April 2008

FROM THE DESK OF THE EDITOR :

In this issue we have more information on journal impact factors and where to find the accredited journals list.

We also feature a selection of institutional repositories at overseas universities – Cornell, Cambridge and Washington State. These repositories showcase the research output. So UP is in good company!

A kind gesture from a group of American Veterinarians and librarians led to the library staff involvement in a local school. Read more about our community outreach projects.

This issue of Infomania features a short summary of the highly successful BOOKJOL, organised by the UP Library Services. Some faculty book publications were displayed in the Villa Museum during the BOOKJOL week. A list of all the books authored by past and present students and staff appears at the end of this issue. Please let us know of there are any omissions.

SOME CREATIVE EXAMPLES OF INSTITUTIONAL REPOSITORIES WORLDWIDE

Erica van der Westhuizen

On browsing the Web for interesting institutional repositories one can find some intriguing examples.

- Cornell University Historical Poultry Disease Laboratory Reports

These diagnostic books spanning 1920 -1988 consists of records of submissions to the Cornell Poultry Diagnostic Laboratories. Those records included name and address of the owner, brief history of the flock or farm and diagnosis of the problem. The books contain information of the problems observed in poultry. These records, along with the Annual Report of the New York State Veterinary College at Cornell University, provide information on the incidence and prevalence of poultry diseases.

Read further at <http://ecommons.library.cornell.edu/handle/1813/5380>

Cornell also has a repository for the publications of staff at <http://arxiv.org/>

It gives "Open access to 469,904 e-prints in Physics, Mathematics, Computer Science, Quantitative Biology and Statistics". You can download the PDF versions of the papers, all free.

From their website:

What advantage is there to an author in depositing academic work in a university repository?

Academic work available on the internet is read more widely than work published in paper format. Also academic work which is available at little or no cost is read more widely than work published in expensive conventional publications. Depositing academic work in a university repository therefore increases the profile of an author on a world-wide basis, increasing both the dissemination and the impact of the research they undertake. Deposit in a university repository can also ease – both for the institution and for the academic author - the administrative burden of reporting publications for research assessment and review exercises. Regular submission of an author's work to a repository provides an author with a central archive of their work and a record of publications to add to a CV.

Some other university repositories where staff research output is made available in full text format worldwide:

- Cambridge University's Institutional Repository

<http://www.dspace.cam.ac.uk/>

- University of Glasgow's repository

<http://www.lib.gla.ac.uk/daedalus/index.html>

The Glasgow ePrints Service is a database of published material by members of the University of Glasgow, including peer-reviewed journal articles, published conference papers, books and book chapters. The full text of these publications is made freely available where possible.

- Building an institutional repository at Loughborough University

<https://www.up.ac.za/dspace/handle/2263/3809>

This paper was presented in 2006 and covers many of the growing pains that we are experiencing at UP.

- Washington State University : <http://www.wsulibs.wsu.edu/digital/> (click on WSU Research Exchange at the bottom of the webpage) The WSU Research Exchange is an institutional repository, which houses WSU faculty digital research and creative works.

- The University of Pretoria has various collections in its institutional repository.

OpenUP showcases the research output (published articles) of lecturers and researchers and other staff <https://www.up.ac.za/dspace/handle/2263/76>

Under the Community for the Faculty of Veterinary Science (sub-community Anatomy and Physiology) you will find the biomedical illustrations of Christine Seegers (The elephant) <https://www.up.ac.za/dspace/handle/2263/78>

The South African National Veterinary Repository is also housed in the UP institutional repository <https://www.up.ac.za/dspace/handle/2263/3809>

This is a unique collection of photographs, documents, etc recording the history and development of veterinary science and veterinary medicine in South Africa. Digitised items from the Onderstepoort Veterinary Institute and from the Faculty are placed in this collection with metadata supplied inter alia by Prof Roy Tustin, Prof Bigalke and Dr Daan Verwoerd.

