THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF MARRIED WOMEN STUDENTS IN NIGERIAN HIGHER EDUCATION

BY
ONYORIODE COLLINS POTOKRI

SUBMITTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DEGREE OF

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (PhD)

IN

MANAGEMENT AND POLICY STUDIES

UNIVERSITY OF PRETORIA, SOUTH AFRICA

FACULTY OF EDUCATION

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION MANAGEMENT AND POLICY STUDIES

PROMOTER: PROF. VENITHA PILLAY

2011
DEDICATION

This thesis is dedicated to all my teachers and all those who cherish unity, peace, progress and prosperity for Nigeria.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This thesis is made possible with the assistance and contributions of a number of unique people. I would like to express my sincere gratitude and appreciation to the following:

My Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, for the unmerited, endless favour and grace that sustained me throughout the PhD journey. Truly, “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me”.

My precious wife for wonderful support and love regardless the many sacrifices she made in order for me to accomplish this task and dream. Thank you ‘honey’! Thank you, Adanma (Onome). Also a big thank you to my children Great and Nuvie especially, Nuvie whom I left behind at home to commence and complete my PhD studies when she was still a baby. You greatly inspired me.

My parents, Chief Michael O. and Chief Margaret E. Potokri for their care, love, encouragement and support (financial and moral). They kept my dream of studying for a PhD alive. You are wonderful parents. God bless you with long life, prosperity and good health.

My supervisor/promoter, Professor Venitha Pillay, for her expert guidance and intellectual stimulation. Venitha, you are a sister, aunty, friend and a mentor. Words in print are not enough to express my appreciation. I am privileged to have you as my supervisor. Thank you. God bless you and your family.

My sisters and brothers – Ufuoma Peace Ekah, Eseoghene Bridjet Obiorah, Uvietobore Joy Ajibola, Ejiroghene Maureen Potokri, Obukwho Nelson Potokri, Akpofure Stanley Potokri, Oghenetega Comfort Potokri, Efemine Prince Potokri and Favour Potokri. I am taking this opportunity to thank you for all for your support and prayers over the years. God bless you all.

My in-laws and uncles – Pastor Michael Ekah, Pastor George Ojegba and his wife, Mr and Mrs Obiakor, Mr Obiora, Mr Ajibola, Uncle Eddy, Uncle Alex Oyenike, Chief Ogefere, Prophet James Edenaughe and Prophet Diamond. Special thanks to Pastor Ekah and Pastor George Ojegba for taking the time and trouble to convince my parents to agree to sponsor me for the PhD programme when they initially refused. This thesis would not have been written without you. Thanks to you all for being wonderful people. Your prayers and support saw me through the PhD journey.

Mr AJJ Botha, Principal, and Mr Collin and Mrs Helena Aikkens, Directors of Dansa International College, Pretoria, for all their assistance and making me feel at home in Pretoria. They treated me like a son. Knowing them and working with them was like having a home away from home. Thank you. God bless you all with long life, good health and prosperity. Mr Botha, I owe you so much that I can not pay but God Almighty will reward you for the entire good things you have done for me. I use this medium to say thank you to all members of staff of Dansa international College for their cooperation and understanding. Special thanks to Mrs van Rensburg, who is always concerned about my wellbeing and Mrs Helena Aikens for her un-endless understanding and support.

Special thanks to Atibioke Kikelomo Loveth. You are one in a million. You are a good friend with the heart of Christ. Thank you for all your support and assistance especially in running errands and typing some of my manuscripts amongst others. God’s mercy and favour will never depart from you. Once again, thank you!

Thanks to my colleagues – Kim, Marius, Mary, Thru, Twanda, Rose, Chester and Ijeh Sunday, who graciously gave support in and outside the lecture room in the form of transport (giving me lift home after lectures and research support sessions) and providing me with some study materials. My thanks also go to my friends who came from different universities in the United States of America and Europe for a research exchange programme at the University of Pretoria.

