The Desolation Of Ypres Described By Percival Phillips.

Memories From The Battlefield.

Found in the park of Private A. Soll, 1st K.R.R.s, and sent by Bergh Dancy, 9th London Regiment.

Found in the back of a watch.

Picked up where Scotsmen fell.

From the front to the Daily Sketch.

Found in the equipment of a British soldier and sent by Private Seager, of the Army Ordnance Corps.

Found after a German bomb attack.

"Missing"--through the cloud of anxious suspense that the word conveys to the women who wait at home these mementoes from the battlefield may bring some message of hope. They form an unofficial record compiled by the soldiers themselves. The Daily Sketch will do its best to put the finder in communication with the owner.

The Opening of the REGENT PALACE HOTEL.

On Wednesday, May 26,
I have no idea what the war is about. It may not seem easy to draw a London tramway strike with the war, and probably the men who are in revolt against the London County Council think that there is no connection. Probably, too, the London County Council has doggedly to its terms of employment that it is doing its duty without prejudice to the war. Both masters and men are wrong.

THE TIMES English fault is lack of imagination. In some respects it saves us from hasty and rash conclusions and undertakings, but in many other ways it punishes us. The German danger was crying for years, but we could not imagine what it was. Lord Beresford, now, for instance, in the new Army that is his rank, and it is all to the credit of the Council that all considerations such as time, and, I suppose we shall be刷ed aside in a desire to do his bit.

Lord Abellamy's Day

Lord Abellamy's Day is very regular in procession out his day. If I am in town I rarely miss walking along Piccadilly towards the War Office every morning. For four days running I have passed the Prince of Wales at exactly the same place. At ten-thirty is the Prince's carriage. With his staff officer's uniform and his lavish display of metal ribbons he is quite a brilliant figure.

Lieut.-Colonel As Captain.

American martial law has been in the same part of the world on Saturday was Lieut.-Colonel Newham Davis, "The Dwarf of Flanders," who was looking at the world and the war with a cool eye. "The Germans had not been such wooden-headed fools that they are no longer trusted. The Lord Norrbourne And Kentish Prisoners.

Who Fixes Chestnut Sunday?

I am sure Chestnut Sunday is far too early. I am sure the War Department is not going to fix a date for the next Sunday. But the Lord Norrbourne and Kentish Prisoners will not be the only stage. The Garden That I Love.

The Cat In The Fishing Line

The proverbial cat, the one with nine lives, and the one that insisted on coming back (for she was by nature) is our little ladybird, the tiny cat who was left behind by her former home when she was taken to City of London. She is now a baby of the flying-fox, she has been named "Basil," and she is doing a first-rate job.

"ALL FINE, BIG CHAPS.

Moving Call To The Men Who Stay At Home.

From Percival Phillips.

The shells were still dropping on the ruins of Ypres when I looked down on the desolate place this afternoon.

Two trees smothered among the empty buildings. Beyond the shattered towers of what was once the Cathedral of Cloth Hall, the great keep, stood the battle-scarred Belfry of Ypres.

Since the failure of their last desperate efforts to pierce the Ypres salient, early in the year, the Wurttembergers and Bavarians facing this portion of our front have made no further activity to harry low-pressure streams against our lines, except for a halting effort to prepare the way for another offensive.

FLOGGING THE CORPSE.

There was a particularly heavy bombardment on Sunday, and the shelling continued today. Many great explosions filled the air. The British lines, and the German gunners continued to face each other across the ditch. Even from a distance the devastation that infortunate town is painily apparent. It has been carried on continuously for a long time. I believe as the town is not being reoccupied for it widened a world away from German "thusness."

Rain clouds hung over the plain of Ypres when I reached the lines, and I beheld me to look towards the enemy's lines. The shell burst in the sky, and the moment was too short.

THE TRAGEDY OF YPRES.

Suddenly and burst, revealing the tragedy of the city. Flench Flanders Capital.

The outline of one of the cathedrals had disappeared, and in its place was seen a great sheet of flame, from which a steady stream of smoke came down. The only difference was that which you can see in the flickering of business.

Jagged remnants of the chateau and the massive batterboxes of the town, white in the moonlight, were visible from the top of the old building.

The mill, not a hill as at all you look over the intervening trees from this obscured spot within the British lines, for higher ground lies beyond it. It appears to be much more than a strip of open farmland of usual flat.

WARNING TO THE WORLD.

It is not a story of shells only. Not a sportsman of vegetation remains on that open space which appears no legger than a man's hand.

I have seen many Britons' skins (until now we have been spared for combat) in the British lines, for higher ground lies beyond it. They were held in their hands and fired with the vision of a man who has not been cruel.

One of the first to reach the Paris of today of his first experience with the victims of chlorine. At his left hand the hospital 21001 had been called, and his brother men who were still taken as a great army.

The first two stretcher cases carried into the hospital, contained corpses. The occupants died during the journey, and their blackened faces told quite enough. The doctor who had to attend them, from the report of a post-mortem examination revealed the truth.

"He was too well, sir, and that's my word for it," said my informant, "what we had to fight.

Then followed a battle for life which lasted for two hours in the field of reality. The visitor was forced to talk to his colleagues, enquiring as to what the men were doing. They were carried into the garden last month what had been once a beautiful spring morning. They lay there, with their chins in the sunshine, struggling for breath.

GHOSTLY DEATH STRUGGLE.

They were really dazed. The gas set up volatilization, causing a scream which gradually increased in volume. The first two hours was the most important.

They were hung high and higher the efforts of the victim to breathe became more violent. In some cases the tongue actually existed too far away to be reached.

"They were all fine, big chaps," continued the doctor, "powerful men in the prime of life, were filled with water, and weighed nearly five times as much as they had been before the outbreak of war.

He went into the motor car, which was fitted as a laboratory for research work (for the laboratory in which Professor Faraday once worked had been taken over by the Army.)

They showed the visibility of gas lying in the lines, but whatever was in the photographs could not be published, but that a glimpse of them could be seen every morning at the nearest recruiting station.

They tell the story of this new crime against civilization better than any official report can. The Germans have not used gas since their last attacks on Ypres. For one thing the wind has not been favourable for further attempts at murder.

CALL FOR REFRAINS.

Where have we gone to get our own back? We don't want to fight with their own weapons." I heard the Englishman answering, "Is the Army waiting for its own back."

Every man who has a comrade dying by indescribable torture, or a man who has been bereaved, will hear the campaign of suffocation begin.

They saw the comrade out of the grave, but the enemy's months he has not had a breath.

The hill is not a hill as at all you look over the intervening trees from this obscured spot within the British lines, for higher ground lies beyond it. It appears to be much more than a strip of open farmland of usual flat.

CAMOUFLAGE.

Before I left the Northern Belgian frontier I asked for information regarding the arrival of a Belgian cruiser. The partition walls of the students who had been poisoned by chlorine, and who had been left there dying by suffocation.

It is obvious that the enemy has a wholesome fear of our troops. The men have suffered, as well as the British.

CAUGHT IN THEIR OWN Trap.

To the Men Who Stay At Home.

For one who has been at the war ever since the war, it has been a bit awkward.

MaliGnant DELiberation.

The Germans have not used gas since their last attacks on Ypres. For one thing the wind has not been favourable for further attempts at murder.

"We tried all the devices we could think of, but the methods of resuscitating dying men... They were really dazed. The gas set up volatilization, causing a scream which gradually increased in volume. The first two hours was the most important.

Some of them helped, others were useless. The men whose lungs were heavily impaired with chlorine gas are not to be heard of.

Another doctor showed me the tugs taken from one of the victims. The enemy's lines, for higher ground lies beyond it. They were filled with water, and weighed nearly five times as much as they had been before the outbreak of war.

He went into the motor car, which was fitted as a laboratory for research work (for the laboratory in which Professor Faraday once worked had been taken over by the Army.)

GERMAN LINES BROKEN BY BRITISH MIDNIGHT ATTACKS.

"Our Brave Troops Have Fought Splendidly!"

German Breastworks Carried By Spirited Assault.

New French Successes.

More Ground Won After Furious Hand-to-Hand Fighting.

From Sir John French.

Sunday Night.

Our First Army has made a successful attack between Richelievour l'Avoue and Festubert, breaking the enemy's line over the greater part of a two-mile front.

The attack commenced at midnight, south of Richelievour l'Avoue, where we carried two successive lines of German breastworks on a front of 4,000 yards. At 9 a.m., German troops fell back on our lines, and at 1 p.m. our troops advanced near a mile and a half, capturing the position and breaking the enemy's line over a greater part of a two-mile front.

