No Stone To Show Where She Was Buried.

MISS MUNDY'S SEVEN-GUINEA FUNERAL.

In a public room the tape was heard announcing the arrival of Mr. Justice Scrutton, whereupon he sprang to his feet, hastily buttoned his coat, and hastened from the room. Mr. Le Queux, the well-known solicitor of the Treasury, who has the preparation of the evidence for the prosecution of the case, has recently arrived in London.

The Court was already well filled before the judge entered the room, and were provided with a number of tracing plans, etc., in order that they might closely follow the case for the prosecution.

SMITH'S APPEARANCE.

Mr. Bodkin and Mr. Cecil Whiteley were early in attendance before the opening of the Court, and both chanted unison with Mr. Williams, the well-known solicitor of the Treasury, who has the preparation of the evidence for the prosecution of the case, has recently arrived in London.

The price of £7 7s. was arranged. He went to the house, where he saw the body of Mrs. Mundy in the bar of a furnished upstairs room. He measured it. He supplied a coffin, and the funerary dress proper was placed on the body in the coffin.

On the 26th, the inquest prisoner took a room at his house and was provided with a number of tracing plans, etc., in order that they might closely follow the case for the prosecution.

THREE-YEAR-OLD RECRUITER.

Mr. Bodkin, the witness, said, "I believe the evidence was handed over to Mr. Marshall Hall, who had not yet arrived in Court."

HERNE BAY SOLICITOR.

The first witness called by Mr. Bodkin for the prosecution was Mr. Phillip Annis, solicitor of Herne Bay. Mr. Le Queux, the well-known solicitor of the Treasury, who has the preparation of the evidence for the prosecution of the case, has recently arrived in London.

Mr. Bodkin said that the pair thought they had brought to the court some documents which were supposed to be with others of their own. He, however, asked the witness if he was in the same handwriting as the others, and the witness said that he had been watching the handwriting and commenting rapidly.

BIRTHDAY RECRUITS FOR KITCHENER.

Daily Sketch White Armlets The Fashion Yesterday.

Many "PASSES FOR BERLIN.

Patriots Flock In To Honour War Minister.

The correct fashion for the man of military age yesterday was a white armband, bearing the words "Kitchener Birthday Recruit." The War Minister was born 69 years ago yesterday.

Over 1,000 troops, drawn from the H.A.C. and from the various branches of the H.M. service, as well as from the Volunteer Reserve, under the command of the 2nd Battalion, made the annual parade in various parts of the country, to obtain Kitchener Birthday Recruit armlets, with striking results.

The companies were formed in various parts of the country, and the recruit armlets were distributed to the recruits and the young men who were not yet in the army.

There were numerous speakers at a recruiting meeting in the town of Bath, and the recruits were received with enthusiasm by the crowd.

On the whole thing a civilian of military age, not engaged on war service, can wear with pride the white armband, bearing the words "Kitchener Birthday Recruit."

THE GERMAN'S HAVE NEVER CEASED TO RETREAT.

Stirring French Reply To Enemy's Official Lies.

VICTORIES MADE IN BERLIN.

French Official News.

In contradistinction to the allegations of the German reports, it is on our initiative that nearly all the actions on their western frontiers have been determined.

Their reports do not mention any actions in the region around Arras, although the battle where the Germans have made a series of frontal advances there. The attack is being pursued with the grenade, and in the course of which the Germans have not been able to reinforce their retreat, and are suffering considerable losses, known to us on our own escorted prisoners.

The recent advance by some attacked one single counterattack during the night of the 21st and 22nd which failed. The Germans have had to retreat also in the Vouges, notably at Mezières, and they have lost Soissons, from which there are in Artois (Arras) by the London Bureau.

Nothing shows more clearly the extent of our superiority than the editing of their reports, which are as follows:

1. French attacks, at Mezières, where there were German encampments.
2. Progress at points where the front has not moved an inch, and where as in Champagne, there was no infantry action at all.
3. The two attacks in Serres against our small advance which failed, as at Marchandville, and which were then entirely arrested by our superior fire.

NUNS AND NURSES KILLED BY BULBS.

Bombardment Of Hospital Managed By Sisters Of Mercy.

French Official News.

Paris, Thursday Afternoon.

In the region near Soissons, the enemy, after relatively small attacks, carried out a heavy bombardment of our positions, which suffered especially, on Sunday, the nurses and wounded were evacuated. In Front of Domperier, west of Peronne (near Beaumont), the enemy carried out a heavy bombardment of our positions, which suffered especially, on Sunday, the nurses and wounded were evacuated. In Front of Domperier, west of Peronne (near Beaumont), the enemy carried out a heavy bombardment of our positions, which suffered especially, on Sunday, the nurses and wounded were evacuated.

