The first gun to be landed by the Allies in the Dardanelles. It was dragged up the steep cliff by the brawny Australian lads.

The difficulties which the gallant Australian troops had to encounter to effect their successful landing on the precipitous shores of the Dardanelles are vividly illustrated in these striking photographs. The obstacles to be overcome were those imposed by Nature as well as by the Turks. From the long narrow beach, where the wounded lay, waiting to be taken off in boats, the cliffs rose steeply to the heights bristling with the machine guns of the enemy. In face of a heavy fire, however, the Australians scrambled up the hillside, dragging their field guns with them, till they had victoriously secured the first firm foothold.—(Daily Sketch Exclusive Photographs.)
HELPING THE MALMED SOLDIERS

The Women For Whom They Fight Can Save These Heroes
From Becoming Human Derelicts,
by Lady Falmouth

The problem of immediate help for wounded soldiers on their discharge from hospital and their future care calls for prompt settlement. Below Lady Falmouth, who is one of the leaders of a movement to aid the men, describes what is being done.

The essence of the whole question is the whole question of the future—his future—his future's value in the market stock. To be involved in bringing about the adjustment of artificial limbs, to be involved in determining the state and the future's potential of his artificial limbs, to be involved in the physical well being of these men, the economic aspect is of far-reaching importance. This point I wish to make clear: this point I wish to make clear.

QUESTION OF EMPLOYMENT

They will not have that feeling, as many doubtless would have if they were discharged from hospital and had to get along as best they could, of the adjustment of the artificial limb, that they have become human derelicts. Object is not merely to send them out that artificially equipped, but with the assurance of employment to follow employment of some kind. As to the nature of that employment it will be governed largely by the inclination or aptitude of the individual and his physical capability in regard to that employment.

And to secure that end there will be some agency in operation in the hospitals. The patient will be offered opportunities of expert meaning in various useful occupations, and in case many will, I hope, be discharged with some definite idea as to the kind of work in which they can engage.

An idea of the work during that period, the work of the Maj. Queen Mary, who has given a son's donation, and Queen Alexandra, who, in addition to a public subscription made to those hospitals, is making a personal contribution, is being established a hospital at RAMC, and with the financial and administrative facilities of the Ministry, which has been generously offered by Mr. J. Forte-Parry Mabey, for officers.

This may be regarded as the parent institution of a movement which from its very nature is of an important character, and which must make universal appeal. That the work will of necessity develop and grow, and that we could prepare for that development. It appeals to all sentiments, and I feel that every comfort and support of the regiment bearing its name and the sake of the its own name, if we do not do of the support of the regiment bearing its name and the sake of the its own name, if we do not do.

We shall be in touch with the various counties, and when ready to leave we shall communicate with the duly appointed county representatives, and we will do our best to see that every man, if possible, is able to be of the due to the county representative of the localities, and we will do our best to see that every man, if possible, is able to be of the due to the county representative of the localities.

The artificial limbs are, of course, expensive and in the face of the fact that we may not be able to raise the full amount, we can do no other than appeal to the public for the necessary funds.

I am sure that the public will respond with enthusiasm to the appeal of the Ministry of Education, which has been generously offered by Mr. J. Forte-Parry Mabey, for officers.

BATTLE FOR "THE Labyrinth.

French Official News.

PARIS, Sunday Night.

In the sector to the north of Arras we have heard of wonderful things.

After having repulsed with complete success the German counter-attack on our trenches at Abbeville St. Quentin, we took the offensive and carried out a magnificent operation on the whole front of the houses of Arras which the enemy still held.

A report from a French official says that the fighting was particularly severe at Abbeville.

The lines were occupied by the French and the British forces.

The enemy had to retreat, leaving behind the houses of Arras which they were still holding.

The French have captured the houses of Arras, which were previously held by the enemy.

The British troops have occupied the houses of Arras and are now in possession of them.

The fighting was very severe, with heavy losses on both sides.

The white of the test-ink of German defences works to the north of Arras is rapidly crumbling down, and the whole offensive of the French on the Abbeville St. Quentin front has really served the enemy a sound thrashing and from it is all but impossible for the Germans to recover.

THE REAL PRICE

The price of the pneumatic tyre is the puncture. The more punctures you have the more you are paying for your tyres. That is why a highly-priced cover, like the roadster, works out as the cheapest in the end. Dunlop tyres rarely puncture, and when they do an efficient repair makes them as good as new, whereas in cheap tyres the rubber (7) gapes and the canvas rotts, the whole tyre deteriorating rapidly.

The Right Clothes For June:

For "Blazing June" lives up to her reputation as the month in which the most remarks are made about the toilette-stick frock. Toilette-stick frocks have broken out in every kind of summer material, from voiles to shantung, and though for months back stripes have been heralded as being "too popular," they still hold their ground.

There are shiny silks in which the toilette-stick effect is extremely realistic. Pink-and-white silk, pale pink, pale blue, and yellow and white like lemon, run the stripes, and they are made into very pretty gowns, in which the stripes are most artfully arranged.

Why Stripes Remain In Favor.

