Dear Colleague

Research: To What Extent is the Foreign Service Institute (FSI) Training Programme Relevant to the Challenges Facing a South African Diplomat in the Global Context.

I am currently a student at the University of Pretoria School of Public Management and Administration studying towards a PhD degree in Public Affairs. As part of my research course I have chosen to study the relevancy of the Foreign Service Institute (FSI) training programme to the challenges facing South African diplomats in the global context.

To get an insider perspective I have chosen to speak to you as a practitioner in this field who has an insight into the challenges that the country’s diplomats are faced with to successfully execute its foreign policy. I am also of the view that since you have attended the FSI training you are in a better position to comment on its relevancy to the challenges that you encounter daily while pursuing the country’s foreign policy objectives.
This research will hopefully provide insights to the current debate on the development of a training programme that will meet the demands of the country's diplomatic capacity. The debates in Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) are mainly looking at how the current FSI training programme could be enhanced to ensure that the country's diplomats are equipped with the relevant skills to successfully facilitate, coordinate and implement the country's foreign policy. I am confident that findings of the research of this nature will be of benefit to your organisation by providing findings which will indicate the extent to which current Foreign Service training programme is relevant to the challenges experienced by the country's diplomats in the implementation of the country’s foreign policy and recommendations on how it can be improved.

I will liaise with you telephonically to set the interview date and time as soon as I have received your response to the attached questionnaire and also your willingness to participate in the study. I will also be pleased if you can refer me to individuals whom you think can make valuable contribution to the study. For any inquiries please feel free to contact me at the following email address: monomash@hotmail.com or fax the completed questionnaire to +8610 6532 6981 if any further clarification is needed in regard to my humble request.

Thank you.

Very sincerely yours,
