Note 1. Since this thesis is in the somewhat unusual context of relying on and deriving from a completed research project (The Music Education National Debate [MEND]) as its main source of supportive material (Sources Part I), the reader is referred to the relevant CD-ROM (Frank Heneghan, MEND (1994-1996): Music Education National Debate) which contains some 70 substantive documents (including 35 original [specific to MEND] scholarly papers as asterisked), which comprise the primary source material for the analysis. These are additional to the references listed further below in the Sources Part II. See also Notes to the Reader (1.6 of this thesis)