I acknowledge with great gratitude all my lecturers at the University of Pretoria who in some way or other contributed significantly to the success and completion of this thesis. These include Professor Jonathan Jansen (currently Vice Chancellor, University of the Free State, South Africa), Prof. Nkomo, Prof. Eloff (Dean Faculty of Education, UP), Prof. Chika Sehoole (Head of Department, Management and Policy Studies), Prof. Jan Nieuwenhuis, Prof. J.G Maree, Prof. FW Frazer, Prof. Simeon Maile (HSRC), Dr. Chaya, Prof. Sarah Howie, Prof. Fazal Rizvi (University of Illinois at Urbana – Champaign, USA), Prof. J.W Creswell (Illinois University USA), Prof. Johan Beckmann, Dr. S Prinsloo, Dr Andre Keet and Prof. Gilbert Onwu (Department of Science Education). Special thanks to Prof. Frazer for his support and the warm reception he gave to me on my first day on the Groenkloof campus of the University of Pretoria.

I am greatly indebted to Professor JW Creswell (Illinois University USA), Prof. TA Bolarin (Department Of Education Foundations, Faculty of Education, Lagos State University, Nigeria), Dr Sola Aina (Department of Educational Management, Faculty of Education, Lagos State University, Nigeria), Dr Mike Linde and Mrs Rene (both of the Department of Statistics, UP), for their time, expert knowledge and contributions made in the form of suggestions, review and editing of my research questionnaires and interview questions. Their inputs played a very important role in the validity and reliability of my research questionnaire and interview questions.

Also, thanks to the management and staff of Lagos State University, Nigeria and Adeniran Ogunsanya College of Education, Ijanikin Lagos. My heartfelt gratitude goes to Mr Ajose Adeogun H.O, Provost of the College (AOCED); Dr Farayola, J.A, Dean School of Education (AOCED); Mr Oyasope, A.A, School Officer, School of Education (AOCED); Mr Awofisayo A.O, Department of History (AOCED); Mr Oluwaiye Henry, Library Department (AOCED); Mr Adekunle O.A, School of Vocational Studies (AOCED); Mr Fowowe S, School of Education (AOCED); Mr Adebesin, O.T, School of Education (AOCED); Mr Anagwu Dominic Obi, PES Dept. (AOCED); Mr Ebenener Obidare (AOCED); Mr Bolaji Apejoye; Dr Akhigbe, Assistant Director School of Part Time Studies (LASU); Prof. Olaniyonu, Dean, Faculty of Education (LASU); Dr Abari O.A, Head of department, educational management (LASU); Mr Babajide Abidogun (LASU and UP), Shonubi Kazeem (LASU and UP), Dr MOB (Assistant Director, Sandwich Degrees Programme, LASU); Mr Campbell O. O, educational management (LASU); Mrs Philips, educational management (LASU); Mr
Dosumu OA (Faculty of Science, LASU); Mr Idowu (Sandwich degree Office, Lasu); Mr Dosumu AG (Tai Solarin University of Education and UP).

Special thanks to Mrs Olorunfemi and Mrs Ayo Shobowale of Lagos State University who supervised my bachelor’s degree and master dissertation respectively.

Thank you to my friends and neighbours in Pretoria. You helped to alleviate the academic stress when I most needed it. Thank you Niyi alias “Esado”, Kamal, Ayo, Amos, Taoffek, Femi (black), Femi (white), Yomi (Korea), Jide, Michael (Baba), Rotimi, Oyinbo, Keji, David, Sister Margaret, Mr and Mrs Adeyemo (Daddy Dammy and Mummy Dammy), Tunji and James.

Thank you to Paulina Thabisile Mathabela, a caring friend who never ceases to encourage me.

My gratitude goes to all the respondents and the research assistants, Mrs Chineyere Robert and Mrs Kikelomo Olufemi.
ABSTRACT

My aim in this study was to understand and explain the academic performance of married women students in higher education. The study was conducted on married women students who are studying at higher institutions in Nigeria. A mixed research method was used. The study population was drawn from two higher education institutions – a university and a college of education. Focus group conversations and interview protocol were used to gather qualitative data, while a questionnaire and the academic results of participants were used to gather quantitative data. Data were analysed using constant comparative approach – the reported stories that emanated from the conversations with the research participants; the deduced meanings from the interview protocol; and the statistical testing of the generated hypothesis via t-test statistics and Pearson product moment correlation. The findings include the readiness of women students to narrate their experiences, and the hindrances cultural practices impose on their academic performance, amongst other things. This study uniquely reveals that the academic performance of women students in higher education in Nigeria differs between married women students and single women students. However, some women students in this study were satisfied with their academic performance while others were not. They blamed their academic performance on several factors including cultural practices, marital status, financial constraint and so forth. Apart from women students in higher education who were not satisfied with their academic performance, all women students who formed the sample, including those who considered their academic performance to be satisfactory, complained about cultural practices and their effect on academic performance. Despite their complaints, however, the majority of the women student participants in this study, both married and single, continue to support cultural practices. They said that cultural practices, including the ones that are considered harmful to higher education for women and their academic performance, should not be eradicated or changed, as they maintain that these practices make women truly responsible.

KEY TERMS: Married women students, higher education, academic performance, cultural practices, single women students, gender, and feminism.
DECLARATION

I declare that THE ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE OF MARRIED WOMEN STUDENTS IN NIGERIAN HIGHER EDUCATION is my original work. All sources that have been used or quoted have been indicated and acknowledged by means of complete references.

Onoriode Collins Potokri 24 September 2011
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Abbreviation</th>
<th>Full Form</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>AAU</td>
<td>Association of African Universities</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AOCED</td>
<td>Adeniran Ogunsanya College of Education</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ASUP</td>
<td>Academic Staff Union of Polytechnics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ASUU</td>
<td>Academic Staff Union of Universities</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CBN</td>
<td>Central Bank of Nigeria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CGPA</td>
<td>Cumulative Grade Point Accumulated</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ECOMOG</td>
<td>Economic Community of West African States Monitoring Group</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FAWE</td>
<td>Forum for African Women Educationists</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRN</td>
<td>Federal Republic of Nigeria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IGWS</td>
<td>Institute for Gender and Women Studies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>JAMB</td>
<td>Joint Admission and Matriculation Board</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASU</td>
<td>Lagos State University</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NDHS</td>
<td>Nigeria Demographic and Health Survey</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NPC</td>
<td>National Population Commission</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NUC</td>
<td>National Universities Commission</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UME</td>
<td>Universities Matriculation Examination</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNFPA</td>
<td>United Nations Population Fund</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNICEF</td>
<td>United Nations Children’s Fund</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UP</td>
<td>University of Pretoria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>USAID</td>
<td>United States Agency for International Development</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHO</td>
<td>World Health Organization</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Table of contents

DEDICATION ..................................................................................................................... i
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS .................................................................................................. ii
ABSTRACT ....................................................................................................................... vi
DECLARATION .............................................................................................................. vii
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS .......................................................................................... viii

Table of contents................................................................................................................ ix
List of figures ................................................................................................................... xiii
List of tables ..................................................................................................................... xiii

CHAPTER ONE ................................................................................................................. 1
OVERVIEW 1

1.1 Introduction.............................................................................................................1
1.2 Background to the study .......................................................................................3
1.3 Statement of the problem .....................................................................................5
1.4 Purpose of the study ............................................................................................7
1.5 Rationale for the study .......................................................................................7
1.6 Research questions ............................................................................................12
1.7 Research hypotheses ...........................................................................................12
1.9 Philosophical assumptions ...............................................................................13
1.10 Organisation of this thesis ..............................................................................15