This bombardment of the Hospital of the Sisters of Mercy (Eastern Front), in the region of the Meuse, the situation remains unchanged.

We maintain ourselves in a section of the second order.

In Lorris, near Nevers, the enemy counterattacked, and after a somewhat sharp struggle was repulsed.

On the remainder of the front the night passed off calmly.

The number of prisoners taken by the Germans during the night of the Foch (Armistice) amounts to 22 officers, 82 non-commissioned officers, and 450 men. Rest.

DAY OF ARTILLERY ACTIONS.

Paris, Thursday, 11 a.m.

In the region of the Loire, the enemy's action shows no change. The whole of the German army has been engaged in this sector all night long and to-day very violently.

The German artillery was engaged on the Heights of the Meuse, on the heights of Pasching, and a German attack was repulsed. The German advance was repulsed. The German advance was repulsed.

HEAVY OFFICER LOSSES.

Evidence of Last Week's Stern Fighting Between Lubeck and Ypres.

It is evident from last week's list of casualties amongst our batteries that the fighting reported between the Lubeck and Ypres last week proved a costly business.

The names of no fewer than 92 officers are given, the great majority of them under date June 28. The latter are reported killed, two died of wounds, 77 wounded, 25 wounded and missing, and 25 missing, believed dead.

Some of the corps that have been reported killed are four battalions of Laval Territorials. The First Burma Rifles have 22 killed and 190 wounded.

ALL DUE TO SHELLS.

German Officer's View Of The French Success North Of Arras.

A German major who has been taken prisoner escape for some time to keep up the appearance of a French attack.

He stated frankly that the triangle of strong defences which forms the only point now remaining in German hands was regarded as a strong point, and that its loss has made the retention of a hold upon this region—although even upon Belgium—very difficult for the enemy.

The German officer attributed the French successes to increased supplies of high explosive shells, which could be delivered upon the enemy's positions and which have been largely contributed to this respect.

French-Canadian's GLORIOUS DEED.

In the horas Arm's hold together victory for the third time in his soil and in his name. The German army is now in retreat.

Now the splendid work of the Russian rear- guards is making impossible any movement by the Austrian-Czechs that could be described as a pursuit.

Lemberg's condition will make a new appeal upon us to support him, because the Russian part of the town was destroyed as a result of the firing of the batteries and petrol bombs used by the Russians, who very wisely determined to deprive the enemy of these aids to election.

Echoes of the Town and Round About

Fair Play for Brains.

Condensed to a single moral, Mr. Lloyd George's great speech on munitions means that business methods are needed during the war. An atmosphere of peace we got on somehow without them. In the first ten months of war we managed to be unprofitable; but now, formally, we are to become profit-making. The企业家 that every man of sense that we should work still with the old system, and that we are using the nation's brains to forestall the next German surprise, and are boldly moving away from old and start invention of our own.

To end this war we must beat the Germans. We cannot beat our brains as well as by our courage and physical superiority. We must beat our brains, engineers and inventors than the Germans if a fair chance were given them. We must beat our brains, and we must invent new and startling inventions of our own.

Mr. Rowlands, M.P.

Among those on the list is Mr. James Rowlands, M.P. It is held at very serious—"a protection of attack of rhombination— but it has been enough to have our lists of lists of lists, for instance, whereas the married man was called upon to pay all £4 for the luxury, the less and less dependent cost the bachelor £4.8. And so with married men. Where the family man paid half the tax in the earlier war, and the bachelor has paid all the tax to the site of his head, the single man paid half the tax.

In Black And White.

There is something almost miraculous about the continued success of black and white. It was never more popular yet it still remains smart. It is the most obvious, yet it is always interesting.

Last year, when the inevitability of a great drought of morining was realised, many drew one peremptory conclusion that black and black and black would fall out of favour for general wear, and be left to those who had a reliable red and blue fabric and should always be browned, and that black and white schemes are unhesitatingly adopted on their own merits for everyday wear.

Maggie Schemes For Evening Wear.

Smart coats for eveningings are of white taffeta, some of them emblazoned with black. Mother Hubbard's fashion, others with ties and trimming of black velvet ribbon. A gathered pocket is a feature of some of these newest evening wraps, and is practical as well as fancy.

