Hierdie studie ondersoek die eksplisiete κύριος en θεός aanhalings in die Pauliniese literatuur. Die studie evalueer ook die impak wat sodanige aanhalings op Paulus se konsep van ‘n Hebreeuse godheid in verhouding tot Jesus as die χριστός en κύριος gehad het. Die ondersoek na die ekplisiete aanhalings word gedoen teen ‘n breë literêre agtergrond, manuskrip data wat dateer tussen die 3de eeu VCE en 2de eeu NCE. Die omvang van die literêr-konseptuele impak van die eksplisiete aanhalings word dan oorweeg in beide die Romeine- en Korintiër-briewe. As konklussie, word die literêr-konseptuele waarde van die eksplisiete κύριος en θεός aanhalings ge-evalueer (a) ter bepaling van ‘n meer komprehensiewe begrip van Paulus se konseptuele verstaan van die terme κύριος en θεός; en (b) ter formulering van ‘n moontlike Pauliniese konsep van ‘n Hebreeuse godheid.

SUMMARY

This study investigates the explicit κύριος and θεός citations in the Pauline literature and their impact on Paul’s concept of a Hebrew deity in relation to Jesus as the χριστός and κύριος. The investigation into the explicit citations is done against a broad literary backdrop, data from manuscripts dated between the 3rd century BCE and 2nd century CE. The extent of the literary conceptual impact of these citations is then considered in both the Epistles to the Romans and Corinthians. In conclusion, the literary conceptual value of the explicit κύριος and θεός citations is evaluated in an attempt (a) to determine a more comprehensive perception of Paul’s conceptual understanding of the terms κύριος and θεός; and (b) to formulate a plausible Pauline concept of a Hebrew deity.
DEDICATION AND ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Dedicated to my two loving parents, Peter and Martie Nagel...you have given me the gift of life and the opportunity to learn. Without your unconditional love and support this study would not have been possible... for this I am eternally grateful.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

I am indebted to a number of people and institutions mainly from Germany and South Africa for their assistance and support during the different stages of this study. Gratitude is hereby expressed to:

- Deutsche Akademische Austauschdienst for a grant that assisted me to stay a total of sixteen months in Germany during the period 2007-2008.
- University of Pretoria for a grant that assisted me to stay a total of four months in Germany during the period 2010.
- Westfälische-Wilhelms Universität Münster (Westf.), Germany, which provided an environment and resources conducive for doing research.
- Prof. Dr. G. J. Steyn, for his devoted guidance, support and friendship. As promoter, he guided with unconditional willingness, availability and motivated by being an exceptional example as scholar and human being.
- Prof. Dr. Dietrich-Alex Koch, for his expert guidance. He is a Doktorvater in more ways than one. His willingness to guide, teach and motivate exceeded far beyond expectation. The hospitality he has shown on both visits to Germany was truly humbling.
- Prof. Dr. Hermut Löhr, for the hospitality and assistance in ensuring a productive second visit to Germany.
- To all my fellow postgraduate students. Thanks for all your support, input and continued friendship.
- Last but not least, a big word of thanks is definitely in order first and foremost to my wife. Not only for all the sacrifices during the years, but her willingness and dedication in assisting with the final editing of the manuscript. Secondly, to my family at Linquenda, without your continued support and motivation this study would have been an impossible task.

PREFACE

The Pauline literature\(^1\), as the general consensus goes, consists of some of the oldest documents\(^2\) in the New Testament. Furthermore, if one would take the so-called deutero-pauline literature\(^3\) into account then it becomes clear that the Corpus Paulinum\(^4\) occupies nearly 50% of the New Testament. Thus, the interpretation, conceptualisation, exegesis, hermeneutics and theologising of these letters are of the utmost importance for the reconstruction of early Christianity as a movement, first within Judaism\(^5\) and soon afterwards outside of it. The Pauline literature in general and the explicit citations in particular, offers a valid point of entry into the literary history of the Greek terms θεός and κόριος used as equivalents for a Hebrew deity. It is thus reasonable to propose an in-depth investigation into 1.) the literary sources\(^6\) of the 3\(^{rd}\) century BCE and 2\(^{nd}\) century CE with regard to the Hebrew and Greek terms used for a Hebrew deity, and 2.) the explicit κόριος and θεός citations in Pauline literature.

\(^{1}\) These are the epistles addressed to the early Christian groups in Thessalonica (1\(^{st}\) Thessalonians), Corinth (1 & 2 Corinthians), Philippi (Philippians), the province of Galatia – whether it be the northern or southern region, the latter is preferred here (Galatians), the Roman capital (Romans), and Philemon residing in Colossians; also referred to as the ‘true’, ‘genuine’ or ‘authentic’ letters of Paul.

\(^{2}\) Dating from as early as 49 CE (1\(^{st}\) Thessalonians), (some argue that James is the oldest document in the New Testament), up until between 55-59 CE (Romans).

\(^{3}\) This includes the 'true' Pauline letters together with the so-called deutero-Pauline letters: Colossians, Ephesians, 2 Thessalonians (some consider 2\(^{nd}\) Thessalonians as post Pauline), 1 and 2 Timothy, and Titus.

\(^{4}\) All the letters that are traditionally linked to the Apostle Paul.

\(^{5}\) This demands the identification of various traditional sources such as Christological and soteriological creeds (Rom 1:3-4; 10:9-10; 1 Cor 15:34b-5 respectively), as well as Christological hymns Phil 2:6-11; doxologies Rom 11:33-36), and baptism formulas (Gal 3:27-28); sin lists (Rom 1:29-31) in an attempt to reconstruct pre-Pauline traditions. It goes without saying that the latter sources include those explicit citations containing the terms κόριος and/or θεός.

\(^{6}\) These sources would include both Hebrew and Greek Biblical manuscripts dated to this period of which the manuscripts found in and around the Judean desert and in Egypt would be of special significance. Some of the works of both Philo of Alexandria as well as Josephus will be included to provide a conceptual frame of reference from a Jewish perspective, that existed in the first century CE.
