THE MOTHERLAND’S CALL TO THE SPIRIT OF MOTHERHOOD

Laurette Taylor and Miss Falconer Wallace in "The Mother of the Gracchi." Constance Collier as Venus.

Lilian Braithwaite personifies the Mother.

War, that is robbing the nations of the flower of their manhood, makes motherhood an all-important asset of the State, and nowhere more than in this great Motherland of a great Empire. This is the keynote of the series of living pictures, designed by Byam Shaw, the eminent artist, to be presented at the Haymarket Theatre to-day in aid of the Women’s League of Service. Several well-known actresses take part in the tableaux, which will symbolise the service of Motherhood to Motherland—(Daily Sketch.)
THE GOVERNMENT PROSECUTES THE "TIMES."

Complaint By The French Military Authorities.

"LAST RESERVES ARE OUT."

"Most Mischievous And Improper,"

Says Mr. Bodkin, K.C.

A case of much public interest was opened at the commissions in France yesterday when Mr. Bodkin, K.C., appeared before the War Office Commission, the publishers, and Major E. H. Richardson, the well-known dispatch writer of the Defence of the Realm Act for publishing on May 21 information in regard to the French Army.

The case arose out of a letter sent to the Times by Major W. Deakin, the editor of the "Censor," and the following information was given to the Times by Sir Henry Bruff, the War Office censor:

"The last of the French reserves were out on the present moment and the French were lying concealed in the Channel."

The times of that information was dated May 21, but did not appear in the Times until May 25. The letter began in this way:

"The letter which was the subject of the appeal was written by a correspondent stationed in France and was signed with the initials J. T. The correspondent had heard from a reliable source that the French reserves were lying concealed in the Channel. The letter was written on June 8, and was sent to the Times on June 13. It was examined by the censor and was returned from France, where it was examined by the Censor's staff."

The letter then went on to say that the French reserves were lying concealed in the Channel, and that the French were ready to make a sudden attack on the English coast. The letter was returned from France on June 13, and was not published until June 21. The letter was signed with the initials J. T. The correspondent had heard from a reliable source that the French reserves were lying concealed in the Channel.

It is the duty of men to fight; it is the duty of women to make it possible for them to fight. There is no greater reason than the one I have given you to make them believe that the letter is correct. The letter was returned from France on June 13, and was not published until June 21. It is the duty of men to fight; it is the duty of women to make it possible for them to fight.

The letter was signed with the initials J. T. The correspondent had heard from a reliable source that the French reserves were lying concealed in the Channel.

RELIED ON THE CENSOR.

The case was heard by the War Office Commission, the publishers, and Major E. H. Richardson, the well-known dispatch writer of the Defence of the Realm Act for publishing on May 21 information in regard to the French Army.

COMPLAINT FROM FRANCE.

In opening, Mr. Bodkin explained that the Act prohibited the collection or publication of any information calculated to be, or which might be, directly or indirectly, useful to the enemy.

Various warnings had been published from time to time and served upon every newspaper in the country concerning the dangers of publishing information calculated to be, or which might be, directly or indirectly, useful to the enemy. Information was also required to be given of the matter which the Act contained, and the information which it was required to be given of the matter which the Act contained.

Trips To the Front.

Trains are a good deal of common going round among the swarm of people, with no direct military connection whatever, who are buzzing about the British headquarters in Flushing. It is now quite the "clip-de-clap," thing, if you possess an ounce of the necessary influence, in order to run up to the front, lunch at a trestle or two, possibly hear some guns, and then dash back to town and talk to your friends about "The Experience." Irresponsible.

The civilians should be able to take their little trips is surely far from desirable. I hear of numerous cases where ladies, without . . . the excuse of nursing, have gone on these excursions, and have come back with the "Oh, my dear, you simply must go! We had the most gorgeously thrilling time!" sort of remark. It may be well to point out that the French armies, far larger than ours, are not without these irresponsible speculators.

What Women Are Doing

A Souvenir. Luncheon—War Trophies At Prince's—An Alfresco Tea Matinee.

I HEAR that Lady Di Manners had prepared a very charming little speech that did not come off. She delivered it at the Sunday afternoon at the Queen's Hall. Lady Di presented a bouquet nearly as big as herself to Miss Leslie from the Army, and Miss Leslie admitted it was and said a few pleasing words, but so overcame was also by Mr. Rejane's wonderful address and Mr. Carroll's "I felt safe" that she was quite forgetful for her emission.

No In The Audience.

It was a great disappointment to the Prince, you know, to have been able to present at the last of the All British Concerts at the Queen's Hall, but owing to her recent loss in the death of her mother, the Princess is not at present attending any social functions.

A Little Better.

Small will you wonder who you were rescued from the Longinst, has returned from Palestine to her home in Carrington, Monument- shire, and in, I am glad to say, improving very much in health, though suffering still from the heart attack. She visited Miss Parkhurst's "national service" meeting at the Palladium on Thursday.

Good News.

I am told that quite a number of Interesting war weddings will be taking place, although many are out of and out of town. June is a lovely month.

For the French Wounded.

Princess Christian has given her patroon to a French hospital on May 31st, in aid of the French Wounded Emergency Fund. The entertainment was entitled a "Matinee illustrée," and is organised by Miss Jeanne, the well-known Parisian dancer. The performances will take place in French play. M Jan Culligan, of the Opera House, and M Fernand Maa will assist.

Two Awards

Lady and Lady Raglan are glad to be able to tell all the friends who kindly inspired them that:

he is making satisfactory improvements. He has been under the care of a physician at the mine explosion at Wirksworth, and is now suffering from a fracture of the ankle, which has been treated in an expert manner by Dr Fackler; Henson. He is, however, not, by the way, the first time he has been sick, for, on his wedding day, he had a cold, and his wife, daughter of the 7th Earl of Bons, and her three brothers, are all now in the War Emergency. Beside Nigel Wolley has been wounded, but the lady who was born on the same day.

Under Canvas.

Some of the hospitals in Bologna are being shut down, I am told, and of Staple, few women are in the War. There will be quite a few women in the War Emergency. Miss Magnetic, Millwood Duchess of Sutherland Hospital, Cafe Bella Vue, at Drunkirk, is in process of being organised, and the same for the other hospitals in France, where will be under canvas. I hear it has a wonderful week-end.

Luncheons instead of FasclBall.

The Savoy Hotel will again be the scene of a great function on June 29. Since the outbreak of the war, the Savoy has been an active and efficient centre for the women's war work, and the Savoy, who will be able to welcome the whole of those who take part in the main function, which will be full of surprises and attractions, will be welcome. It will be not only a function for the women who have provided funds for the cause, but a function for the Three Arts Employment Room, and so make it possible to turn out toys of English make at the month, except on the 7th. There is no leveller spot in London than the Botanic Garden and it is very easy to get there at their very best. If music does not charm us there, surely the glorious flowers, sun and cool breeze from the magnificent garden will. To-day Miss Eliza Hook, Madam Clara Butt's sister, will sing, and Mr. Carme O'Sullivan and several of the better known artists will help to make the concert a success.

Camille Clifford's Sister-Law.

At the house of the Hon. Mrs. Clarence Bruce, whose husband, Lord Aberdare's heir, has been wounded in France, there is to be a very large and splendid dinner. The many titled baronets, and the other members of the Army. Only a few months ago his elder brother, the Hon. Randolph Bruce, who married Camille Cliff- ford, the famous French girl, was killed in action. Mrs. Clarence Bruce was married three years ago and is the mother of Mr. Adam Black.

War Trophies—Not.

I look into Prince's Skating Club a day or so ago, and if you go to that art you will have two trophies. Exhibitions, organised in aid of and under the patronage of the Royal Crox Anglo- Belgian Committee. The exhibition, which opens today, is an event of absorbing interest. Prince's Club is well known as the coolest summer hall in London, and will be an ideal place for the event.

A Delightful Page.

The 'Laughter of Fools' is a modest delight for refreshing play and I enjoyed my evening with the good family. Saturday afternoon immensely Alfred Bishop, who plays John Gilray, is a very fine cost of old ages, and Miss Eira to Gallissone portrays a little laugh-ful in an old age. The whole story is simple human nature, with exactly the right people acting the right parts and saying things in a perfectly natural manner.

Just Like A Goddess.

