RECRUITING SYSTEM UNDER REVIEW
Cabinet Discusses Our Reserve Of Fighting Men.

GOVERNMENT DECISION
To Be Announced Before The Easter Holiday.

Weighing up the situation carefully, Mr. Asquith made an important statement on recruiting in the House of Commons yesterday.

He had arrived in London from Rome at 4 a.m. and after a brief rest was sufficiently recovered from the effects of the tiring journey to preside at a meeting of the Cabinet.

It was known that Ministers were discussing the matter carefully, and during the afternoon the Prime Minister made this statement in the House:

The Government is at present engaged in an extensive review of the actual figures of the recruitments obtained and obtainable under the present system, and is examining what further recruits are necessary.

The Government is paying full regard to military considerations; but it will be necessary to await the full report of the Recruiting Committee before anything definite is announced.

It will not be possible to bring forward anything definite in the House of Commons before the House recess begins.

It will then be ready to give a day for the discussion of the matter before the House recess for the Easter recess.

Sir Edward Carson: In the event of such a discussion taking place, I should put down a definite question in relation to it.

Mr. Asquith: Yes, I should think so.

YOUNG MARRIED MEN TO-DAY.

The marriage of single men reported them for service yesterday.

Among the regulars who have put in their appearance with the early groups of married men, who constituted a large number of the force, were Groups 25 to 28, aged from 19 to 21. They will also go to France immediately.

Those single men affected by the revision of the army list on which pensions are payable will be called by individual notice in due course.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Famous Women Writers Answer A Question Of The Hour.

How would you treat the prisoners captured from the Zeppelin Z.135?

This is a question on which women are entitled to have a voice. Two well-known women­writers, Mrs. P. E. Hill and Miss Bertha Rusk—will answer it in articles specially written for the Illustrated London News for Sunday.

They will make a point of bringing to notice the steps that authorities should take in dealing with the crew of the airship.

Sir Frederick Banbury's amendment proposed the making it plain that no engines could be used.

Mr. Boleslaw said if the Unionists members of the Government did not act they would merely be accepting the payment of members—which was the same as admitting the guileless.

We believe that they would not abandon not the continuation of the Government, but the hope of obtaining the necessary柳州.

Sir Edward Carson opposed Sir Frederick Banbury's amendment on the same grounds as Mr. Boleslaw. If the Government motion was defeated, the House would be called by individual notice for such a discussion that would be impossible.

The amendment was defeated by 367 to 23, and the Government motion was withdrawn. The position, therefore, remained the same before.

UNARMED SHIP TORPEDOED

49 British Seamen Victims On An Unwarved Vessel.

Captain Martin and ten men forming part of the crew of the British steamer Zendo were landed yesterday, their vessel having been torpedoed. Two bodies were also landed.

In addition to these two, who died of injuries as the result of the explosion caused by the torpedo, 46 men were drowned.

The Zendo was torpedoed without warning, and was in the midst of a heavy gale when the torpedo struck her. After the explosion, and while there was much heat and smoke, the men got out the boats, but they capsized, with the result that five bodies were thrown into the sea.

Captain Martin and eleven men, four of them dead, were landed, the rest being taken back before being picked up.

After the explosion, the crew was lowered by the submarine crew to rescue any of the drowning men.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR THE WOUNDED

The heroism of our seamen was graphically illustrated by the case of Mr. Robert Walker, chief woman inspector for the London river police, who was drowned in a Dublin hospital, following an operation, Mrs. Walker, who was 38, and a native of Derry, was an able and versatile writer. Her husband, who gave up his position to become the police secretary to Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P.

DON'T EAT THAT EASTER EGG

"Don't eat any eggs in Easter week, but give them to the horses," said the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith.

"This is the appeal of the National Egg Co-operative Union. They will arrange for the collection of any eggs now not wanted and then sell them at a reduced price."

BETTER NEWS FOR THIRSTY SOULS

It is reported that coal has been discovered at Hafny, in Upper Egypt.

MATCH TAX NOW IN FORCE.

It is now possible to purchase a ticket for a match, or a wager, at the station, and to pay for it in cash.

The regulations regarding the duty on railway tickets contain two important provisions which have been placed under the Public Service Commission.

No duty will be charged on a return fare which is made in the same journey.

The expression "railway passenger" is actually in two different forms, and apart from the fact that the match duty is now being levied, the expression is actually used in a different form.

For the purpose of the tax, it is due to the nature of the journey, the duty is payable on the fare, not hitherto made clear:

GENERAL GORRINDE'S VICTORIOUS ADVANCE.

