

information behaviour (in particular health information behaviour) and bridging the grey digital divide. She holds a B-rating from the National Research Foundation of South Africa, according to which she is recognised as an internationally acclaimed researcher.