Dear Sir:

Request for opportunity to do practical training in the Pan African Parliament

I am a PHD student doing research on the role of the Pan African Parliament within the structure of the African Union and the implications of this role in terms of African regionalism. My research question is “to what extent can the definition role of the Pan African Parliament influence structures and decision making in the African Union, within the context of regionalism?” There seems to be a lot of world wide interest in African integration in recent times, particularly on the institutional approach to regionalism in Africa. With this interest and with the practical steps towards institution building in the African Union, there is also a need for a continuous probe or discourse as to the nature of these institutions and their significance in the integration process.

323

I will be honoured if I am given an opportunity to be part of this process of institution building (which I see as the backbone of the Pan African Parliament's success). With the dearth of literature on the an African approach to institutional integration, the practical experience and knowledge I can acquire from PAP will help me add value to research on the Pan African Parliament and African integration. I also posit that it will enable an enrichment of knowledge in terms of gaps in scholarship and at the same time, possibly produce practicable recommendations in the establishing of a uniquely African developmental and integrative institution. I have attached a copy of my resume for your perusal.

I will be grateful if my request is given favourable consideration.

Respectfully,

Ogochukwu Nzewi (Ms)