Turkish Positions Stormed On The Road To Kut.

121st DAY OF SIEGE.

Advance Of Five Miles Towards Belegaered Garrison.

The British relief force on the Tigris has successfully carried two of the chief Turkish positions lying between them and Kut-el-Amara, where General Townsend's force has been besieged for 121 days.

The advance began with the successful assault of the position at Umm-al-Hannah, 30 miles above Kut, as described in the brief message issued by the War Office yesterday morning.

This success was followed up by a rapid pursuit on both banks of the river.

General Gorringe attacked at Umm-al-Hannah at 5 a.m. on Wednesday, capturing the enemy's lines by 6 o'clock.

The fourth and fifth lines were carried by 7 o'clock, when the column on the north bank halted till evening.

On the south bank General Kearny pushed forward with another column, capturing the positions opposite to him (below the word "Umm" on the large map) and repelled a counter-attack.

Then General Gorringe retracted his advance on the north bank, carried the next enemy's position at Falahiyah (about the centre of the Wadi Marsh).

This advance, as far as it has gone, represents about five miles of progress, and roughly half the distance between Umm-al-Hannah and the strong Turkish position at Es Sinu, seven miles from Kut.

General Aylmer, who was until recently in charge of the relief force on the north bank, has been superseded by General Gorringe, one of the youngest Generals in the Army.

"No change on the Iraik (Tigris) front" is all the amusing Turkish official news had to say last night of the double defeat.

OFFICIAL DISPATCH.

Storming Of Turkish Trenches Nine Feet Deep.

From the War Office.

Thursday Evening.

Sir Percy Lake reports that the Tigris Corps, under the command of Lieut.-General Sir O. J. Goring, has successfully captured the enemy's entrenched positions at Umm-al-Hannah at 5 a.m. on the 5th (Wednesday).

These trenches had been pushed forward by means of maps to within 100 yards of the enemy's position, and the leading battalions of the 12th Division then raced the enemy's first and second lines in quick succession.

The first line was captured at 6 a.m., under

TIZ makes sore, burning, tired, "chilblainy" feet feel just fine and cozy. Away go the aches and pains of the corn, hard skin, warts, bursitis, and chilblains. TIZ draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet. No matter how hard you work, kiss long your trial, how fat your growth, or how long you stand on your feet. TIZ is the miracle, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, corny toes. Ask the company, how lovely you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; loops never hurt, or seem tight. Get a 1/2 box of TIZ now from any chemist's or drug store. Ten doses. 1/6 post free. Ask and you will think a whole year's foot comfort for only 1/6.

INDIGESTION MEANS LOSS.

Indigestion means loss as well as suffering to many business people. Loss of strength, loss of time, loss of money follow indigestion; and debility continues as long as the indigestion remains. Workers suffer from indigestion because their hours are long, and they cannot give proper time to meals. Then the appetite wanes, digestion grows feeble, and the blood becomes impoverished. So the general health suffers; languor, nervous troubles and sleeplessness follow. Remember, the whole system relies upon good blood, and good blood depends upon a good digestion. The stomach cannot do its work unless the blood is made rich and red and so new blood alone can cure indigestion. For this reason a remedy that makes new blood, like Dr. Williams' pink pills, provides the method of curing indigestion. To overcome indigestion, palpitations, heartburn and flatulence, make your blood rich, red and abundant with Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people. You need never suffer in health or pocket through indigestion. Any dealer can supply you.

THE ADVANCE ON KUT.

Nothing has made me realise how stupendous this war is more than the account of the retreat from Mesopotamia, where our thoughts were centred on the operations in Europe, out there in Asia a British army was engaged in a great war; was executing operations of the first magnitude. In a troop heat, through flooded country, over a long distance, and in opposition to a foe whose morale was described as "amphibious," the English and Egyptian troops made their way. Gorrin drives back the tribesmen from Alawz, chases them to the Karun, and captures the fortified posts. Further south the British advance from the driven from the neighbourhood of Baxa and flies to the Eschatopites to strongly fortified positions. From the information received from a few captured tribesmen, Gorrin, advancing from the Karun, engages the enemy and the main advance of the advance. He understands the splendid of that great advance you must read the dispatches.

