

reclaiming lost space

A centre for sports and education development in the Pretoria city centre

Mentor and Study Leader: Gary White
Submitted as part of the requirements for the March(Prof)
Karsten Hansen 97087620
2007

Contents

1	Introduction	1.01	7 Building design development	7.01
2	Theoretical context	2.01	7.1 Introduction	7.02
	2.1 Introduction	2.02	7.2 A sense of community	7.02
	2.2 Sport and the community	2.02	7.3 Building edge and entrance	7.03
	2.3 The role of sports administration	2.06	7.4 The Kunsthall	7.04
	2.4 Architecture of the event	2.06	7.5 Architecture of transition	7.05
	2.5 The intervention at an urban scale	2.08	7.6 The viewing platform	7.08
3 Brief		3.01	7.7 A question of identity	7.12
	3.1 Problem Statement	3.02	7.8 Pretoria and the Modern	7.12
	3.2 Sub Problems	3.02	7.9 Integrating the modern	7.14
	3.3 The intervention	3.03	7.10 Adding a new layer	7.16
4 Context Analysis		4.01	7.11 Symbolism	7.17
	4.1 Introduction	4.02	7.12 Including the layer in the intervention	7.18
	4.2 The development at a macro scale	4.04	7.13 Programme	7.20
	4.3 The development at a meso scale	4.05	8 Technical investigation	8.01
	4.4 Opportunities and threats	4.06	8.1 Structure	8.02
	4.5 Users	4.07	8.2 Materials	8.03
	4.6 Extending the pedestrian network	4.08	8.3 Services	8.04
	4.7 The development at a micro scale	4.12	8.4 Circulation	8.04
	4.8 Street conditions	4.13	8.5 Lighting	8.04
	4.9 Proposed new developments in the class framework	4.14
	4.10 Sheperd Street	4.15
	4.11 Historical Context	4.16
	4.12 Current on-site activities	4.18
	4.13 Conclusion regarding on-site buildings	4.20
5 Precedent Studies		5.01
	5.1 Precedent study 1	5.02
	5.2 Precedent study 2	5.04
	5.3 Precedent study 3	5.06
	5.4 Precedent study 4	5.08
	5.5 Precedent study 4	5.10
6 Urban Design Development		6.01
	6.1 Introduction	6.02
	6.2 Lessons from the Piazza di San Marco	6.04
	6.3 Jacobs and Newman	6.06
	6.4 Louw and Noero	6.08

List of figures

Figure 1.1 Streets and sidewalks are dominated by cars (Karsten Hansen)	1.02	Figure 5.11 An unorthodox performance (Levin, A p.8)	5.04
Figure 1.2 Streets are appropriated as public space (Karsten Hansen)	1.03	Figure 5.12 The building provides natural climbing walls (Brandolini, S p. 76)	5.06
Figure 1.3 Streets are appropriated as public space (Karsten Hansen)	1.03	Figure 5.13 Openings are cut (Brandolini, S p. 76)	5.06
Figure 1.4 Carwash in the streets(Karsten Hansen)	1.03	Figure 5.14 Trees are used to define walkways (Brandolini, S p. 78)	5.07
Figure 1.5 A Vendor selling her wares (Karsten Hansen)	1.03	Figure 5.15 The history behind the building is apparent (Brandolini, S p. 76)	5.07
Figure 2.1 Zanele Situ (Baker, K)	2.03	Figure 5.16 The reprogrammable public square (Brandolini, S p. 77)	5.07
Figure 2.2 Steve 'Kalamazoo' Mokone (Baker, K)	2.03	Figure 5.17 A study of the façade (Karsten Hansen)	5.08
Figure 2.3 Basil D'Oliviera(Baker, K)	2.03	Figure 5.18 The strong sense of rhythm (Deckler, T et. al p. 78)	5.08
Figure 2.4 Sport as an event (Van Berkel, B & Bos, p.55)	2.03	Figure 5.19 Pretoria vernacular (Deckler, T et. al p. 79)	5.08
Figure 2.5 An urban sports park in Rotterdam ( De Vidy, C)	2.04	Figure 5.20 A play of planes and volumes (Deckler, T et. al p. 76)	5.08
Figure 2.6 Expression on the field ( De Vidy, C)	2.04	Figure 5.21 The entrance (Karsten Hansen)	5.08
Figure 2.7 Social interaction ( De Vidy, C)	2.04	Figure 5.22 View from the building (Karsten Hansen)	5.08
Figure 2.8 Social Interchange ( De Vidy, C)	2.04	Figure 5.23 Lounge on the top floor (Deckler, T et. al p. 79)	5.09
Figure 2.9 Space for the individual ( De Vidy, C)	2.05	Figure 5.24 The building in its sporting environment (Karsten Hansen)	5.09
Figure 2.10 Sport as a cultural bridge builder ( De Vidy, C)	2.05	Figure 5.25 The building protrudes (Karsten Hansen)	5.10
Figure 2.11 Sport as a cultural bridge builder ( De Vidy, C)	2.05	Figure 5.26 Using perforated plates to play with light (Karsten Hansen)	5.10
Figure 2.12 Sport creates community (Van Berkel, B & Bos p.55)	2.05	Figure 5.27 Strong rhythmic columns and appearance(Deckler, T et. al p. 24)	5.11
Figure 2.13 Architecture of the Fanfest, Germany 2006 (Baker, K)	2.07	Figure 5.28 Materials and structure are evident (Deckler, T et. al p. 24)	5.11
Figure 2.14 A reprogrammable square (Brandolini, B p. 77)	2.07	Figure 5.29 Rugged steel corner treatment(Karsten Hansen)	5.11
Figure 2.15 Stadium Rotterdam, Holland (Van Berkel, B & Bo, p.58)	2.07	Figure 5.30 Perforated plate details (Karsten Hansen)	5.11
Figure 2.16 Diagram depicting the relationship (Van Berkel, B & Bos p.59)	2.07	Figure 5.31 Perforated plate details (Karsten Hansen)	5.11
Figure 4.1 The geographics of Pretoria(Jordaan, G p.16)	4.02	Figure 6.1 Sport combined (Powell, P p. 12)	6.02
Figure 4.2 Highspeed thoroughfare - Struben Street (Karsten Hansen)	4.02	Figure 6.2 Sport combined (Powell, P p. 12)	6.02
Figure 4.3 Vibrancy of the streets, a hat vendor (Karsten Hansen)	4.02	Figure 6.3 Study of a public precinct (Karsten Hansen)	6.03
Figure 4.4 Safety is an issue (Karsten Hansen)	4.02	Figure 6.4 Study of a public precinct (Karsten Hansen)	6.03
Figure 4.5 Prinsloo Street covered walkways (Karsten Hansen)	4.03	Figure 6.5 The Piazza di San Marco (Karsten Hansen)	6.04
Figure 4.6 Buildings are closed off (Karsten Hansen)	4.03	Figure 6.6 Study of the plan of Piazza di San Marco (Karsten Hansen)	6.04
Figure 4.7 Ill-defined dead spaces are scars (Karsten Hansen)	4.03	Figure 6.7 Analysis of lost space in the city block (Karsten Hansen)	6.04
Figure 4.8 Struben Street - dirty and wet (Karsten Hansen)	4.03	Figure 6.8 Open space (Karsten Hansen)	6.04
Figure 4.9 The greater Pretoria context, scale 1:30000 (Karsten Hansen)	4.04	Figure 6.9 Shepherd Street (Karsten Hansen)	6.04
Figure 4.10 The city and vehicles, scale 1:5000 (Karsten Hansen)	4.05	Figure 6.10 Exploring visuals (Karsten Hansen)	6.05
Figure 4.11 The Tshwane inner city (City of Tshwane)	4.06	Figure 6.11 The six s's (Brand, S p. 26)	6.06
Figure 4.12 Analysis of pedestrian routes (Karsten Hansen)	4.07	Figure 6.12 Drawing exploring increased permeability (Karsten Hansen)	6.06
Figure 4.13 Diagram depicting on-site agents (Karsten Hansen)	4.07	Figure 6.13 Version 1 - concept site plan (Karsten Hansen)	6.06
Figure 4.14 The city and the pedestrian, scale 1:5000 (Karsten Hansen)	4.09	Figure 6.14 Version 1 - Exploring permeability (Karsten Hansen)	6.06
Figure 4.15 The city block and its immediate context (Karsten Hansen)	4.10	Figure 6.15 Exploring building and site program (Karsten Hansen)	6.07
Figure 4.16 Site and boundary conditions, scale 1:1000 (Karsten Hansen)	4.12	Figure 6.16 Exploring routes that serve (Karsten Hansen)	6.08
Figure 4.17 Pretoria aerial photo (Afrikana)	4.17	Figure 6.17 Conceptual drawing of active urban edge (Karsten Hansen)	6.08
Figure 4.18 Diagram depicting current density (Karsten Hansen)	4.17	Figure 6.18 Usasaza Secondary School (Karsten Hansen)	6.08
Figure 5.1 Passive surveillance (Slessor, C p. 71)	5.02	Figure 6.19 Usasaza Secondary School elevation (Karsten Hansen)	6.08
Figure 5.2 Optimum use of glass facades (Slessor, C p. 71)	5.02	Figure 6.20 Analysis of background (Karsten Hansen)	6.09
Figure 5.3 The underground sports hall (Slessor, C p. 70)	5.03	Figure 6.21 Vital connections to surrounding urban elements(Karsten Hansen)	6.09
Figure 5.4 The building provides identity (Slessor, C p. 71)	5.03	Figure 6.22 The site is off limits to vehicles (Karsten Hansen)	6.09
Figure 5.5 Well-defined entrances and boundaries (Deckler, T et. al p. 26)	5.04	Figure 6.23 Perspective of existing (Karsten Hansen)	6.10
Figure 5.6 The Drill in its urban context (Deckler, T et. al p. 26)	5.04	Figure 6.24 Intervention - 9am, March/September 21 st (Karsten Hansen)	6.10
Figure 5.7 The Drill Hall (Deckler, T et. al p. 26)	5.04	Figure 6.25 Intervention - 12am, March/September 21 st (Karsten Hansen)	6.10
Figure 5.8 Layers of architecture (Deckler, T et. al p. 27)	5.04	Figure 6.26 Intervention - 3pm, March/September 21 st (Karsten Hansen)	6.10
Figure 5.9 Glass facades (Deckler, T et. al p. 28)	5.04	Figure 6.27 Perspective after intervention (Karsten Hansen)	6.11
Figure 5.10 A performance to viewers in flat buildings(Levin, A p.8)	5.04	Figure 6.28 Before intervention - scale 1 : 2500 (Karsten Hansen)	6.11

Figure 6.29 After intervention - scale 1: 2500 (Karsten Hansen)	6.12
Figure 7.1 First conceptual drawing (Karsten Hansen)	7.02
Figure 7.2 Diagram illustrating the positioning (Karsten Hansen)	7.03
Figure 7.3 Kunsthall at street level (Koolhaas, R. & Mau p. 440)	7.04
Figure 7.4 Street Elevation (Koolhaas, R. & Mau p. 440)	7.04
Figure 7.5 Transition to the park (Koolhaas, R. & Mau p. 446)	7.04
Figure 7.6 Diagram of the Kunsthall (Koolhaas, R. & Mau p. 440)	7.04
Figure 7.7 Diagram illustrating the concept (Karsten Hansen)	7.05
Figure 7.8 Exploring the form of the building as inviting (Karsten Hansen)	7.05
Figure 7.9 Model exploring the concept of transition (Karsten Hansen)	7.05
Figure 7.10 Diagram of (Karsten Hansen)	7.05
Figure 7.11 Sketch depicting the building (Karsten Hansen)	7.06
Figure 7.12 The building explored as a viewing platform (Karsten Hansen)	7.08
Figure 7.13 Views onto the public precinct (Karsten Hansen)	7.08
Figure 7.14 Exploration of building mass (Karsten Hansen)	7.08
Figure 7.15 Stadium typology of Sumo wrestling (Van Berkel, B & Bos, p.55)	7.09
Figure 7.16 Squash in Egypt (Van Berkel, B & Bos, p.56)	7.09
Figure 7.17 Model exploring the building (Karsten Hansen)	7.10
Figure 7.18 Drawing exploring the building (Karsten Hansen)	7.11
Figure 7.19 Transvaal Provincial Administration Building (Gerneke, G p.228)	7.12
Figure 7.20 Pretoria brick vernacular (Fisher, R.C p.147)	7.12
Figure 7.21 Meat Board building (Gerneke, G p.228)	7.12
Figure 7.22 College of Nursing, Pretoria, 1965 (Gerneke, G p.227)	7.13
Figure 7.23 High Performance Centre (Karsten Hansen)	7.13
Figure 7.24 Exploring the building masses and geometry (Karsten Hansen)	7.14
Figure 7.25 Drawing showing the response (Karsten Hansen)	7.14
Figure 7.26 Study of forces (Karsten Hansen)	7.14
Figure 7.27 Study of street elevation (Karsten Hansen)	7.14
Figure 7.28 Study of Brise Soleil shading elements (Karsten Hansen)	7.14
Figure 7.29 Perspective drawing of glazing in the street façade (Karsten Hansen)	7.15
Figure 7.30 Perspective drawing, showing the auditorium (Karsten Hansen)	7.15
Figure 7.31 Facade study of the defined auditorium (Karsten Hansen)	7.15
Figure 7.32 Frankfurt Museum, Richard Meyer, 1985 (Murray, P p.24)	7.16
Figure 7.33 Appearance of the towers (Karsten Hansen)	7.16
Figure 7.34 The central tower (Karsten Hansen)	7.16
Figure 7.35 West elevation study (Karsten Hansen)	7.17
Figure 7.37 The materials of the horizontal box (Karsten Hansen)	7.17
Figure 7.36 Section through the light box (Karsten Hansen)	7.17
Figure 7.38 Concept of the horizontal box (Karsten Hansen)	7.18
Figure 7.39 Study of the lightweight construction (Karsten Hansen)	7.18
Figure 7.40 Study of the flow of forces through the structure (Karsten Hansen)	7.18
Figure 7.41 Exploring sun angles and the elevation (Karsten Hansen)	7.18
Figure 7.42 Structural system of the box (Karsten Hansen)	7.19
Figure 7.43 Section through the box (Karsten Hansen)	7.19
Figure 7.44 Three dimensional representation of the box (Karsten Hansen)	7.19
Figure 7.45 Plan of horizontal box (Karsten Hansen)	7.19
Figure 8.1 Diagram of the structural system of the building (Karsten Hansen)	8.03
Figure 8.2 View from Struben street (Karsten Hansen)	8.05
Figure 8.3 View from the public space (Karsten Hansen)	8.05