Black evening gowns may have milles of white tulle instead of sleeves while the "black" striped black and white chiffon is also in favour for evening gowns. One pretty sheerless model had a full short skirt of this material and a straight bodice of black taffeta with a large red rose at the waist. The touch of red on black and white gives a Spanish effect which is especially appropriate to the prevailing line. A revival of black Chantilly lace accentuates this Spanish note.

It is not with evening gear, however, that women are now more concerned. The chief necessity of the moment is the "any-time-of-day" frock, and this is most successful in black, white and black striped chiffon, with plain sleeves.

A starch of white gabardine, the pockets braided with black, and a blouse of black and white striped chiffon, with plain sleeves, with shoulder-straps, which may be more or less elaborate, over a black chiffon blouse. This is a cool and practical scheme, and a very becoming one.

While corduroy is a good material for summer coats, and may qualify for entrance to the black-and-white scheme if it is fitted with black patent-leather belt, wide and box, and black handkerchief at the shoulder. For details of course, retatable for corduroy, an arrangement may be made. This material is the long-waisted frock, which does not at first glance reveal whether it is a coat or a dress.

The "middy blouse," beloved of the schoolgirl in holiday, lent a suggestion for a recently shown black-and-white gown. The skirt was of white gabardine, very short and full, the bodice was on the plain lines of a middy blouse in black taffeta, with long sleeves of white chiffon. The "middy" part of the frock, with the sides with white ribbons.

Details In Black And White.

The black-and-white note is supreme in the summer's millinery. From the chic little shape of the red-and-white-squared silk to the spreading garden party hat with its black velvet crown and white chiffon bow to the sacking cap. White felt hats are offered for country wear with fine frocks, for furs with flimsy black frocks. Stockings are "safest" either in black or all white, but the simplest shoes are black or white, and the simplest shoes are black or white.

Are You a Sufferer from OBESITY?

CLYNOL BERRIES Will Restore Your Figure To Its Original Grace and Beauty

Many so-called cures for Obesity have been brought to the notice of the public from time to time, but all of these have lacked the great essential of a cure—permanence. While the drug being taken the weight was reduced, but once left off the fat increased in a greater proportion than that lost during the taking of the cure, and it was not until the discovery of Clyno1 Berries that a safe, sure and PERMANENT cure for obesity was available to the many sufferers from this trying complaint.

THE NATIONAL REGISTER AT LAST.

Mr. Walter Long To Introduce A Bill Next Week.

"STERE NEED FOR ECONOMY." Mr. Hayes Fisher announced in the House of Commons last night that Mr. Walter Long (President of the Local Government Board) would next week introduce a Bill to deal with the registration of national resources.

Mr. Long informed the House that the general condition of the country in regard to unemployment and poverty was better than it had been for 40 years. The record of the past 12 months was wonderful. There had been no increase of disease, and there was no foundation for the suggestion that there had been more illness of any kind.

Probably he would have to appeal for further sacrifices and help from the voluntary authorities in connection with the war. There was nothing need for public economy. The necessary resources could not be found unless the most rigid economy was practised in every department of government.

6d. STAMPS FOR WAR LOAN.

Mr. McKena On How Poor May Invest And Get Their Money Back.

Stamps are being taken by the Government to assist the popularity of the war loan, and at conferences yesterday afternoon with employers and representatives of friendly societies and labour organisations, Mr. McKena explained how the stamps could be used.

To facilitate weekly payments by the working-classes money stamps of a five with a shilling total are to be issued. It was intended that the scheme should continue on a more extended plan until the beginning of December. Up to that time they were always wise to take and exchange at the Post Office as the equivalent of cash. In the case of a working-class wishing to have his money back, he could immediately exchange it at the Post Office.

A FAMOUS RACING JOURNALIST.

Mr. John Cush, the founder of the Sporting Times, died yesterday. He was 33 years of age. Mr. Cush had been in harness for 34 years and had covered the years of his life with unceasing energy. He was a man of simplicity and truth, and his death has taken place at the age of 74 years.

ONE DEAD AND FOUR INJURED.

Shell Came To Woolwich Fast-Office, And Afterwards Exploded.

At Woolwich Post Office yesterday a parcel which had been handled in the sorting office suddenly exploded with great violence. One postman was killed and four others injured. The dead man was Mrs. Roberts, aged 32, and he died after being taken to the hospital. Among the parcel was a heavy one, which was thought to be a shell that had been sent home from the front. It had been placed in one of the pigeonholes of the owner's desk, and the man had been told about it until a terrific explosion occurred. The shell had got to Woolwich by mistake, and was waiting to be sent to headquarters.

MUNITION WORKERS SIGN ON IN VESTRY.

