THE CANADIANS' CHARGE HAS THRILLED THE EMPIRE.

Lieutenant Gilliat, of the Canadian Scottish, received a leg wound in the fighting. Captain Goodall, of the Canadian Scottish, was wounded in the arm during the charge.

Lieut.-Col. Boyle, died of wounds. Major Berry, of the 14th Canadians, was wounded in the great charge at Ypres.

Colonel Birchall was killed. Lieut.-Colonel McHarg was killed.

The Canadians have thrilled the Empire by their magnificent feat of arms. When the Allies' line had been thrown back by the desperate onslaught of two German army corps the Canadian division made a counter-attack, and with two brilliant bayonet charges recovered the lost ground. To the cry of "the guns must be saved!" they recaptured four 4.7 guns and took many prisoners. They suffered heavy casualties, but these dashing sons of Empire, whose wounded are already back in London hospitals, by their gallantry and determination, said Sir John French, "undoubtedly saved the situation." Even while mourning for the fallen, Canada offers 150,000 more men for active service.

PREMIER SAYS REPARATION MUST BE EXACTED.

Germany's brutal treatment of English prisoners of war was the subject of the debate on the evening of April 28 in the German Houses of Parliament. Warm indignation was expressed at Germany's barbaric treatment of Americans as well as at the methods of prisoners of war who were sent to Germany.

The Premier, speaking as a soldier, declared that Germany had stood to acts which would make its military history. The German Kaiser, in his speech, was described as "a great and powerful nation," but his actions were described as "a disgrace to our common humanity."

The Premier, speaking as a soldier, declared that Germany had stood to acts which would make its military history. The German Kaiser, in his speech, was described as "a great and powerful nation," but his actions were described as "a disgrace to our common humanity."

The constant testimony that has come in, from every quarter, has shown that Germany is not only a great and powerful nation, but a nation that is indelibly stained with the blood of the innocent.

"NOT HONOURABLE SOLDIERS."

Mr. Churchill, replying to a speech earlier in the sitting, said that submarine prisoners taken before the war were honourable soldiers who had been treated as other prisoners, but they could not possibly be treated on the same footing as honourable soldiers who were systematically employed in the conduct of war.

The Government had followed these policies in their efforts to win the war, and the Premier had been among the first to express his sympathy with the government in their efforts to win the war.

The treatment of the German prisoners has been disgraceful. We must not be satisfied with the treatment of prisoners of war in Germany. The German authorities have been dealt with by German officers.

A SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT.

Lastly, I wish to say that the German Government has been in some degree improved in their treatment of prisoners of war, but it has not been improved in its treatment of the German people. The German Kaiser has been in some degree improved in his treatment of German people, but it has not been improved in his treatment of the German people.

ALLIES AGAIN ADVANCE IN FLANDERS.
British Repel Further German Attacks North-East of Ypres.
PROGRESS NEAR ST. JULIEN.
Artillery Causes Heavy Losses In The Enemy's Ranks.
From Sir John French.
On Monday all German attacks north-east of Ypres were repulsed with heavy losses. In the afternoon our troops took the offensive and made progress near St. Julien and to the east of that place. The French co-operated on our left, and so far as we know they retook Ho. Sae in the German side of the line. In the course of Monday's fighting our artillery took full advantage of several opportunities for inflicting severe casualties on the enemy. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

In addition to the destruction of Casualty Function, mentioned in my statement on Monday night, our artillery on Monday bombarded successfully the stations and junctions at the following points:—

GERMAN MORTARS CAPTURED. 1,000 Enemy Corpses Counted At One Point On The French Front.

French Official News.

To the north of Ypres an enemy officer reported to me on Monday that our Advance had been completely driven back. At one point along the front an officer counted no less than 1,000 German dead. We have assumed the offensive, and are making progress.

At the Hortenwater, after having released the summit, we have advanced 200 yards, descending on the enemy's slopes.—Reuter.

BELGIANS REPUL THREE ATTACKS AND RETAKE LIZERNE.

Belgian Official News.

