With thanks to my parents and my sister
To Rudolf for his undending wisdom and patience
Arthur for constant guidance
Kristen and Tash for your help and support
Everyone in studio
BIBLIOGRAPHY

Newspaper articles

Interviews:

LIST OF FIGURES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Number</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Figure 1.5</td>
<td>Space as a product of social relationships (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 1.6</td>
<td>The city of Tenochtitlán. (Source: commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Murales_Rivera_-_Markt_in_Tlatelolco_3.jpg)</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 1.7</td>
<td>Spanish depiction of Tenochtitlán. The city is drawn from an aerial view (Source: publications.newberry.org/aztecs/s211.html)</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 1.8</td>
<td>Aztec depiction of Tenochtitlán. The maps tell stories that are intrinsically linked to their location. (Source: http://isites.harvard.edu/fs/docs/icb.topic200562.files/xolotl_1-2.jpg)</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.1</td>
<td>Lillian Ngoyi Square (Previously Market Square) is situated 2 blocks east of Church Square. (Source: Bolsmann, 2001:32)</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.2</td>
<td>Church Square, 1880. Watercolour by Andrew A. Anderson (Source: Bolsmann, 2001:34)</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.3</td>
<td>Market Square, 1860. 33</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.4</td>
<td>New Market sheds are built on the square.</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.5</td>
<td>The National Government begins construction of the cupola.</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.6</td>
<td>The State Theatre is completed.</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.7</td>
<td>A Masterplan for the Strijdom Square precinct</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.8</td>
<td>The ABSA tower is completed and the bust and horse statue built in the square. (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.9</td>
<td>Evolution of the urban grain along Church Street (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.10</td>
<td>A Civic Space Markets, exhibitions, political gatherings and court hearings were held on the square. It was the location of Pretoria’s first museum, and it hosted many festivals, the opening of the Mozambique railway. (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.11</td>
<td>A Time of National Grandeur From the 1970’s, the square functioned as a nationalist monument to past Prime Minister, J.G. Strijdom. (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.12</td>
<td>A Forgotten Space After the fall of the cupola and the bust of J.G. Strijdom, the horse statue was moved. The square stood open, barren and awkward in the urban context. (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.13</td>
<td>Pendulum Swung A new national narrative is represented with the construction of a Women’s Museum on the square that represents the struggle of the black women during Apartheid. (Source: Author, 2015)</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.14</td>
<td>A new national narrative is represented with the Construction</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2.15</td>
<td>Intimate personal spaces are</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Figure 2.16 An expansive open space provides no human scale to relate to. People gather around accidental urban furniture such as balustrades and low walls. (Source: Author, 2015) 38

Figure 2.17 Intimate spaces of rest are appropriated: A deep window sill serves as an ideal place to wait for friends. (Source: Author, 2015) 40

Figure 2.18 The ABSA Tower was originally designed with a retail podium that related to the pedestrian realm on the ground floor. But changes over time have closed up the podium, providing little connection between the tower and its context. (Source: Author, 2015) 41

Figure 2.19 Small design considerations such as canopies bring down the scale of the buildings along Pretorius Street, creating an appropriate relationship between the human scale of the pedestrian realm and the height of its context. (Source: Author, 2015) 42

Figure 2.20 Mapping of existing conditions of the precinct. (Source: Bester et al. 2015) 43

Figure 2.21 Dominant, insular buildings of the context. (Source: Bester et al. 2015) 48

Figure 2.22 Urban Proposal: A cultural precinct in proposed. (Source: Bester et al. 2015) 50

Figure 2.23 Site allocations for group members. (Source: Bester et al. 2015) 52

Figure 2.24 Site locality NTS. (Source: Author 2015) 55

Figure 2.25 Arcade network on Pretorius Street. (Source: Author 2015) 55

Figure 2.26 The southern edge of Pretorius Street. (Source: Author, 2015) 56

Figure 2.27 The northern edge of Pretorius Street. (Source: Author, 2015) 58

Figure 2.28 The Urban Void: An ‘Other’ Space. (Source: Author, 2015) 60

Figure 2.29 Dashed line indicating the footprint of the demolished building where the site is now. It contained a pedestrian arcade that met up with the arcade in the Momentum Building. 61

Figure 2.30 The site as it exists today. A thin masonry wall separates the pedestrian arcade from the site. (Source: Author) 61

Figure 2.31 The Urban Void 62

Figure 2.32 Figure 5.4: Western edge of the site. The ‘second’ facade of the PretMed building faces into the site. 63

Figure 2.33 Southern edge of the site. The masonry wall of the Tramshed building (Source: Author, 2015) 64