CHAPTER TWO .............................................................................................................. 18
LITERATURE REVIEW ............................................................................................. 18

2.1 Introduction..........................................................................................................18
2.2 Higher education and women in Africa .................................................................19
2.2.1 Introduction and background ........................................................................19
2.2.2 African higher education in historical perspective ......................................20
2.2.3 Transformation of African higher education: integration of women .........24
2.2.4 Millennium development goal 3 ...................................................................29
2.2.5 Challenges for African higher education transformation .......................31
2.2.6 Women’s role in higher education development in Africa .....................33
2.2.7 Conclusion ......................................................................................................34
2.3 Higher education in Nigeria ..............................................................................34
2.4 Enrolment of women students to higher education ..........................................39
2.5 Women’s academic performance in higher education .......................................47
2.6 Gender and culture .............................................................................................55
2.6.1 Understanding culture from a gender standpoint ......................................57
2.7 Culture and women: an African view .................................................................59
2.7.1 Lobola and culture .......................................................................................59
CHAPTER THREE
THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK

CHAPTER FOUR
RESEARCH DESIGN

4.1 Introduction
4.1.1 Purpose of the study restated
4.1.2 Research questions restated
4.1.2.1 Sub research questions restated
4.1.3 Research hypotheses restated
4.2 Research design
4.2.1 Introduction
4.2.2 Research design and method
4.2.3 Quantitative research
4.2.4 Qualitative research
4.2.5 Mixed research design: The researcher’s choice
4.3 Data collection method
4.3.1 Research instruments
4.3.1.1 Quantitative research instruments
4.3.1.2 Qualitative research instruments
4.3.1.2.1 Focus group interview
4.3.1.2.2 Focus Group Conversation
4.3.1.2.3 Recording the focus group conversation
4.3.1.2.4 Interview Protocol
4.4 Population of the study
4.5 Sample and sampling technique
4.5.1 The respondents and participants
4.5.2 Accessing the respondents and participants
4.6 Validity and reliability
4.6.1 Validity ................................................................................................. 113
  4.6.1.1 Validity in quantitative research ...................................................... 113
  4.6.1.2 Validity in qualitative research ........................................................ 114
  4.6.1.3 Validity in quantitative and qualitative research combined ............ 115
4.6.2 Reliability ............................................................................................. 116
4.7 Method of data analysis ............................................................................. 118
  4.7.1 Method of quantitative data analysis ......................................................... 118
     4.7.1.1 The questionnaire and response rate ................................................ 118
        4.7.1.1.1 Response rate in quantitative research ..................................... 119
        4.7.1.1.2 Method of qualitative data analysis ......................................... 119
        4.7.1.1.3 Response rate in qualitative research ....................................... 119
4.8 Delimitation of the study and rationale for research sites ......................... 120
4.9 Ethical considerations ................................................................................ 121
  4.9.1 Ethical consideration in planning the research: .................................... 121
  4.9.2 Ethical considerations during data collection: ...................................... 122
  4.9.3 Ethical consideration following data collection: .................................. 123
4.10 Conclusion ................................................................................................. 124

CHAPTER FIVE ............................................................................................................ 125
QUANTITATIVE DATA ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION ........................................ 125
  5.1 Introduction ........................................................................................................ 125
  5.2 Frequencies procedures and outputs .......................................................... 125
  5.3 Testing hypothesis 1 .................................................................................. 149
  5.4 Decision ..................................................................................................... 152
  5.5 Testing hypothesis 2 .................................................................................. 152
  5.6 Decision ..................................................................................................... 154
  5.7 Testing hypothesis 3 .................................................................................. 155
  5.8 Decision ..................................................................................................... 157
  5.9 Summary of results .................................................................................... 158
  5.10 Discussions of findings with respect to hypotheses .................................. 158
     5.10.1 Hypothesis 1: ........................................................................................ 159
     5.10.2 Hypothesis 2 ......................................................................................... 160
     5.10.3 Hypothesis 3 ......................................................................................... 161