Mr. Bonar Law and the Firm of Jacks & Co.

"No Share In The Profits And Losses Of The Company." Mr. Ginnell asked the Prime Minister yesterday in the House of Commons, whether any member of the Government held any financial interest in the firm of Jacks and Co., which had been convicted of trading with the enemy.

Mr. Bonar Law said as this question referred to him perhaps he had better answer it. (Hear, hear.) He was for many years a member of the firm, but when he entered the House of Commons in 1900 he had to choose between business and politics, and he gave up his business absolutely. Since then for more than 15 years he had not ceased over the business or knowledge of the way it was conducted, and although he had put money on deposit with them at a fixed rate of interest, he had no share, direct or indirect, in the profits or losses of the company. Hear, hear.

Sir A. Macmahon: Will an inquiry be made into the place of mind of the hon. Member who asks such questions?

MORE RACING POSSIBLE.

Hope That The Government May Relax Restrictions.

A meeting of the Racehorse Owners', Breeding's and Trainers' Association was held at the Hotel Cecil, London, yesterday, to receive a report from the deputation who waited upon the Government a few days ago in regard to racing.

According to an official statement issued at the close of the meeting the deputation expressed unanimously with satisfaction the opinion of the General Manager that the restrictions they had been in place before Mr. Ruttiman had had a considerable effect.

It was anticipated that the demand made upon the railways in the coming season would be far greater than the material, but Mr. Ruttiman was assured that refreshments would be held without any railway facilities for the carriage of passengers.

One member of the deputation appeared very hopeful that the present restrictions on racing would be modified at an early date.

Sleeplessness & Indigestion

Quite Cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Mr. Grant Taylor, an old gentleman residing at 38, Emberton Street, Dawson Colley, Shoeburyness, Durharn, had suffered for years with sleeplessness and indigestion, and was bothered, too, with wind and flatulence, but the sleeplessness was that sort of trouble, which is hardly sleep at all, and for months at a stretch I had had one proper night's rest, and of course I felt weak and nervous, for I am well up in life. However, in the end I go to Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I can truly say I have renewed worth in gold to me. Almost from the first I felt better and stronger; and not of all they enabled me to sleep soundly and wake refreshed. Now I am in first-class health.

POSTCARD LIBEL SUIT.

Mr. R. S. Sievier And A Debt, "Existing By Bankruptcy."

Mr. R. S. Sievier yesterday failed in an action for Libel, which he brought in the King's Bench Division against Mr. Henry Nunn, of Grove-lane, Cambridge.

He complained that defendant had sent 40 or 60 postcards to his private address and club addresses admitting that he owed him £203.

Mr. Justice Low, who tried the case, asked if the money was due.

Plaintiff's Counsel: I say it was not. In 1913, Mr. Nunn sued Mr. Sievier and his wife, Lady Sievier, for a promissory note and obtained judgment for £203 and costs. Subsequently in that year a receiver's order was made against Mr. Sievier, and later Mr. Sievier received his discharge in bankruptcy. The debt was a disputed debt, and it was absolutely untrue in 1913 to say any part of the money was due.

Original copy of some of the postcards. They contained the following:

When do you think you will pay me the £203 you owe me? Do you think you have any chance of getting what you want? You know you owe me £203. I call you a blackmailer for telling the truth. Defendant said he sued Mr. Sievier about six years ago at a public-house. He asked Mr. Sievier to let him have some money, and the plaintiff replied: "Have a drink." (Laughter.)

Asked about an incident when plaintiff called him a blackmailer. Mr. Nunn said he did try to hit Mr. Sievier with his stick. Somehow or other he didn't; but a ring on his little finger made Mr. Sievier moreSober.

Eventually the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, and judgment was entered accordingly with costs.

Tinkley and Ellis, and against Mr. Hutchinson, the fireman of the slow train. In the case of Hutchinson it was stated that the verdict had been agreed upon by 12 out of 15 jury men.

The coroner committed the accused for trial at the Cirencester Assizes. Bail was granted.

LIPTON, LTD.
Sergeant O'Leary recognised a friend as they drove him in state through the densely packed streets.

Mike's luggage was in a paper parcel.

He didn't want a fuss, but they gave him a national reception.

Wearing the V.C. he so bravely won.

Sergeant O'Leary, V.C., wanted to slip home quietly and see his old father and mother in the quaint village of Macroom, Co. Cork, but hoots of Germans could not face a public reception. But Ireland wanted to show how proud she was of a true Irish soldier, and when he arrived at Cork on his way home the whole town, from the Lord Mayor downwards, turned out to cheer him.