Figure 2.34 Eastern edge of the site. Unfinished concrete walls behave as membranes between the interior and exterior (Source: Author, 2015) 65

Figure 3.1 Initial masterplan proposal by Mashabane Rose Architects. (Source: dbm Architects, 2015) 71

Figure 3.2 The Women's Living Memorial with public square (Source: dbm Architects, 2015) 71

Figure 3.3 The Women's Living Memorial: View of the fifth elevation (Source: dbm Architects, 2015) 71

Figure 3.4 A sketch analysis of the spatial arrangement of the memorial. (Source: Author: 2015) 72

Figure 3.5 Construction of the Women's Living Memorial, March 2015. (Source: Author, 2015) 73

Figure 3.6 Construction of the Women's Living Memorial on Lillian Ngoyi Square, March 2015. (Source: Author, 2015) 74

Figure 3.7 Uncomfortable alleyways are created between the new memorial and the State Theatre and ABSA Tower. (Source: De Veredicis, 2015) 76

Figure 5.1 Le Deuxième Sexe (The Second Sex) by Simone de Beauvoir discusses the fundamental principles of Feminism. (Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Second_Sex) 84

Figure 5.2 The first wave of Feminism in the West addressed women’s suffrage. (Source: www.borgenmagazine.com) 86

Figure 5.3 The second wave of Feminism in the West addressed societal inequalities faced by women. (Source: fightland.vice.com) 86

Figure 5.4 Contemporary African Feminism addresses the specific experiences of African women rather than adopting a global stance. Tim Okamura, “I Love your Hair”. (Source: timokamura.com/) 89

Figure 5.5 Feminist issues in Africa have had to contend with other forms of oppression than in the West. (Source: http://www.anselm.edu/academic/history/courses/Web/Hi399Web%20(Men%20and%20Women%20Colonial%20Africa) 89

Figure 5.6 Manuela Sambo, Changing to Danger. (Source: http://africanah.org/manuela-sambo-angola/) 90

Figure 5.7 Black women in their homes in Soweto, 1958. (Source: www.theguardian.com) 93

Figure 5.8 Understanding Space from a Feminine Perspective. (Source: Author) 98

Figure 5.9 Burlington Arcade, London during the late 1800’s. (Source: http://www.burlington-arcade.co.uk/media/1015/image-timeline.jpg) 101

Figure 5.10 Diagrams showing some of the possibilities of reorganising a typical suburban block through rezoning and relandscaping, (Hayden, 1981:275) 103

Figure 5.11 The Theatre Box: An Interplay between subject and object. (Source: http://www.arquine.com/de-la-escalera-abierta-al-espacio-moderno-ii-la-oblicuidad/) 105

Figure 5.12 Four pencil drawings of the Rufer House facades with dotted lines indicating interior layout. The windows have no frame and are represented and black squares. “These are drawings of neither the inside nor the outside. but the membrane between them’ (Colomina, 1992:95).

Figure 5.13 Josephine Baker in her famous banana costume from her show “Un Vent de Folie” (Source: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Josephine_Baker)

Figure 5.14 Plans of the unbuilt house for Josephine Baker. (Source: http://plansofarchitecture.tumblr.com/post/82017855049/adolf-loos-josephine-baker-house-1928-paris)

Figure 5.15 The zebra striped facade of the house for Josephine Baker. (Source: http://www.designboom.com/architecture/em2n-draws-from-adolf-loos-for-parsian-social-housing/)

Figure 5.16 Sigmund Freud’s Consultation room: Where the inner space of the mind is externalised. (Rice, 2002:45)

Figure 5.17 Sou Fujimoto’s theories of the origin of architecture. Cave spaces are (Source: http://mamavil.blogspot.co.za/2014/05/primitive-future-sou-fujimoto.html)

Figure 5.18 A naked Le Corbusier painting murals onto the walls of the E-1027 house. (Source: Quirk, 2013)

Figure 5.19 (top and above) ‘The Pleasure Garden of Utilities’ by muf Architects uses ceramic surfaces for street furniture. Source: (muf, 2015)

Figure 5.20 Sketch by Peter Rich of the Ndebele Homestead indicating diagonal layout. (Source: Rich, 2011)

Figure 5.21 (above) Daniel Libeskind’s Dresden Art Museum. (Source: http://www.dezeen.com/2011/09/29/dresden-museum-of-military-history-by-daniel-libeskind/)

Figure 5.22 (above right) Daniel Libeskind’s Royal Ontario Museum. (Source: http://libeskind.com/work/royal-ontario-museum/)

Figure 6.1 A print displaying the slogan used during the woman’s March of 1956.

