

VOORTREKKER CENTENARY MUG

Daily Express 11-6-38

A reproduction of the official Voortrekker Centenary souvenir mug recommended by the Central National Monuments Commission for distribution among school children throughout the country.

On the mug is a drawing of the monument now in construction, and on the reverse side a scene from the Great Trek reproduced from the original oil painting by W. H. Coetzee. At the sides are bearing inscriptions with the dates 1838-1938.

The model is taken from a mug actually manufactured 100 years ago and for many years in the daily use of a Voortrekker General. At present the original is in possession of a Pretoria family.
