

Baptism, Eucharist, and the earliest Jesus-groups – from the perspective of alternate states of consciousness

A dissertation by Jonanda Groenewald

Baptism, Eucharist, and the earliest Jesus-groups – from the perspective of alternate states of consciousness

A dissertation by

Jonanda Groenewald

Presented to the Faculty of Theology in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree

Doctor Divinitatis

University of Pretoria
South Africa
October 2005

Supervisor: Prof Dr A G van Aarde

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I hereby wish to express my sincere gratitude to the following people and institutions:

- The Mellon Foundation Mentoring Programme, for financial assistance. Opinions expressed in this research, or conclusions drawn, are those of the author and not necessarily of the Mellon Foundation.
- My supervisor, Prof Dr A G van Aarde, for being a Doktorvater in the full sense of the word.
- Prof Dr J J Pilch (Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.), for sharing his invaluable knowledge of “alternate states of consciousness” with me, as well as for organizing the opportunity for me to do research at the Georgetown University and the Catholic University of America in Washington D.C. during the fall of 2003.
- The Cuyamungue Institute, Annapolis (established by Dr F D Goodman), for allowing me to observe the inducement and effects of alternate states of consciousness.
- The Nederduitsch Hervormde Kerk van Afrika and especially my congregations at the University of Johannesburg and in Parktown for allowing me to write this dissertation.
- My friends, especially Julie, Tertius and Paul for their support.
- My father Johan, brother Emuel, and mother-in-law Annetjie, for their patience and encouragement.
- My husband André, for all his practical assistance, constructive remarks and continued support during all the phases of this undertaking. His faith in me carried me through.

I thank God for giving me the ability and opportunity to study theology.

I dedicate this dissertation to my mother,

Martie Klopper

(17 August 1948 – 19 October 2005), at whose table anybody was always welcome.

CONTENTS

Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

1.1	PROBLEM STATEMENT	1
1.2	OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY	7
1.3	RESEARCH METHODOLOGY	7
1.4	FRAME OF REFERENCE	11
	1.4.1 Introduction	11
	1.4.2 Our world	11
	1.4.3 The first-century Mediterranean world	12
1.5	IDENTIFYING A RESEARCH GAP	24
	1.5.1 Easter	24
	1.5.2 The model: Anti-language	31
1.6	RELEVANCE AND METHODOLOGY	39
1.7	RESEARCH PLAN	41
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 1	42

Chapter 2

ALTERNATE STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS

2.1	INTRODUCTION	48
2.2	CONSCIOUSNESS	50
2.3	ALTERNATE STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS	53
	2.3.1 Introduction	53
	2.3.2 Misperceptions regarding alternate states of consciousness	55
	2.3.3 Characteristics of alternate states of consciousness	58
	2.3.4 Types of alternate states of consciousness	60

2.3.5	Induction techniques	63
2.3.6	The neurology of alternate states of consciousness	67
2.4	ALTERNATE STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND MYTH	72
2.4.1	What is myth?	72
2.4.2	Time in myth	77
2.4.3	Myth and rites	78
2.4.4	The function of myth	81
2.5	THE CONTEXT OF ALTERNATE STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS	86
2.5.1	Introduction	86
2.5.2	Alternate states of consciousness and culture	86
2.5.3	Alternate states of consciousness and religion	88
2.6	SHAMANISM	92
2.6.1	Introduction	92
2.6.2	Holy men or women	96
2.7	THE FUNCTION OF ALTERNATE STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS	99
2.8	CONCLUDING REMARKS	102
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 2	104

Chapter 3

SYMBOLS, RITES AND GROUP FORMATION

3.1	INTRODUCTION	117
3.2	SYMBOLS	118
3.2.1	What is a symbol?	118
3.2.2	Religion as a cultural sign system	123
3.2.2.1	Introduction	123
3.2.2.2	The semiotic character of religion	126
3.2.2.3	The systematic character of religion	127
3.2.2.4	The cultural character of religion	127