Figure 6.2 The programmatic components of the building. (Source: Author, 2015)

Figure 6.3 Forums and marches addressing advocacy for women’s rights in South Africa. (Source: http://awdf.org/rural-womens-movement-rwm/)

Figure 6.4 The South African Constitution. Free booklet available from the Department of Justice and Constitutional Development. (Source: Author, 2015)

Figure 6.5 An architectural programme that addresses the everyday experiences of women. (Source: http://www.msfapropolitan.com/)

Figure 7.1 Anish Kapoor: The Origin of the World, 2004. ‘The whole exhibition space is the work, with a gigantic void in a slope that rises up from the floor. The void appears endless, broadening into its depth, and seems to encroach upon the observer, controverting conventional concepts of space.’ (Source: http://www.field.io/inspiration/kapoor-turrell/)

Figure 7.2 Saut dans le vide, (Leap into the Void), by Yves Klein. (Source: Maloney, 2013) 141

Figure 7.3 ‘Ocean Chart’ by Henry Holiday for The Hunting of the Snark’ by Lewis Carroll, 1876. (Source: Maloney, 2013) 142

Figure 7.4 A Portion of Giambattista Nolli’s map of Rome and the inverted map below. (Source: http://tsarchitect.nsflanagan.net/?p=1116) 145

Figure 8.1 Early proposals for placement of solid volumes against eastern wall of site. (Source: Author, 2015) 152

Figure 8.2 Conceptual diagrammes exploring ‘Splitting the Wall’ (Source: Author, 2015) 152

Figure 8.3 Building anchored against eastern edge with dialogue space created with Pretmed Building. (Source: Author, 2015) 154

Figure 8.4 Early proposal for sectional relationship between the Women’s Forum and the Pretmed Building. (Source: Author, 2015) 154

Figure 8.5 Early plan exploration. (Source: Author, 2015) 156

Figure 8.6 Exploration of ground floor movement paths for the arcade and placement of programmed spaces. (Source: Author, 2015) 158

Figure 8.7 Initial sketches exploring the Void (Source: Author, 2015) 160

Figure 8.8 Initial sketches for the Void as mediating space between public and private sections of the Women’s Forum. (Source: Author, 2015) 163

Figure 8.9 The Void is broken into various horizontal spaces. (Source: Author, 2015) 164

Figure 8.10 Evolution of the Void in order to create a network of connected social spaces. (Source: Author, 2015) 165

Figure 8.11 Exploration of facade materiality and form. (Source: Author, 2015) 166

Figure 8.12 Ground Floor Plan with Arcade NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 170

Figure 8.13 First Floor plan with Small Business Support Centre and Forum NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 172

Figure 8.14 Second Floor plan NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 173

Figure 8.15 Third Floor Plan. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 174

Figure 8.16 Fourth Floor plan. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 175

Figure 8.17 Fifth Floor Plan. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 176

Figure 8.18 Sixth Floor plan. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015) 177

Figure 8.19 (Previous Page) Long Section through building showing central vertical Void and smaller horizontal Voids (Source: Author, 2015) 180

Figure 8.20 Arcade with Second Facade above (Source: Author, 2015) 181

Figure 8.21 Arcade with Second Facade (Source: Author, 2015) 182

Figure 8.22 Arcade with Second Facade (Source: Author, 2015) 183

Figure 8.23 Arcade with Second Facade (Source: Author, 2015) 184

Figure 8.24 North Elevation (Source: Author, 2015) 185

Figure 8.25 Reception with Coffee Bar (Source: Author, 2015) 186

Figure 8.26 Void viewed from Forum Amphitheatre (Source: Author, 2015) 187

Figure 8.27 Iterations of unisex bathroom

220
Figure 9.1  Technical concept: A rigid grid as organising structure for solid volumes. The leftover space becomes the in-between/social space. (Source: Author)

Figure 9.2  Lightweight steel structure grounded on concrete public surface. (Source: Author)

Figure 9.3  Sun Studies indicate that the site receives very little direct sunlight.

Figure 9.4  Exploration of structural connections

Figure 9.5  Screen and Balcony Detail. NTS. (Source: Author)

Figure 9.6  Existing Materiality. (Source: Author)

Figure 9.7  New Materiality. (Source: Author)

Figure 9.8  Detail of Lowered Library Seating. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015)

Figure 9.9  Detail of Column to Beam Connection and Ceiling Void. NTS. (Source: Author, 2015)

Figure 9.10  Rock Storage Principles (Source: Dieter Claassen, 2015)

Figure 9.11  Hybrid Ventilation system using rock storage. (Source: Dieter Claassen, 2015)

Figure 9.12  Short Section Indicating Fresh Air distribution (Source: Author, 2015)

Figure 9.13  Long Section Indicating Fresh Air distribution (Source: Author, 2015)