

BECOMING A PEER SUPPORTER: A NARRATIVE
EXPLORATION

BY

ANIZE DU TOIT

SUBMITTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DEGREE OF

MASTERS OF ARTS IN COUNSELLING PSYCHOLOGY

IN THE

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY

AT

THE UNIVERSITY OF PRETORIA

MAMELODI CAMPUS

SUPERVISOR: PROFESSOR T.M. BAKKER

DECEMBER 2005

PRETORIA

Acknowledgements

Thank you to

- Nico for his support as my husband and best friend;
- My parents for their support and for providing an opportunity for me to make my dream a reality;
- Joshua, Irene and Anja for their enthusiasm and willingness to participate in this study;
- Prof. Terri Bakker for her advice, guidance and support throughout this research process; and
- Laureen Boucher for her assistance in editing this dissertation.

This study is dedicated to all the peer supporters out there who make a difference just by listening to their friends and peers.

Declaration

I declare that: “Becoming a peer supporter: A narrative exploration” is my own work, that all the sources used or quoted have been indicated and acknowledged by means of complete references, and that this dissertation was not previously submitted by me for a degree at another university.

---

Anize du Toit

Summary

Adolescents need to feel loved and cared for and they need to share their feelings with other people in their environment. As the school plays a significant role in the life of the adolescent, emotional support is an important aspect that has to be part of any educational setting. Unfortunately, adolescents do not always feel comfortable talking to a teacher, a person in authority or even a school psychologist. In many instances they are most comfortable talking to a friend or a peer with whom they can identify.

In this study, a literature review explored adolescence as a developmental stage, existing support systems in schools, and the history, key features, definition and nature of peer support groups and supervision of peer supporters. Studies revealed that peer support has potential advantages but also disadvantages for peer supporters but that the former outweigh the latter. The study also looked at research on peer support groups in the South African context.

The aims of this study were to explore, in a qualitative way, the experiences, thoughts and feelings of three adolescent peer supporters and provide rich and thick descriptions of their stories. Postmodernism, social constructionism and narrative psychology were combined and identified as a framework for the research. The research material gathered by means of individual interviews, focus groups and journaling reflected the realities co-constructed by the participants and the researcher. The researcher also made use of reflexivity by including a description of her own experience of the research process.

The strengths and limitations of this study are evaluated and the findings are summarized. Finally, recommendations are made on supervision, constructing roles and boundaries, training, keeping the momentum of peer support groups going and the usefulness of peer support groups.

Key words

Adolescence

Exploratory research

Narrative psychology

Peer support groups

Postmodernism

Qualitative research

Social constructionism

Supervision

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	i
Declaration	ii
Summary	iii
Key words	iv
CHAPTER 1
INTRODUCTION	1
Aims of the study	2
Rationale for and value of the study	3
Research approach	3
CHAPTER 2
ADOLESCENCE AND PEER SUPPORT	5
What is adolescence?	5
Physical development in adolescence	6
Cognitive development in adolescence	7
Moral development in adolescence	7
Affective and personality development in adolescence	8
Social development in adolescence	9
Challenges of adolescence	10
Support systems in schools	11
The importance of peer relationships and social support	14
Peer support groups	15
Tracing the history of peer support	16
Definition and key features of peer support	18
Supervision of peer supporters	19
The nature of peer support	21
Peer support in action	24
Advantages for peer supporters	24
Disadvantages for peer supporters	27
Research on peer support in South Africa	28
Conclusion	29
CHAPTER 3
A NARRATIVE APPROACH TO RESEARCH	30
Postmodernism	30

Realities are socially constructed	31
Realities are constituted through language	32
Realities are organized and maintained through narrative	33
There are no essential truths	33
Social constructionism	34
Narrative psychology	36
Relating the study to social constructionism	37
Implications of social constructionism for research	39
Research context	39
Research approach	42
Sampling	43
Collection of research material	44
Ethical considerations for the study	48
Ethical principles	48
Ethical guidelines	48
Description of the research process	50
Conclusion	52
CHAPTER 4
JOSHUA’S STORY	53
Tracing the history	53
Gone camping	54
On becoming a PSG member	55
Exploring changes and effects	58
Reflections on being a PSG member	61
Claiming roles	64
Personal sources of guidance and support	66
Usefulness of peer support groups in schools	67
Constructing research	67
Looking back	70
Joshua’s wisdom	70
CHAPTER 5
IRENE’S STORY	72
Tracing the history	72
Gone camping	73

On becoming a PSG member	74
Exploring changes and effects	75
Reflections on being a PSG member	77
Claiming roles	80
Personal sources of guidance and support	81
Usefulness of peer support groups in schools	82
Constructing research	82
Looking back	84
Irene's wisdom	84
CHAPTER 6
ANJA'S STORY	85
Tracing the history	85
Gone camping	86
On becoming a PSG member	86
Exploring changes and effects	88
Reflections on being a PSG member	90
Claiming roles	95
Personal sources of guidance and support	96
Usefulness of peer support groups in schools	96
Constructing research	97
Looking back	98
Anja's wisdom	99
CHAPTER 7
REFLECTIONS OF THE RESEARCHER	100
Tracing the history	100
Gone camping	102
On becoming a researcher	107
Exploring changes and effects	108
Reflections on being a researcher	109
Claiming roles	112
Personal sources of guidance and support	114
Usefulness of peer support groups in schools	116
Looking back	118
Reflecting on relationships with the participants and the researcher	119

Joshua and Anize	119
Irene and Anize	120
Anja and Anize	121
Joshua, Irene, Anja and Anize	122
Anize and Anize	122
Concluding thoughts	123
CHAPTER 8
EVALUATIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS	124
Evaluation of the study	125
Strengths of the study	125
Limitations of the study	126
Summary of findings and recommendations	127
Training	127
Supervision	128
Constructing roles and boundaries	130
Keeping up the momentum of the PSG through social and PSG related gatherings	132
Usefulness of peer support systems	133
Recommendations for future research	133
Conclusion	133
REFERENCES	135
APPENDIX A: INFORMED CONSENT FORM (PARTICIPANTS)	143
APPENDIX B: INFORMED CONSENT FORM (PARENTS OF PARTICIPANTS)	145
APPENDIX C: INFORMED CONSENT FORM (SCHOOL PRINCIPAL)	147