Last night (Sunday) our infantry repulsed three attacks made south of Blandy by the Germans who were again using appreciable force. The Germans sustained heavy losses. Monday morning along the front the enemy artillery showed a certain amount of activity.

In the afternoon movements and engagements were reported near Ypres—firing of guns and by small arms proved a useful help to the French, who made an advance on Ligny, which yesterday was captured by the Germans.

The French also captured 200 prisoners, the wounded being 200.

SISTER SUBI'S NEW TASK.

The Baden, Tuesday.

That the German Government has forbidden the use of women for medical service was confirmed to-day. The female nurses have been ordered to serve as auxiliaries for the troops in the field. Sister Subi (Helen G. Peer) will go South to work with the Red Cross in the field hospitals. She has been accompanied by Miss Bovet, Red Cross nurse.

THE first attempt to win through the Dardanelles was a failure. It is called a blunder by the Morning Post, and this journal proceeds to fling the entire blame on Mr. Churchill. Very serious charges are made against the First Lord of the Admiralty by our contemporary, for he is practically accused of misleading the Cabinet.

IF Mr. Churchill was the prime mover in the Dardanelles affair he deserves credit for planning a bold stroke, and, despite his impetuous nature, we can feel sure that he put all his undoubted ability into the work. He must have known that it was a risky undertaking, both for the nation and for himself.

It would have been safer for Mr. Churchill to avoid the experiment and thus save the country from criticism, but he took the bolder course. Despite its failure, it was better than nothing. The essence of war is risking some of the lessons are learned from defeat.

WHEN we know the full history of the First World War we shall probably find that two pieces of sheer bad luck spoiled it. There was the possibility that the Allies could have taken Constantinople before the Allied Fleet could not withdraw. The unlucky course was taken of carrying on the fighting alone. There was also the delay by which delayed operations, and gave the Turks and the Germans time to make good some of the damage.

OVER the whole, it must be admitted the critics of Mr. Churchill must have gloated. The whole responsibility is cast upon him. Party venom and professional jealousy are given fuel for fire. But Mr. Churchill is called a statesman, a genius, a hero, a danger to the nation, and he is told in more or less polite language to clear out.

I feel sure that the vast majority of the nation has confidence in Mr. Churchill. Even if we allow for argument's sake that the Dardanelles affair was a failure for which the First Lord was wholly responsible, the country will regard it as a minor matter in comparison with the great services he has done to the nation and the Navy.

We owe the strategic disposition of the Fleet at the outbreak of war to Mr. Churchill. This boosted up the German sea forces, and as a result Germany's improved Navy. To him owe we in great measure the development of aviation both in the Army and Air Force.

More than any other Minister Mr. Churchill has brought home to the public the efficiency of our fighting forces. He has taken credit for the victories on the professional man, and the Dardanelles is a case in point where a temporary naval reverse may not have been due to any of the political events produced by the move.

MR. CHURCHILL is a man of action, courage, and initiative. He has imagination, and occasional failures must arise. He does not play for safety by inaction. There is another chapter to the Dardanelles while THE WAR IN THE STREET.

Very serious charges are made against the First Lord of the Admiralty by our contemporary, for he is practically accused of misleading the Cabinet.

I ALWAYS doubt the writer who professes to know Cabinet secrets, and assuredly what passed between the Cabinet on the subject of the Dardanelles is a State secret. Can the Morning Post prove that it knows the secret?

IN war the time for the American invasion is the explanation of a two-fold one. In the first place Americans have been very hard hit by the war, and are in a spending mood; in the second place the people never miss crossing one a year or two. In piping times of peace one must not mistake for great social favours. I have no idea of the grandiose entertainment in their delightful house in Mayfair, where there is a fine collection of chisels. But even there is stern work.

WHERE Rupert Brooke wrote his Poems.

A CAMBRIDGE man who knew Rupert Brooke in his first years at Cambridge, when he was President of the Fabian Society, tells me he was the handsomest in the University. He lived for many years in the house in Cambridge, where in summer time the happy bathing parties put on all the old-time splendour of Cambridge.

Lady Townsend, Playwright.