A Mah taken, British troops, naval and under General Gorrie, make their way in the shape of swarms through Nasiriya—often over country too flooded for marching, over water too shallow for boats. Many of the boats, once launched and hugged over ground, often they must be carried and the men are terrible. Up the main stream the river, making a slow approach, reaches the British troops. The breaking of the embankment which blocked the Hugich Canal, the hauling of boats up the river which resisted them, the break, the assault and carrying of impregnable entrenchments, in the course of which "Captain Nunz, in a small stern-wheeler, Janes, his ship alongside breastworks, engaged them at short range." Nasiriya is occupied, and Gorrin shifts his men across the river to make an attack on Kut. That attack, and the defeat of Nur-ed-Din Bey's army by Townshend, is perhaps the most brilliant piece of strategy in the whole series of operations. And it reads so simply:

"His plan was to make a decisive attack on the left bank by enveloping the Turkish left with his main force, in order to destroy the enemy, seize the real attack, preliminary dispositions, and preparatory attacks were made with the object of inducing the Turks to expect the principal attack on the right bank.

This plan succeeded, and Townshend reached Kut. He was there to be the beaten enemy came on again with reinforcements, and surged round the tiny encampment. For many months he has been besieged, a saviour of a great army. British Generals have waited! for the relieving force. That force has been creeping nearer and nearer the fort, already a day's march, mile, until just lately one detachment come within twenty miles of Kut, and felt the strength of the enemy a first line of entrenchments. A third division of the Tigris, while on the other bank another detachment was even farther in advance, thus making the British position more secure than before it. Well, those fine lines entrenchments have been taken. We hardly dared to hope it would be done, for it was a position that could not have been taken by gun batteries, and the British relief is creeping further to the beleaguered fort."

Lloyd George Portrait Controversy.
A pretty little controversy concerning the much-discussed portrait of Lloyd George by another Welshman, Augustus John, has been started. Mr. Lloyd George is, it seems, of the opinion that his portrait is "a droll black-and-white caricature." Mr. Augustus John, his biographer, of course, is of the opinion that it is "in protest against the restrictions of popular liberty." Sylvia Pankhurst seems to be the one who has taken Mr. Lloyd George's side and has published a note about the Clydeside strike. I hope this won't lead to any trouble, but I have heard of several instances of Mr. Pankhurst's utterances that require no unprofitable statements should be expressed.

To the Women of Great Britain and Ireland

The Women of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales have nobly helped the War in a thousand ways. They have given their husbands and their sons to fight for their country; they have nursed the wounded; organised relief; helped recruiting; manufactured munitions of war; and taken men's places in business offices, on farms, and in trades innumerable.

They are now asked to help by lending their money to the Nation. A long purse means a shorter War. Money is the mainspring of all our warlike energies and enterprises. It buys ships, shells and aeroplanes; and clothes, fees, and pays our soldiers and sailors.

The simplest and safest investment in the world is the 5 per cent Exchequer Bond of the British Government. No higher interest on money can be obtained with the same security in any other way.

Bankers will advance money on the security of Exchequer Bonds.

They can be sold on the Stock Exchange.

The Bonds will be issued in multiples of £100. There are also £5, £20, and £50 Bonds, full particulars of which can be obtained at any Post Office.

Every pound lent helps to win the War. The investment will not lose in value, because of the Government's promise to pay back on 1st December, 1920, one pound for every pound lent. The investor runs no risk whatever. An Exchequer Bond is the simplest and safest investment in the world.

Coming Fashions In Tabloid Form.

"What is the 1916 style?" asks the woman who can't afford to make mistakes in choosing her spring clothes. "There is lots of talk about Spanish influences, Breton effects, and Watteau silhouettes, but what is the average well-dressed Englishwoman going to wear?" Below are the main dress rules for the coming season, sifted from a mass of opinion gathered from leading dress experts.

The Outline.
The 1916 outline is just that of last year with its main points a little exaggerated. Skirts and blouses are no longer, but each has an extra little more, and a little sooner, and stiffening materials such as boxcloth are used to get this effect. There is also a "bared" outline which is not perfectly flat at back and front and curvy in a little at the hem, but this is only seen on evening and elaborate afternoon frocks. For street wear the rule is ease and simplicity, almost a semi-sporting effect, which is heightened by the frequency of pockets. Coats are belted and buttoned but are often the only trimming.

Colours.
In navy, blue, beige, and wine-red are to be found the widest choice of material and accessories, and also of ready-made garments. A good deal of black and white will be worn, and the annual spring tide of shepherd's plaid has risen to an unusual height and will remain at full for a long period.