The infinite possibilities of arrangement of striped material are responsible for its continued popularity. No matter if every other woman in the country has fallen in love with your own pet stripe, there is still another way in which you can make it up without so negatively your individuality. Crosswise bands of the material, arranged here and there to give a chequer effect, look especially well, and these are endless ways of introducing plain material.

White Hems For Coloured Frocks.

The plain hem in the colour of the darkest stripes has always been a favourite adornment of the striped frock, but there is another way to use the border, which is smarter, while newer still is the frill of white lace or lawn set at the edge of a underskirt which is as long as the stripe. These may be either solid stripes or they will generally roundwise to be avoided by the slender woman.

Big patch pockets with the stripes arranged in a contrary fashion from those of the skirt itself appear on some of the striped linen frocks. Plain linen coats usually accompany the smartest linen frocks.

Crape-de-Chine Sport Coats.

Everybody has grown so deeply attached to the knitted silk sport coat that one scarcely expects any change or improvement, but now there are appearing coats of heavy crape-de-chine which are very becoming and stylish, and are said to wash better than silk ones.

A Chance For Every Needlewoman.

I shall have a very lovely holiday this year because my fiancé and my brothers are all at the front, so I am glad to have discovered your competition," writes a Glades girl. "The crocheted cushion cover I intend to enter will provide me with occupation and, as I shall offer it for sale, will keep me from feeling that I am merely wasting my time at the moment."

£1,000 is offered in prizes for the best piece of needlework done by Daily Sketch readers. There is no entrance fee, but each entry must be accompanied by 24 coupons cut from the Daily Sketch. These coupons will appear daily until November next, when the competition closes.

After the judging, which will be done by experts under the auspices of the Royal School of Art Needlework, all the work will be exhibited in a suitable hall in London, and, except in case where the competitors feel satisfied that their entries will be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Association. The presentation of the work is entirely optional.

In order to take part in the competition readers must send a large stamped self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Goud, Needlework Competition, Daily Sketch, London, E.C., for the full details and an entrance form.

£75 has been allotted to this class, the first being £5, second £3, third £1, and fifth £1 each.

WHY MR. BALFOUR STAYED AWAY.

Explanation Of "A. J.'s" Absence From The Carlton Meeting.

BEST WEEK-END PICTURES.

There were some amusing stories being told yesterday. The best of them were in the Illustrated Sunday Herald, which has achieved a reputation for obtaining intimate information about the most interesting people.

"Cheeky!" supplied this:-

"I asked a man who was at the Carlton meeting why Arthur Balfour did not appear, to which he replied, 'My dear man, how could Arthur B. be there?" This sounded like some unpolished scandal, but it was not really so. 'Everybody knows,' said he, 'that Arthur's never had breakfast before twelve.'"

Here is another from the same pen:-

It is like living in a new world to me since I look Dr. Cassell’s Tablette. I think they are the most wonderful things I have ever had.

That is the expression of Mrs. Frank Best, of Clevebrooke, a Sunday school teacher. During the usual painful time of vaccination I gave her the words were spoken by her recently in the course of interview, and she shows her gratitude for the cure effected by her Dr. Cassell’s Tablette. The continuation of it was brought on all my trouble. After that I used to eat such wholesome food that I was the best of her health, and I became a martyr to the most torturing headache. It was too weak to I positively could not drag about, but just lay on a couch and breathe in long and short breaths. But I was getting worse instead of better, and at last I had to keep to bed. There I lay for two whole years, suffering dreadfully and all the while the different pills that were prescribed for me, and all of them, were given me, and none of them were of the slightest use. I was extremely weak, too, and so weak that I could have been carried away.

However, when all else had failed I got Dr. Cassell’s Tablette, and then came improvement. They built up new health for me, and I now feel as if I could do anything. (Mrs. M. W. said).

SONS OF THE EMPIRE PROUD OF THEIR WOUNDS.

Jangad Arjan Singh left his work in South America to fight for the Empire. His bravery won him a commission.

Sardar Ali and Sardar Khan, of the 59th Sindh Rifles, were both badly wounded at Neuve Chapelle. They are very fond of the children.

Mahomed Khan, 9th Pathan Rifles, though wounded, has only one desire—to return to the fighting line.

Kaura Churan, brother of the famous Indian wrestler Gama, wounded three times while taking food to the trenches.

Nur Singh, of the 4th Gurkhas, killed several Germans single-handed with his kukri, the weapon the Germans dread.

Baba Sing (left), took part in the charge at Neuve Chapelle and captured a German officer.

Sergt.-Major Cameron-Waller, interpreter to the Indian Forces. He tells them stories and is very popular.

Havildar Bala Singh was given a watch by a German he captured. Colonel Shaw, the commandant (in the centre), with his helpers. They can chat to the patients in their own dialects.

These Indian warriors have all distinguished themselves in the firing line. Their courage is as unquestioned as their loyalty. Colonel Shaw, the commandant of the hospital at Milford, near Lymington, where these pictures were taken, has a son who has won the D.S.O.—(Daily Sketch, the commandant of the hospital exclusive photographs.)