3.3	RITES	127
	3.3.1 What is a rite?	127
	3.3.2 The function of rites	132
3.4	RITUAL	137
	3.4.1 Description of “ritual”	137
	3.4.2 Phases in status transformation rituals	139
	3.4.2.1 Introduction	139
	3.4.2.2 Separation	140
	3.4.2.3 Liminality- Communitas	140
	3.4.2.4 Aggregation	141
	3.4.3 Concluding remarks	141
3.5	CEREMONY	143
	3.5.1 Description of “ceremony”	143
	3.5.2 Concluding remarks	145
3.6	THE FORMATION OF A NEW GROUP	145
	3.6.1 Introduction	145
	3.6.2 Social identity theory	146
	3.6.3 From faction to sect	148
	3.6.4 Institutionalization	153
	3.6.5 The formation of the Jesus-community and the Christian movement	156
3.7	CONCLUDING REMARKS	162
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 3	164

Chapter 4

BAPTISM

4.1	INTRODUCTION	169
4.2	REASON: THE FOUNDATION OF THE EARLIEST BAPTISM	170
	4.2.1 Introduction	170

4.2.2	Origins of the earliest baptism	171
4.2.2.1	Introduction	171
4.2.2.2	Greco-Roman mystery religions	174
4.2.2.3	Ceremonial cleansing in the Old Testament	175
4.2.2.4	Proselyte baptism	175
4.2.2.5	The Qumran community	176
4.2.2.6	Provisional findings	176
4.2.3	The “foundation” of the earliest baptism in the activity of John the Baptist	177
4.2.4	Baptism and circumcision	183
4.2.5	The baptism of Jesus	184
4.2.6	Preliminary findings	188
4.3	VALUE: BAPTISMAL FORMULAE AS ANTI-LANGUAGE	188
4.3.1	Introduction	188
4.3.2	Baptismal formulae in the New Testament	191
4.3.3	Baptismal formulae in non-Biblical texts	203
4.3.4	Baptism and the Greco-Roman mystery religions	207
4.4	MEANING: BAPTISM AS A CULTURAL RITUAL INITIATION SYMBOL OF AN ALTERNATIVE LIFESTYLE	210
4.4.1	Introduction	210
4.4.2	Baptism as ritual of initiation and status transformation	210
4.4.2.1	Introduction	210
4.4.2.2	Separation	211
4.4.2.3	Liminality- communitas	211
4.4.2.4	Aggregation	212
4.4.3	The earliest baptism and alternate states of consciousness	212

4.4.4	Anti-society and the earliest baptism	214
4.4.4.1	Introduction	214
4.4.4.2	Reconnoitering the group	214
4.4.4.3	Changes in self-concept	215
4.4.4.4	Initiation into the group	215
4.4.5	The meaning of the baptism of the early Jesus-followers as acceptance into the “family of God”	215
4.5	CONCLUDING REMARKS	225
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 4	227

Chapter 5

THE EUCHARIST

5.1.	INTRODUCTION	237
5.2	REASON : FOUNDATION OF THE EARLIEST EUCHARIST	238
5.2.1	Introduction	238
5.2.2	Origins of the earliest Eucharist	239
5.2.3	Meals in the first-century Mediterranean world	243
5.2.4	Formulae of institution of the Eucharist	252
5.2.5	The Eucharist and the paschal meal	260
5.2.6	The Eucharist and the apocalyptic banquet	262
5.2.7	The “foundation” of the Eucharist in the last meal of Jesus with his disciples and the other meals of Jesus	268
5.3	VALUE : EUCHARISTIC FORMULAE AS ANTI-LANGUAGE	276
5.3.1	Introduction	276
5.3.2	Eucharistic formulae in the New Testament	280
5.3.3	Eucharistic formulae in non-Biblical texts	286
5.3.4	The Eucharist and the Greco-Roman mystery religions	290

5.4	MEANING: HOLY MEALS AS A CULTURAL CEREMONIAL SYMBOL OF INTEGRATION INTO AN ALTERNATIVE SOCIETY	293
5.4.1	Introduction	293
5.4.2	The Eucharist as ceremony of integration	294
5.4.3	The earliest Eucharist and alternate states of consciousness	296
5.4.4	Anti-society and the earliest Eucharist	299
5.4.5	The meaning of Jesus' open commensality	300
5.5.	CONCLUDING REMARKS	304
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 5	306

Chapter 6

RESUMÉ

6.1	THE PROBLEM ADDRESSED	315
6.2	THE PAY-OFF	321
6.3	IN CONCLUSION	323
	ENDNOTES: CHAPTER 6	326

Works consulted	327
------------------------	------------

Summary	361
----------------	------------