificates of shares of any such joint-stock company as aforesaid, may be pledged, might, whether such certificates have endorsed thereon, fitting words of cession from the person pledging to the person receiving the pledge, or are only indorsed in blank by such first-mentioned person; or are by him pledged and deposited without either cession or endorsement, but with a collateral power to sell conferred upon the person receiving the pledge to be executed in case of default made by the person pledging; be drawn into question and disputed by execution creditors or creditors, in an insolvent estate; so long as no assignment or transfer as aforesaid, has been as aforesaid, registered and certified. And whereas any such apprehension may tend to impede the freedom of raising money upon security of certificates of shares; and it is therefore expedient to remove the same, and to facilitate transactions tending to promote the interest and convenience of traders and others requiring from other persons temporary advances, or forbearance of their demands; Be it therefore enacted, by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that it shall and may be lawful for the legal holder of any share of the capital stock of any joint-stock company now existing, or to be hereafter established, within this Colony, to pledge, or to have pledged, such share for any purpose, object, or consideration for which movable property may lawfully be pledged, by pledging, or having pledged, in manner and form as in the next succeeding section mentioned, the certificate of such share, and the person receiving such pledge, (called hereafter in this Ordinance the pledgee) shall be deemed and taken as against the pledger and his creditors, whether in execution or insolvency, and all persons claiming from, through or under him, or them, to have a good and valid hypothec, or lien upon the said certificate, and upon the said share, and to be in the same plight and condition, in regard to such share as if the same like the certificate thereof, were a thing capable of being actually handed over and deposited with such person, and had actually so been; Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to alter or affect the mutual rights or claims of the company in which such share exists and the owner of any such share, which rights or claims, notwithstanding any such pledge, shall be deemed and judged of precisely as if such pledge had never been effected. And provided also, that nothing in this Ordinance contained, shall extend to supersede, invalidate, or otherwise affect any special provision in any trust deed contained, touching and concerning the manner and form in which alone pledges of shares, shall be constituted and effected.

Pledge of shares by
of shares.

2. And be it enacted, that every such share as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken, as against the pledger, his heirs, and creditors, to be or to have been lawfully and effectually pledged, when and as often as the certificate of such share shall be, or shall have been, delivered into and detained in the actual custody and possession of

Manner of pledge

Ord. 13—1846.

the pledgee; having endorsed thereon, in fitting words, a cession of the said share made in favour of the pledgee, by the person entitled to cede the same, or having thereon the blank endorsement of such person so entitled, or otherwise, when in reference to the certificate so delivered and detained as aforesaid, some instrument, note, or memorandum in writing, shall be, or shall have been, made containing a description of the share pledged, and a statement of the purpose, object or consideration, for which the same shall have been pledged. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to deprive any pledge sought to be effected in any manner or form other than is in this section mentioned, of any force or validity which it might otherwise have had. And provided also, that nothing in this Ordinance contained, shall be deemed, or taken to abridge, alter or affect the right, if any, of any pledgee of any share to retain the same for or account of any future or other debt or demand, not contemplated at the time of the original pledge, or mentioned in any such instrument, note or memorandum as aforesaid, which right shall be judged of and determined according to the ordinary rules of law relative to the detention of movables pledged, for the security of future or other debts or demands.

Issue of fresh certificates on proof of loss of originals.

3. And whereas certificates of shares which have been pledged, or otherwise delivered, upon good consideration, may, through fraud, be alleged, or through mistake be supposed, to be lost or destroyed, and thereupon application for fresh certificates may be made to the directors of the company in which the shares exist: And whereas a sudden or secret compliance with any such application might tend to the prejudice of pledgees or other persons, and it is therefore expedient, to provide for the protection of such pledgees or other persons, and, at the same time, to provide, for the issue of fresh certificates in cases where the original certificates shall appear to have been really lost or destroyed; Be it enacted, that in every case in which any such application as aforesaid shall be made to the directors of any joint-stock company, such directors, in case they shall not have knowledge or notice that the share in regard to which the fresh certificate is applied for is in pledge, or otherwise disposed of, shall, (but at the cost and charge of the applicant) insert an advertisement in the Government Gazette, and in such one of the newspapers in the Colony as they shall select, stating that an application has been made for a fresh certificate for the share numbered — and issued to — as the proprietor thereof, upon the ground that the original or former certificates of the said share has been lost or destroyed (as the case may be), and that, should no objection be lodged at the office of the company on or before some certain day to be fixed in such advertisement, (not being less than fourteen days from the date of the last publication of the said advertisement), the said fresh certificate will be issued as requested.

4. And be it enacted, that in case no such objection as aforesaid shall be lodged, it shall and may be lawful for the said directors to issue, or cause to be issued, the fresh certificate applied for, and such directors shall not, nor shall the company, incur thereby any liability whatsoever: Provided always, that if any pledgee of any certificate and share shall have at any time before the application for a fresh certificate, given notice in writing at the office of the company, that the same has been pledged to him, or if the pledgee of any certificate and share shall lodge an objection in pursuance of any such advertisement, and the directors shall, nevertheless, without the consent of such pledgee, or the decree of some competent Court, issue such fresh certificate, such directors shall be personally responsible to such pledgee for any loss or damage which he may thereby sustain.

Ord. 13—1846.
Non-liability of company on issue of fresh certificates.

Personal responsibility of directors in certain cases.

5. And be it enacted, that in case the pledgee of any original or former certificate of any share of which a fresh certificate is applied for as aforesaid, shall not have given notice in writing of such pledge at the office of the company, or after such advertisement as aforesaid shall have been duly published, shall not within the time in that behalf specified, lodge an objection to the issue of any fresh certificate, and the directors shall, in consequence, have issued or caused to be issued such certificate to the person applying for the same, every subsequent purchaser or pledgee dealing bonâ fide, and without notice of the older pledge, upon the faith of the fresh certificate as evidence of the ownership of the share which it represents, shall be entitled to be preferred to the full extent of his claims and demands above or before the original pledgee: Provided, however, that such original pledgee shall still be entitled to be preferred above or before the person by whom, or in whose right or supposed right any such fresh certificate shall have been obtained, and above or before his heirs, and above or before his creditors, whether in execution or insolvency, but so, however, as not to require any execution creditor to refund any moneys actually paid out to him, or to require the creditors of any insolvent estate to refund any dividends by them actually received.

Order of preference between pledgee of original certificate and bonâ fide pledgee or purchaser on faith of fresh certificate.

6. And be it enacted, that in the interpretation of this Ordinance the term person, shall embrace any co-partnership or company, and that the singular number shall include several persons as well as one person, and that the masculine gender shall include females as well as males.

Interpretation clause.

7. And be it enacted, that nothing in this Ordinance contained shall extend to the district of Natal.

Exclusion of Natal.

8. And be it enacted, that this Ordinance shall commence and take effect from and after the date of the promulgation thereof.

ACT

To Remove Doubts as to the Ownership of Immovable Property held in Trust for Unincorporated Joint-stock Companies and other Bodies, and for the Appointment, when necessary, of Trustees for such Companies or Bodies.

Preamble.

WHEREAS in and by the trust deeds or deeds of settlement of divers unincorporated joint-stock companies formed in this Colony for trading purposes, it is amongst other things provided that all and singular the properties and effects belonging to such companies, respectively, shall be, and that the same are thereby, vested in trustees, to be from time to time appointed in manner and form as in the said deeds, respectively, set forth: And whereas as often as any such company purchases, or becomes otherwise entitled to, any immovable property for its use or benefit, the practice in this Colony has been to transfer such immovable property to the trustees of such company and to the trustees thereof for the time being: And whereas immovable property, acquired for the uses and purposes of religious, charitable, and educational associations, has been from time to time granted or transferred to certain office-bearers or other trustees for such associations, and to such office-bearers or other trustees for the time being: And whereas doubts have recently arisen whether, in regard to such joint-stock companies and to such associations, it is not necessary, in order that the ownership of immovable property granted or transferred in manner aforesaid shall pass to and vest in the trustees or office-bearers for the time being, that the out-going office-bearers or other trustees should make transfer in the Deeds Registry to their successors as often as any change in the persons of such office-bearers or other trustees takes place: And whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts by declaring that no such successive transfers shall be necessary: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Court may order all moneys to be deposited in the bank.

23. The Court may order any contributory, purchaser, or other person from whom money is due to the company, to pay the same to some bank to be named by the Court, to an account to be opened therewith in the name of the official liquidator, as such in the fourteenth section of this Act is provided, instead of to the official liquidator; and such order may be enforced in the same manner as if it had directed payment to the official liquidator; and the liquidator may, in like manner, be ordered to pay into the like bank any sum or sums of money in his hands, or to come into his hands, on behalf of the company, to the like account.

Ordinance for explaining and extending the Powers of the Trustees appointed for the Management of a Mercantile Establishment at Port Beaufort.

Preamble.

WHEREAS several persons, being desirous of forming a mercantile establishment at Port Beaufort situate at the mouth of the Breede River, have built by subscription at that place a store or warehouse: And whereas upon the thirty-first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Galbraith Lowry Cole, then Governor of this Colony, was pleased to grant in freehold unto Messrs. in any Electoral Division, of members of the House of Assembly for such division, the returning officer of such Electoral Division shall (except as hereinafter excepted in regard to the Electoral Divisions of Cape Town and the Cape Division) hold, in the Court-room of the town or place in which the office of the Civil Commissioner of the same division shall be situated, a public court for the nomination of persons proposed as members of Assembly for such division; and every such person shall be nominated by some registered voter of or for such division, and such nomination shall be seconded by some other such voter; and if it shall happen that the number of persons so proposed is not greater than the number of members to be elected, then the persons so proposed shall forthwith be declared to be duly elected. But in case the number of persons so proposed exceeds the number of members to be elected, and any of the candidates, or any voter acting on behalf of any of the candidates, shall, after the result of a show of hands of the voters present shall have been declared, demand a poll, the returning officer shall, before adjourning such court for the purpose of such poll, take sufficient security from or on behalf of every person so proposed, for the payment of an equal share or proportion of the expenses of such poll (not exceeding, however, the sum of fifty pounds), as the said expenses shall be sanctioned and allowed by the Governor of the said Colony: Provided always, that not less than three clear days shall, in any case, elapse between the nomination of the candidates and the commencement of the poll, and that when there shall be more polling-places than one in any Electoral Division, the returning officer shall, before adjourning the court aforesaid, fix and announce the day or days on which the poll will be taken at the respective polling-places; and such returning officer shall also forthwith cause a written notice, under his hand, to be posted upon or affixed to some conspicuous place at or near such Court-room, containing the names of the several polling-places in such Electoral Division, and the days and hours for the taking of the poll thereat respectively: And provided that, in case such security for expenses, as aforesaid, shall fail to be given, by or on behalf of any candidate so nominated as aforesaid, then every candidate by whom or in whose regard such failure shall have taken place shall, in case there be other candidates giving such security, not less in number than the number of members to be elected, be considered as if he or they had not been nominated; but if the candidate or candidates so giving security shall be in number less than the number of members to be elected, then the candidate or candidates, if any, giving such security, shall be declared duly elected, and the question of election between or amongst the other candidates failing to give such security shall be decided by a show of hands; and if none of the candidates nominated, nor any voter on behalf of any of them, shall give such security, then the question of election between all

But the fact that any voter registered in any district shall have ceased at the time of taking the poll to possess the qualification in regard to which he was registered in such district shall not deprive him of the right to vote in such district so long as his name remains inserted in the list of voters in such district. And in regard to the municipality of Green Point, it shall be lawful to appoint a polling place within the said municipality, at which alone the voters registered belonging to such municipality shall be competent to vote, and not elsewhere, or to appoint that all such voters shall vote at the polling place of such one of the districts into which the Municipality of Cape Town shall be divided as shall be deemed most convenient, and be selected.

350 CONSTITUTION (VOTERS' REGISTRATION AND ELECTIONS).

No. 14—1874.

Polling officers at elections may put certain questions.

38. The polling officer at any polling place shall if required by or on behalf of any candidate, and may of his own motion when he shall deem it fitting, put to any person coming to vote at the time of tendering his vote, but not afterwards, the following questions:

1st. What is your name in full ?