THE VETERINARY SCIENCE LIBRARY VISITS THE ONDERSTEPSPOORT PRIMARY SCHOOL Marguerite Nel

Situated only 1,5 km North of the main entrance of the Onderstepoort campus, along the M35, is the Onderstepoort Primary School. The school has approximately 150 pupils.

On 22 November 2007 four staff members of the Veterinary Science Librarian paid a visit to this school. Several donations, such as story books, colouring books, crayons, modelling clay, pencils and other stationery, as well as toothbrushes, dental floss and toothpaste were distributed to the children.

This donation was received from the following donors in Vermont, USA:

- Russell Memorial Library, Monkton;
- Lawrence Memorial Library, Bristol;
- Margaret Pierce Teitelbaum (dental supplies);
- Marv Greenberg, D.V.M.;
- Laura Lyndes, D.V.M. and
- Julie Moenter, D.V.M. (organiser)

Tertia Coetsee, Marguerite Nel, Maite Motshoeneng, Constance Lekhuleng and Johannes Moropotli

Posters were made to accompany the dental donation, explaining the correct use of each item. The Veterinary Science Library also donated duplicate journals such as Animal Talk and Farmer's Weekly to use in the classes.

Not only did the children and their teachers enjoy the visit, but it was such an enriching experience for the librarians, they decided to surprise the children the following week with ice cream and sweets!

TWO NEW LIBRARY STAFF MEMBERS

Antoinette Lourens

I am sure all of you have noticed two young and lovely new faces in the library. They belong to Aileen Rosemary Pypers and Kate Tamsin Moseley, our new after-hours staff .

We asked them some questions to learn a bit more about them.

Q: When is your birthday? (Year of birth will not be mentioned!!)

Aileen: 4 February

Kate: 10 November

Q: Where is your home town ?

Aileen: Cape Town

Kate: Stutterheim

Q: Do you have pets?

Aileen: Yes of course! I have a cat (Tamara), a guinea pig (Onyx) and a corn snake (Hera)

Kate: I have a guinea pig, horse and dog

Q: Tell me more about your likes and dislikes.

Kate: I like happy, positive people, reading, listening to music, doing outdoor activities and travelling, earning money.

And your dislikes? Pessimistic and/or selfish people, being freezing cold with no way to warm up, pawpaw, mango, bananas and smokers.

Aileen likes horse-riding, teaching Latin American and Ballroom dancing, learning the Argentine Tango, watching WAY too many series, reading and of course working in the library.

And her dislikes are smokers, drivers that don't keep a reasonable following distance, olives, bigots

There you have it. Two very smart ladies to help us in the library. Aren't we lucky!

HOW TO FIND INFORMATION WHEN THE INTERNET IS DOWN

Erica van der Westhuizen

Veterinary Bulletin:

Veterinary Bulletin is a print journal that publishes abstracts of the core literature in the whole field of animal health. It covers the full range of animals including cattle, horses, sheep, goats, pigs, poultry, rabbits, cage birds, other small animals, laboratory animals, wild animals, zoo animals, fish, cats, dogs and other domestic animals.

Each week the online version of Veterinary Bulletin (the Veterinary Science Database) delivers all the new highly targeted, searchable summaries covering key English and non-English language journal articles, reports, conferences and books.

The print version is a monthly publication containing about 8,000 records per year, and includes indexes of authors, subjects, and serials cited. Review articles are a feature of the printed journal.

Database Coverage

Each issue is divided into the following sections:

DISEASES (virology, bacteriology, protozoology, parasites)
DISORDERS (nutrition, reproduction, toxicology, poisonous plants)
DISEASES IN GENERAL (cats, dogs, fish, other animals)
ANATOMY AND HISTOLOGY
PHYSIOLOGY AND BIOCHEMISTRY
IMMUNOLOGY
DIAGNOSTIC TECHNIQUES
ANAESTHESIA AND IMMOBILIZATION
PHARMACOLOGY AND THERAPEUTICS
SURGERY
ANIMAL HUSBANDRY, WELFARE AND BEHAVIOUR
FOOD SAFETY AND SLAUGHTER
VETERINARY SERVICES AND EDUCATION

A companion volume is INDEX VETERINARIUS, but it is an index only, no abstracts are included. (Abstracts appear in Veterinary Bulletin).