Materials.
Serge holds first place for tailor-mades, but is closely followed by gabardines and various twills. For afternoon frocks taffeta still reigns, but has rivals in alpaca and patterned failarks. Vests and muslins will be more in favour for washing frocks than linen and the heavier materials.

Blouses.
Work-day washing shirts will often employ these materials. White material is edged with a colour and vice versa. Sleeves are wide-length and practical, shoulders are slightly sloping, and collars fit easily and turn down at the front.

A braided blue taffeta frock showing the afternoon outline, a favourite sleeve, and a new neck arrangement.

Because a woman has no time to scout all the shops and read all the fashion papers it does not follow that she wants to be dowdy or doesn't care whether or not she chooses just the right things to supplement her-worn out ones. Here, for her especial benefit, is a condensed guide to the decided "lines" of 1916.

Hats.
Large sailors, unobtrusively trimmed, or not trimmed at all, will be first favourites with Englishwomen, who nearly all find them most becoming. Fine, glossy straw in bright colours will be used for those, which are worn well forward, not on the back of the head. Apart from these sailors there is a wide choice, from Watteau hats to tiny helmets, for the woman who is difficult to suit, but she must remember not to mix her trimmings or her colours.

Coiffures.
There is talk of plaus and curls, but as a matter of fact the coiffure depends on the hat worn. If a sailor hat is chosen there should be ringslets at the back. The store-pipe touque demands that the hair should all be drawn smoothly to the top of the head. For a large, straight-brimmed sailor, a trim, simple style is demanded.

Stockings.
Plain colours, matching either the gown or the shoes. Transparency in no longer smart.

Footgear.
Laws fantastic than last year. Russian ballet boots and Greco-Parisian sandals are not worn by the best-dressed women. Flap shoes will be of leather and kid and more of suede, moire, and other fabrics. Shoes may match the dress or rain, but only when this is in a "shoe-colour," such as dark blue, brown or drab.

'LINCOLNSHIRE' SUBSTITUTE
Pick of The Basket In To-day's Race At Lingfield.

There will be no Lincoln meeting this year, but the big race of the meeting is to be allowed to have.

It was a happy inspiration which encouraged the Lingfield committee to put up a substitute, and it was a clever piece of semantical to call the event the 'Lincolnsheir Festival.'

The race will be run to-day, and the field will exceed a score, the followers being the probable starters and jockeys.

The interesting feature will be the contest between Anthony (6 to 1) and Tostat, which is expected to be a very close one.

In the market, Tostat is well suited by the Lingfield mile.

The latter will have stout opposition in Dan Russel (4 to 6), 1; Gay Lally (10 to 1), 2; and Suldor (9 to 2), 3.

Mr. J. W. Larnach's bl h Aureate (top) is expected to make a good showing.

Tostat is a revelation.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Laurette is staying with her employer, Mrs. Dayton, at the cottage of her aunt, Mrs. Dayton, in London. Laurette is engaged to Ronald Grant, and soon the young people are to become man and wife. One day Laurette’s sister, Betty, arrives at the cottage where Laurette lives with her aunt. She has just returned from a dip in the river Arun at the cottage of her friend, the late Lieutenant Ben gardener. She is so overcome at the news that Rear-Admiral Cotwood, because of his beard, has left her almost penniless. HOW I WOULD TREAT ZEPPELIN PRISONERS.

DAILY SKETCH.

THE HOUSEMAID'S ARMLET.

Miss Frances Leggett, an American heiress, engaged to Lieut. Henry D. Margesson, 11th Hussars, son of Mr. and Lady Isabel Margesson.—(Elliott and Fry.)

THE HON. PHYLIS LEGH, YOUNGEST DAUGHTER OF LORD NEWTON, HAS TWO BROTHERS IN THE ARMY.—(Elliott and Fry.)

The early Victorian note is strongly in evidence in many of the new fashions. It is to be seen in this summer dress of "au de nil."—(Reville and Rossiter.)

The carpenters' crew form a very important part of the personnel of a man-of-war. By their efforts many a ship has been kept afloat after a scrap. "Chips" is as useful now as in the days of the old three-deckers.

The old woman—a widow—has lived at Verdun all her life. At last she has had to leave the home of her childhood, as the Germans are doing their best to raze the town to the ground.—(Daily Sketch Exclusive Photograph.)

Every Patriotic Woman

Should ask for particulars of the gigantic Needlework Competition organised for the benefit of the Red Cross Society. Send a large stamped addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of the Daily Sketch, 46, Shoe-lane, London, E.C., for particulars of the classes. The prizes are from 2s. 6d. to £10.
