How Molly Gorman Found London A Strange Place Indeed.

"Bedad, there're more people in one street in London Town than there are in Kerry, at all, at all!"

Mary Gorman, a blue-eyed colleen from County Kerry, is the heroine of the Casement drama. She it was who first saw Sir Roger Casement and his companions walking away from the strand at Curragh Haven, near Tralee, on that strange Good Friday morning, and identified him to the police. This rosy-cheeked, rich-brogued girl from the West of Ireland now finds herself some freak of fate, one of the central figures in this amazing story of the Hun plot that failed, and an object of interest to curious Londoners.

THE SUICIDE GUN-RUNNER.

Diver's Story Of Rifles And Ammunition In The Hold.

The Crown case against the two men accused of high treason, Sir Roger Casement and Danieltas, was opened to-day. To-day at Bow-street Mr. Arthuio Jones will make a statement.

Sir Arthuri Fincoo said Sir John Dickin­son, the magistrate, during part of the hearing yesterday.

WEN CASE WHEN WEPT.

The Place That Is Killorring, But Is Called Buck.

Evidence Givven Yesterday—

John McCarthy, farmer of Carraroe, Co. Galway, was killed yesterday morning at 6.30 as he walked along the Strand-road, a mile from his house, a bullet, fired from a rick in a house, finding its mark on his head. The bullet entered his head and passed through his face, and he died soon after being brought to the hospital.

Mary Gorman, a farmer's servant, of Rathbone, Ardfert, was also killed, the bullet entering her head and passing through her body. She was shot by order of the Home SingleChildScrollView at 3.30 on Good Friday, when the tide was in the river.

Sergeant Thomas John McCarthy, stationed at Ardfrg, said he was on duty at 3.30 on Good Friday, when he saw a man with a gun in his hand approaching him. He ordered him to stop and the man threw the gun. Sergeant McCarthy then shot the man and killed him.

Sergeant R. C. F. H., said the man was shot in the face and the bullet entered his head. He was able to speak before he died.

AYLEBURY'S ENGLISH MONEY.

Constable Carter, R.I.C., is the man who was shot in the face by Sergeant McCarthy. He was shot at 3.30 on Good Friday, when he saw a man with a gun in his hand approaching him. He ordered him to stop and the man threw the gun. Sergeant McCarthy then shot the man and killed him.

Inspector Parker, of Strand-road, said he saw the man shoot Mary Gorman and that she was shot in the face.

CASEMENT'S CONVoy.

Next the scene shifted to the Atlantic, and the story was taken up by—

Sidney Waghorn, leading signalman in the patrol ship 'Clun.' About 6.30 on Good Friday, 10 miles south-west of Queenstown, he sighted a ship flying the Norwegian colours. She was seen, said she was the Aurea, of Beregen, bound for Genoa, and she was extended to follow the 'Clun.'

MARCHAND OF FASHION.

While Casement was a prisoner of war in German hands, he was given a book on the subject of fashion, and the lines of dress which he adopted were chosen from this book. The man who was responsible for the dress was Casement's personal tailor, Michael Murphy, who was also a prisoner of war in German hands.

Excessive Thinness

Very many people are too thin. This may be the result of mental worry, overwork, improper feeding, or indigestion. Or it may follow an exhausting illness.

In any case, it is not only unsightly, but unhealthy. It is also unnecessary, because it can be cured, by giving the stomach food that is capable of replacing the wasted tissues of the body. No drug can do this.

It does not suffice merely to swallow fatty substances and oils, which not only disturb the weak digestion, but can only form fat even if they are digested at all.

A food is required that can nourish the tired nerves, and form both flesh and fat.

VIROL answers all these requirements; it contains everything necessary to form muscle, bone, and nervous tissue, and it also—in cases of nervous exhaustion—soothers the tired brain and promotes sleep.

GIRLS DULL AND PEEVISH.

When a girl in her teens becomes dull, peevish and "faddy"; when nothing seems to interest her, and no dainty tempts her appetite, you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long, her pallid cheeks, breathlessness and palpitations will confirm that she is anemic; but do not wait for these signs to develop; fill her veins at once with good blood. Mothers must remember that neglected anemia is the avenue to serious illness. You know the difference that good, red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every painful palpitation, every gasp for breath that follows any slight exertion by the anemic girl, and every pain she suffers in her back and limbs, are repu­ches, if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood.

No. good, red blood is infused into the system with every dose of Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people. From this new good blood, springs good health, keen appetite, energy, high spirits and perfect womanly development. Give your daughter Dr. Williams’ pink pills and take them yourself, and see how promptly their influence is felt in better health. You can obtain them of dealers, but do not wait for these signs to develop; fill her veins at once with good blood.

TEMPERING THE WIND.

I AM glad to hear that little shopkeepers who are married, have three children, and are not in a position to carry on their business if they are called to the colours, will be exempt from service. I can't help it. Knowledge is a thing, and how much prudence and industry have gone to the making of the business. I know that the stock-in-trade represents something more than so much dry or wet goods. I know these little shops, and how much making of the business.

WHEN a professional man comes back from the war he may find he has lost much; yet, as a rule, not so much as the little shopkeeper! nor is the loss so irretrievable.

At the same time the authorities should recognise that there are hard cases elsewhere. There are cases where the skilled workman or professional man is regarded as a "small shopkeeper," where a carefully built-up connection will be absolutely lost. If such a man is married and has a household case to be watched over, he is likely to lose much more than so much dry or wet goods. I know how much these little shops, and how much making of the business.

Father In The Junior Service.

ALTHOUGH his son is in the senior service, Lord Teynham himself, a portrait of this is, is in the junior service, in fact, the Army. He is a great friend to the Indian Army, and he is the present son and heir of Lord Teynham, the Hon. Christopher John Henry Buper-Curran. He is a few years younger than Lord Teynham, and became a midshipman at the same time as his royal step-father.

In other directions the Army authorities are doing well. They are adding millions to the national debt in a most subtle and dangerous way. If the war we are a nation on their beam-ends we shall be in no condition economically, or financially, to hold our own with our rivals in the world's markets.

DOUBTLESS the problem is difficult, but it can be solved as easily to-day as tomorrow, more easily to-day than to-morrow. Before anything else the Government can, as a matter of urgency, fix the minimum of wages, and to-day, the 6th of August, I ask the Government to declare a general moratorium for recruits until the Relief Bill has been passed.

Flag Days Becoming Unpopular.

TUESDAY was a Flag Day. It may have been very ungracious and unpatriotic of me, but for the first time I struck, and deliberately refused to buy a flag. Those "Flag Days" are supposed to have worn out their welcome, and to have become an infantile nuisance. But Lord Teynham, the President of the various Press of the Port, and nine people out of every ten you meet strola volubly the whole subject, and are somewhat at a loss what to do next, and have no intention to take action, and the only method is that of boycott.

Time To Stop Them.

I AM not indicating this or any other Flag Day in particular. But apart from the nuisance they create, it is almost impossible to put a proper check on the financial arrangements. For instance, the Collectors have sealed boxes, but it is not difficult to avoid, by means of fictitious names and addresses, the financial returns of them.

A SOUL cannot vouch for the honesty of thousands of girls. Besides, before now I have received a letter from a soldier asking for help in getting his meals into his own purse. I don't doubt that the vast majority of the sellers are as right as rain, but too much business is too much business. In any case the idea is a moneat-eaten one, and I hope we shall soon see the last of it.

Leg-watching.

A SOUSIAN friend from France tells me that when the Russians arrived there, everyone was surprised to find that the French soldier's legs are perfectly smooth. It seems that as the Russian officer wears a cloak, the distinctive marks of rank are worn away by the fur brushing against his outer garment, and are not noticed. However, Colonels and generals get saluted, because they can be spotted by the stripes on their trousers. So the generals have to keep sharp watch on the legs of approaching officers.

Prince's Promotion—Flag Days Must Be Stopped—Origin Of "Cushy" Colonial Wealth.

Incongruous.

THE extension of the Navy in all directions produces some rather odd conjunctions. In the Royal Navy, for instance, an ex-steward of the "Girli Grace" on his cap. I am afraid I nearly laughed in his face, for there was so very little of girli or "grace" in his appearance. I understand he is a grand stripping West Countryman—the sort who ought to be a "Billy Bunter" (as you know what that stands for) or a Thunderer.

Men Who Have Money.

Some of our Canadian and Australian soldiers have no lack of ready cash. They carry huge wads of notes about with them, and are not slow in the use they make of them. Last night saw these boys booking seats at a theatre. They must be worth at least £200 apiece on them. Tossing down a couple of pound notes, they strutted away without waiting for any change, and had to be called back by the clerk.

Godfrey Tearle's New Part.

In his career on the stage Godfrey Tearle has worn many uniforms. I have seen him in the armour of a mastervil Irish warrior, as a soldier of the days of Waterlor ("Quality Street"), as a dashing British cavalryman, an Indian, all gold lace and livery, and the "Lord of Leominster." He is in several other fighting roles, as the leader of a band of Irish revolutionists, as the real thing. He is a cadet of the Royal Horse Artillery, as the "Hussar," as a young naval officer wearing a livery and, being of military age, is going on for soldiering very seriously.

Still A Player.

However, the stage has not lost one of its most accomplished young actors. Tearle the soldier is still Tearle the player whenever possible, and at night he is a possible. He is playing the part of "Tina" at the Adelphi every evening, although he has got to be left to his wife. Mrs. Godfrey Tearle is pretty Miss Mary Mabley.

Martin Harvey's Petrocchio.

MARTIN HARVY'S Shakespeare season at His Majesty's has settled down into real popularity. I have spent the evening laughing last night in the "Shrew" on Monday night, and from the crowd and the noise I might have imagined myself at a free, riotous Barington's Christopher Spy, another feather in his Shakespearean cap. Through the play itself he set it in the old county of Cornwall and put a laugh at almost every gesture. He's been acting Hamlet or King Lear. Martin Harvey has got a very brutal Petrocchio, and his woman's personality won't allow him to be brutal, but his performance has much to recommend it. Katharine has it all.

Cathedrals.

I WISH to congratulate Mr. Forbes Dickson on his "Ways—Made in Germany." I have read him in the "Saturday Review" and found his clarifying, lucid, and comprehensive account of the "Cathedral Season." He has a particular love for the medieval cathedrals, and his description of the Wimboruses. thing between the Surly taximen who happens on to a man in conversation. He has got ten days' leave. His first two days were spent at the Spa in the Maltese Islands, and he couldn't see him. He has got a laugh with almost every gesture. He'll come to a English city. I'm afraid I nearly laughed in his face, for there was so very little of girli or "grace" in his appearance. I understand he is a grand stripping West Countryman—the sort who ought to be a "Billy Bunter" (as you know what that stands for) or a Thunderer.

ONE may find hats for every face in the new millinery stocks, and, given a reasonable amount of time and taste for choosing, no woman should be unconsciously crowned to greet the summer. From the severe "tailored" hat to the airy things of tulle and crinoline, each class shows a diversity of shape and size. There are just one or two general rules. One is that trimmings are scanty, another is that the large hat is a fairly flat one. The most may either fit the crown like a skull-cap or rise to the height of a man's bowler.

Smaller Crowns.
An effect of the close hair-dressing is that crowns are small enough in circumference to fit the head properly, which, artistically, is a great gain. The shiny straw sailor, with a wide flat brim worn slightly askant, is the dominant shape of the moment, and, in fact, becoming so popular that the slight trimming which alone is permissible with a hat of this type must be very cleverly placed and original if the style is not to become tiresome. One such hat has a cockade of black velvet with a yellow aster as its centre and a fringe of yellow ostrich feathers.

DONOGHUE'S "HAT TRICK." - Russell Wins The Newmarket Handicap.

THE NEWMARKET STAKES.

Visitors to Newmarket yesterday for the opening of the Second Spring Meeting were disappointed at the non-appearance of Pompano in the Burwell Plate. It had originally been intended to start him, but as he had not come well in his final gallop no risk was taken. The field only mustered three, and of these Flaming Fire was the favorite. The third competitor was Khedive III, who did not come to Newmarket at all.