Index Veterinarius is a comprehensive monthly subject and author index to the world's veterinary literature.

Aspects include anaesthesia metabolic disorders, anatomy, parasitology, animal behaviour, pharmacology and therapeutics, animal welfare, physiology, diagnostic techniques, reproductive disorders, haematology, surgery, husbandry, toxicology, immunology, zoonoses, meat inspection and hygiene.

BOTH THESE PUBLICATIONS ARE SUBSETS OF CAB ABSTRACTS database.

So when the Internet is down, don't despair! VISIT THE LIBRARY and consult these two paper resources.

IN CELEBRATION OF BOOKS : BOOKJOL 4 – 7 MARCH 2008

Marguerite Nel

As part of the centenary celebrations of the university, the Library Services presented a book festival from 5 to 8 March 2008. The festival, with a slogan Leading Minds Read, provided four days of reading pleasure: exploring new developments - especially in the field of eBooks, strolling between the stands in the exhibition hall and just chatting with friends, writers, publishers and other role players in the wonderful world of books and literature!

A one day symposium, The eBook Phenomenon: a New Chapter, took place on Friday, 7 March.

Experts in the eBook domain discussed issues such as:

- The e-Book phenomenon and the way it will change learning, scholarship and our understanding and use of knowledge (Mark Carden)
- What's in a book – an evolutionary journey from paper to electronic (Wouter van der Velde)
- e-Books - Productivity booster or resource drain (Christopher James)
- Socially produced content and the Wisdom of the Crowds (Jenny Walker)
- Electronic dictionaries: where language meets (Wanda Smith-Muller)

Shimmer Chinodya, winner of the 2007/08 Noma Award for Publishing in Africa and who is featured in the online African Writer Series (ProQuest), talked about his work and the impact of being online. He also entertained the audience by reading from his work.

Different views and opinions were investigated during a very interesting and informative panel discussion on "The future of academic books".

A kaleidoscope of writers participated in the festivities. Sindiwe Magona, Darryl Accone, Helen Brain, Anzil Kulsén, Sarah Britten, Jaco Jacobs, Carina Diedericks-Hugo, Fanie Viljoen, Fred Khumalo and PG du Plessis were only some of the writers who took part in the events.

Approximately 1000 books whose authors have had some kind of association with the University, were on display in the Villa Museum as part of the BookJol. These works represented a century of academic endeavour, printing styles and layouts, cover designs, publishing trends and fluctuations in tertiary education. A list of faculty publications appears elsewhere in this issue.

Informal talks by present and past UP staff members were held during the lunch hours. Onderstepoort was represented by Prof Malie Smuts. She shared her memories of her involvement in a unique project - compiling the first anatomical atlas of the camel. The title of her lecture was "Daardie wonderlike skip van die woestyn ."

Pretoria's first bookfest was indeed an enjoyable celebration of books, reading, music and art – and hopefully the first of many!

SAYING GOOD BYE TO A LIBRARY COLLEAGUE

WHAT IS WEB 2.0 ?

Antoinette Lourens

"Web 2.0" recently became a buzz word in the computer environment. The phrase "Web 2.0" hints at an improved form of the World Wide Web but it does not refer to an update to any technical specifications. It rather refers to changes in the ways software developers and end-users use the Web.

Web 1.0 was static with read-only websites, whose content could only be modified by the site's owner. Visitors could only view but not touch it. Web 2.0 includes a social element where users generate and distribute content, often with freedom to share and re-use.

Web 2.0 is

- a trend in the use of World Wide Web technology
- web design that aims to facilitate creativity
- information sharing
- collaboration among users.

These concepts led to the development and evolution of web-based communities and hosted services, such as social-networking sites (facebook etc.) , wikis, blogs, and folksonomies.

The Veterinary Science Library has already implemented some of these Web 2.0 tools and the staff are using them with great enthusiasm.

Blogs (weblogs) created and used are:
