An introduction and guide to completing this Application for Reparation prepared by:

The Reparation and Rehabilitation Committee of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission

Today you have received a letter from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC), informing you that you and/or people mentioned in your statement have been found to have suffered a gross violation of human rights. You may thus apply for reparation on the attached Reparation Application Form.

•Why do I need to complete the form?

The Government will provide reparation only to those who apply for it on the official Reparation Application form.

Reparation will be provided in two stages – Urgent Interim Reparation (UIR) and Final Reparation. At this stage, the Government is able to provide UIR to people in urgent need.

To help us determine whether you and/or your relatives and dependants are in urgent need, we need as much information as possible under sections D and E of the form. If you have any documents to support your application, like a doctor's report or a letter from our religious leader, this will greatly assist us.

•What if I don't understand English, or need help completing this form?

You could try to find someone in your community who does understand English, and/or could help you translate the questions and help you with your answers. If this is not possible, please phone the TRC office in your region and they will put you in touch with someone who can translate. See phone details below.

What happens to my form once I have posted it?

When your form reaches our office, the information will be studied by a member of the Reparation and Rehabilitation Committee (RRC) who, using the information provided by yourself, will decide whether you are in need of assistance or not. The decision of this Committee Member will then be checked by the Chairperson and Deputy Chairperson of the RRC.

If you qualify for UIR and have provided banking details, a payment may be made directly into your account. You will also receive a letter from us to inform you if a payment has been made and advising you where you can go if you need additional services. If you do not have a bank account, we recommend that you open one.

The process will take a few weeks, so please be patient. If you would like to check whether we have received your form and what stage it has reached in the process, or if you have any other questions, please phone The Reparation Enquiries Secretary in your region.

If any of your details change between the time you complete the form and the time you receive final reparation, please send us the new information at:
