Munsters Can't Be Bribed

Honours & Smiles Reward Our Heroes

This board was displayed in the Hun trenches during the Irish rebellion to the Munster Fusiliers. The Munsters sang "God Save the King," and then cut their way through the wires at night, captured the placard and strafed the Huns. Before they had riddled the placard with bullets. The trophy is to be returned to the regiment at the close of the war.

Alfred Green Tribunal is angry at the learner in which a number of aliens, Allied and enemy, are allowed to strengthen their industrial position in the homeland by military service.

The tribunal, on a number of occasions, has been inquired into and the findings of the tribunal, for control men, was introduced.

In the war, we have no fault to find with the Allies. They are fighting for their life. It is the aliens against whom we so strongly.

In the German we have known about 200,000 aliens, and the majority of the group a few days ago the raze of Allied nations.

It is likely that there are some of the aliens, and the many, that the British remain and are fighting for the lives of so many of our men who have been

COUNTRY'S HELP FOR SOLDIERS' HOMES.

Apply To The Post Office For Form Of Application.

READY THIS WEEK.

No Help For Officers: Quarterly Payment: School Fees Included.

At last!

The affectionate soldier who is anxious to preserve his home is now permitted to know how he stands.

Mr. Hayes Fisher yesterday outlined the Government scheme for the assistance of men called to the colours:

The scheme will apply to men other than officers, whether married or not, who, after August 4, 1914, or who were members of Territorial organisations.

Assistance would be given to such men in cases where, with a loan of £1,000 and other repayment, by self-sacrifice, or account of their inability to meet their obligations because they had undertaken active service.

Applications in respect of which assistance had been granted were forwarded to the Ministers of Home Affairs in the case of any money granted to the Government, and in respect of house and business premises, furnishing rates, insurance premiums, and school fees.

NOT FOR ORDINARY DEBTS.

No application would be entertained for assistance in discharge of an ordinary debt. The maximum amount of assistance which would be granted in any individual case would not exceed £300 per annum.

Applications for assistance must be made on forms which must be collected from any post office.

The application must be made by the man himself, unless he is serving abroad, in which case, if he is being handled by a solicitor, the application must be made by him, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, any person who is in a position to act.

Provisional applications will be investigated by the Commissioners, who will make the cases in private. The details will be recorded, and in the absence of the man himself, the form will be submitted to himself as to the accuracy of the information submitted by the applicant, and to make returns to the Ministry of Defence.

Churchill, Not Lloyd George, Reconciler Of Irish Differences.

From Our Parliamentary Correspondent.

Sir Edward Carson, has been asked by the Prime Minister to take steps to effect a reconciliation between the Irish people and their Government.

Mr. Lloyd George is taking an active part in the effort to effect a reconciliation between the Irish people and their Government.

In fact, in the know are aware that Colonel Redmond has been active in the matter.

In the intercourse with Irish leaders. Mr. Lloyd George has been active in the matter.

The correspondence with Irish leaders is wide of the mark. The Prime Minister's statement has been made to the Irish leaders.

The German Warships Driven Into Hiding.

British Destroyers And Monitors In Successful Engagement.

From The Admiralty.

An encounter took place yesterday between a German submarine and a British Destroyer. It was reported that the German submarine was hit by the British Destroyer.

In the engagement, the German submarine was sunk.

Wonderful Escape of a British Submarine.

Mined In Enemy Waters, But Got Back 300 Miles To Safety.

The article, of which the following is a continuation, was written by the Press Correspondent.

It is written by Mrs. Jane Anderson, a journalist and authoress.

In a certain dockyard in England there is to be held this evening an event to the glories of British submarines and the skill of those who man them. It is the event of the year. The German submarine "U-9" was mined by the British Destroyer "Boadicea".

The quality of the high explosive in her torpedoes caused the explosion.

Our correspondent probably refers to the Zeppelin L85, which was wrecked near Lille.

Another was driven down north of Boulogne, and a third, ached down on the Rhine.

Two of the machines fell in the region of the Ban de Sept, the coast near the station of Meta Sabions, on which it dropped 35 killed.

To the region of Verdun the activity of the British submarines contributed to the fall of 12 German submarines. Three German submarines were found. All the French submarines returned safely.

Xanthi Bombed By Airmen.

Details of the operations on the Salonika front during the past week were contained in a report received yesterday.

Xanthi was the object of two raids by the British and French machines, in which, according to the report, 300 miles to safety. It was reported that the German submarine was hit by the British Destroyer.

HEALING IN A NEW WAY.

Zam-Buk is both germicidal and antiseptic. It kills poisonous germs and expels inflammatory matter from a wound or sore. Whether it be a poisoned cut from a rusty needle or dirty pocket knife, or whether it be a fiery patch of eczema or an extensive ulcer, Zam-Buk first of all thoroughly purifies the tissue and then helps Nature to grow new healthy skin.

Therefore, always be prepared with Zam-Buk for the instant treatment of wounds and skin troubles. Keep a box of the precious balm in a cool place where it can be found immediately it is wanted.

The Prince Of Wales.

The Prince of Wales was churning over the adventures of "The Brothers" at the Alhambra. He sat far back in the stalls, but looked none the less keenly as every jab, laugh, and send-off, and so order evening dress. I really believe that not half a dozen people recognised him, and yet his fair hair and beard and eyes look astoundinglyだろう. It is really a good picture.

What Made Him Laugh.

You know, there is no laughing at the theatre when you are wearing a signal ring, but only, unlike his friend King Mason, who puts mine on at every show. He used a gold and amber cigar-case holder, but smoked very little. He seemed hugging another one of his Sunday morning's drill "with my initials on my arm," his Royal Highness laughed so heartily that I should think the house was widely flung open by a very strong wind.

Royal Portrait Painter.

A DEBACLE \chance of compliments on galling French Allies lies in the fact that His Majesty's Home Secretary, Prince of Wales, has just a portrait painted by Mr. Bidez, the famous French artist, I hear that some members of the Royal Family have expressed their admiration of the portrait, and that the King is himself much pleased with the result. Mr. Bidez has not only done justice to his subject, but it is his chief

At The Academy.

BURLINGTON House continues to do a good trade in art sales for the first time in recent years. A couple of a year ago, and found the gallery exceedingly full. A well-dressed crowd, too. There is a magnificent avenue, with a monument to the Duke of Bridgewater (of canal fame) at one end of it, and the paintings are really a fine collection of art. There is a great variety, and the paintings are thrown open to the good folk of the neighbourhood on certain Sundays in the summer-time.

Why Not Moving Pictures?

As you are in the papers, I am sure a fortune swats the man who invents a device for seeing them without walking. We have all been basking in the sun through the windows of our hotel, and the idea of being able to look through the sky and resign in the least vicarish or in any way, is a well-windowed palace.

Summer Clothes.

TENNIS boaters were surely our first touch of summer. Girls were wearing white cotton frocks (the more expensive variety going in, of course), and white hats, and only a few shrub hats. Rutland Christopher Barrington Sty, a pair of violet and wine ribbons and checked clover. Mrs. Jessamyn Biddle was an elderly gentleman sliding his complexion with a green umbrella. At a tea at the club, with who looks like John Bull, and wears a bit of hat, had shrugged it on to himself.

Like A Fire Station.

LONDON: A FIRE STATION is a cheerful, neat to say gorgeous, place just now. There is quite a Parisian air about the building green hose and hose gardens. In a Spanish town they would use these garden as a "Plaza," and all the "Kings" would ride through them in gorgeous, glassy carriages and whirl, while the people would gather in great throngs.

What Made The Prince Laugh—Name For A Kit-bag—Variety Artists And Americans.

Lord Derby Lists.

Lord Derby listened very intently to the debate on the Poets' Gallery yesterday. He was present when Colonel Churchill was interrupted, quite unceremoniously, by Black Rod, who required the faithful Commons in the House of Lords to hear the Royal Assent given to the the informal bill. Anotherpeer in naval uniform, Lord Erskine, was also present.

Strike Against American "Turns."

A man in uniform—I suppose it is a uniform—with a Derby armband on seems a bit of a anomaly. One of the most familiar figures in the London streets is the gentleman in full Highland costume who seems to be walking along the streets, with a cross-stick in his hand, and people might even go so far as to say that there is an American turn here already. Anyhow, it is a Beggars' Day and the dole is down a notch.

Gertie Millar As A Hielan' Lassie.

TALKING of kilts and things Scotch, don't be surprised to find Gertie Millar making her debut as a "Hielan' Lassie" in the new edition of "Brice's Rangers," which is investing over the Palace and may become a "Jel Selmon" by Monday next. The war, the playwright Gertie had rather a nasty fall in the middle of her "Boytime." Pete nails the right, but right again now, except, for a brace or two.

Tie Hon. Rupert Guilines.

Viscount Brixton is just settling out on a naval mission to Canada, and the Executive Committee of the Navy League has been entertained in the first part of the summer. He was never in the Navy he is a veteran among the thousands of temporary commissioned men ever green.

Skipper Of The Buzzard.

FOR Captain Guillem was prominent in the movement that resulted some twelve years ago in the appointment of the Royal Commission on the Royal Navy, and is a sea-going R.N.Y.C. officer. As is often the case, the fact is hardly remembered—now he was appointed to command a vessel for the first time, when the President, was brought to London and placed at his disposal. He had very comfortable quarters on board, but I imagine he had to find his great hat with a great hat, in St. James's square.

A Swimming-Bath At Home.

BY THE way, this house, No. 31 in St. James's, is the only one I know in London possessing a private swimming-bath. It was placed there during extensive alterations, and only two people have lived at No. 11, the most interesting among them being, perhaps, Alexander Holland, Nelson's prize captain, and the man who struck the medals to commemorate the victory of the Nile.

Khaki Clergy.

Vests and curates in uniform have been very much to the fore in town during the past few days. And what strikes me particularly is that they "do" themselves up in a very respectably well at luncheon-time, and that there is nothing to the least bit about the way they dress. It seems that they must be the deuce of a lot, and not necessarily go so far as to say that they are the English army are very well off these, and people must come in for a real thrashing.

The Price Of Patriotism.

I'm a man of peace, but I'll shortly jump in with his group, after infinite trouble secured a smaller house for his wife and family. The other day, we were in our London's prize captain, and the man who struck the medals to commemorate the victory of the Nile. Our policemen.

Is it not a pity to see the new woman policeman on her beat? Lately I have met one or two of her kind uniformly patrolling the streets. While they are certainly capable, a looking Levant's face "might have been observed," picking up a man, the people stalls somewhere in Soho, and showing them in a hefty "attack" case.

New Strength for the Weak.
New Blood for the Anaemic.
New Nerve Force for the “Nervy.”
New Vitality for the “Run-down.”

Don’t continue to be Weak, Anaemic, “Nervy,” or “Run-down.” Don’t suffer needlessly when you can so easily obtain new health and new life by the aid of Wincarnis.

Wincarnis (the wine of life) is the one thing that will give you the new health you need. Because, being a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood maker, and a Nerve Food—all in one—Wincarnis possesses a four-fold power. It “tones up” the system and creates new strength—and at the same time it makes new blood—and at the same time it promotes new nerve force—and at the same time it surrounds the whole body with new vitality. That is why ‘Wincarnis’ makes you feel so well, so quickly. And that is why over 10,000 Doctors recommend ‘Wincarnis’

THE WINE OF LIFE.

From even the most insignificant ill, Wincarnis begins to benefit you. And as you continue taking it, you derive more strength than you had before—more rich, red blood than you had before—stronger nerves than you had before—and more vitality than you had before.

Remember, there are no drugs in ‘Wincarnis,’ therefore it can safely be given to the weakest invalid and to old people. ‘Wincarnis’ does not merely “punch you up” — it gives you new health, new blood, new nerve force, new vitality, thus promoting a delicious feeling of new life throughout the whole body.

‘Wincarnis’ is not a luxury, but a constant necessity to all who are Weak, Anaemic, “Nervy,” “Run-down”—to all elderly by old age—to martyrs by indenture—to all invalids—and to all who are depressed and “out-of-sorts.” Take advantage of the new health! Wincarnis’ offers you. But be sure you get ‘Wincarnis’—don’t trust substitutes. All Wine Merchants and Licensed Chemists and Grocers sell “Wincarnis.” Will you try just one bottle?

British Troops in France can obtain ‘Wincarnis’ from all Chemists in France.

By MRS. GOSSIP.

The matinée at the Palace Theatre for the Wails and Strays was excellent. The entertainment was so well acted by Miss Hilda Playfair, sang extremely well. Miss Irene played divinely and looked so charming in azure white, sang extremely well. Miss Irene Playfair, who was wearing a black and white taffeta costume, was among the audience. The Duchess of Marlborough herself moved in and out of the audience, looking very graceful in a white lace frock, which had a skirt composed of deep black taffeta flounces, and a large black hat with white taffeta. Lady Rhuddlan came on to tea after her appearance at the Palace matinée.

Helping the Children.

Lady Clonmell tells me that the bridge tournament that is being arranged by Mrs. F. Cecille Helmsley and herself in aid of the Day Nurseries (Holiday Creches) and the National Milk Hotels, has been postponed until Thursday, June 8. The tournament will be held in the Yandys Galleries, from 3 p.m. until midnight. There will be tea in the afternoon, and refreshments during the evening, as well as a special dinner, which will be served at the Hotel Rubens, adjoining the studio.

Lady Granadour's Wounded Brother.

The Duchess of Manchester came with Lady Newborough in petunia-coloured taffeta, and Miss Cooper's late arrival has been much commented upon. The Women's Municipal Party must have been well satisfied with its success, for a big crowd turned up, in spite of the country attraction at the Palace, and gave liberally to the funds. Miss. Baron-Forster, Miss Maria Norell, and Miss Doris Keane all gave of their best, and Mrs. Alyx Russell spoke on the need of the fund. Lady Curzon, in pink and black, and Miss Gladys Unger, in a smart blue and white taffeta costume, were among the audience. The Duchess of Marlborough herself moved in and out of the audience, looking very graceful in a white lace frock, which had a skirt composed of deep black taffeta flounces, and a large black hat with white taffeta. Miss Eleanora Asquith came on to tea after her appearance at the Palace matinée.

A Fairy Play.

I have been hearing about a new fairy play entitled "The Magic Wood," which will be produced on Saturday afternoon, May 27, at the King's Theatre, and will be performed by Miss Cora Sturt, a very charming little lady, whose pictures you see. Mrs. Roberts is often mistaken for her twin sister, the Hon. Mrs. Molton Astley, who is assisting in the arrangements matinée.

Don't Neglect your Hair.

You know how things spoil and perish through neglect. If you neglect your hair you run serious risks that it will fall or lose its beauty. Do not put off your Shampoo because you cannot be bothered or because you are too tired. Wash your hair regularly every week or so with Icima Shampoo Sachets. An Icima Wet Shampoo is very little trouble. The hair dries quickly. It is the only shampoo that helps the hair to grow.

Figaro Reverses Guineas Form In Newmarket Stakes.

TRINITY SQUARE AGAIN.

Form was quite upset in the Newmarket Stakes yesterday when a new combination put upon the Derby Outlook.

In the previous Thousand Guineas Figaro was only fourth to Clarissimus, beaten about two lengths, but yesterday he turned the tables for the trouncing of a fortnight ago by half a length after a fair and square fight.

How can we account for the upheaval of form? The only answer is that Figaro must be a better stayer than the Kingston colt, for there was a quarter of a mile extra to travel yesterday, and at a mile I thought Clarissimus would have won.

The winner is a son of the supreme sprinter, the second's sire, Radium, was a grand starter, so that you must ask yourself to what that last found the real cure. The hind will come out at a low premium, and the days will pass they will be truly equal, I think, to the most important I have ever had, and the turning and standing that you will be able to do will be as much as any other person.

[The text continues with various horse racing details and results.]

The text also includes a section on medical treatment, with a quote about nerve treatment and the need for rest with the proper medicines.

In the last section, there is a prediction about the weather and the suitability of the ground for the upcoming races.

The overall tone of the document is informative, providing details on various horse races, their results, and the analysis of the horses' performances.
