Feb 14, 1933

My dear [Name],

I think it probable that the find of gold articles you write about is an important one. We have a lot of people in this country who profess to know all about stone implements, but I doubt if we have one trained archaeologist.

What about Mrs. [Name]? She certainly has a cautious, scientific mind. She is at present on holiday but I expect will return soon. If you care, I shall mention the matter to her.

As you say, the archaeologist is the main requirement. The others can be easily got. My one bit of Confidential advice is, "Have nothing to do with Part."

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

R. B. Young