2ndly. Where do you live ?

3rdly. What is your occupation ?

4thly. Are you to the best of your knowledge and belief the same person whose name appears as ——— (here give the name of the registered voter as whom the person tendering his vote claims to vote) on the list of registered voters for the Electoral Division of ——— ?

5thly. (In case the poll is taken for a member or for members of the Legislative Council),—Have you already voted, either here or elsewhere, at this election, for any member of the Legislative Council ? or (in case the poll is taken for a member or for members of the House of Assembly),—Have you voted, either here or elsewhere in this Electoral Division, at this election for any member of the House of Assembly ?

Discrepancies between name given by voter and that on registered list, not to preclude him from voting, if it appears that he is really and truly the person intended to have been registered.

39. In case the person tendering his vote shall, in answer to the first of the said questions, give the surname, as registered, of the voter as whom he claims to vote, but not the christian name as registered, or not all the christian names when more than one, and it shall appear from answers to further questions that the person tendering his vote has no names other than those first stated by him, he shall not thereby be precluded from voting, in case it shall appear from his answers to other questions, or from the testimony of the assistant to the polling officer in the thirty-third section of this Act mentioned (when there shall be such assistant present at the poll), that the christian name or names as registered are mistaken, and that the person tendering his vote is really and truly the person intended to have been registered.

Discrepancies between residence or occupation stated by voter, and that on registered list not to preclude him from voting in case it appears that he is really and truly the person intended to have been registered.

40. In case the person tendering his vote shall, in answer to the second or third of the said questions, state a residence or occupation different from the residence or occupation registered as the residence or occupation of the voter as whom the person tendering his vote claims to vote, such person shall be questioned as to his residence and occupation at the time of the framing of the list of registered voters upon which appears the name of the voter as whom such person claims to vote. Should it appear from the answers to such questions that he did not at the time of the framing of such list reside at the place registered, or did not follow the occupation registered, he shall not thereby be precluded from voting in case it shall appear from his answers to other questions, or from the testimony of the assistant aforesaid (when there shall be such an assistant present at the poll), that the residence or the occupation, or residence and occupation, as registered, are mistaken, and the person tendering his vote is really and truly the person intended to have been registered.

No. 14—1874.

41. As often as the list of registered voters in the hands of the polling officer shall not set forth the residence or occupation of the voter, then it shall not be necessary to put the second or third questions aforesaid (as the case may be), anything in the thirty-eighth section of this Act notwithstanding.

If residence or occupation is not set forth in list, those questions need not be put.

42. If any person tendering his vote shall wilfully make a false answer to any question which any polling officer is, by the thirty-eighth, thirty-ninth, and fortieth sections of this Act, authorized to put, such person shall, upon conviction, be liable to be imprisoned with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding two years.

Penalty for false answers.

43. Any person who, knowing that he is not the person registered by or under a certain name upon any list of registered voters, shall nevertheless wilfully assume or pretend to be the person so registered, and shall vote or attempt to vote as being the person so registered, shall, whether any such questions as aforesaid shall have been put to him or not, be liable, upon conviction, to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and in case of non-payment to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding six months, unless the fine imposed be sooner paid. Nothing in this section contained shall affect the provisions of the last preceding section in regard to the punishment for any false answer made to any question put, but no person prosecuted to trial either under this or the last preceding section shall be afterwards prosecuted under the other of the said sections.

Penalty for per-sonation of voters.

Person tried under either this or the preceding section, not liable to prosecution under the other.

44. If any polling officer shall have reasonable and probable cause for believing that any person has, in the presence of such polling officer, committed an offence under or against either of the two last preceding sections of this Act, it shall be lawful for such polling officer by verbal order to be given and acted upon before such person shall have left the polling place in which such offence, if any, shall have been committed, to authorize and require any officer of the law proper for the execution of criminal warrants, or any private person or persons, to detain in some convenient place such person so believed to have offended as aforesaid until such person shall be brought before some Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law. But if such person will, whilst so detained, give bail by two sufficient sureties in twenty-five pounds each, or one such surety in fifty pounds, that he will when duly summoned appear to answer the charge against him, and that he will accept service of the summons at some place to be mentioned in the bail bond, he shall thereupon be liberated. Such bail bond as aforesaid may be entered into before the polling officer who shall have ordered his detention, or before any Resident Magistrate or Justice of the Peace.

Polling officer may, on reasonable grounds of suspicion that person has contravened either of the two last sections, verbally order his apprehension.

But he may be released on bail.

No. 14—1874.

No more than one person to vote on same name.

Person rejected may complain under forty-seventh section.

Penalty for voting more than once at any one election.

In any electoral division other than Cape Town and Graham's Town, any person whose vote was not registered must complain within seven days to Civil Commissioner.

Civil Commissioner receiving any such complaint, to investigate it.

45. No polling officer shall permit more persons than one to vote upon or in regard to any one name upon the list of registered voters. Should any person claim to vote upon or in regard to any name upon or in respect of which name another person shall have already voted, the vote of the person so claiming shall be rejected; but such person shall be at liberty to complain as in the forty-seventh section of this Act provided. But nothing in this section shall prevent different persons of the same name, who are all registered, from all voting, each in regard to one of the said names.

46. If any person shall vote more than once at any one election for a member or for members of the Legislative Council, or more than once in any Electoral Division for a member or for members of the House of Assembly for such division, he shall be liable upon conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty-five pounds, and in case of non-payment, to imprisonment with or without hard labour for any period not exceeding three months unless the fine imposed shall be sooner paid.

47. It shall be competent for any voter registered or alleging himself to be registered as such in any Electoral Division other than the Electoral Divisions of Cape Town and Graham's Town, who shall complain that his vote, duly tendered at the proper polling place in such Electoral Division, was rejected by the polling officer who took the poll at such polling place, or who shall complain that at such polling place a person not entitled to vote thereat was, whether objected to or not, admitted to vote thereat, to lodge with the Civil Commissioner of the Fiscal Division which constitutes, or, if it does not constitute, gives its name to the Electoral Division in which such poll was taken, his complaint in writing, stating the name of the person so rejected or admitted, and requesting that the grounds of such complaint may be investigated. Such complaint must be lodged within seven days next after the day on which the poll in question was taken, otherwise no notice shall be taken of it, nor shall such poll as taken be capable of being impeached by any action or proceeding whatsoever by any person who shall not have lodged his complaint as aforesaid within the said space of seven days. But nothing in this section contained shall affect the fifty-fifth or any other section of the Constitution Ordinance, or delay the declaration or proclamation of the member or members of the House of Assembly as in the fifty-fifth section directed to be made by the returning officer, or delay any other act or proceeding by the said Ordinance enjoined in reference to the election of members of the Legislative Council.

48. As often as the Civil Commissioner shall receive any such complaint in manner and form as aforesaid, he shall in the most speedy and inexpensive manner practicable cause the polling officer and the party complaining, and the party complained against, if any and if known, to attend before him, and shall in their presence inquire into the grounds of such complaint. If he shall adjudge that the vote of any person complaining that his vote was rejected was a vote which ought of right to have been received, then in case the poll in question were a poll for a member or for members of the Legislative Council, the Civil Commissioner shall allow the complainant to vote in manner and form as in the forty-first section of the Constitution Ordinance specified, precisely as if such Civil Commissioner were a polling officer taking a poll; but adding after the signature of such Civil Commissioner, that his vote has been taken under this section of this Act, and shall transmit the printed list or polling paper containing such vote to the Colonial Secretary, who shall, in case the committee of scrutineers have not completed their scrutiny, transmit the same to such committee, to be reckoned by them amongst the other votes. In case it shall be made to appear to the Civil Commissioner that the vote of the voter so by him allowed to vote as aforesaid had been rejected by the polling officer because another person had already personated such voter, and voted as being such voter, then the Civil Commissioner shall by endorsement upon the printed list or polling paper certify that the name of the said voter had at the poll been fraudulently assumed by some person who had personated him and voted in his name; and the committee of scrutineers, receiving such printed list or polling paper bearing such endorsement, shall, besides reckoning the votes of such voter, set aside and treat as non-existent the votes upon the printed list or polling paper signed by the person who personated such voter and voted in his name, or signed at the request of such person by the polling officer, should such paper by reason that it is the only one which came from the same polling place bearing the same name, or by any other proof afforded by any other documents in the hands of the scrutineers, be capable of being identified. In case the complaint shall be that some person not entitled to vote at such poll was admitted to vote, and did vote thereat, and the ground of such complaint shall be established to the satisfaction of the Civil Commissioner, he shall, in case the poll in question was a poll for a member or for members of the Legislative Council, certify in writing that it has been made to appear to him in a proceeding under this section of this Act that the person who voted at the poll in question by and under the name of ——— was not entitled so to vote; and shall transmit such certificate to the Colonial Secretary, who shall, in case the committee of scrutineers have not yet completed their scrutiny, transmit such certificate to such committee, who shall thereupon set aside and treat as non-existent the votes given by such person, should the printed list or polling paper signed by such person be, for any such reason as that hereinbefore specified in regard to the certain other polling paper aforesaid, capable of being identified. Should the committee of scrutineers have completed their scrutiny before any such certificate or certificates as aforesaid shall have been transmitted to them by the Colonial Secretary, then the Colonial Secretary shall require the said committee to re-assemble, and shall transmit every such certificate to such committee, who shall proceed thereupon as hereinbefore directed in order to correct the number of votes formerly certified by such committee under the forty-fourth section of the Constitution Ordinance.

If election is for Legislative Council, Civil Commissioner to inform Colonial Secretary seven days after such election, whether any such complaint is made, so that notice may be given to scrutineers.

49. Every such Civil Commissioner as is in the last preceding section described shall, at the expiration of seven days next after the last day upon which a poll was taken for a member or for members of the Legislative Council, at any polling place in the Electoral Division with which he is connected, inform the Colonial Secretary whether any and, if so, how many complaints, under the forty-seventh section of this Act, have been lodged with him, to the end that the said Colonial Secretary may not require the committee of scrutineers to re-assemble until he shall have in his hands the whole number of certificates likely to be transmitted to him: And every Civil Commissioner who shall have informed the Colonial Secretary of any complaint which such Civil Commissioner shall afterwards find to be ill-founded shall forthwith report to the Colonial Secretary that such complaint has been dismissed.

Duty of scrutineers on receipt of amended voting papers.

50. When the committee of scrutineers, so re-assembled as aforesaid, shall have received all such certificates as aforesaid which shall have been transmitted to the Colonial Secretary, and shall have revised the number of votes for the several candidates as the same shall be affected by such certificates, and shall have certified to the Colonial Secretary, de novo, the number of votes given for each candidate, then in case the difference between the number of votes as originally certified by the said committee and the number of votes as certified de novo shall not be such as to affect the seat of any of the members already proclaimed, or to alter the ranking or position as amongst themselves of any of the members so proclaimed, the number of votes as certified de novo shall be published by Government notice in the Government Gazette for general information, but shall not be further regarded. If, however, the difference aforesaid shall be such as to prove that any candidate already proclaimed a member had fewer votes than some candidate not proclaimed a member, or that the ranking or position as amongst themselves of any of the members proclaimed requires to be altered, then the Governor shall, by a proclamation reciting the former proclamation and the grounds that have since arisen for amending the same, proclaim afresh the names of the candidates in the order, as regards numbers of votes, in which they shall be found to stand after the revision and rectification of the votes as hereinbefore provided: And as often as it shall appear by such proclamation that any person formerly proclaimed a member has received fewer votes than some other person who was not proclaimed a member, the person formerly proclaimed a member shall, upon and from the issuing of such proclamation, cease to be a member, and the other person who received a greater number of votes shall thenceforth become the member in his room and stead. In case the revision and rectification aforesaid shall have the effect of showing an equality of votes between any member who was formerly proclaimed and any candidate who was not proclaimed, the question between them shall be determined by lot, to be drawn in manner and form as in the forty-fourth section of the Constitution Ordinance provided: And should the effect of such revision and rectification be to show an equality of votes between any two or more members who, when formerly proclaimed, appeared to have had a majority one above another, then the order in which the names of the said members shall stand in the amended proclamation shall be determined by lot, to be drawn in the same manner. But the day of the publication of the first proclamation, and not the day of the publication of the amended proclamation, shall, for the purpose of computing the time for which members shall hold their seats, be deemed to be the date of the election of the members proclaimed as such by such amended proclamation.

Members to be proclaimed afresh, if difference in the number of votes alters their position.

51. In case the poll in regard to which any complaint as is in the forty-seventh section of this Act mentioned shall be lodged shall have been a poll taken for a member or for members of the House of Assembly, and if such complaint shall not have been inquired into and disposed of before the declaration or proclamation of the member or members, as in the fifty-fifth section of the Constitution Ordinance directed, the Civil Commissioner, in case he shall adjudge such complaint to be well founded, shall certify to the Colonial Secretary, in case of a vote or votes rejected at the poll, the name or names of the candidate or candidates for whom the complainant now votes, and in the case of a vote or votes admitted at the poll, from what candidate the vote or votes in question are to be deducted.   - (5) The Court before which the trial of any election petition shall take place may adjourn the trial from time to time and from place to place.
  - (6) Where, on the trial of an election petition praying the Court to determine that some other person than the respondent is entitled to be declared duly elected in place of the respondent, it is proved that any person who voted for the respondent was bribed or treated or subjected to undue influence by any one on behalf of the respondent, or that such person was guilty of personation, every vote given for the respondent by such person shall be deducted from the total number of votes given for the respondent at the election. If conclusive evidence cannot be obtained as to the number of votes given for the respondent by such person, there shall be deducted from the total number of votes aforesaid as many votes as such person was lawfully entitled to record at the election.
  - (7) At the conclusion of the trial of any election petitions, the Court shall determine whether the respondent was duly elected, or whether any, and if so, what person other than the respondent was or is entitled to be declared duly elected; and, in the case of a respondent who is a member of the Legislative Council, and who is alleged to have ceased to possess the qualifications by law required, whether such respondent has ceased to possess such qualifications. If the Court shall determine that the respondent was duly elected, such election shall be and remain as valid as if no petition had been presented against the same. If the Court shall determine that the respondent was not duly elected, but that some other person was or is entitled to be declared duly elected, the respondent shall forthwith be deemed to have vacated his seat; and the Court shall forthwith certify such determination to the Governor, who shall thereupon, by proclamation in the Gazette, declare such other person duly elected. If the Court shall determine that the respondent was not duly elected, and that no other person was or is entitled to be declared duly elected, or, in the case of a respondent who is a member of the Legislative Council, and is alleged to have ceased to possess the qualification by law required, that he has ceased to possess such qualification, the seat of the respondent shall forthwith be deemed to be vacant, and the Court shall forthwith certify such determination to the Governor, who shall thereupon command, in manner provided by the seventy-third section of the Constitution Ordinance, that a new election shall take place for the purpose of filling up such vacancy, and like proceedings shall take place in regard to such new election as are ordered in regard to elections for filling up vacancies by the said seventy-third section.

- (8) Where any charge is made in an election petition of any corrupt practice having been committed at the election to which the petition refers, the Court shall, in addition to such certificate, and at the same time, report in writing to the Governor as follows:
- (a) Whether any corrupt practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election, and the nature of such corrupt practice.
  - (b) The names of all persons (if any) who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt practice.
  - (c) Whether corrupt practices have, or whether there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the election to which the petition relates.
- (9) The Court may at the same time make a special report to the Governor as to any matters arising in the course of the trial, an account of which ought in its judgment to be submitted to the Governor.
- (10) A copy of every certificate and report made by any Court as aforesaid to the Governor shall, as soon as may be, be presented by him to the House of Parliament, the election of a member of which has been the subject of the trial before such Court.

9. If it shall appear to the judge of any Circuit Court on the trial of an election petition referred to such Court that any question or questions of law as to the admissibility of evidence or otherwise require further consideration by the Court, it shall be lawful for the said judge to postpone the determination of the case and the granting of the said certificate until the determination of such question or questions by the Court to which the petition was presented, and for this purpose to reserve any such question or questions for the consideration and determination of such Court.

Report affirming corrupt practices to be sent to Attorney-General.

10. If the Court shall state in the report on the trial of an election petition under this Act that any person has been guilty of corrupt practices or that there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have extensively prevailed at the election to which the petition relates, such statement, with the evidence taken at the trial, shall be laid before the Attorney-General, with a view to the institution of any prosecution proper to be instituted under the circumstances.

PROCEEDINGS.

Form of petition.

11. An election petition under this Act shall be in such form and state such matters as may be prescribed.

More than one respondent.

12. Two or more candidates may be made respondents to the same petition, and their case may, for the sake of convenience, be tried at the same time, but for all the purposes of this Act such petition shall be deemed to be a separate petition against each respondent.

Petitions relating to same election to be heard together.

13. When, under this Act, more petitions than one are presented relating to the same election or return, all such petitions shall, in the list of petitions, be bracketed together, and shall be dealt with as one petition, but such petition shall stand in the election list in the place where the last of such petitions would have stood if it had been the only petition presented, unless the Court or a judge thereof shall otherwise direct.

Notes of evidence on trial.

14. On the trial of an election petition under this Act notes shall be taken of the evidence given at the trial, and a copy of such evidence shall accompany the certificate made by the Court to the Governor.

RULES OF COURT.

Rules under this Act.

15. The Judges of the Supreme Court acting in pursuance of any Act for the time being regulating the making of general rules of Court, may from time to time make, and alter, rules and orders for the effectual execution of this Act, and the regulation of the practice, procedure, and costs of election petitions, and the trial thereof, and the certifying and reporting thereon.

In the absence of rules, Court may make order as to form of proceeding.

16. Until Rules of Court have been made in pursuance of this Act, and so far as such rules do not extend, the Court to which any election petition shall be presented may make such order in regard to the form and manner or time of proceeding as to such Court shall seem fit.

JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

Jurisdiction of the Courts.

17. The Supreme Court and the Eastern Districts Court, and High Court of Griqualand, or any Circuit Court, respectively, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, have the same powers, jurisdiction, and authority with reference to an election petition pending in or before any such Court, and the proceedings thereon, as such Courts respectively would have if such petition were an ordinary case within the jurisdiction of any such Court.

No. 9-1883.

WITNESSES.

18. Witnesses shall be summoned and sworn in the same manner as in a trial before any such Court as is in the last preceding section mentioned, and shall be subject to the same penalties for perjury.

Summoning witnesses.

19. On the trial of an election petition under this Act the Court before which the petition is to be tried may examine any witness or any person in Court, although such witness or person is not called or examined by any party to the petition. After the examination of a witness as aforesaid by the Court as aforesaid, such witness may be cross-examined by or on behalf of the petitioner and respondent, or either of them.

Witnesses not summoned may be examined.

20. No person who is called as a witness at the trial of any election petition shall be excused from answering any question relating to any corrupt practice at or connected with any election then forming the subject of inquiry, on the ground that the answer thereto may criminate or tend to criminate himself: Provided that where any witness shall answer every question relating to the matters aforesaid which he shall be required by the Court to answer, and the answer to which may criminate or tend to criminate him, he shall be entitled to receive from the Court under the hand of the Registrar a certificate stating that such witness was, upon his examination, required by the said Court to answer questions or a question relating to the matters aforesaid, the answer or answers to which criminated or tended to criminate him, and had answered all such questions or question; and if any information, indictment, or action be at any time thereafter pending in any Court against such witness for any offence under "The Corrupt Practices at Elections Prevention Act, 1859," or any other Act for the prevention of corrupt practices at elections, or for which he might have been prosecuted or proceeded against under any such Act committed by him previous to the time of his giving his evidence, and at or in relation to the election concerning or in relation to which the witness may have been so examined, the Court shall, on production and proof of such certificate, stay the proceedings in such information, indictment, or action: Provided that no statement made by any person in answer to any question put to him by or before such Court, shall, except in cases of indictment for perjury, be admissible in evidence against him in any proceeding, civil or criminal.

Witness not entitled to refuse to answer because he may criminate himself, but protected from consequences of such answer.

21. The reasonable expenses incurred by any person appearing to give evidence at the trial of an election petition under this Act according to the scale usually allowed to witnesses on the trial of civil actions in the superior Courts of Law in this Colony, may be allowed to such person, and such expenses shall be deemed to be costs of the petition.

WITHDRAWAL AND ABATEMENT OF ELECTION PETITIONS.

Petition not to be withdrawn without leave.

22. An election petition under this Act shall not be withdrawn without the leave of the Court to which it was presented, or of a Circuit Court appointed to try the same, and after such notice has been given as such Court may direct.

Substitution of petitioner may be asked.

23. On the hearing of the application for withdrawal, any person who might have been a petitioner in respect of such election to which the petition relates may apply to the Court to be substituted as a petitioner for the petitioners so desirous of withdrawing the petition.

Court may order substitution.

24. The Court may, if it think fit, substitute as a petitioner any such applicant as aforesaid, and may further, if the proposed withdrawal is in the opinion of the Court induced by any corrupt bargain or consideration, by order direct that the security given on behalf of the original petitioner shall remain as security for any costs that may be incurred by the substituted petitioner, and that to the extent of the sum named in such security the original petitioner shall be liable to pay the costs of the substituted petitioner.

Security.

When fresh security required.

25. If no such order is made with respect to the security given on behalf of the original petitioner, security to the same amount as would be required in the case of a new petition, and subject to the like conditions, shall be given on behalf of the substituted petitioner before he proceeds with his petition, and within fourteen days after the order of substitution.

Substituted petitioners.

26. Subject as aforesaid a substituted petitioner shall stand in the same position, as nearly as may be, and be subject to the same liabilities as the original petitioner.

Costs of withdrawn petitions.

27. If a petition is withdrawn the petitioner shall be liable to pay the costs of the respondent.

Consent of co-petitioners required for withdrawal.

28. When there are more petitioners than one, no application to withdraw a petition shall be made without the consent of all the petitioners.

29. An election petition under this Act shall be abated by the death of the sole petitioner or petitioners, but such abatement shall not affect the liability of the petitioner or petitioners to the payment of costs previously incurred.

Consequence of abatement.

30. On the abatement of a petition, any person who might have been a petitioner in respect of the election to which the petition relates may, within twenty-one days after such abatement, apply to the Court to which such petition was presented, or any judge thereof, to be substituted as a petitioner, and such Court or judge may thereupon, if it or he think fit, substitute as a petitioner any such applicant who is desirous of being substituted, and on whose behalf security to the same amount given as is required in the case of a new petition.

No. 9—1883.

31. A respondent who has given notice that he does not intend to oppose the petition shall not be allowed to appear or to act as a party against such petition in any proceedings thereon, and shall not sit or vote in the House of Parliament to which he had been elected, pending the result of the trial of the petition, and the Court shall in all cases in which such notice has been given, report the same to the said President of the Legislative Council or the Speaker of the House of Assembly, as the case may be.

Respondent who has given notice that he will not oppose cannot appear.

Costs.

32. All costs, charges, and expenses of and incidental to the presentation of a petition under this Act, and to the proceedings consequent thereon, shall be defrayed by the parties to the petition in such manner and in such proportions as the Court before which the same is tried or to be tried may determine, regard being had to the disallowance of any costs, charges, or expenses which may, in the opinion of the Court, have been caused by vexatious conduct, unfounded allegations or unfounded objections on the part either of the petitioner or the respondent, and regard being had to the discouragement of any needless expense by throwing the burden of defraying the same on the parties by whom it has been caused, whether such parties are or are not on the whole successful.

Court to decide as to costs.

33. The costs may be taxed and recovered in the same manner as the costs of an ordinary action at law in the superior Courts of this Colony.

Taxation of costs.

34. If any petitioner in an election petition presented under this Act shall neglect or refuse for the space of one month after demand to pay to any person summoned as a witness on his behalf, or of the respondent, any sum certified to be due to him for his costs, charges, or expenses, and if such neglect or refusal be proved to the satisfaction of the Court to which such petition was presented, every person who has entered into a recognizance relating to such petition under the provisions of this Act, shall be held to have made default in his said recognizance, and the Registrar of the said Court shall thereupon certify such recognizance to be forfeited, and execution may thereupon, by leave of the said Court, be sued out thereon at the suit of any such witness or respondent from time to time as occasion may require.

Neglect to pay witnesses.

in respect of such testimony, it shall be lawful for such person to move the Court to which the petition was presented, to order, and the said Court shall, upon being satisfied that such disqualification was procured by reason of perjury, order that such disqualification shall thenceforth cease and determine, and the same shall cease and determine accordingly.

ACT

For Improving the Administration of Criminal Justice.

Preamble.

WHEREAS offenders frequently escape conviction on their trials by reason of the technical strictness of criminal proceedings in matters not material to the merits of the case: And whereas, such technical strictness may safely be relaxed in many instances, so as to ensure the punishment of the guilty, without depriving the accused of any just means of defence: And whereas, a failure of justice often takes place on the trial of persons charged with offences against the law, by reason of variances between the statement in the indictment on which the trial is had, and the proof of names, dates, matters, and circumstances therein mentioned, not material to the merits of the case, and by the misstatement whereof the person on trial cannot have been prejudiced in his defence: Be it, therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Repugnant laws
repealed.

1. So much of any former Law, Act, or Ordinance, and of any rule of the Supreme Court, or of the Circuit Court, or of the Courts of Resident Magistrates as shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act is hereby repealed.

2. From and after the taking effect of this Act whenever on the trial of any indictment in the Supreme or any Circuit Court for any crime or offence there shall appear to be any variance between the statement in such indictment and the evidence offered in proof thereof in the name of any Division, City, Municipality, Field-cornetcy, or place mentioned or described in any such indictment, or in the name or description of any person or persons, or body politic or corporate, therein stated or alleged to be the owner or owners of any property movable or immovable which shall form the subject of any offence charged therein, or in the name or description of any person or persons body politic or corporate therein stated or alleged to be injured or damaged, or intended to be injured or damaged by the commission of such offence, or in the christian name or surname or both christian name and surname, or other description whatever of any person or persons whomsoever therein named or described, or in the name or description of any matter or thing whatsoever therein named or described, or in the ownership of any property named or described therein, it shall and may be lawful for the Court before which the trial shall be had, if it shall consider such variance not material to the merits of the case and that the defendant cannot be prejudiced thereby in his defence on such merits, to order such indictment to be amended, according to the proof by some officer of the Court or other person both in that part of the indictment where such variance occurs and in every other part of the indictment which it may become necessary to amend, on such terms as to postponing the trial to be had before the same or another jury as such Court shall think reasonable; and after any such amendment the trial shall proceed, whenever the same shall be proceeded with, in the same manner in all respects and with the same consequences both with respect to the liability of witnesses to be indicted for perjury and otherwise as if no such variance had occurred.

No. 3—1861.
 Certain discrepancies between indictment and evidence may be corrected.

Trial to proceed on amended indictment.

3. Every verdict and judgment which shall be given after the making of any amendment under the provisions of this Act, shall be of the same force and effect in all respects as if the indictment had originally been in the same form in which it was after such amendment was made.

Verdict as valid as if indictment had been originally correct.

4. In any indictment for murder or culpable homicide preferred after the taking effect of this Act, it shall not be necessary to set forth the manner in which or the means by which the death of the deceased was caused, but it shall be sufficient in every indictment for murder to charge that the defendant did wrongfully, unlawfully, and maliciously kill and murder the deceased, and it shall be sufficient in every indictment for culpable homicide to charge that the defendant did wrongfully and unlawfully kill the deceased.

In indictment for murder or culpable homicide charge as to fact sufficient.

5. In any indictment for forging, uttering, stealing, embezzling, destroying, or concealing any instrument, it shall be sufficient to describe such instrument by any name or designation by which the same may be usually known or by the purport thereof, without setting out any copy or facsimile thereof or otherwise describing the same or the value thereof.

Nor in any other case concerning written or printed documents.

6. In all other cases wherever it shall be necessary to make any averment in any indictment, as to any instrument, whether the same consists wholly or in part of writing, print, or figures, it shall be sufficient to describe such instrument by any name or designation by which the same may be usually known, or by the purport thereof, without setting out any copy or facsimile of the whole or any part thereof.

Proof of intent to defraud sufficient without proving whom intended to defraud.

7. From and after the taking effect of this Act it shall be sufficient in any indictment for forging, uttering, offering, disposing of, or putting off any instrument whatsoever, or for committing or attempting to commit theft by means of false pretences, to allege that the defendant did the act with intent to defraud, without alleging the intent of the defendant to be to defraud any particular person; and on the trial of any of the offences in this section mentioned it shall not be necessary to prove an intent on the part of the defendant to defraud any particular person, but it shall be sufficient to prove that the defendant did the act charged with an intent to defraud.

How if on trial for commission of an offence its attempt only be proved.

8. And whereas offenders often escape conviction by reason that such persons ought to have been charged with attempting to commit offences, and not with the actual commission thereof. For remedy thereof be it enacted that if on the trial of any person charged with any crime or offence it shall appear to the jury or Court of Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, upon the evidence, that the defendant did not complete the offence charged, but that he was guilty only of an attempt to commit the same, such person shall not, by reason thereof be entitled to be acquitted, but the jury shall be at liberty to return as their verdict and the Court aforesaid to pronounce as its judgment that the defendant is not guilty of the crime or offence charged, but is guilty of an attempt to commit the same, and thereupon such person shall be liable to be punished in the same manner as if he had been convicted upon an indictment for attempting to commit the particular crime or offence charged in the said indictment; and no person so tried as herein lastly mentioned shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for an attempt to commit the crime or offence for which he was so tried.

If charge of robbery fail and assault with intent be proved.

9. If upon the trial of any person upon any indictment for robbery it shall appear to the jury upon the evidence that the defendant did not commit the crime of robbery, but that he did commit an assault with intent to rob, the defendant shall not by reason thereof be entitled to be acquitted, but the jury shall be at liberty to return as their verdict that the defendant is guilty of an assault with intent to rob, and thereupon such defendant shall be liable to be punished in the same manner as if he had been convicted upon an indictment for assaulting with intent to rob; <sup>(1)</sup> and no person so tried as is herein lastly mentioned shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for an assault with intent to commit the robbery for which he was so tried. And as often as any person shall be charged with the crime of assault with intent to murder, he may be found guilty of an assault with intent to do some grievous bodily harm, or of a common assault; and in like manner a person charged with assault with intent to do some grievous bodily harm, may be found guilty of a common assault. <sup>(2)</sup>

No. 3—1861.

Assault with intent to murder.

10. If upon any indictment for theft it shall appear that the property alleged in such indictment to have been stolen at one time was stolen at different times, the prosecutor shall not by reason thereof, be required to elect upon which taking he will proceed, and the prisoner shall be liable to be convicted of every such taking in like manner as if every such taking had been separately charged.

How if property alleged to have been stolen at one time shall have been stolen at different times.

11. It shall be lawful in any indictment for theft to allege that the goods charged to have been stolen were taken at divers times between any two certain days stated in the indictment, and upon such an indictment proof may be given of the stealing of the goods charged to have been stolen upon any day or days between the two certain days aforesaid.

It shall be sufficient to allege the dates between which thefts took place.

12. In every indictment in which it shall be necessary to make averment as to any money or any note of any bank, it shall be sufficient to describe such money or bank-note simply as money, without specifying any particular coin or bank-note, and such allegation, so far as regards the description of the property, shall be sustained by proof of any amount of coin or of any bank-note, although the particular species of coin of which such amount was composed, or the particular nature of the bank-note shall not be proved, and in cases of theft of money or bank-notes by embezzlement and theft of money or bank-notes by false pretences by proof that the offender embezzled or obtained any piece of coin or any bank-note, or any portion of the value thereof, although such piece of coin or bank-note may have been delivered to him in order that some part of the value thereof should be returned to the party delivering the same, or to any other person, and such part shall have been returned accordingly.

Not necessary to specify particular coin or bank-note stolen.

13. No indictment for any offence shall be held insufficient for want of the averment of any matter unnecessary to be proved; nor for that any person mentioned in the indictment is designated by a name of office or other descriptive appellation instead of his proper name; nor for omitting to state the time at which the

14. If in any case the defence of any defendant shall be that commonly called an alibi, and the Court before which the trial shall be had shall consider that the defendant might be prejudiced in making such defence if proof were admitted that the act or crime in question was committed on some day or time other than the day or time laid in the indictment, then, although the day or time proposed to be proved shall be within the space of three months before or after the day laid in the indictment, the said Court shall reject such proof, and, thereupon, all and singular the same consequences shall take place as are in the last proviso of the last preceding section mentioned, anything in the said section to the contrary notwithstanding. And if in any case no day shall be stated in the indictment, or an impossible day, or a day that never happened, then it shall be lawful for the defendant at any time before his arraignment to apply to the Supreme Court, or any judge thereof, or any Circuit Court, and such Court or Judge, upon being satisfied by affidavit or otherwise, that such defendant might be prejudiced in his defence upon the merits, unless some day or time were stated, shall make such order in that behalf as under the circumstances of the particular case shall to justice appertain.

15. Every objection to any indictment for any formal defect apparent on the face thereof shall be taken by exception, or by motion to quash such indictment before the jury shall be sworn and not afterwards; and every Court before which any such objection shall be taken for any formal defect may, if it be thought necessary, cause the indictment to be forthwith amended in such particular by such officer of the Court or other person, and thereupon the trial shall proceed as if no such defect had appeared: Provided, also, that although such indictment may have been presented by a grand jury, <sup>(1)</sup> the consent of such grand jury shall not be necessary, anything in the ninety-ninth rule or order of the Supreme and Circuit Courts to the contrary notwithstanding.

17. In any criminal case prosecuted in any Circuit Court at the instance of the public prosecutor, the process of such Circuit Court may be sued out for summoning as a witness in such case any person required to give evidence, although such person shall reside or be within some district of the Colony other than that in or for which such Circuit Court shall be appointed to be holden. As often as any case shall, under the Act aforesaid No. 12, 1860, be remitted by the Attorney-General to any Court of Resident Magistrate, such Magistrate shall, with all convenient despatch, cause the accused person to be brought before his Court, and shall inform him that the preparatory examination in the course of which he voluntarily admitted his guilt, having been forwarded to the Attorney-General, has been remitted by that officer to the said Court, and such Magistrate shall ask the said accused person whether he has anything to say why sentence should not then be passed upon him for the offence of which he has confessed himself guilty.

In a case remitted by the Attorney-General under Act 12, 1860, sentence may at once be passed.

26. If in answer to the question last aforesaid the said accused person shall desire to have any witness formerly examined, recalled, or any person not yet examined, called as a witness, or if such accused person shall state any other ground why sentence should not then be passed upon him, the Magistrate shall consider what is urged by such accused person in support of his application for further evidence, or of his objection to be then sentenced, and shall pass or postpone sentence as he shall in his judgment deem to be most in accordance with real and substantial justice.

29. Cases remitted by the Attorney-General to Courts of Resident Magistrate exercising their ordinary jurisdiction under the Act aforesaid, No. 20, 1856, shall be proceeded with in such Courts in like manner in all respects as if no preparatory examination had been previously taken in such cases, save and except that when and as often as the Resident Magistrate who shall try any such case shall be himself the person by or before whom the preparatory examination in such case was taken it shall not be imperative upon him to recall any witness who formerly gave his evidence in the presence of such Magistrate and of the person accused, and it shall be competent and sufficient to read as evidence the deposition of such witness: Provided, that no deposition of any witness not previously examined in the presence of both such Magistrate and such accused person shall be read or used at the subsequent trial, but such witness, if a necessary one, shall be again summoned and be examined in like manner as if he had not been before examined in the case: And provided that as often as it shall appear to such Magistrate himself, or be made to appear to him by either the prosecutor or the person accused, that the ends of justice might be served by having a witness formerly examined in the presence of such Magistrate and of the person accused summoned again for further examination, then such witness shall be summoned and examined accordingly.

Preamble.

Whenever any person shall be indicted before the Supreme or any Circuit Court, or before the Court of the Eastern Districts, for any crime to which such person shall plead guilty, and it shall appear to the prosecutor that such person has been formerly convicted of any offence which might formerly have been charged in an indictment or plaint against the same person for the same cause, in aggravation of the crime to which such person shall have pleaded guilty, and notice shall have been duly served on such person that evidence of such former conviction would be offered against him, as provided by the terms of the Act No. 3 of 1861, it shall be lawful, on such person pleading guilty, for the prosecutor, before sentence is pronounced, to offer to prove such former conviction or convictions, and thereupon the Court shall ask the prisoner whether he confesses that he is the person so appearing to have been formerly convicted, and that he was so convicted as alleged, and if he shall not confess such matters, then to empanel a jury to try the truth of such matters, or such of them as the prisoner shall not confess; and if on such trial the same matters, or such of them as he shall not confess, shall be proved, or if he shall confess such matters, or any of them, then the Court shall take into account such of them as shall be proved or confessed in awarding sentence for the crime to which such prisoner shall have pleaded guilty (1).

Persons indicted for theft may on such indictment be convicted of receiving stolen goods, knowing them to have been stolen.

1. On the trial of any person upon any indictment or charge for theft, it shall and may be lawful for the jury or Court of Resident Magistrate, as the case may be, before whom such case shall be tried, should they consider that the evidence, though not sufficient to substantiate the charge of theft, is sufficient to show that the prisoner was guilty of receiving stolen goods knowing them to have been stolen, to find that the prisoner is guilty of receiving stolen goods knowing them to have been stolen, and upon any such finding the prisoner shall be liable to suffer, and shall suffer, the same penalty as if convicted of the like offence on an indictment or charge specifically framed for the crime of receiving stolen goods knowing them to have been stolen.

And whereas it is found that in many cases of theft in this Colony the offenders are not induced to commit such offences by need or poverty, but are themselves possessed of cattle, sheep, or other property: And whereas it is expedient that the cost incurred in their prosecution and in the prevention of the like outrages should be to some extent made good by such offenders: Be it enacted as follows:

Court may impose fine in addition to sentence passed for offence committed.

2. It shall and may be lawful for any Court empowered to pass sentence on any person for the offence of theft, or of receiving stolen goods knowing the same to have been stolen, or of having been accessory to any theft, before the fact, to impose upon such offender, in addition to such sentence, a fine not exceeding in amount ten times the value of the property which such offender shall be then and there sentenced for stealing, or for receiving knowing the same to have been stolen, such fine, if not paid, to be levied of the movable property of the said offender under and by virtue of a warrant under the hand of the Judge or Magistrate imposing such fine, together with the costs of such levy. The amount of such fine when paid or levied shall be paid into the public treasury; and it shall and may be lawful for the Governor, upon the recommendation of the Judge or Magistrate who shall have tried the case, out of the amount so paid or levied as aforesaid, to make restitution, in whole or in part, to the person from whom the property the subject matter of such offence aforesaid shall have been stolen, of the value of such property, and further to reward any person or persons, not being himself or themselves concerned in the theft, or accessory thereto, who may have given such information as to lead to the apprehension or conviction of the offender or to the recovery of the stolen property; and when and as often as any such fine as aforesaid shall be imposed by a Resident Magistrate, such Resident Magistrate shall forward the record of the proceedings in the said case to the Registrar of the Supreme

In case of reduction or disallowance of fine, refund to be made.

4. Nothing in this Act shall be held to repeal any of the provisions of the Act No. 16 of the year 1864; but whenever judgment shall be given under the fourth section of the same Act in favour of the owner of any cattle or sheep supposed to have been stolen by any accused person, such judgment shall be considered by the Court which shall try such accused person in awarding such fine as is hereinbefore mentioned, should such person be found guilty.

ABOLITION OF ALL LAWS AND USAGES AUTHORIZING THE CONFISCATION OF THE PROPERTY OF CRIMINALS.

PLACAAT. [April 22, 1779.]

The States-General of the United Netherlands, unto all who shall see or hear read these presents, greeting :

Know ye that, although from the earliest times unto the present day, in the Colonies of this State, as well in the East as West Indies, comprised under the style and situated within the limits of the charter of the East and West India Companies, the power has been exercised of confiscation of goods of delinquents, who, in consequence of crime committed had forfeited liberty and life, yet it has appeared to us, not only that abuse might be made of that power, but likewise that, in its exercise, several disputes and difficulties constantly arise ; and that, moreover, actual injustice is inherent in it, inasmuch as by such confiscation the wives, children, or near relations of such delinquents are made, although themselves innocent, to share in the punishments imposed on them by the loss of the goods confiscated. Preamble.

That for these and other reasons, for the general good of the inhabitants, and in order to remove the aforesaid hardship in several Kingdoms and States, and especially in the Provinces of Holland and Zeeland, where heretofore this power was exercised in the same manner, it hath been disused or wholly abrogated.

Now, therefore, we, being desirous in like manner to provide therein for the welfare of our aforesaid Colonies and our inhabitants thereof, have been pleased, upon deliberation with the Council of State, after previous consultation and communication with His Highness the Prince of Orange and Nassau, our hereditary Stadtholder, to decree, as of our sovereign power and authority we do hereby decree, that from henceforth no confiscation of goods of delinquents, entire or partial, shall or may be ordered in our Colo- Confiscation of the property of criminals abolished in all Colonies.

And in order that no person may pretend ignorance of the same, we order and command the authorities of the chartered East India Company, the representative of His Royal Highness and authorities of the West India Company, the Directors of the Colony of Suriname, as also the Directors of the Colony of Berbice to cause this our placaaat to be published and affixed in all directions in the respective Colonies under their authority, at the places where it is customary to make such publications and affixions, and to cause the same to be observed and acted upon by all superior and inferior Courts of Justice of the aforesaid Colonies.

Notwithstanding anything in the third section of the said recited Act contained, whenever any crown lands shall have been put up for lease by public auction, under or by virtue of the said recited Act, and the highest rent which shall be bidden therefor shall be deemed inadequate, then it shall be lawful for the Governor to lease such lands as shall have been so put up, at any time within twelve calendar months from the time of such public auction, by tender or private contract, at any rent exceeding the highest rent which shall have been bidden therefor at such public auction, which shall be deemed by the Governor reasonable and expedient to be accepted therefor. But no lease shall be granted of any crown lands, in pursuance only of any tender or private offer, for any term exceeding twelve calendar months, unless such lands for which offers may have been made by tender or private offer to take the same on lease for a longer term shall, subsequently to such offers, have again been put up at public auction, in manner provided by the third section of the said Act No. 19 of 1864, and at an upset price, and for the term of years proposed in such tender or private offer; after which, should no higher bid be obtained at such public auction, it shall be lawful for the Governor to lease the same for any term not exceeding twenty-one years, in accordance with the tender or private offer.

Crown Lands not leased in consequence of inadequacy of bidding at public auction may be let by tender or private contract.

in the lands held by them respectively on lease, at such price as may be agreed on by and between such lessees respectively of the one part and the Colonial Government of the other part, not being in any case less than a sum which, reckoned as a principal sum after the rate of six pounds sterling per cent., would produce an amount of yearly interest equal to the rent reserved on such lease: Provided that in the event of the price demanded by Government being greater than such principal sum, in such case, at the request of the lessee, the matter may be submitted to arbitration, one arbitrator to be appointed by the lessee and one by the Government, with power to appoint a third as umpire, subject to the following conditions, that is to say:

Conditions of sale.

CONVERSION OF LOAN PLACES TO PERPETUAL QUITRENT.

[6th Aug. 1813.]

PROCLAMATION

By His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir JOHN FRANCIS CRADOCK, &c., &c.

WHEREAS agriculture constitutes the chief source of prosperity in this Colony, and the full encouragement thereof must consequently have an immediate tendency to promote the real interests of its inhabitants: Whereas this encouragement chiefly depends on the certainty of tenures, and the confidence connected therewith, that all improvements of the soil, and all increase of fertility, should indisputably belong to the holder as his own, and that, in the ordinary course of things, all his arrangements, as well with respect to the produce as to the land itself, should, by the laws, be exclusively secured to him, his heirs, executors, assigns, or representatives: Whereas, although the establishment of loan leases might have been suitable to the early state of this Colony, when the wants of Government were not foreseen, it now appears from experience that the loan tenure is injurious to that certainty, so essential to the happiness and the interest of the inhabitants, and equally injurious to the public interest, by preventing the holders from appropriating as much of their means to the improvement and extension of agriculture as they would do, in case they had no right of re-assumption to apprehend, and might dispose of the ground as they please, by subdividing the same among their children, letting, selling, or otherwise alienating it in lots, cultivating it in the prospect of remote benefit, by the planting of timber, &c. : Whereas, notwithstanding a gradual re-assumption of loan lands and the re-granting of the same in lesser portions on a more certain tenure might considerably increase the colonial revenue; yet, having taken into consideration the great utility of no longer delaying the improved cultivation of land by giving security to title, and of making the same, as speedily as possible, a general measure, I have adopted the following determination : To grant to the holders of all lands on loan, who may regularly apply for the same, their places on perpetual quitrent, with the following rights and privileges, and on the following terms and conditions, namely.

Memorial to the Government for conversion of Loan Places to perpetual quitrent.

Extent of grant.

Right to hold hereditarily and to alienate.

Government reservation of precious stones, gold and silver—and of right of making and repairing roads.

Reservation of rights of Crown in places adjoining the sea.

Laws respecting freehold lands to govern decisions on perpetual quitrent.

1. Every holder of a loan place, on his making application by memorial to Government for the purpose, shall have a grant of his place, on perpetual quitrent, (<sup>1</sup>) to the same extent as he has hitherto legally possessed the same on loan.

2. No loan place shall exceed three thousand morgen; every addition to that quantity of land must be particularly mentioned to the surveyor and commission, and appear upon the face of the application, for His Excellency's consideration.

3. The holder, by this grant, shall obtain the right "to hold the land hereditarily, and to do with the same as he may think proper, in like manner as with other immovable property; as also, should he deem advisable, to sell or otherwise alienate it, with the usual previous knowledge of Government, either partly or wholly, as free and allodial property."

4. Government reserves no other rights but those on mines of precious stones, gold, or silver; as also the right of making and repairing public roads, and raising materials for that purpose on the premises: other mines of iron, lead, copper, tin, coals, slate, or limestone, are to belong to the proprietor.

5. In all places adjoining to the sea, or communicating with the sea by inlets therefrom, the rights of the Crown are reserved, with the power of re-assumption of any quantity of land, not exceeding twenty morgen, paying the proprietor for such buildings as he may have erected, according to a fair valuation, provided such ground be wanted for public purposes; and if given up by the Crown, it shall not be transferred to another individual, but revert to the proprietor or his representatives.

6. In all judicial decisions regarding perpetual quitrent the same rights, laws, and usages shall be observed, which have hitherto been acted upon, or which may hereafter be established, enacted, and followed in judicial decisions, with respect to freehold lands. Proc.—6 Aug. 1813.

7. That for this, in the common course of things, irrevocable title, the holders shall pay to the public revenue an increased yearly rent, to be prescribed according to the situation, fertility, and other favourable circumstances of the land; in no case, however, exceeding a sum of two hundred and fifty rixdollars. Yearly rent not to exceed rixdollars two hundred and fifty.

8. For the survey of a loan place to be granted on perpetual quitrent, the land surveyor, exclusive of the diagram, travelling expenses, and wagon hire, shall not charge more than one hundred rixdollars, unless he may be obliged, from local difficulties, to appropriate more than five days to make the survey, in which case he shall be allowed to charge ten rixdollars for every day over and above that time: the respective landdrosts are therefore directed to pay strict attention hereto, when any account be presented to them to be paid out of the district treasury, as mentioned in the Government advertisement of the 16th July last. Payment of surveyor.

9. (1) On the division of any place granted on perpetual quitrent, each part, and its holder, shall be severally bound and responsible for the full amount of the rent, in such manner, however, that he who makes the payment may recover from the other holders, for as far as regards their respective shares; unless at the request of the interested parties, on making the division, Government may have been pleased to direct, that the rent shall be apportioned and registered proportionably at the time of the transfer. Each holder, on division of a place, bound for the full amount of the rent.

10. That in order to ensure the necessary regularity, as well as the interest of the State, no alienation of any part of such place shall be considered as legal before the same shall be surveyed, a diagram made thereof, regularly transferred before Commissioners of the Court of Justice, as likewise duly registered in the office of land revenue. Transfer coram lege loci.

11. This perpetual quitrent shall, further, not be liable to any other burthens but those to which all freehold lands are already subject, or which may hereafter be further prescribed. Quitrent lands liable to same burthens only as freehold.

12. All applications for the conversion of loan lands into perpetual quitrent, with the privileges attached thereto by this present proclamation, must be made within twelve months from the date hereof; after the expiration of which period the said rights, privileges, terms, and conditions, shall be subject to such alterations as circumstances shall be found to require. Period within which applications may be made,—twelve months.

13. The title deed (erfgrondbrief), on such application, shall be granted after the place shall have been surveyed, with the previous knowledge of, and if necessary pointed out by, the landdrost, by a sworn land surveyor, and a proper diagram of the same forwarded to Government by the landdrost, accompanied by his certificate, that the measurement was made without Issue of title deed.

prejudice to any person; and also that the diagram does not contain any greater extent of ground than was legally possessed on loan by the holder.

Right of re-assumption of loan places, increase of rent, &c., not curtailed,—except in case of change of tenure.

14. By the regulations made in these presents, it is not to be understood that the right of re-assumption, increase of rent, or other arrangements regarding loan places, which undoubtedly belong to the Government of this Colony, and which have been, from time to time, exercised by the successive Governments of the same, are in anywise curtailed, or intended to be curtailed, unless when the parties obtain an alteration in their tenure on the terms proposed.

Right of Government as to attached places, not done away with by this proclamation.

15. In order to prevent all misunderstanding, it is hereby specially declared, that the right which belongs to Government with respect to attached places is in nowise done away by this measure, and consequently, that those places remain subject to all such further regulations as they would have been liable to, in case this proclamation had not been issued.

Loan places attached to drostdies and parsonages public property.

16. Loan places attached to the respective drostdies, deputy landdrosts, or the parsonages of the clergy, remain, as they are, public property, to be transmitted to their successors. But where Field-cornets, or other public functionaries, are excused from paying rent for a loan lease of their own as part of the remuneration for their public services,—in all such cases where the party solicits and obtains a change of tenure, for the purpose of dividing it amongst his family, or other motives, he shall not be liable to the raised rent during the time he is employed in the public service, and a new rent shall commence at the expiration of such services by death or otherwise.

General tenor of the regulations.

17. The whole tenor of the foregoing regulations will manifest the paternal view His Majesty had taken of this Colony; and, in deeply considering the permanent interest of the occupiers of lands, to what extent the Crown has resolved to sacrifice its rights and prerogatives in order to place property upon that solid and secure foundation, without which fair adventure and speculation cannot arise, and even common industry and labour will lose much of its effect.

Thus at length is this great measure matured and brought forward. It is the one that has long engaged the attention and anxious wish of each preceding Government, but which could not well admit of conclusion, except in times like the present—of unexampled tranquillity, uniform progress in civilization and good order, and the unbounded prospect of universal prosperity.

I feel the highest gratification in giving effect to these beneficent and paternal designs of His Majesty's Government; and persuade myself that the gratitude of the inhabitants of this Colony will be equal to the value of the inestimable gift thus extended to them on the part of the Crown, which, by graciously offering to their acceptance a perfect title to lands, that enables them to provide for their children and descendants, and dispose of them as they please, grants to them, in fact, possession of an estate, and the high character and station of "a real landholder."

No. 7—1856.

They will thereby abandon an unworthy tenure, unfitted to the growing prosperity of the Colony, and only suited to the earliest and rudest institutions of the settlement; and being thus placed in their territorial possessions on the same footing as their fellow-subjects in Europe, the Cape of Good Hope in future may, with fair pretension, take its rank with other countries.

And that no person may plead ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed as usual.

AN ACT

For apportioning Quitrents upon the Subdivision of Fixed Property.

As often as any owner of fixed property shall sell or alienate the whole thereof to more persons than one, either in undivided shares, or in portions to be divided off by diagram, then the several purchasers may, in manner aforesaid, agree upon the proportionate amounts of quitrent to be thenceforth payable by each; and the 2nd and 3rd sections aforesaid shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to this case as well as to the case therein mentioned.
5. When any persons shall, under any deed of grant or transfer deed, or transfer deeds, made prior to the taking effect of this Act, own, amongst them, in either undivided or divided shares or portions, any extent of fixed property, subject to quitrent, as such extent was originally granted, or some such persons shall own a part of such extent in undivided shares, and the rest of such persons shall own the rest of such extent in portions divided off by diagram, such persons may, by any agreement made in manner and form as in the 2nd section of this Act mentioned, fix and determine the shares and proportions of the quitrent previously payable from or out of the entire property in its original extent, which shall thenceforth be payable from or out of each undivided share and each divided portion, and such shares and proportions of quitrent shall be endorsed by the Civil Commissioner upon the title deed, or transfer deed or deeds, under or by virtue of which the several shares or portions of such property shall be enjoyed by such owners respectively, and shall also be recorded by such Civil Commissioner, as in the 3rd section of this Act directed, and be stated and embodied in any transfer deed by which any such share or portion may be afterwards transferred.
6. As often as the quitrent originally payable by or out of any fixed property in its original extent shall have been apportioned in manner and form as by this Act provided, then each share or portion of such property shall be chargeable with its share or proportion of such quitrent, according to such apportionment, and no more, precisely as if such share or proportion had been originally granted, subject to such share and proportion, and no more.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that provision should be made by law for apportioning the quitrent payable by or out of fixed property which may become or have become subdivided amongst several owners in cases where the seller and purchaser or the owners shall be unable or unwilling to come to any such agreement as is in the Act No. 7 of 1856 mentioned: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

Proceedings to be taken when joint owners cannot agree on the apportionment of quitrent under Act 7 of 1856.

1. ### ACT

To Authorize the Reduction of the Quitrents payable on certain Lands in Griqualand West.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the late Government of Griqualand West by Government notice, dated the 21st day of July, 1879, intimated that it had been decided that all titles to farms in the said Province, the quitrent on which was in excess of one pound per thousand morgen, might be exchanged for other titles, subject to certain terms of occupation and tenure at a quitrent of one pound per thousand morgen, provided that such exchange were made on or before the thirtieth day of November, 1879: And whereas by further notice issued by the said Government, the said period was extended to the thirty-first day of December, 1879, and again to the 31st day of March, 1880: And whereas, while certain persons, owners of such quitrent lands, availed themselves of the benefits of the said notices, others, in ignorance of the existence of such notices, and from other causes, were unable to do so: And whereas it is just and expedient that effect should be given to the intentions of the said late Government, and that the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope should be authorized, if it shall to him seem fit to do so, to reduce the quitrents on any grants of land in the late Province of Griqualand West on which the quitrents payable are in excess of one pound per thousand morgen, to such an extent, not less than one pound per thousand morgen, as he shall think fit, notwithstanding that application was not made within the time mentioned in the said notices respectively, and without reference to any conditions in the said notices set forth: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

No. 25—1882.

1. It shall be lawful for the Governor to reduce the quitrents payable under any of the grants in the preamble of this Act referred to, to such an extent as shall seem to him to be fair and reasonable and from such date as he may determine: Provided that no such quitrent shall in any case be reduced below the rate of one pound per annum for each one thousand morgen granted.

Governor may reduce quitrents, but not below £1 per 1,000 morgen.

2. The reduction of such quitrents shall be recorded on the face of such grants by the Surveyor-General, or on the deeds of transfer by the Registrar of Deeds in case the land granted shall have been transferred from the original grantee, upon production of a certificate under the hand of the Commissioner of Crown Lands and Public Works, stating that such reduction has been authorized by the Governor under the provisions of this Act.

Reductions to be recorded on grants, or on transfers.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the recovery of land-rents belonging to the Colonial Government, due and in arrear, and for that purpose to remove certain difficulties of a legal nature which now exist and generally to make such provision for the recovery of the said rents as may prove effectual and at the same time free as far as may be from delay and expense: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, by and with the consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that from and after the promulgation of this Ordinance all laws and customs heretofore in force in this Colony in so far as the same are repugnant to or inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

Preamble.

Previous laws repealed.

And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioner of each division of this Colony in every case in which any land-rent payable or belonging to the Colonial Government shall by the books of such Civil Commissioner's office appear to be due and in arrear to prepare or cause to be prepared a notice addressed to the person who shall by the books aforesaid appear to be the owner of the place or property in respect of which such land-rent shall have accrued due, and to all others whom it may concern; and such notice shall in substance be in the form in the first schedule hereunto annexed is set forth; and such notice shall be served by leaving the same with the person in actual occupation of the said place or property, or in case such person cannot be found at his usual place of residence then by leaving the same at the residence of such person with the wife of such person or any child or servant of such person who shall appear to be of the age of sixteen years or upwards. And it shall be the duty of the person employed to serve any such notice, to have and preserve a copy thereof, and to mark upon such copy as speedily as may be the time at which and the place and manner in which the original notice was served, by way of a memorandum to refresh if needful the memory of the person so serving the said notice.

Notice to pay arrears.

3. And be it enacted that it shall and may be lawful for the person so appearing as aforesaid to be the owner of such place or property or for any mortgagee, lessee, or other person having any interest therein at any time within thirty-one days from the day of the service of such notice as aforesaid to lodge at the office of the Civil Commissioner in writing any objections to the payment of any part of the amount claimed in the said notice as due and in arrear, which may be disputed or denied, and if such objections shall be duly lodged within the time aforesaid but shall not be

Recovery of rent by distress and sale in specified cases.

4. And be it enacted that in case no such objections as aforesaid shall have been lodged, or if lodged and disallowed, in case no such security as aforesaid shall have been given, and in case the amount of the land-rent mentioned in such notice as aforesaid shall not within the space of thirty-one days from the day on which notice shall have been served, be duly paid and discharged, or in case such objections as aforesaid shall have been lodged and allowed but the residue or balance remaining after the allowance of the same shall not be paid and discharged within the said space of thirty-one days from the day of the serving of the notice, then it shall and may be lawful for the Civil Commissioner aforesaid in every case in which the person appearing as aforesaid, by the books aforesaid, to be the owner of the place or property in question, shall be in the actual occupation of such place or property, to place in the hands of the messenger of any Resident Magistrate's Court, within that Civil Commissioner's division an authority in writing, empowering such messenger to seize and arrest all goods and chattels, being in and upon the place or property aforesaid, which goods and chattels would be distrainable by law for rent in arrear, and such authority shall in substance be in the form set forth in the second schedule hereunto annexed; and all goods and chattels so seized under or by virtue of any such authority as aforesaid shall be dealt with, treated and considered, to all intents and purposes as if the same had been attached under process of execution issued upon a judgment of the Court of the Resident Magistrate of the district in which such seizure shall have been made, but no greater sum shall in any case be levied and raised than the sum mentioned in the said authority, together with such usual costs and charges, as would have been attendant upon the seizure and sale of the said goods and chattels, had the same been attached under such process as aforesaid.

5. And be it enacted that in every case in which the person in actual occupation of any such place or property as aforesaid not being the owner thereof shall yet have entered into such occupation under or in pursuance of some contract or agreement for becoming the owner of the same, the power of distress and sale in the last preceding section mentioned may be exercised by the Civil Commissioner aforesaid, in manner and form as in the said section stated, precisely as if the person so in occupation under such contract or agreement were in law the owner.

6. And be it enacted that in all cases in which neither the person appearing as aforesaid by the books aforesaid to be the owner of the place or property in question, nor any such occupant as in the last preceding section mentioned, shall be in the actual occupation of such place or property or in which although in such occupation no sufficient goods and chattels shall appear to exist, whereof could be made in manner aforesaid the rent due and in arrear; or in which, by reason of any difficulties to him appearing, such Civil Commissioner as aforesaid shall decline to resort to the mode of proceeding in the last preceding section mentioned, it shall and may be lawful for such Civil Commissioner, at any time after the expiration of thirty-one days from the day on which such notice as aforesaid shall have been duly served, but not sooner, in case the rent in arrear shall still remain due and unpaid, to proceed according to law in some competent Court for the recovery of the land-rent due and in arrear, or for such other and alternative relief as by reason of the non-payment of the said rent the Colonial Government shall be legally entitled to demand.

Cases in which recovery of rent may be sought by action.

7. And be it enacted that any mortgagee, sub-lessee, or other person having any interest in any such place or property as aforesaid, shall be entitled at any time before the execution of the decree of any such Court as aforesaid, to pay and satisfy the amount of land-rent in arrear, with costs, and thereupon to be deemed and taken in case he shall not by reason of some stipulation or agreement be himself responsible for the said rent, to have, in regard to the amount so paid and satisfied, the like rights and remedies against the real debtor, as those which do or shall by law belong to the Colonial Government in regard to the recovery of its land-rents and its costs of suit.

Persons who may pay rent and have remedies of the government for its recovery.

8. And be it enacted that if in any such suit or proceeding as aforesaid, a decree should be pronounced declaring the quitrent grant, or lease of any such place or property, and the right or title derived from, by, or under it to be cancelled, annulled, forfeited, and avoided for or by reason of non-payment of the rent reserved and conditioned to be paid, then, in case the place or property in question shall, at the time of the pronouncing of such decree be under any mortgage either conventional or tacit (the hypothecation of Government for the rent due and in arrear alone excepted), the Civil Commissioner shall instead of entering upon or taking possession of such place or property under such decree be bound and obliged to cause the said place or property, and all right and title to, and interest in, the same, existing by virtue of the quitrent grant or lease thereof to be sold by public sale (in case no mortgagee or other interested person shall previously to such

Sales to be by the sheriff.

9. And be it enacted that every such sale as is in the last preceding section mentioned shall be held by the Sheriff and shall be conducted in like manner as sales of immovable property seized or attached by such Sheriff in execution of legal process.

Moneys payable to absent mortgagees.

10. And be it enacted that whenever any such mortgagee as aforesaid shall be absent from the Colony or shall not be discoverable the Civil Commissioner shall cause all such moneys as would be payable to such mortgagee if present to be paid into the guardian's fund to the credit of such mortgagee, there to be subject to the same provisions in all respects which are provided by Ordinance No. 105, bearing date the 5th day of July, 1833, in regard to moneys placed in the said fund belonging to persons absent from the Colony.

Where land is derelict.

11. And be it enacted that in every case in which any place or property in regard to which any arrear of land-rent shall be due to the Colonial Government shall be abandoned, deserted, or left derelict, and the person having or claiming title to the same shall after being duly summoned <sup>(1)</sup> make default, it shall and may be lawful for the Supreme or some Circuit Court as the case may be, upon proof to the satisfaction of the said Court by affidavit or otherwise as to such Court shall seem fit that a certain amount of land-rent is due and in arrear, in respect of the said place or property, and that such place or property has been and is abandoned, deserted, or left derelict, to decree in a summary manner that the right, title, and interest of the grantee or lessee of the said place or property, and that of all other persons claiming by, through, or under him shall thenceforth be to all intents and purposes cancelled, annulled, forfeited, and avoided, and to adjudge and decree the said place or property to have reverted to the Colonial Government wholly free and unencumbered, and in the same plight and condition, as if the particular title, under and by virtue of which such place or property was previously held had never been created; and as often as any such decree as last aforesaid, shall be pronounced, the Civil Commissioner shall take possession on behalf of the Colonial Government of the place or property in question, and the said Government shall be at liberty to dispose of the same in whatever manner it shall seem fit. Provided always, that nothing in this section contained shall be taken or construed so as to prevent the Colonial Government from claiming from any competent Court a like decree of forfeiture of title for non-payment of rent in any case in which by law the said Government shall be entitled to claim the same. And provided also, that if in any case the place or property so abandoned or deserted shall be under mortgage at the time of any such decree as aforesaid, then the provisions in the eighth, ninth, and tenth sections of this Ordinance contained shall be deemed and taken to apply to the same as fully as if the said sections were each of them herein again repeated.

Ord. 9—1844.

12. And be it enacted that for the hearing and determining in any of the Courts of this Colony (except the Supreme Court and the Court of the Resident Magistrate of Cape Town) of any suit, action, or proceeding for the recovery of land-rent or for any other purpose relating to this Ordinance, it shall not be necessary for the Civil Commissioner to produce the original title deed of any such place or property as aforesaid or any duplicate thereof or any deed of transfer relating to such place or property; but on the contrary the entry or entries in the books of the Civil Commissioner purporting to contain the leading heads of the grant or lease or other instrument of title of such place or property shall prima facie be deemed and taken to be admissible and sufficient evidence to prove the amount of the rent reserved, and all other matters contained in such entry or entries of which the original grant or lease or other instrument of title might but for the present section be in law the best evidence: Provided always, that it shall be competent for any person defending any such action as aforesaid to produce and prove any such grant or lease or other instrument as aforesaid, and thereupon such deed so produced and proved shall in case of any discrepancy between the said entries and said deed be deemed and taken to be the best evidence of every matter and thing in the said deed contained.

In actions for recovery of rent what proof of title necessary.

13. And be it enacted that in the interpretation of this Ordinance the term "Civil Commissioner" shall mean the officer for the time being acting as such; and that the terms "Colonial Government" and "Government" shall mean respectively Her Majesty's Local Executive Government within this Colony; and that the term "land-rents due and in arrear" shall extend to and comprise quit-rents, loan-rents, and all other sorts of periodical payments to the Colonial Government, arising out of lands and due and in arrear, as also the amount which would have been paid for stamped receipts had the said rents instead of being allowed to fall into arrear been regularly paid, and stamped receipts as by law required been regularly given for the same; and that the term "owner" shall mean the person in whom whether in his individual or in some fiduciary capacity the complete dominium or legal right in any place or property held by any quitrent grant or lease or other title from and under the Colonial Government, shall for the time being be vested; and that the singular number shall include the plural number; and that the masculine gender shall include females as well as males.

ACT

To make better Provision for the Disposal of certain Derelict Lands.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the existing process by which the Government is able to resume possession of derelict land is both expensive and tedious, and it is desirable to substitute a simpler process for dealing with such land: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and the House of Assembly thereof, as follows:—

derelict for ten years,
Governor may resume possession.

1. Whenever any land rent due to the Colonial Government in respect of any place or property held from the Crown shall remain unpaid for the space of ten years, and such place or property shall be abandoned, deserted, and left derelict, and neither the grantee or lessee, as the case may be, of such place or property, nor his lawful representatives in regard to the same can be found, it shall be lawful for the Governor to advertise such place or property as derelict in the Government Gazette, and any other newspaper he may think fit, not less than once in each of three consecutive calendar months, and if within three months from the date of such last-mentioned advertisement, neither the grantee or lessee as the case may be, of such place or property, nor his lawful representatives shall establish his or their claim to the same, and pay the land rent so overdue, the Governor shall at the expiration of such last-mentioned period of three months, resume possession of the said place or property, and deal with the same under the provisions of any law in that behalf for the time being in force in this Colony: Provided always, that if the place or property, with regard to which the proceedings in this Act mentioned shall be taken, shall be under mortgage, the provisions of the eighth, ninth, and tenth sections of Ordinance 9 of 1844, with reference to the sale of such place or property, and the application of the funds thereof, shall apply to the same.

To apply to lands
for ten years.

2. The provisions of the preceding section shall apply as well to any place or property for which the land rent has already been unpaid for ten years, and which has already been left derelict as to any place or property upon which such land rent shall hereafter be unpaid for ten years, and shall hereafter be left derelict.

Powers of Govern-
statutes not affected.

3. Nothing in this Act contained shall be taken to deprive the Colonial Government of any powers vested in it by the provisions of Ordinance No. 9 of 1844 and Ordinance No. 7 of 1846, or by any other law for the time being in force in this Colony; it being the express object and intention of this Act that the Colonial Government shall have the option of dealing with derelict crown lands, either under the provisions hereinbefore contained, or under any statutory enactment, or any other law which may now or hereafter be in force in this Colony and be applicable to such cases.

Whenever any judgment shall be recovered, or decree or order lawfully made in or by any competent Court, for the payment by any public body empowered to levy rates of any sum of money for debt, damages, costs, or other cause whatsoever, to any party to a cause or suit, or any person whatsoever, in case it shall appear by the return of the Sheriff or other officer whose duty it may be to execute any such judgment, decree, or order, that such Sheriff or other officer has not found sufficient assets of such public body available to answer such judgment, decree, or order, to satisfy the same, it shall be lawful for the party or person to whom such sum of money shall have been payable to apply by petition to the Supreme Court, or in case the rateable property upon which such public body is empowered to levy rates shall be situate within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court of the Eastern Districts, then, if such creditor shall so elect, by petition to such last-named Court, in either case annexing to such petition copies of the judgment, decree, or order, and of the writ or warrant of execution and of the return thereto, and praying for such relief in the premises as the said Courts respectively shall be empowered to afford; and a rule nisi shall thereupon be granted, requiring such public body to show cause why the relief prayed should not be granted.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE DEBT REGISTRY.

[June 19—1714.

Maurits Pasques de Chavonnes, Councillor Extraordinary of Netherlands India and Governor on behalf of the United Netherlands Chartered East India Company at the Cape of Good Hope and its dependencies, and the Council thereof, make known:

How that it hath come to our knowledge, &c., &c. [The first part of the Placaat has reference to the Education of Minors, under guardianship of the Orphan Chamber, and is obsolete.]

Preamble.

Further, it having been experienced that there hath hitherto remained unused and not adopted in practice in this Government, the registration of Kusting Brieven, Obligations before Schepenen and Orphan Masters and other Bonds passed before Commissioners of the Court here, whereby from time to time, divers lands, houses, erven, and other property, are bound, as well specially as generally, in favor of the holders thereof, whereby not only many difficult lawsuits are caused, but likewise the good inhabitants, or the Company's servants, who are inclined to put out their money at a proper interest, are kept back, inasmuch as it can never be seen what may be due by any persons by Kusting Brieven or Obligations before Schepenen, Orphan Masters, and writings of Mortgage on their immovable property, which, for the welfare of the good inhabitants, ought not to be.

Mortgage Bonds must be exhibited at the Secretary's office.

Now, therefore, we, desiring to provide by these presents in the premises, have considered it highly necessary to order and command all Company's servants, or inhabitants belonging to this Government, as we order and command all of them and each in particular and every one whom in any respect it may concern, that all persons shall be bound, within the period of four months, or before the 19th of the ensuing month of October, to exhibit at the Secretary's office at this place, all such Kusting Brieven, Obligations before Schepenen, Orphan Masters, and other writings of Mortgage, executed before Commissioners of the Court, whereby any immovable property has been bound or hypothecated, and to give in to the Secretary the amounts or contents of their writings of Mortgage and of such as may be from any cause in their possession, and which shall in future be required to take place in every case when any such writings of Mortgage shall be obtained, to the end that a proper Register may be formed and kept thereof, and it may always be possible to see when any immovable property is lawfully mortgaged, so that all persons may, in the putting out of money, regulate themselves accordingly; under the penalty that whoso neglects doing this shall forfeit the preference which would otherwise, in that respect, be awarded to him before other creditors.

June 19, 1714.

And that no one may pretend ignorance hereof, we order that these presents shall be published and affixed as usual at the proper time and place, in such manner as has been resolved to be fitting, for the benefit of the Commonwealth and the service of the Honourable Company.

REGULATIONS FOR THE PREVENTION OF CONFUSION IN THE DEBT REGISTRY.

[April 22—1793.

PUBLICATION.