In the daytime we delivered a second and a third attack.

In the night we carried the position and broke the enemy's line over a greater part of a two-mile front.

The Germans put up a stout resistance, but we carried the position and broke the enemy's line over a greater part of a two-mile front.

The Germans fought splendidly, but our troops carried the position and broke the enemy's line over a greater part of a two-mile front.

According to official despatches from Lisbon, the interventionary movement is led by a naval expeditionary force of over 10,000 men, which is expected to land at the mouth of the Volga on Sunday.

“BABY NEVER SEEN A DOCTOR.”

Every Mother Should Read This Letter.

M. W. Woodward, Ltd.

Gentlemen,—I enclose a photograph of my little daughter as a testimonial to your famous “Gripe Water.” She was two years of age last Monday. She has never been a Doctor, and we have never had any “babies trouble.” This Grip Water has been given her from the day she came into the world. It makes a fine remedy, and I will use nothing but Woodward’s Grip Water. You can be sure, and we are very pleased with it. Woodward’s Grip Water is the best thing one can give a baby, and I will willingly answer any inquiries. Yours faithfully,

M. T. HILTON PALMER.

Aged, elderly, middle-aged and young women tell how their and others’ health is improved when kidney sufferers.

Women of 90: Kept Well 15 Years

There are few such remarkable women as Mrs. M. A. Whitman, of 45, Hobby Street, Brook, Liverpool. Although 90 years old, she enjoys splendid health, has good eye-sight, and an excellent memory. She says: ‘Fifteen years ago I had a horse, and I was a regular walker and severe advocate of blackbread, while there was heavy sediment in my bowels. Two of Gran’s Pills soon brought me over the worst of the disease. I am now as healthy as I ever was in the whole of my 90 years’ (Signed) ‘M. A. WHITMAN.’

Free of Dropsy 5 Years

“For 29 years I had recurring dropsy. I tried every medicine available, but all failed to relieve me. The time that I was in the Hospital for Dropsy was the time that one had the least freedom to follow the advice of those who had the disease. I had tried every medicine that was thought of, and none of them did any good. I just had to face the situation, and I did not have much hope. But one day I had a box of Gran’s Pills, and per- used them, and I found that the medicine was just what I needed. I have been using them ever since. I am now free of dropsy and live a normal life.”

Children’s Weakness: A 5-Year Cure

Grace Forsyth, who was at one time the star of our London stage, has the happy experience of knowing that Gran’s Pills has cured a long-standing ailment of her child. Her daughter has been suffering from the weakness and susceptibility to colds which so often impair a child’s health. The mother says: “Joeann was quite lacking in physical strength, and was a constant source of trouble to me. I tried every known remedy, and when I was advised to try Gran’s Pills, I was prepared to do anything to relieve her suffering. But when I brought her to see the pills, she was quite unwilling to try them. I knew that I had to do something, and I was determined to give the pills a trial. I gave her one, and she was so well the next day that I was able to give her another. And now, after several months of use, she is as strong and healthy as any other child her age.”

The KINDEYS NEED ATTENTION.

Even neglect kidney or bladder troubles, for neglect is fraught with risk of acute and chronic diseases. The time is past when headaches, digestive disorders, and eye-see problems should be passed over, for prevention is better than cure. Don’t let your kidney weakness and to reduce its ill effects.

CHAPTER XVI. (Concluded.)

Elsa’s Isolation.

No wonder that spirits were now running high. The pigeons were so splendid and presented such a sight that, all the way back to the castle, Elsa ran gaily in her red gaiters, with victors’ swag on her head, and with bands of colors on her ears. The peasantry had the same air of triumph as if they had just won a battle, and they ran along the road, shouting and cheering, and the concourse was so dense that the horses could hardly get through. The time for Elsa’s marriage was at a distance, but never had she felt so happy. She was not seeking a husband, and she knew that such a thing was not possible, but she was content with the way her life was going. She was in love with a man who was far better than she could ever have hoped for. She was not afraid of anything, and she was ready to face any danger in order to be with him. She knew that her fate was to be with him for all time, and she was content with that. She was not afraid of anything, and she was ready to face any danger in order to be with him. She knew that her fate was to be with him for all time, and she was content with that.

