NOTE.

It is due to myself to say that the pages which follow reflect no personal feelings against the Remount Department attached to the British Forces in South Africa. I have not sought to give an additional edge to an unpleasant truth, and I have refrained, where possible, from linking individual names with unfavourable criticism. At the same time I have written frankly, fearlessly and impartially, and, to the best of my belief, without inaccuracy or exaggeration.

SYDNEY GALVAYNE.