WHEREAS it hath been discovered and hath come to our knowledge that, in the registration of bonds passed before Magistrates and Orphan Masters whereby landed property is specially hypothecated, numerous abuses have heretofore taken place in the register, which is for this purpose kept at the Political Secretary's office, from which nothing but confusion and injury can result, as well to the creditors as debtors, and it has therefore become necessary for the public interest as well, that every one who has advanced money upon hypothec of landed property should have the certainty and knowledge that these hypothecs have been properly notified, in order to retain his right of preference; as also that every one of the inhabitants may be satisfied that in the aforesaid register of debts no other debts are entered against him than those actually due by him.

Preamble.

Therefore it is that we, in order to be able to rectify the aforesaid Register of Debts here, and to purify it of errors existing therein, in such manner that every one may henceforward be able to rely on it with perfect confidence, have resolved to ordain and enact, as is hereby ordained and enacted :

Commission to examine bonds.

That all holders of mortgages, bonds before Magistrates, and of bonds passed for the residue of purchase money under which landed property hath been specially hypothecated, shall be held and bound to appear before commissioned members of the Court of Justice of this Government (who shall attend gratis for this purpose, to commence from the 8th of the next month of May, on Wednesdays and Fridays, in the Judicial Court-room, in the morning, from nine to twelve o'clock), to exhibit all the bonds passed before Magistrates (mortgages), and Kusting Brieven, and bonds passed before Orphan Masters belonging to them, in order that it may be examined whether all these obligations are found to be duly registered, so that, if this formality have been observed, proof thereof, under their signature, may be thereon endorsed, and those of which the registration may have been neglected, may at once be registered of the date on which the exhibition shall be made, and in like manner notice hereof under their hand shall be given by endorsement of the instruments.

Bonds not exhibited deprived of preference.

That, in order to give sufficient time and opportunity for this purpose to the inhabitants of this Colony, a period of six weeks be left to the inhabitants of the Cape Valley and its neighbourhood, and to the inhabitants of the country districts a period of three months,—but to count from the 8th May next, when commissioned members of the Court of Justice shall first attend for the purpose,—under the penalty, that those who neglect to cause the beforementioned terms, shall henceforward be and remain deprived of the preference to which they would otherwise be entitled by virtue of the registration of the bonds of which they are holders; and that the debts which thereafter may be created on the property hypothecated to them, unless the forementioned hypothec already existing shall have been confirmed according to the manner above prescribed, shall be preferent before those which may have been previously contracted and shall be found to have remained unregistered through the fault of the holders of the bonds.

Cancellation of paid debts remaining uncanceled.

That all the inhabitants shall be at liberty within the above-mentioned periods, and at the said days and places, to address themselves to the commissioned members of the Court of Justice, in order to receive likewise gratis information of the debts with which they are burdened in the aforesaid Register of Debts, so that, if it be found that their settled debts have not been properly cancelled, these may be, on production of the evidence required thereto, cancelled, and their property relieved therefrom, of which, at the same time, due evidence shall be furnished them.

And in order that every one may be able to have the necessary use of our salutary intentions herein and enjoy their salutary effect, this shall be published and affixed in the ordinary place, wherever it is customary that such affixion is made.

REFORM OF THE DEBT REGISTRY.

[May 23—1805.]

PUBLICATION.

Jan Willem Janssens, Governor and General-in-Chief, and the Court of Policy for the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope and its dependencies in South Africa, &c., &c., &c., to all and each who may see and hear these presents: Greeting, make known:

That whereas, it appears from the past records of the Government Secretary's office, that the public Debt Registries, whereby all mortgages, legal hypothecations, and notarial or secretarial obligations are made public, are by no means in such order as that would be possible safely to rely on them, inasmuch as it has sometimes been found that not only have debts standing open been long since paid, but even that unpaid debts through the ordinary affix in the margin, "solvit," appeared in the registry as already liquidated, that hence, repeatedly, very great uncertainty and confusion, and besides ruinous lawsuits, must arise between the several inhabitants of the Colony, and, in addition, distrust in the public Debt Registry be created, by which the certainty of ownership and mutual confidence in private transactions would be weakened; that these same causes in the year 1793, led the Government of the day to issue a publication on the 23rd of April of that year to reform the abuses which had crept in, and to establish the public Debt Register on a more certain footing for the future; that this useful work was immediately begun and further accurately set forth, until, in the year 1795, it became necessary to stop it temporarily, on account of the attack on the Colony by the English, and after the surrender of the Colony it wholly ceased; that the manner in which the work was begun and continued was in every respect of a good tendency, and therefore, could at present be usefully proceeded with, were it not that from the time which has elapsed and during which the old Debt Registers have been continued, an entire retracing of steps and revision thereof became necessary; that the revision is the more necessary, because the increasing population of the Colony has enlarged the utility and the great importance of accurate public Debt Registers; while, on the contrary, the continuance of the present renders the evil, which has crept in, daily less capable of cure, and more and more endangers the certainty of ownership, hypothecs, &c.:

Preamble.

May 23, 1805.

Now, therefore, the Governor and Council, in order to effectually provide herein, have considered it necessary to cause the public Debt Register to be revised with all possible accuracy, and thereafter to be brought into such order, that not only all uncertainty concerning the present registered debts may be removed, but in future, the danger of uncertainty and confusion as far as may be possible shall be prevented. And now, therefore, to this end, resolved to order and decree, and order and decree by these presents :

First commission appointed.

1. That during the ensuing months of June, July, and August, a Commission, consisting of a member of the Court of Policy, a member of the Court of Justice, and a member of the Colonial Orphan Chamber, expressly to be appointed thereto by these bodies respectively, shall twice a week attend in the Government Court-hall in the Castle, at such times as they among themselves shall agree and shall make known to the public, in order to examine whether the "Kusting Brieven," "Schepenen"—Orphan Masters—and Bank-Obligations, and likewise, other public writing acknowledgements of debt are, or are not duly registered.

Bonds to be exhibited to the commission.

2. That for this purpose all holders of such bonds of which it is here customary to give notice at the public Debt Registry, shall be bound to exhibit the same, or to cause the same to be exhibited by duly qualified persons on the specified days to this Commission, in order to be compared with the Debt Register.

Certificate on bonds duly registered.

3. That the Commission shall, in the case of such bonds as they shall find to be properly registered, make known the finding on the back, or at the foot of all such bonds, under the signature of two members of the said Commission.

Registration of bonds not duly registered.

4. That whenever, on examination, any bonds are found to be unentered in the Debt Registry, the Commission shall redress this omission by formally making the registration, and in proof hereof, shall note on the back, or at the foot of the exhibited bond, with the addition of the signatures of the entire Commission, that the bond is registered, with the addition of the date of the exhibition.

New debts register.

5. That after the expiration of the aforesaid period of three months, the examination shall be held as concluded, and that then the Governor and Council shall nominate a second Commission in order to frame an entirely new Debt Register, in which shall only be entered such bonds as have been exhibited to the first Commission.

Bonds not exhibited deprived of preference.

6. That all bonds not exhibited to the first Commission, and consequently not entered in the new Debt Registry, shall be deprived of the right of preference, unless the holders before the end of the present year shall, in a satisfactory manner, have caused it to appear to the Court of Justice, that they were prevented for reasons valid in law from satisfying this order, in which case the Commissioners of the Court of Justice who attend weekly for the purpose of having acts passed before them, shall be authorized to enter such bond in the new register.

May 23, 1865.

7. That in future all registrations shall be signed by the Master of the Records and the first clerk in the Government Secretary's office, as likewise, all cancellations, which shall not be effected as heretofore by merely placing the word solvit in the margin of the registration, but, on the contrary, shall be effected by a proper counter entry on the opposite page of the Debt Registry, so that each debtor therein shall henceforth have a proper debit and credit side.

How registrations and cancellations are to be signed.

8. That in like manner as takes place in the Loan Bank, according to the fifth article of the instructions thereon, immediately after the registration, the hypothec or burden shall be notified by endorsement by the Master of the Records and first clerk on the deed of transfer.

Endorsement of hypothec on title deed.

9. [This section has reference to the mortgage of slaves and is no longer applicable.]

10. That during the session of the first Commission, and on the days to be by it fixed, every person shall be at liberty to inquire of the Commission for what debts he appears liable according to the Debt Registry; and if it be found that any person appears indebted in any amount which he, in a satisfactory manner, proves to the Commission to have been paid by him, on exhibition of such proof the debt shall be at once cancelled, which cancellation, in like manner as all further proceedings of the Commission, shall take place gratis.

Cancellation of debts proved to have been paid.

And whereas, it hath further appeared to the Governor and Council that the registration of kinder-bewyzen, and antenuptial contracts, although expressly ordered by a proclamation of the 23rd April, 1793, does, notwithstanding, not take place universally, by which means it could easily occur that those ignorant of the legal hypothec might be misled in the valuation of the mortgage on which it is desired to raise money either with the Loan Bank or the Orphan Chamber, or with private individuals, they have resolved to order and decree, and order and decree by these presents.

Registration of kinder-bewyzen and antenuptial contracts.

11. That all those persons who have already obtained legal hypothecs on the property of their spouses by virtue of antenuptial contracts, shall also give notice thereof to the first Commission during the period fixed by article 1, in order that the same course may be followed as in respect to conventional hypothecs, under the penalty that those who do not give such notice shall be deprived of the right of legal hypothec, to which they would be otherwise entitled, and that consequently all conventional special hypothecs which are constituted after that date and are duly registered, shall be preferred to anterior non-registered antenuptial contracts.

Conventional special hypothecs duly registered preferent to anterior non-registered antenuptial contracts.

12. That under a like penalty, all antenuptial contracts which shall be passed after this date must be publicly notified in the Debt Registry at the Government Secretary's Office. <sup>(1)</sup>

Notice of deeds of Kinderbewys to be given by the Notaries before whom they are executed, within twenty-four hours of their execution.

13. That of all deeds of Kinderbewys, whether passed at the Orphan Chamber, or before a notary, or secretary and witnesses, due written notice shall be given within twenty-four hours after the execution of the deed by the secretary of the Orphan Chamber, the respective notaries, and the secretaries of the country districts, signed by the person before whom the deed has been passed, under penalty that in case of omission of such notices, the officers named in this article shall be responsible for all damages which the orphans may suffer through their negligence. The notices of the secretaries in the country districts shall be prepared within twenty-four hours, in order to be transmitted with the first safe opportunity that offers to the capital; and Widowers and widows not entitled to publication of banns before due registration of the Kinderbewys.

14. That, finally, in order to secure the interests of minors by all possible means, the commissioners of marriage causes may grant no publication of banns of marriage to widowers, or widows, having children of a former marriage, unless it satisfactorily appears to them, that not only in accordance with the nineteenth article of the Marriage Ordinance proper security shall be given, but that the deed passed thereof has been duly registered at the office of the Government Secretary. <sup>(2)</sup>

We order and command the Court of Justice, the Attorney-General, and all whom it may concern, to obey and cause to be obeyed, this our publication, with all punctuality, for we have found such necessary for the welfare of this Colony.

And that no one may plead any ignorance hereof, this shall be published and affixed in all places where it is customary to make publication and affixion.

Thus resolved and decreed in the Court of Policy, at the Cape of Good Hope, the 15th May, 1805, and published the 23rd thereafter.

Ordinance for amending Law relative to Conventional Hypothecations.

WHEREAS it is found that parties to whom, or in whose favour, mortgages or hypothecations, as well general as special, have been passed, sometimes abstain from registering the same against their debtors, until the increasing embarrassments of such debtors, or other reasons, render it necessary to secure a preference over other creditors, who may have dealt with such debtors in total ignorance, that any such mortgages or hypothecations were in existence: And whereas such a practice may be used so as to cover fraud, and is one which tends to defeat the objects or limit the advantages of the Debt Registry of this Colony, and which should therefore be suppressed: Be it enacted by the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope, with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, that every deed or instrument of mortgage or hypothecation, commonly called a general bond, executed after the commencement and taking effect of this Ordinance, shall, if executed by the debtor or mortgagor within the limits of the municipality of Cape Town, be tendered for registration in the Deeds Registry office within the space of seven days next after the