The proof of their success was that Elsa was in love with a man who was far better than she could ever have hoped for. She was not afraid of anything, and she was ready to face any danger in order to be with him. She knew that her fate was to be with him for all time, and she was content with that. She was not afraid of anything, and she was ready to face any danger in order to be with him. She knew that her fate was to be with him for all time, and she was content with that.

It’s the Dirt That is IN.

If the dirt that is IN, not the dirt that is ON, that spells the complication. Soup and breading alone do not remove the dirt embedded in the pores. Very often they leave the pores still further with the result that pimples and blackheads appear. The secret of a good complexion is to get the skin and pores clean, which can only be attained by the use of Oatmeal Cream, which gets down into the pores and removes the dirt and grime embedded there.

Test this and prove it for yourself. Wash and dry the face in the ordinary way, then, after applying Oatmeal Cream, wipe the face kindly but firmly with a soft towel, when particles of black will be found on the towel. Unless this gives results, you are either not using the right kind of soap or your complexion is so bad that it cannot be remedied.

Oatmeal Cream is used by all who value their appearance, and it is used regularly the skin will remain youthful. Lines and wrinkles cannot appear for the reason that Oatmeal Cream cleans the pores of the skin, cleansing the old glands below the skin to perform their proper functions of moisturizing the skin.

Remember, a wrinkled skin is a старая дрябляя кожа, and a wrinkled skin is one in which the pores are clogged with dirt and foreign matter. OATMEAL CREAM TODAY, 1 1/2 and 2 3/4 a box, or send for a FREE SAMPLE OF OATMEAL CREAM.

Botha Hoists the Union Jack over the Capital of Another German Colony.

The British flag now floats over Windhoek, the capital of German South-West Africa. The Imperial troops under General Botha have done magnificently against the Germans, who even stooped to poison the wells to check their advance. Their barbarity was in vain, and another colony has been lost to the Germans. Our picture shows General Botha reviewing his men at Tschaukaib.

CHILDREN TAUGHT TO HATE BRITAIN.

The Kaiser Busy Already Planning Germany's War Of Revenge In 1930—Britain Must Strike Hard Now To Ensure A Lasting Peace.

By SIR J. H. YOXALL, M.P.

Hymns of Hate are daily sung in German schools, it seems, about the hour when English school-children are singing "Awake, my Soul, and bow the Sun." or "Now thank him who all our God.

Daily the children are harangued to bring gold to school for the Exchequer, accept paper money and bemoan the failure of their sovereigns, and the children, who have usually been students at universities where professors taught them Germany a beneficent and avowedly 'progressive' nation, have been taught.

The German professor is quietly a fanatical wild- thing that he wields of international politics; three thousand two hundred professors and two hundred Romea are employed to carry on, and the authors of this system are, of our nation, that the future will be a German nation.

RULE OF PROFESSORS.

Professors are the most important people in Germany; what they do, no matter how crooked and cruel, is expected in the secondary and primary school.

In Germany there are countless "professors"; in England there are comparatively few, and their ideas are not generally considered superior to orthodoxy, but in Germany they are considered the gods of the people. And yet they have no chicken or gun in their country, and therefore no weapon that can be too bad to use against us. Most German schools lead their children, their children's children, their children's children, and their children's children, and their children's children, and their children's children, and their children's children, and their children's children, and their children's children.

Ministry of Schools.

Let us make fair allowances for the excitement and incitements of war-time, and regard the German methods as nothing more than an act of desperation, as a desperate man's act, as if he were a judge of an insane, as if he were a judge of a lunatic, as if he were a judge of a madman, as if he were a judge of a bundle of lawyers who must be believed on the subject.

POWERMEN'S STRONG FAVOURIS.

The past week's racing seems to leave Pommen in the ascendant, as it should.

One comes to see that the situation is different from what it used to be. There is no one that the Jockey Club would be content with, but those at Westminster are accustomed to giving a lead in bad things and regrettably nothing else.

The soft ground seems to be the only example, followed by all the usual excuses. The rights of Pommern seem to be thrown water on the unfortunate, just as if he were not taken too seriously, but also, danger Pommern, danger Pomme-rum.

The ground has been all against Pommen now, nor has he been backed, but I have backed him, and I am afraid he will do no wrong. Let Poms come in as easy as possible, for I have not had a chance to consider it to the right advantage. If I had done it, I might have just as likely get as get away with the 100ths.

The point is this, the French Jockey Club may be the softest ground. A jockey is still in doubt, for in the event of Douglas being low, Pommen will probably be offered the mount on Pommen.

THE PICK OF MORTON'S.

Marly, and Morten, and Pommen, have all been backed, but I have backed Marly, and Morten, and Pommen, but I have not been backed, but I have backed, and I am afraid they will do no wrong. The French Jockey Club may be the softest ground. A jockey is still in doubt, for in the event of Douglas being low, Pommen will probably be offered the mount on Pommen.

SIX IN THE STAND.

The Prince's Handicap on Saturday proved a most useful race, and Marly, and Morten, and Pommen, have all been backed for the Great Metropolitan, and they are all still in doubt, and I am afraid they will do no wrong. The French Jockey Club may be the softest ground. A jockey is still in doubt, for in the event of Douglas being low, Pommen will probably be offered the mount on Pommen.

MILITARY ATHLETICS.

Corporal Lindsay Shows Good Form In Interservices.

Newland, of the London Athletic Club, was successful in the Maypole Meeting at the British Arena, and Miss Agnes Bower, of the London Athletic Club, was successful in the Maypole Meetings at the British Arena.

Another Meeting Abandoned.

It was decided on Saturday that the London Athletic Club meeting at Bagshot Park had been abandoned, and that the meeting was to be held at the London Athletic Club, and that the meeting was to be held at the London Athletic Club.

The Diet of Nuremberg, and the Diet of Warsaw, will be held in the spring meeting at the London Athletic Club, and that the meeting was to be held at the London Athletic Club.

Next week's meeting will be held at the London Athletic Club, and that the meeting was to be held at the London Athletic Club.

Lived In England, Married A German, Now Arrested By Paris Police.

The Paris Police announce the arrest of Baroness Schweitzer, 50 years of age, a woman living in good society in different countries and of doubtful nationality. She was born in Darmstadt, and passed her childhood in France. She married Baron Schweitzer, a German, who entered the Austrian military service. The Baron and Baroness afterwards lived in England, and then in France, where their two children were born. The Baron died in the English hospital in a suburb of Paris, and the widow and children remained in Paris.

BOWLS INSTEAD OF BOMBS.

Lord Armstrong Say "Yes," And Explains Why And Wherefore.

Now that the Germans are "gassing" our soldiers, should we retaliate in kind?

Lord Armstrong, who has recently returned from the war zone in France, has come back with the strong feeling that the Allies should take counter measures against the poison bullet of the Huns. In an article in the Illustrated London News yesterday he said:-

"The time has come when we must ignore the pious pronouncements of pacific professors, and at the earliest possible moment place in the hands of our men a "counter gas" that may teach the Germans a lesson.

In the preparation of such a weapon, however, there is no call to imitate the barbarous cruelty of the Germans, for a gas might be prepared that would produce temporary unconsciousness without pain, and at the same time cause no ultimately injurious effect.

Lord Armstrong points out that the cause of humanity would in no way suffer, and says every body should brave a sigh of relief, "except those pacifists, of whom there are still far too many at large in this country.

I have been told by experts who have studied the matter that the manufacture of such a gas in large quantities would be both easy and cheap."

SHOULD WE ASPHYXIATE THE HUNS?

Have you ever thought how little food is absorbed in illness, and how every grain must count for or against recovery?

In Benger's Food, all is food, in a form so bland and soothing, and so easily assimilated, as to fully justify its reputation as the safe food in illness.

Benger's Food differs from others, in its ability to partially digest, by self-contained and natural means, the fresh new milk with which it is prepared. Think how this helps the invalid through illness and convalescence!

Benger's is a pure natural food most dainty and delicious, and highly nutritious. Many patients say it is the one food which never becomes monotonous.

Benger's is a most interesting food to prepare. The company's adipose urges a lesson to kitchen staff and housewives. "Make Benger's Food and how to use it. Please write for a copy, now free."

If you do not care to help somewhat in the present great struggle, even though you are a woman and know little of the handling of a rifle, you may still enjoy a little shining glory by owning the right needle. It may be the very needle that is bringing comfort to poor wounded soldiers and sailors.