During an interval I rushed to the London Club, where Miss Mary Wordsworth is the principal actress. The goddess of the gods is a very remarkable event. Miss Wordsworth, who possesses a beautiful fair complexion and gaunt appearance, expects a good deal of public interest in her appearance. Instead of the dark thin indication of the Indian race, this goddess will be superlative fairy, which is also the case. Miss Mary Wordsworth studied the matter thoroughly in ancient books, and her glorious promise is not confirmed copy of the statues of the Goddess in the India Office.

TURKS ROUTED IN A MOON-LIGHT BATTLE.

Second Line Throws Bombs Into The First Line.

ENEMY LOSES 2,000 MEN.

British Official News.

On Wednesday afternoon nothing of support occurred.

On Friday we detected the engineers of the enemy working under one of our posts. We opened a cour-s'ence, which was successful.

The name given to this attack must be one of the most important events in the war. The Turks lost 2,000 men.

CROSS FIRE AT KNOWN RANGES.

Visible in the bright moonlight, we saw the enemy along the whole line. The second line bomb thunders through the air and causes destruction.

The enemy's casualties were at least 2,000, but according to an American soldier, the number of those not affected by the Council's decision seems to have been 20,000.

SAUCY BRITISH TORPEDO-BOAT.

Avroon, Monday.

A British torpedo-boat whilst cruising near Avroon (Ansam, Monday) was caught by the Turks. The crew died with a brave bomb thrown into the boat by the Turks.

TRAM STRIKERS BEATEN.

Men Over 40 Advised By Their Unions To Go Back To Work.

As a result of the L.C.G. decision not to re-employ men over 40, the tram company decided on Wednesday afternoon to re-employ them. The men are advised to return to work.

MARKETS IDLE, BUT MOVING.

Wall Street Holiday Causes Americans To Lack Attention.

Stock Markets remained very idle yesterday as a whole, but there was a fair number of movements in the Kuhl, sections. Kingston Central being prominent and rising to 3,000. Benchmark increased in demand, and there were buyes for Mark at 1,000. The Kuhl and Jones' Canal Co. were strong.

It was a holiday in Wall Street, and consequently American securities attracted even less attention than usual. Canadian Pacific shares were sold down to 15.

An important project is being put forward by the Consolidated Gold Fields of South Africa a company which we have had to consider on several occasions. It is proposed to put the company into voluntary liquidation and to offer shareholders an interest in the Union Gold Company of South Africa, which interest would create an additional capital of 1.5 million.

If the shareholders will vote in favor of the company they are bound to sell their interest. On this, the Council has stated that the matter is not satisfactory and should be brought before the Council. On no account should they put any more money into this company.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—Futures closed quiet. Americans 2 to 3 down: Egyptian 8 to 7.

HEARING OF THE SPY CHARGES.

The charged political circumstances, you may be interested to know, are being treated in the trial of the alleged spies, Muller and Hall, the Old Bailey.

Sir Stanley Buckingham was to have led the Crown, but it is not unlikely that Sir Edgar Carson, the new Attorney-General, who will now prosecute, may have something more to say about it.

CIGARETTES FROM MANY PARTS.

The Daily Stock Fund for cigarettes for our men at the front continues to show a widespread area as it was seen from day to day.

If you can easily make wider still the list in the following—

Rheumatics.

Simple Herb Cures Rheum Disposes To Stay Cured.

Diabetes.

Diabetes has been known for many years as a disease that can be treated with special diets.

"Not Even For Your Sake."

"Father is paralyzed. How can he be cured?"

Andor groaned. "No, no. If he were to..."

Andor, understanding the woman's worry, said: "Father would have to undergo a successful operation.

"Not even for your sake."

"Andor, and..."

Andor gave a groan: "But he will have to undergo surgery..."

"...And it will be..."

London Territorials Who Have Won Fame At The Front.

The 9th London Battalion, Territorials, The Queen’s Royal West Surreys, have been through a serious engagement. A letter received in St. Albans yesterday morning stated that they captured a German trench last Wednesday. The photograph shows them being reviewed by the King at St. Albans before leaving for the front.

"THIS IS YOUR FATHERLAND"—"BUT WHERE ARE OUR FATHERS?" ASK THE CHILDREN.

"The Fatherland! The Fatherland!" these Berlin nurses keep saying to their little charges. "My father! My father!" is the response from the little ones.

Millions of German children have been orphaned by the war. But they are not allowed to know their fathers' terrible fate. In the numerous creches established in a State where War-law is all supreme the children are brought up in a belief that all is well with the Fatherland.