CHAPTER SIX ............................................................................................................... 163
QUALITATIVE DATA ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION ....................................... 163
  6.1 Introduction ................................................................................................ 163
  6.2 Focus group conversations ........................................................................ 164
  6.3 Conversation at the college of education ................................................... 164
  6.4 Conversation at the Lagos State University ............................................... 169
  6.5 Reflections and discussions on focus group conversation ......................... 173
  6.6 Interview protocol ...................................................................................... 175
  6.7 Theme 1: Higher education for women students as a need. ...................... 177
     6.8 Theme 2: The situation of academic performance of women students in higher education. 179
6.9 Theme 3: The impact of cultural practices on academic performance of women students in higher education. ........................................................181
6.10 Theme 4: The educational support and challenges for women students in higher education. .......................................................................................183
6.11 Responses to research questions ................................................................. 184

6.11.1 Introduction ........................................................................................... 184
6.11.2 What are the dominant cultural practices that impact the education of married women in Nigeria? ................................................................. 185
6.11.3 What are the key trends in the academic performance of married women students in higher education in Nigeria? .............................................. 187
6.11.4 What are the differences/similarities in the academic performance of married women students and single women students in Nigerian higher education? ................................................................. 188
6.12 Conclusion .................................................................................................189

CHAPTER SEVEN ........................................................................................................ 190
ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION ............................................................................ 190
7.1 Introduction ................................................................................................190
7.2 Summary and analysis of the data .............................................................191
7.2.1 Findings that reveal explicit links to the literature review ......................... 191
7.2.2 Findings not indicated in the literature ...................................................... 195
7.2.2.1 Findings that reveal explicit links to the literature review and findings not indicated in the literature linked to Frieze et al. expanded achievement attributional model ...................................................... 199
7.3 Theoretical development of this study ...............................................................201
7.4 Conclusion .................................................................................................208
7.5 Recommendations ......................................................................................209
7.6 Further research directions ........................................................................211
7.7 Limitations to the study .............................................................................212
7.8 Significance of the study ...........................................................................213

REFERENCES ............................................................................................................... 215
LIST OF APPENDICES ................................................................................................... 249
Appendix A: Letter of informed consent .................................................................... 249
Appendix B: Frequencies output from questionnaire ................................................. 252
Appendix C: Statistical computation table ................................................................ 259
Appendix D: Attorney’s attestation letter .................................................................. 260
Appendix E: Letter of permission from Adeniran Ogunsanya College of Education, Lagos Nigeria ......................................................................................................... 261
Appendix F: Letter of permission from Lagos State University .................................. 262
Appendix G: Interview protocol/research questions ................................................... 262
Appendix G: Interview protocol/research questions ................................................... 263
Appendix H: Research assistance declaration letter (1) .......................................... 267
Appendix I: Research assistance declaration letter (2) ............................................. 269
Appendix J: Table of interviewees ........................................................................... 271
Appendix K: Ethics clearance certificate .................................................................... 272
Appendix L: Questionnaire ................................................................. 273
Appendix M: Letter from the editor ..................................................... 274
Appendix N: Formatting of document ................................................. 275

List of figures

Figure 1.1: Short-term reactions to the achievement/performance event .......... 94

List of tables

Table 2.1: Male/female enrolment in tertiary institutions ................................. 42
Table 2.2: Academic performance of students by level and CGPA (2002/2003 session) ........................................................................ 51
Table 2.3: Male and female students by class of degree (2002/2003 session) .... 52
Table 5.1: Age of respondents ..................................................................... 126
Table 5.2: Respondents’ marital status ...................................................... 127
Table 5.3: Cumulative frequency: respondents’ year of study ..................... 128
Table 5.4: Married women need higher education ..................................... 128
Table 5.5: Women need higher education to be employed ....................... 129
Table 5.6: Women need higher education to have a career ....................... 129
Table 5.8: Women in Nigeria have a negative attitude to higher education ...... 130
Table 5.9: Women students in higher education should be financially supported only by their husbands ...................................................... 131
Table 5.10: Women students in higher education should be financially supported only by their parents ......................................................... 131
Table 5.11: The dream of women is to become housewives and mothers rather than higher education students or graduates .............................. 132
Table 5.12: Courses offered at higher institutions can influence the attitude of married women to higher education ........................................ 133
Table 5.13: Marital status influences the academic performance of students in higher education ................................................................. 133
Table 5.14: Academic grade point or class of degree is not considered top priority by married women students ................................................ 134
Table 5.15: The academic performance of women students in higher education does not have impact on their academic knowledge .................... 135
Table 5.16: Good academic performance is necessary for a successful marriage. .. 135
Table 5.17: The husband’s educational qualification can influence a married woman’s academic performance in higher education.................................................... 136
Table 5.18: Family background and qualifications can influence married women’s academic performance in higher education. .......................................................... 136
Table 5.19: The academic performance of women students in higher education has an impact on their skills. ................................................................................... 137
Table 5.20: Women studying in higher education should not have children ....... 138
Table 5.21: Women students in higher education are not able to study at home .... 138
Table 5.22: Women students in higher education are more interested in the certificate itself than in grade points................................................................. 139
Table 5.23: A mother-in-law sees higher education for her daughter-in-law as a waste of time................................................................. 140
Table 5.24: A mother-in-law sees higher education for her daughter-in-law as a waste of her son’s money ................................................................. 140
Table 5.25: Cultural practices in Nigeria require women to concentrate only on their home, children and husbands................................................................. 141
Table 5.26: Cultural practices in Nigeria establish that men/males are the breadwinners of their families and therefore support men’s education and discourage women’s education. ................................................................. 142
Table 5.27: Compliance and obeying cultural norms, taboos and beliefs make women better citizens. ................................................................. 142
Table 5.28: Compliance and obeying cultural norms, taboos and beliefs make women succeed in their marriage. ................................................................. 143
Table 5.29: Culture and tradition are formulated by men and implemented mainly through the co-operation of aged women to prevent women from liberation and empowerment................................................................. 144
Table 5.30: Women in higher education should cook and clean the house before and after classes. ................................................................. 145
Table 5.31: Fathers and husbands should help with housework if women are studying in higher education................................................................. 146
Table 5.32: Cultural practices affect married women students’ academic performance more than single women students’ academic performance in higher education................................................................. 146
Table 5.33: Should married women obtain higher education qualifications? ...... 147
Table 5.34: Cultural practice should be upset/retained ................................................................. 148
Table 5.35: Cultural practices in Nigeria should be changed................................................................. 148
Table 5.36: Comments on areas not addressed in questionnaire................................................................. 149
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table 5.37:</th>
<th>Responses regarding cultural practice ........................................... 149</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.38:</td>
<td>Responses regarding academic performance ........................................... 150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.39:</td>
<td>Collapsing extreme and eradication of undecided options/responses on cultural practice ........................................... 150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.40:</td>
<td>Collapsing extreme and eradication of undecided option/responses on academic performance ........................................... 151</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.41:</td>
<td>Grade point accumulated of married women students for year 1 and year 2 of their study. ........................................... 152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.42:</td>
<td>Table showing the cumulative grade point of married women students in Adeniran Ogunsanya College of education for years 1 and 2. ........................................... 155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.43:</td>
<td>Table showing the cumulative academic grade point of single women students in Adeniran Ogunsanya College of education for years 1 and 2 ........................................... 155</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.1:</td>
<td>Higher Education .................................................................................. 176</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.2:</td>
<td>Academic Performance and Marital Status ........................................... 178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.3:</td>
<td>Cultural Practices ............................................................................. 180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.4:</td>
<td>Educational Support and Challenges .................................................... 182</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>