Until the Russies were reached Flaming Fire was carrying the day, and the entry table of the tote parley was giving a surprise on Donoghue by putting in a substitute for the quarter of a mile. This rule was not successful, for Flaming Fire still had three and a quarter lengths to spare, and there was no way of rousing up the hands, he three-quarters of an lengths in front.

The winner is in the New Derby, and as he is one of the others Vale may have to be reckoned with, as he plays well.

BREDDIS A Winner! Winner.

There were some useful handicaps performers in the Newmarket Handicap, but Russell had only four to his credit, and the German statesman Waugh that he was always a sound order in the market.

His most dangerous rival in the betting was Gal Lolly, and in the estimation of the top weights.

Dreadful times were very little in it, but Russell was always going the stronger, and he was a clever weight.

Sandmore stayed on in third place in front of Lanyon, who was best of the top weights.

In the betting, Russell was in trouble some way out, but he still managed to gain third place in front of the Non-Runners. The Farnets made a mark for an expensive flat fee, and a well-matched, line of the Non-Runners. The Farnets made a mark for an expensive flat fee, and a well-matched, line of the Non-Runners.

PUBLIC BETTER THAN PRIVATE FORM.

Sedbergh, winner of the Non-Runners, is in opposition to-day in the Newmarket Stakes, in which it is expected to win.

The race was passed and the Gal Lolly and Figaro in fourth place, and it is always safest to rely on the public in a race where there is a chance that the one may go at home.

The result of the race is beyond doubt that Figaro did not give his true running in the first of the season. His second start remains to be written after once promising to win in his fifth. Gal Lolly is not a good second, and Figaro's plate was won by a rider with a long and a half.

All had been in trouble, was in trouble some way out, but he still managed to gain third place in front of the Non-Runners. The Farnets made a mark for an expensive flat fee, and a well-matched, line of the Non-Runners.

Will Of Great Imperialist To Be Varied By Parliament.

An interesting proposal for the purpose of calming (famine from any part or lot in the benefits of the Rhodes scholarships is wrapped up in legal proceedings in the London Gazette published last night. The trustees of the will of Mr. Cecil Rhodes, the late British statesman, have made their intentions known to introduce a Bill into Parliament to extinguish the rights of the beneficiaries named in the will, and to give birth to the non-appearance of Pommern in the Burwell Plate.

There was no legal avenue to the non-appearance of Pommern in the Burwell Plate.

shrowing on the weekly grocery account to Effie's mood.

I can't understand it," she said weakly. "He's hardly seen Hester, unless the girl's been giving her the secretaries' security—and I can't believe that she was the only one."

"I'm afraid it's true, Effie," Gordon said gravely. "I'm afraid she was the only one."

"Because, William," her wife replied, visibly flustered. "There's a very real fear of Mr. Straton and she'd be miserable if she knew.

The Men Who Arrested Casement:

Sergt. Hearn, who arrested Casement, and Maurice McCarthy (right), the farmer who found the boat at Tralee.

Daniel Julian Bailey, Casement's fellow-prisoner. It is alleged he joined the "Irish Brigade" at Limburg.

Constable Riley, who held up Casement and Bailey with a rifle and blew his whistle till Hearn arrived.

Leading Signalman Wagborn, of the Bluebell, which first sighted the suspicious vessel flying the Norwegian flag.

The German ship Aude, which accompanied the submarine that brought Casement to Ireland. She was captured by H.M.S. Bluebell and afterwards sank. The rifles she carried for the rebels now lie at the bottom of the sea. James Dempsey (inset), the Admiralty diver, who examined the Aude. He produced a rifle in Court which he had brought up from the wreck.

The dramatic story of the arrest of Sir Roger Casement was revealed at Bow-street yesterday. Sergeant Hearn and Constable Riley, both of the Royal Irish Constabulary, told how they discovered the ex-Consul hiding in a fort covered with brushwood. "My name is Richard Morton. I am an author and a traveller," said Casement. "All right, come along," said the officers. (Daily Sketch Photographs.)