WHEN I saw him yesterday he was still niggling for the unsatisfactory: that which might be called the Missyltott-Warshipcy in the business and social life of London. Lady Townsend was an artist, a playwright, should be in her element at His Majesty's.

Tea-Time Topic.

If you are at a west end tearoom of the 8th and are in want of something to do at 9 o'clock this afternoon, what about turning in to the Royal Naval Medical Institute? Sir Percy North will lecture on Army Hygiene and Public Health in Australia; the subject is a subject you know very little about.

Lady Hamilton.

In the days of her husband, Sir Ian Hamilton, in command of the military operations at the Dardanelles, and consequently very much in the public eye at present, Lady Hamilton, whom you see here, was a lady with Lady French and Lady Jellicoe, as she continued to be an important war celebrity. Lady Hamilton is the one whom Sir John Hult, and the sister of Alexander Kay Hult, is her brother. She's been here during the war a year or two. In piping times of peace one must not mistake for great social favours. I have no idea of the grandiose entertainment in their delightful house in Mayfair, where there is a fine collection of chisels. But even there is stern work.

The War Exeolution.

The reason of railway traffic: that is, the movements of troops is inevitable, and the last thing in the world one would grumble at. It is, however, a very bad idea. I have been travelling a good deal for a few days, and every night, looking at all the trains, was always upon an excuse for all sorts of irregularities, with many of which it could have no sort of connection.

Even For Wrong Change!

LONG waits between stations, and trains starting and arriving half-an-hour, or even an hour, late, are seen by the public of the country as an indication of the state of public business. It is evident that if the money is changed at the wrong place, it will result in a loss to the company, and a delay to the passengers.

The Public Want News.

Army censorship is inevitable, but one can not avoid seeing in it a means of carrying out the "efforts" thereof. This will be a very important sale, for the housewife wanting them, and old Sir Walter's collection of presentation cups and other ornaments is often sold on half a century of forms show, must be of very little intrinsic value.

A Year Old Soldier.

This time one year and two months old hope, and, being troubled in mind, I have been looking up all the papers, and to-day, being to-day, in my bed, he said, "Mr. Churchill is the greatest thing in the world." And he went on to explain in this part of the argument.

What? No Night!

But to-night is not the night when George Grosmith will introduce the con artist, after all. There is a con artist waiting to surprise the "French Rug" in "Stop the Clocks." There is no such place as Bastille, where one can不上 fixed, that is: "smile at night."

Two Russian American officers have just passed through London. They have already been for some time in the United States, and I have seen them. The one who goes there was one of the two officers of the party who were captured in the Sevastopol, and to whom was given the command of the 2nd division.

"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Harmless "fruit laxative" cleanses tender stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

Don't scold your tyrant, peevish child. See if the tongue is coated; this is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with bile and imperfectly digested food.

When listless, feverish, with tainted breath, a cold, or a sore throat; if the child does not eat, sleep or act naturally, or has stomach-ache, indigestion or diarrhea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the waste matter, bile and fermenting food will pass out of the bowels, and you have a healthy, playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative" and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" sweet and wholesome.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your chemist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for ballyhoo, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters abroad, so look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand book with contempt any other fig syrup, "California Syrup of Figs" is sold by all leading chemists.

£1,000 In Needlework Prizes:

A Mansion Worker Intends To Compete.

One of the most sporting applications for an entrance form for the Daily Sketch Patriotic Needlework Competition yet received came in yesterday. It reads:

Will you please send me an entry form and particulars re the Needlework Competition in the Daily Sketch. London, E.C., for full details and an entrance form.

The Daily Sketch is offering £1,000 in prizes for the best needlework done in the above classes by its readers. There is no entrance fee, but each entry must be accompanied by twenty-four coupons cut out from the Daily Sketch. These coupons are now appearing in each issue and will do so until November 6.

After the judging, which will be done by experts under the auspices of the Royal School of Art Needlework, all the work will be exhibited in a suitable hall in London. All these competitors who wish to do so may offer their work for sale in aid of the Red Cross Society and the Art Workers’ Association, to whom the proceeds of the exhibition will be handed. Those who are unable, for reasons of sentiments or means, to present their work may have it returned to them at the close of the exhibition.

There are 33 classes in the competition, so that every worker may find an appropriate one. Girls under fifteen and boys under nine have special classes of their own.

Although the finished work must not be sent in until November next intending competitors should lose no time in collecting coupons and sending in their entrance forms, as this will greatly facilitate the arrangements for the judging and the exhibition.

Burning Pain with Weeping Eczema

135, Clyndu St., Morriston, Glam., S. Wales.

“About six months ago I began to be troubled with eczema. It started with a raw-looking, scurfing rash which turned out to be weeping eczema. I could scarcely sleep at night owing to the burning pain. The irritation was terrible. My face was in such a state I was ashamed to go out. I tried several ointments but they did me no good. It seemed to yet worse. I attended an advertisement of Cuticura so I wrote for a free sample. I applied according to directions and shortly after treatment an improvement commenced so I bought a supply and in a short time I was completely healed.” (Signed) Mrs. A. Whalley, July 15, 1914.

THE MOTHERS OF THE WAR BABIES.

Dr. Scott Lidgett Explains How They Are To Be Helped.

DON'T MAKE THEM HEROINES

Calamity If Girls Are Thrown On To The Poor Law.

War babies are going to occupy a prominent position in the social problems of the near future. It is admitted that there will be a great increase in the number of illegitimate births this year, owing, it is stated, to the great bodies of troops which have been stationed in different centres. How big that increase will be, and how the accommodation to deal with the subject without many inquiries.

Mrs. Creighton, in conversation with the National Union of Women Workers, it can be gathered together a small committee of ladies to investigate the matter to the extent of the damage.

Dr. Scott Lidgett, in an interview with the Daily News, said that in his opinion the number of the women who are thrown on to the poor law as mothers will not be as great as had been expected. The number of mothers who are going to be thrown on to the poor law as mothers, he said, was not going to be as great as had been expected.

Mrs. Creighton, in a letter to the Daily News, said that in her opinion the number of the women who are thrown on to the poor law as mothers will not be as great as had been expected. The number of mothers who are going to be thrown on to the poor law as mothers, she said, was not going to be as great as had been expected.

THE 2,000 GUINEAS.

Another Great Race Between Let Fly And Sunfire Probable.

POMMERN'S STANDING.

Not for many years has the Two Thousand Guinea race caused so much excitement, and to-day's race is fraught with greater uncertainty than usual.

There were at least half a dozen candidates who took part in the contest, of none of whom can be said to hold an outstanding chance. The following are some of the probable starters:

1. favourite: Mr. G. D. D. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   2. FAVOURITES: Mr. G. D. D. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   3. Mr. A. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   4. Mr. B. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   5. Mr. C. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   6. Mr. D. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   7. Mr. E. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -
   8. Mr. F. P. - The colt on whom the greatest confidence was placed, his name being -

There was a dispute amongst the bookmakers as to the probable winner of the race. Some bookmakers were convinced that the favourite, Mr. G. D. D., would win, while others were of the opinion that Mr. A. P. would take the honours.

The Boy on the Clapperbill.

The boy on the Clapperbill, who was considered a potential winner, was on the point of being sent to the Cape, when he was unfortunately injured.

There was a great deal of hope that he would recover, and that he would be able to take part in the future races.

This pocket-book was the means of saving the life of Private H. Blake, of the 9th Northamptons, who was hit by a shell head at Dixmude, and on his recovery returned to his former work. He was again injured, this time in three places, and for twelve hours had to be in bed. A bullet penetrated this wallet, which he was carrying just over his heart.

Moving! Some families remained—in the cellar.

Tommy is again playing the game at Ypres, the scene of some of the most sanguinary fighting of the campaign. On the fields which a short time ago were raked with shrapnel and rifle fire the British soldiers played football matches. A shell-hole in the ground made a convenient place to pitch a goal-post. Now when the tide of war has the playing pitch will be converted into trenches.—These photographs (exclusive to the Daily Sketch) were all taken recently at Ypres.