Perhaps you have been buying handkerchiefs and knitting covers over since last August; let that be what we mean. You may now use your needle patriotically and at the same time get a fine little work to keep the most delicate work by which you take most delight.

There is no entrance fee, but each entry must be accompanied by 24 coupons cut from the Daily Sketch. Three coupons will appear daily next week, and will be withdrawn as each one is cut into darning spaces. The competition will be open for the duration of the war, and no hard-and-fast rule.

To-day's Dress in Paris.

"The note of the year," said Mr. Reville, "is a sort of elegance simplicity. I was greatly impressed by the pretty clothes being worn in Paris. They are so simple and graceful, and so admirably express the brave and patient spirit of the times. Many, many Parisian ladies, of course, are wearing crepe, but they still look attractive. There are no other women in the world who can wear crepe and look well in it. The French woman has it arranged with a natural simplicity, but still she contrives that it is becoming and elegant.

Practical Reform of War-time.

Another thing that strikes one in Paris is the practical reform in fashions since the war began. The new costume and hats really make up a whole new dress which is as rational as the so-called 'rationale' dress which cramps the figures from time to time, and yet infinitely more beautiful. From a point of view of health and economy, and also of economy, these are the dress of the future. There is no hard-and-fast rule. Wrist-length sleeves are, of course, more economical, as they do not make the costly long gloves necessary. About collars, too, women may please themselves whether they wear high or low ones, but they must be one or the other. To compromise is to be low. An excellent feature about the new gowns is that the collars are detachable, so that they can be changed and give quite a different look to a gown.

Of course, some women are too low for evening gowns, but these are really modern. No doubt, it is only necessary that ladies should order one good and simple gown now and again.

Where Compromises Mean Downrightness.

"As for the frocks to order, nearly all the new models show the normal waist-line. Sleeves may be wide or close, as the wearer desires, but there is no hard-and-fast rule. Wrist-length sleeves are, of course, more economical, as they do not make the costly long gloves necessary. About collars, too, women may please themselves whether they wear high or low ones, but they must be one or the other. To compromise is to be low. For Housewives.

DEAR MRS. SIMPSON,

In buying British Tonic, I have been much pleased to observe the hearty commendation of the very highest medical authorities. Gentlemen of note and distinction have recommended it to me for a long time, and I have found it of the greatest possible value. It is, as you are aware, supplied in bottles containing 8 fluid ounces, and is only sold by Chemists and Stores. I have no hesitation in recommending it as the best Remedy obtainable for the numerous complaints which afflict your family, and I am confident that its use will be to your entire satisfaction.

Yours truly,

OSCAR WILDE'S SON KILLED.

It is announced that Captain Cyril Holland, a son of the late Oscar Wilde, was killed in France on Sunday last.

Captain Holland, who used the name adopted by the family, was serving in the Royal Field Artillery. He was born in June, 1908, and was educated at Radley and at Islington. He then joined the Indian Army, but upon the outbreak of the war volunteered to go to France.

DEARER MEAT NEXT.

Housewives will have to pay more for meat today.

An important meeting of the National Federation of Meat Traders' Associations will be held in London, when it is understood that prices will be increased.

Mr. G. H. Barnes, M.P., has left for Canada with the director and general manager of the Labour Exchanges Department in London for the purpose of engaging suitable men for employment in the country in the production of quantities of war.

It is barely possible for the ordinary family to exist in present conditions. What is to happen in the coming "lean years" of which Mr. Lloyd George warns so much.

"THE BRIDE OF THE PLAINS"

"Never mind, Belsa. I can see that our little Elsa is a trifle nervous to-day; she does me more honour than I deserve by resenting your great kindness to us. But she is my good honour in that respect, my little lady. I cannot help it. As for the gipsy maid that is treating Bela quite tenderly; she is well-known in our family.

Another glance through her long, dark lashes, and I know he is right, that she is capable of doing so much good to so large a majority of people. Driver Wheeler, as a convalescent playing croquet.

Ypres is still the objective of the Germans, who are throwing away thousands of lives in vain to try and pierce the British lines. As long as there are heroes of the type of Driver Alfred Wheeler and Rifleman Crafter, however, the gate to Calais and the coast is fast closed.

"Colonel" Charlesworth rode at the head of a column of the Women's Volunteer Reserve Corps on a London route march. The women looked very fit and efficient in their trim and serviceable uniforms. There was an excellent muster.
